PREFACE.

In presenting this work to the public, the translator would merely remark, that it is not a new notion by which he was seized of late years which impelled him to the task, but a desire entertained for more than a quarter of a century, since the day he quitted school in his native land to come to this country, to present to his fellow-Israelites an English version, made by one of themselves, of the Holy Word of God. From early infancy he was made conscious how much persons differing from us in religious ideas make use of Scripture to assail Israel's hope and faith, by what he deems, in accordance with the well-settled opinions of sound critics, both Israelites and others, a perverted and hence erroneous rendering of the words of the original Bible. Therefore he always entertained the hope to be one day permitted to do for his fellow Hebrews who use the English as their vernacular, what had been done for the Germans by some of the most eminent minds whom the Almighty has endowed with the power of reanimating in us the almost expiring desire for critical inquiry into the sacred text. So much had been done by these, that the translator's labours were rendered comparatively easy; since he had before him the best results of the studies of modern German Israelites, carried on for the space of eighty years, commencing with Moses Mendelssohn, Herz Wesel, or, as he was called, Hartog Wessely, and Solomon of Dubno, down to Dr. L. Zunz,* of Berlin, whose work appeared in 1839, Dr. Solomon Herxheimer, Rabbi of Anhalt-Bernburg, whose work was completed five years ago, and of Dr. Lewis Philippson,† Rabbi of Magdeburg in Prussian Saxony, whose work is not yet quite completed‡ while writing this. In addition to these entire Bible translations, the translator has had access to partial versions of separate books, by Ottensosser, Heinemann, Obernik, Hochstätter, Wolfson, Löwenthal, and some anonymous writers, referred to occasionally in the notes appended to this work; besides which he has had the advantage of the copious notes of Dr. Philippson's and Dr. Herxheimer's Bibles, in which these learned men have collected the views of the investigators, both Israelites and others, in the path of biblical criticism. The ancient versions, also, of Onkelos, Jonathan, and the Jerusalem Targumist have been carefully consulted; and, wherever accessible, the comments of the great expounders Rashi, (Rabbi Shelemoh Yizchaki,) Redak, (Rabbi David Kimchi,) Aben Ezra, (Rabbi Abraham ben Meïr ben Ezra,) Rashbam, (Rabbi Shelemoh ben Meïr, the grandson of Rashi,) Ralbag, (Rabbi Levi ben Gershom,) and Rabbenu Sa'adyah (Saadias) Gaon, as also the Michlol Yophi, and the modern Biurim, have been sedulously compared, so as to insure the utmost accuracy of which the translator is capable. His library is not very extensive; but he trusts that the foregoing catalogue of auxiliary works will prove that he has had at hand as good materials as can be obtained anywhere to do justice to his undertaking. It must be left to those acquainted with the subject, to decide whether he has taken due advantage of the materials in his hand; but he trusts that the judgment will be in his favour, at least so far, that he has been honest and faithful.

The translator is an Israelite in faith, in the full sense of the word: he believes in the Scriptures as they have been handed down to us; in the truth and authenticity of prophecies and their ultimate literal fulfilment. He has always studied the Scriptures to find a confirmation for his faith and hope; nevertheless, he asserts fearlessly, that in his going through this work, he has thrown aside all bias, discarded every preconceived opinion, and translated the text before him without regard to the result thence arising for his creed. But no perversion or forced rendering of any text was needed to bear out his opinions or those of Israelites in general; and he for one would place but little confidence in them, if he were compelled to change the evident meaning of the Bible to find a support for them. He trusts, therefore, that to those who agree with him in their religious persuasion, he has rendered an acceptable service; as they will now have an opportunity to study a version of the Bible which has not been made by the authority of churches in which they can have no confidence; and that to those also who are of a different persuasion, his labours will not be unacceptable, as exhibiting, so far as he could do it, the progress of biblical criticism among ancient and modern Israelites—a task utterly beyond the power of any but a Jew by birth and conviction.

* Dr. Zunz, whose work is often quoted in the notes, only translated the two books of Chronicles; but he was aided by Rabbi Chayim Arnheim, of Glogau, with Genesis, Exodus, Leviticus, Numbers, the Books of Kings, Ezekiel, Hosea, Obadiah, Jonah, Micha, Nahum, Zechariah, Proverbs, Job, Ruth, Ecclesiastes, Esther, and Nehemiah; by Dr. Michael Sachs, then of Prague, but now of Berlin, with Deuteronomy, Joshua, Judges, the Books of Samuel, Isaiah, Joel, Amos, Habakkuk, Zephaniah, Haggai, Malachi, Psalms, the Song of Solomon, and Lamentations, (Jeremiah was translated by both conjointly;) and by Dr. Julius Fürst, of Leipzig, with Daniel and Ezra. Occasionally in the notes, "Zunz" is named; at other times, the special translators.

† The merit of the later translators consists therein that they have adhered to the letter of the text, and not rendered it freely, to avoid difficulties and to improve the style, as was done by Mendelssohn and his immediate followers. A close, literal rendering will be found to characterize this version also.

As regards the style, it has been endeavoured to adhere closely to that of the ordinary English version, which for simplicity cannot be surpassed; though, upon a critical examination, it will readily be perceived that the various translators differed materially in their method, and frequently rendered the same word in different ways. In the present version, great care has been taken to avoid this fault; but the translator does not mean to assert that he has succeeded to as great an extent as he could have desired. He will not enumerate what he has done; but let any one who is desirous to investigate this point compare the two translations, and he will readily convince himself that this may be called a new version, especially of the Prophets, Psalms, and Job; and he confidently hopes that the meaning has been rendered more clear by the version itself, and, where this was not altogether practicable, by the notes appended at the foot of the page.

He found great difficulty about coming to a satisfactory resolution with regard to the spelling of the proper nouns. Any one the least acquainted with the manner they are presented in the common versions and the languages of Western Europe, must know that they are very much corrupted; but they have in this shape become so much interwoven with the language of history and of daily conversation, that it would have produced endless confusion to spell them after the original manner. Hence the ordinary method had to be retained for words in constant use; but where this was not the case, a spelling more in accordance with the original has been resorted to. The j should always be pronounced as y, to accord with the Hebrew; and ia as ya. A should be sounded as long ah; e as long a; i as long ee; and u as oo. Ch stands for the Hebrew ח; where ע occurs in the Hebrew, an apostrophe ' has been used for the most part; but there are no English letters to represent these sounds exactly. For instance, "Zechariah," pronounce Zecharyah; "Jehu," as Yay-hoo, &c.

The translator will not ask that his errors and misconceptions shall be excused; but he trusts that any fault which may be discovered will be kindly pointed out to him, so that he may be able to make use of all such remarks to correct his work in a future edition; and he for his own part will not be satisfied with what he has done, but endeavour to improve by future experience.

Whenever words have been supplied which are not in the text, but requisite to make the sense clear, they have been placed in parentheses; for instance, 1 Chron. iii. 9, "(These were) all the sons of David," where there is no equivalent in Hebrew for "these were," though no sense could be made of the phrase without supplying these two words. The parenthesis is also used occasionally, but very seldom, to denote a construction, where an actual parenthesis of a whole sentence, or of one or more verses, occurs.

The whole work has been undertaken at the sole responsibility, both mercantile and literary, of the translator. No individual has been questioned respecting the meaning of a single sentence; and not an English book has been consulted, except Bagster's Bible, a few notes of which have been incorporated with this. The peculiarity of the style will readily indicate them. The author's name would have been appended, had it been known to the translator.

Although about the sixth part of the contents of this volume are notes, still he did not mean to write a commentary on the Bible, nor must the notes be regarded as any thing else than a mere slight aid for the explanation of grammatical and other difficulties. For this they are probably ample enough; otherwise they must appear very defective in quantity and manner.

With these few remarks the translator surrenders a labour in which he has been engaged, occasionally, for more than fifteen years, to the kindness of the public, trusting that, by the blessing of the Father of all, it may be made instrumental in diffusing a taste for Scripture reading among the community of Israelites, and be the means of a better appreciation of the great treasures of revelation to many who never have had the opportunity of knowing what the Hebrews have done for mankind, not alone in preserving the sacred books, but by labouring to make them intelligible to the world at large.

GENERAL REMARKS.

According to Dr. Zunz, the creation of the world dates 3988 before the common era. The flood in 1656 after the creation. Abram born at Ur, 1948. Jacob goes to Egypt, 2238. Moses born, 2413. Exodus, and giving of the Decalogue, 2493. Entrance into Palestine, 2533. Deborah and Barak's victory, 2653. Death of 'Eli, 2877. Saul made king, 2900. His death, 2930. David acknowledged king by all Israel, 2937. Temple commenced, 2973, in the year 480 after the Exodus. Division of the kingdom between Rehobo'am and Jerobo'am, 3010. Elijah, about 3068, when Achab became king. Elisha' becomes Elijah's successor, 3090. Hoshea', the last king of Israel, 3259–3268, when Shalmenesser conquers Samaria, and carries the people into exile, while the kingdom of Judah yet continues under Hezekiah (3262) to Zedekiah (3402) in which year Nebuchadnezzar conquers Jerusalem, and carries the people mostly to Babylon, while a few fly to Egypt, taking Jeremiah with them. Babylon conquered, 3450, and two years later Cyrus permits the Jews to return to Palestine under Zerubbabel and Jeshua'. The new temple is completed, 3472, that is, 516 before the common era. History of Haman, 3514. 'Ezra comes to Palestine, 3530, and Nehemiah, 3544; returns to Persia, 3556, and arrives again in Palestine, 3564. Jaddua' high-priest, 3656, and under him, two years later, Palestine is conquered by Alexander of Macedon. These few dates, it is hoped, will elucidate, with the Bible text, the history of the Scriptures.

The various ¶ marks used in this work indicate the Massoretic sections, the only ones in use in the Hebrew MSS. without points, where neither chapter nor verse divisions are otherwise marked off, except that between one verse and the other there is a little more space than between two ordinary words.

The books of the Holy Scriptures are divided into the following classes: the Law, Pentateuch or Torah, Nebiim Rishonim, the Earlier Prophets, Nebiim Acharonim, the Later Prophets, and Ketubim, Hagiographa, or Holy Writings.

The order of the books of the Holy Scriptures according to the usual Hebrew text is, Genesis, Exodus, Leviticus, Numbers, and Deuteronomy, comprising the Pentateuch.—Joshua, Judges, the First Book of Samuel, the Second Book of Samuel, the First Book of the Kings, and the Second Book of the Kings, comprising the Earlier Prophets.—Isaiah, Jeremiah, Ezekiel, and the twelve minor prophets, (to wit, Hosea, Joel, Amos, Obadiah, Jonah, Michah, Nahum, Habakkuk, Zephaniah, Haggai, Zechariah, and Malachi,) comprising the Later Prophets.—Psalms, Proverbs, Job, the five rolls, (to wit, the Song of Solomon, Ruth, Lamentations, Ecclesiastes, and Esther,) Daniel, Ezra, Nehemiah, the First and Second Books of Chronicles, comprising the Hagiographa, or Holy Writings.

The Jews also divide the Law in fifty-four sections, which are called after the first distinctive word in each section. For instance: the first of these sections is called Bereshith, from the first word of the Bible, signifying "in the beginning." The name of the first section in each book of the Pentateuch is also applied to that book; thus, Genesis is called Bereshith; Exodus, Shemoth; Leviticus, Vayikra; Numbers, Bemidbar; and Deuteronomy, Debarim. Leviticus is also called Torath Cohanim, and Deuteronomy, Mishneh Torah. The whole law is read once every year in the Synagogue and families, together with a corresponding section (Haphtorah) of the prophetic books—that is, excluding the Hagiographa, the third division of this work. Occasionally two weekly sections are read together, when mostly the Haphtorah of the second to the exclusion of the first is recited. So also are the especial Haphtoroth for Sabbath New-Moon, or when new moon is on the first day of the week, first and second Sabbath Chanuckah, Parshath Shekalim, Zachor, Parah, and Hachodesh, as also Shim'u for Mattoth, likewise 'Aniyah So'arah for Reay, and Soss Assiss for Nizabim and Vayelech, read instead of the usual ones indicated for the respective occasions. The name of each weekly section is placed at its commencement, as also at the head of the pages embracing the same, and the Haphtorah is indicated at the end of each. The weekly sections are divided off in seven subdivisions called Parashiyoth, or Parassahs, which are marked off in this work with a *; so also the few verses read for the Maphtere, or the one who reads the Haphtorah, as will appear from inspection.

In addition to the above, the first division of next week's section is read every Sabbath afternoon and Monday and Thursday morning, unless on these days some other portion should be read, because of there being a fast, or half or entire holiday.

SECTION 1. BERESHITH, בראשית.
CHAPTER 1.

1 In the beginning God created the heaven and the earth.

2 And the earth was without form and void, and darkness was upon the face of the deep; and the spirit of God was waving over the face of the waters.

3 And God said, Let there be light; and there was light.

4 And God saw the light that it was good; and God divided between the light and the darkness.

5 And God called the light Day, and the darkness he called Night. And it was evening and it was morning, the first day.

6 ¶ And God said, Let there be an expansion[b] in the midst of the waters, and let it divide between waters and waters.

7 And God made the expansion, and divided between the waters which were under the expansion and the waters which were above the expansion: and it was so.

8 And God called the expansion Heaven. And it was evening and it was morning, the[c] second day.

9 ¶ And God said, Let the waters under the heaven be gathered together unto one place, and let the dry land be visible: and it was so.

10 And God called the dry land Earth; and the gathering together of the waters he called Seas: and God saw that it was good.

11 And God said, Let the earth bring forth grass, herbs yielding seed, fruit-trees yielding fruit after their[d] kind, in which its seed is upon the earth: and it was so.

12 And the earth brought forth grass, herbs yielding seed after their kind, and trees yielding fruit, in which its seed is after their kind: and God saw that it was good.

13 And it was evening and it was morning, the third day.[e]

14 ¶ And God said, Let there be lights in the expansion of the heaven to divide between the day and the night; and let them be for signs, and for seasons, and for days, and years;

15 And let them be for lights in the expansion of the heaven, to give light upon the earth: and it was so.

16 And God made the two great lights; the greater light to[f] rule the day, and the lesser light to rule the night; and the stars.

17 And God set them in the expansion of the heaven to give light upon the earth,

18 And to rule by day and by night, and to divide between the light and the darkness: and God saw that it was good.

19 And it was evening and it was morning, the fourth day.

20 ¶ And God said, Let the waters bring forth abundantly moving creatures that have life, and fowl that may fly above the earth in the open expansion of the heaven.

21 And God created the great sea-mon-

[a] This word is the name of the first weekly section, also of the first book of Moses, from the first word thereof, which is Bereshith, i. e. "In the beginning."—It must be understood that the whole law is divided into fifty-four sections, appointed to be read during the course of the year, so that each Sabbath one or two conjointly are read. Each of these sections bears a name derived from the first distinctive word thereof, and this will be found indicated throughout the Pentatench of this edition.

[b] I have preferred this term to the usual translations, because it expresses more correctly the idea of the Hebrew word, from רקע to expand; therefore, the expansion of the atmosphere, not the fixed vault of the skies.

[c] Properly, "a second day," the definite article being wanting; and so with all the others, up to the fifth day.

[d] Properly, "its kind," referring to עץ tree, collective singular, rendered here with the plural trees.

[e] The stars are used to denote the verses where the portions of the various sections end.

[f] Heb. "for the rule of."

sters,[a] and every living creature that moveth, which the waters brought forth abundantly after their kind, and every winged fowl after its kind: and God saw that it was good.

22 And God blessed them, saying, Be fruitful, and multiply, and fill the waters in the seas, and let the fowl multiply on the earth.

23 And it was evening and it was morning, the fifth day.[*]

24 ¶ And God said, Let the earth bring forth living creatures after their kind, cattle, and creeping things, and beasts of the earth after their kind: and it was so.

25 And God made the beasts of the earth after their kind, and the cattle after their kind, and every thing that creepeth upon the earth after its kind: and God saw that it was good.

26 And God said, Let us[b] make man in our image, after our likeness; and they shall have dominion over the fish of the sea, and over the fowl of the heaven, and over the cattle, and over all the earth, and over every creeping thing that creepeth upon the earth.

27 And God created man in his image, in the image of God created he him; male and female created he them.

28 And God blessed them, and God said unto them, Be fruitful and multiply, and fill the earth, and subdue it; and have dominion over the fish of the sea, and over the fowl of the heaven, and over every living thing that moveth upon the earth.

29 And God said, Behold I have given unto you every herb bearing seed, which is upon the face of all the earth, and every tree on which is the fruit of a tree yielding seed; to you it shall be for food.

30 And to every beast of the earth, and to every fowl of the heaven, and to every thing that creepeth upon the earth, wherein there is life, (I have given) every green herb for food: and it was so.

31 And God saw[c] every thing that he had made, and behold, it was very good. And it was evening and it was morning, the sixth day.

CHAPTER II.

1 ¶ Thus were finished the heavens and the earth, and all their host.

2 And God had finished on the seventh day his work which he had made, and he rested on the seventh day from all his work which he had made.

3 And God blessed the seventh day, and sanctified it; because thereon he had rested from all his work which God had created in making it.[*a]

4 ¶ These are the generations[e] of the heavens and of the earth when they were created, on the day that the LORD[f] God made earth and heaven.

5 And every plant of the field was not yet on the earth, and every herb of the field had not yet grown; for the LORD God had not caused it to rain upon the earth, and man was not yet there to till the ground.

6 But there went up a mist from the earth, and watered the whole face of the ground.

7 And the LORD God formed the man of dust from the ground, and breathed into his nostrils the breath of life; and the man became a living being.

8 And the LORD God planted a garden in Eden to the eastward, and he put there the man whom he had formed.

9 And the LORD God caused to grow out of the ground every tree that is pleasant to the sight and good for food; and the tree of life in the midst of the garden, and the tree of the knowledge of good and evil.

10 And a river went out of Eden to water the garden, and from there it was parted, and became four principal streams.

11 The name of the first is Pishon, the same which compasseth the whole land of Havilah, where there is gold.

[a] Meaning, all the greater animals that inhabit the seas, in contradistinction to the smaller creatures afterwards described.

[b] This phrase is employed here, as in other places, to express the purpose of the Deity to effect his will. This construction is called "the plural of majesty."

[c] "Looked over;" meaning, that when all had been completed, the Creator, so to say, cast his view over all, and then saw that there was nothing defective in the whole system of outward nature, produced by his creative power

[*] After PHILIPPSON.

[e] "The history of the creation."—MENDELSSOHN.

[f] The proper signification of this word is the Eternal, which term will be used when absolutely required, but generally the usual word will be employed; but its proper sense will be indicated, as is customary in all the English Bibles, by printing it in what is technically called SMALL CAPITALS.

12 And the gold of that land is good; there is the bdellium and the onyx stone.

13 And the name of the second river is Gihon, the same which compasseth the whole land of Cush.

14 And the name of the third river is Hiddekel, the same which floweth towards the east of Assyria; and the fourth river is the Euphrates.

15 And the LORD God took the man, and put him into the garden of Eden, to till it, and to keep it.

16 And the LORD God commanded the man, saying, Of every tree of the garden thou mayest freely eat;

17 But of the tree of the knowledge of good and evil, thou shalt not eat of it; for on the day that thou eatest thereof thou shalt surely die.

18 And the LORD God said, It is not good that the man should be alone; I will make him a help suitable for him.*

19 And the LORD God had formed out of the ground every beast of the field, and every fowl of the heaven, and he brought them unto the man to see what he would call them; and whatsoever the man would call every living creature, that should be its name.

20 And the man gave names to all cattle, and to the fowl of the heaven, and to every beast of the field; but for man there was not found a help suitable for him.

21 And the LORD God caused a deep sleep to fall upon the man, and he slept; and he took one of his ribs, and closed up the flesh instead thereof.

22 And the LORD God formed[a] the rib which he had taken from the man into a woman, and brought her unto the man.

23 And the man said, This time[b] it is bone of my bones, and flesh of my flesh; this shall be called Woman, [Ishah,] because out of Man [Ish] was this one taken.

24 Therefore doth[c] a man leave his father and his mother, and cleave unto his wife, and they become one flesh.

25 And they were both naked, the man and his wife, and were not ashamed.

CHAPTER III.

1 Now the serpent was more subtle than any beast of the field which the LORD God had made; and he said unto the woman, Hath God indeed said, Ye shall not eat of every tree of the garden?

2 And the woman said unto the serpent, We may eat of the fruit of the trees of the garden;

3 But of the fruit of the tree which is in the midst of the garden, God hath said, Ye shall not eat of it, neither shall ye touch[d] it, lest ye die.

4 And the serpent said unto the woman, Ye will surely not die;

5 For God doth know, that, on the day ye eat thereof, your eyes will be opened, and ye will be as God, knowing good and evil.

6 And when the woman saw that the tree was good for food, and that it was pleasant to the eyes, and the tree was desirable to make one wise,[e] she took of its fruit, and did eat, and gave also unto her husband with her, and he did eat.

7 And the eyes of both of them were opened, and they felt that they were naked; and they sewed fig-leaves together, and made themselves aprons.

8 And they heard the voice of the LORD God walking in the garden in the cool of the day; and the man and his wife hid themselves[f] from the presence of the LORD God amongst the trees of the garden.

9 And the LORD God called unto the man, and said unto him, Where art thou?

10 And he said, Thy voice I heard in the garden; and I was afraid, because I am naked; and I hid myself.

11 And he said, Who told thee that thou art naked? Hast thou eaten of the tree, whereof I commanded thee that thou shouldest not eat?

12 And the man said, The woman whom

[a] After the Hebrew, "built."

[b] In opposition to the other animals named before, they being unlike man, consequently not like the woman, bone of his bone, and flesh of his flesh.—PHILIPPSON gives it: "This one, at this time, is," &c.

[c] The Hebrew future employed in the text represents not a command, but the habit; and, in this manner, the future tense is frequently used, where a constant practice or habit is alluded to.

[d] Here is shown the danger of adding to the commandment; God had not ordained them not to touch the tree, only not to eat of the fruit; hence she was less able to withstand the cunning of the serpent.

[e] "To contemplate."—MENDELSSOHN.

[f] In the text the verb is used in the singular, and ought therefore to be properly given, "and the man hid himself with his wife." This construction is very frequent in Hebrew.

thou gavest to be with me, she gave me of the tree, and I did eat.

13 And the LORD God said unto the woman, What is this that thou hast done? And the woman said, The serpent beguiled me, and I did eat.

14 And the LORD God said unto the serpent, Because thou hast done this, be thou cursed above all the cattle, and above every beast of the field; upon thy belly shalt thou go, and dust shalt thou eat all the days of thy life:

15 And I will put enmity between thee and the woman, and between thy seed and her seed; he shall bruise thy head, and thou shalt wound his heel.

16 ¶ Unto the woman he said, I will greatly multiply thy pain and (the suffering of) thy conception; in pain shalt thou bring forth children; and for thy husband shall be thy desire, but he shall rule over thee.

17 ¶ And unto Adam[a] he said, Because thou hast hearkened unto the voice of thy wife, and hast eaten of the tree of which I commanded thee, saying, Thou shalt not eat of it: cursed be the ground for thy sake; in pain shalt thou eat of it all the days of thy life.

18 And thorns and thistles shall it bring forth to thee; and thou shalt eat the herbs of the field.[b]

19 In the sweat of thy face shalt thou eat bread, till thou return unto the ground, for out of it wast thou taken; for dust thou art, and unto dust shalt thou return.

20 And the man called his wife's name Eve[c] [Chavvah]; because she was the mother of all living [Chay].

21 And the LORD God made unto Adam and to his wife coats of skins, and clothed them.*

22 ¶ And the LORD God said, Behold, the man is become as one of us, to know good and evil; and now, lest he put forth his hand, and take also of the tree of life, and eat, and live for ever[d]—

23 Therefore the LORD God sent him forth from the garden of Eden, to till the ground from which he was taken.

24 So he drove out the man; and he placed at the east of the garden of Eden the Cherubim, and the flaming[e] sword which revolveth, to guard the way to the tree of life.

CHAPTER IV.

1 ¶ And the man knew Eve his wife; and she conceived, and bore Cain, and said, I have gotten[f] a man from the LORD.

2 And she bore again, his brother, Abel;[g] and Abel was a keeper of sheep, but Cain was a tiller of the ground.

3 And it came to pass in process of time, that Cain brought of the fruit of the ground an offering unto the LORD.

4 And Abel—he also brought of the firstlings of his flock, and of the fattest[h] thereof; and the LORD had respect unto Abel and to his offering;

5 But unto Cain and to his offering he had not respect; and it was very displeasing to Cain, and his countenance fell.

6 And the LORD said unto Cain, Why art thou wroth? and why is thy countenance fallen?

7 If thou doest well, shalt thou not be accepted? and if thou doest not well, sin lieth at the door; and unto thee is its desire, but thou canst rule over it.

8 And Cain talked with Abel his brother: and it came to pass when they were in the field, that Cain rose up against Abel his brother, and slew him.

9 And the LORD said unto Cain, Where is Abel thy brother? And he said, I know not; am I my brother's keeper?

10 And he said, What hast thou done? the voice of thy brother's blood crieth unto me from the ground.

11 And now be thou cursed from[i] the ground, which hath opened its mouth to receive thy brother's blood from thy hand:

12 When thou tillest the ground, it shall

[a] Adam signifies "man," as one taken from the ground; Adam, man, being derived from Adamah, ground.

[b] The curse was directed to Adam, that he should be compelled to obtain his food by constant toil, whereas before sinning, only slight exertions were required to gather what grew spontaneously from the ground.

[c] Signifying "living."

[d] Evidently an elliptical sentence; meaning, that since man might partake of the fruit of the tree of life should he remain in Eden, it was the intention of the Deity to banish him, which banishment is then recorded in the next verses.

[e] Literally, "the flame of the sword," &c.

[f] קָנִי Kayin, from קנה Kanah. PHILIPPSON, after RASHI, renders את by "with," i. e. "the aid of."

[g] Correctly, "Habel."

[i] "More than the ground."—SALOMON.

not henceforth yield its strength unto thee; fugitive and vagabond shalt thou be on the earth.

13 And Cain said unto the LORD, My punishment is greater than I can bear.

14 Behold, thou hast driven me out this day from the face of the ground; and from thy face[a] shall I be hid; and if I shall be a fugitive and vagabond on the earth, it will come to pass, that every one that findeth me will slay me.

15 And the LORD said unto him, Therefore whosoever slayeth Cain, vengeance shall be taken on him seven-fold. And the LORD set a sign unto Cain, that any one finding him should not kill him.

16 And Cain went out from the presence of the LORD, and dwelt in the land of Nod, on the east of Eden.

17 And Cain knew his wife, and she conceived, and bore Enoch;[b] and he built a city, and called the name of the city after the name of his son Enoch.

18 And unto Enoch was born Irad; and Irad begat Mechujael; and Mechijael begat Methushael; and Methushael begat Lemech.*

19 And Lemech took unto himself two wives, the name of the one was Adah, and the name of the other Zillah.

20 And Adah bore Jabal; he was the father of such as dwell in tents, and have cattle.

21 And his brother's name was Jubal; he was the father of all such as play on the harp and guitar.[c]

22 And Zillah, she also bore Tubal-cain, an artificer in every article of copper and iron; and the sister of Tubal-cain was Naamah.

23 And Lemech said unto his wives, Adah and Zillah, hear my voice; ye wives of Lemech, hearken unto my speech; for I have slain a man to my own wounding, and a young man to my hurt.

24 If Cain shall be avenged seven-fold, truly Lemech seventy and seven-fold.

25 And Adam knew his wife again, and she bore a son, and called his name Sheth[d] [Seth]; for God (said she) hath appointed me another seed instead of Abel, whom Cain slew.

26 And to Sheth, to him also there was born a son; and he called his name Enosh: then began men to call upon[e] the name of the LORD.*

CHAPTER V.

1 ¶ This is the book of the generations of Adam. On the day that God created man, in the likeness of God made he him:

2 Male and female created[f] he them; and blessed them, and called their name Adam, on the day when they were created.

3 And Adam lived a hundred and thirty years, and begat a son in his likeness, after his image; and called his name Sheth.

4 And the days of Adam after he had begotten Sheth were eight hundred years; and he begat sons and daughters.

5 And all the days that Adam lived were nine hundred and thirty years; and he died.

6 ¶ And Sheth lived a hundred and five years, and begat Enosh.

7 And Sheth lived after he had begotten Enosh eight hundred and seven years; and he begat sons and daughters.

8 And all the days of Sheth were nine hundred and twelve years; and he died.

9 ¶ And Enosh lived ninety years, and begat Kenan.

10 And Enosh lived after he had begotten Kenan eight hundred and fifteen years; and he begat sons and daughters.

11 And all the days of Enosh were nine hundred and five years; and he died.

12 ¶ And Kenan lived seventy years, and begat Mahalalel.

13 And Kenan lived after he had begotten Mahalalel eight hundred and forty years; and he begat sons and daughters.

* i. e. Thy protection will be withdrawn.

[b] Correctly, "Chanoch."

[c] Others render this with "pipe," making Jubal the inventor of stringed and wind instruments in their simplest forms.

[d] From Shath, "he bestowed."

[e] RASHI renders "by," and explains, "to call men and idols by the name of God, to convert them into deities for worship;" and he would thus place the commencement of idolatrous worship as early as the time of the grandson of Adam: others explain simply, "then men began to pray to God;" others again, "to teach in the name of God;" whilst others would understand that the name of God was used in denominating persons—perhaps, by attaching the syllable el (God) to names.

[f] In the sacred writing, the change of persons from second to third, and from singular to plural, and vice versa, is by no means a rare construction; but as there is always some reason easily apparent for this change, it will be preserved for the most part in this version.

14 And all the days of Kenan were nine hundred and ten years; and he died.

15 ¶ And Mahalalel lived sixty and five years, and begat Jared.

16 And Mahalalel lived after he had begotten Jared eight hundred and thirty years; and he begat sons and daughters.

17 And all the days of Mahalalel were eight hundred ninety and five years; and he died.

18 ¶ And Jared lived a hundred sixty and two years, and begat Enoch.[a]

19 And Jared lived after he had begotten Enoch eight hundred years; and he begat sons and daughters.

20 And all the days of Jared were nine hundred sixty and two years; and he died.

21 ¶ And Enoch lived sixty and five years, and begat Methushelah.

22 And Enoch walked[b] with God after he had begotten Methushelah three hundred years; and begat sons and daughters.

23 And all the days of Enoch were three hundred sixty and five years.

24 And Enoch walked with God, and he was no more; for God had taken[c] him.*

25 ¶ And Methushelah lived a hundred eighty and seven years, and begat Lemech.

26 And Methushelah lived after he had begotten Lemech seven hundred eighty and two years; and he begat sons and daughters.

27 And all the days of Methushelah were nine hundred sixty and nine years; and he died.

28 ¶ And Lemech lived a hundred eighty and two years, and begat a son.

29 And he called his name Noach, [Noah,] saying, This one shall comfort[d] us concerning our work and the toil of our hands, because of the ground which the LORD hath cursed.

30 And Lemech lived after he had begotten Noah five hundred ninety and five years; and begat sons and daughters.

31 And all the days of Lemech were seven hundred seventy and seven years; and he died.

32 ¶ And Noah was five hundred years old, and Noah begat Shem, Ham, and Japheth.

CHAPTER VI.

1 And it came to pass, when men began to multiply on the face of the earth, and daughters were born unto them,

2 That the sons of God[e] saw the daughters of men, that they were fair; and they took themselves wives of all whom they chose.

3 And the Lord said, My Spirit[f] shall not always strive for the sake of man, for that he is but flesh; yet his days (of grace) shall be a hundred and twenty years.

4 The giants were on the earth in those days; and also after that, when the sons of God came in unto the daughters of men, and they bore children to them; these became the mighty men, who were of old the men of renown.*

5 ¶ And God saw that the wickedness of man was great on the earth, and that every imagination of the thoughts of his heart was only evil continually.

6 And it repented[g] the LORD that he had made man on the earth, and it grieved him at his heart.

7 And the LORD said, I will destroy the

[a] Correctly, "Chanoch."

[b] The term "walking with God" is employed to express a righteous course of life, as though the man of whom it is said, walked with and was accompanied by the presence of his Maker. So is it said of Noah, "Noah walked with God." In other places it is called walking in the presence of God, as we read in the history of Abraham: "Walk before me and be perfect." So, on the other hand, to act wickedly is termed "throwing God behind one's back." All these, and many others, are figurative phrases used by the Hebrews to give a lively idea of what simple words fail to express as strongly and beautifully.

[c] Evident reference to a life after death: the decease of the righteous is thus termed against died used elsewhere, probably to indicate that they are to dwell with their God whom they have worshipped. (Compare with Psalm xlix. 16.)

[d] RASHI renders, "shall give us rest," נח, from ינח, he shall give rest, from the root נוח—referring to the invention of the plough, which is assigned to Noah, by which human labour was much abridged.

[e] "Sons of the chiefs."—ONKELOS. Daughters of men, those of the common people.

[f] "My Spirit cannot always rule in man,—in the strife of his passions he remains flesh,—and therefore shall his days be," &c. This is the new and bold version of Arnheim. Rashi, Aben Ezra, Onkelos, and Mendelssohn give "his days" the addition "of grace," meaning the punishment of the intended flood should be delayed one hundred and twenty years, in hopes of man's repentance. Philippson renders, "My Spirit shall not for ever succumb in man, since he is but flesh."

[g] This expression, otherwise not applicable to the Deity, who is no man that he He should repent, is employed merely to convey to us, in human language, the action of God; for it is man's custom to repent of what he has made when he finds himself compelled to destroy it.

man whom I have created from the face of the earth; both man and beast, and the creeping things and the fowls of the heaven; for it repenteth me that I have made them.

8 But Noah found grace in the eyes of the LORD.

Haphtorah in Isaiah xlii. 5–21: the Germans read to xliii. 11.

SECTION II. NOACH, נח.

9 ¶ These are the generations of Noah: Noah was a just, perfect man in his generations; Noah walked with God.

10 And Noah begat three sons, Shem, Ham, and Japheth.

11 And the earth was corrupt before God; and the earth was filled with violence.

12 And God looked upon the earth, and behold, it was corrupt, for all flesh had corrupted his way[a] upon the earth.

13 ¶ And God said unto Noah, The end of all flesh is come before me; for the earth is filled with violence through them, and I will destroy them with[b] the earth.

14 Make thee an ark of gopher-wood, rooms shalt thou make in the ark, and shalt pitch it within and without with pitch.

15 And this is the manner in which thou shalt make it: The length of the ark shall be three hundred cubits, the breadth of it fifty cubits, and the height of it thirty cubits.

16 A window[c] shalt thou make to the ark, and thou shalt finish it above, to be one cubit broad, and the door of the ark shalt thou set in the side thereof; with lower, second, and third stories shalt thou make it.

17 And as regards myself, behold, I will bring a flood of waters upon the earth, to destroy all flesh, wherein is the breath of life, from under the heavens; every thing that is on the earth[d] shall perish.

18 But I will establish my covenant with thee; and thou shalt come into the ark, thou, and thy sons, and thy wife, and thy sons' wives with thee.

19 And of every living thing, of all flesh, two of every sort shalt thou bring into the ark, to keep them alive with thee: male and female shall they be.

20 Of the fowls after their kind, and of the cattle after their kind, of every creeping thing of the earth after its kind, two of every sort shall come unto thee, to keep them alive.

21 And thou, for thy part, take unto thee of all food that is eaten, and thou shalt gather it to thee; and it shall be unto thee, and unto them for food.

22 Thus did Noah; according to all that God had commanded him, so he did.*

CHAPTER VII.

1 And the LORD said unto Noah, Come thou and all thy household into the ark; for thee have I seen righteous before me in this generation.

2 Of every clean beast thou shalt take to thee seven pair of each, the male and his female; and of beasts that are not clean two, the male and his female.

3 Also of the fowls of the heaven, seven pair of each, the male and the female; to keep seed alive upon the face of all the earth.

4 For after only seven days more, I will cause it to rain upon the earth forty days and forty nights: and I will blot out every living substance that I have made from off the face of the earth.

5 And Noah did all just as the LORD had commanded him.

6 And Noah was six hundred years old when the flood of waters was upon the earth.

7 And Noah went in, and his sons, and his wife, and his sons' wives with him, into the ark, because of the waters of the flood.

8 Of the clean beasts, and of the beasts that are not clean, and of the fowls, and of every thing that creepeth[e] upon the earth,

9 One pair of each went in unto Noah into the ark, the male and the female, as God had commanded Noah.

10 And it came to pass, after the seven days, that the waters of the flood were upon the earth.

11 In the six hundreth year of Noah's life, in the second month, on the seventeenth day of the month, on this same day, were all the fountains of the great deep broken up, and the windows[f] of heaven were opened.

* Since to please God is called "walking" with him, a corruption of morals is properly termed "corrupting one's way."

[d] "On the earth,"—this would except the animals inhabiting the waters, and they would thus seem not to have been destroyed by the flood.

[e] Philippson renders here and elsewhere, "which moveth:" the same version is also used here, ver. 21.

[f] Figurative expression to denote the immense mass of 12 And the rain fell upon the earth forty days and forty nights.

13 On that self-same day entered Noah, and Shem, and Ham, and Japheth, the sons of Noah, and Noah's wife, and the three wives of his sons with them, into the ark;

14 They, and every beast after his kind, and all the cattle after their kind, and every creeping thing that creepeth upon the earth after its kind, and every fowl after his kind, every bird, every thing that hath wings.

15 And they went in unto Noah into the ark, one[a] pair of each, of all flesh, wherein is the breath of life.

16 And they that went in, went in male and female of all flesh, as God had commanded him: and then the LORD shut him in.*

17 And the flood was forty days upon the earth; and the waters increased, and bore up the ark, and it was lifted up above the earth.

18 And the waters prevailed,[b] and increased greatly upon the earth: and the ark floated along upon the face of the waters.

19 And the waters prevailed exceedingly upon the earth; and all the high mountains that are under the whole heavens were covered.

20 Fifteen cubits above them did the waters prevail; and the mountains were (thus) covered.

21 And all flesh perished that moved upon the earth, both of fowl, and of cattle, and of beast, and of every creeping thing that creepeth upon the earth, and every man.

22 All in whose nostrils was the breath of life, of all that were on the dry land, died.

23 And it[c] swept off every living substance which was upon the face of the ground, both man, and cattle, and creeping things, and fowls of the heaven; and they were swept from the earth; and Noah only was left, together with those that were with him in the ark.

24 And the waters prevailed upon the earth one hundred and fifty days.

CHAPTER VIII.

1 And God remembered Noah, and every living thing,[d] and all the cattle that were with him in the ark: and God caused a wind to pass over the earth, and the waters were assuaged;

2 The fountains also of the deep, and the windows of heaven were stopped; and the rain from heaven was restrained.

3 And the waters returned from off the earth, gradually returning; and the waters were abated after the end of the hundred and fifty days.

4 And the ark rested in the seventh month, on the seventeenth day of the month, upon the mountains of Ararat.

5 And the waters decreased continually until the tenth month; in the tenth month, on the first day of the month, were the tops of the mountains seen;

6 And it came to pass at the end of forty days, that Noah opened the window of the ark which he had made;

7 And he sent forth[e] a[f] raven which went forth to and fro, until the waters were dried up from off the earth.

8 He then sent forth a[f] dove from him, to see if the waters were abated from off the face of the ground.

9 But the dove found no resting-place for the sole of her foot, and she returned unto him unto the ark; for there was water on the face of the whole earth; then he put forth his hand, and took her, and brought her in unto him into the ark.

10 And he stayed yet other seven days, and again he sent forth the dove out of the ark.

11 And the dove came in to him at the time of the evening; and, lo, an olive-leaf plucked off was in her mouth; so Noah knew that the waters were abated from off the earth.

12 And he stayed yet other seven days, water which poured down upon the earth, which appeared as though windows had been opened in the body of the atmosphere, from which the flood issued forth constantly in resistless strength.

[a] Meaning "at least two," not excluding the remainder of the seven ordered of certain kinds.

[b] That is, "they increased in mass, covering the earth."

[c] The flood, referring thus to the nominative mentioned in verse 17.

[d] After Aben Ezra, who includes under the term חיה the birds and creeping things likewise.

[e] The non-return of the birds was to be a sure sign of their finding the earth again fit for their habitation.

[f] Heb. "The," meaning the birds known as raven and dove: the definite article is often so used in Scripture, to denote an unknown individual of a known species.

and sent forth the dove; but she returned not again unto him any more.

13 And it came to pass in the six hundredth and first year, in the first month, on the first day of the month, that the waters were dried up from off the earth; and Noah removed the covering of the ark, and looked, and, behold, the face of the ground was dry.

14 And in the second month, on the seven and twentieth day of the month, was the earth perfectly dried up.*

15 ¶ And God spoke unto Noah, saying,

16 Go forth from the ark, thou, and thy wife, and thy sons, and thy sons' wives with thee.

17 Every living thing that is with thee, of all flesh, both of fowl, and of cattle, and of every creeping thing that creepeth upon the earth, bring forth with thee; that they may breed abundantly on the earth, and be fruitful, and multiply upon the earth.

18 And Noah went forth, and his sons, and his wife, and his sons' wives with him.

19 Every beast, every creeping thing, and every fowl, whatsoever creepeth upon the earth, after their families, went forth out of the ark.

20 And Noah built an altar unto the LORD, and he took of every clean cattle, and of every clean fowl, and offered burnt-offerings on the altar.

21 And the LORD smelled the sweet savour; and the LORD said in his heart, I will not again curse the ground any more for the sake of man; although[a] the imagination of man's heart is evil from his youth: neither will I again smite any more every thing living, as I have done.

22 All the while the earth remaineth, seed-time and harvest, and cold and heat, and summer and winter, and day and night, shall not cease.

CHAPTER IX.

1 And God blessed Noah and his sons, and said unto them, Be fruitful, and multiply, and replenish the earth.

2 And the fear of you, and the dread of you, shall be upon every beast of the earth, and upon every fowl of the heaven; whatever is that moveth upon the earth, and all the fishes of the sea, are delivered into your hand.[b]

3 Every moving thing that liveth shall be yours for food; even as the green herbs have I given you all things.

4 But flesh in which its life is,[c] which is its blood, shall ye not eat.

5 Your blood, however, on which your lives depend, will I require: at the hand of every beast will I require it; and at the hand of man, at the hand of every man's brother will I require the life of man.

6 Whoso sheddeth man's blood, by man shall his blood be shed;[d] for in the image of God made he man.

7 And you, be ye fruitful, and multiply; bring forth abundantly on the earth, and multiply thereon.*

8 ¶ And God spoke unto Noah, and to his sons with him, saying,

9 And I, behold, I establish my covenant with you, and with your seed after you;

10 And with every living creature that is with you, of the fowl, of the cattle, and of every beast of the earth with you, from all those that go out of the ark, for every beast of the earth.

11 And I will establish my covenant with you; and all flesh shall not be cut off any more by the waters of a[e] flood; neither shall there be any more a flood to destroy the earth.

12 And God said, This is the token of the covenant which I make[f] between me and you, and every living creature that is with you, for perpetual generations.

13 My bow I do[g] set in the cloud, and it shall be for a token of the covenant between me and the earth.

[a] This is ARNHEIM's version: others have it "because," which then conveys the idea that since man is so constituted, it would be unjust to punish all, as had been done.

[b] That is, "your power," or "your disposal."

[c] Our tradition says, that this prohibits the eating of any part of a living animal, אבר מן החי: this barbarous custom is not yet extinct in some parts of the East.

[d] The Noachitic commandments are, according to the Talmud: 1. The exercise of justice; 2. The worship of God, or the prohibition of blasphemy; 3. The prohibition of idolatry; 4. The prohibition of incest; 5. The prohibition of murder; 6. The prohibition of theft; 7. The prohibition of eating the flesh of a live animal.

[e] Properly, "the flood," meaning that well-known quantity of water which constitutes a flood. See above, note to viii. 7.

[f] Heb. "place," or "set."

[g] Heb. "I have set," indicating that the rainbow previously existing was appointed the sign of the new covenant.

14 And it shall come to pass, that, when I bring a cloud over the earth, and the bow shall be seen in the cloud, 15 I will remember my covenant, which is between me and you and every living creature of all flesh; and the waters shall no more become a flood to destroy all flesh.

16 And the bow shall be in the cloud; and I will look upon it, that I may remember the everlasting covenant between God and every living creature, of all flesh, that is upon the earth.

17 And God said unto Noah, This is the token of the covenant which I have established between me and all flesh that is upon the earth.*

18 ¶ And the sons of Noah that went forth from the ark, were Shem, and Ham, and Japheth; and Ham was the father of Canaan.

19 These three were the sons of Noah, and of them was the whole earth overspread.

20 And Noah, who was a husbandman, began his work, and he planted a vineyard.

21 And he drank of the wine, and became drunken; and he uncovered himself within his tent.

22 And Ham, the father of Canaan, saw the nakedness of his father, and told it his two brothers without.

23 And Shem and Japheth took a garment, and laid it upon the shoulders of both[a] of them, and went backward, and covered the nakedness of their father; and their faces were turned backward, and they saw not their father's nakedness.

24 And Noah awoke from his wine, and discovered what his younger son had done unto him.

25 And he said, Cursed be Canaan; a servant of servants shall he be unto his brethren.

26 And he said, Blessed be the LORD, the God of Shem; and Canaan shall be a servant unto them.

27 May God enlarge the boundaries of Japheth, and may he dwell in the tents of Shem; and Canaan shall be a servant unto them.

28 And Noah lived after the flood three hundred and fifty years.

29 And all the days of Noah were nine hundred and fifty years; and he died.

CHAPTER X.

1 ¶ Now these are the generations of the sons of Noah: Shem, Ham, and Japheth; and unto them were sons born after the flood.

2 The sons of Japheth: Gomer, and Magog, and Madai, and Javan, and Tubal, and Meshech, and Tirass.

3 And the sons of Gomer: Ashkenaz, and Riphath, and Togarmah.

4 And the sons of Javan: Elishah, and Tarshish, Kittim, and Dodanim.

5 From these were separated the isles[b] of the nations in their lands, every one after his tongue: after their families, in their nations.

6 And the sons of Ham: Cush, and Mizrayim, and Put, and Canaan.

7 And the sons of Cush: Seba, and Havilah, and Sabtah, and Raamah, and Sabtecha; and the sons of Raamah: Sheba, and Dedan.

8 And Cush begat Nimrod; he began to be a mighty[c] man on the earth.

9 He was a mighty hunter before the LORD; wherefore it is said, Even as Nimrod, a mighty hunter before the LORD.

10 And the beginning[d] of his kingdom was Babel, and Erech, and Accad, and Calneh, in the land of Shinar.

11 Out of that land went forth Asshur,[e] and built Nineveh, and the city Rechoboth, and Calach, 12 And Ressen between Nineveh and Calach; the same is the great city.

13 And Mizrayim begat the Ludim, and Anamim, and Lehabim, and Naphtuchim,

14 And the Pathrussim, and Casluchim, (out of whom came the Pelishtim,) and the Caphtorim.

15 And Canaan begat Sidon his first-born, and Heth,

16 And the Jebusite, and the Emorite, and the Girgashite,

[a] "And they both placed it on their shoulder."—ABEN EZRA.

[b] Philippson and others render this "country," or a district with defined limits, as the island is defined by the sea.

[c] Philippson, "ruler," and supposes him to have been the first king.

[d] "The chief town."—ONKELOS.

[e] Mendelssohn and others, "He (Nimrod) went forth to Asshur;" but the version in the text is according to the ancients, namely, that Asshur emigrated from Babel, &c., and built Nineveh, &c.

17 And the Hivite, and the Arkite, and the Sinite,

18 And the Arvadite, and the Zemarite, and the Hamathite; and afterward were the families of the Canaanites spread abroad.

19 And the border of the Canaanites was from Sidon, as thou comest to Gerar, unto Gazzah; as thou goest unto Sodom and Gomorrah, and Admah, and Zeboyim, even unto Lesha.

20 These are the sons of Ham, after their families, after their tongues, in their countries, in their nations.

21 ¶ But unto Shem also, the father of all the children of Eber,[a] the brother of Japheth the elder, were children born.

22 The sons of Shem: Elam, and Asshur, and Arpachshad, and Lud, and Aram.

23 And the children of Aram: Uz, and Hul, and Gether, and Mash.

24 And Arpachshad begat Shelah; and Shelah begat Eber.

25 And unto Eber were born two sons; the name of one was Peleg, for in his days was the earth divided; and his brother's name was Joktan.

26 And Joktan begat Almodad, and Sheleph, and Hazarmaveth, and Jerach, 27 And Hadoram, and Uzal, and Diklah,

28 And Obal, and Abimael, and Sheba,

29 And Ophir, and Havilah, and Jobab; all these were the sons of Joktan.

30 And their dwelling was from Mesha, as thou goest unto Sephar, the mount of the east.

31 These are the sons of Shem, after their families, after their tongues, in their lands, after their nations.

32 These are the families of the sons of Noah, after their generations, in their nations; and from these were the nations separated on the earth after the flood.*

CHAPTER XI.

1 ¶ And the whole earth was of one language, and of one kind of words.

2 And it came to pass, as they journeyed toward[b] the east, that they found a plain in the land of Shinar, and they dwelt there.

3 And they said one to another, Go to, let us make bricks, and burn them thoroughly. And thus the brick served them for stone, and slime[c] served them for mortar.

4 And they said, Go to, let us build ourselves a city, and a tower, the top of which may reach unto heaven; and let us make ourselves a name, lest we be scattered abroad upon the face of the whole earth.

5 And the LORD came down to see the city and the tower, which the children of man were building.

6 And the LORD said, Behold, it is one people, and they have all one language, and this is the first thing they undertake to do; and now shall they not be restrained in all which they have imagined to do?

7 Go to, let us go down, and confound there their language, that they may not understand one another's speech.

8 So the LORD scattered them abroad from there over the face of all the earth; and they left off to build the city.

9 Therefore is the name of it called Babel,[d] because the LORD did there confound the language of all the earth; and from there did the LORD scatter them abroad over the face of all the earth.

10 ¶ These are the generations of Shem: Shem, when a hundred years old, begat Arpachshad, two years after the flood.

11 And Shem lived after he had begotten Arpachshad five hundred years; and begat sons and daughters.

12 ¶ And Arpachshad lived five and thirty years, and begat Shelah.

13 And Arpachshad lived after he had begotten Shelah four hundred and three[e] years; and begat sons and daughters.

14 ¶ And Shelah lived thirty years, and begat Eber.

[a] No doubt derived from the root עבר 'Abar, "to pass over," whence עברים 'Ibriyim, Ibrews, or those who came from over Euphrates to enter Palestine; and hence Abraham the Hebrew, who was so called because he came from Mesopotamia, or perhaps, because of his descent from 'Eber. The H is not in the original, which is only 'Ibri, and would require it to be written Ebrew. The term, however, in its primitive meaning, was applied to the sons of Joktan, besides the Israelites, who have been thus denoted exclusively ever since the time of Moses.

[b] After Arnheim, who takes מקדם as simply denoting "from Ararat," which, though properly to the north-west of Shinar, yet was to the east of Palestine and Egypt, where the Israelites, and consequently Moses the writer of the books of the law, lived. Others again imagine that an emigration to the east proper may have taken place before, and they were then journeying back to Shinar.

[c] A peculiar earthy adhesive substance of that country.

[d] From Bahlal בלל "to mingle."

[e] Remarkable decrease of the length of human life. When before the flood the age of man reached to near a thousand years, as was the case also with Noah: Shem

15 And Shelach lived after he had begotten Eber four hundred and three years; and begat sons and daughters.

16 ¶ And Eber lived four and thirty years, and begat Peleg.

17 And Eber lived after he had begotten Peleg four hundred and thirty years; and begat sons and daughters.

18 ¶ And Peleg lived thirty years, and begat Reü.

19 And Peleg lived after he had begotten Reü two hundred and nine years; and begat sons and daughters.

20 ¶ And Reü lived two and thirty years, and begat Serug.

21 And Reü lived after he had begotten Serug two hundred and seven years; and begat sons and daughters.

22 ¶ And Serug lived thirty years, and begat Nachor.

23 And Serug lived after he had begotten Nachor two hundred years; and begat sons and daughters.

24 ¶ And Nachor lived nine and twenty years, and begat Terach.

25 And Nachor lived after he had begotten Terach a hundred and nineteen years; and begat sons and daughters.

26 ¶ And Terach lived seventy years, and begat Abram, Nachor, and Haran.

27 Now these are the generations of Terach: Terach begat Abram, Nachor, and Haran; and Haran begat Lot.

28 And Haran died before his father Terach in the land of his nativity, in Ur of the Chaldees.*

29 And Abram and Nachor took themselves wives; the name of Abram's wife was Sarai; and the name of Nachor's wife was Milcah, the daughter of Haran, the father of Milcah, and the father of Yiscah.

30 But Sarai was barren; she had no child.

31 And Terach took Abram his son, and Lot, the son of Haran, his son's son, and Sarai his daughter-in-law, the wife of his son Abram; and they went forth with them from Ur of the Chaldees, to go into the land of Canaan; and they came unto Charan, and dwelt there.

32 And the days of Terach were two hundred and five years; and Terach died in Charan.

Haphtorah in Isaiah liv. 1–10; the Germans read to lv. 5.

SECTION III. LECH LECHA, לך לך.

CHAPTER XII.

1 ¶ Now the LORD had said unto Abram, Get thee out of thy country, and out thy birthplace, and from thy father's house, unto the land that I will show thee.

2 And I will make of thee a great nation, and I will bless thee, and make thy name great; and thou shalt be a blessing:[a]

3 And I will bless those that bless thee, and him[b] that curseth thee, will I curse; and in thee[c] shall all families of the earth be blessed.

4 So Abram departed, as the LORD had spoken unto him, and Lot went with him; and Abram was seventy and five years old at his departure out of Charan.

5 And Abram took Sarai his wife, and Lot his brother's son, and all their substance that they had acquired, and the persons[d] that they had obtained in Charan; and they went forth to go into the land of Canaan; and they came into the land of Canaan.

6 And Abram passed through the land unto the place[e] of Shechem, unto the plain of Moreh; and the Canaanite was then in the land.

7 And the LORD appeared unto Abram, and said, Unto thy seed will I give this land. And he built there an altar unto the LORD, who had appeared unto him.

lived only six hundred years, and his son four hundred and thirty-eight, till Abraham reached but one hundred and seventy-five years, and in Moses's time the years of man were reduced to mere "threescore and ten." May we not discover in this circumstance a wise Providence? If the people before the flood, trusting in their long stay on earth, forgot their Maker, the speedy accountability in those of later times was well calculated to make them reflect on their conduct. Besides this, the decrease of human life was gradual, which would seem to be owing to the necessity of leaving, in the first ages, life sufficiently long to enable mankind to people the earth by degrees.

[a] "So great shall be thy blessing and prosperity, that thou shalt become a blessing to others; for when a man shall bless his son, he will say to him, May the Lord bless thee with Abraham's blessing."—DUBNO.

[b] "In the singular; for few would curse Abraham, whilst many would bless him."—IDEM.

[c] "Through thee, for thy sake and thy merit."—IDEM.

[d] English version, "souls." "And the souls whom they had subjected to the Law."—ONKELOS. But the simple and evident meaning is, "the servants and followers whom they have obtained control of."

[e] That is, "where Shechem was afterward built."

8 And he removed from there unto the mountain on the east of Beth-el, and pitched his tent, having Beth-el on the west, and 'Ai on the east; and he built there an altar unto the LORD, and called upon the name[a] of the LORD.

9 And Abram journeyed farther, still going on toward the south.

10 ¶ And there arose a famine in the land: and Abram went down into Egypt[b] to sojourn there; for the famine was grievous in the land.

11 And it came to pass, when he was come near to enter into Egypt, that he said unto Sarai his wife, Behold now, I know that thou art a woman of handsome appearance:

12 And it may come to pass, when the Egyptians shall see thee, that they will say, This is his wife; and they may kill me, but thee they will save alive.

13 Say then, I pray thee, thou art my sister, that it may go well with me for thy sake, and my soul live because of thee.*

14 And it came to pass, when Abram was come into Egypt, that the Egyptians beheld the woman that she was very fair.

15 The princes also of Pharaoh saw her, and commended her to Pharaoh; and the woman was taken into Pharaoh's house.

16 And he did well to Abram for her sake; and he received sheep, and oxen, and he-asses, and men-servants, and maid-servants, and she-asses, and camels.

17 But the LORD plagued Pharaoh and his house with great plagues because of Sarai, Abram's wife.

18 And Pharaoh called[c] Abram, and said, What is this that thou hast done unto me? Why didst thou not tell me that she is thy wife?

19 Why saidst thou, She is my sister? and so I took her to me for a wife; now therefore, behold, here is thy wife, take her, and go thy way.

20 And Pharaoh commanded some men concerning him, who accompanied him and his wife, and all that he had.

CHAPTER XIII.

1 And Abram went up out of Egypt, he, and his wife, and all that he had, and Lot with him, into the south.[d]

2 And Abram was very rich in cattle, in silver, and in gold.

3 And he went on his journeys from the south even to Beth-el, unto the place where his tent had been at the beginning, between Beth-el and 'Ai;

4 Unto the place of the altar, which he had made there at the first; and Abram called there on the name of the LORD.*

5 And Lot also, who went with Abram, had flocks, and herds, and tents.

6 And the land was not able to bear them, that they might dwell together; for their substance was great, so that they could not dwell together.

7 And there arose a strife between the herdmen of Abram's cattle, and the herdmen of Lot's cattle: and the Canaanite and the Perizzite dwelled then in the land.

8 And Abram said unto Lot, Let there be no strife, I pray thee, between me and thee, and between my herdmen and thy herdmen; for we are near relatives.

9 Is not the whole land before thee? Separate thyself, I pray thee, from me: if thou wilt take the left hand, then I will go to the right; or if thou depart to the right, then I will go to the left.

10 And Lot lifted up his eyes, and beheld all the plain of Jordan, that it was well watered everywhere; before[e] the LORD destroyed Sodom and Gomorrah, (it was) like the garden of the LORD, like the land of Egypt, till thou comest unto Zoär.

11 Then Lot chose himself all the plain of Jordan; and Lot journeyed east:[f] and they separated themselves the one from the other.

[a] Aben Ezra, "or, called the people together to serve the Lord."

[b] Because Egypt was better cultivated than Canaan, which was generally inhabited by the nomadic tribes in the days of the patriarchs.

[c] That is, "had him called."

[d] The south of Palestine; for, correctly speaking, Abraham travelled northward from Egypt, but still the first part of Palestine he reached on his return was "the south" thereof.

[e] This version, somewhat differing from the English Bible, is according to Rashi and others, and removes the obscurity which otherwise exists. The second part of this verse must thus be regarded as a parathesis explaining the character of the plain of the Jordan, which Lot chose for his habitation.

[f] The same construction again as above, xi. 2, מקדם, "to the east," instead of "from."

12 Abram dwelt in the land of Canaan; and Lot dwelt in the cities of the plain, and pitched his tents, till close to Sodom.

13 But the men of Sodom were wicked and sinners before the LORD exceedingly.

14 And the LORD said unto Abram, after Lot was separated from him, Lift up now thy eyes, and look from the place where thou art, northward, and southward, and eastward, and westward;

15 For all the land which thou seest, to thee will I give it, and to thy seed for ever.

16 And I will make thy seed as the dust of the earth; so that if a man can number the dust of the earth, then shall thy seed also be numbered.

17 Arise, walk through the land in the length of it and in the breadth of it; for unto thee will I give it.

18 Then Abram pitched his tent, and came and dwelt in the grove[a] of Mamré, which is in Hebron; and he built there an altar unto the LORD.*

CHAPTER XIV.

1 ¶ And it came to pass, in the days of Amraphel king of Shinar, Arioch king of Ellasar, Kedorlaomer king of Elam, and Tidal king of Goyim;

2 That these made war with Bera king of Sodom, and with Birsha king of Gomorrah, Shinab king of Admah, and Shemeber king of Zeboyim, and the king of Bela, which is Zoär.

3 All these joined together in the vale of Siddim, which is now the salt sea.

4 Twelve years had they served Kedorlaomer, but in the thirteenth year they rebelled.

5 And in the fourteenth year came Kedorlaomer, and the kings that were with him, and they smote the Rephaïm in Ashteroth-karnayim, and the Zuzim in Ham, and the Emim in Shaveh-kiriathayim,

6 And the Horites in their mountain Seïr, unto El-paran, which is by the wilderness.

7 And they returned, and came to En-mishpat, which is Kadesh, and smote all the country of the Amalekites, and also the Emorites, that dwelt in Hazezon-tamar.

8 And then went out the king of Sodom, and the king of Gomorrah, and the king of Admah, and the king of Zeboyim, and the king of Bela, (the same is Zoär;) and they joined battle with them in the vale of Siddim;

9 With Kedorlaomer king of Elam, and with Tidal king of Goyim, and Amraphel king of Shinar, and Arioch king of Ellasar; four kings with five.

10 And the vale of Siddim was full of slime-pits; and the kings of Sodom and Gomorrah fled, and fell therein;[b] and they that remained fled to the mountain.

11 And they took all the goods of Sodom and Gomorrah, and all their victuals, and went their way.

12 And they took Lot, Abram's brother's son, who dwelt in Sodom, and his goods, and departed.

13 And there came one that had escaped, and told it to Abram the Hebrew; but he dwelt in the grove of Mamré the Emorite, brother of Eshcol, and brother of Aner, and these were confederates of Abram.

14 And when Abram heard that his brother[c] was taken captive, he armed his trained servants, born in his own house, three hundred and eighteen, and pursued them unto Dan.[d]

15 And he divided himself against them, he and his servants, by night, and smote them, and pursued them unto Hobah, which is on the left hand of Damascus.

16 And he brought back all the goods; and he also brought again his brother Lot, and his goods, and also the women, and the people.

17 And the king of Sodom went out to meet him (after his return from smiting Kedorlaomer, and the kings that were with him)

[a] Mendelssohn, after Aben Ezra, translates the word אלון in this manner, since it is used to express "tree" in many places. Onkelos, however, calls it "plain."

[b] The pits. Compare with Exod. xxi. 33, where שמה, like here, refers to the pit into which the animal falls; not "there," as in the English version.

[c] Brother, in Hebrew, denotes frequently a near relative, for above he is called, as he was, Abram's brother's son.

[d] Perhaps another city than the ancient Laïsh, though evidently in the same neighbourhood. If a conjecture may be hazarded, it may have been a place of resort for judgment, from דין din, in the north, as 'En-mishpat, i. e. "the spring of judgment," was at the south of Palestine at the valley of Shaveh, which is the kings' dale.

18 And Malkizedek king of Salem brought forth bread and wine; and he was a priest of the most high God.

19 And he blessed him, and said, Blessed be Abram of the most high God, the possessor of heaven and earth.

20 And blessed be the most high God, who hath delivered thy enemies into thy hand. And he gave him tithes of all.*

21 And the king of Sodom said unto Abram, Give me the persons, and the goods take to thyself.

22 And Abram said to the king of Sodom, I have lifted up my hand unto the LORD, the most high God, the possessor of heaven and earth,

23 That I will not[a] take from a thread even to a shoe-latchet, and that I will not take any thing that is thine; lest thou shouldst say, I have made Abram rich:

24 Save only that which the young men have eaten, and the portion of the men who went with me, Aner, Eshcol, and Mamré—these may take their portion.

CHAPTER XV.

1 ¶ After these things the word of the LORD came unto Abram in a vision, saying, Fear not, Abram; I am thy shield, thy reward shall be exceedingly great.

2 And Abram said, LORD God, what wilt thou give me, seeing I go childless, and the steward of my house is Eliëzer of Damascus?

3 And Abram said, Behold to me thou hast given no seed; and lo, one born in my house will be my heir.

4 And behold, the word of the LORD came unto him, saying, This one shall not be thy heir; but he that shall come forth out of thy own bowels shall be thy heir.

5 And he brought him forth abroad, and said, Look now toward the heaven, and count the stars, if thou be able to count them; and he said unto him, So shall thy seed be.

6 And he believed in the LORD; and he accounted it to him for righteousness.*

7 And he said unto him, I am the LORD that brought thee out of Ur of the Chaldees, to give unto thee this land, to inherit it.

8 And he said, LORD God, whereby shall I know that I shall inherit it?

9 And he said unto him, Take me a heifer of three[b] years old, and a she-goat of three years old, and a ram of three years old, and a turtle-dove, and a young pigeon.

10 And he took unto him all these, and divided them in the midst, and laid each piece one opposite the other; but the birds he did not divide.

11 And the birds of prey came down upon the carcasses; but Abram drove them away.

12 And when the sun was about going down, a deep sleep fell upon Abram; and lo, a horror, dark and great, fell upon him.

13 And he said unto Abram, Know of a surety that thy seed shall be a stranger in a land which is not theirs, and they[c] will make them serve, and they will afflict them four hundred years.

14 And also that nation whom they shall serve, will I judge; and afterward shall they go out with great substance.

15 But thou shalt come to thy fathers in peace; thou shalt be buried in a good old age.

16 Yet the fourth[d] generation shall come hither again; for the iniquity of the Emorites will not be full until then.

17 And it came to pass, when the sun had gone down, and it was dark, that behold a smoking furnace, and a burning flame,[e] which passed between those pieces.

18 On the same day the LORD made a covenant with Abram, saying, Unto thy seed have I given this land, from the river of Egypt unto the great river, the river Euphrates;

19 The Kenites, and the Kenizzites, and the Kadmonites,

20 And the Hittites, and the Perizzites, and the Rephaïm,

[a] Abraham's disinterestedness and true faith. God had promised to make him great; and hence, though he had expended time and treasure, and exposed his life in the assault he made upon the conquerors of many nations, he refused to be benefited through the munificent offer of the king of Sodom.

[b] Onkelos and Rashi render, "three heifers," &c.

[c] The inhabitants of the land wherein the seed of Abraham was to dwell: see next verse.

[d] The fourth generation of those who go down to that land, which was Egypt.—RASHI.

[e] It was customary in olden times, for contracting parties to cut up animals and pass alternately through the pieces, (Jer. xxxiv. 18;) therefore was the fire seen passing through the members of the animals which Abraham had placed, as the evident representative of the Lord who that day made "the covenant between the pieces" with the patriarch.

21 And the Emorites, and the Canaanites, and the Girgashites, and the Jebusites.

CHAPTER XVI.

1 ¶ Now Sarai, Abram's wife, bore him no children; and she had an Egyptian handmaid, whose name was Hagar.

2 And Sarai said unto Abram, Behold now, the LORD hath restrained me from bearing: go in, I pray thee, unto my maid; it may be that I may obtain[a] children by her. And Abram hearkened to the voice of Sarai.

3 And Sarai, Abram's wife, took Hagar, the Egyptian, her maid, after Abram had dwelt ten years in the land[b] of Canaan, and gave her to her husband Abram to be his wife.

4 And he went in unto Hagar, and she conceived; and when she saw that she had conceived, her mistress became of little esteem in her eyes.

5 And Sarai said unto Abram, I suffer[c] wrong through thee; I have placed my maid into thy bosom; and when she saw that she had conceived, I became of little esteem in her eyes: may the LORD judge between me and thee.

6 But Abram said unto Sarai, Behold, thy maid is in thy hand; do to her as it pleaseth thee. And when Sarai dealt hardly with her, she fled from her face.

7 And an angel of the LORD found her by a fountain of water in the wilderness, by the fountain on the way to Shur.

8 And he said, Hagar, Sarai's maid, whence camest thou? and whither wilt thou go? And she said, From the face of my mistress Sarai I am fleeing.

9 And the angel of the LORD said unto her, Return to thy mistress, and submit thyself under her hands.

10 And the angel of the LORD said unto her, I will multiply thy seed exceedingly, that it shall not be numbered for multitude.

11 And the angel of the LORD said unto her, Behold, thou art with child, and wilt bear a son, and thou shalt call his name Ishmael;[d] because the LORD hath heard thy affliction.

12 And he will be a wild man; his hand will be against every man, and every man's hand against him; and in the presence of all his brethren shall he dwell.

13 And she called the name of the LORD that spoke unto her, Thou art an all-seeing God; for she said, Have I not also seen here a vision after he appeared to me?[e]

14 Wherefore the well was called Beër-lachai-roï:[f] behold, it is between Kadesh and Bered.

15 And Hagar bore Abram a son; and Abram called the name of his son, whom Hagar bore, Ishmael.

16 And Abram was eighty and six years old, when Hagar bore Ishmael to Abram.

CHAPTER XVII.

1 And when Abram was ninety and nine years old, the LORD appeared to Abram, and said unto him, I am the Almighty[g] God; walk before me, and be thou perfect.

2 And I will make my covenant between me and thee, and I will multiply thee exceedingly.

3 And Abram fell on his face, and God spoke with him, saying,

4 As for me, behold my covenant is with thee, and thou shalt become the father of a multitude of nations.

5 Neither shall thy name any more be called Abram, but thy name shall be Abraham; for the father of a multitude of nations have I made thee.

6 And I will make thee exceedingly fruit-

[a] Heb. "Be built up from her."

[b] Literally, "at the end of ten years of Abram's residence in," &c.

[c] Others render, "My wrong be upon thee."

[d] Yishmang-el, "God will hear."

[e] This version is according to Onkelos. Mendelssohn's version is: "Thou art a visible God; for she said, Have I then seen any thing after he that saw me had departed?" Aruheim again is very bold: "Thou art the God of the appearance (of prophecy); for she said, Do I now see here the least, after I have seen (clearly)?" A. distinguishes between Roï or Marah, מראה or ראי, "appearance, indistinct vision," and Roch or Mareh, ראה, מראה, "distinct seeing and clear vision." (See also Numb. xii, 6, 8.) Hagar then meant that God was merely such a one as appears to man in an indistinct, shadowy vision or image, not a substantial bodily being; since she saw nothing any more after she had had the object speaking before her.—It is a difficult verse, and Onkelos seems to me to be nearer the truth than the later authorities.

[f] "The well where the angel of the Living One was made manifest."—ONKELOS.

[g] This, EL-SHADDAI, is the first appellation which we find God to have assumed: the other terms were merely applied to him by mankind. The second revelation of his name is in Exodus vi. 2, 3.

ful, and I will cause thee to become nations; and kings shall come out of thee.*

7 And I will establish my covenant between me and thee and between thy seed after thee in their generations for an everlasting covenant: to be a God unto thee, and to thy seed after thee.

8 And I will give unto thee, and to thy seed after thee, the land wherein thou sojournest, all the land of Canaan, for an everlasting possession; and I will be their God.

9 And God said unto Abraham, But thou, for thy part, shalt keep my covenant, thou, and thy seed after thee, in their generations.

10 This is my covenant, which ye shall keep, between me and between you, and between thy seed after thee: Every man-child among you shall be circumcised.

11 And ye shall circumcise the flesh of your foreskin; and this shall serve as the token of the covenant between me and you.

12 And at eight days old shall every man-child in your generations be circumcised among you, he that is born in the house, or bought with money of any stranger, who is not of thy seed.

13 He that is born in thy house, and he that is bought with thy money, must needs be circumcised; and my covenant shall be in your flesh for an everlasting covenant.

14 And any uncircumcised male,[a] who circumciseth not the flesh of his foreskin, that soul shall be cut off from his people; he hath broken my covenant.

15 ¶ And God said unto Abraham, As for Sarai thy wife, thou shalt not call her name Sarai, but Sarah[b] shall her name be.

16 And I will bless her, and give thee also a son of her; yea I will bless her, and she shall become a mother of nations; kings of people shall spring from her.

17 Then Abraham fell upon his face, and laughed; and he said in his heart, Shall a child be born unto him that is a hundred years old? and shall Sarah, who is ninety years old, bear?

18 And Abraham said unto God, O that Ishmael might live before thee![c]

19 And God said, Truly, Sarah thy wife shall bear thee a son; and thou shalt call his name Isaac;[d] and I will establish my covenant with him for an everlasting covenant, for his seed after him.

20 And as for Ishmael, I have heard thee: behold, I have blessed him, and will make him fruitful, and will multiply him exceedingly; twelve princes shall he beget, and I will make of him a great nation.

21 But my covenant will I establish with Isaac, whom Sarah shall bear unto thee at this set time in the next year.

22 And when he had left off talking with him, God went up from Abraham.

23 And Abraham now took Ishmael his son, and all that were born in his house, and all that were bought with his money, every male among the men of Abraham's house; and he circumcised the flesh of their foreskin on the self-same day, as God had spoken unto him.*

24 And Abraham was ninety and nine years old, when he was circumcised in the flesh of his foreskin.

25 And Ishmael his son was thirteen years old, when he was circumcised in the flesh of his foreskin.

26 On the self-same day was Abraham circumcised, with Ishmael his son.

27 And all the men of his house, born in the house, and bought with money of the stranger, were circumcised with him.

SECTION IV. VAYERA, וירא.

CHAPTER XVIII.

1 And the LORD appeared unto him in the grove of Mamré; while he was sitting at the door of the tent in the heat of the day.

2 And he lifted up his eyes and looked, and lo, three men stood near him; and when he saw them, he ran to meet them from the door of the tent, and bowed himself to the ground;

3 And he said, My Lord, if now I have found favour in thy eyes, pass not away, I pray thee, from thy servant.

4 Let a little water, I pray you, be fetched,

[a] "When a person has reached the age of thirteen."—RASHI.

[b] "Princess." So Abraham signifies Abîr-hamone, a chief of a multitude; or, Ab-hamone, the father of a multitude: the first is from Dubno's Commentary, the second from Rashi.

[c] That is, "to please thee."

and wash your feet, and rest yourselves under the tree.

5 And I will fetch a morsel of bread, and comfort ye your heart, after that ye may pass on; since ye have once passed by your servant. And they said, So do, as thou hast spoken.

6 And Abraham hastened into the tent unto Sarah, and said, Make ready quickly three measures of fine meal, knead it, and make cakes.

7 And Abraham ran unto the herd, and fetched a calf tender and good, and gave it unto a young man, and he hastened to dress it.

8 And he took cream and milk, and the calf which he had dressed, and set it before them; and he stood by them under the tree, and they did eat.

9 And they said unto him, Where is Sarah thy wife? And he said, Behold, in the tent.

10 And he said, I will certainly return unto thee at this time next year;[a] and lo, Sarah thy wife shall have a son. And Sarah heard it at the door of the tent, which was behind him.

11 Now Abraham and Sarah were old and well stricken in years; it had ceased to be with Sarah after the manner of women.

12 Therefore Sarah laughed within herself, saying, After I am waxed old shall I have pleasure, my lord also being old?

13 And the LORD said unto Abraham, Wherefore did Sarah laugh, saying, Shall I of a surety bear a child, since I am old?

14 Is any thing too hard for the LORD? At the time appointed I will return unto thee, at this time next year, and Sarah shall have a son.*

15 Then Sarah denied, saying, I laughed not; for she was afraid; but he said, Nay; indeed thou didst laugh.

16 And the men rose up from there and looked toward Sodom; and Abraham went with them to bring them on the way.

17 And the LORD said, Shall I hide from Abraham what I am about doing?

18 Seeing that Abraham shall surely become a great and mighty nation, and all the nations of the earth shall be blessed in him?

19 For I know[b] him, that he will command his children and his household after him, that they shall keep the way of the LORD, to do righteousness and justice; in order that the LORD may bring upon Abraham that which he hath spoken concerning him.

20 And the LORD said, Because the cry against Sodom and Gomorrah is great, and because their sin is very grievous:

21 I will go down now, and see, if they have done according to the cry against them, which is come unto me, destruction (shall come upon them); and if not, I will know[c] it.

22 And the men turned their faces from there, and went toward Sodom; but Abraham stood yet before the LORD.

23 And Abraham drew near, and said, Wilt thou then destroy the righteous also with the wicked?

24 Peradventure there are fifty righteous within the city; wilt thou then also destroy and not spare[d] the place for the sake of the fifty righteous that are therein?

25 Far be it from thee to do after this manner, to slay the righteous with the wicked, and that the righteous should be as the wicked;[e] far be this from thee; shall the Judge of all the earth not exercise justice?

26 And the LORD said, If I find in Sodom fifty righteous within the city, then will I spare all the place for their sake.

27 And Abraham answered and said, Behold now, I have taken upon me to speak unto the Lord, although I am but dust and ashes:

28 Peradventure there will lack five of the fifty righteous; wilt thou then destroy all the

[a] Rashi. Arnheim very ingeniously renders it, "at the time of the recovery," i. e. of Sarah, after the birth of the promised child, taking חיה for recovery.

[b] "Love him, because he," &c.—RASHI. "It is revealed before me that."—ONKELOS.

[c] "I will spare them."—ABEN EZRA and MENDELSSOHN. Onkelos agrees with this, but adds, "if they repent," against the previous complete destruction "if they do not repent." Rashi explains, "I will visit them with sufferings, but not make an end of them."

[d] Others render, "Pardon the place."

[e] For in case an indiscriminate destruction of the cities should take place, all the inhabitants, whether good or wicked, would necessarily have to share the same fate; Abraham therefore asked that the mercy which the righteous deserved, might, in order to save them, stay the doom which was impending over the cities in which they dwelt; and being at once assured that divine justice would discriminate, he grew bolder in his prayer, till at length he was certified that even ten should cause the suspension of the punishment.

city for the (lack of) these five? And he said, I will not destroy, if I find there forty and five.

29 And he spoke yet again unto him, and said, Peradventure there will be found there forty. And he said, I will not do it for the sake of the forty.

30 And he said, Oh, let not the Lord be angry, and I will speak: Peradventure there will be found there thirty. And he said, I will not do it, if I find there thirty.

31 And he said, Behold now, I have taken upon me to speak unto the Lord: Peradventure there will be found there twenty. And he said, I will not destroy, for the sake of the twenty.

32 And he said, Oh, let not the Lord be angry, and I will speak yet but this once: Peradventure there will be found there ten. And he said, I will not destroy, for the sake of the ten.

33 And the LORD went away, when he had finished speaking with Abraham; and Abraham returned unto his place.*

CHAPTER XIX.

1 And the two angels came to Sodom in the evening, and Lot was sitting in the gate of Sodom; and when Lot saw them he rose up to meet them, and he bowed himself with his face to the ground.

2 And he said, Behold now, my lords, turn in, I pray you, into your servant's house, and tarry all night, and wash your feet, and ye can rise up early, and go on your way. And they said, Nay; but we will abide in the street all night.

3 And he pressed upon them greatly, and they turned in unto him, and entered into his house; and he made them a feast, and baked unleavened bread, and they did eat.

4 But before they had lain down, the men of the city, even the men of Sodom, compassed the house round, both old and young, all the people from every quarter:

5 And they called unto Lot, and said unto him, Where are the men who came in to thee this night? bring them out unto us, that we may know them.

6 And Lot went out unto them, at the entrance (of the house), and shut the door after him,

7 And he said, I pray you, my brethren, do not act wickedly.

8 Behold now, I have two daughters who have not known man; let me, I pray you, bring them out unto you, and do ye to them as is good in your eyes; only unto these men do nothing, since they have once come under the shadow of my roof.

9 And they said, Stand back. And they said, This one man came in to sojourn, and he will needs be a judge; now will we deal worse with thee than with them. And they pressed sorely upon the man Lot, and they came near to break the door.

10 But the men put forth their hand, and pulled Lot to them into the house, and the door they locked.

11 And the men that were at the entrance of the house they smote with blindness, both small and great, so that they wearied themselves to find the entrance.

12 And the men said unto Lot, Hast thou here any besides? a son-in-law, and thy sons, and thy daughters, and whatsoever thou hast in the city, bring out of this place.

13 For we will destroy this place, because the cry[a] against them is waxed great before the face of the LORD; and the LORD hath sent us to destroy it.

14 And Lot went out and spoke unto his sons-in-law, who were to marry[b] his daughters, and said, Arise, get yourselves out of this place, for the LORD will destroy this city; but he seemed as one that jesteth in the eyes of his sons-in-law.

15 And as the morning dawn arose, the angels urged Lot, saying, Arise, take thy wife, and thy two daughters that are here, lest thou be consumed for the iniquity of the city.

16 And while he yet lingered, the men laid hold of his hand, and of the hand of his wife, and of the hand of his two daughters, because the LORD desired to spare him; and they brought him forth, and set him without the city.

17 And it came to pass, when they had

[a] "Cry" means that the greatness of the sin has become so apparent as to demand, "cry out for," vengeance against the transgressors. See above, iv. 10; xviii. 20, 21.

[b] Mendelssohn, who understands the participle in the text as "about to take;" but Rashi divides the words so, "His sons-in law,—he had two daughters married in the city; the takers of his daughters,—those to whom those at home were betrothed." Aben Ezra also coincides with this.

brought them forth abroad, that he said, Escape for thy life, look not behind thee, neither stay thou in all the plain; escape to the mountain, lest thou be consumed.

18 And Lot said unto them, Oh, not so, my lord!

19 Behold now, thy servant hath found grace in thy eyes, and thou hast magnified thy kindness, which thou hast showed unto me in saving my life; and I cannot escape to the mountain, lest the evil overtake me, and I die.

20 Behold now, this city is near to flee thereunto, and it is little; oh, let me, I pray thee, escape thither, (as it is but little,) that my life may be saved.[a]

21 And he said unto him, See, I have favoured thee concerning this thing also, that I will not overthrow this city, of which thou hast spoken.

22 Haste thee, escape thither; for I cannot do any thing till thou hast come thither. Therefore was the name of the city called Zoär.[a]

23 The sun rose over the earth, when Lot entered into Zoär.

24 And the LORD rained upon Sodom and upon Gomorrah brimstone and fire, from the LORD, out of heaven;

25 And he overthrew those cities, and all the plain, and all the inhabitants of the cities, and that which grew upon the ground.

26 But his wife looked back from behind him, and she became a pillar of salt.

27 And Abraham got up early in the morning to the place where he had stood before the LORD:

28 And he looked toward Sodom and Gomorrah, and toward all the land of the plain, and beheld, and lo, smoke went up from the earth as the smoke of a furnace.[b]

29 And it came to pass, when God destroyed the cities of the plain, that God remembered Abraham,[c] and sent Lot away out of the midst of the overthrow, when he overthrew the cities in the which Lot had dwelt.

30 And Lot went up out of Zoär, and dwelt in the mountain, and his two daughters with him, for he feared to dwell in Zoär; and he dwelt in a cave, he, and his two daughters.

31 And the first-born said unto the younger, Our father is old, and there is not a man in the country to come in unto us after the manner of all the earth:

32 Come, let us make our father drink wine, and we will lie with him, that we may preserve seed of our father.

33 And they made their father drink wine that night; and the first-born went in, and lay with her father, and he perceived not when she lay down, nor when she arose.

34 And it came to pass on the morrow, that the first-born said unto the younger, Behold, I lay yesternight with my father; let us make him drink wine this night also, and go thou in, and lie with him, that we may preserve seed of our father.

35 And they made their father drink wine that night also; and the younger arose, and lay with him, and he perceived not when she lay down, nor when she arose.

36 And both the daughters of Lot became with child by their father.

37 And the first-born bore a son, and called his name Moäb;[d] the same is the father of the Moäbites unto this day.

38 And the younger, she also bore a son, and called his name Ben-ammi:[e] the same is the father of the children of Ammon unto this day.

CHAPTER XX.

1 ¶ And Abraham journeyed from there toward the south country, and dwelt between Kadesh and Shur, and sojourned in Gerar.

2 And Abraham said of Sarah his wife, She is my sister; and Abimelech the king of Gerar sent and took Sarah.

3 But God came to Abimelech in a dream by night,[f] and said to him, Behold, thou shalt die for the sake of the woman whom thou hast taken; for she is a man's wife.

4 But Abimelech had not come near to her; and he said, Lord, wilt thou then slay also a righteous nation?[a]

5 Said he not unto me, She is my sister? and she, even she herself, said, He is my brother; in the integrity of my heart and the innocency of my hands have I done this.

6 And God said unto him in the dream, Yea, I also well know that thou hast done this in the integrity of thy heart; therefore did I also withhold thee from sinning against me; for this cause I suffered thee not to touch her.

7 And now restore the man's wife, for he is a prophet, and he will pray for thee, that thou mayest live; and if thou restore her not, know thou, that thou shalt surely die, thou and all that are thine.

8 And Abimelech rose early in the morning, and called all his servants, and told all these things in their hearing; and the men were greatly afraid.

9 Then Abimelech called Abraham, and said unto him, What hast thou done unto us? and in what have I offended thee, that thou hast brought on me and on my kingdom a great sin? deeds that ought not to be done thou hast done unto me.

10 And Abimelech said unto Abraham, What sawest thou, that thou didst this thing?

11 And Abraham said, Because I thought, Surely there is no fear of God in this place,[b] and they will slay me for the sake of my wife.

12 And yet indeed she is my sister, the daughter of my father, but not the daughter of my mother; and she became my wife.

13 And it came to pass, when God[c] caused me to wander from my father's house, that I said unto her, This is thy kindness which thou shalt show unto me; at every place whither we shall come, say of me, He is my brother.

14 And Abimelech took sheep, and oxen, and men-servants, and women-servants, and gave them unto Abraham, and restored to him Sarah his wife.

15 And Abimelech said, Behold, my land is before thee: dwell where it is pleasing in thy eyes.

16 And unto Sarah he said, Behold, I have given thy brother a thousand pieces of silver: behold, this is to thee a covering of the eyes[d] unto all that are with thee; and with all others thou canst thus justify thyself."

17 And Abraham prayed unto God; and God healed Abimelech, and his wife, and his maid-servants, so that they could bear children.

18 For the Lord had fast closed up every womb of the house of Abimelech, because of Sarah, Abraham's wife.

CHAPTER XXI.

1 ¶ And the Lord visited Sarah as he had said, and the Lord did unto Sarah as he had spoken.

2 And Sarah conceived, and bore unto Abraham a son in his old age, at the appointed time of which God had spoken to him.

3 And Abraham called the name of his son that was born unto him, whom Sarah bore to him, Isaac.

4 And Abraham circumcised his son Isaac, at eight days old, as God had commanded him.[*]

5 And Abraham was a hundred years old, when his son Isaac was born unto him.

6 And Sarah said, God hath made me joy,[f] whoever heareth it will laugh concerning me.

7 And she said, Who would have said unto Abraham, that Sarai should have given children suck? yet I have born a son in his old age.

8 And the child grew, and was weaned; and Abraham made a great feast on the day that Isaac was weaned.

9 And Sarah saw the son of Hagar the Egyptian, whom she had born unto Abraham, mocking.

10 Wherefore she said unto Abraham, Cast out this bond-woman and her son; for the son

[a] This speech of Abimelech proves that the nations of Palestine were acquainted with the moral laws: hence their transgressions were sinful.

[b] The beauty, therefore, of his wife would expose him to the violence of those who might desire to possess themselves of her against his will.

of this bond-woman shall not be heir with my son, with Isaac.

11 And the thing was very grievous in Abraham's eyes, because of his son.

12 And God said unto Abraham, Let it not be grievous in thy eyes because of the lad, and because of thy bond-woman; in all that Sarah may say unto thee, hearken unto her voice; for in Isaac[a] shall thy seed be called.

13 And also of the son of the bond-woman will I make a nation, because he is thy seed.

14 And Abraham rose up early in the morning, and took bread, and a bottle[b] of water, and gave it unto Hagar, putting it on her shoulder, and the child, and sent her away; and she departed, and wandered astray in the wilderness of Beër-sheba.

15 And the water was spent from the bottle, and she cast the child under one of the shrubs.

16 And she went, and seated herself down at some distance, a good way off, about a bow-shot; for she said, I cannot look on when the child dieth; so she sat at a distance, and lifted up her voice, and wept.

17 And God heard the voice of the lad; and an angel of God called to Hagar out of heaven, and said unto her, What aileth thee, Hagar? Fear not; for God hath heard the voice of the lad, there where he is.

18 Arise, lift up the lad, and lay hold on him with thy hand; for I will make of him a great nation.

19 And God opened her eyes, and she saw a well of water: and she went, and filled the bottle with water, and gave the lad drink.

20 And God was with the lad; and he grew up, and dwelt in the wilderness, and became an archer.

21 And he dwelt in the wilderness of Paran; and his mother took him a wife out of the land of Egypt.*

22 ¶ And it came to pass at that time, that Abimelech, and Phichol the chief captain of his host, spoke unto Abraham, saying, God is with thee in all that thou doest:

23 Now therefore swear unto me here by God, that thou wilt not deal falsely with me, nor with my son, nor with my son's son; (but) according to the kindness that I have done unto thee, shalt thou do unto me, and to the land wherein thou hast sojourned.

24 And Abraham said, I will swear.

25 And Abraham reproved Abimelech because of a well of water, which Abimelech's servants had violently taken away.

26 And Abimelech said, I know not who hath done this thing: neither didst thou tell me; nor have I heard of it except this day.

27 And Abraham took sheep and oxen, and gave them unto Abimelech; and both of them made a covenant.

28 And Abraham set seven ewe-lambs of the flock, by themselves.

29 And Abimelech said unto Abraham; What mean these seven ewe-lambs which thou hast set by themselves?

30 And he said, For these seven ewe-lambs shalt thou take from my hand, that they may be a witness unto me that I have dug this well.

31 Wherefore he called that place Beër-sheba;[c] because there they swore, both of them.

32 Thus they made a covenant at Beër-sheba; then Abimelech rose up, and Phichol the chief captain of his host, and they returned into the land of the Philistines.

33 And Abraham planted an orchard[d] in Beër-sheba, and called there on the name of the LORD, the God of everlasting.

34 And Abraham sojourned in the land of the Philistines many days.*

CHAPTER XXII.

1 ¶ And it came to pass after these things, that God did tempt[e] Abraham, and he said unto him, Abraham, and he said, Behold, here am I.

[a] The blessing made on a previous occasion, that all nations should be blessed through the seed of Abraham, was to be accomplished through Isaac and his descendants, to the exclusion of Ishmael and the other children that Abraham might have.

[b] The water-skin in which travellers carry the necessary supply on their journey through the wilderness.

[c] "Well of the oath." [d] Rashi, after the Talmud.

[e] The word "tempt" here must be taken in the sense of proving, i. e. God proved Abraham's constancy by the command to sacrifice Isaac. All the other proofs of faith hitherto demanded of him were to be crowned by the willingness to sacrifice up to the will of God his dearest hope, the child in whom all the blessings promised him should be accomplished; still he obeyed, and did not complain of the apparent inconsistency of the divine promise with the present injunction of destroying the very child through whom this blessing could alone be fulfilled.

2 And he said, Take now thy son, thy only one, whom thou lovest, even Isaac, and get thee into the land of Moriah; and offer him there for a burnt-offering upon one of the mountains which I will tell thee of.

3 And Abraham rose up early in the morning, and saddled his ass, and took two of his young men with him, and Isaac his son; and he clave the wood for the burnt-offering, and arose,[a] and went unto the place of which God had told him.

4 On the third day Abraham lifted up his eyes, and saw the place afar off.

5 And Abraham said unto his young men, Abide ye here with the ass, and I and the lad will go yonder, and we will worship,[b] and then come again to you.

6 And Abraham took the wood for the burnt-offering, and laid it upon Isaac his son; and he took in his hand the fire and the knife; and they went both of them together.

7 And Isaac spoke unto Abraham his father, and said, My father; and he said, Here am I, my son. And he said, Behold, here is the fire and the wood; but where is the lamb for a burnt-offering?

8 And Abraham said, God will provide himself the lamb for a burnt-offering, my son;[c] so they went both of them together.

9 And they came to the place which God had told him of; and Abraham built there an altar, and laid the wood in order, and bound Isaac his son, and laid him on the altar above the wood.

10 And Abraham stretched forth his hand, and took the knife to slay his son.

11 But the angel of the LORD called unto him out of heaven, and said, Abraham, Abraham; and he said, Here am I.

12 And he said, Lay not thy hand upon the lad, neither do thou the least unto him; for now I know that thou fearest God, seeing that thou hast not withheld thy son, thy only one, from me.

13 And Abraham lifted up his eyes, and looked, and behold, there was a ram that was afterward caught in a thicket by his horns; and Abraham went and took the ram, and offered him up for a burnt-offering in the stead of his son.

14 And Abraham called the name of that place, Adonai-yireh:[d] as it is said to this day,[e] On the mount of the LORD it shall be seen.[f]

15 And the angel of the LORD called unto Abraham the second time out of heaven,

16 And said, By myself have I sworn, saith the LORD, since, because thou hast done this thing, and hast not withheld thy son, thy only one:

17 That I will greatly bless thee, and I will exceedingly multiply thy seed as the stars of the heaven, and as the sand which is upon the sea-shore; and thy seed shall possess the gate of his enemies;

18 And in thy seed shall all the nations of the earth be blessed; because that thou hast obeyed my voice.

19 And Abraham returned unto his young men; and they rose up, and went together to Beër-sheba; and Abraham dwelt at Beër-sheba.*

20 ¶ And it came to pass after these things, that it was told to Abraham, saying, Behold, Milcah, she also, hath born children unto Nachor thy brother;

21 'Uz his first born, and Buz his brother, and Kemuël the father of Aram, 22 And Kesed, and Chazo, and Pildash, and Yidlaph, and Bethuël.

23 And Bethuël begat Rebekah; these eight did Milcah bear to Nachor, Abraham's brother.

24 And his concubine, whose name was Reümah, she also bore Tebach, and Gacham, and Thachash, and Maachah.

SECTION V. CHAYÉ SARAH, חיי שרה.

CHAPTER XXIII.

1 ¶ And the lifetime of Sarah was a hundred and twenty-seven years; (these) were the years of the life of Sarah.

2 And Sarah died[a] in Kiryath-arba, the same is Hebron in the land of Canaan: and Abraham came to mourn for Sarah, and to weep for her.

3 And Abraham stood up from before his dead, and spoke unto the sons of Heth, saying,

4 A stranger and a sojourner I am with you; give me a possession for a burying-place with you, that I may bury my dead out of my sight.

5 And the children of Heth answered Abraham, saying unto him:

6 Hear us, my lord; a prince of God thou art among us; in the choice of our sepulchres bury thy dead; none of us shall withhold from thee his sepulchre, so that thou mayest bury thy dead.

7 And Abraham stood up and bowed himself to the people of the land, to the children of Heth.

8 And he spoke with them, saying, If it be your mind that I should bury my dead out of my sight, hear me, and intercede for me with Ephron the son of Zochar,

9 That he may give me the cave of Machpelah, which is his, which is at the end of his field; for as much money as it is worth he shall give it me, for a possession as a burying-place amongst you.

10 And Ephron dwelt among the children of Heth; and Ephron the Hittite answered Abraham in the hearing of the children of Heth, of all those that went in at the gate of his city, saying,

11 Nay, my lord, hear me: the field I give to thee, and the cave that is therein, I give it to thee; in the presence of the sons of my people do I give it thee; bury thy dead.

12 And Abraham bowed himself down before the people of the land.

13 And he spoke unto Ephron in the hearing of the people of the land, saying, But if thou wouldst only hear me; I will give the money for the field, take it of me, and I will bury my dead there.

14 And Ephron answered Abraham, saying unto him,

15 My lord, hearken unto me: a piece of land worth four hundred shekels of silver, what is that between me and thee? only bury thy dead.

16 And Abraham understood[b] the meaning of Ephron; and Abraham weighed out to Ephron the silver which he had named in the hearing of the sons of Heth, four hundred shekels of silver, current with the merchant.*

17 And the field of Ephron, which was in Machpelah, which was before Mamré, the field, and the cave which was therein, and all the trees that were in the field, that were in all its borders round about, were made sure

18 Unto Abraham for a bought possession in the presence of the children of Heth, before all that went in at the gate of his city.

19 And after this, Abraham buried Sarah his wife in the cave of the field of Machpelah, before Mamré, which is Hebron, in the land of Canaan.

20 And the field, with the cave that is therein, was made sure unto Abraham for a possession as a burying-place by the sons of Heth.

CHAPTER XXIV.

1 ¶ And Abraham was old, well stricken in years; and the LORD had blessed Abraham in all things.

2 And Abraham said unto his servant, the eldest of his house, who ruled over all that he had, Put, I pray thee, thy hand under my thigh:

3 And I will make thee swear by the LORD, the God of heaven, and the God of the earth, that thou shalt not take a wife unto my son from the daughters of the Canaanites,[c] among whom I dwell.

4 But unto my country, and to my birthplace shalt thou go, and take a wife unto my son, unto Isaac.

[a] It is the opinion of commentators that Sarah died in consequence of the grief she experienced when hearing that Abraham had gone to sacrifice Isaac.

[b] Ephron had pretended great anxiety to give the land to Abraham; but when he mentioned the value, Abraham at once understood his price, and weighed out the amount which Ephron required.

[c] That the descendants of those cursed by the father of the new generation of man, should not mingle with those blessed. (Gen. ix. 29.)—DUBNO.

5 And the servant said unto him, Peradventure the woman will not be willing to follow me unto this land: must I then bring thy son again unto the land from which thou camest?

6 And Abraham said unto him, Beware thou, that thou bring not my son thither again.

7 The LORD, the God of heaven, who took me from my father's house, and from the land of my birth, and who spoke unto me, and who swore unto me, saying, Unto thy seed will I give this land: he will send his angel before thee, and thou shalt take a wife unto my son from there.

8 But if the woman should not be willing to follow thee, then shalt thou be clear from this my oath: only my son thou shalt not bring thither again.

9 And the servant put his hand under the thigh of Abraham his master, and swore to him concerning this matter.*

10 And the servant took ten camels of the camels of his master, and departed, with all kinds of precious things[a] of his master in his hand; and he arose, and went to Mesopotamia,[b] unto the city of Nachor.

11 And he made the camels to kneel down without the city by a well of water at the time of the evening, at the time that the women go[c] out to draw water.

12 And he said, O LORD, the God of my master Abraham, I pray thee, send me good speed this day, and deal kindly with my master Abraham.

13 Behold, I stand[d] by the well of water; and the daughters of the men of the city come out to draw water:

14 And let it come to pass, that the maiden to whom I shall say, Let down thy pitcher, I pray thee, that I may drink; and she shall say, Drink, and to thy camels also will I give drink, be the one thou hast appointed for thy servant Isaac; and thereby shall I know that thou hast shown kindness unto my master.

15 And it came to pass, before he had yet finished speaking, that, behold, Rebekah[e] came out, who was born to Bethuël, the son of Milcah, the wife of Nachor, Abraham's brother, with her pitcher upon her shoulder.

16 And the maiden was of a very [illegible]ndsome appearance, a virgin, neither had any man known her; and she went down to the well, and filled her pitcher, and came up.

17 And the servant ran to meet her, and said, Let me, I pray thee, drink a little water out of thy pitcher.

18 And she said, Drink, my lord: and she hastened, and let down her pitcher upon her hand, and gave him to drink.

19 And when she had finished giving him drink, she said, Also for thy camels will I draw water, until they have finished drinking.

20 And she hastened, and emptied her pitcher into the trough, and ran again unto the well to draw water, and drew for all his camels.

21 And the man was wondering at her;[f] remaining silent, to discover whether the LORD had made his journey prosperous or not.

22 And it came to pass, as the camels had finished drinking, that the man took a golden ear-ring, half a shekel in weight, and two bracelets for her hands, ten gold shekels in weight;

23 And he said, Whose daughter art thou? tell me, I pray thee; is there room in thy father's house for us to stay this night in?

24 And she said unto him, I am the daughter of Bethuël the son of Milcah, whom she bore unto Nachor.

25 She said moreover unto him, We have both straw and provender in plenty, as also room to lodge in.

26 And the man bowed down his head, and prostrated himself before the LORD.*

27 And he said, Blessed be the LORD, the God of my master Abraham, who hath not withdrawn his mercy and his truth from my master; I being on the way, which the LORD hath led me, to the house of the brethren of my master.

[a] Eng. ver. "for all the goods of his master were in his hand." Rashi explains that he took with him a deed of gift of all Abraham's wealth unto Isaac. Others refer it to the presents mentioned afterward: this opinion has been adopted in this version.

[b] "Aram-Naharayim," Syria of the two rivers, the Euphrates and Tigris.

[c] This custom still prevails.

[d] "I will place myself."—ARNHEIM and others.

[e] Properly, Ribkah.

[f] Meaning, he felt astonished at the remarkable verification of the test he had proposed, and therefore remained silent for some time, to endeavour first to find out by the sequel whether indeed the maiden before him might truly be the one of the family of Abraham, whom he was to take as a wife for Isaac.

28 And the maiden ran, and told at her mother's house these things.

29 And Rebekah had a brother, and his name was Laban; and Laban ran out unto the man, unto the well.

30 And this came to pass, when he saw the ear-ring and the bracelets upon his sister's hands, and when he heard the words of Rebekah his sister, saying, Thus spoke the man unto me; and he came unto the man; and, behold, he was standing by the camels at the well.

31 And he said, Come in, thou blessed of the LORD; wherefore standest thou without? while I have prepared[a] the house and room for the camels.

32 And the man came into the house, and he ungirded the camels; and he gave straw and provender for the camels, and water to wash his feet, and the feet of the men that were with him.

33 And there was set food before him to eat; but he said, I will not eat, until I have spoken my words. And he said, Speak on.

34 And he said, I am Abraham's servant.

35 And the LORD hath blessed my master greatly; and he is become great: and he hath given him flocks, and herds, and silver, and gold, and men-servants, and maid-servants, and camels, and asses.

36 And Sarah my master's wife bore a son to my master after she was become old: and he hath given unto him all that he hath.

37 And my master made me swear, saying, Thou shalt not take a wife for my son from the daughters of the Canaanites, in whose land I dwell:

38 But thou[b] shalt go unto my father's house, and to my kindred, and take a wife unto my son.

39 And I said unto my master, Peradventure the woman will not follow me.

40 And he said unto me, The LORD, before whom I have walked, will send his angel with thee, and prosper thy way; that thou mayest take a wife for my son from my kindred, and from my father's house.

41 Then shalt thou be clear from my oath, when thou comest to my kindred; and if they do not give thee one, (then) shalt thou be clear from my oath.

42 And I came this day unto the well, and said, O LORD, the God of my master Abraham, if thou wouldst but prosper my way on which I am going.

43 Behold, I stand by the well of water; and it shall be the young woman[c] who cometh forth to draw water, and I say to her, Give me, I pray thee, a little water out of thy pitcher to drink;

44 And she say to me, Both drink thou, and also for thy camels will I draw: this shall be the wife whom the LORD hath destined for my master's son.

45 And before I had yet finished speaking to my own heart, behold, Rebekah came forth with her pitcher on her shoulder; and she went down unto the well, and drew water; and I said unto her, Let me drink, I pray thee.

46 And she made haste, and let down her pitcher from her shoulder, and said, Drink, and also to thy camels I will give drink; and I drank, and she made the camels drink also.

47 And I asked her, and said, Whose daughter art thou? And she said, The daughter of Bethuël, Nachor's son, whom Milcah bore unto him: and I put the ear-ring upon her face,[d] and the bracelets upon her hands.

48 And I bowed down my head, and prostrated myself before the LORD; and I blessed the LORD, the God of my master Abraham, who had led me in the right way to take the daughter of my master's brother for his son.

49 And now if ye will deal kindly and truly with my master, tell me: and if not, tell me, that I may turn to the right, or to the left.

50 Then Laban and Bethuël answered and said, The thing hath proceeded from the

[a] Properly, "cleared out" the obstructions from the house which might prevent the reception of guests.

[b] Some, among these Rashi, explain this verse as a condition, אם לא "if not," meaning that he should first endeavour to obtain a wife from Abraham's family; but "if not," then by inference to be permitted to choose one elsewhere.

[c] In the narrative, the word נערה nâarah is found, whereas Eleazer employs the term עלמה 'Almah, perhaps then used to express a person of quality, equal to the modern phrase, "young lady." The change of the terms is readily accounted for by the occurrence itself.

LORD; we cannot speak[a] unto thee bad or good.

51 Behold, Rebekah is before thee, take her, and go, and let her be the wife of thy master's son, as the LORD hath spoken.

52 And it came to pass, when Abraham's servant heard their words, that he prostrated himself to the earth unto the LORD.*

53 And the servant brought forth vessels of silver, and vessels of gold, and garments, and gave them to Rebekah; and precious things he gave to her brother and to her mother.

54 And they did eat and drink, he and the men that were with him, and tarried the night; and they rose up in the morning, and he said, Send me away unto my master.

55 And her brother and her mother said, Let the maiden abide with us, a year or ten months; after that she shall go.

56 And he said unto them, Hinder me not, seeing the LORD hath prospered my way; send me away that I may go to my master.

57 And they said, We will call the maiden, and inquire her own decision.[b]

58 And they called Rebekah, and said unto her, Wilt thou go with this man? And she said, I will go.

59 And thereupon they sent away Rebekah their sister, and her nurse, and Abraham's servant, and his men.

60 And they blessed Rebekah, and said unto her, Our sister, be thou[c] the mother of thousands of myriads, and let thy seed possess the gate of those who hate them.

61 And Rebekah arose with her maidens, and they rode upon the camels, and followed the man; and the servant took Rebekah, and went his way.

62 And Isaac came from a walk to the well Lachai-roï; for he dwelt in the south country;

63 And Isaac was gone out to meditate in the field toward evening; and he lifted up his eyes, and saw, and, behold, camels were coming.

64 And Rebekah lifted up her eyes, and she saw Isaac; and she alighted off the camel.

65 And she said unto the servant, Who is yonder man that walketh in the field toward us? And the servant said, This is my master; therefore she took a vail, and covered herself.

66 And the servant told Isaac all the things that he had done.

67 And Isaac brought her into the tent of Sarah his mother, and took Rebekah, and she became his wife, and he loved her; and Isaac was comforted after his mother's death.*

CHAPTER XXV.

1 Then Abraham took again a wife, and her name was Keturah.

2 And she bore him Zimrán, and Yokshan, and Medan, and Midian, and Yishbak, and Shuach.

3 And Yokshan begat Sheba, and Dedan. And the sons of Dedan were Asshurim, and Letushim, and Leümmim.

4 And the sons of Midian: Ephah, and Epher, and Chanoch, and Abida', and Eldaah. All these were the children of Keturah.

5 And Abraham gave all that he had unto Isaac.

6 But unto the sons of the concubines that Abraham had, Abraham gave gifts; and he sent them away from Isaac his son, while he was yet living, eastward, unto the east country.

7 And these are the days of the years of Abraham's life which he lived, one hundred seventy and five years.

8 Then Abraham departed this life, and died in a good old age, an old man, and full of years, and was gathered to his people.

9 And his sons Isaac and Ishmael buried him in the cave of Machpelah, in the field of Ephron the son of Zochar the Hittite, which is before Mamré;

10 The field which Abraham purchased of the sons of Heth: there was Abraham buried, with Sarah his wife.

11 And it came to pass after the death of Abraham, that God blessed Isaac his son; and Isaac dwelt by the well Lachai-roï.*

12 ¶ Now these are the generations of Ishmael, Abraham's son, whom Hagar the

[a] That is, "dissuade thee by good or bad words."

[b] Literally, "her mouth," figurative for what is spoken.

[c] היה ל the construction here employed always denotes a transition or change, almost synonymous with the English "to become;" thus then, "become thou thousands of myriads," the words "mother of" being understood and added to supply the hiatus in the sentence.

13 And these are the names of the sons of Ishmael, by their names, according to their generations: the first-born of Ishmael, Nebayoth; and Kedar, and Adbeël, and Mibsam,

14 And Mishma, and Dumah, and Massa,

15 Chadad, and Tema, Yetur, Naphish, and Kedemah.*

16 These are the sons of Ishmael, and these are their names, by their towns, and by their castles; twelves princes according to their nations.

17 And these are the years of the life of Ishmael, one hundred and thirty and seven years: and he departed this life and died; and was gathered unto his people.

18 And they dwelt from Chavilah unto Shur, that is before Egypt, as thou goest toward Assyria:[a] he dwelt in the presence of all his brethren.

Haphtorah in 1 Kings i. 1 to 31.

SECTION VI. TOLEDOTH, תולדת.

19 ¶ And these are the generations of Isaac, the son of Abraham: Abraham begat Isaac.

20 And Isaac was forty years old when he took Rebekah, the daughter of Bethuël the Syrian, of Padan-aram, the sister to Laban the Syrian, to himself as wife.

21 And Isaac entreated the LORD in behalf of his wife, because she was barren: and the LORD was entreated of him, and Rebekah his wife conceived.

22 And the children struggled together within her; and she said, If it be so, why did I desire this?[b] And she went to inquire of the LORD.

23 And the LORD said unto her, Two nations are in thy womb, and two manner of people[c] shall be separated from thy bowels; and one people shall be stronger than the other people; and the elder shall serve the younger 24 And when her days to be delivered were fulfilled, behold, there were twins in her womb.

25 And the first came out red, all over like a hairy garment; and they called his name Esau.[d]

26 And after that came his brother out, his hand holding on to Esau's heel; and his name was called Jacob:[e] and Isaac was sixty years old when she bore them.

27 And the boys grew up: and Esau was an expert hunter, a man of the field; and Jacob was a plain man, dwelling in tents.[f]

28 And Isaac loved Esau, because he did eat of his venison; but Rebekah loved Jacob.

29 And Jacob at one time boiled pottage, and Esau came from the field, and he was faint.

30 And Esau said to Jacob, Let me swallow down, I pray thee, some of that yonder red pottage, for I am faint; therefore was his name called Edom.[g]

31 And Jacob said, Sell me this day thy right of first-born.

32 And Esau said, Behold, I am going to die;[h] and what profit then can the right of first born be to me?

33 And Jacob said, Swear to me this day; and he swore unto him: and he sold his right of first-born unto Jacob.

34 Then Jacob gave Esau bread and pottage of lentiles, and he did eat and drink, and he rose up, and went his way; thus Esau despised the birthright.

[a] Meaning, that Ishmael in his descendants settled himself along the whole extent of country occupied by all his other brethren descended from Abraham. (See above, ch. xvi. 12.) Arnheim gives, "he settled eastward of all his brothers," which idea, however, is combatted as incorrect by others, because Ishmael's descendants lived not eastward of all other sons of Abraham.

[b] Rashi, "Why did I desire and pray for conception?" Aben Ezra, "Why am I different from others?" Others again explain it as an ellipsis: "If I suffer so, why am I thus (in the world)?" meaning that death would be preferable.

[c] Philippson and Arnheim render לאם with "tribe," or "branch of a nation:" the same version is given by them in other passages.

[d] Properly, 'Esahe; probably from עשה, participle עשוי 'ahsuy, "ready," "made." Philippson derives it from an Arabic word, signifying "hairy."

[e] Properly, "Ya'acob, from 'Akeb, עקב, "the heel."

[f] That is, "loving home."

[g] From Adom, "red."

[h] Probably meaning, that his life as hunter exposed him daily to such dangers that he was almost sure to die before his father, wherefore the birthright as the eldest of the family would in all probability be of no use to him; wherefore he parted with it so lightly.

CHAPTER XXVI.

1 ¶ And there was a famine in the land, beside the first famine that was in the days of Abraham; and Isaac went unto Abimelech, the king of the Philistines, unto Gerar.

2 And the LORD appeared unto him, and said, Go not down into Egypt; dwell in the land which I shall tell thee of.

3 Sojourn in this land, and I will be with thee, and will bless thee; for unto thee, and unto thy seed, will I give all these countries, and I will perform the oath which I swore unto Abraham thy father;

4 And I will cause thy seed to multiply as the stars of heaven, and I will give unto thy seed all these countries; and in thy seed shall all the nations of the earth bless themselves;

5 Because that Abraham obeyed my voice, and kept my charge,[a] my commandments, my statutes, and my laws.*

6 And Isaac dwelt in Gerar.

7 And the men of the place asked (him) concerning his wife; and he said, She is my sister; for he feared to say, She is my wife; lest, (said he,) the men of the place should kill me for Rebekah, because she is of a handsome appearance.

8 And it came to pass, when he had been there a long time, that Abimelech, the king of the Philistines, looked out at a window, and saw, and behold, Isaac was sporting with Rebekah his wife.

9 And Abimelech called Isaac, and said, Behold, of a surety she is thy wife: and how saidst thou, She is my sister? And Isaac said unto him, Because I thought,[b] Perhaps I may die for her.

10 And Abimelech said, What is this thou hast done unto us? How easily might one of the people have lain with thy wife, and thou wouldst have brought guiltiness upon us.

11 And Abimelech charged all his people, saying, He that toucheth this man or his wife shall surely be put to death.

12 Then Isaac sowed in that land, and received in the same year a hundred-fold:[c] so the LORD blessed him.*

13 And the man became great, and went forward and grew, until he became very great;

14 And he had possession of flocks, and possession of herds, and great store of servants; and the Philistines envied him.

15 And all the wells which his father's servants had dug in the days of Abraham his father, these the Philistines stopped, and filled them with earth.

16 And Abimelech said unto Isaac, Go away from us; for thou hast become much mightier than we.

17 And Isaac departed thence, and pitched his tent in the valley of Gerar, and dwelt there.

18 And Isaac dug again the wells of water, which they had dug in the days of Abraham his father, and which the Philistines had stopped after the death of Abraham; and he called their names after the names by which his father had called them.

19 And the servants of Isaac dug in the valley, and found there a well of springing water.

20 And the herdmen of Gerar did strive with Isaac's herdmen, saying, The water is ours: and he called the name of the well Essek; because they strove[d] with him.

21 And they dug another well, and they strove for that also: and he called the name of it Sitnah.[e]

22 And he removed from there, and dug another well; and for that they strove not: and he called the name of it Rechoboth, and he said, For now the LORD hath made[f] room for us, and we shall increase in the land.*

23 And he went up from there to Beër-sheba.

24 And the LORD appeared unto him the same night, and said, I am the God of Abraham thy father; fear not, for I am with thee, and I will bless thee, and multiply thy seed for the sake of Abraham my servant.

[a] "My charge, the belief in God, for he believed in the Unity, and kept this faith in his heart, contending with idolaters, and publicly proclaiming the truth, to bring many to God's service; my commandments, in whatever he was ordered, as to go out from his land, &c.; my statutes, to walk in the way of the Lord in the exercise of mercy; and laws, such as circumcision and the Noachitic precepts."—After RAMBAN.

[b] אמר "to say," in Hebrew, very often refers to thought, or speaking to oneself; so here, "I said to myself," or "thought."

[c] "The estimated increase a hundred-fold."—RASHI.

[d] From התעשק hith'assek, "to contend."

[e] From שטן satone, "to hinder."

[f] Hirchib, "he hath made room."

25 And he built there an altar, and called upon the name of the LORD, and pitched there his tent: and the servants of Isaac dug there a well.

26 Then Abimelech went to him from Gerar, and Achuzzath his friend, and Phichol the chief captain of his army.

27 And Isaac said unto them, Wherefore come ye to me, seeing that ye do hate me, and have sent me away from you?

28 And they said, We saw clearly that the LORD was with thee; and we said, Let there be now an oath between us, between us and thee; and we will make a covenant with thee;

29 That thou shalt do us no hurt, as we have not touched thee, and as we have done unto thee nothing but good, and have sent thee away in peace: thou art now one blessed of the LORD.*

30 And he made them a feast, and they ate and drank.

31 And they rose up betimes in the morning, and they swore one to the other; and Isaac sent them away, and they departed from him in peace.

32 And it came to pass the same day, that Isaac's servants came, and told him concerning the well[a] which they had dug, and they said unto him, We have found water.

33 And he called it Shibah: therefore is the name of the city Beër-sheba unto this day.

34 ¶ And when Esau was forty years old he took to wife Judith the daughter of Beëri, the Hittite, and Bahsemath the daughter of Elon the Hittite.

35 And they were a grief of mind unto Isaac and to Rebekah.

CHAPTER XXVII.

1 ¶ And it came to pass, when Isaac was old, and his eyes were too dim to see, that he called Esau his eldest son, and said unto him, My son: and he said unto him, Behold, here am I.

2 And he said, Behold now, I am grown old, I know not the day of my death:

3 Now therefore take, I pray thee, thy weapons, thy quiver[b] and thy bow, and go out to the field, and hunt for me some venison;

4 And make me savoury food, such as I love, and bring it to me, that I may eat; that my soul may bless thee before I die.[c]

5 And Rebekah heard as Isaac was speaking to Esau his son. And Esau went to the field to hunt for venison, and to bring it.

6 And Rebekah spoke unto Jacob her son, saying, Behold, I heard thy father speak unto Esau thy brother, saying,

7 Bring me venison, and make me savoury food, that I may eat, and bless thee before the LORD before my death.

8 And now, my son, obey my voice in that which I command thee.

9 Go, I pray thee, to the flock, and fetch me from there two good kids; and I will make them savoury food for thy father, such as he loveth:

10 And thou shalt bring it to thy father, that he may eat; for the sake that he may bless thee before his death.

11 And Jacob said to Rebekah his mother, Behold, Esau my brother is a hairy man, and I am a smooth man:

12 Peradventure my father will feel me, and I shall then seem to him as a deceiver; and I would bring upon me a curse, and not a blessing.

13 And his mother said unto him, Upon me be thy curse, my son; only obey my voice, and go fetch them to me.

14 And he went, and fetched, and brought them to his mother; and his mother made savoury food, such as his father loved.

15 And Rebekah took the goodly garments of her eldest son Esau, which were with her in the house, and clothed therewith Jacob her younger son;

16 And the skins of the kids she put upon his hands, and upon the smooth part of his neck;

17 And she gave the savoury food and the bread, which she had prepared, into the hand of Jacob her son.

[a] Perhaps the same well originally dug by Abraham's, and which having been lost sight of, and filled up, was now reopened by Isaac's servants.

[b] Onkelos and Rashi render this תליך with "sword," that "which hangs by the side."

[c] "It was his desire to bless him, that he might obtain the blessing of Abraham, to inherit the land, and to be the one in covenant with God, because he was the first-born; and it is probable that Rebekah had never revealed to him the prophecy given to her before the birth of the children, or else Isaac would certainly not have wished to give a blessing against the will of God, which could thus be of no avail. We must, however, look upon the whole as providential."—RAMBAN.

THE TOWER OF BABEL AND THE CONFOUNDING OF LANGUAGE

18 And he came unto his father, and said, My father: and he said, Here am I; who art thou, my son?

19 And Jacob said unto his father, I am Esau thy first-born; I have done as thou didst speak to me: arise, I pray thee, sit here and eat of my venison, that thy soul may bless me.

20 And Isaac said unto his son, How is it that thou hast found it so quickly, my son? And he said, Because the LORD thy God brought it before me.

21 And Isaac said unto Jacob, Come near, I pray thee, that I may feel thee, my son, whether thou be truly my son Esau or not.

22 And Jacob went near unto Isaac his father, and he felt him; and he said, The voice is the voice[a] of Jacob, but the hands are the hands of Esau.

23 And he recognised him not, because his hands were hairy, as his brother Esau's hands: so he blessed him.

24 And he said, Art thou indeed my son Esau? and he said, I am.

25 And he said, Bring it near to me, and I will eat of my son's venison, that my soul may bless thee. And he brought it near to him, and he did eat, and he brought him wine, and he drank.

26 And Isaac his father said unto him, Come near, I pray thee, and kiss me, my son.

27 And he came near, and kissed him: and he smelled the smell of his garments and blessed him, and said,[b] See, the smell of my son is as the smell of a field which the LORD hath blessed.*

28 And may God give thee of the dew of heaven, and the fatness of the earth, and plenty of corn and wine;

29 Nations shall serve thee, and people bow down to thee; be lord over thy brethren, and thy mother's sons shall bow down to thee; cursed[c] be they that curse thee, and blessed be they that bless thee.

30 And it came to pass, as soon as Isaac had made an end of blessing Jacob, and Jacob was yet scarcely gone out from the presence of Isaac his father, that Esau his brother came in from his hunting.

31 And he also made savoury food, and brought it unto his father, and said unto his father, Let my father arise, and eat of his son's venison, in order that thy soul may bless me.

32 And Isaac his father said unto him, Who art thou? And he said, I am thy son, thy first-born, Esau.

33 And Isaac trembled greatly, exceedingly, and said, Who was it? where is he that had hunted venison, and brought it me, and I ate of all before thou camest, and blessed him? yea, he shall also remain blessed.

34 When Esau heard the words of his father, he uttered a great and exceedingly bitter cry, and said unto his father, Bless me, also me, my father.

35 And he said, Thy brother came with subtilty, and took away thy blessing.

36 And he said, Hath he been therefore named Jacob, because[d] he hath supplanted me these two times? my right of first-born he took away; and, behold, now he hath taken away my blessing: and he said, Hast thou not reserved a blessing for me?

37 And Isaac answered and said unto Esau, Behold, I have made him thy lord, and all his brethren have I given to him for servants; and with corn and wine have I endowed him: and what can I do now for thee, my son?

38 And Esau said unto his father, Hast thou then but one blessing, my father? bless me, also me, my father. And Esau lifted up his voice, and wept.

39 And Isaac his father answered and said unto him, Behold, thy dwelling shall be the fatness of the earth, and (blessed) by the dew of heaven from above;

40 And by thy sword shalt thou live, and thy brother shalt thou serve; and it shall

[a] There was probably a similarity in their voices, and Isaac failed, therefore, to recognise Jacob fully, because his hands were then hairy.

[b] According to Arnheim, the blessing commences at this word; compare with Hosea xiv. 7, where, among the promises of a blissful future, the personification of happiness is represented under the words, "And his smell shall be like that of Lebanon." The words which follow were prompted here by the excitement of the sense of smelling, as Jacob's garments gave forth the odour imbibed from field and forest flowers.

[c] Properly, "cursed be every one of those," &c., "blessed be every one of those," &c.

[d] Others render, "Is it because he hath been named Jacob, that he hath," &c.—ויעקבני vayangkebani, "he hath deceived me," is derived from the same root as the name, (see above, xxv. 26,) hence it might be rendered "trodden me under foot."

43 Now therefore, my son, obey my voice; and arise, flee thou to Laban my brother, to Charan;

44 And tarry with him a short time, until thy brother's fury turn away;

46 And Rebekah said to Isaac, I am weary of my life because of the daughters of Heth; if Jacob take a wife from the daughters of Heth, such as these, from the daughters of the land, what good will life do me?

SECTION VII. VAYETZAY, ויצא.

10 And Jacob went out from Beër-sheba, and went toward Charan.

11 And he lighted upon a certain place, and tarried there all night, because the sun was set; and he took one of the stones of the place, and put it for his pillow, and laid himself down in that place.

12 And he dreamed, and behold a ladder was set up on the earth, and the top of it reached to heaven; and behold, angels of God were ascending and descending on it.

13 And, behold, the LORD stood above it, and said, I am the LORD, the God of Abraham thy father, and the God of Isaac: the land whereon thou liest, to thee will I give it, and to thy seed;

14 And thy seed shall be as the dust of the earth, and thou shalt spread abroad to the west, and to the east, and to the north and to the south; and in thee and thy seed shall all the families of the earth be blessed.

15 And, behold, I am with thee, and will keep thee whithersoever thou goest, and will bring thee again into this land; for I will not leave thee, until I have done what I have spoken to thee of.

16 And Jacob awaked out of his sleep, and

[a] This translation, given in the common English version, is according to SAADIAH and REDAK, as quoted by Philippson. he said, Surely the LORD is present in this place; and I knew it not.[a]

17 And he was afraid, and said, How fearful is this place! this is none other but the house of God, and this is the gate of heaven.[b]

18 And Jacob rose up early in the morning, and took the stone that he had put for his pillow, and set it up for a pillar, and poured oil upon the top of it.

19 And he called the name of that place Beth-el;[c] but Luz was the name of that city in former times.

20 And Jacob made a vow, saying, If God will be with me, and will keep me on this way which I am going, and will give me bread to eat, and raiment to put on,

21 And I come again in peace to my father's house: then shall the LORD be my God;[d]

22 And this stone, which I have set for a pillar, shall be God's house;[e] and of all that thou wilt give me I will surely give the tenth unto thee.[*]

CHAPTER XXIX.

1 Then Jacob lifted up his feet[f] and went unto the land of the children of the east.

2 And he looked, and behold there was a well in the field, and, lo, there were three flocks of sheep[g] lying by it; for out of that well they watered the flocks: and the stone upon the mouth of the well was great.

3 And there all the flocks were wont to assemble; and they rolled then the stone from the mouth of the well, and watered the sheep; and they put the stone again upon the mouth of the well in its place.

4 And Jacob said unto them, My brethren, whence are ye? And they said, Of Charan are we.

5 And he said unto them, Know ye Laban the son of Nachor? And they said, We know him.

6 And he said unto them, Is he well?[h] And they said, He is well; and, behold, Rachel his daughter cometh with the sheep.

7 And he said, Lo, the day is yet long, it is not time that the cattle should be driven home; water ye the sheep, and go and feed them.

8 And they said, We cannot, until all the flocks be gathered together, then do they roll the stone from the mouth of the well; and we water the sheep.

9 And while he was yet speaking with them, Rachel came with her father's sheep; for she was a shepherdess.

10 And it came to pass, when Jacob saw Rachel the daughter of Laban his mother's brother, and the sheep of Laban his mother's brother, that Jacob went near, and rolled the stone from the mouth of the well, and watered the flock of Laban his mother's brother.

11 And Jacob kissed Rachel, and lifted up his voice, and wept.

12 And Jacob told Rachel that he was her father's brother,[i] and that he was Rebekah's son: and she ran and told her father.

13 And it came to pass, when Laban heard the tidings of Jacob his sister's son, that he ran to meet him, and embraced him, and kissed him, and brought him to his house. And he told Laban all these things.

14 And Laban said to him, Surely thou art my bone and my flesh. And he abode with him the space of a month.

15 And Laban then said unto Jacob, Because thou art my brother, shouldst thou therefore serve me for naught? tell me, what shall thy wages be?

16 And Laban had two daughters; the name of the elder was Leäh, and the name of the younger was Rachel.

17 And the eyes of Leäh were tender; but Rachel was of handsome form and handsome appearance.[*]

18 And Jacob loved Rachel; and he said,

I will serve thee seven years for Rachel thy younger daughter.

19 And Laban said, It is better that I give her to thee, than that I should give her to another man: abide with me.

20 And Jacob served for Rachel seven years; and they seemed[a] unto him but a few days, through the love he had to her.

21 And Jacob said unto Laban, Give me my wife, for my days are fulfilled, that I may go in unto her.

22 And Laban gathered together all the men of the place, and made a feast.

23 And it came to pass in the evening, that he took Leäh his daughter, and brought her to him; and he went in unto her.

24 And Laban gave unto his daughter Leäh, Zilpah his maid for a handmaid.

25 And it came to pass, that in the morning, behold, it was Leäh: and he said to Laban, What is this thou hast done unto me? did I not serve with thee for Rachel? wherefore then hast thou deceived me?

26 And Laban said, It is not done so in our place, to give in marriage the younger before the first-born.

27 Fulfil the week[b] of this, and we will give thee this one also, for the service which thou shalt serve with me yet seven other years.

28 And Jacob did so, and fulfilled the week of the first; and he gave him Rachel his daughter for a wife.

29 And Laban gave to Rachel his daughter Bilhah his handmaid to be her maid.

30 And he went in also unto Rachel, and he loved also Rachel more than Leäh; and he served with him yet seven other years.

31 And when the LORD saw that Leäh was hated,[c] he opened her womb; but Rachel was barren.

32 And Leäh conceived, and bore a son, and she called his name Reüben;[d] for she said, Surely, the LORD hath looked upon my affliction, because now my husband will love me.

33 And she conceived again and bore a son; and she said, Because the LORD heard that I was hated, he hath given me this one also; and she called his name Simeon.[e]

34 And she conceived again, and bore a son; and she said, Now this time will my husband be joined unto me, because I have born him three sons; therefore was his name called Levi.[f]

35 And she conceived again, and bore a son; and she said, This time will I praise the LORD; therefore she called his name Judah:[g] and she left off bearing.

CHAPTER XXX.

1 And when Rachel saw that she bore Jacob no children, Rachel envied her sister; and she said unto Jacob, Give me children, and if not, I die.

2 And Jacob's anger was kindled against Rachel: and he said, Am I in God's stead, who hath withheld from thee the fruit of the womb?

3 And she said, Behold, (here is) my maid Bilhah, go in unto her; and she shall bear upon[h] my knees, that I may also have[i] children by her.

4 And she gave him Bilhah her handmaid for wife, and Jacob went in unto her.

5 And Bilhah conceived, and bore Jacob a son.

6 And Rachel said, God hath judged me, and hath also heard my voice, and hath given me a son: therefore called she his name Dan.[k]

7 And Bilhah, Rachel's maid, conceived again, and bore Jacob a second son.

8 And Rachel said, Contests of God[l] have I contended with my sister, I have also prevailed: and she called his name Naphtali.[m]

9 When Leäh now saw that she had left off bearing, she took Zilpah her maid, and gave her to Jacob for wife.

10 And Zilpah Leäh's maid bore Jacob a son.

11 And Leäh said, Good luck hath come: and she called his name Gad.[a]

12 And Zilpah Leäh's maid bore a second son unto Jacob.

13 And Leäh said, To my happiness; for the daughters will call me blessed: and she called his name Asher.[b]*

14 And Reüben went in the days of the wheat harvest, and found mandrakes in the field, and he brought them unto Leäh his mother; then Rachel said to Leäh, Give me, I pray thee, (some) of thy son's mandrakes.

15 And she said unto her, Is it not enough that thou hast taken my husband? and wouldst thou also take away my son's mandrakes? And Rachel said, Therefore shall he lie with thee to-night for thy son's mandrakes.

16 And Jacob came out of the field in the evening, and Leäh went out to meet him, and said, Unto me thou must come in; for surely I have obtained thee as a reward[c] with my son's mandrakes. And he lay with her that night.

17 And God hearkened unto Leäh, and she conceived, and bore Jacob a fifth son.

18 And Leäh said, God hath given me my reward, because I have given my maid to my husband: and she called his name Issachar.[d]

19 And Leäh conceived again, and bore a sixth son unto Jacob.

20 And Leäh said, God hath endued me with a good dowry; now will my husband dwell with me, because I have born him six sons; and she called his name Zebulun.[e]

21 And afterward she bore a daughter, and she called her name Dinah.

22 And God remembered Rachel, and God hearkened to her, and opened her womb.

23 And she conceived, and bore a son; and she said, God hath taken away my reproach.

24 And she called his name Joseph,[f] saying, The LORD shall add to me another son.

25 And it came to pass, when Rachel had born Joseph, that Jacob said unto Laban, Send me away, that I may go unto my own place, and to my country.

26 Give me my wives and my children, for whom I have served thee, and let me go; for thou knowest my service with which I have served thee.

27 And Laban said unto him, If I could but find favour in thy eyes;[g] I have learned by experience that the LORD hath blessed me for thy sake.*

28 And he said, Appoint me thy wages, and I will give them.

29 And he said unto him, Thou knowest how I have served thee, and what thy cattle hath become with me.

30 For it was a little which thou hadst before I came, and it is now increased unto a multitude; and the LORD hath blessed thee since my coming; and now when shall I provide also for my own house?

31 And he said, What shall I give thee? And Jacob said, Thou shalt not give me the least; if thou wilt do this thing for me, I will again feed and keep thy flock:

32 I will pass through all thy flock to-day, removing from there every speckled and spotted lamb, and every brown lamb among the sheep, and whatever is spotted and speckled among the goats; and such shall be after this my reward.

33 And my righteousness[h] shall testify for me in time to come, when it[i] shall come with my reward before thy face: every one that is not speckled and spotted among the goats, and brown among the sheep, that shall be counted stolen with me.

34 And Laban said, Well, let it be according to thy word.

35 And he removed on that day the he-goats that were ring-streaked and spotted, and all the she-goats that were speckled and spotted, every one that had some white on it, and all the brown among the sheep, and gave them into the hand of his sons.

36 And he put a space of three days' journey between himself and Jacob; and Jacob fed the flocks of Laban that were left.

37 And Jacob took himself rods of green poplar, and of the hazel[a] and chestnut tree; and peeled thereon white streaks, laying bare the white which was on the rods.

38 And he set the rods which he had peeled in the gutters in the watering troughs, where the flocks[b] came to drink, just before the flocks, and where they conceived, when they came to drink.

39 And the flocks conceived before the rods, and brought forth ring-streaked, speckled, and spotted.

40 And these lambs did Jacob separate, and set the faces[c] of the flocks toward the ring-streaked, and whatever was brown in the flock of Laban; and he put his own flocks by themselves, and put them not with Laban's cattle.

41 And it came to pass, whensoever the stronger cattle did conceive, that Jacob laid the rods before the eyes of the cattle in the gutters, that they might conceive among the rods.

42 But when the cattle were feeble, he put them not in; so the feebler belonged to Laban, and the stronger to Jacob.

43 And the man increased[d] exceedingly, and he had many flocks, and maid-servants, and men-servants, and camels, and asses.

CHAPTER XXXI.

1 And he heard the words of Laban's sons, saying, Jacob hath taken away all that was our father's, and of that which was our father's hath he gotten all this wealth.[e]

2 And Jacob beheld the countenance of Laban, and, behold, it was not toward him as before.[f]

3 And the LORD said unto Jacob, Return unto the land of thy fathers, and to thy birthplace; and I will be with thee.

4 And Jacob sent and called Rachel and Leäh to the field unto his flock.

5 And he said unto them, I see your father's countenance, that it is not toward me as before; but the God of my father hath been with me.

6 And ye know well that with all my power I have served your father.

7 And your father hath deceived me, and changed my wages ten times; but God suffered him not to do me evil.

8 If he said thus, The speckled shall be thy wages; then bore all the flocks speckled: and if he said thus, The ring-streaked shall be my reward; then bore all the flocks ring-streaked.

9 Thus God took away the cattle of your father, and gave them to me.

10 And it came to pass at the time that the flocks conceived, that I lifted up my eyes, and saw in a dream, and, behold, the rams which leaped upon the flocks were ring-streaked, speckled, and grizzled.

11 And an angel of God spoke unto me in the dream, Jacob: and I said, Here am I.

12 And he said, Lift up now thy eyes and see, all the rams which leap upon the flocks are ring-streaked, speckled, and grizzled; for I have seen all that Laban doth unto thee.

13 I am the God of Beth-el, where thou anointedst a pillar, where thou madest unto me a vow: now arise, get thee out from this land, and return unto the land of thy birth.

14 And Rachel and Leäh answered and said unto him, Is there yet any portion or inheritance for us in our father's house?

15 Were we not counted of him as strangers? for he hath sold us; and he hath quite consumed also our money.[g]

16 For all the riches which God hath taken from our father, that is ours, and our children's; now then, whatsoever God hath said unto thee, do.*

17 Then Jacob rose up, and set his sons and his wives upon camels;

18 And he led away all his cattle, and all his goods which he had gotten, the cattle of his acquiring, which he had gotten in Padan-aram, to go to Isaac his father into the land of Canaan.

19 And Laban was gone to shear his sheep; and Rachel stole the images that were her father's.

20 And Jacob stole[a] away unawares to Laban the Syrian, by not letting him know that he was going to flee.

21 And he fled with all that he had; and he rose up, and passed over the river, and set his face toward the mount Gileäd.

22 And it was told to Laban on the third day that Jacob was fled.

23 And he took his brethren with him, and pursued after him a seven days' journey; and he overtook him at the mount of Gileäd.

24 And God came to Laban, the Syrian, in a dream of the night, and said unto him, Take thou heed that thou speak not to Jacob either good or bad.[b]

25 Then Laban overtook Jacob; now Jacob had pitched his tent on the mount, and Laban with his brethren pitched on the mount of Gileäd.

26 And Laban said to Jacob, What hast thou done, that thou hast stolen away unawares to me, and led away my daughters, as captives taken with the sword?

27 Wherefore didst thou flee away secretly, and steal away from me; and why didst thou not tell me, that I might have sent thee away with mirth, and with songs, with tabret, and with harp?

28 And (why) hast thou not suffered me to kiss my sons and my daughters? now thou hast acted foolishly in so doing.

29 It is in the power of my hand to do you hurt; but the God of your father spoke unto me yesternight, saying, Take thou heed that thou speak not to Jacob either good or bad.

30 And now, thou wouldst needs be gone, because thou greatly longedst after thy father's house; (yet) wherefore hast thou stolen my gods?

31 And Jacob answered and said to Laban, Because I was afraid, for I said, Peradventure thou wouldst take by force thy daughters from me.

32 With whomsoever thou findest thy gods, let him not live; before our brethren seek out thou what is thine with me, and take it to thee; but Jacob knew not that Rachel had stolen them.

33 And Laban went into the tent of Jacob, and into the tent of Leäh, and into the tent of the two maid-servants; but he found nothing; he then went out of the tent of Leäh, and entered into Rachel's tent.

34 Now Rachel had taken the images, and put them in the saddle-cushion of the camel, and sat upon them; and Laban searched[c] all the tent, and found nothing.

35 And she said to her father, Let it not displease my lord that I cannot rise up before thee; for the custom of women is upon me; and thus he searched, but found not the images.

36 Now Jacob became wroth, and quarrelled with Laban; and Jacob answered[d] and said to Laban, What is my trespass? what is my sin, that thou hast so hotly pursued after me?

37 Although thou hast searched all my goods, what hast thou found of all the articles of thy household? set it here before my brethren and thy brethren, that they may judge between us both.

38 These twenty years have I been with thee: thy ewes and thy she-goats have not cast their young;[e] and the rams of thy flock have I not eaten.

39 That which was torn of beasts I brought not unto thee; I had to bear the loss of it, of my hand didst thou require it, whatever was stolen by day, or stolen by night.

40 (Where) I was in the day the heat consumed me, and the frost by night; and my sleep departed from my eyes.

41 These twenty years have I been in thy house; I have served thee fourteen years for thy two daughters, and six years for thy flocks: and thou hast changed my wages ten times.

43 And Laban answered and said unto Jacob, The daughters are my daughters, and the children are my children, and the flocks are my flocks, and all that thou seest is mine; but as to my daughters, what can I do unto them this day, or unto their children whom they have born?

44 And now, come thou, let us make a covenant, I and thou; and let it be for a witness between me and thee.

45 And Jacob took a stone, and set it up for a pillar.

46 And Jacob said unto his brethren, Gather stones; and they took stones, and made a heap: and they ate there upon the heap.

47 And Laban called it Yegar-sahadutha;[b] but Jacob called it Galed.[b]

48 And Laban said, This heap is a witness between me and thee this day; therefore called he its name Galed;

49 And Mitzpah;[c] for he said, The Lord shall watch between me and thee, when we are absent one from the other;

50 If thou shouldst afflict my daughters, or if thou shouldst take other wives besides my daughters, when there is no man with us: see, God is witness between me and thee.

51 And Laban said to Jacob, Behold this heap, and behold this pillar, which I have cast up between me and thee;

52 Witness be this heap and witness be this pillar, that I will not pass by this heap, and that thou shalt not pass unto me by this heap and this pillar, for evil.

53 The God of Abraham and the God of Nachor shall judge between us, the God of their father; but Jacob swore by the Fear of his father Isaac.

CHAPTER XXXII.[e]

1 And early in the morning Laban rose up, and kissed his sons and his daughters and blessed them; and Laban departed, and returned unto his own place.

2 And Jacob went on his way, and there met him angels of God.

3 And when Jacob saw them, he said, This is a host of God; and he called the name of that place Machanayim.[f]

4 ¶ And Jacob sent messengers before him to Esau his brother unto the land of Seïr, the country[g] of Edom.

5 And he commanded them, saying, Thus shall ye speak unto my lord, to Esau, Thus hath said thy servant Jacob, With Laban have I sojourned, and stayed until now.

6 And I have acquired oxen, and asses, flocks, and men-servants, and women-servants; and I send now to tell my lord, to find grace in thy eyes.

7 And the messengers returned to Jacob, saying, We came to thy brother, to Esau, and also he cometh to meet thee, and four hundred men with him.

8 Then Jacob was greatly afraid, and he felt distressed; and he divided the people that were with him, and the flocks, and the herds, and the camels, into two bands.

9 And he said, If Esau should come to the one band and smite it, then the other band which is left may escape.

10 And Jacob said, O God of my father Abraham, and God of my father Isaac, the Lord who saidst unto me, Return unto thy country, and to thy birthplace, and I will deal well with thee:

[g] Heb. "Fields." Dubno explains, "to the land of Seïr, that part where Edom (Esau) dwelt."

11 I am not worthy[a] of all the kindness, and of all the truth, which thou hast shown unto thy servant; for with my staff I passed over this Jordan; and now I am become two bands.

12 Deliver me, I pray thee, from the hand of my brother, from the hand of Esau; for I fear him, lest he will come and smite me, the mother with the children.

13 And thou saidst, I will surely do thee good, and make thy seed as the sand of the sea, which cannot be numbered for multitude.*

14 And he lodged there that same night; and he took of that which he carried with him[b] a present for Esau his brother:

15 Two hundred she-goats, and twenty he-goats, two hundred ewes, and twenty rams, 16 Thirty milch camels with their colts, forty cows, and ten bulls, twenty she-asses, and ten foals.

17 And he delivered them into the hand of his servants, every drove by itself; and he said unto his servants, Pass on before me, and put a space between drove and drove.

18 And he commanded the foremost, saying, When Esau my brother should meet thee, and ask thee, saying, Whose art thou? and whither art thou going? and for whom are these before thee?

19 Then shalt thou say, They belong to thy servant, to Jacob; it is a present sent unto my lord, to Esau; and, behold, also, he is himself behind us.

20 And so he commanded also the second, also the third, as also all that followed the droves, saying, After this manner shall ye speak unto Esau, when ye find him.

21 And say ye moreover, Behold, also thy servant Jacob is behind us. For he said, I will appease him with the present that goeth before me, and afterward I will see his face; peradventure he will receive[c] me kindly.

22 The present went thus on before him; and he lodged himself that night in the camp

23 And he rose up that night, and he took his two wives, and his two women-servants, and his eleven sons, and passed over the ford of the Yabbok.

24 And he took them, and sent them over the stream, and sent over what he had.

25 And Jacob was left alone; and there wrestled a man with him until the breaking of the day.[d]

26 And when he saw that he could not prevail against him, he struck against[e] the hollow of his thigh; and the hollow of Jacob's thigh was put out of joint, as he was wrestling with him.

27 And he said, Let me go, for the day hath dawned. And he said, I will not let thee go until thou hast blessed me.

28 And he said unto him, What is thy name? and he said, Jacob.

29 And he said, Not Jacob shall any more be called thy name, but Israel;[f] for as a prince[g] hast thou power with God and with men, and hast prevailed.

30 And Jacob asked him, and said, Tell me, I pray thee, thy name. And he said, Wherefore is it that thou dost ask after my name? And he blessed him there.*

31 And Jacob called the name of the place Peniël:[h] for I have seen an angel of God[i] face to face, and my life hath been preserved.

32 And the sun rose unto him as he passed by Penuël, and he halted upon his thigh.

33 Therefore do the children of Israel not eat the sinew which[k] shrank, which is upon the hollow of the thigh, unto this day; because he struck against the hollow of Jacob's thigh on the sinew that shrank.

hundred men. And he divided the children unto Leäh, and unto Rachel, and unto the two handmaids.

2 And he put the handmaids and their children foremost, and Leäh and her children after, and Rachel and Joseph hindermost.

3 And he himself passed on before them, and bowed himself to the ground seven times, until he came near to his brother.

4 And Esau ran to meet him, and embraced him, and fell on his neck, and kissed him; and they wept.

5 And he lifted up his eyes, and saw the women and the children; and said, Who are these with thee? And he said, The children whom God hath graciously given thy servant.[a]

6 Then came the handmaids near, they and their children, and they bowed themselves.

7 And Leäh also with her children came near, and they bowed themselves; and after that came Joseph near and Rachel, and they bowed themselves.

8 And he said, What meanest thou by all this drove which I have met? And he said, To find grace in the eyes of my lord.

9 And Esau said, I have enough, my brother, keep unto thyself what thou hast.

10 And Jacob said, This must not be, I pray thee; if I have but found grace in thy eyes, then do thou receive my present at my hand; since I have seen thy face, it is as though I had seen the face of an angel, and because thou hast received me kindly.[a]

11 Take, I pray thee, my present[b] that is brought to thee; because God hath dealt graciously with me, and because I have a plenty of all. And he urged him, and he took it.

12 And he said, Let us depart, and move farther, and I will travel near thee.

13 And he said unto him, My lord knoweth that the children are tender, and the flocks and herds with young are a charge on me:[c] and if they should overdrive them one day, all the flock would die.

14 Let my lord, I pray thee, pass on before his servant: and I will lead on slowly, according as the cattle that goeth before me and the children may be able to travel, until I come unto my lord unto Seïr.

15 And Esau said, Let me, I pray thee, leave with thee some of the people that are with me. And he said, What needeth it? let me only find grace in the eyes of my lord.

16 So Esau returned that day on his way unto Seïr.

17 And Jacob journeyed to Succoth and built himself a house, and for his cattle he made booths; therefore he called the name of the place Succoth.[d]

18 ¶ And Jacob came in good health to the city of Shechem, which is in the land of Canaan, when he came from Padan-aram; and he encamped before the city.

19 And he bought the parcel of the field, where he had spread his tent, at the hand of the children of Chamor, the father of Shechem, for a hundred kessitah.[e]

20 And he erected there an altar, and called it, El-Elohé-Yisrael.[a][f]

CHAPTER XXXIV.

1 ¶ And Dinah the daughter of Leäh, whom she had born unto Jacob, went out to look about among the daughters of the land.

2 And Shechem the son of Chamor the Hivite, the prince of the country, saw her; and he took her, and lay with her, and did her violence.

3 And his soul clave unto Dinah the daughter of Jacob, and he loved the maiden, and spoke kindly unto the maiden.

4 And Shechem spoke unto Chamor his father, saying, Get me this girl for wife.

5 And Jacob heard that he had defiled Dinah his daughter; but his sons were with his cattle in the field: and Jacob held his peace[g] until they were come.

6 And Chamor the father of Shechem went out unto Jacob to speak with him.

7 And the sons of Jacob came from the field when they heard it, and the men were grieved, and it excited their anger greatly; because he had wrought a disgraceful thing in Israel to lie with the daughter of Jacob, and this ought not to be done.

8 And Chamor spoke with them, saying, The soul of Shechem my son longeth for your daughter; give her, I pray you, unto him for wife.

9 And intermarry with us; your daughters ye shall give unto us, and our daughters ye may take unto yourselves.

10 And with us shall ye dwell; and the land shall be open before you; dwell and trade ye therein, and acquire possessions therein.

11 And Shechem said unto her father and unto her brother, Let me but find grace in your eyes, and whatever ye may say unto me, I will give.

12 Ask of me ever so much dowry and gift, and I will give, just as ye may say unto me; but give me the maiden for wife.

13 And the sons of Jacob answered Shechem and Chamor his father with cunning, and spoke; because he had defiled Dinah their sister.

14 And they said unto them, We cannot do this thing, to give our sister to one that is uncircumcised; for that would be a reproach unto us.

15 But on this condition will we consent unto you; if ye will become as we are, that every male of you be circumcised:

16 Then will we give our daughters unto you, and we will take your daughters unto us; and we will dwell with you, and we will become one people.

17 But if ye will not hearken unto us, to be circumcised, then will we take our daughter, and go our way.

18 And their words were pleasing in the eyes of Chamor, and in the eyes of Shechem, the son of Chamor.

19 And the young man deferred not to do the thing, because he had delight in Jacob's daughter; and he was the most honoured of all the house of his father.

20 And Chamor and Shechem his son came unto the gate of their city, and spoke with the men of their city, saying, 21 These men are peaceably inclined with us; therefore let them dwell in the land, and trade therein;[a] and the land, behold, it is large enough on all sides before them; their daughters we will take unto us for wives, and our daughters we will give unto them.

22 Only with this condition will the men consent unto us to dwell with us, to become one people, if every male among us be circumcised, as they are circumcised.

23 Their cattle and their substance and every beast of theirs—will they not be ours? only let us consent unto them, that they may dwell with us.

24 And unto Chamor and unto Shechem his son hearkened all that went out of the gate of his city; and all the males were circumcised, all that went out of the gate of his city.

25 And it came to pass on the third day, when they were sore, that two of the sons of Jacob, Simeon and Levi, Dinah's brothers, took each his sword, and came upon the city unresisted[b] and slew all the males.

26 And they slew Chamor and Shechem his son with the edge of the sword; and they took Dinah out of Shechem's house, and went out.

27 The sons of Jacob came upon the slain, and spoiled the city, because they had defiled their sister.

28 They took their sheep, and their oxen, and their asses, and that which was in the city, and that which was in the field,

29 And all their wealth, and all their little ones, and their wives they took captive, and spoiled; and all that was in the house.

30 And Jacob said unto Simeon and Levi, Ye have troubled me, to cause me to be hated[c] among the inhabitants of the land, among the Canaanites and the Perizzites: and as I am but few in number, they may gather themselves together against me, and slay me; and I would be destroyed, I and my house.

31 And they said, Should he deal with our sister as with a harlot?

there an altar unto the God that appeared unto thee when thou fleddest from the face of Esau thy brother.

2 Then said Jacob unto his household, and to all that were with him, Put away the strange gods[a] that are among you, and cleanse yourselves, and change your garments.

3 And let us arise, and go up to Beth-el; and I will make there an altar unto the God who answered me on the day of my distress, and was with me on the way which I went.

4 And they gave unto Jacob all the strange gods which were in their hand, and the earrings which were in their ears; and Jacob hid them under the oak which was near Shechem.

5 And they journeyed; and the terror of God was upon the cities that were[c] round about them, and they did not pursue after the sons of Jacob.

6 So Jacob came to Luz, which is in the land of Canaan, that is, Beth-el, he and all the people that were with him.

7 And he built there an altar, and called the place El-beth-el:[b] because there God[c] appeared unto him, when he fled from the face of his brother.

8 And Deborah Rebekah's nurse died, and she was buried beneath[d] Beth-el under an oak: and he called its name Allon-bachuth.[e]

9 ¶ And God appeared unto Jacob again, when he came from Padan-aram, and blessed him.

10 And God said unto him, Thy name is Jacob; thy name shall not be called any more Jacob, but Israel shall be thy name: and he called his name Israel.

11 And God said unto him, I am God the Almighty; be fruitful and multiply; a nation and an assemblage of nations[f] shall spring from thee, and kings shall come out of thy loins.*

12 And the land which I gave to Abraham and to Isaac, to thee will I give it; and to thy seed after thee will I give the land.

13 And God went up from him on the place where he had spoken with him.*

14 And Jacob set up a pillar at the place where he had spoken with him, a pillar of stone; and he poured a drink offering thereon, and he poured oil thereon.

15 And Jacob called the name of the place where God had spoken with him, Beth-el.

16 And they journeyed from Beth-el; and there was yet some distance to come to Ephrath, when Rachel travailed, and she had hard labour.

17 And it came to pass, when she was in hard labour, that the midwife said unto her, Fear not; for this child also is a son for thee.[g]

18 And it came to pass, as her soul was departing, (for she died,) that she called his name Ben-oni:[h] but his father called him Benjamin.[i]

19 And so Rachel died, and was buried on the way to Ephrath, which is Beth-lechem.

20 And Jacob set a pillar upon her grave; this is the pillar of Rachel's grave unto his day.

21 And Israel journeyed, and spread his tent beyond the tower of flocks (Eder).

22 And it came to pass, when Israel dwelt in that land, that Reüben went and lay with Bilhah his father's concubine; and Israel heard it.

¶ Now the sons of Jacob were twelve.

23 The sons of Leäh, Jacob's first-born, Reüben, and Simeon, and Levi, and Judah, and Issachar, and Zebulun.

24 The sons of Rachel, Joseph, and Benjamin.

25 And the sons of Bilhah, Rachel's handmaid, Dan, and Naphtali.

26 And the sons of Zilpah, Leäh's handmaid, Gad, and Asher: these are the sons of Jacob, that were born to him in Padan-aram.

27 And Jacob came unto Isaac his father unto Mamré, the city of Arba', which is Hebron, where Abraham and Isaac had sojourned.

28 And the days of Isaac were one hundred and eighty years.

29 And Isaac departed this life, and died, and was gathered unto his people, old and

CHAPTER XXXVI.

1 ¶ Now these are the generations of Esau, who is Edom.

2 Esau took his wives of the daughters of Canaan; Adah[a] the daughter of Elon the Hittite, and Aholibamah the daughter of Anah the daughter of Zibeon the Hivite;

3 And Bahsemath Ishmael's daughter, the sister of Nebaÿoth.

4 And Adah bore to Esau Eliphaz; and Bahsemath bore Reüël;

5 And Aholibamah bore Yeüsh, and Ya'lam, and Korach: these are the sons of Esau, that were born unto him in the land Canaan.

6 And Esau took his wives, and his sons, and his daughters, and all the persons of his house, and his cattle, and all his beasts, and all his substance, which he had gotten in the land of Canaan; and went into another country from the face of his brother Jacob.

7 For their riches were more than that they might dwell together; and the land of their sojourning could not bear them, because of their cattle.

8 Thus dwelt Esau in mount Seïr: Esau is Edom.

9 And these are the generations of Esau the father of the Edom in mount Seïr.

10 These are the names of Esau's sons: Eliphaz the son of Adah the wife of Esau, Reüël the son of Bahsemath the wife of Esau.

11 And the sons of Eliphaz were Teman, Omar, Zepho, and Ga'tam, and Kenaz.

12 And Timna was concubine to Eliphaz Esau's son: and she bore to Eliphaz Amalek; these were the sons of Adah, Esau's wife.

13 And these are the sons of Reüël: Nachath, and Zerach, Shammah, and Mizzah; these were the sons of Bahsemath, Esau's wife.

14 And these were the sons of Aholibamah, the daughter of Anah the daughter of Zibeon, Esau's wife: and she bore to Esau Yeüsh, and Ya'lam, and Korach.

15 These are the dukes[b] of the sons of Esau; the sons of Eliphaz the first-born of Esau: duke Teman, duke Omar, duke Zepho, duke Kenaz, 16 Duke Korach, duke Ga'tam, duke Amalek; these are the dukes of Eliphaz in the land of Edom; these are the sons of Adah.

17 And these are the sons of Reüël Esau's son: duke Nachath, duke Zerach, duke Shammah, duke Mizzah; these are the dukes of Reüël in the land of Edom; these are the sons of Bahsemath, Esau's wife.

18 And these are the sons of Aholibamah, Esau's wife: duke Yeüsh, duke Ya'lam, duke Korach; these are the dukes of Aholibamah the daughter of Anah, Esau's wife.

19 These are the sons of Esau, and these are their dukes; this is Edom.*

20 ¶ These are the sons of Seïr the Chorite, who inhabited the land: Lotan, and Shobal, and Zibeon, and Anah, 21 And Dishon, and Etzer, and Dishan; these are the dukes of the Chorites, the children of Seïr in the land of Edom.

22 And the children of Lotan were Chori and Heman; and Lotan's sister was Timna.

23 And these were the children of Shobal: Alvan, and Manachath, and Ebal, Shepho, and Onam.

24 And these are the children of Zibeon: both Ajah, and Anah; this was that Anah that found the mules[c] in the wilderness, as he fed the asses of Zibeon his father.

25 And these are the children of Anah: Dishon, and Aholibamah the daughter of Anah.

26 And these are the children of Dishan:[d] Chemdan, and Eshban, and Yithran, and Cheran.

27 These are the children of Etzer: Bilhan, and Zaävan, and Akan.

28 These are the children of Dishan: Uz, and Aran.

[a] In Genesis xxvi. 34, the wives of Esau are called Judith, daughter of Beëri the Hittite, and Bahsemath, daughter of Elon; we may therefore assume that the daughter of Beëri died childless, when Esau took Aholibamah; and regarding the names of Adah, in the case of the daughter of Elon, and of Bahsemath, the daughter of Ishmael, we can suppose that they may have been terms of endearment applied to them. For instance, עדה 'Adah, from עדי 'Adi, "ornament," בשמת Bahsemath, from בשם bossem, "spice." Such names are not uncommon in the East.

[c] The word ימים yemim, here rendered "mules," has been variously interpreted, as it is but once met with; the first with mules; secondly, with "giants," same as emim, and again "warm springs." The version here is according to Talmud.

[d] Eng. ver. "Dishon."

29 These are the dukes of the Chorites: duke Lotan, duke Shobal, duke Zibeon, duke Anah;

30 Duke Dishon, duke Etzer, duke Dishan; these are the dukes of the Chorites, after their dukes in the land of Seïr.

31 ¶ And these are the kings that reigned in the land of Edom, before there reigned any king over the children of Israel.[a]

32 And there reigned in Edom Bela the son of Beör: and the name of his city was Dinhabah.

33 And Bela died, and there reigned in his stead Yobab the son of Zerach of Bozrah.

34 And Yobab died, and there reigned in his stead Chusham of the land of Teman.

35 And Chusham died, and there reigned in his stead Hadad the son of Bedad, who smote Midian in the field of Moäb; and the name of his city was Avith.

36 And Hadad died, and there reigned in his stead Samlah of Masrekah.

37 And Samlah died, and there reigned in his stead Shaül of Rechoboth by the river.

38 And Shaül died, and there reigned in his stead Baäl-chanan the son of Achbor.

39 And Baäl-chanan the son of Achbor died, and there reigned in his stead Hadar, and the name of his city was Païu; and his wife's name was Mehetabel, the daughter of Matred, the daughter of Me-zahab.*

40 And these are the names of the dukes of Esau, according to their families, after their places, by their names: duke Timna, duke Alvah, duke Yetheth,

41 Duke Aholibamah, duke Elah, duke Pinon,

42 Duke Kenaz, duke Teman, duke Mibzar,

43 Duke Magdiël, duke Iram; these are the dukes of Edom, according to their habitations in the land of their possession; this is Esau the father of the Edom.

SECTION IX. VAYESHEB, וישב.

CHAPTER XXXVII.

1 ¶ And Jacob dwelt in the land of his father's sojourning, in the land of Canaan.

2 These are the generations of Jacob. Joseph, being seventeen years old, was feeding the flock with his brothers; and he was as a lad[b] with the sons of Bilhah, and with the sons of Zilpah, his father's wives; and Joseph brought evil reports of them[c] unto his father.

3 Now Israel loved Joseph more than all his children, because he was the son of his old age; and he made him a coat of many colours.[d]

4 And when his brothers saw that their father loved him more than all his brothers, they hated him, and could not speak peaceably unto him.

5 And Joseph dreamed a dream, and he told it to his brothers: and they hated him yet the more.

6 And he said unto them, Hear, I pray you, this dream which I have dreamed.

7 And, behold, we were binding sheaves in the field, and, lo, my sheaf arose, and also remained standing upright; and, behold, your sheaves placed themselves round about, and made obeisance to my sheaf.

8 And his brothers said to him, Shalt thou indeed reign over us? or shalt thou indeed have dominion over us? And they hated him yet the more for his dreams, and for his words.

9 And he dreamed yet another dream, and told it to his brothers; and he said, Behold, I have dreamed a dream more; and, behold, the sun and the moon and eleven stars made obeisance to me.

10 And he told it to his father, and to his brothers; and his father rebuked him, and said unto him, What is this dream that thou hast dreamed? Shall we indeed come, I and thy mother, and thy brothers, to bow down ourselves to thee to the earth?

11 And his brothers envied him; but his father noted[e] the matter (in his mind).*

[a] It is highly probable that the last of the eight kings mentioned here, was the king of Edom in the days of Moses, (Numb. xx. 14,) and this verse then only expresses that Edom had a consolidated government, while Israel was enslaved.

[b] I. e. He kept more with them than the others who were the sons of Leäh.

[c] This refers to his brothers mentioned at first.

[d] Here is shown the danger of preferring one child before the others, although he may deserve it; the preference shown by Jacob was as much cause for the hatred toward Joseph as his own fault of talebearing.

[e] Aben Ezra. Rashi comments, "He waited and watched to see when it would come to pass." Onkelos renders הדבר with "the word."

12 And his brothers went to feed their father's flocks in Shechem.

13 And Israel said unto Joseph, Do not thy brothers feed (the flocks) in Shechem? come, and I will send thee unto them. And he said to him, Here am I.[a]

14 And he said to him, Go, I pray thee, see whether it be well with thy brothers, and well with the flocks; and bring me word again. So he sent him from the vale of Hebron, and he came to Shechem.

15 And a certain man found him, and, behold, he was wandering astray in the field; and the man asked him, saying, What seekest thou?

16 And he said, I seek my brothers; tell me, I pray thee, where they are feeding their flocks?

17 And the man said, They are departed hence; for I heard them say, Let us go to Dothan. And Joseph went after his brothers, and found them in Dothan.

18 And when they saw him afar off, even before he came near unto them, they conspired against him to slay him.

19 And they said one to another, Behold, here cometh this man of dreams.

20 And now, come and let us slay him, and cast him into one of the pits, and we will say, Some evil beast hath devoured him; and we shall see what will become of his dreams.

21 And when Reüben heard it, he delivered him out of their hand; and he said, Let us not put him to death.

22 And Reüben said unto them, Do not shed blood; but cast him into this pit that is in the wilderness, but do not lay hand upon him;—in order that he might deliver him out of their hand, to bring him back again to his father.*

23 And it came to pass, when Joseph was come unto his brothers, that they stript Joseph of his coat, the coat of many colours that was on him;

24 And they took him, and cast him into the pit; and the pit was empty; there was no water in it.

25 And they sat down to eat bread: and they lifted up their eyes and looked, and, behold, a company of Ishmaelites was coming from Gilëad; and their camels were bearing spicery, and balm, and lotus, going to carry it down to Egypt.

26 And Judah said unto his brothers, What profit will it be if we slay our brother, and conceal his blood?

27 Come, and let us sell him to the Ishmaelites, but let our hand not be upon him; for he is our brother, our flesh. And his brothers hearkened to him.

28 And when the Midianitish[b] men, merchants, passed by, they drew and lifted up Joseph out of the pit, and sold Joseph to the Ishmaelites for twenty pieces of silver: and they brought Joseph into Egypt.

29 And when Reüben returned unto the pit, and, behold, Joseph was not in the pit, he rent his clothes.

30 And he returned unto his brothers, and said, The child is not there; and I, whither shall I go?

31 And they took Joseph's coat, and killed a he-goat,[c] and dipped the coat in the blood;

32 And they sent the coat of many colours, and they brought it to their father, and said, This have we found: acknowledge, we pray thee, whether it be thy son's coat or not.

33 And he recognised it, and said, It is my son's coat; an evil beast hath devoured him; Joseph is surely torn in pieces.

34 And Jacob rent his clothes, and put sackcloth upon his loins, and mourned for his son many days.

35 And all his sons and all his daughters rose up to comfort him; but he refused to be comforted; and he said, For I must go down unto my son, mourning, into the grave; thus his father wept for him.

36 And the Midianites sold him into Egypt unto Potiphar, an officer of Pharaoh's, the captain of the guards.*

CHAPTER XXXVIII.

1 ¶ And it came to pass at that time, that Judah went down from his brothers, and he pitched[a] his tent with a certain Adullamite whose name was Chirah.

[a] This phrase, frequently used in Scripture, expresses the readiness to do what is bidden.

[b] "The term Ishmaelites, in this and verse 25, appears to have been the collective names of all the בני קדם 'the eastern nations;' as the Turks now call all Europeans, 'Franks.'"—Arnheim. The Midianitish merchants are accordingly the same Ishmaelites spoken of at first; and this, which is also after Rashbam, is evidently the correct construction.

2 And Judah saw there a daughter of a certain Canaanite,[b] whose name was Shua; and he took her, and went in unto her.

3 And she conceived, and bore a son; and he called his name 'Er.

4 And she conceived again, and bore a son; and she called his name Onan.

5 And she again bore another son; and she called his name Shelah: and he was at Chezib, when she bore him.

6 And Judah took a wife for 'Er his first-born, whose name was Tamar.

7 And 'Er, Judah's first-born, was displeasing in the eyes of the LORD; and the LORD slew him.

8 And Judah said unto Onan, Go in unto thy brother's wife, and take her, as her brother-in-law,[c] and raise up seed to thy brother.

9 Onan thus knew that the seed should not be his; and it came to pass, when he went in unto his brother's wife, that he spilled it on the ground, so as not to give seed unto his brother.

10 And the thing which he did was displeasing in the eyes of the LORD; wherefore he slew him also.

11 Then said Judah to Tamar his daughter-in-law, Remain a widow at thy father's house, till Shelah my son be grown; for he thought, Lest peradventure he die also, as his brothers have done. And Tamar went and dwelt in her father's house.

12 And many days had elapsed when the daughter of Shua, Judah's wife, died; and after Judah was comforted, he went up unto his sheep-shearers, he and his friend Chirah the Adullamite, to Timnah.

13 And it was told unto Tamar, saying, Behold thy father-in-law goeth up to Timnah to shear his sheep.

14 And she put her widow's garments off from her, and covered herself with a vail, and concealed her face, and seated herself at the cross-road,[d] which is by the way to Timnah; for she saw that Shelah was grown, and she was not given unto him for wife.

15 And Judah saw her, and thought her to be a harlot; because she had covered her face.

16 And he turned unto her by the way, and said, Go to, I pray thee, let me come in unto thee; (for he knew not that she was his daughter-in-law.) And she said, What wilt thou give me, that thou mayest come in unto me?

17 And he said, I will send thee a kid from the flock. And she said, If thou wilt give me a pledge, till thou send it.

18 And he said, What is the pledge which I shall give thee? And she said, Thy signet, and thy scarf,[e] and thy staff that is in thy hand. And he gave them to her, and came in unto her, and she conceived by him.

19 And she arose, and went away, and laid by her vail from her, and put on the garments of her widowhood.

20 And Judah sent the kid by the hand of his friend the Adullamite, to take the pledge out of the woman's hand; but he found her not.

21 Then he asked the men of her place, saying, Where is the harlot, that was at the cross-road on the highway? And they said, There hath been no harlot in this neighbourhood.

22 And he returned to Judah, and said, I cannot find her; and also the men of the place have said, There hath been no harlot in this place.

23 And Judah said, Let her keep it, lest we be put to shame; behold, I sent this kid, and thou hast not found her.

24 And it came to pass about three months after, that it was told to Judah, saying, Tamar thy daughter-in-law hath played the harlot; and also, behold, she is with child by prostitution. And Judah said, Lead her forth, and let her be burnt.

25 When she was led forth, she sent to her father-in-law, saying, By the man, whose these are, am I with child: and she said, Acknowledge, I pray thee, to whom belong these, the signet, the scarf, and staff.

26 And Judah acknowledged them, and said, She hath been more righteous than I;

27 And it came to pass at the time of her travail, that, behold, twins were in her womb.

28 And it came to pass, when she travailed, that the one put out his hand: and the midwife took and bound upon his hand a scarlet thread, saying, This came out first.

29 And it came to pass, as he drew back his hand, that, behold his brother came out; and she said, How hast thou broken forth? this breach is upon thee: therefore his name was called Perez.[a]

30 And afterward came out his brother, that had the scarlet thread upon his hand: and his name was called Zerach.[b]*

CHAPTER XXXIX.

1 ¶ And Joseph was brought down to Egypt; and Potiphar, an officer of Pharaoh, the captain of the guards, an Egyptian, bought him of the hands of the Ishmaelites, who had brought him down thither.

2 And the LORD was with Joseph, and he was a prosperous man; and he was thus in the house of his master the Egyptian.

3 And when his master saw that the LORD was with him, and that the LORD caused all that he did to prosper in his hand:

4 Joseph found grace in his eyes, and he served him; and he made him overseer over his house, and all that he had he put into his hand.

5 And it came to pass from the time he had made him overseer in his house, and over all that he had, that the LORD blessed the Egyptian's house for the sake of Joseph; and the blessing of the LORD was upon all that he had, in the house and in the field.

6 And he left all that he had in Joseph's hand; and he troubled himself not[c] about aught he had, save the bread which he did eat. And Joseph was handsome in form and handsome in appearance.*

7 And it came to pass after these things, that his master's wife cast her eyes upon Joseph; and she said, Lie with me.

8 But he refused, and said unto his master's wife, Behold, my master troubleth himself not about what is with me in the house, and he hath committed all that he hath into my hand;

9 There is none greater in this house than I; neither hath he kept back any thing from me but thee, because thou art his wife: how then can I do this great evil, and sin against God?[d]

10 And it came to pass, as she spoke to Joseph day by day, and he hearkened not unto her, to lie by her, or to be with her;

11 That it came to pass one particular day, that he went into the house to do his business; and there was none of the men of the house there within.

12 And she caught him by his garment, saying, Lie with me; and he left his garment in her hand, and fled, and ran out into the street.

13 And it came to pass, when she saw that he had left his garment in her hand, and was fled forth,

14 That she called unto the men of her house, and spoke unto them, saying, See, he hath brought in unto us a Hebrew man to have his sport[e] with us; he came in unto me to lie with me, and I cried with a loud voice:

15 And it came to pass, when he heard that I lifted up my voice and cried, that he left his garment with me, and fled, and ran out into the street.

16 And she laid up his garment by her until his lord came home.

17 And she spoke unto him according to these words, saying, The Hebrew servant whom thou hast brought unto us, came in unto me to have his sport with me.

18 And it came to pass, as I lifted up my voice and cried, that he left his garment with me, and fled forth.

19 And it came to pass, when his master heard the words of his wife, which she spoke unto him, saying, After this manner hath thy servant done to me; that his wrath was kindled.

[d] This assertion of Joseph clearly proves with Scripture evidence, that the sons of Noah were prohibited the commission of incest. When therefore the Canaanites became corrupt, and lived in a manner so contrary to the laws of the Bible in this respect, they were justly doomed to expulsion from the land which they had defiled. This view of the subject will also explain the passage in Leviticus xix. 27, 28.

20 And Joseph's master took him, and put him into the prison,[a] the place where the king's prisoners were imprisoned: and he was there in the prison.

21 But the LORD was with Joseph, and caused him to find kindness, and gave him favour in the eyes of the superintendent of the prison.

22 And the superintendent of the prison committed into Joseph's hand all the prisoners that were in the prison; and whatsoever they did there, was done through him.[b]

23 The superintendent of the prison looked not after the least that was under his hand, because the LORD was with him; and that which he did, the LORD made to prosper.*

CHAPTER XL.

1 ¶ And it came to pass after these things, that the butler of the king of Egypt and the baker committed an offence, against their lord the king of Egypt.

2 And Pharaoh was wroth against his two officers, against the chief of the butlers, and against the chief of the bakers.

3 And he put them in ward in the house of the captain of the guards, into the prison, the place where Joseph was confined.[c]

4 And the captain of the guards charged Joseph with them, and he served them; and they continued a season[d] in ward.

5 And they dreamed a dream, both of them, each his dream in one night, each in accordance with the interpretation of his dream, the butler and the baker of the king of Egypt, who were confined in the prison.

6 And Joseph came in unto them in the morning, and looked at them, and, behold, they were sad.

7 And he asked the officers of Pharaoh that were with him in ward in his lord's house, saying, Wherefore look ye so sadly to-day?

8 And they said unto him, We have dreamed a dream, and there is none to interpret it. And Joseph said unto them, Do not interpretations belong to God? tell it to me, I pray you.

9 The chief of the butlers then told his dream to Joseph, and said to him, In my dream, behold, a vine was before me;

10 And on the vine were three branches; and it was as though it budded, shot forth its blossoms, and on its clusters the grapes became ripe:

11 And Pharaoh's cup was in my hand; and I took the grapes, and pressed them out into Pharaoh's cup, and I placed the cup into Pharaoh's hand.

12 And Joseph said unto him, This is its interpretation: The three branches are three days;

13 Within yet three days will Pharaoh lift up thy head, and restore thee unto thy office; and thou shalt place Pharaoh's cup into his hand, after the former manner when thou wast his butler.

14 Therefore if thou thinkest on me when it shall be well with thee, then show kindness, I pray thee, unto me, and make mention of me unto Pharaoh, and bring me out of this house;

15 For indeed I was stolen away out of the land of the Hebrews; and here also have I not done the least that they should put me into the dungeon.

16 And when the chief of the bakers saw that he had well interpreted, he said unto Joseph, I also (saw) in my dream, and, behold, I had three baskets with fine bread on my head:[e]

17 And in the uppermost basket there was of all manner of bakemeats, used as food for Pharaoh; and the birds did eat them out of the basket from my head.

18 And Joseph answered and said, This is its interpretation: The three baskets are three days;

19 Within yet three days will Pharaoh lift up thy head from off thee, and will hang thee on a tree; and the birds shall eat thy flesh from off thee.*

20 And it came to pass on the third day,

[e] חרי is perhaps an abbreviation for חרים, "nobles, lords," and it is then an ellipsis for לחם חרים, "bread for the lords." Arnheim and Rashi and others derive חרי from חור "hole," thus, "baskets full of holes." Saadiah takes it as synonymous with חיור the Aramaic for "white," thus, "baskets with white or fine bread," as rendered in our text. Philippson renders "baskets for fine bread," i. e. such as are used to put fine bread in.

which was Pharaoh's birthday, that he made a feast unto all his servants: and he lifted up the head of the chief of the butlers and the head of the chief of the bakers among his servants.

21 And he restored the chief of the butlers unto his butlership; and he placed the cup into Pharaoh's hand;

22 But the chief of the bakers he hanged, as Joseph had interpreted to them.

23 Yet the chief of the butlers did not remember Joseph, and forgot him.

SECTION X. MICKETZ, מִקֵּץ.

CHAPTER XLI.

1 ¶ And it came to pass at the end of two full years, that Pharaoh dreamed; and behold he stood by the river.

2 And, behold, there came up out of the river seven cows, of good appearance and fat in flesh; and they fed in the meadow.[a]

3 And, behold, seven other cows came up after them out of the river, ill-favoured and lean in flesh; and they stood by the other cows upon the brink of the river.

4 And the ill-favoured and lean-fleshed cows did eat up the seven well-favoured and fat cows. And Pharaoh awoke.

5 And he slept and dreamed a second time: and, behold, seven ears of corn came up on one stalk, rank and good.

6 And, behold, seven thin ears and blasted[b] with the east wind sprung up after them.

7 And the seven thin ears swallowed up the seven rank and full ears. And Pharaoh awoke, and, behold, it was a dream.[c]

8 And it came to pass in the morning that his spirit was troubled; and he sent and called for all the magicians of Egypt, and all the wise men thereof: and Pharaoh told them his dream; but there was none that could interpret the same unto Pharaoh.

9 Then spoke the chief of the butlers unto Pharaoh, saying, My faults I must call to remembrance this day:

10 Pharaoh was wroth with his servants, and put me in ward in the house of the captain of the guards, me and the chief of the bakers;

11 And we dreamed a dream in one night, I and he; we dreamed each in accordance with the interpretation of his dream.

12 And there was with us a Hebrew lad, a servant to the captain of the guards; and we told him, and he interpreted to us our dreams; to each according to his dream did he interpret.

13 And it came to pass, just as he had interpreted to us, so it was; me he restored unto my office, and him he hanged.

14 Then Pharaoh sent and had Joseph called, and they brought him hastily out of the dungeon: and he shaved himself, and changed his garments, and came in unto Pharaoh.[*]

15 And Pharaoh said unto Joseph, I have dreamed a dream, and there is none that can interpret it: and I have heard say of thee, that thou canst understand a dream to interpret it.

16 And Joseph answered Pharaoh, saying, It is not in me; God will give an answer for the peace of Pharaoh.[*d]

17 And Pharaoh said unto Joseph, In my dream, behold, I stood upon the brink of the river;

18 And, behold, there came up out of the river seven cows, fat in flesh and good in shape; and they fed in the meadow;

19 And, behold, seven other cows came up after them, poor and very ill-shaped and lean in flesh; I never saw any like these in all the land of Egypt for ugliness;

20 And the lean and the ill-favoured cows did eat up the first seven fat cows;

21 And when they had eaten them up,[e] it could not be known that they had eaten them; but their appearance was still as bad as at the beginning. And I awoke.

22 And I saw in my dream, and, behold, seven ears came up on one stalk, full and good;

23 And, behold, seven ears, withered, thin,

[a] "Swamp," RASHI; "among the reeds," ARNHEIM.

[b] Rashi and Onkelos take שרף as equal to שקף, "to thrash out, to beat frequently;" Arnheim, however, explains it as equal to שוף "to burn," (Song of Sol. i. 6;) which would properly give the version "blasted."

[c] "Only on awaking he recognised that he had dreamed, so like reality was his dream."—ARNHEIM.

[d] "The wisdom is not mine, but God will put an answer in my mouth for the welfare of Pharaoh."—RASHI.

[e] Heb. "Came into their inward part."

blasted with the east wind, sprung up after them;

24 And the thin ears devoured the seven good ears: and I told this unto the magicians; but there was none that could tell it to me.

25 And Joseph said unto Pharaoh, The dream of Pharaoh is one, that which God is about to do, he hath told to Pharaoh.

26 The seven good cows are seven years; and the seven good ears are seven years; the dream is one.

27 And the seven thin and ill-favoured cows that came up after them are seven years; and the seven empty ears, blasted with the east wind, shall be seven years of famine.

28 This is the thing which I have spoken unto Pharaoh: What God is about to do he hath shown unto Pharaoh.

29 Behold, there are coming seven years of great plenty throughout all the land of Egypt:

30 And there shall arise seven years of famine after them, when all the plenty shall be forgotten in the land of Egypt; and the famine shall consume the land;

31 And the plenty shall not be known in the land by reason of that famine following it; for it shall be very grievous.

32 And as it respecteth that the dream was doubled unto Pharaoh twice, it is because the thing is firmly resolved on by God, and God hasteneth to bring it to pass.

33 Now therefore let Pharaoh[a] look out a man discreet and wise, and set him over the land of Egypt.

34 Let Pharaoh do this, and let him appoint officers over the land, and take up the fifth part (of the produce) of the land of Egypt in the seven years of plenty.

35 And let them gather up all the food of those good years that are coming, and lay up corn under the hand of Pharaoh, as food in the cities, and keep the same.

36 And that food shall be for a store to the land against the seven years of famine, which shall be in the land of Egypt; that the land be not cut off through the famine.

37 And the thing was good in the eyes of Pharaoh, and in the eyes of all his servants.

38 And Pharaoh said unto his servants, Can we find such a one as this, a man in whom the spirit of God is?*

39 And Pharaoh said unto Joseph, Inasmuch as God hath caused thee to know all this, there is none so discreet and wise as thou:

40 Thou shalt be over my house, and according to thy word shall all my people be ruled; only in regard to the throne will I be greater than thou.

41 And Pharaoh said unto Joseph, See, I have set thee over all the land of Egypt.

42 And Pharaoh took off his ring from his hand, and put it upon Joseph's hand, and arrayed him in vestures of fine linen, and put a golden chain about his neck;

43 And he caused him to ride in the second chariot which he had; and they cried before him, Bend the knee:[b] and he placed him (thus) over all the land of Egypt.

44 And Pharaoh said unto Joseph, I am Pharaoh; but without thee shall no man lift up his hand or his foot in all the land of Egypt.

45 And Pharaoh called Joseph's name Zaphenath-pa'neäch;[c] and he gave him Assenath the daughter of Poti-phera', the priest[d] of On, for wife. And Joseph went out over all the land of Egypt.

46 And Joseph was thirty years old when he stood before Pharaoh the king of Egypt; and Joseph went out from the presence of Pharaoh, and went throughout all the land of Egypt.

[a] "This is not an advice; for who authorized him to act as counsellor to the king? but it belongs likewise to the interpretation; therefore had God at that time also shown him the seven years of famine, which would not happen till after the expiration of the seven years of plenty, in order to induce Pharaoh to look out an intelligent man to heap up corn for the support of the people; for if God had not now made him acquainted with the famine, he would not have been induced to heap up corn, and all would then have died in the famine."—Dubno.

[b] Arnheim leaves the Hebrew אברך untranslated; Onkelos renders it, "This is the father of the king;" but Mendelssohn, after other commentators, derives the word from ברך "the knee," and assumes it to be in the imperative of the Hiphil, with the א instead of ה, which would give us the words "bend the knee."

[c] "Revealer of secret things," Rambam: according to others, however, the words are pure Egyptian, and mean "Saviour of the world," or "of the century."

[d] "Lord of On," Onkelos. This place was afterwards called by the Greeks "Heliopolis," the "city of the sun;" by the Hebrews, "Beth Shemesh," the house of the sun." On is said to be an Egyptian word, signifying "light," or "sun."

47 And the earth brought forth in the seven years of plenty by handfuls.[a]

48 And he gathered up all the food of the seven years, which were in the land of Egypt, and laid up the food in the cities: the food of the field of the city, which was round about it, laid he up in the same.

49 And Joseph heaped up corn as the sand of the sea, very much; until he left off numbering, for it was without number.

50 And unto Joseph were born two sons before the years of famine came, whom Asenath the daughter of Poti-phera' the priest of On, bore unto him.

51 And Joseph called the name of the first-born Menasseh:[b] For God (said he) hath made me forget all my toil, and all my father's house.

52 And the name of the second he called Ephraim;[c] For God (said he) hath caused me to be fruitful in the land of my affliction.[*]

53 And the seven years of plenty, that was in the land of Egypt, were ended.

54 And the seven years of famine began to come, just as Joseph had said; and there was famine in all the countries, but in all the land of Egypt there was bread.

55 And when all the land of Egypt also felt hunger, the people cried to Pharaoh for bread: and Pharaoh said unto all the Egyptians, Go unto Joseph; what he saith to you, do.

56 And the famine was over all the face of the earth: and Joseph opened all the storehouses,[d] wherein corn was, and sold unto the Egyptians; for the famine grew strong in the land of Egypt.

57 And all the countries[e] came into Egypt to buy corn of Joseph; because the famine was sore in all the countries.

CHAPTER XLII.

1 And when Jacob saw that there was corn in Egypt, Jacob said unto his sons, Why do ye look at one another?

2 And he said, Behold, I have heard that there is corn in Egypt; get you down thither, and buy for us provision from there, that we may live, and not die.

3 And ten brothers of Joseph went down to buy corn in Egypt.

4 But Benjamin, Joseph's brother, Jacob sent not with his brothers; for he said, Lest mischief befall him.

5 And the sons of Israel came to buy corn among those that came; for the famine was in the land of Canaan.

6 And Joseph—he was the governor over the land, it was he that sold corn to all the people of the land; and Joseph's brothers came, and bowed themselves down before him with the face to the earth.

7 And Joseph saw his brothers, and he recognised them; but made himself strange unto them, and spoke roughly unto them; and he said unto them, Whence come ye? And they said, From the land of Canaan to buy food.

8 And Joseph recognised his brothers, but they recognised not him.

9 And Joseph remembered the dreams which he had dreamed concerning them, and he said unto them, Ye are spies; to see the nakedness of the land are ye come.

10 And they said unto him, No, my lord, thy servants are only come to buy food.

11 We all are sons of one man; we are true men; thy servants have never been spies.

12 And he said unto them, No! but to see the nakedness of the land are ye come.

13 And they said, We, thy servants, are twelve brothers, sons of one man in the land of Canaan; and, behold, the youngest is this day with our father, and one is no more.

14 And Joseph said unto them, It is[f] as I have spoken unto you, saying, Ye are spies;

15 Hereby shall ye be proved: By the life of Pharaoh, ye shall not go forth hence, except your youngest brother come hither.

[a] That is, each grain of corn produced a handful of its kind.

[b] Menasheh, from nashoh, "to forget."

[c] Ephrayim, from paroh, "to be fruitful."

[d] Heb. "All in which was;" the ellipses are supplied, according to Onkelos, first with "storehouses," and secondly, with "corn."

[e] This term, which is also used in the preceding verse, and there rendered "all the earth," evidently is an hyperbolical expression, and alludes to the parts of the earth contiguous to and having commercial intercourse with Egypt, such as Phœnicia, Palestine, and Arabia. Mendelssohn renders "all the people from the country around;" but Onkelos translates here וכל ארעא with וכל דיירי ארעא "all inhabitants of the earth:" still the sense is the same.

[f] Joseph meant that the contradiction of which they were guilty, proved the truth of his suspicion. First they were ten brothers, and immediately afterward twelve, and thus he pretended that he could place no confidence in their assertions.

16 Send one of you, and let him fetch your brother, and ye shall be kept in prison, that your words may be proved, whether the truth be with you; and if not, by the life of Pharaoh, ye are surely spies.

17 And he put them together into ward three days.

18 And Joseph said unto them on the third day, This do, and live; I fear God.*

19 If ye be true men, let one of your brothers remain imprisoned in the house of your confinement; but ye, go, carry home what you have bought for the want of your household.

20 But your youngest brother bring unto me; so shall your words be verified, and ye shall not die. And they did so.

21 And they said one to another, Truly we are guilty[a] concerning our brother, in that we saw the anguish of his soul, when he besought us, and we would not hear; therefore is this distress come upon us.

22 And Reüben answered them, saying, Did I not say unto you, thus, Do not sin against the child; and ye would not hear? and behold, his blood also is now required.

23 And they knew not that Joseph understood them; for he spoke unto them by an interpreter.

24 And he turned himself away from them, and wept; and returned to them again, and spoke with them, and took from them Simeon, and bound him before their eyes.

25 And Joseph commanded to fill their sacks with corn, and to restore every man's money into his sack, and to give them provision for the way; and he[b] did unto them thus.

26 And they loaded their asses with their corn, and departed thence.

27 And one of them opened his sack to give his ass provender in the inn: when he espied his money, for, behold, it was in the mouth of his sack.

28 And he said unto his brothers, My money hath been restored; and, lo, it is even in my sack: and their heart failed them, and they were afraid,[c] saying one to another, What is this that God hath done unto us?

29 And they came unto Jacob their father unto the land of Canaan, and they told him all that had befallen them; saying,

30 The man, the lord of the land, spoke roughly to us, and took us as though we were espying the country.

31 And we said unto him, We are true men; we have never been spies:

32 We are twelve brothers, sons of our father; the one is no more, and the youngest is this day with our father in the land of Canaan.

33 And the man, the lord of the country, said unto us, Hereby shall I know that ye are true men: leave one of your brothers here with me, and (the food for) the want of your households take ye and be gone;

34 And bring your youngest brother unto me; then shall I know that ye are no spies, but that ye are true men; your brother I will give up to you, and in the land ye shall be allowed to traffic.

35 And it came to pass as they were emptying their sacks, that, behold, every man's bundle of money was in his sack: and when they saw the bundles of their money, they and their father, they were afraid.

36 And Jacob their father said unto them, Me ye have bereaved of my children: Joseph is gone, and Simeon is gone, and Benjamin ye will take away; all these things are against me.[d]

37 And Reüben said unto his father, thus, Two of my sons shalt thou slay, if I bring him not to thee; deliver him into my hand, and I will bring him back to thee.

38 And he said, My son shall not go down with you; for his brother is dead, and he alone is left: and if mischief befall him by the way in which ye go, then will ye bring down my gray hairs with sorrow to the grave.

[a] "Truly we suffer punishment for our brother's sake, whose anguish of soul we saw," &c.—ARNHEIM.

[b] Probably alluding to the superintendent who is mentioned hereafter.

[c] They no doubt suspected that the restoration of the money was not accidental; hence they thought that it was a new infliction of punishment for their sins.

[d] Lit. "Over me have all these events been;" meaning, I alone have to suffer from all these events. Jacob perhaps suspected that his other sons, out of some wicked feeling, had left Joseph and Simeon to perish, and he thus upbraids them with their indifference to his sorrows. They might regard little the perilling of the life of two brothers, and endangering that of another; but he could not be callous to the fate of those so dear to him.

CHAPTER XLIII.

1 And the famine was sore in the land.

2 And it came to pass, when they had completely eaten up the provisions[a] which they had brought out of Egypt, that their father said unto them, Go again, buy us a little food.

3 And Judah said unto him, thus, The man did solemnly protest unto us, saying, Ye shall not see my face, except your brother be with you.

4 If thou wilt send our brother with us, we will go down and buy thee food;

5 But if thou sendest him not, we will not go down; for the man said unto us, Ye shall not see my face, except your brother be with you.

6 And Israel said, Wherefore have ye dealt so ill with me, as to tell the man that ye have yet another brother?

7 And they said, The man inquired particularly concerning us, and our kindred, saying, Is your father yet alive? have ye another brother? and we told him according to the tenor of these words: could we possibly know that he would say, Bring down your brother?

8 And Judah said unto Israel his father, Send the lad with me, and we will arise and go; that we may live, and not die, both we, and thou, as also our little ones.

9 I will be surety for him; from my hand shalt thou require him: if I bring him not unto thee, and set him before thee, then shall I have sinned against thee all the days.

10 For, if we had not lingered, surely we had now returned the second time.

11 And their father Israel said unto them, If it must be so now, do this: take of the best[b] products of the land in your vessels, and carry down to the man a present, a little balm, and a little honey, spices, and lotus, pistachio-nuts and almonds;

12 And twofold money take in your hand; and the money that was put back in the mouth of your sacks, you must carry back in your hand; peradventure it was an oversight;

13 Also your brother take along, and arise, go again unto the man.

14 And may God the Almighty give you mercy before the man, that he may send away to you your other brother, and Benjamin. And I, if I am to be bereaved, let me be bereaved.[c]

15 And the men took that present; and twofold money they took in their hand, as also Benjamin; and they rose up, and went down to Egypt, and stood before Joseph.*

16 And when Joseph saw Benjamin with them, he said to the superintendent of his house, Bring these men into the house, and slay, and make ready; for with me shall these men dine at noon.

17 And the man did as Joseph had said; and the man brought the men into Joseph's house.

18 And the men were afraid, because they were brought into Joseph's house: and they said, Because of the money that came back in our sacks at the first time are we brought in; that he may seek occasion against us, and fall upon us, and take us for boudmen, together with our asses.

19 And they came near to the man who was appointed over Joseph's house, and they spoke with him at the door of the house,

20 And they said, Pardon, my lord, we came down at the first time to buy food:

21 And it came to pass, when we came to the inn, that we opened our sacks, and, behold, every man's money was in the mouth of his sack, our money in its full weight; and we have brought it back in our hand.

22 And other money have we brought down in our hand to buy food; we know not who hath put our money in our sacks.

23 And he said, Peace be to you, fear not; your God, and the God of your father, hath given you a treasure in your sacks; your money hath come to me. And he brought Simeon out unto them.

[a] שבר sheber has been rendered varyingly in the text, "corn," "provision," and "what hath been bought," as all signifying the same.

[b] Heb. זמרת from זמר "to sing," or "praise," meaning those things for which the land is praised abroad. Philippson remarks that the smallness of the present showed the simplicity of Jacob's notions of the ruler of Egypt, as he wished to propitiate him with a gift suitable perhaps to the petty chiefs of Palestine. So also with regard to the fear expressed by the brothers in v. 18, that their beasts might be seized.

[c] This version is according to Mendelssohn. Onkelos renders the Hebrew words merely by synonymies. Arnheim, however, adds the words אז and עתה and says, "I, however, am either way bereaved of my children." Be this as it may, it is an expression of resignation. (Compare with Esther iv. 16.)

24 And the man brought the men into Joseph's house; and he gave them water, and they washed their feet, and he gave provender to their asses.

25 And they made ready the present before Joseph came home at noon; for they had heard that they should eat bread there.

26 And when Joseph came home, they brought him the present which was in their hand into the house, and bowed themselves to him to the earth.

27 And he asked them after their welfare, and said, Is you old father well, of whom ye spoke? is he yet alive?

28 And they answered, Thy servant, our father, is in good health, he is yet alive. And they bowed down their heads, and prostrated themselves.

29 And he lifted up his eyes, and saw his brother Benjamin, his mother's son, and said, Is this your youngest brother, of whom ye spoke unto me? And he said, God be gracious unto thee, my son.[35]

30 And Joseph hastened away, for his affection toward his brother became enkindled, and he sought to weep; and he entered into his chamber, and wept there.

31 And he washed his face, and came out, and refrained himself, and said, Set on the bread.[a]

32 And they set on for him by himself, and for them by themselves; and for the Egyptians, who did eat with him, by themselves; because the Egyptians may not eat bread with the Hebrews; for that is an abomination unto the Egyptians.

33 And they sat before him, the first-born according to his prior birth, and the youngest according to his youth;[b] and the men marvelled one at the other.

34 And he sent portions[c] unto them from before him; but Benjamin's portion exceeded the portions of all of them fivefold. And they drank, and were merry with him.

CHAPTER XLIV.

1 And he commanded the superintendent of his house, saying, Fill the sacks of these men with food, as much as they can carry, and put every man's money in the mouth of his sack.

2 And my cup, the silver cup, thou shalt put in the mouth of the sack of the youngest, and the money for his corn. And he did according to the word of Joseph which he had spoken.

3 As soon as the morning was light, the men were sent away, they and their asses.

4 They were gone out of the city, not yet far off, when Joseph said unto the superintendent of his house, Up, follow after the men; and when thou hast overtaken them, say unto them, Wherefore have ye returned evil for good?

5 Is not this out of which my lord drinketh, and whereby indeed he divineth? ye have done evil in so doing.

6 And he overtook them, and he spoke unto them these same words.

7 And they said unto him, Wherefore will my lord speak such words as these? God forbid that thy servants should do any thing like this.

8 Behold the money, which we found in the mouth of our sacks, we brought back unto thee out of the land of Canaan: how then should we steal out of thy lord's house silver or gold?

9 With whomsoever of thy servants it be found, let him die; and we also will be bondmen unto my lord.

10 And he said, Now also let it be according to your words:[d] he with whom it is found shall be my servant; but ye shall be blameless.

11 And they made haste, and every one of them took down his sack to the ground, and every one opened his sack.

[a] In modern phrase, "Put the dinner on the table."

[b] There can be no doubt of the correctness of the tradition that Joseph ordered them to sit down according to their age. Hence their astonishment. Perhaps, too, he may have pretended to divine with his silver cup, out of which he afterward drank.

[c] This custom is explained by that yet prevailing in Persia, where the various things to be eaten are brought in on a large dish at once, and one dish is placed before two or three guests. Before a guest of high rank, or one whom the entertainer desires to distinguish, a particular dish is put, upon which one after the other, up to fifteen, different kinds of food are placed.—PHILIPPSON.

[d] "It is my wish that you prove yourselves as honest now as on the former occasion," is the explanation of Arnheim, after ABARBENEL; but Rashi explains, "You are right, so is the law; you are all guilty; if a thief is found with one of ten, they are all culpable; but I will not act with you in strict justice, but only make the thief my bondman."

12 And he searched, at the eldest he began, and at the youngest he left off; and the cup was found in Benjamin's sack.

13 Then they rent their clothes, and every one loaded his ass, and they returned to the city.*

14 And Judah and his brothers came into Joseph's house, and he was yet there; and they fell down before him on the ground.

15 And Joseph said unto them, What deed is this that ye have done? knew ye not that such a man as I can certainly divine?

16 And Judah said, What shall we say unto my lord? what shall we speak? or how shall we justify ourselves? God hath found out the iniquity of thy servants: behold we are servants unto my lord, both we, as also he in whose hand the cup was found.

17 And he said, God forbid that I should do this: the man in whose hand the cup was found, he shall be my servant; and as for you, go you up in peace unto your father.

Haphtorah in 1 Kings iii. 15 to iv. 1.

SECTION XI. VAYIGGASH, ויגש.

18 ¶ Then Judah came near unto him, and said, Pardon, my lord, let thy servant, I pray thee, speak a word in my lord's ears, and let not thy anger burn against thy servant; for thou art even as Pharaoh.

19 My lord asked his servants, saying, Have ye a father, or a brother?

20 And we said unto my lord, We have an old father, and a little[a] child born in his old age; and his brother is dead, and he alone is left of his mother, and his father loveth him.

21 And thou saidst unto thy servants, Bring him down unto me, that I may set my eye upon him.

22 And we said unto my lord, The lad cannot leave his father; for if he should leave his father, he would die.

23 And thou saidst unto thy servants, Except your youngest brother come down with you, ye shall not see my face any more.

24 And it came to pass, when we came up unto thy servant my father, that we told him the words of my lord.

25 And our father said, Go back, and buy us a little food.

26 And we said, We cannot go down: if our youngest brother be with us, then will we go down; for we cannot see the man's face, except our youngest brother be with us.

27 And thy servant my father said unto us, Ye know that my wife bore me two sons;

28 And the one went out from me, and I said, Surely he hath been torn in pieces; and I have not seen him up to this time.

29 And if ye take this one also from me, and mischief befall him, ye will bring down my gray hairs with sorrow to the grave.

30 And now, when I come to thy servant my father, and the lad be not with us; seeing that his life[b] is bound up in the lad's life;*

31 It will come to pass, that when he seeth that the lad is not with us, he will die: and thy servants would thus bring down the gray hairs of thy servant our father with sorrow to the grave.

32 For thy servant became surety for the lad unto my father, saying, If I bring him not unto thee, then shall I have sinned against my father all the days.

33 Now therefore, I pray thee, let thy servant abide instead of the lad as bondman to my lord; and let the lad go up with his brothers.

34 For how shall I go up to my father, and the lad be not with me? I should[c] perhaps be compelled to witness the evil which would come on my father.

CHAPTER XLV.

1 Then could Joseph not refrain himself before all those that stood by him; and he cried, Cause every man to go out from me. And there remained no man with him, while Joseph made himself known unto his brothers.

2 And he raised his voice in weeping; and the Egyptians heard it, and the house of Pharaoh heard it.

3 And Joseph said unto his brothers, I am Joseph; doth my father yet live? And his brothers could not answer him; for they were terrified at his presence.

[a] "Little," or "young," in comparison with his other brothers, all older than he.

[b] "His soul is bound to his soul."—Arnheim. "His soul is as dear to him as his own soul."—Onkelos.

[c] Mendelssohn renders פֶּן as a negative: "I would not be able to look on the distress which would overtake my father." I have translated according to Onkelos.

4 And Joseph said unto his brothers, Come near to me, I pray you; and they came near; and he said, I am Joseph your brother, whom ye sold into Egypt.

5 But now be not grieved, nor be angry[a] with yourselves, that ye sold me hither; for in order to preserve life did God send me before you.

6 For these two years hath the famine been already in the land; and there are yet five years, in which there will be neither ploughing nor harvesting.

7 And God hath thus sent me before you to prepare for you a permanence on the earth, and to save your lives by a great deliverance.*

8 So now it was not you that sent me hither, but God; and he hath made me a father to Pharaoh, and a lord for all his house, and a ruler throughout all the land of Egypt.

9 Haste ye, and go up to my father, and say unto him, Thus hath said thy son Joseph, God hath made me lord of all Egypt; come down unto me, tarry not.

10 And thou shalt dwell in the land of Goshen, and thou shalt be near unto me, thou, and thy children, and thy children's children, and thy flocks, and thy herds, and all that is thine.

11 And I will maintain thee there; for there are yet five years of famine; lest thou, and thy household, and all that thou hast, come to poverty.

12 And, behold, your own eyes see, and the eyes of my brother Benjamin, that it is my mouth[b] that speaketh unto you.

13 And ye shall tell my father of all my honour in Egypt, and of all that ye have seen; and ye shall hasten and bring down my father hither.

14 And he fell upon his brother Benjamin's neck, and wept; and Benjamin wept upon his neck.

15 And he kissed all his brothers, and wept upon them; and after that his brothers spoke with him.

16 And the report thereof was heard in Pharaoh's house, saying, Joseph's brothers are come; and it was pleasing in the eyes of Pharaoh, and in the eyes of his servants.

17 And Pharaoh said unto Joseph, Say unto thy brothers, This do ye; load your beasts, and go, get you unto the land of Canaan;

18 And take your father and your households, and come unto me; and I will give you the best[c] of the land of Egypt, and ye shall eat the fat of the land.*

19 And thou art commanded,[d] This do ye, take unto yourselves out of the land of Egypt wagons for your little ones, and for your wives, and take up your father, and come.

20 And do ye feel no concern[e] on account of your household goods; for the best of all the land of Egypt is yours.

21 And the children of Israel did so; and Joseph gave them wagons, according to the command of Pharaoh; and he gave them provision for the way.

22 To all of them he gave to each changes of raiment; but to Benjamin he gave three hundred pieces of silver, and five changes of raiment.

23 And to his father he sent after this manner: ten asses laden with the best things of Egypt, and ten she-asses laden with corn and bread and other food for his father, for the journey.

24 And he accompanied[f] his brothers on the way, and they departed: and he said unto them, Do not fall out by the way.

25 And they went up out of Egypt, and came into the land of Canaan, unto Jacob their father.

26 And they told him, saying, Joseph is yet alive; and that he is governor over all the land of Egypt. But his heart remained cold, for he believed them not.

27 But when they told him all the words of Joseph, which he had said unto them; and when he saw the wagons which Joseph had sent to carry him: the spirit of Jacob their father revived.*

[a] Lit. "Let it not be grievous in your eyes."

[b] Before he spoke to them through an interpreter; but now he addressed them himself in their own Hebrew; and this he justly thought must impress them with the conviction that it was none but Joseph who spoke, and that there was no further deception practised on them by the capricious ruler of Egypt, as he had shown himself hitherto.

[c] טוב "that which is pre-eminently good," i. e. the best.

[d] Arnheim thinks we ought to supply "to tell them."

[e] Lit. "Let your eye have no pity on your vessels."

[f] שלח in Piël, is generally rendered to dismiss, or to accompany one a part of the journey. The latter meaning is here the more correct, since no doubt Joseph showed them the rights of hospitality, which among the Hebrews require the host to go part of the way with his guests.

28 And Israel said, Enough; Joseph my son is yet alive: I will go and see him before I die.

CHAPTER XLVI.

1 And Israel commenced his journey with all that he had, and came to Beër-sheba, and offered sacrifices unto the God of his father Isaac.

2 And God spoke unto Israel in the visions[a] of the night, and said, Jacob, Jacob. And he said, Here am I.

3 And he said, I am God, the God of thy father; fear not to go down into Egypt; for a great nation will I make of thee there:

4 I will go down with thee into Egypt; and I will also surely bring thee up again; and Joseph shall put his hand upon thy eyes.

5 And Jacob rose up from Beër-sheba: and the sons of Israel carried Jacob their father, and their little ones, and their wives, in the wagons which Pharaoh had sent to carry him.

6 And they took their cattle, and their goods, which they had gotten in the land of Canaan, and came into Egypt; Jacob, and all his seed with him:

7 His sons, and his sons' sons with him, his daughters,[b] and his sons' daughters, and all his seed he brought with him into Egypt.

8 ¶ And these are the names of the children of Israel, that came into Egypt, Jacob and his sons: the first-born of Jacob, Reüben.

9 And the sons of Reüben: Chanoch, and Pallu, and Chezron, and Carmi.

10 And the sons of Simeon: Yemuël, and Yamin, and Ohad, and Yachin, and Zochar, and Shaül the son of the Canaanitish woman.

11 And the sons of Levi: Gershon, Kehath, and Merari.

12 And the sons of Judah: 'Er, and Onan, and Shelah, and Perez, and Zerach; but 'Er and Onan died in the land of Canaan, and the sons of Perez were Chezron and Chamul.

13 And the sons of Issachar: Tola, and Puvah, and Yob, and Shimron.

14 And the sons of Zebulun: Sered and Elon, and Yachleël.

15 These are the sons of Leäh, whom she bore unto Jacob in Padan-aram, with Dinah his daughter: all the souls of his sons and his daughters were thirty and three.

16 And the sons of Gad: Ziphyon, and Chaggi, Shuni, and Ezbon, 'Eri, and Arodi, and Areli.

17 And the sons of Asher: Yimnah, and Yishvah, and Yishvi, and Beriah, and Serach their sister; and the sons of Beriah: Cheber, and Malkiël.

18 These are the sons of Zilpah, whom Laban gave to Leäh his daughter, and she bore these unto Jacob, sixteen souls.

19 The sons of Rachel, Jacob's wife: Joseph, and Benjamin.

20 And there were born unto Joseph in the land of Egypt Menasseh and Ephraim, whom Assenath the daughter of Poti phera', the priest of On, bore unto him.

21 And the sons of Benjamin: Bela', and Becher, and Ashbel, Gera, and Naaman, Echi, and Rosh, Muppim, and Chuppim, and Ard.

22 These are the sons of Rachel, that were born to Jacob: in all fourteen souls.

23 And the sons of Dan: Chushim.

24 And the sons of Naphtali: Yachzeël, and Guni, and Yezer, and Shillem.

25 These are the sons of Bilhah, whom Laban gave unto Rachel his daughter, and she bore these unto Jacob, in all seven souls.

26 All the souls that came with Jacob into Egypt, that came out of his loins, besides the wives of Jacob's sons, were in all sixty and six souls.

27 And the sons of Joseph, who were born him in Egypt, were two souls; all the souls of the house of Jacob, that came into Egypt, were seventy.*

28 ¶ And Judah he sent before him unto Joseph, to direct him[c] beforehand unto Goshen; and they came into the land of Goshen.

29 And Joseph made ready[d] his chariot, and went up to meet Israel his father, to Go-

[a] Onkelos and others, "vision."

[b] "His daughters" can refer only to Dinah, for he had no other daughter: the plural is used, as in the case of "the sons of Dan, Chushim," (v. 23,) to express the idea that, where others have several daughters or sons, Jacob had of the first one at least bearing the designation of a female child, as with Dan reference is had to the similar circumstance of his being the father of at least one male offspring; perhaps the term also includes his sons' wives.

shen; and when he obtained sight of him, he fell on his neck, and wept on his neck a good while.

30 And Israel said unto Joseph, Let me die now, since I have seen thy face, that thou art yet alive.

31 And Joseph said unto his brothers, and unto his father's house, I will go up, and tell Pharaoh, and say unto him, My brothers and my father's house, who were in the land of Canaan, are come unto me;

32 And the men are shepherds, for they have been owners of cattle;[a] and their flocks, and their herds, and all that they have, they have brought along.

33 And it shall come to pass, if Pharaoh should have you called, and say, What is your occupation?

34 That ye shall say, Owners of cattle have thy servants been from our youth even until now, both we, as also our fathers; in order that ye may dwell in the land of Goshen; for every shepherd is an abomination unto the Egyptians.

CHAPTER XLVII.

1 Then came Joseph and told Pharaoh, and said, My father and my brothers, and their flocks, and their herds, and all that they have, are come out of the land of Canaan; and, behold, they are in the land of Goshen.

2 And he took some[b] of his brothers, five men, and presented them before Pharaoh.

3 And Pharaoh said unto his brothers, What is your occupation? And they said unto Pharaoh, Thy servants are shepherds, both we, as also our fathers.

4 They said moreover unto Pharaoh, To sojourn in the land are we come; because there is no pasture for the flocks of thy servants, for the famine is sore in the land of Canaan; and now let thy servants dwell, we pray thee, in the land of Goshen.

5 And Pharaoh said unto Joseph, thus, Thy father and thy brothers are come unto thee:

6 The land of Egypt is before thee; in the best of the land let thy father and brothers dwell; let them dwell in the land of Goshen; and if thou knowest that there are among them men of activity, then appoint them rulers over my cattle.

7 And Joseph brought in Jacob his father, and placed him before Pharaoh; and Jacob blessed Pharaoh.

8 And Pharaoh said unto Jacob, How old art thou?[c]

9 And Jacob said unto Pharaoh, The days of the years of my pilgrimage are one hundred and thirty years: few and evil have been the days of the years of my life, and have not attained unto the days of the years of the life of my fathers in the days of their pilgrimage.

10 And Jacob blessed Pharaoh, and went out from before Pharaoh.*

11 And Joseph assigned places of residence for his father and his brothers, and gave them a possession[d] in the land of Egypt, in the best of the land, in the land of Ra'meses, as Pharaoh had commanded.

12 And Joseph supplied his father, and his brothers, and all his father's household, with bread, in proportion to their families.

13 And there was no bread in all the land; for the famine was very sore; and the land of Egypt and the land of Canaan fainted by reason of the famine.

14 And Joseph gathered up all the money that was found in the land of Egypt, and in the land of Canaan, for the corn which they bought; and Joseph brought the money into Pharaoh's house.

15 And when the money failed in the land of Egypt, and in the land of Canaan, all the Egyptians came unto Joseph, and said, Give us bread; for why should we die in thy presence, since the money is all gone?

16 And Joseph said, Give up your cattle; and I will give you for your cattle, if the money be all gone.

17 And they brought their cattle unto Joseph; and Joseph gave them bread in exchange for horses, and for the flocks of sheep, and for the herds of cattle, and for the asses;

[a] Eng. ver. "Their trade hath been to feed cattle."

[b] Mendelssohn renders מקצה "of the youngest," and according to the Talmud they were Zebulun, Dan, Naphtali, Gad, and Asher; while the Midrash names Reüben, Simeon, Levi, Issachar, and Benjamin.

[c] Heb. "How many are the days of the years of thy life?"

[d] "They had merely asked permission to remain in Egypt during the famine; but as Pharaoh authorized their settling in Egypt, Joseph purchased them estates, that they might not be as strangers in the land."—After Ramban.

and he supplied them with bread for all their cattle for that year.

18 And when that year was ended, they came unto him in the second year, and said unto him, We will not hide it from my lord, how that our money with our herds of cattle hath entirely passed into the possession of my lord; there is naught left in the sight of my lord, but our bodies, and our land.

19 Wherefore shall we die before thy eyes, both we and our land? buy us and our land for bread; and we and our land will be servants unto Pharaoh; and give us seed, that we may live, and not die, and that the land be not rendered desolate.

20 And Joseph bought all the land of Egypt for Pharaoh; for the Egyptians sold every man his field, because the famine prevailed over them: so the land became Pharaoh's.

21 And as for the people, he removed them to the cities,[a] from one end of the borders of Egypt even to the other end thereof.

22 Only the land of the priests bought he not; for the priests had a portion assigned them by Pharaoh, and they ate their portion which Pharaoh gave them: therefore they did not sell their land.

23 Then said Joseph unto the people, Behold, I have bought you this day and your land for Pharaoh: lo, here is seed for you, and sow ye the land.

24 And it shall come to pass in the harvest times, that ye shall give the fifth part unto Pharaoh; and four parts shall be your own, for the seed of the field, and for your food, and for those belonging to your households, and for food for your little ones.*

25 And they said, Thou hast saved our lives: let us but find grace in the eyes of my lord, and we will be Pharaoh's servants.

26 And Joseph made it a statute unto this day over the land of Egypt, that Pharaoh should have the fifth part; except the land of the priests alone became not Pharaoh's.

27 And Israel dwelt in the land of Egypt, in the country of Goshen; and they had possessions therein, and were fruitful, and multiplied exceedingly.

Haphtorah in Ezekiel xxxvii. 15 to 28.

SECTION XII. VAYECHEE, ויחי.

28 And Jacob lived in the land of Egypt seventeen years: and the days of Jacob, the years of his life, were one hundred forty and seven years.

29 And when the time of Israel drew near that he was to die, he sent to call his son Joseph, and said unto him, If now I have found grace in thy eyes, put, I pray thee, thy hand under my thigh;[b] and deal with me in kindness and truth; bury me not, I pray thee, in Egypt.

30 But when I shall lie[c] with my fathers, thou shalt carry me out of Egypt, and bury me in their burying-place. And he said, I will do as thou hast said.

31 And he said, Swear unto me; and he swore unto him; and Israel bowed[d] himself upon the head of the bed.

CHAPTER XLVIII.

1 And it came to pass after these things, that some one said to Joseph, Behold, thy father is sick; and he took his two sons with him, Menasseh and Ephraim.

2 And some one told Jacob, and said, Behold, thy son Joseph is coming unto thee; and Israel strengthened himself, and sat upon the bed.

3 And Jacob said unto Joseph, God, the Almighty, appeared unto me at Luz in the land of Canaan, and blessed me,

4 And he said unto me, Behold, I will make thee fruitful, and multiply thee, and I will make of thee a multitude of people; and I will give this land to thy seed after thee for an everlasting possession.

5 And now thy two sons, who were born unto thee in the land of Egypt, before I came unto thee into Egypt, shall be mine; Ephraim

[a] "Because they had no more property in the land, he removed them to the towns," ARNHEIM after ABARBANEL; and adds: "Von Bohlen explains hence the great number of towns, of which there were, according to Herodotus, twenty thousand in the Delta of the Nile."

[b] "In order to swear that thou wilt deal," &c.—ARNHEIM.

[c] This expression means merely the act of dying, thus, "When I at length shall die;" wherefore Philippson's rendering, "That I may lie with my fathers, carry me," &c., is not necessary; since וישכב דוד עם אבתיו simply conveys "that David fell asleep, in death, as his fathers had done;" for he was not buried at Beth-lechem, their native place, but at Jerusalem.

[d] i. e. "In gratitude to God."

and Menasseh shall be unto me as Reüben and Simeon.

6 And thy issue, which thou begettest after them, shall be thine, after the name of their brothers shall they be called in their inheritance.

7 And as for me, when I came from Padan, Rachel died by me in the land of Canaan on the way, when yet there was some distance to come unto Ephrath: and I buried her there on the way of Ephrath, the same is Beth-lechem.

8 And Israel perceived the sons of Joseph, and said, Who are these?

9 And Joseph said unto his father, They are my sons, whom God hath given me in this place. And he said, Bring them, I pray thee, unto me, and I will bless them.*

10 Now the eyes of Israel were dim through age, he could not see;[a] and he brought them near unto him, and he kissed them, and embraced them.

11 And Israel said unto Joseph, To see thy face I had not hoped; and, lo, God hath shown me also thy seed.

12 And Joseph brought them out from between his knees, and he bowed himself with his face to the earth.

14 And Israel stretched out his right hand, and laid it upon Ephraim's head, who was the younger, and his left hand upon Menasseh's head; he laid his hands wittingly; although Menasseh was the first-born.

15 And he blessed Joseph, and said, The God, before whom my fathers Abraham and Isaac did walk, the God who fed[b] me from my first being unto this day,

16 The angel[c] who redeemed me from all evil, bless the lads; and let my name be called on them, and the name of my fathers Abraham and Isaac; and let them grow into a multitude in the midst of the earth.*

17 And when Joseph saw that his father would lay his right hand upon the head of Ephraim, it displeased him: and he took hold of his father's hand, to remove it from the head of Ephraim unto the head of Menasseh.

18 And Joseph said unto his father, Not so, my father; for this is the first-born, put thy right hand upon his head.

19 And his father refused, and said, I know, my son, I know, he also shall become a people, and he also shall be great; but truly his younger brother shall be greater than he, and his seed shall become a multitude[d] of nations.

20 And he blessed them that day, saying, With thee shall Israel bless, saying, God make thee as Ephraim and Menasseh: and so he set Ephraim before Menasseh.

21 And Israel said unto Joseph, Behold, I die; but God will be with you, and bring you again unto the land of your fathers.

22 Moreover I have given unto thee one portion above thy brothers, which I took[e] out of the hand of the Emorite with my sword and with my bow.*

CHAPTER XLIX.

1 ¶ And Jacob called unto his sons, and said, Gather yourselves together, that I may tell you that which shall befall you in the last days.

2 Gather yourselves together, and hear, ye sons of Jacob; and hearken unto Israel your father.

3 Reüben, thou art my first-born, my might, and the beginning of my strength; the excellency of dignity, and the excellency of power (should be thine).

4 Unstable as water, thou shalt not have the excellence; because thou wentest up to thy father's bed; then defiledst thou the one who ascended[f] my couch.

[a] This is to say, Israel could perceive dimly the presence of persons, without being able to see distinctly.

[b] ורעני, literally, "Who fed me upon pastures," taking this word from his own pastoral life.

[c] Dubno and Sforno think that the words "may he send" should be supplied before "the angel;" meaning, "May God, who hath always protected me, send his messenger to bless the lads."

[d] Lit. "A fulness of the nations," which may mean, "whose fame shall fill the books of nations;" so Rashi; Onkelos, "rulers of nations."

[e] Philippson renders, "Which I shall have taken," referring to the future conquest of Palestine, since prophecy looks upon future events as already past.

[f] Ramban and Arnheim are of opinion that the third person עלה in the Hebrew text, refers to the speaker, viz. Jacob. Philippson renders, "then didst thou commit a violation," and agrees with the English version, that יצועי עלה is a sort of interjection, defining the cause of his displeasure, "he ascended my couch;" but the opinion of Ramban appears more correct.

5 ¶ Simeon and Levi are brethren; weapons of violence are their swords.[a]

6 Into their secret shall my soul not come; unto their assembly my spirit shall not be united; for in their anger they slew the man, and in their self-will they lamed the ox.

7 Cursed be their anger, for it is fierce; and their wrath, for it is cruel: I will divide them in Jacob, and scatter them in Israel.

8 ¶ Judah, thou art the one thy brothers shall praise, thy hand shall be on the neck of thy enemies; thy father's children shall bow down unto thee.

9 Like a lion's whelp, O Judah, from the prey, my son, thou risest: he stoopeth down, he croucheth as a lion, and as a lioness, who shall rouse him up?

10 The sceptre[b] shall not depart from Judah, nor a lawgiver from between his feet; until Shiloh come, and unto him shall the gathering of the people be.

11 He bindeth unto the vine his foal, and to the vine-branch his ass's colt; he washeth his garments in wine, and in the blood of grapes his clothes;

12 His eyes shall be red from wine, and his teeth white from milk.

13 ¶ Zebulun shall dwell at the margin of the seas; and he shall be at the haven of ships; and his border shall be near to Zidon.

14 ¶ Issachar is a strong-boned ass, couching down between the stables.

15 And when he saw the resting-place that it was good, and the land that it was pleasant, he bent his shoulder to bear, and became a servant unto tribute.[c]

16 ¶ Dan shall judge[d] his people, as one of the tribes of Israel.

17 Dan shall be a serpent by the way, an adder on the path, that biteth the horse in the heels, so that his rider falleth backward.

18 For thy salvation, I hope, O LORD.*

19 ¶ Gad, troops will band against him; but he shall wound their heel.[e]

[a] After Rashi.

[b] I have left this verse as it is in the English version, inasmuch as it is according to Onkelos and Rashi, the former of whom renders וכפרא כבני בנוהי עד יקלבא, "and the scribe from his sons' sons for ever, until," &c. But Arnheim gives, "Till he of Shiloh cometh, and the obedience of the tribes be turned to him," and refers "he of Shiloh" to Achiyah, the prophet of Shiloh, who foretold to Jeroboam that a part of the kingdom should be taken from Solomon and transferred to him, (I Kings xi. 31,) which prediction afterward came to pass, when Rechoboam refused to redress the grievances of the people; and "to him," then alludes to Jeroboam, to whom the tribes of Israel, here called עמים, (see Gen. xlviii. 4,) were to turn from the house of David. Mendelssohn, in giving a somewhat different version, refers to the same event. Others, again, give: "The sceptre shall not depart from Judah, nor the lawgiver from his descendants for ever; because Shiloh shall come, and to him shall be the gathering of the nations." This version is predicated upon the words עד כי being separated by a disjunctive accent, and thus stand for "for ever" and "because;" since the Yetib is a greater disjunctive than the Pesseek in 2 Sam. xxiii. 10. Philippson, the latest of our translators, renders: "The sceptre shall not depart from Judah, the ruler's staff from between his feet, even then when he cometh to Shiloh, and his shall be the obedience of the nations." In his comment he says, in substance, that to Judah is promised the rule and prominence in Israel, which was not to depart even when Joshua, the Ephraimite, should set up the tabernacle at Shiloh after the conquest of Palestine; so that עד כי does not signify alone "until," but includes the time beyond the period stated, "even then when."—It is impossible in this work to go into various versions and opinions hazarded by commentators; but this much is certain, that Onkelos, the best translator the Pentateuch had for a long while, and who is not yet excelled, would not have added עד יקלבא if he had thought that it militated against the Jewish faith. The assumption that the sceptre was taken at a particular period, wherefore Shiloh must have come then, is futile; since Judah had no rule during the second temple, and with the blinding of Zedekiah, in the year of the world 3402, prior to the common era 586 years, the kingdom or sceptre of David became extinct; wherefore the alleged fulfilment came five hundred and eighty-six years too late. But believing Israelites, who confide in prophecy, do not think the sceptre totally departed from Judah; especially are the scribes, or those learned in the law, not lost from the as yet latest descendants of Israel. The sceptre will return when the Shiloh, the King Messiah, shall come, and to him shall be both the obedience and assemblage of people or nations, as יקהת עמים is variously rendered. The plan of this work prohibits us from enlarging; but the pious and intelligent reader will have enough to satisfy all doubts.

[c] Doubtlessly Jacob here contrasts Issachar with Zebulun: the latter was to be a merchant tribe, seeking for gain upon the ocean, going in quest of wealth; the former, on the contrary, laborious and patient, like the animal to which he is compared, who lies down at night near the stables when his work is done, was to prefer his beautiful land, full of all that can make agriculture profitable. Arnheim therefore renders the last words, "and yieldeth himself to the service of the labourer."

[e] Arnheim; making יגוד "shall cut," or "wound," (Deut. xiv. 2;) the verse refers then to the many wars which the border-tribe of Gad should have to wage successfully against their faithless heathen neighbours. Onkelos would require this version: "Those of the house of Gad shall pass in bands in advance of their brothers (over the Jordan) to the war, and with many goods shall they return to their land." Jernsalem Targum: "and return in peace to their dwellings."

20 ¶ Out of Asher cometh fat bread, and he shall yield royal dainties.

21 ¶ Naphtali is (like) a fleet hind; he bringeth pleasant words.[a]

22 ¶ Joseph is a fruitful bough, a fruitful bough by a spring; the branches of which run over the wall.

23 And they embittered his life, and they shot at him, and they hated him, the men of the arrows.

24 But his bow abode in strength, and his arms and his hands remained firm; from[b] the hands of the mighty God of Jacob, from there thou becamest the shepherd, the stone of Israel.

25 From the God of thy father, who will help thee; and from the Almighty, who will bless thee, with blessings of heaven above, with blessings of the deep that coucheth beneath, with blessings of the breasts, and of the womb;

26 With the blessings of thy father that have excelled the blessings of my progenitors unto the utmost bound of the everlasting hills: these shall be on the head of Joseph, and on the crown of the head of him that was separated[c] from his brothers.*

27 Benjamin shall be as a wolf that rendeth:[d] in the morning he shall devour the prey, and at evening he shall divide the spoil.

28 All these are the tribes of Israel, twelve in number; and this is what their father spoke unto them, and wherewith he blessed them; every one according to his proper blessing blessed he them.

29 And he charged them and said unto them, I am to be gathered unto my people; bury me near my fathers in the cave that is in the field of Ephron the Hittite,

30 In the cave that is in the field of Machpelah, which is before Mamré, in the land of Canaan, which field Abraham bought of Ephron the Hittite, for a possession as a burying-place,

31 (There they buried Abraham and Sarah his wife; there they buried Isaac and Rebekah his wife; and there I buried Leäh,) 32 Purchasing the field and the cave that is therein from the children of Heth.

33 And when Jacob had made an end of commanding his sons, he gathered up his feet into the bed; and he departed this life, and was gathered unto his people.

CHAPTER L.

1 And Joseph fell upon his father's face, and wept upon him, and kissed him.

2 And Joseph commanded his servants the physicians to embalm his father: and the physicians embalmed Israel.

3 And they fulfilled for him forty days;[e] for so they fulfil the days of those that are embalmed; and the Egyptians wept for him seventy days.

4 And when the days of his mourning were past, Joseph spoke unto the house of Pharaoh, saying, If now I have found grace in your eyes, speak, I pray you, in the ears of Pharaoh, saying,

5 My father made me swear, saying, Lo, I die; in my grave, which I have dug[f] for me in the land of Canaan, there shalt thou bury me: now therefore let me go up, I pray thee, and I will bury my father, and return again.

6 And Pharaoh said, Go up, and bury thy father, as he hath made thee swear.

7 And Joseph went up to bury his father, and there went up with him all the servants of Pharaoh, the elders of his house, and all the elders of the land of Egypt,

8 And all the house of Joseph, and his brothers, and his father's house; only their little ones, and their flocks, and their herds, they left behind in the land of Goshen.

9 And there went up with him both chariots and horsemen; and the encampment was very great.

10 And they came to the thrashing-floor of Atad, which is beyond Jordan, and they held there a great and very sore lamentation; and he made for his father a mourning of seven days.

[a] "He bringeth pleasant messages."—PHILIPPSON.

[b] Mendelssohn understands here, "this came to thee from the hands," &c. Arnheim takes מִן as synonymous with מִנִּי "rock," or "protector;" and it then means that, through the help of Jacob's mighty God, Joseph became the guardian and protector of Israel. Philippson refers both terms to God, and translates, "from the hands of the mighty God of Jacob, from the Shepherd, the Rock of Israel."

[c] Mendelssohn gives this with "crowned from among," &c.

[d] i. e. His prey.

[e] Meaning, the process of embalming occupied forty days; "and they fulfilled" then is, that the embalmers were for this period engaged in their labour.

[f] "I have acquired," according to some.

11 And when the inhabitants of the land, the Canaanites, saw the mourning at the thrashing-floor of Atad, they said, This is a grievous mourning to the Egyptians; wherefore the name of it was called Abel-mizrayim,[a] which is beyond the Jordan.[b]

12 And his sons did unto him according as he had commanded them;

13 And his sons carried him into the land of Canaan, and buried him in the cave of the field of Machpelah, which field[c] Abraham bought for a possession, as a burying-place, of Ephron the Hittite, before Mamré.

14 And Joseph returned unto Egypt, he, and his brothers, and all that were gone up with him to bury his father, after he had buried his father.

15 And when Joseph's brothers saw that their father was dead, they said, Peradventure Joseph may now hate us; and then he would certainly requite us all the evil which we have done unto him.

16 And they sent word unto Joseph, saying, Thy father did command before his death, saying,

17 So shall ye say unto Joseph, O forgive, I pray thee, the trespass of thy brothers, and their sin; for evil have they done unto thee: and now, we pray thee, forgive the trespass of the servants of the God of thy father; and Joseph wept when they spoke unto him.

18 And his brothers also went and fell down before him; and they said, Behold, we will be thy servants.

19 And Joseph said unto them, Fear not; for am I in the place of God?

20 But as for you, though ye thought evil against me, God meant it unto good; in order to bring to pass, as it is this day, to save alive a numerous people.*

21 Now therefore fear ye not, I will support you, and your little ones; and he comforted them, and spoke kindly unto them.

22 And Joseph dwelt in Egypt, he, and his father's house; and Joseph lived one hundred and ten years.*

23 And Joseph saw of Ephraim children of the third generation; the children also of Machir the son of Menasseh were brought up upon Joseph's knees.

24 And Joseph said unto his brothers, I shall die; but God will surely visit you, and bring you up out of this land unto the land which he hath sworn to Abraham, to Isaac, and to Jacob.

25 And Joseph caused the children of Israel to swear, saying, God will surely visit you, and then shall ye carry up my bones from here.

26 So Joseph died, being one hundred and ten years old; and they embalmed him, and he was put in a coffin in Egypt.

[b] According to R. Joseph Schwartz this means the ancient bed of the river to the south of the Dead Sea, as Joseph did not cross the present Jordan to the north of that lake.

THE BOOK OF EXODUS,

SHEMOTH, שמות,

CONTAINING THE HISTORY OF THE ISRAELITES IN EGYPT, AND THEIR REDEMPTION, TO THE BUILDING OF THE TABERNACLE.

SECTION XIII. SHEMOTH, שמות.

CHAPTER I.

1 ¶ Now these are the names of the children of Israel, that came into Egypt; with Jacob were they come, every man and his household.

2 Reüben, Simeon, Levi, and Judah,

3 Issachar, Zebulun, and Benjamin,

4 Dan, and Naphtali, Gad, and Asher.

5 And all the souls that came out of the loins of Jacob were seventy souls; together with Joseph who was already in Egypt.

6 And Joseph died, with all his brothers, and all that generation.

7 And the children of Israel were fruitful, and increased abundantly, and multiplied, and waxed exceedingly mighty; and the land was filled with them.

8 ¶ Now there rose up a new king over Egypt, who knew not Joseph.

9 And he said unto his people, Behold, the people of the children of Israel is more numerous and mightier than we:

10 Come on, let us deal wisely with it; lest it multiply, and it come to pass, that, when there happen to be a war, it join also unto our enemies, and fight against us, and depart out of the land.

11 And they thereupon did set over it taskmasters, to afflict it with their burdensome labours; and it built treasure cities, for Pharaoh, Pithom and Raamses.

12 But in the measure that they afflicted the same, so it multiplied and so it spread itself out; and they felt abhorrence because of the children of Israel.

13 And the Egyptians compelled the children of Israel to labour with rigour:

14 And they made their lives bitter with hard labour, in mortar, and in bricks, and in all manner of labour in the field; besides all their other service, wherein they made them labour with rigour.

15 And the king of Egypt said to the Hebrew midwives, of whom the name of the one was Shiphrah, and the name of the other Puah;

16 And he said, When ye do the office of a midwife to the Hebrew women, ye shall have due regard upon the birth:[a] if it be a son, then shall ye kill him; but if it be a daughter, then may she live.

17 But the midwives feared God, and they did not as the king of Egypt had commanded them, but saved the men-children alive.*

18 And the king of Egypt called for the midwives, and he said unto them, Why have ye done this thing, and have saved the men-children alive?

19 And the midwives said unto Pharaoh, Because the Hebrew women are not as the Egyptian women; for they are lively;[b] ere the midwife cometh in unto them they are delivered.

20 And God dealt well with the midwives; and the people multiplied, and waxed very mighty.

21 And it came to pass, because the midwives feared God, that he made them houses.[c]

22 And Pharaoh charged all his people, saying, Every son that is born ye shall cast into the river, and every daughter ye shall save alive.

CHAPTER II.

1 And there went a man of the house of Levi, and took a daughter of Levi.

[a] אבנים "the chair upon which women sit during childbirth" is used for the child itself that is born.

[b] i. e. Vigorous; wherefore they require not the same care as the more feeble Egyptians; in consequence of which it would be impossible to slay the child unperceived by the mother.

[c] i. e. He made them important, and founders of houses of renown in Israel.

2 And the woman conceived, and bore a son; and when she saw him that he was a goodly[a] child, she hid him three months.

3 And when she could no longer hide him, she took for him a box of bulrushes,[b] and daubed it with slime and with pitch; and she put the child therein, and laid it amidst the flags by the brink of the river.

4 And his sister placed herself afar off, to ascertain what would be done to him.

5 And the daughter of Pharaoh[c] came down to wash herself at the river; and her maidens walked along by the side of the river; and when she saw the box among the flags, she sent her maid and fetched it.

6 And she opened it, and saw the child, and, behold, it was a weeping boy; and she had compassion on him, and said, This is one of the Hebrews' children.

7 Then said his sister to Pharaoh's daughter, Shall I go and call thee a nurse of the Hebrew women, that she may nurse for thee the child?

8 And Pharaoh's daughter said to her, Go; and the maiden went and called the mother of the child.

9 And Pharaoh's daughter said unto her, Take away this child, and nurse him for me, and I will give thee thy wages; and the woman took the child, and nursed him.

10 And the child grew up, and she brought him unto Pharaoh's daughter, and he became to her as a son; and she called his name Moses;[d] and she said, Because out of the water have I drawn him.*

11 And it came to pass in those days, when Moses was grown up, that he went out unto his brethren, and looked on their burdensome labours; and he saw an Egyptian man smiting a Hebrew man, one of his brethren.

12 And he looked this way and that way, and when he saw that there was no one by, he smote[e] the Egyptian, and hid him in the sand.

13 And when he went out the second day, behold, two Hebrew men were striving together; and he said unto him that was in the wrong, Wherefore smitest thou thy fellow?

14 And he said, Who made thee a chief and a judge over us? intendest thou to kill me, as thou hast killed the Egyptian? And Moses feared, and said, Surely the thing is become known.

15 And Pharaoh heard this thing, and he sought to slay Moses; but Moses fled from the face of Pharaoh, and tarried in the land of Midian, and he sat down by a well.

16 Now the priest of Midian had seven daughters; and they came and drew water, and filled the troughs to water their father's flock.

17 And the shepherds came and drove them away; but Moses arose and helped them, and watered their flock.

18 And when they came to Reüel their father, he said, Wherefore are ye come home so soon to-day?

19 And they said, An Egyptian man delivered us out of the hand of the shepherds; and he also drew water for us, and watered the flock.

20 And he said unto his daughters, And where is he? wherefore have ye left the man? call him, that he may eat bread.

21 And Moses was content to dwell with the man; and he gave Zipporah his daughter to Moses.

22 And she bore a son, and he called his name Gershom;[f] for he said, I have been a stranger in a foreign land.

23 ¶ And it came to pass in this long time, that the king of Egypt died; and the children of Israel sighed by reason of the bondage, and they cried; and their complaint came up unto God by reason of the bondage.

24 And God heard their groaning, and God remembered his covenant with Abraham, with Isaac, and with Jacob.

25 And God looked upon the children of Israel, and God took cognizance of them.[g]*

[a] That is, handsome and well formed; the word טוב is often used in this sense.

[b] Philippson renders, "papyrus rush," out of the stems of which boats are constructed, which attain at times immense speed in their propulsion. They were called by Pliny papyraceæ naves. See also כלי גמא "vessels of bulrushes," Eng. ver., in Isaiah xviii. 2.

[c] Wonderful providence! that the daughter of the oppressor should be made the instrument, through the very decree of exterminating the male Israelites, to educate the future deliverer of his people.

[d] "Mosheh," from משה mashoh, "to draw forth."

[e] Lit. "he smote," not "he slew."

[f] Ger, a "stranger;" and shahm, "there."

[g] "He turned his attention to them and did not avert his eyes," Rashi; that is, he noted their sorrows and resolved to redeem them.

CHAPTER III.

1 ¶ And Moses was keeping the flock of Jithro his father-in-law, the priest of Midian; and he led the flock far away into the desert, and came to the mountain of God, to Choreb.

2 And an angel[a] of the LORD appeared unto him in a flame of fire out of the midst of a thorn-bush; and he looked, and, behold, the thorn-bush was burning with fire, but the thorn-bush was not consumed.

3 And Moses said, I must turn aside, and see this great sight, why the thorn-bush is not burnt.

4 And when the LORD saw that he turned aside to see, God called unto him out of the midst of the thorn-bush, and said, Moses, Moses; and he said, Here am I.

5 And he said, Draw not nigh hither; put off thy shoes from off thy feet; for the place whereon thou standest is holy ground.

6 And he said, I am the God of thy father, the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob; and Moses hid his face; for he was afraid to look up to God.

7 And the LORD said, I have truly seen the affliction of my people that is in Egypt, and have heard its cry by reason of its task-masters; yea, I know its sorrows;

8 And I am come down to deliver it out of the hand of the Egyptians, and to bring it up out of that land unto a land, good and large, unto a land flowing with milk and honey; unto the place of the Canaanites, and the Hittites, and the Emorites, and the Perizzites, and the Hivites, and the Jebusites.

9 Now therefore, behold, the cry of the children of Israel is come unto me: and I have also seen the oppression wherewith the Egyptians oppress them.

10 And now then go, and I will send thee unto Pharaoh, and thou shalt bring forth my people the children of Israel out of Egypt.

11 And Moses said unto God, Who am I, that I should go unto Pharaoh, and that I should bring forth the children of Israel out of Egypt?

12 And he said, Because I will be with thee; and this shall be unto thee the token, that I have sent thee: when thou hast brought forth the people out of Egypt, ye shall serve God upon this mountain.

13 And Moses said unto God, Behold, if I come unto the children of Israel, and say unto them, The God of your fathers hath sent me unto you; and they then say to me, What is his name? what shall I say unto them?

14 And God said unto Moses, I WILL BE THAT I WILL BE:[b] and he said, Thus shalt thou say unto the children of Israel, I WILL BE hath sent me unto you.

15 And God said moreover unto Moses, Thus shalt thou say unto the children of Israel, The EVERLASTING ONE, the God of your fathers, the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob, hath sent me unto you: this is my name for ever, and this is my memorial[c] unto all generations.*

16 Go, and assemble the elders of Israel, and say unto them, The Everlasting One, the God of your fathers, the God of Abraham, of Isaac, and of Jacob, hath appeared unto me, saying, I have surely taken cognizance of you and of that which is done to you in Egypt:

17 And I have said, I will bring you up out of the affliction of Egypt, unto the land of the Canaanites, and the Hittites, and the Emorites, and the Perizzites, and the Hivites, and the Jebusites, unto a land flowing with milk and honey.

18 And they will hearken to thy voice: and thou shalt come, thou and the elders of Israel, unto the king of Egypt, and ye shall say unto him, The Everlasting One, the God of the Hebrews hath met with us; and now

[a] The angel who appeared to Moses does not address him: the bodily appearance of the peculiar conflagration, was to arrest his attention; but immediately after, when Moses attempted to inspect it more closely, he is arrested by the Divine word, proceeding without a mediator, and he is thus called to commence his great mission by the Supreme himself.

[b] Arnheim translates this passage, "I will be that I am." It is very simple in its construction: still it is exceedingly difficult to convey the whole force of the idea by any words in a translation. The Lord announces himself as the Being who will ever be, as he was and as he is. In truth, the word is nothing but the future tense first person singular of the verb היה "to be." In the second part of the verse, therefore, Arnheim gives it simply as the name of God, without translating it: "EHYEH hath sent me to you." In this new name, which God assumes to denote his eternity, we have the second revelation of his being and quality. (See above, Gen. xvii. 1.)

[c] This means, say the commentators, that God taught Moses how to pronounce the name of four letters, which is read Adonay, and not as it is written.

let us go, we beseech thee, a three days' journey into the wilderness, that we may sacrifice to the LORD our God.

19 But I am sure that the king of Egypt will not let you go, unless it happen through a mighty hand.[a]

20 And I will stretch out my hand, and smite Egypt with all my wonders which I will do in the midst thereof; and after that he will let you go.

21 And I will give this people favour in the eyes of the Egyptians; and it shall come to pass, that, when ye go, ye shall not go empty:

22 But every woman shall ask of her neighbour, and of her that sojourneth in her house, vessels of silver, and vessels of gold, and garments; and ye shall put them upon your sons, and upon your daughters; and ye shall empty out Egypt.

CHAPTER IV.

1 And Moses answered and said, But, behold, they will not believe me, nor hearken unto my voice; for they will say, The LORD hath not appeared unto thee.

2 And the LORD said unto him, What is that in thy hand? and he said, A staff.

3 And he said, Cast it on the ground; and he cast it on the ground, and it became a serpent; and Moses fled from before it.

4 And the LORD said unto Moses, Put forth thy hand, and grasp it by the tail; and he put forth his hand, and laid hold of it, and it became a staff in his hand.

5 In order that they may believe that there hath appeared unto thee the Everlasting One, the God of their fathers, the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob.

6 And the LORD said farthermore unto him, Do put thy hand into thy bosom: and he put his hand into his bosom; and when he took it out, behold, his hand was leprous, white[b] as snow.

7 And he said, Put thy hand again into thy bosom: and he put his hand again into his bosom; and when he pulled it out of his bosom, behold, it was turned again as his other flesh.

8 And it shall come to pass, if they will not believe thee, neither hearken to the voice[c] of the first sign, that they will believe the voice of the latter sign.

9 And it shall come to pass, if they will not believe also these two signs, and will not hearken unto thy voice, that thou shalt take of the water of the river, and pour it upon the dry land: and the water which thou shalt take out of the river shall become blood upon the dry land.

10 And Moses said unto the LORD, Pardon, O Lord, I am not a man of words, neither yesterday, nor the day before, nor since thou hast spoken unto thy servant; for I am heavy of speech, and heavy of tongue.

11 And the LORD said unto him, Who hath given a mouth to man? or who maketh him dumb, or deaf, or seeing, or blind? is it not I the LORD?

12 Now therefore go, and I will be with thy mouth, and I will teach thee what thou shalt speak.

13 And he said, Pardon, O Lord, send, I pray thee, by the hand of him whom thou wouldst[d] send.

14 And the anger of the LORD was kindled against Moses, and he said, Is there not Aaron, thy brother, the Levite? I know that he can speak well; and also, behold, he cometh forth to meet thee; and when he seeth thee, he will be glad in his heart.

15 And thou shalt speak unto him, and put the words in his mouth: and I will be with thy mouth, and with his mouth, and I will teach you what ye shall do.

16 And he shall speak for thee unto the people; and he shall be, yea he shall be to thee as a mouth, and thou shalt be to him as a god.[e]

17 And this staff shalt thou take in thy hand, wherewith thou shalt do the signs.*

[c] לקול probably means "the report," to wit, which Moses would bring of the wonders which he had seen; hence it says properly, if words should not convince them, he should show them something before their eyes.—ARNHEIM after RASHI.

[d] Onkelos renders, "who is worthy of being sent."

[e] Moses should give to Aaron instruction how to speak, consequently he would be to him what God was to Moses, instructor; and again, Aaron was to be the mouth of Moses, by telling the people what had been intrusted to him, and which he himself could not tell on account of his difficulty of speech.

18 ¶ And Moses went and returned to Jether his father-in-law, and said unto him, Let me go, I pray thee, and return unto my brethren that are in Egypt, and see whether they be yet alive; and Jithro said to Moses, Go in peace.

19 And the LORD said unto Moses in Midian, Go, return into Egypt; for all the men are dead who sought thy life.

20 And Moses took his wife and his sons, and set them upon an ass, and he returned to the land of Egypt; and Moses took the staff of God in his hand.

21 And the LORD said unto Moses, When thou goest to return into Egypt, regard well all the wonders which I have put in thy hand, and do them before Pharaoh; but I will harden his heart, and he will not let the people go.

22 And thou shalt say unto Pharoah, Thus hath said the LORD, My son, my first-born, is Israel.

23 And I said unto thee, Let my son go, that he may serve me; and thou refusest to let him go; so, behold, I will slay thy son, thy first-born.

24 And as he was on the journey in the inn, the LORD met him, and sought to kill him.

25 Then took Zipporah a sharp instrument,[a] and cut off the foreskin of her son, and cast it at his feet, and said, Surely a bloody relative[b] art thou to me.

26 And then he withdrew from him; when she said, A bloody relative, but only in respect of the circumcision.

27 ¶ And the LORD said to Aaron, Go to meet Moses, into the wilderness; and he went and met him by the mount of God, and kissed him.

28 And Moses told Aaron all the words of the LORD wherewith he had sent him, and all the signs which he had commanded him.

29 And Moses and Aaron went and assembled all the elders of the children of Israel:

30 And Aaron spoke all the words which the LORD had spoken unto Moses; and he did the signs before the eyes of the people.

31 And the people believed: and when they heard that the LORD had visited the children of Israel, and that he had looked upon their affliction, then they bowed their heads and worshipped.[c]*

CHAPTER V.

1 And after that Moses and Aaron went in, and said unto Pharaoh, Thus hath said the Everlasting One, the God of Israel, Let my people go, that they may hold a feast unto me in the wilderness.

2 And Pharaoh said, Who is the Everlasting, whose voice I am to obey, to let Israel go? I know not the Everlasting, nor will I let Israel go.

3 And they said, The God of the Hebrews hath met with us: let us go, we pray thee, a three days' journey into the desert, and sacrifice unto the LORD our God; lest he fall upon us with the pestilence, or with the sword.

4 And the king of Egypt said unto them, Wherefore do ye, Moses and Aaron, hinder the people from their works? get you unto your own affairs.[d]

5 And Pharaoh said, Behold, the people of the land now are many, and ye disturb[e] them in the pursuit of their labours.

6 And Pharaoh commanded on the same day the taskmasters of the people, and its officers, saying,

7 Ye shall no more give the people straw to make the bricks, as yesterday and the day before; they themselves shall go and gather themselves straw.

8 And the number of the bricks, which they did make heretofore,[f] ye shall impose upon them, ye shall not diminish aught thereof; for they are idle; therefore they cry, saying, Let us go and sacrifice to our God.

9 Let the work be made to lie heavily upon the men, that they may have enough to do therein; and that they may not pay attention to false words.

10 And the taskmasters of the people and

[b] This was said to the child, as endangering the life of Moses; but the blood was at length only that of circumcision.

its officers went out, and they said to the people, saying, Thus saith Pharaoh, I will not give you any straw.

11 Go ye, get yourselves straw from wherever ye can find it; yet not the least shall be taken off from your work.

12 And the people scattered themselves abroad throughout all the land of Egypt to gather stubble instead of straw.

13 And the taskmasters were urgent, saying, Fulfil your works, every day its due portion, just as when there was straw.

14 And the officers of the children of Israel, whom the taskmasters of Pharaoh had set over them, were beaten, as these said, Wherefore have ye not fulfilled your task in making brick as heretofore, both yesterday and to-day?

15 And the officers of the children of Israel came and cried unto Pharaoh, saying, Wherefore dealest thou thus with thy servants?

16 Straw is not given unto thy servants, and, Make bricks, say they to us: and, behold, thy servants are beaten, and thy people are treated as sinners.

17 But he said, Idle are ye, idle; therefore say ye, Let us go and sacrifice to the LORD.

18 And now go, work, and straw shall not be given you; yet the required number of bricks shall ye deliver.

19 And the officers of the children of Israel saw themselves in the evil necessity to say, Ye shall not diminish aught from your bricks, every day of its task.

20 And they met Moses and Aaron, standing in their way, as they came forth from Pharaoh.

21 And they said unto them, May the LORD look upon you, and judge; because ye have made our savour to be abhorred in the eyes of Pharaoh, and the eyes of his servants, to put a sword in their hand to slay us.*

22 And Moses returned unto the LORD, and said, Lord, wherefore hast thou let so much evil come upon this people? why is it that thou hast sent me?

23 For, since I came unto Pharaoh to speak in thy name, he hath done more evil to this people; but thou hast in nowise delivered thy people.

CHAPTER VI.

1 Then said the LORD unto Moses, Now shalt thou see what I will do to Pharaoh; for with a strong hand shall he send them away, and with a strong hand shall he drive them out of his land.

SECTION XIV. VAAYRAH, וארא.

2 ¶ And God spoke unto Moses, and said unto him, I am the LORD:

3 And I appeared unto Abraham, unto Isaac, and unto Jacob, by the name of God, the Almighty, but by my name THE ETERNAL[a] was I not made known to them.

4 And as I did also establish my covenant with them, to give unto them the land of Canaan, the land of their pilgrimage, wherein they sojourned:

5 So have I also heard the groaning of the children of Israel, whom the Egyptians compel to labour; and I have remembered my covenant.

6 Therefore say unto the children of Israel, I am the Eternal, and I will bring you out from under the burdens[b] of the Egyptians, and I will release you from their bondage, and I will redeem you with an outstretched arm, and with great judgments:

7 And I will take you to me for a people, and I will be to you for a God; and ye shall know that I am the LORD[c] your God, who bringeth you out from under the burdens of the Egyptians.

8 And I will bring you in unto the land,

[a] Aben Ezra supplies here, "alone," meaning, sometimes it was as the Almighty, while at others as the Eternal, that God spoke to the patriarchs. Jonathan says, "And by my name, the LORD, through the evident appearance of my glory, (see Numb. xii. 6,) I became not known to them." Perhaps it may mean, however, that God made himself known to the patriarchs as the Ruler of all things, but not as the Merciful and sure Rewarder of all deeds: they might have recognised Him so from his bounties; but now this knowledge was bestowed on mankind as a new source of hope and confidence.

[b] The same word has been rendered above with "burdensome labour," in which sense it must be understood throughout.

[c] The reader will please to recollect what is stated in a note to Genesis ii. 4, that the word LORD (so printed) is used in this version as equivalent to Eternal, to prevent the frequent repetition of the last term.

concerning which I did lift up my hand[a] to give it to Abraham, to Isaac, and to Jacob; and I will give it you for an heritage: I am the LORD.

9 And Moses spoke thus unto the children of Israel; but they hearkened not unto Moses for anguish of spirit, and for cruel bondage.

10 ¶ And the LORD spoke unto Moses, saying,

11 Go in, speak unto Pharaoh the king of Egypt, that he shall let the children of Israel go out of his land.

12 And Moses spoke before the LORD, saying, Behold, the children of Israel have not hearkened unto me: how then shall Pharaoh hear me, whereas I am of uncircumcised[b] lips?

13 ¶ And the LORD spoke unto Moses and unto Aaron, and gave them a charge unto the children of Israel, and unto Pharaoh, the king of Egypt, to bring forth the children of Israel out of the land of Egypt.*

19 And the sons of Merari: Machli and Mushi; these are the families of Levi according to their generations.

26 These are Aaron and Moses,[f] to whom the LORD said, Bring forth the children of Israel out of the land of Egypt according to their armies.

27 These are they that spoke to Pharaoh the king of Egypt, to bring forth the children of Israel out of Egypt: these are Moses and Aaron.

28 And it came to pass on the day when the LORD spoke unto Moses in the land of Egypt.*

29 ¶ Then spoke the LORD unto Moses, saying, I am the LORD; speak thou unto Pharaoh the king of Egypt all that I speak unto thee.

30 And Moses said before the LORD, Behold, I am of uncircumcised lips, and how shall Pharaoh hearken unto me?

CHAPTER VII.

1 ¶ And the LORD said unto Moses, See, I have made thee a god to Pharaoh; and Aaron thy brother shall be thy prophet.

2 Thou shalt speak all that I shall command thee; and Aaron thy brother shall speak unto Pharaoh, that he send away the children of Israel out of his land.

3 And I will harden the heart of Pharaoh,

[a] That is, "I did swear," as an oath is taken by the lifting up of the hand.

[b] The word "uncircumcised," among Israelites, denotes always an imperfection; so "uncircumcised of lips" means a difficulty in speaking, "uncircumcised of heart," an impurity of thought and a state of disobedience. Whereas "circumcised" denotes the opposite state of perfectness or purity.

and I will multiply my signs and my wonders in the land of Egypt.

4 And Pharaoh will not hearken unto you, and I will lay my hand upon Egypt, and bring forth my armies, my people, the children of Israel, out of the land of Egypt by means of great judgments.

5 And the Egyptians shall know that I am the LORD, when I stretch forth my hand over Egypt, and bring out the children of Israel from the midst of them.

6 And Moses and Aaron did so; as the LORD commanded them, so did they.

7 And Moses was eighty years old, and Aaron eighty and three years old, when they spoke unto Pharaoh.[a]

8 ¶ And the LORD said unto Moses and unto Aaron, saying,

9 If Pharaoh shall speak unto you, saying, Show a miracle for yourselves:[a] then shalt thou say unto Aaron, Take thy staff and cast it down before Pharaoh; it shall become a serpent.

10 And Moses and Aaron went in unto Pharaoh, and they did so, as the LORD had commanded; and Aaron cast down his staff before Pharaoh, and before his servants, and it became a serpent.

11 Then Pharaoh also called for the wise men and the sorcerers; and they also, the magicians of Egypt, did with their secret arts in like manner.

12 And they cast down every man his staff, and they became serpents; but Aaron's staff swallowed up their staves.

13 But the heart of Pharaoh was hard, and he hearkened not unto them; as the LORD had spoken.

14 ¶ And the LORD said unto Moses, The heart of Pharaoh is obdurate, he refuseth to let the people go.

15 Get thee unto Pharaoh in the morning; lo, he goeth out unto the water; and thou shalt place thyself opposite to him by the brink of the river; and the staff which was turned to a serpent shalt thou take in thy hand.

16 And thou shalt say unto him, The Eternal, the God of the Hebrews, hath sent me unto thee, saying, Let my people go, that they may serve me in the wilderness: and, behold, thou wouldst not hear, up to this time.

17 Thus hath said the LORD, By this thou shalt know that I am the LORD: behold, I will smite with the staff that is in my hand upon the waters which are in the river, and they shall be turned to blood.

18 And the fish that is in the river shall die, and the river shall stink; and the Egyptians shall loath to drink water from the river.

19 ¶ And the LORD said unto Moses, Say unto Aaron, Take thy staff, and stretch out thy hand over the waters of Egypt, over their streams, over their rivers, and over their ponds, and over all their pools of water, that they become blood; and there shall be blood throughout all the land of Egypt, also in vessels of wood, and in vessels of stone.

20 And Moses and Aaron did so, as the LORD had commanded; and he lifted up (his hand) with the staff, and smote the waters that were in the river, before the eyes of Pharaoh, and before the eyes of his servants; and all the waters that were in the river were turned to blood.

21 And the fish that was in the river died; and the river stank, and the Egyptians could not drink water from the river; and the blood was throughout all the land of Egypt.

22 And the magicians of Egypt did so[b] with their secret arts: and the heart of Pharaoh remained hardened, and he did not hearken unto them; as the LORD had spoken.

23 And Pharaoh turned away and went into his house, and he did not set his heart to this thing also.

24 And all the Egyptians dug in the neighbourhood of the river for water to drink; for they could not drink of the water of the river.

25 And full seven days elapsed, after that the LORD had smitten the river.[c]

26 ¶ And the LORD said unto Moses, Go in unto Pharaoh, and say unto him, Thus

[a] It must be understood that Pharaoh had refused to listen to the demand of Moses under the plea that he knew not who was the "Eternal God" in whose name the prophet spoke. When, therefore, Moses and his brother were sent again, it was to be expected that the king would require some extraordinary attestation, as proof that they who spoke thus had a power to enforce their mission, if it were in reality the word and will of an unheard-of Deity, of superior power to the gods of Egypt.

[b] "With the water, namely, which came from the newly dug wells;" see v. 24.—ARNHEIM.

[c] The English version ends here the seventh chapter, but the Massoretic text commences chap. viii. only with the fifth verse of the common version.

hath said the LORD, Let my people go, that they may serve me.

27 And if thou refuse to let them go, behold, I will smite all thy borders[a] with frogs:

28 And the river shall bring forth frogs abundantly, and they shall go up and come into thy house, and into thy sleeping-chamber, and upon thy bed, and into the house of thy servants, and among thy people, and into thy ovens, and into thy kneading-troughs;

29 And upon thee, and upon thy people, and upon all thy servants, shall the frogs come up.

CHAPTER VIII.

1 And the LORD said unto Moses, Say unto Aaron, Stretch forth thy hand with thy staff over the streams, over the rivers, and over the ponds, and cause the frogs to come up over the land of Egypt.

2 And Aaron stretched out his hand over the waters of Egypt; and the frogs came up, and covered the land of Egypt.

3 And the magicians did so with their secret arts, and brought up the frogs over the land of Egypt.

4 Then did Pharaoh call for Moses and Aaron, and said, Entreat the LORD, that he may take away the frogs from me, and from my people; and I will let the people go, that they may sacrifice unto the LORD.

5 And Moses said unto Pharaoh, Arrogate thyself[b] glory over me: for what time shall I entreat for thee, and for thy servants, and for thy people, to destroy the frogs from thee and from thy houses, that they may remain in the river only?

6 And he said, For to-morrow; and he said, Be it according to thy word; in order that thou mayest know that there is none like unto the LORD our God.*

7 And the frogs shall depart from thee, and from thy houses, and from thy servants, and from thy people; only in the river shall they remain.

8 And Moses and Aaron went out from Pharaoh; and Moses cried unto the LORD on account of the frogs which he had inflicted on Pharaoh.

9 And the LORD did according to the word of Moses; and the frogs died out of the houses, out of the courts, and out of the fields.

10 And they gathered them together in many heaps; and the land stank.

11 But when Pharaoh saw that there was a respite, he hardened his heart, and hearkened not unto them; as the LORD had spoken.

12 ¶ And the LORD said unto Moses, Say unto Aaron, Stretch out thy staff, and smite the dust of the earth, and it shall become lice[c] throughout all the land of Egypt.

13 And they did so; and Aaron stretched out his hand with his staff, and smote the dust of the earth, and the lice were thus on man, and on beast; all the dust of the land became lice throughout all the land of Egypt.

14 And the magicians did so with their secret arts to bring forth the lice, but they could not; so were the lice upon man and upon beast.

15 Then said the magicians unto Pharaoh, This is a finger of God; but Pharaoh's heart remained hardened, and he hearkened not unto them; as the LORD had spoken.

16 ¶ And the LORD said unto Moses, Rise up early in the morning, and place thyself before Pharaoh; lo, he goeth forth to the water; and say unto him, Thus hath said the LORD, Let my people go, that they may serve me.

17 For if thou wilt not let my people go, behold, I will send against thee, and against thy servants, and against thy people, and into thy houses various[d] wild beasts: and the

[a] i. e., the whole country, or that part which is enclosed by the boundaries.

[b] התפאר the hithpaël from פאר "to glorify," hence "to assume a glory for oneself." Moses meant to convey to Pharaoh, as a proof of his divinely delegated power, that even the fixing of a period to the plague, whether long or short, would surely be complied with. Hence follows the conclusion referring to the greatness of the Lord.

[c] As the word כנם is only found here and in Psalm cv. 31, its true character is not easily defined. Philippson renders it with "ants," perhaps the formix nigra. Others make it to mean "mosquito," the culex reptans. Both these insects are exceedingly troublesome in Egypt.

[d] The ancient Jewish commentators render ערוב 'Arobe, only found here and in Psalms, as derived from the verb signifying "to mingle," &c., a mixture of ravenous beasts, serpents, and scorpions. Rashbam makes it derived from ערב 'Areb "evening," hence "the night-wolf," jackall.—Philippson renders it with "beetle," referring to the blatta Aegyptiaca, which is at times dangerous to human life. (He quotes "De Katte's Journey to Abyssiania," p. 143.) The English version "swarms of flies" needs no refutation, as the whole context shows it to be incorrect. See especially farther down, verse 20.

houses of the Egyptians shall be full of the wild beasts, and also the ground whereon they dwell.

18 And I will distinguish on that day the land of Goshen, in which my people abideth, so that no wild beasts shall be there; to the end thou mayest know that I am the LORD in the midst of the earth.[a]*

19 And I will put a distinction between my people and thy people; to-morrow shall this sign be.

20 And the LORD did so; and there came a grievous multitude of beasts into the house of Pharaoh, and into the house of his servants; and in all the land of Egypt, the land was laid waste by reason of the wild beasts.

21 And Pharaoh called for Moses and for Aaron, and said, Go ye, sacrifice to your God in the land.

22 And Moses said, It is not proper to do so; for the abomination of the Egyptians must we sacrifice to the Eternal our God: lo, if we should sacrifice the abomination of the Egyptians before their eyes, would they not stone us?

23 A three days' journey will we go into the wilderness, and sacrifice to the LORD our God, just as he may say unto us.

24 And Pharaoh said, I will surely let you go, that ye may sacrifice to the Eternal your God in the wilderness; only do not go very far away: entreat for me.

25 And Moses said, Behold, I am going out from thee, and I will entreat the LORD, and the wild beasts shall depart from Pharaoh, from his servants, and from his people, to-morrow; only let not Pharaoh deal deceitfully any more, so as not to let the people go to sacrifice to the LORD.

26 And Moses went out from Pharaoh, and entreated the LORD.

27 And the LORD did according to the word of Moses; and he removed the wild beasts from Pharaoh, from his servants, and from his people; there remained not one.

28 But Pharaoh hardened his heart at this time also, and he did not let the people go.

CHAPTER IX.

1 ¶ And the LORD said unto Moses, Go in unto Pharaoh, and speak to him, Thus hath said the Eternal, the God of the Hebrews, Let my people go, that they may serve me.

2 For if thou refusest to let them go, and still holdest on to them,

3 Behold, the hand of the LORD will be sent against thy cattle which is in the field, against the horses, against the asses, against the camels, against the oxen, and against the sheep;—a very grievous pestilence.

4 And the LORD will distinguish between the cattle of Israel and the cattle of Egypt; and not one head shall die of all that belongeth to the children of Israel.

5 And the LORD appointed a set time, saying, To-morrow will the LORD do this thing in the land.

6 And the LORD did this thing on the morrow, and all the cattle of Egypt died; but of the cattle of the children of Israel there died not one.

7 And Pharaoh sent, and, behold, there had not died of the cattle of the Israelites even one; but the heart of Pharaoh remained hardened, and he did not let the people go.

8 ¶ And the LORD said unto Moses and unto Aaron, Take unto yourselves your hands full of soot of the furnace, and let Moses throw it heavenward before the eyes of Pharaoh.

9 And it shall become small dust over all the land of Egypt, and shall become upon man and beast an inflammation,[b] producing boils, throughout all the land of Egypt.

10 And they took the soot of the furnace, and stood before Pharaoh; and Moses threw it up heavenward; and it became an inflammation, producing boils, upon man, and upon beast.

11 And the magicians could not stand before Moses because of the inflammation; for the inflammation was upon the magicians, and upon all the Egyptians.

12 And the LORD hardened the heart of Pharaoh, and he hearkened not unto them; as the LORD had spoken unto Moses.

13 ¶ And the LORD said unto Moses, Rise up early in the morning, and place thyself before Pharaoh, and say unto him, Thus hath said the Eternal, the God of the Hebrews, Let my people go, that they may serve me.

14 For at this time I send all[a] my plagues against thy heart, and against thy servants, and against thy people; in order that thou mayest know that there is none like me on all the earth.

15 For even now I might have stretched out my hand, and I might have smitten thee and thy people with the pestilence; and thou wouldst have been cut off from the earth;

16 But for this cause have I allowed thee to remain, in order to show thee my power; and in order that they may proclaim my name throughout all the earth.*

17 If thou dost yet wantonly oppress my people, so as not to let them go:

18 Behold, then will I let rain, about this time to-morrow, a very grievous hail, the like of which hath not been in Egypt since the day of its foundation even until now.

19 And now send, and bring under shelter thy cattle, and all that thou hast in the field; (for) every man and beast that shall be found in the field, and shall not be brought into the house, upon them shall the hail come down, and they shall die.

20 He that feared the word of the LORD among the servants of Pharaoh made his servants and his cattle flee into the houses:

21 And he that regarded not the word of the LORD left his servants and his cattle in the field.

22 ¶ And the LORD said unto Moses, Stretch forth thy hand toward heaven, and there shall be hail in all the land of Egypt, upon man, and upon beast, and upon every herb of the field, in the land of Egypt.

23 And Moses stretched forth his staff toward heaven; and the LORD sent thunder and hail, and the fire ran down to the ground; and the LORD rained hail upon the land of Egypt.

24 And there was hail, and fire was flaming up amidst the hail, very grievous, the like of which had not been in all the land of Egypt, since it had become a nation.

25 And the hail smote throughout all the land of Egypt all that was in the field, both man and beast; and every herb of the field did the hail smite, and every tree of the field did it break.

26 Only in the land of Goshen, where the children of Israel were, there was no hail.

27 And Pharaoh sent, and called for Moses and Aaron, and he said unto them, I have sinned this time; the Eternal is the righteous,[b] and I and my people are the wicked.

28 Entreat the LORD that there may be no more of the thunders of God, and hail; and I will let you go, and ye shall no longer stay here.

29 And Moses said unto him, As soon as I am gone out of the city, I will spread out my hands unto the LORD: the thunders shall cease, and the hail shall not be any more; in order that thou mayest know how that to the LORD belongeth the earth.

30 But as for thee and thy servants, I know that ye are not yet afraid before the LORD God.

31 And the flax and the barley were smitten; for the barley was in the ear, and the flax was bolled.

32 But the wheat and the millet were not smitten; for they are late-ripening.*

33 And Moses went away from Pharaoh out of the city, and spread out his hands unto the LORD: and the thunders and hail ceased, and the rain was not poured out upon the earth.

34 And when Pharaoh saw that the rain and the hail and the thunders had ceased, he sinned yet farther, and hardened his heart, he and his servants.

35 And the heart of Pharaoh remained hardened, and he did not let the children of Israel go; as the LORD had spoken by the hand of Moses.

[a] "All my remaining plagues," Arnheim, who refers to a similar construction in Exodus xxix. 12, where כל הדם "all the blood" relates to that which was left after the sprinkling spoken of in the beginning of the verse.

[b] At first when Moses spoke in the name of the new Deity, "The Eternal, the God of the Hebrews," Pharaoh did not recognise Him; but now under the weight of affliction, he acknowledged Him, his justice, and his own wickedness and the sins of the Egyptians; hence also, not צדיק "righteous," but the emphatic הצדיק "the righteous," i. e., in the contest then going on, God was the party who had justice on his side, whilst Pharaoh and his people were those in the wrong. For the meaning of the word רשע in this sense, see above, ii. 13.

might display these my signs in the midst of them:[a]

2 And in order that thou mayest tell in the ears of thy son, and of thy son's son, the wonders which I have wrought[b] in Egypt, and my signs which I have shown among them; and ye shall know how that I am the LORD.

3 And Moses and Aaron came in unto Pharaoh, and said unto him, Thus saith the Eternal, the God of the Hebrews, How long yet wilt thou refuse to humble thyself before me? let my people go, that they may serve me.

4 For, if thou refusest to let my people go, behold, I will bring to-morrow locusts into thy boundary.

5 And they shall cover the face[c] of the earth, so that one shall not be able to see the earth; and they shall eat the residue of that which escaped, which hath been left unto you from the hail, and they shall eat off every tree which groweth for you out of the field:

6 And thy houses, and the houses of all thy servants, and the houses of all the Egyptians shall be full of them; such as neither thy fathers, nor thy fathers' fathers have seen, since the day of their being upon the earth, until this day; and he turned himself, and went out from Pharaoh.

7 And the servants of Pharaoh said unto him, How long shall this man be unto us for a snare? let the men go, that they may serve the LORD their God: knowest thou not yet that Egypt is destroyed?

8 And Moses was brought back with Aaron unto Pharaoh; and he said unto them, Go ye, serve the LORD your God; who all are they that shall go?

9 And Moses said, With our young and with our old will we go; with our sons and with our daughters, with our flocks and with our herds will we go; for we are to hold a feast unto the LORD.

10 And he said unto them, So be the LORD with you, as I will let you go, together with your little ones: look, surely your intentions are evil.[d]

11 Not so; go now ye men,[e] and serve the LORD, for this you desire: and they were driven out from Pharaoh's presence.[*]

12 ¶ And the LORD said unto Moses, Stretch out thy hand over the land of Egypt for the locusts, and they shall come up over the land of Egypt, and eat every herb of the earth, all that the hail hath left.

13 And Moses stretched forth his staff over the land of Egypt, and the LORD urged an east wind over the land all that day, and all the night; when it was morning, the east wind bore along the locusts.

14 And the locusts went up over all the land of Egypt, and rested in all the boundaries of Egypt; in very large masses; before them there were no such locusts as they, and after them there will not be any such.

15 And they covered the face of the whole earth, so that the earth was darkened; and they ate every herb of the land, and all the fruit of the trees which the hail had left: and there was not left any green thing on the trees, or on the herbs of the field, throughout all the land of Egypt.

16 Then made Pharaoh haste to call for Moses and Aaron; and he said, I have sinned against the LORD your God, and against you.

17 And now forgive, I pray thee, my sin only this once, and entreat the LORD your God, that he may take away from me only this death.

18 And he went out from Pharaoh, and entreated the LORD.

19 And the LORD turned a very strong west wind, which bore away the locusts, and cast them into the Red Sea; there was not left one locust in all the boundary of Egypt.

20 But the LORD hardened Pharaoh's heart, so that he did not let the children of Israel go.

21 ¶ And the LORD said unto Moses, Stretch out thy hand toward heaven, and there shall

[a] Heb. "Of him," Pharaoh the king standing for the whole people.

[b] After Onkelos. Arnheim renders, "how I have proved myself working miracles."

[c] עין (eye) here rendered "face" should be given with "the view," or "colour;" but the sense is after all the same.

[d] "Look, for the wrong you purpose to do is before your face to testify against you."—ONKELOS. Literally it is thus: "See, for evil is before your face."

[e] It is evident that Pharaoh in temporizing with Moses about the dismissal of the Israelites, had all along the idea of letting them go but a short distance, after which they should return; hence he averred that the children were of no use for such an expedition, and he therefore desired to retain them, as hostages for the return of the fathers.

be darkness over the land of Egypt, and it shall be a darkness of the night.[a]

22 And Moses stretched forth his hand toward heaven; and there was a thick darkness in all the land of Egypt three days:

23 They saw not one another, neither did they rise, any one from his place, for three days; but for all the children of Israel there was light in their dwellings.*

24 And Pharaoh called for Moses, and said, Go ye, serve the LORD; only your flocks and your herds shall remain behind: also your little ones may go with you.

25 And Moses said, Even thou also must give into our hand sacrifices and burnt-offerings, that we may sacrifice (them) unto the Eternal, our God.

26 And also our cattle must go with us, there shall not be left behind a single hoof, for thereof must we take to serve the LORD our God; and we cannot know with what we must serve the LORD, until we come thither.

27 But the LORD hardened Pharaoh's heart, and he would not let them go.

28 And Pharaoh said unto him, Get thee away from me; take heed to thyself, see my face no more; for on the day thou seest my face thou shalt die.

29 And Moses said, Thou hast spoken well, I will not see thy face again any more.

CHAPTER XI.

1 ¶ And the LORD said unto Moses, Yet one plague more will I bring upon Pharaoh, and upon Egypt; after that he will let you go hence: when he doth let you go, he shall surely thrust you out altogether from here.

2 Speak now in the ears of the people, and let them ask every man of his neighbour, and every woman of her neighbour, vessels of silver, and vessels of gold.

3 And the LORD gave the people favour in the eyes of the Egyptians; also the man Moses[b] was very great in the land of Egypt, in the eyes of Pharaoh's servants, and in the eyes of the people.*

4 ¶ And Moses said, Thus hath said the LORD, About midnight will I go out in the midst of Egypt:

5 And there shall die every first-born in the land of Egypt, from the first-born of Pharaoh that is[c] to sit upon his throne, even unto the first-born of the maid-servant that is behind the mill; and every first-born of cattle.

6 And there shall be a great cry throughout all the land of Egypt, the like of which hath never been, and the like of which will not be any more.

7 But against any of the children of Israel not a dog shall move[d] his tongue, neither against man nor beast; in order that ye may know how that the LORD doth distinguish between the Egyptians and Israel.

8 And all these thy servants shall come down unto me, and bow themselves down unto me, saying, Get thee out, and all the people that followeth thee;[e] and after that I will go out: and he went out from Pharaoh in a burning anger.

9 ¶ And the LORD said unto Moses, Pharaoh will not hearken unto you; in order that my wonders may be multiplied in the land of Egypt.

10 And Moses and Aaron did all these wonders before Pharaoh; and the LORD hardened Pharaoh's heart, and he did not let the children of Israel go out of his land.

CHAPTER XII.

1 ¶ And the LORD spoke unto Moses and Aaron in the land of Egypt, saying,

2 This month shall be unto you the chief of months: the first shall it be unto you of the months of the year.

3 Speak ye unto all the congregation of Israel, saying, On the tenth day of this month they shall take to themselves every man a lamb for every family,[f] a lamb for every house:

[a] According to Rashi, who renders יאפש as וימש and explains "there shall come over them a darkness thicker than that of the night, and the darkness of the night shall continue into the following days." From emesh, "yesterday;" hence to remain over from the yesterday.

[b] Although above, chap. x. 7, the servants of Pharaoh called Moses "the snare" of Egypt, they could not avoid honouring the man who was so signally favoured by the God of Israel, whose power they had felt.

[c] "Who in future is to sit upon the throne of his kingdom."—ONKELOS.

[d] Heb. "sharpen," "point," indicative of the motion and appearance of the dog's tongue in barking.

[e] Heb. "That is at thy feet," meaning, that follows where the prophet leads.

[f] i. e. A family divided in several households. Hebrew, "house of father," or those springing from one ancestor; בית אב is a subdivision of משפחה, "main family."

4 And if the household be too small for a lamb, then shall he take it with his neighbour who is next unto his house, according to the number of the souls; every man according to what he eateth shall ye make a count for the lamb.

5 A lamb without blemish, a male of the first year shall ye have; from the sheep, or from the goats may ye take it.

6 And ye shall have it in keeping until the fourteenth day of the same month; and then the whole assembly of the congregation of Israel shall kill it toward evening.[a]

7 And they shall take of the blood, and put it on the two side-posts and on the upper-door-post, in the houses, wherein they shall eat it.

8 And they shall eat the flesh in that night, roasted by the fire, with unleavened bread; together with bitter herbs shall they eat it.

9 You shall not eat of it raw, nor in any wise sodden with water; but roasted by the fire; its head with its legs, and with its entrails.[b]

10 And ye shall not let any thing of it remain until morning; and that which remaineth of it until morning ye shall burn with fire.

11 And thus shall ye eat it, With your loins girded, your shoes on your feet, and your staff in your hand; and ye shall eat it in haste, it is passover unto the LORD.

12 And I will pass through the land of Egypt in this night, and I will smite every first-born in the land of Egypt, both man and beast; and against all the gods of Egypt will I execute judgments: I am the LORD.[c]

13 And the blood shall be to you for a token upon the houses where ye are; and when I see the blood, I will pass over you; and there shall be no plague against you to destroy, when I smite (others) in the land of Egypt.

14 And this day shall be unto you for a memorial; and ye shall celebrate it as a feast unto the LORD; throughout your generations, as an ordinance for ever shall ye celebrate it.

15 Seven days shall ye eat unleavened bread; but on the first day ye shall have put away leaven out of your houses; for whosoever eateth leavened bread, that soul shall be cut off from Israel, from the first day until the seventh day.

16 And on the first day there shall be a holy convocation, and on the seventh day there shall be a holy convocation to you; no manner of work shall be done on them, save what is eaten by every man, that only may be prepared by you.

17 And ye shall observe the unleavened bread; for on this selfsame day have I brought forth your armies out of the land of Egypt; therefore shall ye observe this day in your generations as an ordinance for ever.

18 In the first month, on the fourteenth day of the month, at evening, shall ye eat unleavened bread, until the one and twentieth day of the month at evening.

19 Seven days no leaven shall be found in your houses; for whosoever eateth that which is leavened, even that soul shall be cut off from the congregation of Israel, whether he be a stranger, or one born in the land.

20 Nothing that is leavened shall ye eat; in all your habitations shall ye eat unleavened bread.*

21 ¶ And Moses called for all the elders of Israel, and said unto them, Draw out and take for yourselves lambs according to your families, and kill the passover sacrifice.

22 And ye shall take a bunch of hyssop, in the same manner as this is in regard to שבט, "tribe." בית, "the household," or family in the narrow sense it often has in English, is the smallest division. Several households could thus unite to celebrate the Passover in one domicile. This note must suffice to explain any variation in the version of the same words in the original text, should any such occur hereafter.

[a] Heb. "Between the two evenings," i. e. between the time the sun begins to decline till sunset, or "the afternoon," from the third hour, or the ninth after the Jewish mode of computing time. This was the practice in the Temple.

[b] After being washed as usual with sacrifices. (See Exod. xxix. 17.)

[c] This verse is well explained thus, "I am the Lord," I myself will do this, and not through a messenger. It must not be lost sight of that the punishment of the Egyptians and the redemption of the Israelites were to be as lessons, to both the parties affected thereby, of the greatness and irresistible power of the Lord; hence the slaying of the first-born was effected without the mediatorial agency of Moses even as in the other plagues; and as Pharaoh and his wise men relied upon the power of their idols, these too were overthrown in the night of the deliverance of Israel, by Israel's God. "Judgment" stands for "judicial decrees," or punishment.

and dip in the blood that is in the basin, and strike the lintel and the two side-posts with the blood that is in the basin; and none of you shall go out from the door of his house until the morning.

23 And the LORD will pass through to smite[a] the Egyptians; and when he seeth the blood upon the lintel, and on the two side-posts, the LORD will pass over the door, and will not suffer the destroyer to come in unto your houses to smite.

24 And ye shall observe this thing, as an ordinance for thee and for thy sons for ever.

25 And it shall come to pass, when ye be come into the land which the LORD will give you, according as he hath promised, that ye shall keep this service.

26 And it shall come to pass, when your children shall say unto you, What mean ye by this service?

27 That ye shall say, It is the sacrifice of the passover unto the LORD, who passed over the houses of the children of Israel in Egypt, when he smote the Egyptians, and our houses he spared; and the people bent the head and bowed themselves.

28 And the children of Israel went away, and did as the LORD had commanded Moses and Aaron, so did they.

29 ¶ And it came to pass at midnight, that the LORD smote every first-born in the land of Egypt, from the first-born of Pharaoh that was to sit on his throne unto the first-born of the captive that was in the dungeon; and all the first-born of cattle.

30 And Pharaoh rose up in the night, he, and all his servants, and all the Egyptians; and there was a great cry in Egypt; for there was not a house where there was not some one dead.

31 And he called for Moses and Aaron by night, and said, Rise up, get you forth from among my people, both ye and the children of Israel; and go, serve the Eternal, as ye have spoken.[b]

32 Also your flocks and your herds take, as ye have spoken, and be gone; and bless me also.

33 And the Egyptians were urgent upon the people, to make haste to send them away out of the land; for they said, We are all dying.

34 And the people took up their dough before it was yet leavened, their kneading-troughs being bound up in their clothes upon their shoulders.

35 And the children of Israel had done according to the word of Moses; and they had asked of the Egyptians vessels of silver, and vessels of gold, and garments.

36 And the LORD had given the people favour in the eyes of the Egyptians, so that they gave unto them what they required; and they emptied out Egypt.

37 ¶ And the children of Israel journeyed from Ra'meses to Succoth, about six hundred thousand men on foot, beside children.

38 And a mixed multitude also went up with them; and flocks, and herds, a very large amount of cattle.

39 And they baked of the dough, which they had brought forth out of Egypt, unleavened cakes, for it was not leavened; because they were thrust out of Egypt, and could not tarry, neither had they prepared any provisions for themselves.

40 Now the time of the residence of the children of Israel, which they dwelt in Egypt, was four hundred and thirty years.

41 And it came to pass at the end of the four hundred and thirty years, and it happened even on the self-same day, that all the armies of the LORD went out from the land of Egypt.

42 A night to be observed[c] was this unto the LORD to bring them out from the land of Egypt: this is that night holy to the LORD, to be observed by all the children of Israel in their generations.

43 ¶ And the LORD said unto Moses and Aaron, This is the ordinance of the passover: No stranger shall eat thereof.

44 But every man's servant that is bought for money, when thou hast circumcised him, then shall he eat thereof.

45 A resident foreigner and a hired servant shall not eat thereof.

46 In one house shall it be eaten; thou shalt not carry forth aught of the flesh abroad out of the house; and no bone shall ye break in it.

47 All the congregation of Israel shall prepare it.

48 And when a stranger sojourneth with thee, and will prepare the passover to the LORD, let all his males be circumcised, and then let him come near and prepare it, and he shall be as one that is born in the land; but no uncircumcised person[a] shall eat thereof.

49 One law shall be to him that is home-born, and unto the stranger that sojourneth among you.

50 And all the children of Israel did so; as the LORD had commanded Moses and Aaron, so did they.

51 ¶ And it came to pass on the selfsame day, that the LORD did bring forth the children of Israel out of the land of Egypt by their armies.*

CHAPTER XIII.

1 ¶ And the LORD spoke unto Moses, saying,

2 Sanctify unto me all the first-born, whatsoever openeth the womb among the children of Israel, both of man and of beast: it is mine.

3 And Moses said unto the people, Remember this day, on which ye came out from Egypt, out of the house of slavery; for by strength of hand the LORD brought you out from here: and no leavened bread shall be eaten.

4 This day go ye out, in the month of Abib.[b]

5 And it shall be, when the LORD doth bring thee into the land of the Canaanites, and the Hittites, and the Emorites, and the Hivites, and the Jebusites, which he hath sworn unto thy fathers to give unto thee, a land flowing with milk and honey, that thou shalt perform this service in this month.

6 Seven days shalt thou eat unleavened bread, and on the seventh day shall be a feast to the LORD.

7 Unleavened bread shall be eaten these seven days; and there shall not be seen with thee any leavened bread, neither shall there be seen with thee any leaven in all thy boundaries.

8 And thou shalt tell thy son on that day, saying, This is done for the sake of that which the LORD did unto me when I came forth out of Egypt.

9 And it shall be unto thee for a sign upon thy hand, and for a memorial between thy eyes, in order that the law of the LORD may be in thy mouth; for with a strong hand hath the LORD brought thee forth out of Egypt.

10 And thou shalt keep this ordinance in its season, from year to year.

11 ¶ And it shall be, when the LORD doth bring thee into the land of the Canaanites, as he hath sworn unto thee and to thy fathers, and giveth it to thee,

12 That thou shalt set apart all that openeth the womb unto the LORD; and every first-ling that cometh of a beast which thou shalt have, the males, shall belong to the LORD.

13 And every firstling of an ass shalt thou redeem with a lamb; and if thou wilt not redeem it, then shalt thou break its neck: and all the first-born of man among thy children shalt thou redeem.*

14 And it shall be, when thy son asketh thee in time to come, saying, What is this? that thou shalt say unto him, By strength of hand the LORD brought us forth out of Egypt, out of the house of slavery;

15 And it came to pass, when Pharaoh obstinately refused to let us go, that the LORD slew all the first-born in the land of Egypt, both the first-born of man, and the first-born of beast; therefore do I sacrifice to the LORD all that openeth the womb, being males; but all the first-born of my children must I redeem.

16 And it shall be for a sign upon thy hand, and for frontlets between thy eyes; that by strength of hand the LORD brought us forth out of Egypt.

SECTION XVI. BESHALLACH. בשלח.

17 ¶ And it came to pass, when Pharaoh let the people go, that God did not lead them the way through the land of the Philistines, because it was near; for God said, Lest peradventure the people repent when they see war, and return to Egypt.

18 But God led the people about, by the way of the wilderness to the Red sea: and the children of Israel went up armed out of the land of Egypt.

19 And Moses took the bones of Joseph with him; for he had caused the children of Israel to swear, saying, God will surely visit you, and ye shall then carry up my bones away hence with you.

20 And they took their journey from Succoth, and encamped in Etham, at the edge of the wilderness.

21 And the LORD went before them by day in a pillar of cloud, to lead them the way; and by night in a pillar of fire, to give light to them; that they might go by day and by night:

22 He took not away the pillar of cloud by day, nor the pillar of fire by night, from before the people.

CHAPTER XIV

1 ¶ And the LORD spoke unto Moses, saying,

2 Speak unto the children of Israel, that they turn back and encamp before Pi-hachiroth, between Migdol and the sea; in front of Baäl-zephon; opposite to this shall ye encamp by the sea.

3 And Pharaoh will say of the children of Israel, They are entangled in the land, the wilderness hath shut[a] them in.

4 And I will harden the heart of Pharaoh, that he shall follow after them; and I will get myself honour on Pharaoh, and on all his host; and the Egyptians shall know that I am the LORD; and they did so.

5 And it was told to the king of Egypt that the people had fled;[b] and the heart of Pharaoh and of his servants was changed[c] with respect to the people, and they said, What is this which we have done, that we have let Israel go from serving us?

6 And he made ready his chariot, and took his people with him.

7 And he took six hundred chosen chariots, and all the chariots of Egypt, and captains[d] over every one of them.

8 And the LORD hardened the heart of Pharaoh, the king of Egypt, and he pursued after the children of Israel; and the children of Israel went out with a high hand.*

9 And the Egyptians pursued after them, and they overtook them encamping by the sea, all the horses and chariots of Pharaoh, and his horsemen, and his army, beside Pi-hachiroth, before Baäl-zephon.

10 And when Pharaoh drew nigh, the children of Israel lifted up their eyes, and behold, the Egyptians were marching after them, and they were greatly afraid; and the children of Israel cried out unto the LORD.

11 And they said unto Moses, Is it because there were no graves in Egypt, that thou hast taken us away to die in the wilderness? what is this which thou hast done to us, to bring us forth out of Egypt?

12 Is not this the word that we spoke unto thee in Egypt, saying, Let us alone, that we may serve the Egyptians? for it is better for us to serve the Egyptians than that we should die in the wilderness.

13 And Moses said unto the people, Fear ye not, stand still, and see the salvation[e] of the LORD, which he will do for you to-day; for as ye[f] have seen the Egyptians to-day, ye shall not see them again any more for ever.

14 The LORD will fight for you, and ye shall hold your peace.*

15 ¶ And the LORD said unto Moses, Wherefore criest thou unto me? speak unto the children of Israel, that they go forward;

16 But do thou lift up thy staff, and stretch out thy hand over the sea, and divide it; and the children of Israel shall go through the midst of the sea on dry ground.

17 And I, behold, I will harden the heart of the Egyptians, and they shall follow them: and I will get myself honour on Pharaoh,

[a] Philippson translates, "The wilderness is closed against them," meaning, that they had not entered the proper district to effect their escape, but were roaming about at random without plan or concert. Philippson contends that his version is correct, because they had not yet entered the wilderness. The word "entangled" used here must be taken in the sense of "they had lost their way," near the sea-shore, without the possibility of an egress.

[b] "Was roaming about."—PHILIPPSON.

[c] "Turned against."—English version.

[d] "Those that fought in chariots upon all," ARNHEIM; who translates שלישׁ, Shahlish, always in the same manner.

[e] "Deliverance," ONKELOS. "Assistance," MENDELSSOHN, and others.

[f] The word אשׁר has been rendered, after Onkelos, as though it were באשׁר, "in the manner that;" in this sense the prophecy has been literally fulfilled, which would not be, if we render it, "the Egyptians whom ye see;" though Arnheim and others translate in the last manner.

and on all his host, on his chariots, and on his horsemen.

18 And the Egyptians shall know that I am the LORD, when I have got myself honour on Pharaoh, on his chariots, and on his horsemen.

19 And the angel of God, that went before the camp of Israel, removed and went behind them; and the pillar of cloud removed from before them, and stood behind them;

20 And it came between the camp of the Egyptians and the camp of Israel; and it was a cloud and darkness (to the first), but it gave light by night (to these): and the one came not near unto the other all the night.

21 And Moses stretched out his hand over the sea; and the LORD drove back the sea with a strong east wind all that night, and made the sea dry land, and the waters were divided.

22 And the children of Israel went into the midst of the sea upon the dry ground: and the waters were a wall unto them, on their right hand, and on their left.

23 And the Egyptians pursued, and went in after them, all Pharaoh's horses, his chariots, and his horsemen, to the midst of the sea.

24 And it came to pass in the morning watch, that the LORD looked unto the camp of the Egyptians with the pillar of fire and of the cloud, and brought into confusion the camp of the Egyptians;

25 And he took off the wheels of their chariots, and caused them to move onward with difficulty; and the Egyptians said, Let us flee from the face of Israel; for the LORD fighteth for them against the Egyptians.*

26 ¶ And the LORD said unto Moses, Stretch out thy hand over the sea, and the waters shall return over the Egyptians, over their chariots, and over their horsemen.

27 And Moses stretched forth his hand over the sea, and the sea returned, when the morning appeared, to its strength; while the Egyptians were fleeing against it; and the LORD overthrew the Egyptians in the midst of the sea.

28 And the waters returned, and covered the chariots, and the horsemen with all the host of Pharaoh that came after them into the sea: there remained of them not even one.

29 But the children of Israel walked upon dry ground in the midst of the sea; and the waters were unto them a wall on their right hand, and on their left.

30 Thus the LORD saved Israel on that day out of the hand of the Egyptians; and Israel saw the Egyptians dead upon the shore of the sea.

31 And Israel saw that great power which the LORD had shown on the Egyptians: and the people feared the LORD, and they believed in the LORD, and in Moses his servant.

CHAPTER XV.

1 ¶ Then sang Moses and the children of Israel this song unto the LORD, and thus did they say, I will sing unto the LORD, for he hath triumphed gloriously: the horse and his rider hath he thrown into the sea.

2 My strength and song is the LORD, and he is become my salvation: he is my God, and I will declare his praise,[a] the God of my father, and I will exalt him.

3 The Eternal is the lord of war; the ETERNAL is his name.

4 The chariots of Pharaoh and his host hath he hurled into the sea; and the chosen of his captains are sunk in the Red Sea.

5 The depths have covered them; they went down to the bottom as a stone.

6 Thy right hand, O LORD, is become glorious in power; thy right hand, O LORD, hath dashed in pieces the enemy.

7 And in the greatness of thy excellency hast thou overthrown those that rose up against thee; thou didst send forth thy wrath, it consumed them as stubble.

8 And with the breath of thy nostrils the waters were heaped up together, the floods stood upright as a wall; congealed were the depths in the heart of the sea.

9 The enemy said, I will pursue, I will overtake, I will divide the spoil; my desire shall be satisfied upon them; I will draw my sword, my hand shall destroy them.

10 Thou didst blow with thy wind, the sea covered them: they sunk as lead in mighty waters.

11 Who is like unto thee, O LORD, among the mighty? who is like unto thee, glorious in holiness, fearful in praises, doing wonders?

12 Thou didst stretch out thy right hand, the earth swallowed them.

13 Thou leadest forth in thy kindness the people thou hast redeemed; thou guidest it in thy strength unto the habitation of thy holiness.

14 Nations hear it and tremble: sorrow seizeth the inhabitants of Palestine.

15 Then were troubled the dukes of Edom; the mighty men of Moab, trembling seizeth them; faint-hearted[a] become all the inhabitants of Canaan.

16 Fear and dread shall fall upon them; by the greatness of thy arm they shall be still as a stone: till thy people pass over, O LORD, till this people pass over, which thou hast purchased.

17 Thou wilt bring them, and plant them on the mountain of thy inheritance, the place, O LORD, which thou hast wrought for thy residence, the sanctuary, O LORD, which thy hands have established.

18 The LORD will reign for ever and ever.

19 For the horse of Pharaoh went in with his chariots and with his horsemen into the sea, and the LORD brought again upon them the waters of the sea; but the children of Israel went on dry ground through the midst of the sea.

20 ¶ Then took Miriam the prophetess, the sister of Aaron, a timbrel in her hand; and all the women went out after her with timbrels and with dances.

21 And Miriam began her song to them, Sing ye to the LORD, for he hath triumphed gloriously: the horse and his rider hath he thrown into the sea.

22 ¶ And Moses caused Israel to depart from the Red Sea, and they went out into the wilderness of Shur; and they went three days in the wilderness, and found no water.

23 And they came to Marah; but they could not drink the waters of Marah, for they were bitter; therefore they called its name Marah.[b]

24 And the people murmured against Moses, saying, What shall we drink?

25 And he cried unto the LORD; and the LORD showed him a tree, which he cast into the waters, and the waters were made sweet: there he made for them a statute and an ordinance, and there he proved them,

26 And he said, If thou wilt diligently hearken to the voice of the LORD thy God, and wilt do that which is right in his eyes, and wilt give ear to his commandments, and wilt keep all his statutes: I will put none of those diseases upon thee, which I have brought upon the Egyptians; for I the LORD am thy physician.*

27 ¶ And they came to Elim, and there were twelve wells of water, and seventy palm-trees: and they encamped there by the water.

CHAPTER XVI.

1 And they took their journey from Elim, and all the congregation of the children of Israel came unto the wilderness of Sin, which is between Elim and Sinai, on the fifteenth day of the second month after their departing out of the land of Egypt.

2 And the whole congregation of the children of Israel murmured against Moses and Aaron in the wilderness:

3 And the children of Israel said unto them, Would to God that we had died by the hand of the LORD in the land of Egypt, when we sat by the flesh-pot, when we ate bread to the full; for ye have brought us forth into this wilderness, to kill this whole assembly with hunger.

4 ¶ Then said the LORD unto Moses, Behold, I will let rain for you bread from heaven; and the people shall go out and gather a certain portion every day, in order that I may prove it, whether it will walk in my law, or not.

5 And it shall come to pass, on the sixth day, when they prepare what they shall have brought in, that it shall be twice as much as they shall gather daily.

6 And Moses and Aaron said unto all the children of Israel, At evening, then shall ye know that it is the LORD who hath brought you out from the land of Egypt:

7 And in the morning, then shall ye see the glory of the LORD; since he heareth your murmurings against the LORD; and what are we, that ye should murmur against us?

8 And Moses said, When the LORD giveth you in the evening flesh to eat, and bread in the morning to the full; since the LORD heareth your murmurings which ye murmur

[a] Lit. "They are melted," i. e. from fear.

[b] Marah signifies "bitter." The throwing in of a tree in the water, to cure it, was another evidence of the power of God to produce an effect with means by no means adequate; not that there was any special power in the wood itself.

against him:—what are we then? not against us are your murmurings, but against the LORD.

9 And Moses said unto Aaron, Say unto all the congregation of the children of Israel, Come near before the LORD; for he hath heard your murmurings.

10 And it came to pass, as Aaron was speaking unto the whole congregation of the children of Israel, that they turned round toward the wilderness, and, behold, the glory of the LORD appeared in the cloud.*

11 ¶ And the LORD spoke unto Moses, saying,

12 I have heard the murmurings of the children of Israel: speak unto them, saying, Toward evening ye shall eat flesh, and in the morning ye shall be filled with bread; and ye shall know that I am the Eternal your God.

13 And it came to pass, that at evening the quails came up, and covered the camp; and in the morning there was a layer of dew round about the camp.

14 And when the layer of dew was gone up, behold, there was upon the face of the wilderness something fine in grains, small as the hoar-frost, on the ground.

15 And when the children of Israel saw it, they said one to another, It is manna, for they knew not what it was; and Moses said unto them, This is the bread which the LORD hath given you to eat.[a]

16 This is the thing which the LORD hath commanded, Gather of it every man according to his eating; an omer for every head, according to the number of your persons that every man hath in his tent, shall ye take.

17 And the children of Israel did so; and they gathered, some much, some little.

18 And when they measured it with an omer, he that had gathered much had nothing over, and he that had gathered little had no lack: every man according to his eating, had they gathered.

19 And Moses said, Let no man leave of it till the morning.

20 But they hearkened not unto Moses; but some men left of it until morning, and it bred worms, and stank; and Moses was wroth with them.

21 And so they gathered it every morning, every man according to his eating; and when the sun waxed hot, it melted.

22 And it came to pass on the sixth day, that they gathered twofold bread, two omers for every one; and all the rulers of the congregation came and told it to Moses.

23 And he said unto them, This is what the LORD hath spoken, A rest, a holy rest is unto the LORD to-morrow: that which ye will bake bake to-day,[b] and what ye will seethe seethe to-day; and all the remainder lay up for you to be kept until the morning.

24 And they laid it up till the morning, as Moses had bidden; and it did not stink, nor was there any worm therein.

25 And Moses said, Eat it to-day; for a sabbath[c] is this day unto the LORD: to-day ye will not find it in the field.

26 Six days shall ye gather it; but on the seventh day, the sabbath, on it there shall be none.

27 And it came to pass on the seventh day, that there went out some of the people to gather; but they found nothing.

28 ¶ And the LORD said unto Moses, How long refuse ye to keep my commandments and my laws?

29 See, that the LORD hath given you the sabbath, therefore he giveth you on the sixth day bread for two days; remain ye, every man in his place, let no man go out of his place on the seventh day.

30 So the people rested on the seventh day.

31 And the house of Israel called the name thereof Manna, [Man]; and it was like coriander-seed, white, and its taste was like wafers made with honey.

32 And Moses said, This is the thing which the LORD hath commanded, One omer-full of it is to be kept for your generations; in order that they may see the bread which I gave you to eat in the wilderness, when I brought you forth out of the land of Egypt.

[a] Mendelssohn, after some authorities, renders כִּן הוּא like כֹּה הוּא with "What is this;" to which Moses naturally replies, "This is the bread," &c. But as we have no warrant to substitute כִּן for כֹּה, the word has been left as it appears at first view, "It is manna," which Arnheim thus explains: The Israelites were acquainted with the Arabic manna, and called this new product therefore, from its similarity, by the same term; either because they knew no better name, or because they thought it identical. Moses, however, corrected their opinion, by saying that it was a miraculous gift of God. Rashi gives it, "This is a preparation of food."

[b] The word "to-day" is not in the Hebrew, but it is implied in the imperative אפו &c., which form always refers to the action which is to be performed at once. The present version is after Onkelos and Rashi.

[c] Properly, shabbath, "a rest," from שבת, shaboth, "to cease;" hence "to refrain from labour," "to rest."

33 And Moses said unto Aaron, take a flask, and put therein an omer-full of manna, and lay it up before the LORD, to be kept for your generations.

34 As the LORD had commanded Moses, so did Aaron lay it up before the Testimony, to be kept.

35 And the children of Israel ate the manna forty years, until they came to an inhabited land; the manna they did eat, until they came unto the borders of the land of Canaan.

36 But the omer[a] is a tenth part of an ephah.*

CHAPTER XVII.

1 ¶ And all the congregation of the children of Israel journeyed from the wilderness of Sin, after their journeyings, by the order of the LORD; and they encamped in Rephidim, and there was no water for the people to drink.

2 And the people quarrelled with Moses, and said, Give us water that we may drink; and Moses said unto them, Why will ye quarrel with me? why will ye tempt the LORD?

3 And the people thirsted there for water; and the people murmured against Moses, and said, For what purpose is it that thou hast brought us up out of Egypt, to kill me[b] and my children and my cattle with thirst?

4 And Moses cried unto the LORD, saying, What shall I do unto this people? but little is wanting and they will stone me.

5 And the LORD said unto Moses, Pass on before the people, and take with thee some of the elders of Israel; and thy staff, wherewith thou smotest the river, take in thy hand, and go.

6 Behold, I will be standing before thee there upon the rock at Horeb; and thou shalt smite the rock, and there shall come out from it water, and the people shall drink; and Moses did so before the eyes of the elders of Israel.

7 And he called the name of the place Massah[c] and Meribah; because of the quarrelling of the children of Israel, and because they tempted the LORD, saying, Is then the LORD among us, or not?

8 ¶ Then came Amalek, and fought with Israel in Rephidim.

9 And Moses said unto Joshua, Choose for us men, and go out, fight with Amalek; tomorrow I will stand on the top of the hill with the staff of God in my hand.

10 And Joshua did as Moses had said to him, to fight with Amalek; and Moses, Aaron, and Chur went up to the top of the hill.

11 And it came to pass, when Moses held up his hand, that Israel prevailed: and when he let down his hand, that Amalek prevailed.

12 But when the hands of Moses became heavy, they took a stone, and put it under him, and he sat thereon; and Aaron and Chur supported his hands, one on one side, and the other on the other side; and his hands were steady until the going down of the sun.

13 And Joshua discomfited Amalek and his people with the edge of the sword.*

14 ¶ And the LORD said unto Moses, Write this for a memorial in the book,[d] and rehearse it in the ears of Joshua; for I will utterly blot out the remembrance of Amalek from under the heavens.

15 And Moses built an altar, and called its name Adonay Nissy [The LORD is my Banner].

16 And he said, Because[e] the LORD hath sworn on his throne, that the LORD will have war with Amalek from generation to generation.

SECTION XVII. YITHRO, יתרו.

CHAPTER XVIII.

1 ¶ And Jithro, the priest of Midian, Moses' father-in-law, heard all that God had done

[a] The contents of an ephah is said by rabbinical authority to be 432 eggs; consequently an omer is 43$\frac{1}{5}$ (fowl's) eggs.

[b] The singular is used here, as in other places, to denote probably that one spoke for the community. So also in Genesis xxiii. 6, "Hear us, my lord."

[c] "Tempting and quarrel," from נסה "to prove, to tempt," and ריב "to contend, to quarrel."

[d] The book of the Records of Israel, wherein doubtlessly all the occurrences of the nation had been preserved.

[e] Aruheim, after Ralbag, (quoted in the name of his father,) renders, "Yea the hand on the throne of Yah (is stretched out) for a war with Amalek," &c.

for Moses, and for Israel his people, that the LORD had brought forth Israel out of Egypt.

2 Then took Jithro, the father-in-law of Moses, Zipporah, the wife of Moses, after he had sent her back,

3 And her two sons; of whom the name of the one was Gershom; for he said, I have been a stranger in a foreign land:

4 And the name of the other was Eliëzer;[a] for the God of my father was my help, and delivered me from the sword of Pharaoh.

5 And Jithro, the father-in-law of Moses, came with his sons and his wife unto Moses, unto the wilderness, where he was encamped at the mount of God.

6 And he sent word unto Moses, I thy father-in-law Jithro am coming unto thee, with thy wife, and her two sons with her.

7 And Moses went out to meet his father-in-law, and bowed himself, and kissed him; and they asked each other after their welfare; and they went into the tent.

8 And Moses told his father-in-law all which the LORD had done unto Pharaoh and to the Egyptians on account of Israel; all the hardship which had come upon them by the way, and how the LORD had delivered them.

9 And Jithro rejoiced over all the goodness which the LORD had done to Israel, that[b] he had delivered it out of the hand[c] of the Egyptians.

10 And Jithro said, Blessed be the LORD, who hath delivered you out of the hand of the Egyptians, and out of the hand of Pharaoh, who hath delivered the people from under the hand of the Egyptians.

11 Now I know that the Eternal is great above all gods; for by the very thing wherein they sinned presumptuously was punishment brought upon them.[d]

12 And Jithro, the father-in-law of Moses, offered a burnt-offering and sacrifices unto God; and Aaron came, with all the elders of Israel, to eat bread with the father-in-law of Moses, before God.*

13 And it came to pass on the morrow, that Moses sat to judge the people; and the people stood around Moses from the morning unto the evening.

14 And the father-in-law of Moses saw all that he did to the people; and he said, What is this thing that thou doest to the people? why sittest thou thyself alone, and all the people standeth around thee from morning until evening?

15 And Moses said unto his father-in-law, Because the people cometh unto me to inquire of God.

16 When they have a matter of dispute, they come unto me; and I judge between one and the other, and I make them know the statutes of God, and his laws.

17 And the father-in-law of Moses said unto him, The thing that thou doest is not good.

18 Thou wilt surely wear away, both thou, and this people that is with thee; for the thing is too heavy for thee; thou wilt not be able to perform it by thyself alone.

19 Now hearken unto my voice, I will give thee counsel, and may God be with thee, Be thou for the people a mediator[e] with God, that thou mayest bring the causes unto God.

20 And thou shalt explain to them the statutes and the laws; and thou shalt make them know the way wherein they must walk, and the work that they must do.

21 Moreover, thou shalt select out of all the people able men, such as fear God, men of truth, hating (their own) gain;[f] and place these over them, as rulers of thousands, rulers of hundreds, rulers of fifties, and rulers of tens.

[a] From El, "God," and ezer, "help."

[b] Onkelos renders אשר with "who had," &c., referring to the antecedent "Lord."

[c] יד "Hand," has several significations in Hebrew: first, the hand itself; then, "power," as in this instance; or "means," (as in Exodus ix. 35,) "As the Lord had spoken through the hand of Moses;" "a fixed place, the margin of a river," (Exodus ii. 5,) and "portion," "share," "claim," (2 Samuel xix. 44,) &c.

[d] After Onkelos. Rashi adds, "They endeavoured to destroy the Israelites by water, and they were lost in water." Philippson renders, "namely therein whereby they had sinned against them," meaning that God's superiority was displayed, since the Egyptians and their gods prevailed not in the very acts of their presumption against Israel. The English version seems to have adopted in some degree the same view. Arnheim, after Aben Ezra, renders "For he punished them because they had acted wickedly toward them."

[e] Meaning, that Moses should represent the people with God, hear what he teaches, and then instruct those who had sent him.

[f] This means, disinterested men, who in hearing causes brought before them will decide without reference whether their own advantage be secured by their judgment or not.

22 And let them judge the people at all times; and it shall be, that every great matter they shall bring unto thee, but every small matter they shall judge themselves: so shall it be easier for thee, when they shall bear with thee.

23 If thou wilt do this thing, and God commandeth it thee, then wilt thou be able to endure; and also the whole of this people will come to its place in peace.*

24 And Moses hearkened to the voice of his father-in-law, and did all that he had said.

25 And Moses chose able men out of all Israel, and placed them as heads over the people, rulers of thousands, rulers of hundreds, rulers of fifties, and rulers of tens.

26 And they judged the people at all times; any difficult cause they brought unto Moses, but every small cause they judged themselves.

27 And Moses dismissed his father-in-law; and he went his way unto his own land.*

CHAPTER XIX.

1 ¶ In the third month, after the children of Israel were gone forth out of the land of Egypt, the same day they came into the wilderness of Sinai.

2 For they had departed from Rephidim, and they came to the desert of Sinai, and encamped in the wilderness; and Israel encamped there opposite the mount.

3 And Moses went up unto God, and the LORD called unto him from the mount, saying, Thus shalt thou say to the house of Jacob, and tell the children of Israel:

4 Ye[a] have yourselves seen what I have done unto the Egyptians, and how I bore you on eagles' wings,[b] and brought you unto myself.

5 Now therefore, if you will truly obey my voice, and keep my covenant, then shall ye be unto me a peculiar treasure above all nations; for all the earth is mine:

6 And ye shall be unto me a kingdom of priests, and a holy nation; these are the words which thou shalt speak unto the children of Israel.

7 And Moses came and called for the elders of the people, and laid before them all these words which the LORD had commanded him.

8 And all the people answered unanimously, and said, All that the LORD hath spoken will we do; and Moses returned the words of the people unto the LORD.

9 And the LORD said unto Moses, Behold, I will come unto thee in a thick cloud, for the sake that the people may hear when I speak with thee, and that also in thee they shall believe[c] for ever: and Moses told the words of the people unto the LORD.

10 And the LORD said unto Moses, Go unto the people, and sanctify them to-day and to-morrow, and let them wash their clothes.

11 And they shall be ready against the third day; for on the third day will the LORD come down, before the eyes of all the people, upon mount Sinai.

12 And thou shalt set bounds unto the people, round about, saying, Take heed to yourselves, that ye go not up into the mount, nor touch the border of it; whosoever toucheth the mount shall surely be put to death.

13 Yet not a hand shall touch him, but he shall surely be stoned, or shot through; whether it be beast or man, it shall not live; when the trumpet soundeth long, they[d] may come up to the mount.

14 And Moses went down from the mount unto the people, and sanctified the people: and they washed their clothes.

15 And he said unto the people, Be ready against the third day; approach not unto a woman.

16 And it came to pass on the third day when it was morning, that there were thunders and lightnings, and a heavy cloud was upon the mount, and the voice of the cornet was exceedingly loud; so that all the people that were in the camp trembled.

17 And Moses brought forth the people out of the camp to meet with God; and they placed themselves at the foot of the mount.

18 And mount Sinai smoked in every part, because the LORD had descended upon it in fire; and the smoke thereof ascended as the smoke of a furnace, and the whole mount quaked greatly.

19 And the voice of the cornet went on, and waxed louder and louder; Moses spoke, and God answered him with a loud voice.*

20 And the LORD came down upon mount Sinai, on the top of the mount; and the LORD called Moses up to the top of the mount, and Moses went up.

21 And the LORD said unto Moses, Go down, charge the people, lest they break through unto the LORD to gaze, and many of them might perish.

22 And the priests also, who come near to the LORD, shall sanctify themselves; lest the LORD break forth among them.

23 And Moses said unto the LORD, The people cannot come up to mount Sinai; for thou hast charged us, saying, Set bounds about the mount and sanctify it.

24 And the LORD said unto him, Go, get thee down, and then shalt thou come up, thou, and Aaron with thee; but the priests and the people shall not break through to come up unto the LORD, lest he break forth among them.

25 So Moses went down unto the people, and spoke unto them.

CHAPTER XX.

1 ¶ And God spoke all these words, saying,

2 ¶ I am the LORD thy God, who have brought thee out of the land of Egypt, out of the house of slavery.[a]

3 Thou shalt have no other gods before me.

4 Thou shalt not make unto thyself any graven image, or any likeness of any thing that is in heaven above, or that is on the earth beneath, or that is in the water under the earth.

5 Thou shalt not bow thyself down to them, nor serve them; for I the LORD thy God am a jealous[b] God, visiting the iniquity of the fathers upon the children, unto the third and fourth generation of them that hate[c] me;

6 And showing mercy unto the thousandth generation of them that love me, and keep my commandments.

7 ¶ Thou shalt not take[d] the name of the LORD thy God in vain; for the LORD will not hold him guiltless that taketh his name in vain.

8 ¶ Remember the sabbath day to keep it holy.

9 Six days shalt[e] thou labour, and do all thy work.

10 But the seventh day is the sabbath in honour of the LORD thy God; on it thou shalt not do any work, neither thou, nor thy son, nor thy daughter, thy man-servant, nor thy maid-servant, nor thy cattle, nor thy stranger that is within thy gates;

11 For in six days the LORD made the heavens and the earth, the sea, and all that is in them, and rested on the seventh day; therefore the LORD blessed the sabbath day, and hallowed it.

12 ¶ Honour thy father and thy mother; in order that thy days may be prolonged upon the land which the LORD thy God giveth thee.

13 ¶ Thou shalt not kill.

¶ Thou shalt not commit adultery.

¶ Thou shalt not steal.

¶ Thou shalt not bear false witness against thy neighbour.

14 ¶ Thou shalt not covet thy neighbour's house.

15 ¶ And all the people perceived[f] the

[a] Heb. "House of servants" or "slaves," and means simply the state of bondage or slavery. According to Jewish opinions, "I am the Lord thy God" is the first commandment, and enjoins on us to believe in the Eternal alone, as God and Creator, who manifested himself to us when we were bondmen in Egypt, whence he redeemed us through the great deeds he wrought in our behalf. "Thou shalt have," &c. commences the second commandment.

[b] This means, "watchful of his glory, and unwilling to pardon idolatry."

[c] "If the children hate me."—RASHBAM. Onkelos paraphrases, "if the children persevere to sin after their fathers."

[d] This means, that we shall not utter, "bear on our lips," the blessed Name.—"Vain" includes both falsely and uselessly.

[e] Others render, "mayest," or "canst:" still the sense is the same; meaning, that whatever labour is performed must be done in the six week-days, to the exclusion of the sabbath.

[f] The Hebrew word ראים from ראה "to see," is evidently used here in the general sense, "to perceive," "to become aware of."

thunders, and the lightnings, and the sound of the cornet, and the mountain smoking; and when the people saw it, they removed trembling, and stood afar off.

16 And they said unto Moses, Speak thou with us, and we will hear;[a] but let not God speak with us, lest we die.

17 And Moses said unto the people, Fear not; for in order to prove you, did God come, and in order that his fear may be before your faces, that ye sin not.

18 And the people stood afar off, and Moses drew near unto the thick darkness where God was.*

19 ¶ And the LORD said unto Moses, Thus shalt thou say unto the children of Israel, Ye have seen that from heaven I have spoken with you.

20 Ye shall not make any thing with me; gods of silver, and gods of gold ye shall not make unto yourselves.

21 An altar of earth shalt thou make unto me, and shalt sacrifice thereon thy burnt-offerings, and thy peace-offerings, thy sheep,[b] and thy oxen; in every place where I shall permit my name to be mentioned, I will come unto thee, and I will bless thee.

22 And if thou wilt make me an altar of stone, thou shalt not build it of hewn stone; for if thou lift up thy tool upon it, thou hast polluted it.

23 Neither shalt thou go up by steps upon my altar, that thy nakedness be not laid open thereon.

SECT. XVIII. MISHPAHTIM, משפטים.

CHAPTER XXI.

1 ¶ And these are the laws of justice which thou shalt set before them.

2 If thou buy a Hebrew servant, six years shall he serve; and in the seventh he shall go out free for nothing.

3 If he came in by himself, he shall go out by himself; if he was the husband of a woman, then shall his wife go out with him.

4 If his master should give him a wife, and she bear him sons or daughters: the wife and her children shall belong to her master, and he shall go out by himself.

5 And if the servant should plainly say, I love my master, my wife, and my children; I will not go out free:

6 Then shall his master bring him unto the judges, and he shall bring him to the door, or unto the door-post; and his master shall bore his ear through with an awl; and he shall serve him till the jubilee.[c]

7 ¶ And if a man sell his daughter for a maid-servant, she shall not go out as the men-servants go out.

8 If she please not her master, to whom he[d] hath assigned her, then shall he aid her to be redeemed; unto a strange nation he shall have no power to sell her, seeing he hath dealt faithlessly with her.

9 And if he should assign her unto his son, then shall he do unto her after the right of the daughters.

10 If he take himself another wife, her food, her raiment, and her duty of marriage, shall he not diminish.

11 And if he do not these three things unto her, then shall she go out free, without money.

12 ¶ He that smiteth a man, so that he die, shall surely be put to death.

13 And if he did not lie in wait, but God let it come into his hand, then will I appoint thee a place whither he shall flee.

14 ¶ But if a man come presumptuously upon his neighbour, to slay him with guile, from my altar shalt thou take him, that he may die.

[a] Onkelos gives, "We will accept," thus signifying their willingness to follow what might be taught them in the name of God, whose presence they feared henceforth to encounter. But Moses, in accepting this trust, assured them that the Lord's object in showing his glory, was merely that they might always remember this scene and sin not.

[b] Rashi regards "thy sheep and thy oxen" as an explanation of the preceding words; thus, "thy peace-offerings of thy sheep and of thy oxen."

[c] Lit. "for ever;" but servitude is hereafter (Levit. xxv. 10) limited to the jubilee, which is accordingly the eternity of bondage, beyond which it could not exist.

[d] Arnheim makes the word "man" of verse 7, the nominative of all the verbs in verse 8, and renders the last, "since he acteth faithlessly by her;" meaning, in case he sell her to a foreigner who cannot marry her, by which she becomes a bondwoman, which the children of Israel should never be. This is a strong proof of the high esteem females enjoyed among the early Israelites.

RETURN OF MOSES FROM MOUNT SINAI

15 ¶ And he that smiteth his father, or his mother, shall surely be put to death.

16 ¶ And he that stealeth a man, and selleth him, and he be found[a] in his hand, shall surely be put to death.

17 ¶ And he that curseth his father, or his mother, shall surely be put to death.

18 ¶ And if men strive together, and one smite the other with a stone, or with the fist, and he die not, but keepeth his bed:

19 If he rise again, and walk abroad upon his crutch, then shall he that smote him be quit; only he shall pay for the loss of his time, and shall cause him to be thoroughly healed.*

20 ¶ And if a man smite his servant or his maid, with a rod, and he die under his hand, it shall be surely avenged.

21 Nevertheless, if he continue alive a day or two, it shall not be avenged; for he is his money.

22 ¶ If men strive, and hurt a woman with child, so that her children depart from her, and yet no farther mischief follow: he shall be surely punished, (with a fine,) according as the husband of the woman will lay upon him; and he shall pay this by the decision of the judges.

23 And if any mischief follow, then shalt thou give life for life,

24 Eye for eye,[b] tooth for tooth, hand for hand, foot for foot,

25 Burning for burning, wound for wound, bruise for bruise.

26 ¶ And if a man smite the eye of his servant, or the eye of his maid, that it perish, he shall let him go free for the sake of his eye.

27 And if he strike out his man-servant's tooth, or his maid-servant's tooth, he shall let him go free for the sake of his tooth.

28 ¶ If an ox gore a man or a woman, that he die: then shall the ox be surely stoned, and his flesh shall not be eaten; but the owner of the ox shall be quit.

29 But if the ox were wont to gore in time past, and warning have been given to his owner, and he hath not kept him in, and he killeth a man or a woman: the ox shall be stoned, and his owner also should of right be put to death;

30 But there shall be laid on him a sum of money in atonement, and he shall give the ransom of his life whatsoever may be laid upon him.

31 If he gore a son, or gore a daughter, according to this judgment shall be done unto him.

32 If the ox gore a man-servant or a maid-servant, thirty shekels of silver shall he[c] give to his master, and the ox shall be stoned.

33 ¶ And if a man open a pit, or if a man dig a pit, and do not cover it, and an ox or an ass fall therein:

34 The owner of the pit shall make it good, he shall make restitution in money unto the owner thereof; and the dead beast shall be his.

35 ¶ And if one man's ox hurt the ox of another, that he die: then shall they sell the live ox, and divide his money; and the dead ox also they shall divide.

36 But if it be known that the ox was wont to gore in time past, and his owner hath not kept him in: he shall surely pay ox for ox; and the dead shall belong to him.[d]

37 ¶ If a man steal an ox or a sheep, and kill it, or sell it: five oxen shall he restore for one ox, and four sheep for one sheep.

CHAPTER XXII.

1 If a thief be found while breaking in, and be smitten so that he die, there shall no blood be shed for him.

2 If the sun be risen upon him, there shall be blood shed for him; he shall make full restitution; if he have nothing, then shall he be sold for his theft.

3 If the thing stolen be actually found in his hand alive, whether it be ox, or ass, or sheep, he shall restore double.*

4 ¶ If a man cause a field or vineyard to be eaten off, and he let his beasts enter, and they feed in another man's field: with the

[a] If witnesses have seen that he has stolen and sold him, and he was found before the sale.—RASHI, after Sanhedrin, 85.

[b] According to the laws as executed in Israel, (see Baba Kama, viii. § 1,) this injunction was understood as applying merely to make restitution in money for the injury inflicted. That this exposition is strictly conformable to the sacred text, can be proved from the passage, Numbers xxxv. 31, "And ye shall not take a ransom for the life of a murderer who is guilty of death," which clearly means "from a murderer ye shall take no ransom, but ye may do it from one who inflicts a wound only."

[c] The owner of the ox.

best of his own field, and with best of his own vineyard, shall he make restitution.

5 ¶ If a fire break out, and meet with thorns, so that stacks of corn, or the standing corn, or the field, be consumed thereby, he that kindled the fire shall surely make restitution.

6 ¶ If a man do deliver unto his neighbour money or vessels to keep, and it be stolen out of the man's house: if the thief be found, he shall pay double.

7 If the thief be not found, then shall the master of the house be brought unto the judges, (to swear) that he have not stretched out his hand against his neighbour's goods.

8 For all manner of trespass, for ox, for ass, for lamb, for raiment, or for any manner of lost thing, of which he[a] can say, This is it, before the judges shall come the cause of both parties, and he, whom the judges may condemn, shall pay double unto his neighbour.

9 ¶ If a man deliver unto his neighbour an ass, or an ox, or a lamb, or any beast, to keep; and it die, or be hurt, or driven away, no man seeing it:

10 Then shall an oath of the LORD be between them both, that he have not stretched out his hand against his neighbour's goods; and the owner of it shall accept this, and he shall not make it good.

11 But if it be stolen from him, he shall make restitution unto the owner thereof.

12 If it be torn in pieces, then let him bring it as evidence;[b] that which was torn he shall not make good.

13 ¶ And if a man borrow aught of his neighbour, and it be hurt, or die, the owner thereof not being with it, he shall surely make it good.

14 But if the owner thereof be with it, he shall not make it good; if it be a hired thing, the loss is included in its hire.[c]

15 ¶ And if a man seduce a virgin that is not betrothed, and lie with her, he shall surely endow her to be his wife.

16 If her father refuse to give her unto him, he shall pay money according to the dowry of virgins.

17 ¶ Thou shalt not suffer a witch to live.

18 Whosoever lieth with a beast shall surely be put to death.

19 ¶ He that sacrificeth unto any god, save unto the LORD only, shall be utterly destroyed.

20 And a stranger thou shalt not vex, and shalt not oppress him; for strangers ye were in the land of Egypt.

21 Ye shall not afflict any widow, or fatherless child.

22 If thou afflict him in any wise;[d] (for if he cry at all unto me, I will surely hear his cry:)

23 My wrath shall wax hot, and I will slay you with the sword; and your wives shall be widows, and your children fatherless.

24 ¶ If thou lend money to my people, to the poor by thee, thou shalt not be to him as a lender of money; thou shalt not lay upon him usury.

25 If thou take at all thy neighbour's raiment in pledge, thou shalt restore it unto him by the time the sun goeth down;

26 For it is his only covering, it is his raiment for his skin; wherein shall he sleep? and it shall come to pass, when he crieth unto me, that I will hear; for I am gracious.*

27 ¶ The judges thou shalt not revile;[e] and a ruler among thy people thou shalt not curse.

28 The first of thy ripe fruits, and of thy liquors, shalt thou not delay to offer; the first-born of thy sons shalt thou give unto me.

29 In like manner shalt thou do with thy ox, with thy sheep; seven days it shall be with its dam; on the eighth day thou shalt give it me.

30 And holy men shall ye be unto me: and flesh that is torn of beasts in the field, shall ye not eat; to the dogs shall ye cast it.

[a] "The witness," i. e. which he can identify.—ABEN EZRA.—From 6 to 8 is considered as relating to a case where the goods are left without charge for keeping; but from 9 to 12 where hire is paid for the care required.

[b] Compare with Amos iii. 12. Rashi and Onkelos: "He shall bring witnesses."

[c] Meaning, the owner can only claim the money agreed upon for the hire, but no farther restitution. This version is according to Ben 'Uzziel and Mendelssohn; literally, "it comes (in) with its hire."

[d] Rashi regards this as an elliptical verse, thus: "If thou afflict him, thou shalt surely be punished, because, should he cry unto me, I will hear his cry."

[e] "This is a prohibition both against blasphemy, and cursing the judges who sit in the place of God to do justice."—RASHI, after Sanhedrin, 67.

CHAPTER XXIII.

1 ¶ Thou shalt not receive a false report: put not thy hand with the wicked to be an unrighteous witness.

2 ¶ Thou shalt not follow a multitude to do evil; neither shalt thou speak in a cause, to incline after many, to wrest judgment.

3 Neither shalt thou countenance a poor man in his cause.

4 ¶ If thou meet thy enemy's ox or his ass going astray, thou shalt surely bring it back to him again.

5 ¶ If thou see the ass of him that hateth thee lying under his burden, and wouldest forbear to unload him, (thou must not do so, but) thou shalt surely unload with him.*

6 ¶ Thou shalt not wrest the judgment of thy poor in his cause.

7 Keep thyself far from a false speech; and him who hath been declared innocent and righteous thou shalt not slay; for I will not justify the wicked.

8 And thou shalt take no bribe; for the bribe blindeth the clear-sighted, and perverteth the words of the righteous.

9 And a stranger shalt thou not oppress; for ye know well the spirit of the stranger, seeing ye yourselves were strangers in the land of Egypt.

10 And six years shalt thou sow thy land, and shalt gather in the fruits thereof;

11 But the seventh year shalt thou let it rest and lie still; that the needy of thy people may eat (of it); and what they leave the beasts of the field shall eat: in like manner shalt thou deal with thy vineyard, and with thy olive tree.

12 Six days shalt thou do thy work, and on the seventh day shalt thou rest; that thy ox and thy ass may repose, and the son of thy hand-maid, and the stranger, may be refreshed.

13 And in all things that I have said unto you be on your guard; and of the name of other gods ye shall make no mention, it shall not be heard out of thy mouth.

14 Three times shalt thou keep a feast unto me in the year.

15 The feast of unleavened bread shalt thou keep; seven days shalt thou eat unleavened bread, as I commanded thee, in the time appointed of the month of Abib; for in it thou camest out from Egypt: and none shall appear before me empty.

16 And the feast of harvest, of the first-fruits of thy labours, which thou hast sown in thy field: and the feast of ingathering, at the conclusion of the year, when thou gatherest in thy labours out of the field.

17 Three times in the year shall all thy males appear before the Lord, the Eternal.

18 Thou shalt not offer the blood of my sacrifice with leavened bread;[a] neither shall the fat of my festive sacrifice remain until morning.

19 The first of the first-fruits of thy land shalt thou bring unto the house of the Lord thy God. Thou shalt not seethe a kid in its mother's milk.*

20 ¶ Behold, I send an angel before thee, to keep thee on the way, and to bring thee unto the place which I have prepared.

21 Beware of him, and obey his voice, disobey him not; for he will not pardon your transgression, because my name is in him.

22 But if thou wilt carefully hearken to his voice, and do all that I shall speak: then will I be an enemy unto thy enemies, and afflict those that afflict thee.

23 For my angel shall go before thee, and bring thee in unto the Emorites, and the Hittites, and the Perizzites, and the Canaanites, the Hivites, and the Jebusites; and I will cut them off.

24 Thou shalt not bow down to their gods, nor serve them, nor do after their deeds; but thou shalt utterly overthrow them, and completely break down their statuary images.

25 And ye shall serve the Lord your God, and he will bless thy bread, and thy water; and I will remove sickness from the midst of thee.*

26 ¶ There shall be no one casting her children, nor a barren woman, in thy land; the number of thy days I will make full.

27 My terror will I send before thee, and will bring in confusion all the people to which thou shalt come; and I will make all thy enemies turn their back unto thee.

28 And I will send hornets before thee, and they shall drive out the Hivite, the Canaanite, and the Hittite, from before thee.

29 I will not drive them out from before thee in one year; lest the land become desolate, and the beast of the field multiply against thee.

[a] This means that the passover-lamb shall not be slain on the fourteenth of the first month, till all the leaven has been previously removed.

30 Little by little will I drive them out from before thee, until thou be increased and canst possess the land.

31 And I will set thy bounds from the Red Sea unto the sea of the Philistines, and from the desert unto the river; for I will deliver into your hand the inhabitants of the land, and thou shalt drive them out before thee.

32 Thou shalt not make a covenant with them, nor with their gods.

33 They shall not dwell in thy land, lest they cause thee to sin against me; for thou mightest (be led[a] to) serve their gods, and this would surely be a snare unto thee.

CHAPTER XXIV.

1 ¶ And unto Moses he said, Come up unto the LORD, thou, and Aaron, Nadab, and Abihu, and seventy of the elders of Israel; and ye shall bow yourselves down afar off.

2 And Moses alone shall come near unto the LORD, but they shall not come nigh; and the people shall not go up with him.

3 And Moses came and told the people all the words of the LORD, and all the laws of justice;[b] and all the people answered with one voice, and said, All the words which the LORD hath spoken will we do.

4 And Moses wrote down all the words of the LORD, and he rose up early in the morning, and built an altar at the foot of the mount, and twelve pillars, according to the twelve tribes of Israel.

5 And he then sent the young men[c] of the children of Israel, and they offered burnt-offerings, and sacrified peace-offerings unto the LORD, of oxen.

6 And Moses took the half of the blood, and put it in basins; and the (other) half of the blood he sprinkled on the altar.

7 And he took the book of the covenant, and read in the hearing of the people; and they said, All that the LORD hath spoken will we do and obey.

8 And Moses took the blood and sprinkled it on the people, and said, Behold the blood of the covenant, which the LORD hath made with you concerning all these words.

9 Then went up Moses, with Aaron, Nadab, and Abihu, and seventy of the elders of Israel.

10 And they saw[d] the God of Israel; and the place[e] under his feet was like a paved work of brilliant sapphire, and like the colour of heaven in clearness.

11 And against the nobles of the children of Israel he stretched not forth his hand; and they saw (the glory of) God, and did eat and drink.[f]

12 ¶ And the LORD said unto Moses, come up to me to the mount, and remain there: and I will give thee the tables of stone, with the law, and the commandment which I have written, to teach them.

13 And Moses rose up, and his servant Joshua; and Moses went up to the mount of God.

14 And unto the elders he said, Tarry ye for us here, until the time we come again unto you; and, behold, Aaron and Chur are with you, whoever may have any cause to be decided, let him come unto them.

15 And Moses went up to the mount, and the cloud covered the mount.*

16 And the glory of the LORD abode upon mount Sinai, and the cloud covered it six days; and he called unto Moses on the seventh day out of the midst of the cloud.

17 And the appearance of the glory of the LORD was like a devouring fire on the top of the mount, before the eyes of the children of Israel.

18 And Moses went into the midst of the cloud, and ascended the mount; and Moses was on the mount forty days and forty nights.

Haphtorah in Jeremiah xxxiv. 8–22 and xxxiii. 25, 26.

[a] Mendelssohn; Rashi, however, renders, "that thou mightest serve their gods, which," &c.

[d] "In the vision of prophecy." (See Isaiah vi. 1.)—ABEN EZRA.

[e] ותחת רגליו is correctly given by Arnheim, "that under his feet," i. e. the footstool, or, there where his feet rested. So also the Septuagint, παὶ τὰ ὑπὸ τοὺς πόδας αὐτοῦ

[f] Onkelos paraphrases this verse: "And unto the chiefs of the children of Israel there happened no injury, and they beheld the glory of God, and they rejoiced in the favourable reception of their sacrifices, as though they ate and drank." Dubno, after Ramban: "They ate the peace-offerings before the altar, at the foot of the mount, and they drank, making the occasion one of joy, and a holiday; for it is a duty to rejoice at the reception of the law; see also Deuteronomy xxvii. 7, 'And thou shalt slay peace-offerings, and eat them there.'"

SECTION XIX. TERUMAH, תרומה.

CHAPTER XXV.

1 ¶ And the LORD spoke unto Moses, saying,

2 Speak unto the children of Israel, that they may bring me an offering;[a] from every man whose heart prompteth him thereto shall ye take my offering.

3 And this is the offering which ye shall take from them: gold, and silver, and copper,

4 And blue, and purple, and scarlet yarn, and linen thread, and goats' hair,

5 And rams' skins died red, and badgers' skins, and shittim wood,[b]

6 Oil for lighting, spices for the anointing oil, and for the incense of spices,

7 Onyx stones, and stones for setting, for the ephod, and for the breastplate.

8 And they shall make me a sanctuary; and I will dwell in the midst of them.

9 In accordance with all that I show thee, the pattern of the tabernacle, and the pattern of all the instruments thereof, even so shall ye make it.

10 ¶ And they shall make an ark of shittim wood; two cubits and a half shall be its length, and a cubit and a half its breadth, and a cubit and a half its height.

11 And thou shalt overlay it with pure gold, within and without shalt thou overlay it; and thou shalt make upon it a crown of gold round about.

12 And thou shalt cast for it four rings of gold, and put them on the four corners thereof; namely, two rings shall be on the one side of it, and two rings on the other side of it.

13 And thou shalt make staves of shittim wood, and overlay them with gold.

14 And thou shalt place the staves into the rings, upon the sides of the ark, that the ark may be borne with them.

15 In the rings of the ark shall the staves remain; they shall not be removed therefrom.

16 And thou shalt put into the ark the testimony which I will give unto thee.[d]

17 And thou shalt make a cover[c] of pure gold; two cubits and a half shall be its length, and a cubit and a half its breadth.

18 And thou shalt make two cherubim of gold, of beaten work shalt thou make them, on the two ends of the cover.

19 And make one cherub on the one end, and the other cherub on the other end; from the cover itself shall ye make the cherubim on the two ends thereof.

20 And the cherubim shall be spreading forth their wings on high, overshadowing the cover with their wings, with their faces turned one to the other; toward the cover shall the faces of the cherubim be directed.

21 And thou shalt put the cover above upon the ark; and in the ark shalt thou put the testimony which I will give unto thee.

22 And I will meet with thee there, and I will speak with thee from above the cover, from between the two cherubim which are upon the ark of the testimony, all that which I will command thee unto the children of Israel.

23 ¶ Thou shalt also make a table of shittim wood; two cubits shall be its length, and a cubit its breadth, and a cubit and a half its height.

24 And thou shalt overlay it with pure gold, and make thereto a crown of gold round about.

25 And thou shalt make unto it a rim of a hand's breadth round about; and thou shalt make a golden crown on its rim round about.

26 And thou shalt make for it four rings of gold, and thou shalt put the rings on the four corners that are on its four feet.

27 Close under the rim shall the rings be; as receptacles for the staves, to bear the table.

28 And thou shalt make the staves of shittim wood, and overlay them with gold; and the table shall be borne with them.

[a] תרומה, elsewhere given with "heave-offering," is explained by Rashi to mean "something separated from a mass," and it says here, "they shall set aside for me from their money a free-will offering."

[b] Some render this word with "acacia wood," viz. that of the Acacia arabica, which is said to be very durable, light, but growing dark with age. The word is of Egyptian origin.—After PHILIPPSON.

[c] The English version, after the Vulgate and Luther, renders כפרת with "mercy-seat," no doubt deriving the word from כפר "to pardon," thus: "The place whence pardon is obtained." The Midrash Tanchuma agrees with this, saying, "Why was it called כפרת? because it atoned for the sins מכפרת of Israel." The Septuagint and Japheth (the last quoted by Aben Ezra) combine both ideas, "the cover of atonement." Philippson translates accordingly with "Sühnplatte." Rashi, however, gives it simply כסוי "cover." In the course of this work it is probable that "mercy-seat" may be used—as a paraphrase, however, not as a literal version of the word.

29 And thou shalt make its dishes, and its spoons, and its supporters,[a] and its purifying tubes, wherewith (the bread) is to be covered: of pure gold shalt thou make them.

30 And thou shalt set upon the table showbread before me always.*

31 ¶ And thou shalt make a candlestick[b] of pure gold: of beaten work shall the candlestick be made; its shaft, and its branches, its bowls, its knobs, and its flowers, shall be out of one piece with it.

32 And six branches shall come out of its sides; three branches of the candlestick out of the one side, and three branches of the candlestick out of the other side.

33 Three bowls, almond-shaped, shall be on one branch, with a knob and a flower; and three bowls almond-shaped on the other branch, with a knob and a flower: so on the six branches that come out of the candlestick.

34 And on the candlestick itself shall be four bowls, almond-shaped, (with) its knobs and its flowers.

35 And there shall be a knob under the two branches that come out of the same, and a knob under the two branches that come out of the same, and a knob under the two branches that come out of the same; for the six branches that proceed out of the candlestick.

36 Their knobs and their branches shall be out of one piece with it; all of it shall be one piece of beaten work of pure gold.

37 And thou shalt make its seven lamps; and when they light its lamps, it shall give light toward the body of it.

38 And its tongs, and its snuff-dishes shall be of pure gold.

39 Out of a talent of pure gold shall he[c] make it, with all these vessels.

40 And look that thou make them after their pattern, which thou wast shown on the mount.*

CHAPTER XXVI.

1 ¶ The tabernacle also shalt thou make of ten curtains, of twisted linen thread, and blue, and purple, and scarlet yarn, with cherubim, of weaver's[d] work shalt thou make them.

2 The length of each curtain shall be eight and twenty cubits, and the breadth of each curtain four cubits: there shall be one measure for all the curtains.

3 Five of the curtains shall be coupled together, one to another; and the other five curtains shall be coupled, one to another.

4 And thou shalt make loops of blue on the edge of the one curtain which is on the outside in the (one) coupling; and the like shalt thou make on the edge of the curtain which is the outmost in the second coupling.

5 Fifty loops shalt thou make on the one curtain, and fifty loops shalt thou make on the edge of the curtain that is in the second coupling; the loops shall be fixed opposite each other.

6 And thou shalt make fifty hooks of gold; and thou shalt couple the curtains together one unto the other with the hooks, and the tabernacle shall thus be one piece.

7 And thou shalt make curtains of goats' hair for a tent over the tabernacle; eleven curtains shalt thou make the same.

8 The length of each curtain shall be thirty cubits, and the breadth of each curtain four cubits: there shall be one measure for the eleven curtains.

9 And thou shalt couple five of the curtains by themselves, and six of the curtains by themselves; and thou shalt double the sixth curtain toward the front side of the tabernacle.

10 And thou shalt make fifty loops on the edge of the one curtain that is the outmost in the (one) coupling, and fifty loops on the edge of the curtain of the second coupling.

11 And thou shalt make fifty hooks of copper; and thou shalt put the hooks into the loops, and couple the tent together, that it may be one piece.

12 And the part hanging over in the excess

[b] More correctly, "chandelier."

[c] i. e. The unknown maker, whoever he may be. This construction is very common in Hebrew.

[d] חשב "weaver," is here used in contradistinction to רקם "the embroiderer." The figures in this instance were to be woven in, while in the other they were to be wrought with a needle, as the "embroiderer" does. The weaver is called חשב from the fact that "thought" or "art" is required to produce the figures in the loom; therefore, per-of the curtains of the tent,[a] the half curtain which is over, shall hang down over the back part of the tabernacle.

13 And the cubit on the one side, and the cubit on the other side in the excess in the length of the curtains of the tent, shall be hanging down over the sides of the tabernacle on this side and on that side, to cover it.

14 And thou shalt make a cover for the tent of rams' skins dyed red, and a cover of badgers' skins above.*

15 ¶ And thou shalt make the boards for the tabernacle of shittim wood, standing up.

16 Ten cubits shall be the length of each board, and a cubit and a half shall be the breadth of each one board.

17 There shall be two tenons for every board, fitted in, one against the other: the like shalt thou make for all the boards of the tabernacle.

18 And thou shalt make the boards for the tabernacle: twenty boards for the south side, on the right.

19 And forty sockets of silver shalt thou make under the twenty boards; two sockets under the one board for its two tenons, and two sockets under the other board for its two tenons.

20 And for the other side of the tabernacle, for the north side, there shall be twenty boards;

21 And their forty sockets of silver; two sockets under the one board, and two sockets under the other board.

22 And for the back wall of the tabernacle, westward, thou shalt make six boards.

23 And two boards shalt thou make for the corners of the tabernacle in the back wall.

24 And they shall be closely fitting together beneath, and they shall be closely joined together on the top by means of one ring:[b] thus shall it be for both of them; for the two corners shall they be.

25 And so they shall be eight boards, and their sockets of silver, sixteen sockets: two sockets under the one board, and two sockets under the other board.

26 And thou shalt make bars of shittim wood: five, for the boards of the one side of the tabernacle;

27 And five bars for the boards of the other side of the tabernacle, and five bars for the boards of the side of the tabernacle, for the back wall, westward;

28 And the middle bar in the midst of the boards, passing from the one end to the other end.

29 And the boards thou shalt overlay with gold, and their rings thou shalt make of gold, as receptacles for the bars; and thou shalt overlay the bars with gold.

30 And thou shalt rear up the tabernacle, according to the fashion thereof, which thou hast been shown on the mount.*

31 ¶ And thou shalt make a vail of blue, and purple, and scarlet yarn, and twisted linen, of weavers' work shall it be made, with cherubim.

32 And thou shalt hang[c] it upon four pillars of shittim wood overlaid with gold; their hooks also shall be of gold; upon four sockets of silver.

33 And thou shalt hang up the vail under the hooks;[d] and thou shalt bring in thither within the vail the ark of the testimony; and the vail shall divide unto you between the holy place and the holy of holies.

34 And thou shalt put the cover upon the ark of the testimony in the holy of holies.

35 And thou shalt set the table without the vail, and the candlestick over against the haps, "artificial weaver;" German, "Kunstweber;" the simple artisan is called ארג.

[a] That is: what exceeds the length of the former or tabernacle curtains, they being but ten, while the tent curtains were eleven, or forty cubits against forty-four, shall hang trailing down at the back of the tabernacle, while the other half, or two cubits in breadth, was to be doubled over and hung down in the front, over the entrance curtain of the sacred structure, as a species of festoon.

[b] Meaning: the boards were wrought so as to fit quite smoothly, one to the other; and the upper end was cut in about an inch from each border, through which a ring, or clamp, was inserted to hold each two together. While thus the tops of the boards were firmly joined, the bars next described were either inserted in the rings, on the outside of the boards, or through their centre, thus rendering the temporary structure one of great firmness.

[c] Lit. "Thou shalt place." The same is also in v. 33.

[d] Above we are told that the curtains, forming what is called the "tabernacle," should be coupled by means of golden hooks. This work was thrown over the boards after they were set up; and as it rested over the front of the sanctuary, the hooks of course were at the end of the twentieth cubit thereof; consequently they divided the tabernacle proper into two unequal parts: the one of twenty cubits was the holy place; the other of ten cubits, beyond the vail, the holy of holies.

table on the side of the tabernacle, toward the south; and the table thou shalt put on the north side.

36 And thou shalt make a hanging for the door of the tent, of blue, and purple, and scarlet yarn, and twisted linen; the work of the embroiderer.

37 And thou shalt make for the hanging five pillars of shittim wood, and overlay them with gold, their hooks also shall be of gold; and thou shalt cast for them five sockets of copper.*

CHAPTER XXVII.

1 ¶ And thou shalt make the altar of shittim wood: five cubits long, and five cubits broad, a foursquare shall the altar be, and three cubits shall be its height.

2 And thou shalt make its horns on its four corners, from itself shall its horns be; and thou shalt overlay it with copper.

3 And thou shalt make its pots to receive its ashes, and its shovels, and its basins, and its forks, and its fire-pans; all its vessels thou shalt make of copper.

4 And thou shalt make for it a grating, of a network of copper; and thou shalt make upon the net four rings of copper, on its four corners.

5 And thou shalt put it under the compass[a] of the altar beneath, and the net shall reach even to the half of the altar.

6 And thou shalt make staves for the altar, staves of shittim wood, and overlay them with copper.

7 And the staves shall be put into the rings, and the staves shall be upon the two sides of the altar, when they bear it.[b]

8 Hollow, of boards, shalt thou make it; as it was shown to thee on the mount, so shall they make it.*

9 ¶ And thou shalt make the court of the tabernacle: for the south side, on the right, the hangings for the court, of twisted linen, shall be a hundred cubits in length, for the one side.

10 And its pillars shall be twenty, with their twenty sockets of copper; the hooks of the pillars and their fillets shall be of silver.

11 And likewise for the north side in the length there shall be hangings one hundred cubits in length, and its pillars twenty with their twenty sockets of copper; the hooks of the pillars and their fillets shall be of silver.

12 And (for) the breadth of the court on the west side shall be fifty cubits of hangings; their pillars shall be ten, and their sockets ten.

13 And the breadth of the court on the front side, eastward, shall be fifty cubits.

14 And fifteen cubits of hangings shall be on the one wing; their pillars shall be three and their sockets three.

15 And on the other wing shall be fifteen cubits of hangings; their pillars shall be three, and their sockets three.

16 And for the gate of the court shall be a hanging of twenty cubits, of blue, and purple, and scarlet yarn, and twisted linen, the work of the embroiderer; with four pillars for the same, and their four sockets.*

17 All the pillars round about the court shall be filleted with silver; their hooks shall be of silver, and their sockets of copper.

18 The length of the court shall be one hundred cubits, and the breadth fifty by fifty, and the height five cubits, of twisted linen, and the sockets for the same of copper.

19 All the vessels of the tabernacle in all the service thereof, and all its pins, and all the pins of the court, shall be of copper.

SECTION XX. TETZAVVEH, תצוה.

20 ¶ And thou shalt command the children of Israel, that they bring thee pure olive oil, beaten out, for the lighting, to cause a light to burn always.

21 In the tabernacle of the congregation, without the vail, which is before the testimony, shall Aaron with his sons arrange it (for) from the evening to the morning, before the LORD; as a statute for ever unto their generations, on behalf of the children of Israel.

CHAPTER XXVIII.

1 ¶ And thou shalt let come near unto thee Aaron thy brother, and his sons with him, from among the children of Israel, that he may be a priest unto me; Aaron, Nadab

* i. e. A sort of gallery running round the altar, on which the priests stood in offering.

[a] This implies, that at other times they shall be taken out, but from the ark they were never to be moved.

and Abihu, Elazar and Ithamar, the sons of Aaron.

2 And thou shalt make holy garments for Aaron thy brother, for glory and for ornament.

3 And thou shalt speak unto all that are wisehearted, whom I have filled with the spirit of wisdom, that they may make garments for Aaron, to sanctify him, that he may be a priest unto me.

4 And these are the garments which they shall make: a breastplate, and an ephod, and a robe, and a checkered coat, a mitre, and a girdle; and they shall make holy garments for Aaron thy brother, and for his sons, to be a priest unto me.

5 And they shall take the gold, and the blue, and purple, and scarlet yarn, and the linen.

6 ¶ And they shall make the ephod, of gold, of blue, and of purple, of scarlet yarn,[a] and twisted linen, of weaver's work.

7 Two shoulder-pieces shall it have joined at the two edges thereof; by which it shall be joined together.[b]

8 And the belt for girding, which is upon it, shall be of the same make, out of the same piece with itself; of gold, of blue, and purple, and scarlet yarn, and twisted linen.

9 And thou shalt take two onyx stones, and engrave on them the names of the children of Israel:

10 Six of their names on the one stone, and the names of the remaining six on the other stone, according to the order of their birth.

11 With the work of an engraver in stone, like the engraving of a signet, shalt thou engrave the two stones with the names of the children of Israel; fitted in settings of gold shalt thou make them.

12 And thou shalt put the two stones upon the shoulder-pieces of the ephod as stones of memorial unto the children of Israel; and Aaron shall bear their names before the LORD upon his two shoulders for a memorial.*

13 ¶ And thou shalt make casings of gold;

14 And two chains of pure gold, with knots at the ends, of wreathed work shalt thou make them, and thou shalt fasten the wreathed chains to the casings.

15 ¶ And thou shalt make the breastplate of judgment, of weaver's work; after the work of the ephod thou shalt make it; of gold, of blue, and purple, and scarlet yarn, and of twisted linen, shalt thou make it.

16 Four-square shall it be, double; a span in length, and a span in breadth.

17 And thou shalt set in it settings of stones, even four rows of stones: the first row, a sardius,[c] a topaz, and an emerald; this shall be the first row.

18 And the second row, a carbuncle, a sapphire, and a diamond.

19 And the third row, an opal, a turquoise, and an amethyst.

20 And the fourth row, a chrysolite, and an onyx, and a jasper: they shall be fitted in golden casings when they are set in.

21 And the stones shall be according to the names of the children of Israel, twelve, according to their names; (engraved) with the engraving of a signet, every one according to his name, shall they be for the twelve tribes.

22 And thou shalt make on the breastplate chains with knots at the ends, of wreathed work, of pure gold.

23 And thou shalt make on the breastplate two rings of gold, and shalt put the two rings on the two ends of the breastplate.

24 And thou shalt put the two wreathed chains of gold in the two rings, on the ends of the breastplate.

25 And the (other) two ends of the two wreathed chains thou shalt fasten on the two casings, and put them on the shoulder-pieces of the ephod on the outside thereof.

26 And thou shalt make two rings of gold, and thou shalt put them on the two ends of the breastplate on its border, which is on the opposite side of the ephod, inward.

[a] Where this word is used in the present version, it means "woollen" yarn; the term is not employed however in the Hebrew, which merely has always "blue, purple, and scarlet."

[b] Arnheim thinks that this means "to the breastplate," which was, as afterward directed, joined to the ephod; but Rashi understands it to convey that the shoulder-pieces should be sewed on the ephod, not woven with it in one piece.

[c] "Or ruby." The correct meaning of the names of the jewels in the breastplate is so uncertain that both Mendelssohn and Arnheim have left them untranslated. They are supported in this omission by the great diversity of opinion prevailing among commentators. The version given in the present text must therefore be looked upon as an approximation, developed in a note to Arnheim's version.

27 And thou shalt make two more rings of gold, and shalt put them on the two shoulder-pieces of the ephod underneath, toward its front part, close by its seam, above the girdle of the ephod.

28 And they shall fasten the breastplate by its rings unto the rings of the ephod with a lace of blue, that it may remain on the girdle of the ephod, and that the breastplate be not loosed from the ephod.

29 And Aaron shall bear the names of the children of Israel in the breastplate of judgment upon his heart, when he goeth in unto the holy place, for a memorial before the LORD continually.

30 And thou shalt put into the breastplate of judgment the Urim and the Thummim, and they shall be upon Aaron's heart, when he goeth in before the LORD; and Aaron shall bear the judgment of the children of Israel upon his heart before the LORD continually.*

31 ¶ And thou shalt make the robe of the ephod altogether of blue woollen yarn.

32 And there shall be an opening in the top of it, in the midst thereof; it shall have a binding of woven work, round about its opening, as it is on the opening of an habergeon, so shall it be thereon, that it be not rent.

33 And thou shalt make on its lower hem pomegranates of blue, and purple, and scarlet yarn, round about its lower hem; and bells of gold between them round about:

34 A golden bell and a pomegranate, a golden bell and a pomegranate, on the lower hem of the robe round about.

35 And it shall be upon Aaron when he ministereth; and his sound shall be heard when he goeth in unto the holy place before the LORD, and when he cometh out, that he die not.

36 ¶ And thou shalt make a plate of pure gold, and grave upon it, like the engraving of a signet, HOLY UNTO THE LORD.

37 And thou shalt fasten it on a lace of blue, and it shall be upon the mitre; upon the front of the mitre shall it be.

38 And it shall be upon Aaron's forehead; and Aaron shall atone for the iniquity of the holy things, which the children of Israel shall hallow in all their holy gifts; and it shall be upon his forehead always, that they may be received in favour before the LORD.

39 And thou shalt make the coat of linen checkered, and thou shalt make a mitre of linen, and a girdle shalt thou make of embroiderer's work.

40 And for Aaron's sons shalt thou make coats, and thou shalt make for them girdles; and bonnets thou shalt make for them, for glory and for ornament.

41 And thou shalt clothe therewith Aaron thy brother, and his sons with him; and thou shalt anoint them, and consecrate[a] them, and sanctify them, that they may be priests unto me.

42 And thou shalt make them linen breeches to cover their nakedness; from the loins even unto the thighs shall they reach.

43 And they shall be upon Aaron, and upon his sons, when they come in unto the tabernacle of the congregation, or when they come near unto the altar to minister in the holy place; that they bear not iniquity, and die; a statute for ever shall it be for him and for his seed after him.*

CHAPTER XXIX.

1 ¶ And this is the thing that thou shalt do unto them to hallow them, to become priests unto me: Take one young bullock, and two rams without blemish,

2 And unleavened bread, and unleavened cakes, mingled with oil, and unleavened wafers, anointed with oil; of fine wheaten flour shalt thou make them.

3 And thou shalt put them into one basket, and bring them near[b] in the basket, with the bullock and the two rams.

4 And Aaron and his sons shalt thou bring near unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, and shalt wash them with water.

5 And thou shalt take the garments, and clothe Aaron with the coat, and the robe of the ephod, and the ephod, and the breastplate, and gird him with the girdle of the ephod:

6 And thou shalt put the mitre upon his head, and thou shalt fasten the holy crown upon the mitre.

7 Then shalt thou take the anointing oil, and pour it upon his head, and anoint him.

[a] Heb. "Fill their hand;" the consecration is to say a gift, placed in the hand of a man, thus filling it with the same.

[b] i. e. Near the altar as a sacrifice.

8 And his sons shalt thou bring near, and clothe them with coats.

9 And thou shalt gird them with the girdles, Aaron and his sons, and bind the bonnets on them; and the priest's office shall be theirs for a perpetual statute: and thus shalt thou consecrate Aaron and his sons.

10 And thou shalt cause the bullock to be brought before the tabernacle of the congregation: and Aaron and his sons shall lay their hands upon the head of the bullock.

11 And thou shalt kill the bullock before the LORD, by the door of the tabernacle of the congregation.

12 And thou shalt take of the blood of the bullock, and put it upon the horns of the altar with thy finger, and all the remaining[a] blood shalt thou pour out beside the bottom of the altar.

13 And thou shalt take all the fat that covereth the inwards, and the midriff above the liver, and the two kidneys, and the fat that is upon them, and burn them upon the altar.

14 But the flesh of the bullock, and his skin, and his dung, shalt thou burn with fire, without the camp: it is a sin-offering.

15 And the one ram shalt thou take; and Aaron and his sons shall lay their hands upon the head of the ram.

16 And thou shalt slay the ram, and thou shalt take his blood, and sprinkle it upon the altar round about.

17 And the ram shalt thou cut in pieces, and wash his inwards, and his legs, and put them with his pieces, and with his head.

18 And thou shalt burn the whole ram upon the altar, it is a burnt-offering unto the LORD; it is a sweet savour, an offering made by fire unto the LORD.*

19 And thou shalt take the other ram; and Aaron and his sons shall lay their hands upon the head of the ram.

20 Then shalt thou kill the ram, and take of his blood, and put it upon the tip[b] of Aaron's right ear, and upon the tip of the right ear of his sons, and upon the thumb of their right hand, and upon the great toe of their right foot, and sprinkle the blood upon the altar round about.

21 And thou shalt take of the blood that is upon the altar, and of the anointing oil, and sprinkle them upon Aaron, and upon his garments, and upon his sons, and upon the garments of his sons with him: and he shall be hallowed, together with his garments, and his sons, and the garments of his sons with him.

22 And thou shalt take from the ram the fat and the rump, and the fat that covereth the inwards, and the midriff above the liver, and the two kidneys, and the fat that is upon them, and the right shoulder; for it is a ram of consecration;

23 And one loaf of bread, and one cake of the oiled bread, and one wafer, out of the basket of the unleavened bread that is before the LORD.

24 And thou shalt put all this upon the hands of Aaron, and upon the hands of his sons; and thou shalt make with them a waving before the LORD.

25 And thou shalt then take them from their hands, and burn them upon the altar upon the burnt-offering; for a sweet savour before the LORD, it is an offering made by fire unto the LORD.

26 And thou shalt take the breast of the ram of the consecration that belongeth to Aaron, and make therewith a waving[c] before the LORD; and it shall belong to thee as thy portion.

27 And thou shalt sanctify the breast which hath been waved, and the shoulder which hath been lifted up, which was waved, and which was heaved up, of the ram of the consecration, of that which belongeth to Aaron, and of that which belongeth to his sons:

28 That they shall belong to Aaron and to his sons, as a statute forever, from the children of Israel; for it is a heave-offering; and a heave-offering it shall remain from the children of Israel, from the sacrifices of their peace-offerings, as their heave-offering unto the LORD.

29 And the holy garments belonging to Aaron shall be for his sons after him, to [a] The literal rendering would be "all the blood," the word "remaining" is supplied by Rashi, and is required by the context, as likewise in other parallel passages.

[b] More correctly, the central prominent portion of the ear, the anti-helix.

[c] The owner of the sacrifice placed the pieces on his hands, and the priest put his under the other's, and they together waved the sacrifice to the four corners of heaven, lifted and lowered it; this is the "waving and lifting up" spoken of in the text.

anoint them therein, and to consecrate them therein.

30 Seven days shall that one of his sons put them on who is to be priest in his place, who is to go into the tabernacle of the congregation to minister in the sanctuary.

31 And the ram of the consecration shalt thou take, and seethe his flesh in a holy place.

32 And Aaron with his sons shall eat the flesh of the ram, and the bread that is in the basket, by the door of the tabernacle of the congregation.

33 And they shall eat those things wherewith the atonement was made, to consecrate them and to sanctify them; but a stranger shall not eat thereof, because they are holy.

34 And if aught of the flesh of the consecration sacrifice, or of the bread, remain unto the morning, then shalt thou burn the remainder with fire; it shall not be eaten, because it is holy.

35 And thou shalt do unto Aaron, and to his sons thus, all as I have commanded thee; seven days shalt thou consecrate them.

36 And a bullock shalt thou offer every day for a sin-offering as an atonement:[a] and thou shalt cleanse the altar, in as much as thou makest an atonement upon it; and thou shalt anoint it, to sanctify it.

37 Seven days shalt thou make an atonement upon the altar and sanctify it; and the altar shall be most holy; whatsoever[b] toucheth the altar shall be holy.*

38 ¶ And this is what thou shalt offer upon the altar: Two sheep of the first year for every day, continually.

39 The one sheep shalt thou offer in the morning; and the other sheep shalt thou offer toward evening.

40 And a tenth part of fine flour mingled with the fourth part of a hin of beaten oil, and the fourth part of a hin of wine for a drink-offering, shall be for the one sheep.

41 And the other sheep shalt thou offer toward evening; according to the meat-offering of the morning, and according to its drink-offering shalt thou do unto it, for a sweet savour, an offering made by fire unto the LORD.

42 A continual burnt-offering throughout your generations (shall this be) at the door of the tabernacle of the congregation before the LORD; where I will meet with you, to speak unto thee there.

43 And I will meet there with the children of Israel, and it shall be sanctified by my glory.

44 And I will sanctify the tabernacle of the congregation, and the altar: and both Aaron and his sons will I sanctify, that they may be priests unto me.

45 And I will dwell among the children of Israel, and I will be to them for a God.

46 And they shall know that I am the Eternal, their God, who brought them forth out of the land of Egypt, that I might dwell among them: I am the LORD their God.

CHAPTER XXX.

1 ¶ And thou shalt make an altar to burn incense upon, of shittim wood shalt thou make it.

2 A cubit shall be its length, and a cubit its breadth, foursquare shall it be; and two cubits shall be its height; from itself shall its horns be.

3 And thou shalt overlay it with pure gold, its top, and its sides round about, and its horns; and thou shalt make unto it a crown of gold round about.

4 And two rings of gold shalt thou make for it beneath its crown, on its two corners shalt thou make them, upon both its sides; and they shall be as receptacles for the staves to bear it by means of them.

5 And thou shalt make the staves of shittim wood, and overlay them with gold.

6 And thou shalt put it before the vail that is before the ark of the testimony, before the mercy-seat that is over the testimony, where I will meet with thee.

7 And Aaron shall burn thereon incense of spices; every morning when he dresseth the lamps, shall he burn it.*

8 And when Aaron lighteth the lamps toward evening, shall he burn it; a perpetual incense before the LORD, throughout your generations.

9 Ye shall not offer thereon any strange[c]

[a] After Rashi. But Aben Ezra renders, "in addition to the atonement," referring to the two rams mentioned above.

[b] Aben Ezra quotes an opinion, which is partly that of Onkelos, that this should be rendered, "whoever toucheth the altar must be holy," excluding those who are unclean from touching thereon. Arnheim translates in the same manner.

[c] i. e. Any other incense than that commanded hereafter, v. 34. (See also Levit. x. 1.)

incense, or burnt-sacrifice, or meat-offering; and a drink-offering shall ye not pour thereon.

10 And Aaron shall make an atonement upon its horns once in a year; with the blood of the sin-offering of the day of atonement,[a] once in the year, shall he make atonement upon it, throughout your generations; it is most holy unto the LORD.

Haphtorah in Ezekiel xliii. 10 to 27.

SECTION XXI. KI TISSAH, כִּי תִשָּׂא.

11 ¶ And the LORD spoke unto Moses, saying,

12 When thou takest the sum of the children of Israel of those who are to be numbered of them, then shall they give every man a ransom for his soul unto the LORD, when they number them; that there be no plague among them, when they number them.

13 This shall they give, every one that passeth among those that are numbered, Half a shekel after the shekel of the sanctuary; twenty gerahs to the shekel; the half of the shekel shall be the tribute to the LORD.

14 Every one that passeth among those that are numbered, from twenty years old and above, shall give the tribute unto the LORD.

15 The rich shall not give more, and the poor shall not give less than the half of a shekel, as a tribute unto the LORD, to make an atonement for your souls.

16 And thou shalt take the money of the atonement from the children of Israel, and shalt employ it for the service of the tabernacle of the congregation; and it shall be unto the children of Israel as a memorial before the LORD, to make an atonement for your souls.

17 ¶ And the LORD spoke unto Moses, saying,

18 Thou shalt also make a laver of copper, with its foot of copper, to wash withal: and thou shalt set it between the tabernacle of the congregation and the altar, and thou shalt put therein water.

19 And Aaron and his sons shall wash out of it their hands and their feet.

20 When they go into the tabernacle of the congregation, shall they wash themselves with water, that they die not; or when they come near to the altar to minister, to burn an offering made by fire unto the LORD.

21 And they shall wash their hands and their feet, that they die not; and it shall be to them a statute for ever, even to him and to his seed throughout their generations.

22 ¶ And the LORD spoke unto Moses, saying,

23 And thou, take unto thyself principal spices: of pure myrrh five hundred shekels, and of sweet cinnamon, its half[b] shall be two hundred and fifty shekels, and of sweet calamus two hundred and fifty shekels,

24 And of cassia five hundred shekels, after the shekel of the sanctuary, and of olive-oil one hin.

25 And thou shalt make of it an oil of holy anointing, a mixture, compounded after the art of the apothecary: an oil of holy anointing shall it be.

26 And thou shalt anoint therewith the tabernacle of the congregation, and the ark of the testimony,

27 And the table and all its vessels, and the candlestick and its vessels, and the altar of incense,

28 And the altar of burnt-offering with all its vessels, and the laver and its foot.

29 And thou shalt sanctify them, and they shall be most holy; whatsoever toucheth them shall be holy.

30 And Aaron and his sons shalt thou anoint, and consecrate them to be priests unto me.

31 And unto the children of Israel shalt thou speak, saying, An oil of holy anointing shall this be unto me throughout your generations.

32 Upon the flesh of man shall it not be poured, and after its proportion shall ye not make any thing like it; it is holy, and holy shall it be unto you.

33 Whosoever compoundeth the like of it, or whosoever putteth any of it upon a stranger, shall be cut off from his people.

34 ¶ And the LORD said unto Moses, Take

[a] See Leviticus xvi. 18, where it is ordained that on the Day of Atonement the blood of a steer and a goat should be sprinkled on this altar; at other times nothing but incense was burnt on it.

[b] "The half of what is brought of it shall be two hundred shekels, which gives the weight of the whole equal to that of the myrrh."—TALMUD KERITOTH.

unto thee spices, balm, and onycha, and galbanum, spices, with pure frankincense: of each shall there be an equal[a] weight.

35 And thou shalt make it an incense, a mixture after the art of the apothecary, well mingled[b] together, pure and holy.

36 And thou shalt pound some of it fine, and offer of it before the testimony in the tabernacle of the congregation, where I will meet with thee; most holy shall it be unto you.

37 And as for the incense which thou shalt make, according to its proportion, shall ye not make any unto yourselves: holy shall it be unto thee for the LORD.

38 Whosoever shall make the like of it, to smell thereon, shall be cut off from his people.

CHAPTER XXXI.

1 ¶ And the LORD spoke unto Moses, saying,

2 See, I have called by name Bezalel the son of Uri, the son of Chur, of the tribe of Judah:

3 And I have filled him with the spirit of God, in wisdom, and in understanding, and in knowledge, and in all manner of workmanship,

4 To devise works of art, to work in gold, and in silver, and in copper,

5 And in the cutting of stones, to set them, and in the carving of wood, to work in all manner of workmanship.

6 And behold, I have also given with him Aholiab, the son of Achissamach, of the tribe of Dan, and in the heart of all that are wise-hearted have I put wisdom; and they shall make all that I have commanded thee;

7 The tabernacle of the congregation, and the ark of the testimony, and the cover that is thereupon, and all the vessels of the tabernacle;

8 And the table and its vessels, and the pure candlestick with all its vessels, and the altar of incense;

9 And the altar of burnt-offering with all its vessels, and the laver and its foot;

10 And the cloths of service, and the holy garments for Aaron the priest, and the garments of his sons, to minister therein;

11 And the anointing oil, and the incense of spices for the holy place: all as I have commanded thee shall they do.

12 ¶ And the LORD said unto Moses as followeth,

13 And thou shalt speak unto the children of Israel, saying, Above all,[c] my sabbaths shall ye keep; for a sign it is between me and you throughout your generations; that ye may know that I am the LORD who doth sanctify you.

14 And ye shall keep the sabbath, for it is holy unto you; every one that defileth it shall surely be put to death; for whosoever doeth any work thereon, that soul shall be cut off from among his people.

15 Six days may work be done; but on the seventh is the sabbath of rest, holy to the LORD: whosoever doeth any work on the sabbath-day, shall surely be put to death.

16 And the children of Israel shall keep the sabbath, to observe the sabbath throughout their generations, for a perpetual covenant.

17 Between me and the children of Israel it shall be a sign for ever; for in six days the LORD made the heavens and the earth, and on the seventh day he rested, and was refreshed.[d]*

18 ¶ And he gave unto Moses, when he had finished speaking with him upon mount Sinai, the two tables of the testimony, tables of stone, inscribed with the finger of God,

[a] After Onkelos and Talmud; but Aben Ezra translates, "Each shall be prepared separately."

[b] Aben Ezra considered מכלח as derived from מלח "salt," thus, "salted," that is, "bestrewed with salt of Sodom, or nitre." Rosenmüller, as quoted by Arnheim, considers this kind of salt referred to under the words "pure, holy," in contradistinction to common salt. The use of salt of Sodom with the incense is traditional.

[c] "Although I have ordered thee to charge them concerning the building of the tabernacle, the Sabbath must not be undervalued in thy eyes; for though you are busily engaged in the labour of building, the Sabbath must on no account be violated to do the least of this work."—RASHI.

[d] This, like many other expressions in Scripture, must be taken merely as expressing divine acts by human words. Mendelssohn renders freely "and attained his aim," but this is scarcely the sense of the word וינפש. Philippson renders curiously, "and was by himself," i. e. "happy in his own contemplation," rendering the word literally as derived from nephesh, "soul." Perhaps Mendelssohn translated it freely as he did from the same view of the subject. But even the word "rested" is as little applicable as "refreshed," since the Creator has neither labour nor fatigue; but it is all figurative. Arnheim gives כי in this verse with "that," and not "for," meaning that the Sabbath is the token that we believe that God created all in specific time.

CHAPTER XXXII.

1 And when the people saw that Moses delayed to come down from the mount, the people assembled themselves together around Aaron, and they said unto him, Up, make us gods, that shall go before us; for of this man Moses, who hath brought us up out of the land of Egypt, we know not what is become of him.

2 And Aaron said unto them, Take out the golden ear-rings, which are in the ears of your wives, of your sons, and of your daughters, and bring them unto me.

3 And all the people took out the golden ear-rings which were in their ears, and brought them unto Aaron.

4 And he took them from their hand, and fashioned it in a mould, and he made of it a molten calf; and they said, These are thy gods, O Israel, that have brought thee up out of the land of Egypt.

5 And when Aaron saw this, he built an altar before it; and Aaron called out, and said, A feast unto the LORD is to-morrow.

6 And they rose up early on the morrow, and offered burnt-offerings, and brought near peace-offerings;[a] and the people sat down to eat and to drink, and rose up to play.

7 ¶ And the LORD spoke unto Moses, Go, get thee down; for thy people, which thou hast brought up out of the land of Egypt, hath become corrupt:

8 They have turned aside quickly from the way which I have commanded them; they have made themselves a molten calf; and they have bowed themselves to it, and have sacrificed unto it, and have said, These are thy gods, O Israel, that have brought thee up out of the land of Egypt.

9 And the LORD said unto Moses, I have seen this people, and, behold, it is a stiff-necked people.

10 And now let me alone, and my wrath shall wax hot against them, and I will make an end of them; and I will make of thee a great nation.

11 Thereupon Moses besought the LORD his God, and said, Why, O LORD, shall thy wrath wax hot against thy people, that thou hast brought forth out of the land of Egypt, with great power and with a mighty hand?

12 Wherefore should the Egyptians say thus, For mischief did he bring them out, to slay them in the mountains, and to destroy them from the face of the earth? Turn from thy fierce wrath, and repent thee of the evil decreed against thy people.

13 Remember Abraham, Isaac, and Israel, thy servants, to whom thou didst swear by thy own self, and speak unto them, I will multiply your seed as the stars of heaven; and all this land that I have spoken of will I give unto your seed, and they shall inherit it for ever.

14 And the LORD bethought himself of the evil which he had spoken to do unto his people.

15 ¶ And Moses turned about, and went down from the mount with the two tables of the testimony in his hand: tables inscribed on both their sides; on the one side and on the other were they inscribed.

16 And the tables were the work of God, and the writing was the writing of God, engraved upon the tables.

17 And Joshua heard the noise of the people in its shouting, and he said unto Moses, There is a noise of war in the camp.

18 And he said, It is not the voice of a shout for mastery, neither is it the voice of a cry for defeat; the noise of singing do I hear.

19 And it came to pass, when he came nigh unto the camp, and he saw the calf, and the dancing: that the anger of Moses waxed hot, and he cast from his hands the tables, and broke them at the foot of the mount.

20 And he took the calf which they had made, and burnt[b] it in fire, and ground it to a powder, and he strewed it upon the water, and made the children of Israel drink of it.

[a] In the preceding verse, Aaron is represented as telling the people that on the morrow there should be a festival unto the LORD, no doubt expecting the return of Moses, which would occasion a renewed fidelity to their great Deliverer. But early the next morning, the frantic people assembled round the statue of their idol, shouted, sacrificed, played, rioted, sang, in the manner of the heathen, forgetful of the events which their own eyes had seen. Aaron, however, must not be supposed as having farther participated in the sin than making the calf.

[b] Arnheim adds "partly," and supposes that the body of the calf was a frame-work of wood, and the gold merely a covering for it. Philippson, however, after MICHLOL YOPHI, thinks that Moses melted the calf first, then reduced it by beating and rolling to plates of the utmost possible thinness, which he then mixed with water, as described in the text.

21 And Moses said unto Aaron, What hath this people done unto thee, that thou hast brought upon it so great a sin?

22 And Aaron said, Let not the anger of my lord wax hot: thou knowest the people, that it is bent on mischief.

23 And they said unto me, Make us gods that shall go before us; for of this man Moses, who brought us up out of the land of Egypt, we know not what hath become of him.

24 And I said unto them, Who hath any gold? They took it off themselves and gave it to me, and I cast it into the fire, and there came out this calf.

25 And Moses saw the people that it had become unruly; for Aaron had made it unruly for a disgrace among their opponents.

26 Moses then placed himself in the gate of the camp, and said, Whoever is on the LORD's side, let him come unto me! and there assembled themselves unto him all[a] the sons of Levi.

27 And he said unto them, Thus hath said the Eternal, the God of Israel, Put ye every man his sword by his side, and go ye hither and thither, from gate to gate in the camp, and slay ye every man his brother, and every man his companion, and every man his relative.

28 And the children of Levi did according to the word of Moses: and there fell of the people on that day about three thousand men.

29 And Moses said, Consecrate yourselves to-day to the LORD, yea even every man on his son, and on his brother; and to bestow upon you this day a blessing.

30 And it came to pass on the morrow, that Moses said unto the people, Ye have sinned a great sin: and now I will go up unto the LORD; peradventure I may obtain an atonement for your sin.

31 And Moses returned unto the LORD, and said, Oh, this people hath sinned a great sin, and they have made themselves gods of gold.

32 Yet now, if thou wilt forgive their sin—;[b] but if not, blot me out, I pray thee, from thy book which thou hast written.

33 And the LORD said unto Moses, Whosoever hath sinned against me, him will I blot out from my book.

34 And now go, lead the people unto the place of which I have spoken unto thee; behold, my angel shall go before thee; but on the day when I visit I will visit their sin upon them.

35 And the LORD sent a plague among the people, because that they had made the calf which Aaron made.

CHAPTER XXXIII.

1 ¶ And the LORD said unto Moses, Depart, go up from here, thou and the people that thou hast brought up out of the land of Egypt, unto the land which I swore unto Abraham, to Isaac, and to Jacob, saying, Unto thy seed will I give it;—

2 And I will send before thee an angel; and I will drive out the Canaanite, the Emorite, and the Hittite, and the Perizzite, the Hivite, and the Jebusite;—

3 Unto a land flowing with milk and honey; for I will not go up in the midst of thee, because thou art a stiffnecked people; lest I consume thee on the way.

4 And when the people heard these evil tidings, they mourned; and no man did put his ornaments on him.

5 For the LORD had said unto Moses, Say unto the children of Israel, Ye are a stiffnecked people; should I go[c] up one moment, in the midst of thee, I would consume thee; now therefore put off thy ornaments from thee, and I shall know what I will do unto thee.

6 The children of Israel then stripped

[a] Arnheim wishes to understand under "all" not the whole, but the far greater majority, so as to reconcile it with verse 29, which Rashi expounds as referring to stepbrothers and sons, belonging to other tribes.

[b] Elliptical; meaning, "If thou forgivest, it is well; but if not," &c. This passage proves that no one can be permitted to assume the guilt of another.

[c] This verse, equally with the passage commencing with verse 12, is exceedingly difficult of interpretation; it is therefore intended to give merely an idea of the meaning in this note. God had said that his own visible glory should not go with the people on their journey, an angel, a messenger, was all they could expect; as his own presence would consume them, should they sin again, they being stiffnecked, or disobedient. Their ornaments should be laid aside as an evidence that they were under the displeasure of Heaven; this humiliation, however, should not save them from farther punishment; for God would know how to make them feel in future the weight of their sin. (See above, xxxii. 34.)

themselves of their ornaments (they wore) from (the time they were at) Mount Horeb.

7 And Moses took the tent, and pitched it without the camp, afar off from the camp, and called it, Tabernacle of the congregation; and it came to pass, that every one who sought (instruction of) the LORD went out unto the tabernacle of the congregation, which was without the camp.

8 And it came to pass, that when Moses went out unto the tent, all the people would rise up, and stand every man at the door of his tent, and look after Moses, until he was gone into the tent.

9 And it came to pass, that as Moses entered into the tent, the pillar of cloud descended, and stood at the door of the tent, and spoke with Moses.

10 And when all the people saw the pillar of cloud stand at the door of the tent: then all the people rose up and prostrated themselves, every man at the door of his tent.

11 And the LORD spoke unto Moses face to face, as a man speaketh unto his friend; and then he returned into the camp; but his servant, Joshua the son of Nun, a young man, departed not out of the tent.

12 ¶ And Moses said unto the LORD, See, thou sayest unto me, Bring up this people; but thou hast not let me know whom thou wilt send with me: and yet thou hast said, I have chosen thee by name, and thou hast also found grace in my eyes.

13 Now, therefore, I pray thee, if I have found grace in thy eyes, do make me know thy way, that I may know thee, in order that I may find grace in thy eyes; and consider that this nation is thy people.

14 And he said, My presence shall go in advance, and I will give thee rest.

15 And he said unto him, If thy presence go not (with us,) carry us not up from here.

16 For wherein shall it be known in any wise that I have found grace in thy eyes, I with thy people? is it not in that thou goest with us? so shall we be distinguished, I and thy people, from all the people that are upon the face of the earth.*

17 ¶ And the LORD said unto Moses, Also this thing that thou hast spoken will I do; for thou hast found grace in my eyes, and I have chosen thee by name.

18 And he said, Let me see, I beseech thee, thy glory.

19 And he said, I will cause all my goodness to pass before thy face, and I will proclaim,[a] by name, the LORD before thee; and I will be gracious to whom I will be gracious, and I will show mercy to whom I will show mercy.

20 And he said, Thou canst not see my face; for no man can see me, and live.

21 And the LORD said, Behold, there is a place by me, and thou shalt stand upon the rock:

22 And it shall come to pass, while my glory passeth by, that I will put thee in the cleft of the rock, and I will cover thee with my hand, until I have passed by.

23 And then I will take away my hand, and thou shalt see my back parts; but my face shall not be seen.*

CHAPTER XXXIV.

1 ¶ And the LORD said unto Moses, Hew thyself two tables of stone like unto the first; and I will write upon these tables the words which were on the first tables, which thou didst break.

2 And be ready by the morning, and come up in the morning unto mount Sinai, and present thyself there to me on the top of the mount.

3 And no man shall come up with thee, neither let any man be seen throughout all the mount; neither let the flocks or herds feed near this mount.

4 And he hewed two tables of stone like unto the first, and Moses rose up early in the morning, and went up unto mount Sinai, as the LORD had commanded him; and he took in his hand the two tables of stone.

5 And the LORD descended in the cloud, and stood with him there, and proclaimed, by name, the LORD.

6 And the LORD passed by before him, and proclaimed, The LORD is the immutable, eternal Being, the omnipotent God, merciful and gracious, long-suffering and abundant in beneficence and truth;

[a] Arnheim renders: "And I will proclaim before thee the name, Eternal, and how I am gracious to whom I am gracious, and how I have mercy on him to whom I show mercy;" and he explains the verse: "This is the nature of this Divine Name, and this is also my way, for the knowledge of which thou hast prayed."

7 Keeping mercy unto the thousandth (generation) forgiving iniquity and transgression and sin, but who will by no means clear the guilty; visiting the iniquity of the fathers upon the children, and upon the children's children, unto the third and to the fourth generation.

8 And Moses made haste, and bowed his head toward the earth, and prostrated himself.

9 And he said, If now I have found grace in thy eyes, O LORD, let the LORD, I pray thee, go among us; even because[a] it is a stiffnecked people; and pardon thou our iniquity and our sin, and take us for thy heritage.*

10 And he said, Behold, I make a covenant: before all thy people will I perform wonders, such as have not been done on all the earth, nor in any nation; and all the people amongst whom thou art shall see the work of the LORD; for it is a terrible thing that I will do with thee.

11 Observe thou that which I command thee this day; behold, I will drive out before thee the Emorite, and the Canaanite, and the Hittite, and the Perizzite, and the Hivite, and the Jebusite.

12 Take heed to thyself, lest thou make a covenant with the inhabitants of the land against which thou goest up, lest it be for a snare in the midst of thee;

13 But their altars shall ye destroy, and their statues shall ye break, and their groves shall ye cut down.

14 For thou shalt worship no other god; for the LORD whose name is Watchful, is a watchful God.

15 Make thou then no covenant with the inhabitants of the land; lest that, if they go astray after their gods, and sacrifice unto their gods, any one call thee, and thou eat of his sacrifice;

16 And lest thou take of his daughters unto thy sons; and when his daughters go astray after their gods, they make thy sons also go astray after their gods.

17 Thou shalt not make unto thyself any molten gods.

18 The feast of unleavened bread shalt thou keep; seven days shalt thou eat unleavened bread, as I have commanded thee, in the time of the month of Abib; for in the month of Abib thou wentest forth out of Egypt.

19 All that openeth the womb is mine; and every firstling that is a male among thy cattle, whether ox or lamb.

20 But the firstling of an ass shalt thou redeem with a lamb; and if thou redeem him not, then shalt thou break his neck; all the first-born of thy sons shalt thou redeem; and none shall appear before me empty.

21 Six days thou mayest work, but on the seventh day shalt thou rest: even in ploughing time and in harvest shalt thou rest.

22 And the feast of weeks shalt thou observe, with the first-fruits of the wheat harvest; and the feast of ingathering at the closing of the year.

23 Thrice in the year shall all thy males appear before the Lord, the Eternal, the God of Israel.

24 For I will cast out nations before thee, and enlarge thy borders; yet shall no man desire thy land, when thou goest up to appear in the presence of the LORD thy God thrice in the year.

25 Thou shalt not offer the blood of my sacrifice with leaven; neither shall be left unto the morning the sacrifice of the feast of the passover.

26 The first of the first-fruits of thy land shalt thou bring unto the house of the LORD thy God: thou shalt not seethe a kid in his mother's milk.*

27 ¶ And the LORD said unto Moses, Write thee down these words; for after the tenor of these words have I made with thee a covenant and with Israel.

28 And he remained there with the LORD forty days and forty nights; bread he did not eat, and water he did not drink; and he wrote upon the tables the words of the covenant, the ten commandments.

29 And it came to pass, when Moses came down from mount Sinai, with the two tables of the testimony in Moses' hand, when he came down from the mount, that Moses knew not that the skin of his face shone,[a] because he had spoken with him.

[a] After Arnheim, who comments: Moses prayed that God himself should go before them, not send an angel, who would inexorably punish, (xxiii. 21,) for he had no power to pardon But the glory of God guiding them, they would be under his immediate providence, and he, the Merciful, would thus forgive, according to his goodness and loving grace toward sinners. Rashi, however, renders כי like אם thus: "If it be a stiffnecked people, do thou pardon." The sense in either case is still the same.

30 And Aaron and all the children of Israel saw Moses, and, behold, the skin of his face shone: and they were afraid[b] to come nigh unto him.

31 But Moses called unto them, and then returned unto him Aaron and all the princes of the congregation: and Moses spoke to them.

32 And afterward all the children of Israel came nigh: and he commanded them all that which the LORD had spoken with him on mount Sinai.*

33 And when Moses had done speaking with them, he put a vail over his face.

34 But when Moses went in before the LORD to speak with him, he took the vail off, until he came out; and then he came out, and spoke unto the children of Israel that which he had been commanded.

35 And the children of Israel saw the face of Moses, that the skin of Moses' face shone: and Moses put the vail again over his face, until he went in to speak with him.

SECTION XXII. VAYAKHEL, ויקהל

CHAPTER XXXV.

1 ¶ And Moses gathered together all the congregation of the children of Israel, and said unto them, These are the things which the LORD hath commanded, that ye should do them.

2 Six days shall work be done, but on the seventh day there shall be to you a holy day, a sabbath of rest to the LORD: whosoever doth work thereon shall be put to death.

3 Ye shall not kindle any fire throughout your habitations upon the sabbath day.

4 ¶ And Moses said unto all the congregation of the children of Israel, as followeth, This is the thing which the LORD hath commanded, saying,

5 Take ye from among you an offering unto the LORD; whosoever is of a willing heart, let him bring it, an offering of the LORD: Gold, and silver, and copper,

6 And blue, and purple, and scarlet yarn, and linen thread, and goats' hair,

7 And rams' skins dyed red, and badgers' skins, and shittim wood,

8 And oil for the lighting, and spices, for the anointing oil, and for the incense of spices,

9 And onyx stones, and stones for setting, for the ephod, and for the breastplate.

10 And all the wise-hearted among you shall come, and make all that which the LORD hath commanded:

11 The tabernacle, its tent, and its covering, its hooks, and its boards, its bars, its pillars, and its sockets;

12 The ark, and its staves, (with) the mercy-seat, and the vail of the separation;

13 The table, and its staves, and all its vessels, and the show-bread;

14 And the candlestick for the lighting, and its vessel, and its lamps, with the oil for the lighting;

15 And the altar of incense, and its staves, and the anointing oil, and the incense of spices, and the hanging for the door at the entrance of the tabernacle;

16 The altar of burnt-offering, with its grating of copper, its staves, and all its vessels, the laver and its foot;

17 The hangings of the court, its pillars, and its sockets, and the hanging for the door of the court;

18 The pins of the tabernacle, and the pins of the court, and their cords;

19 The cloths[c] of service, to do service therewith in the holy place, the holy garments for Aaron the priest, and the garments of his sons, to minister in as priests.

20 And all the congregation of the children of Israel departed from the presence of Moses.*

21 And they came, every man whose heart stirred him up; and every one whom his spirit made willing, brought the LORD's offering for the work of the tabernacle of the congregation, and for all its service, and for the holy garments.

[a] Properly, "sent forth rays;" the skin being luminous, and beaming.

[b] "Come and see how great is the power of sin. Before they had stretched forth their hand to sin, what does the Bible say? 'And the glory of the LORD was like a devouring fire on the top of the mount, before the eyes of the children of Israel;' and they neither feared nor trembled; but now, since they had made the calf, even before the rays of glory of Moses they feared and trembled."—RASHI.

[c] The cloths of service were not the priestly garments, but those used for the covering of the sacred vessels when the Israelites were on their journey, as is commanded in the fourth chapter of Numbers. (See RASHI.)

22 And they came, the men with the women; whoever was willing-hearted, brought bracelets,[a] and ear-rings, and finger-rings, and tablets, all kinds of ornaments of gold, and every man that offered an offering of gold unto the LORD.

23 And every man, with whom was found blue, and purple, and scarlet yarn, and linen thread, and goats' hair, and rams' skins dyed red, and badgers' skins, brought them.

24 Every one that did offer an offering of silver and copper brought it as the LORD'S offering; and every one with whom was found shittim wood for any work of the service, brought it.

25 And all the women that were wise-hearted spun with their hands, and they brought that which they had spun, of the blue, and of the purple, and of the scarlet yarn, and of the linen thread.

26 And all the women whose heart stirred them up in wisdom spun the goats' hair.

27 And the princes brought the onyx stones, and the stones for setting, for the ephod, and for the breastplate;

28 And the spice and the oil, for lighting, and for the anointing oil, and for the incense of spices.

29 Every man and woman, whose heart made them willing to bring for all manner of work, which the LORD had commanded to be made, by the hand of Moses, even that brought the children of Israel as a free-will offering unto the LORD.

30 ¶ And Moses said unto the children of Israel, See, the LORD hath called by name Bezalel the son of Uri, the son of Chur, of the tribe of Judah;

31 And he hath filled him with the spirit of God, in wisdom, in understanding, and in knowledge, and in all manner of workmanship;

32 And to devise[b] works of art, to work in gold, and in silver, and in copper,

33 And in the cutting of stones, to set them, and in the carving of wood, to make any manner of work of art.

34 And to teach hath he put in his heart, both to him, and to Aholiab, the son of Achisamach, of the tribe of Dan.

35 He hath filled them with wisdom of heart, to execute all manner of work, of the engraver, and of the designing weaver, and of the embroiderer, in blue, and in purple, in scarlet yarn, and in linen thread, and of the weaver, of those that do every species of work, and of those that devise works of art.

CHAPTER XXXVI.

1 And Bezalel and Aholiab, and every wise-hearted man, in whom the LORD hath put wisdom and understanding to know how to do every manner of work for the service of the sanctuary, shall make all, just as the LORD hath commanded.

2 And Moses called for Bezalel and Aholiab, and every wise-hearted man in whose heart the LORD had put wisdom, every one whose heart stirred him up to come near unto the work to do it:

3 And they received from Moses the whole of the offering, which the children of Israel had brought for the work of the service of the sanctuary, to make it; and these brought unto him yet more free-will offerings morning after morning.

4 And then came all the wise men, that wrought all the work of the sanctuary, every man from his own work which they were doing.

5 And they said unto Moses, thus, The people bring more[c] than is required for the service of the work, which the LORD hath commanded to make.

6 And Moses gave the command, and they caused it to be proclaimed throughout the camp, saying, Let neither man nor woman do any more work for the offering of the sanctuary: so the people were restrained from bringing (more).

[a] Mendelssohn renders, "Ear-rings, and nose-rings, and finger-rings, and bracelets." These words, however, are of somewhat doubtful signification, like many other technical terms of but rare occurrence in Scripture.

[b] "To devise in his heart works of art, the like of which had never been seen; and as there are artificers in gold who cannot work in silver, and workers in stone who cannot work in wood, it is said of Bezalel that he was perfect in all; and moreover he could teach; although there are many wise men who have a difficulty in instructing others."—ABEN EZRA.

[c] A singular, though nowise uncommon, state of the public mind! At first instructed by the Lord, they rebel and worship an idol; then again convinced of the truth of God, they testify their renewed adherence by the display of a liberality which needed restraining for its excess

7 And the stuff prepared[a] was sufficient for all the work to make it, and there was some over.*

8 ¶ And all the wise-hearted men, among those who wrought the work, made the tabernacle of ten curtains; of twisted linen thread, and blue, and purple, and scarlet yarn; with cherubim, of weaver's work, made he them.

9 The length of each curtain was twenty-eight cubits, and the breadth of each curtain four cubits: there was one measure for all the curtains.

10 And he coupled together five of the curtains one to another: and the other five curtains he coupled one to another.

11 And he made loops of blue on the edge of the one curtain, which was the outside in the coupling: the like he made on the border of the curtain, which was the outmost on the second coupling.

12 Fifty loops made he on the one curtain, and fifty loops made he on the edge of the curtain which was in the second coupling: the loops were fixed opposite to each other.

13 And he made fifty hooks of gold; and he coupled the curtains together one unto the other with the hooks, and the tabernacle[b] became thus one piece.

14 ¶ And he made curtains of goats' hair for a tent over the tabernacle; eleven curtains made he the same.

15 The length of each curtain was thirty cubits, and four cubits was the breadth of each curtain: there was one measure for the eleven curtains.

16 And he coupled five of the curtains by themselves, and six of the curtains by themselves.

17 And he made fifty loops on the edge of the curtain that was the outmost in the coupling, and fifty loops made he on the edge of the curtain of the second coupling.

18 And he made fifty hooks of copper, to couple the tent together that it might be one piece.

19 And he made a covering for the tent of rams' skins dyed red, and a covering of badgers' skins above.*

20 ¶ And he made the boards for the tabernacle, of shittim wood, standing up.

21 Ten cubits was the length of each board, and one cubit and a half was the breadth of each one board.

22 There were two tenons for every board, fitted in, one against the other: the like made he for all the boards of the tabernacle.

23 And he made the boards for the tabernacle: twenty boards for the south side, on the right.

24 And forty sockets of silver made he under the twenty boards; two sockets under the one board for its two tenons, and two sockets under the other board for its two tenons.[c]

25 And for the other side of the tabernacle, for the north side, he made twenty boards:

26 And their forty sockets of silver; two sockets under the one board, and two sockets under the other board.

27 And for the back wall of the tabernacle, westward, he made six boards.

28 And two boards made he for the corners of the tabernacle in the back wall.

29 And they were closely fitting beneath, and they were closely joined together on the top, by means of one ring; thus he did to both of them, for both the corners.

30 And so there were eight boards, and their sockets of silver, sixteen sockets, two sockets under every board.

31 And he made bars of shittim wood; five, for the boards of the one side of the tabernacle;

32 And five bars for the boards of the other side of the tabernacle, and five bars for

[a] It must not be forgotten that the things brought for the use of the workmen were at first prepared and worked up to the proper shape in the tents of the donors. Moses, therefore, properly proclaimed that the people should prepare no more, and consequently should bring no more than was already in the hands of the receivers. Otherwise מְלָאכָה might mean "property," as it is used in that sense in Genesis xxxiii. 14; Exodus xxii. 10; 1 Samuel xv. 9.

[b] The inner curtains, which formed the roof of the tabernacle proper, were called technically "the tabernacle," as they formed an essential and visible portion of the sacred structure; but the curtains of goats' hair were called "the tent," as they served merely to protect the more perishable ones which they covered.

[c] The boards were provided with two tenons a part of the thickness of the boards being cut away, so that when they were inserted in the sockets calculated to receive them, they covered exactly the surface; the boards were thus fixed in their sockets, which formed a continuous row, in the same manner as the steps of a ladder are in the side-pieces.

the boards of the tabernacle for the back wall, westward.

33 And he made the middle bar to pass through the midst of the boards from the one end to the other end.

34 And the boards he overlaid with gold, and their rings he made of gold, as receptacles for the bars, and he overlaid the bars with gold.

35 And he made the vail of blue, and purple, and scarlet yarn, and twisted linen; of weaver's work made he it, with cherubim.

36 And he made thereunto four pillars of shittim wood, and overlaid them with gold, their hooks also were of gold; and he cast for them four sockets of silver.

37 And he made a hanging for the door of the tabernacle, of blue, and purple, and scarlet yarn, and twisted linen; the work of the embroiderer;

38 And its five pillars with their hooks: and he overlaid their tops and made their fillets with gold; and their five sockets were of copper.

CHAPTER XXXVII.

1 ¶ And Bezalel made the ark of shittim wood: two cubits and a half was its length, and a cubit and a half its breadth, and a cubit and a half its height.

2 And he overlaid it with pure gold within and without, and made for it a crown of gold round about.

3 And he cast for it four rings of gold, for the four corners thereof; even two rings on the one side of it, and two rings on the other side of it.

4 And he made staves of shittim wood, and overlaid them with gold.

5 And he put the staves into the rings upon the sides of the ark, to bear the ark.

6 And he made a cover of pure gold: two cubits and a half was its length, and one cubit and a half its breadth.

7 And he made two cherubim of gold, of beaten work made he them, on the two ends of the cover;

8 One cherub was on the one end, and the other cherub on the other end; out of the cover itself made he the cherubim on the two ends thereof.[a]

9 And the cherubim were spreading forth their wings on high, overshadowing with their wings the cover, with their faces one to the other; toward the cover were the faces of the cherubim directed.

10 ¶ And he made the table of shittim wood: two cubits was its length, and a cubit its breadth, and a cubit and a half its height;

11 And he overlaid it with pure gold, and made thereto a crown of gold round about.

12 And he made unto it a rim of a hand's breadth round about, and made a golden crown on its rim[b] round about.

13 And he cast for it four rings of gold, and he put the rings on the four corners, that were on the four feet thereof.

14 Close under the rim were the rings, as receptacles for the staves to bear the table.

15 And he made the staves of shittim wood, and overlaid them with gold, to bear the table.

16 And he made the vessels which were upon the table, its dishes, and its spoons, and its purifying tubes, and the supporters wherewith (the bread) was covered, of pure gold.*

17 ¶ And he made the candlestick of pure gold: of beaten work[c] made he the candlestick, its shaft, and its branches, its bowls, its knobs, and its flowers, were out of one piece with it.

18 And six branches were coming out of its sides; three branches of the candlestick out of its one side, and three branches of the candlestick out of the other side thereof.

19 Three bowls, almond-shaped, were on one branch, with a knob and a flower; and three bowls, almond-shaped, were on the other branch, with a knob and a flower; so

[a] The cherubim were made out of one piece with the cover, but not wrought separately, and afterward soldered on. They were standing on either end, their faces being turned toward each other, yet so that they looked downward upon the ark. It is said that the height of the wings of the cherubim from the cover was ten hands' breadth.

[b] The crown spoken of in the preceding verse was fixed on the rim mentioned here. It is doubtful whether the rim reached above the table or was placed beneath the top; but the probabilities are in favour of its having been placed above.

[c] Like the cover of the ark, so was the candlestick, or more properly "the chandelier," made out of a solid piece of gold; that is to say, the parts were not made separately and afterward soldered together, but it was beaten out, and the branches ornamented and cut into shape by means of instruments.

THE PRAYER OF JACOB.

on the six branches that were coming out of the candlestick.

20 And on the candlestick itself were four bowls almond-shaped, with its knobs, and its flowers:

21 And a knob was under two branches that came out of the same, and a knob under two branches that came out of the same, and a knob under two branches that came out of the same,[a] for the six branches that proceeded out of it.

22 Their knobs and their branches were out of one piece with it; all of it was one piece of beaten work, of pure gold.

23 And he made its seven lamps, and its snuffers, and its snuff-dishes, of pure gold.

24 Of a talent of pure gold made he it, and all its vessels.

25 ¶ And he made the altar of incense of shittim wood: its length was a cubit, and its breadth a cubit; it was foursquare, and two cubits was its height; from itself were its horns.[b]

26 And he overlaid it with pure gold, its top, and its sides round about, and its horns: and he made unto it a crown of gold round about.

27 And two rings of gold he made for it beneath its crown, on its two corners, upon both its sides, as receptacles for the staves to bear it by means of them.

28 And he made the staves of shittim wood, and overlaid them with gold.

29 And he made the holy anointing oil, and the pure incense of spices, according to the work of the apothecary.*

CHAPTER XXXVIII.

1 ¶ And he made the altar of burnt-offering of shittim wood: five cubits was its length, and five cubits its breadth; it was foursquare, and three cubits was its height.

2 And he made its horns on its four corners, from itself were its horns; and he overlaid it with copper.

3 And he made all the vessels of the altar, the pots, and the shovels, and the basins, and the forks, and the fire-pans: all its vessels made he of copper.

4 And he made for the altar a grating, a network of copper, under its compass beneath, even unto the half of it.

5 And he cast four rings on the four corners of the grating of copper, as receptacles for the staves.

6 And he made the staves of shittim wood, and overlaid them with copper.

7 And he put the staves into the rings on the sides of the altar, to bear it by means of them; hollow, of boards, made he it.

8 ¶ And he made the laver of copper, and its foot of copper, of the mirrors[c] of the assembled women, who had assembled in troops at the door of the tabernacle of the congregation.

9 ¶ And he made the court: on the south side, on the right, the hangings of the court were of twisted linen, of one hundred cubits;

10 Their pillars were twenty, with their twenty sockets of copper; the hooks of the pillars and their fillets were of silver.

11 And for the north side one hundred cubits; their pillars were twenty, with their twenty sockets of copper; the hooks of the pillars and their fillets were of silver.

12 And for the west side were hangings of fifty cubits; their pillars were ten, and their sockets ten; the hooks of the pillars and their fillets were of silver.

13 And for the front side, eastward, fifty cubits.

14 Hangings, of fifteen cubits, were on the one wing; their pillars were three, and their sockets three.

15 And for the other wing, on both sides of the gate of the court, were hangings of fifteen cubits; their pillars were three, and their sockets three.

16 All the hangings of the court round about were of twisted linen.

17 And the sockets for the pillars were of [a] The knobs were on the centre shaft of the candlestick, and from each of them sprung two branches, one on each side, so that each knob supported one pair.

[b] The horns, or prominent points coming out of the corners of the altar of incense, as well as that of burnt-offering, were carved out of the body of the wood, but not made separately and afterwards joined on.

[c] Mirrors of highly polished copper were employed before the introduction of looking-glasses; and it is recorded that even these necessary articles for the arranging of the female attire were cheerfully given by the women, who came in troops to offer this contribution to the residence of their God. From the phraseology employed it would appear that the copper thus obtained is not included in the gross weight recorded chap xxxviii. 29; since, among the articles made thereof, the laver and its foot are not mentioned.

copper; the hooks of the pillars and their fillets, of silver; and the overlaying of their tops was of silver; and all the pillars of the court were filleted with silver.*

18 And the hanging for the gate of the court was the work of the embroiderer, of blue, and purple, and scarlet yarn, and twisted linen: and twenty cubits was the length, and the height, in the breadth, was five cubits, answering to the hangings of the court.

19 And the pillars for the same were four, with their four sockets of copper; their hooks were of silver, and the overlaying of their tops and their fillets, of silver.

20 And all the pins of the tabernacle, and of the court round about were of copper.

SECTION XXIII. PEKUDAY, פקודי.

21 ¶ These are the accounts (of the articles furnished) for the tabernacle, even of the tabernacle of the testimony, which were counted, according to the order of Moses, the service of the Levites, by the hand of Ithamar, the son of Aaron, the priest.

22 And Bezalel the son of Uri, the son of Chur, of the tribe of Judah, made all that the LORD had commanded Moses.

23 And with him was Aholiab the son of Achissamach, of the tribe of Dan, an engraver, and a skilful weaver, and an embroiderer in blue, and in purple, and in scarlet yarn, and in linen thread.

24 ¶ All the gold that was applied to the work in all the work of the sanctuary, to wit, the gold of the offering,* was twenty and nine talents, and seven hundred and thirty shekels, after the shekel of the sanctuary.

25 And the silver of those that were numbered of the congregation was one hundred talents, and a thousand seven hundred and seventy and five shekels, after the shekel of the sanctuary:

26 A bekah for every head, that is, half a shekel, after the shekel of the sanctuary, for every one that went to be numbered, from twenty years old and upward, for six hundred thousand and three thousand and five hundred and fifty.

27 And the hundred talents of silver served to cast the sockets of the sanctuary, and the sockets of the vail; one hundred sockets to the hundred talents, a talent for every socket.

28 And of the thousand seven hundred seventy and five shekels he made hooks for the pillars, and overlaid their tops and filleted them.

29 And the copper of the offering was seventy talents, and two thousand and four hundred shekels.

30 And he made therewith the sockets of the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, and the altar of copper, and the grating of copper for it, and all the vessels of the altar;

31 And the sockets of the court round about, and the sockets of the court gate, and all the pins of the tabernacle, and all the pins of the court round about.

CHAPTER XXXIX.

1 And of the blue, and purple, and scarlet yarn, they made the cloths of service, to do the service in the holy place; and they made the holy garments which were for Aaron, as the LORD had commanded Moses.*

2 ¶ And he made the ephod, of gold, blue, and purple, and scarlet yarn, and twisted linen;

3 And they did beat the gold into thin plates, and cut it into wires, to work it in the blue, and in the purple, and in the scarlet yarn, and in the linen, with weaver's work.

4 They made shoulder-pieces for it, joined on; on both its edges was it thus joined[b] together.

[a] The word used here, in v. 29, and in xxxv. 22, is תנופה; whereas in the preceding passages תרומה is used. The Hebrew is peculiarly rich in the terms necessary to express the ideas connected with the worship of the sanctuary, so as to distinguish every shade of meaning; but in English it is next to impossible to convey these peculiarities by single words. Arnheim, however, renders the latter word "tribute," as has been done at times in this version, and the former, the one employed in this passage, "sacred gifts;" but the latter term is arbitrary.

[b] The shoulder-pieces of the ephod were made separately and sewed on afterward. The ephod itself appears to have been a species of cloak which reached to the heels, but required the support of the shoulder-pieces, through which it was joined by means of the chains and rings to the breastplate, and the belt which fastened it round the body of the wearer.

5 And the belt for girding it on, that was upon it, was of the same piece with itself, of the same make: of gold, blue, and purple, and scarlet yarn, and twisted linen; as the LORD had commanded Moses.

6 ¶ And they wrought the onyx stones enclosed in casings of gold, engraved with the engraving of a signet, after the names of the children of Israel.

7 And he put them on the shoulder-pieces of the ephod, as stones of memorial to the children of Israel; as the LORD had commanded Moses.

8 ¶ And he made the breastplate with weaver's work, like the work of the ephod: of gold, blue, and purple, and scarlet yarn, and twisted linen.

9 It was foursquare, double did they make the breastplate: it was a span in length, and a span in breadth, double.

10 And they set in it four rows of stones: the first row, a sardius, a topaz, and an emerald; this was the first row.

11 And the second row, a carbuncle, a sapphire, and a diamond.

12 And the third row, an opal, a turquoise, and an amethyst.

13 And the fourth row, a chrysolite, an onyx, and a jasper: they were fitted in golden casings when they were set in.

14 And the stones were according to the names of the children of Israel, twelve, according to their names, (engraved) with the engraving of a signet, every one according to his name, for the twelve tribes.

15 And they made upon the breastplate chains with knots[a] at the ends, of wreathed work, of pure gold.

16 And they made two casings of gold, and two golden rings; and they put the two rings on the two ends of the breastplate.

17 And they put the two wreathed chains of gold in the two rings on the ends of the breastplate.

18 And the two ends of the two wreathed chains they fastened on the two casings, and they put them on the shoulder-pieces of the ephod, on the outside thereof.

19 And they made two golden rings, and put them on the two ends of the breastplate, on its border, which was on the opposite side of the ephod, inward.

20 And they made two more golden rings, and put them on the two shoulder-pieces of the ephod underneath, toward its front part, close by its seam, above the girdle of the ephod.

21 And they fastened the breastplate by its rings unto the rings of the ephod with a lace of blue, that it might remain on the girdle of the ephod, and that the breastplate might not be loosed from the ephod;[b] as the LORD had commanded Moses.*

22 ¶ And he made the robe of the ephod of woven work, altogether of blue woollen yarn.

23 And there was an opening in the midst of the robe, as the opening of an habergeon, with a binding round about the opening, that it should not be rent.

24 And they made upon the lower hem of the robe pomegranates of blue, and purple, and scarlet yarn, twisted.

25 And they made bells of pure gold; and they put the bells between the pomegranates upon the lower hem of the robe, round about, between the pomegranates;

26 A bell and a pomegranate, a bell and a pomegranate, round about the lower hem of the robe, to minister therein; as the LORD had commanded Moses.

27 ¶ And they made the coats of linen, of woven work, for Aaron and for his sons, 28 And the mitre of linen, and the goodly bonnets of linen, and linen breeches of twisted linen thread.

29 And the girdle of twisted linen, and blue, and purple, and scarlet yarn, the work of the embroiderer; as the LORD had commanded Moses.

30 ¶ And they made the plate of the holy crown of pure gold, and wrote upon it a writing, like the engraving of a signet, HOLY TO THE LORD.

31 And they put on it a lace of blue, to place it upon the mitre above;[c] as the LORD had commanded Moses.

[a] These wreathed chains had a knot at the end, so that they did not slip through the rings of the breastplate and ephod.

[b] The rings on the girdle of the ephod were so placed as to be opposite those on the lower seam of the breastplate, and when the blue lace was passed through them, the two garments became united together.

[c] The plate was tied on both ends and at the centre to laces of blue woollen yarn, and hung on the top of the mitre, so that it rested on the forehead of the wearer.

32 ¶ Thus was finished all the work of the tabernacle of the tent of the congregation; and the children of Israel had made it in accordance with all that the LORD had commanded Moses, so had they made it.*

33 ¶ And they brought the tabernacle unto Moses, the tent, and all its vessels, its hooks, its boards, its bars, and its pillars, and its sockets,

34 And the covering of rams' skins dyed red, and the covering of badgers' skins, and the vail of the separation;

35 The ark of the testimony, and its staves, and the mercy-seat;

36 The table, and all its vessels, and the showbread;

37 The pure candlestick,[a] with its lamps, the lamps to be set in order thereupon, and all its vessels, and the oil for the lighting,

38 And the golden altar, and the anointing oil, and the incense of spices, and the hanging for the door of the tabernacle;

39 The copper altar, and the grating of copper which belonged to it, its staves, and all its vessels, the laver and its foot;

40 The hangings of the court, its pillars and its sockets, and the hanging for the court-gate, its cords, and its pins, and all the vessels of the service of the tabernacle, for the tent of the congregation;

41 The cloths of service to do the service in the holy place, and the holy garments for Aaron the priest, and the garments of his sons, to minister therein.

42 All, just as the LORD had commanded Moses, so had the children of Israel done all the work.

43 And Moses did look over all the work, and, behold, they had done it as the LORD had commanded, even so had they done it: and Moses blessed them.*

CHAPTER XL.

1 ¶ And the LORD spoke unto Moses, saying,

2 On the first day of the first month shalt thou set up the tabernacle of the tent of the congregation.

3 And thou shalt put therein the ark of the testimony, and separate[b] the ark with the vail.

4 And thou shalt bring in the table, and arrange the order of the showbread upon it; and thou shalt bring in the candlestick, and light the lamps thereof.

5 And thou shalt set the altar of gold for the incense before the ark of the testimony; and thou shalt put up the hanging at the door to the tabernacle.

6 And thou shalt set the altar of burnt-offering before the door of the tabernacle of the tent of the congregation.

7 And thou shalt set the laver between the tabernacle of the congregation and the altar, and thou shalt put water therein.

8 And thou shalt set up the court round about, and put up the hanging at the gate of the court.

9 And thou shalt take the anointing oil, and anoint the tabernacle, and all that is therein; and thou shalt hallow it, with all its vessels, and it shall be holy.

10 And thou shalt anoint the altar of burnt-offering, and all its vessels; and thou shalt sanctify the altar, and the altar shall be most holy.

11 And thou shalt anoint the laver with its foot, and sanctify it.

12 And thou shalt bring near Aaron and his sons unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, and wash them with water.

13 And thou shalt clothe Aaron with the holy garments; and thou shalt anoint him, and sanctify him, that he may be a priest unto me.

14 And his sons shalt thou bring near, and clothe them with coats:

15 And thou shalt anoint them, as thou hast anointed their father, that they may be priests unto me; and this shall be, that their anointing shall be unto them for an everlasting priesthood throughout their generations.

16 And Moses did so; all, just as the LORD had commanded him, so did he.*

[a] Others render, "The candlestick of pure gold." But as the feminine הטהרה does not agree with the masculine זהב, it must refer to the word כנרה, perhaps from its being made of pure gold.

[b] "This means, a protection, for it was a separation."—RASHI. That is to say, by hanging up the vail, by means of which the portion for the ark was separated from the remainder of the sanctuary, it was protected from the approach of those who came into the holy place.

17 ¶ And it came to pass in the first month in the second year, on the first of the month, that the tabernacle was reared up.

18 And Moses reared up the tabernacle, and placed its sockets, and set up its boards, and put in its bars, and reared up its pillars.

19 And he spread the tent[a] over the tabernacle, and put the covering of the tent[b] over it above; as the LORD had commanded Moses.

20 ¶ And he took[c] and put the testimony into the ark, and placed the staves on the ark; and he put the mercy-seat upon the ark above.

21 And he brought the ark into the tabernacle, and set up the vail of the separation, and made therewith a separation for the ark of the testimony; as the LORD had commanded Moses.

22 ¶ And he put the table in the tabernacle of the congregation, upon the side of the tabernacle, northward, without the vail.

23 And he arranged upon it the order of bread[d] before the LORD; as the LORD had commanded Moses.

24 ¶ And he placed the candlestick in the tabernacle of the congregation, opposite the table, on the side of the tabernacle, southward.

25 And he lighted the lamps before the LORD; as the LORD had commanded Moses.

26 ¶ And he placed the golden altar in the tabernacle of the congregation before the vail.

27 And he burnt thereon the incense of spices; as the LORD had commanded Moses.*

28 ¶ And he put up the hanging at the door to the tabernacle.

29 And the altar of burnt-offering he placed by the door of the tabernacle of the tent of the congregation; and he offered upon it the burnt-offering and the meat-offering; as the LORD had commanded Moses.

30 ¶ And he set the laver between the tabernacle of the congregation and the altar, and put water there, for washing.

31 And Moses[e] and Aaron and his sons washed therefrom their hands and their feet.

32 When they went in unto the tabernacle of the congregation, and when they came near unto the altar, they washed themselves; as the LORD had commanded Moses.

33 ¶ And he reared up the court round about the tabernacle and the altar, and put up the hanging of the gate of the court; and so did Moses finish the work.*

34 ¶ And the cloud covered the tent of the congregation, and the glory of the LORD filled the tabernacle.

35 And Moses was not able to enter into the tent of the congregation; because the cloud abode thereon, and the glory of the LORD filled the tabernacle.

36 And when the cloud was taken up from over the tabernacle, the children of Israel were wont to go onward in all their journeyings.

37 But if the cloud was not taken up, then they journeyed not till the day that it was taken up.

38 For the cloud of the LORD was upon the tabernacle by day, and a fire was by night on it, before the eyes of all the house of Israel, throughout all their journeyings.

SECTION XXIV. VAYIKRA, ויקרא.

CHAPTER I.

1 ¶ And the Lord called unto Moses, and spoke unto him out of the tabernacle of the congregation, saying,

2 Speak unto the children of Israel, and say unto them, If any one of you wish to bring an offering unto the Lord: of the cattle, either of the herds, or of the flocks, shall ye bring your offering.

3 If his offering be a burnt-sacrifice of the herds, then shall he offer a male without blemish: unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation shall he bring it, that it may be favourably received for him before the Lord.

4 And he shall lay his hand upon the head of the burnt-offering; and it shall be accepted for him to make atonement for him.

5 And he shall kill the young steer before the Lord: and the sons of Aaron the priests shall bring near the blood, and they shall sprinkle the blood round about upon the altar that is by the door of the tabernacle of the congregation.

6 And he shall flay the burnt-offering, and cut it into its pieces.

7 And the sons of Aaron the priest shall put fire upon the altar, and lay the wood in order upon the fire;

8 And the sons of Aaron the priests shall lay in order the parts, the head, and the fat,[a] upon the wood that is on the fire which is upon the altar;

9 But its inwards and its legs shall he wash in water; and the priest shall burn the whole on the altar, as a burnt-sacrifice, an offering made by fire, of a sweet savour unto the Lord.

10 ¶ And if his offering be of the flocks, of the sheep, or of the goats, for a burnt-sacrifice: then shall he offer a male without blemish as the same.

11 And he shall kill it on the side of the altar, northward,[b] before the Lord; and the sons of Aaron the priests shall sprinkle its blood upon the altar round about.

12 And he shall cut it into its pieces, with its head and its fat; and the priest shall lay them in order on the wood that is on the fire which is upon the altar;

13 But the inwards and the legs shall he wash with water; and the priest shall bring near the whole, and burn it upon the altar; it is a burnt-sacrifice, an offering made by fire, of a sweet savour unto the Lord.*

14 ¶ And if of fowls be the burnt-sacrifice for his offering to the Lord: then shall he bring his offering of turtle-doves, or of young pigeons.

15 And the priest shall bring it near[c] unto the altar, and pinch off its head, and burn it on the altar; and the blood thereof shall be wrung out on the wall of the altar.

16 And he shall remove its crop with its feathers, and cast it beside the altar on the east part, at the place of the ashes.

17 And he shall cleave it by its wings, but shall not divide it asunder; and the priest shall burn it upon the altar, upon the wood that is on the fire: it is a burnt-sacrifice, an offering made by fire, of a sweet savour unto the Lord.

[a] Some translate פדר with "midriff:" the word itself is of rare occurrence, hence not of a decided signification; but it is translated here according to the old authorities.

[b] All the sacrifices called "most holy," required to be slain on the north side of the altar of burnt-sacrifices; these are the burnt, sin, trespass, and national peace-offerings.

[c] The term הקרב has been for the most part rendered in this version with "to bring near," that is, to the altar where all sacrificial rites were performed; and when simply rendered with "bring," it has the same sense. Otherwise the term "offer" has also been used, as it is the root of the word קרבן "offering."

CHAPTER II.

1 ¶ And when any person wish to offer a meat-offering unto the LORD: then shall his offering be of fine flour; and he shall pour upon it oil, and put thereon frankincense;

2 And he shall bring it to one of the sons of Aaron the priest; and he shall take therefrom his handful of its flour, and of its oil, with all its frankincense; and the priest shall burn the memorial of it upon the altar, as an offering made by fire, of a sweet savour unto the LORD.

3 And what is left of the meat-offering shall belong to Aaron and to his sons: it is a most holy thing, from the fire-offerings of the LORD.

4 ¶ And if thou bring an oblation of a meat-offering baked in the oven, it shall be of fine flour, unleavened cakes mingled with oil, or unleavened wafers anointed with oil.

5 ¶ And if thy oblation be a meat-offering baked in a pan, it shall be made of fine flour mingled with oil, unleavened.

6 Thou shalt break it in pieces, and pour thereon oil: it is a meat-offering.*

7 ¶ And if thy oblation be a meat-offering baked in the deep pan, it shall be made of fine flour with oil.

8 And thou shalt bring the meat-offering, which shall be made of these things, unto the LORD; and the offerer shall present it unto the priest, who shall bring it near unto the altar.

9 And the priest shall take up from the meat-offering its memorial, and shall burn it upon the altar: it is an offering made by fire, of a sweet savour unto the LORD.

10 And that which is left of the meat-offering shall belong to Aaron and his sons: it is a most holy thing, from the fire-offerings of the LORD.

11 No meat-offering, which ye shall bring unto the LORD, shall be prepared leavened; for of whatever is leaven, or of any honey, ye shall not sacrifice an offering made by fire unto the LORD.

12 As an oblation of the first-fruits shall ye offer them unto the LORD; but on the altar shall they not come for a sweet savour.

13 And every oblation of thy meat-offering shalt thou season with salt; and thou shalt not suffer the salt of the covenant of thy God to be lacking from thy meat-offering: with all thy offerings shalt thou offer salt.

14 ¶ And if thou offer a meat-offering of the first-fruits unto the LORD: of ripe ears of corn dried by the fire, of pounded corn out of full ears, shalt thou offer the meat-offering of thy first-fruits.

15 And thou shalt put upon it oil, and lay thereon frankincense: it is a meat-offering.

16 And the priest shall burn its memorial, from its pounded corn, and from its oil, with all its frankincense: it is an offering made by fire unto the LORD.*

CHAPTER III.

1 ¶ And if his oblation be a sacrifice of peace-offering, if he offer it of the herds, whether it be a male or female, he shall offer it without blemish before the LORD.

2 And he shall lay his hand upon the head of his offering, and kill it at the door of the tabernacle of the congregation: and the sons of Aaron the priests shall sprinkle the blood upon the altar round about.

3 And he shall offer of the sacrifice of the peace-offering, as a fire-offering unto the LORD, the fat that covereth the inwards, and all the fat that is upon the inwards,

4 And the two kidneys, and the fat that is on them, which is on the flanks,[a] and the midriff[b] above the liver, with the kidneys, shall he remove it.

5 And Aaron's sons shall burn it on the altar, upon the burnt-offering,[c] which is upon the wood that is on the fire: it is an offering made by fire, of a sweet savour unto the LORD.

6 ¶ And if of the flocks be his offering for a sacrifice of peace-offering unto the LORD, male or female, without blemish, shall he offer it.

7 If he offer a sheep for his offering, then shall he bring it near before the LORD.

[a] Arnheim renders here and elsewhere, "And that on the," &c.

[b] Others, "caul."

[c] The first sacrifice offered daily upon the altar, was the daily burnt-offering; and before it had been placed on the fire, no other sacrifice could be burnt there; hence the phrase "upon the burnt-offering which is upon the wood." Rashi, however, renders על like כלבד "besides;" still the sense is the same in both cases.

8 And he shall lay his hand upon the head of his offering, and kill it before the tabernacle of the congregation: and the sons of Aaron shall sprinkle its blood upon the altar round about.

9 And he shall offer of the sacrifice of the peace-offering, as a fire-offering unto the LORD, the best part[a] thereof, the whole rump, hard by the backbone shall he take it off; and the fat that covereth the inwards, and all the fat that is upon the inwards;

10 And the two kidneys, and the fat that is upon them, which is on the flanks, and the midriff above the liver, with the kidneys, shall he remove it.

11 And the priest shall burn it upon the altar: it is the food of the offering made by fire unto the LORD.

12 ¶ And if a goat be his offering, then shall he bring it near before the LORD.

13 And he shall lay his hand upon its head, and kill it before the tabernacle of the congregation: and the sons of Aaron shall sprinkle its blood upon the altar round about.

14 And he shall offer thereof his offering, as a fire-offering unto the LORD, the fat that covereth the inwards, and all the fat that is upon the inwards,

15 And the two kidneys, and the fat that is upon them, which is on the flanks, and the midriff above the liver, with the kidneys shall he remove it.

16 And the priest shall burn them upon the altar; as the food of the offering made by fire for a sweet savour, is all the fat unto the LORD.

17 A perpetual statute shall it be for your generations throughout all your dwellings: no fat nor blood shall ye eat.*

CHAPTER IV.

1 ¶ And the LORD spoke unto Moses, saying,

2 Speak unto the children of Israel, saying, If any person do sin through ignorance against any of the prohibitions[b] of the LORD which ought not to be done, and do any of them;

3 If the anointed priest do sin to bring guiltiness[c] on the people: then shall he bring near for his sin, which he hath committed, a young bullock without blemish, unto the LORD, for a sin-offering.

4 And he shall bring the bullock unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation before the LORD; and he shall lay his hand upon the head of the bullock, and kill[d] the bullock before the LORD.

5 And the anointed priest shall take some of the bullock's blood, and bring it into the tabernacle of the congregation:

6 And the priest shall dip his finger in the blood; and he shall sprinkle of the blood seven times before the LORD, before the vail of the sanctuary.

7 And the priest shall put some of the blood upon the horns of the altar of the incense of spices before the LORD, which is in the tabernacle of the congregation; and all the (remaining) blood of the bullock shall he pour out at the bottom of the altar of burnt-offering, which is at the door of the tabernacle of the congregation.

8 And all the fat of the bullock of the sin-offering shall he take off from the same: the fat that covereth the inwards, and all the fat that is upon the inwards,

9 And the two kidneys, and the fat that is upon them, which is on the flanks, and the midriff above the liver, with the kidneys, shall he remove it;

10 As it is taken off from the bullock of the sacrifice of peace-offering; and the priest shall burn the same upon the altar of burnt-offering.

11 And the skin of the bullock, and all his flesh, with his head, and with his legs, and his inwards, and his dung,

12 Even the whole bullock, shall he carry forth without the camp, unto a clean place, to where the ashes are poured out, and burn him on the wood with fire; upon where the ashes are poured out shall he be burnt.

13 ¶ And if the whole congregation of

[a] This is explained by the next words, "the best part, that is the whole rump;" or as the moderns have it, "the whole fat tail," referring to the Syrian sheep, the tail of which is broad and fat.

[b] Both the negative and positive precepts are commandments; wherefore the first may also be properly called מצות "precepts."

[c] This is explained, that the high-priest's sin must be like the sin of the elders spoken of in the next section; i. e., that he give a wrong decision, which the people follow, by which they incur guilt.

[d] The word שחט means not merely to kill, but to produce death by cutting the throat, as practised in Israel. This explanations holds good wherever the word "kill" occurs when speaking of sacrifices, or of animals slain for the ordinary use of the people.

Israel sin through ignorance, and a thing be hidden from the eyes of the assembly,[a] and they do any one of all the prohibitions of the LORD which ought not to be done, and they become guilty;

14 When now the sin becometh known, through which they have sinned: then shall the congregation offer a young bullock for a sin-offering, and shall bring him before the tabernacle of the congregation.

15 And the elders of the congregation shall lay their hands upon the head of the bullock before the LORD; and they shall kill the bullock before the LORD.

16 And the anointed priest shall bring some of the bullock's blood into the tabernacle of the congregation:

17 And the priest shall dip his finger in some of the blood, and sprinkle it seven times before the LORD, before the vail.

18 And some of the blood shall he put upon the horns of the altar which is before the LORD, that is in the tabernacle of the congregation; and all the (remaining) blood shall he pour out at the bottom of the altar of burnt-offering, which is at the door of the tabernacle of the congregation.

19 And all his fat shall he take from him, and burn it upon the altar.

20 And he shall do with the bullock as he did with the bullock of the sin-offering; so shall he do with this: and the priest shall make an atonement for them, and it shall be forgiven unto them.

21 And he shall carry forth the bullock to without the camp, and burn him as he burnt the first bullock; it is a sin-offering of the congregation.

22 ¶ If a ruler should sin, and do any one of the prohibitions of the LORD his God which ought not to be done, through ignorance, and become guilty;[b]

23 If now his sin, wherein he hath sinned, come to his knowledge: he shall bring as his offering, a goat, a male, without blemish;

24 And he shall lay his hand upon the head of the goat, and kill it on the place where they kill the burnt-offering before the LORD; it is a sin-offering.

25 And the priest shall take some of the blood of the sin-offering with his finger, and put it upon the horns of the altar of burnt-offering; and (the remainder of) its blood shall he pour out at the bottom of the altar of burnt-offering.

26 And all its fat shall he burn upon the altar, as the fat of the sacrifice of peace-offering; and the priest shall make an atonement for him concerning his sin, and it shall be forgiven unto him.*

27 ¶ And if any person of the common people should sin through ignorance, by his doing any one of the prohibitions of the LORD, which ought not to be done, and become guilty;

28 If now his sin, which he hath committed, come to his knowledge: then shall he bring as his offering, a goat, a female, without blemish, for his sin which he hath committed;

29 And he shall lay his hand upon the head of the sin-offering, and slay the sin-offering on the place of the burnt-offering.

30 And the priest shall take some of the blood thereof with his finger, and put it upon the horns of the altar of burnt-offering; and all the (remaining) blood thereof shall he pour out at the bottom of the altar.

31 And all the fat thereof shall he remove, as the fat is removed from off the sacrifice of peace-offering; and the priest shall burn it upon the altar for a sweet savour unto the LORD; and the priest shall make an atonement for him, and it shall be forgiven unto him.

32 ¶ And if he bring a sheep for a sin-offering, a female without blemish shall he bring it.

33 And he shall lay his hand upon the head of the sin-offering, and slay it for a sin-offering on the place where they kill the burnt-offering.

34 And the priest shall take some of the blood of the sin-offering with his finger, and put it upon the horns of the altar of burnt-offering; and all the (remaining) blood thereof shall he pour out at the bottom of the altar:

[a] This is explained, that the assembled judges decide erroneously concerning any one of the acts for which exeision (כרת) is denounced, that it is permitted, and the people do according to this erroneous decision, thus sinning against a vital principle through ignoranee, upon the instruetion of their highest religious authority.

[b] Mendelssohn translates this expression, wherever it occurs, "And he becomes aware of his guilt," or as above, "they become aware of their guilt."

35 And all the fat thereof shall he remove, as the fat of the sheep is removed from the sacrifice of the peace-offering; and the priest shall burn the same upon the altar, upon the offerings made by fire unto the LORD; and the priest shall make an atonement for him for his sin that he hath committed, and it shall be forgiven unto him.

CHAPTER V.

1 ¶ And if any person sin, because he heareth the voice of adjuration, and he is a witness, since he hath either seen or knoweth something; if he do not tell it, and thus bear his iniquity;

2 Or if there be a person who toucheth any unclean thing, whether it be the carcass of an unclean beast, or the carcass of unclean cattle, or the carcass of an unclean creeping thing, and it escape his recollection; but (he becometh aware that) he is unclean, and hath (thus) incurred guilt;

3 Or if he touch the uncleanness of man, whatsoever uncleanness of the kind it be by which he can be defiled, and it escape his recollection; but he becometh aware of it, and (that) he hath (thus) incurred guilt;

4 Or if any person swear, by pronouncing with his lips[a] to do evil, or to do good (to himself), in whatsoever it be that a man pronounceth with an oath, and it escape his recollection; but he becometh aware of it that he hath incurred guilt by any one of these:

5 And it shall be, if he have incurred guilt by any one of these (things,) that he shall confess that concerning which he hath sinned;

6 And he shall bring his trespass-offering unto the LORD for his sin which he hath committed, a female from the flocks, a sheep or a goat, for a sin-offering; and the priest shall make an atonement for him concerning his sin.

7 And if his means be not sufficient for a sheep, then shall he bring as his offering (for the trespass) which he hath committed, two turtle-doves, or two young pigeons, unto the LORD; one for a sin-offering, and the other for a burnt-offering.

8 And he shall bring them unto the priest, and he shall offer that which is for the sin-offering first, and pinch off its head by the back of its neck, but shall not divide it asunder:

9 And he shall sprinkle some of the blood of the sin-offering upon the wall of the altar; and the rest of the blood shall be wrung out at the bottom of the altar; it is a sin-offering.

10 And the second shall he prepare as a burnt-offering, according to the prescribed order; and the priest shall make an atonement for him for his sin which he hath committed, and it shall be forgiven unto him.*

11 ¶ But if his means be not sufficient for two turtle-doves, or two young pigeons, then shall he bring as his offering for that which he hath sinned, the tenth part of an ephah of fine flour for a sin-offering; he shall not put upon it any oil, nor shall he put thereupon any frankincense; for it is a sin-offering.

12 And he shall bring it to the priest; and the priest shall take from it his handful, as its memorial, and burn it on the altar, upon the fire-offerings of the LORD: it is a sin-offering.

13 And the priest shall make an atonement for him concerning his sin that he hath committed in one of these, and it shall be forgiven unto him; and it shall belong to the priest, as the meat-offering.

14 ¶ And the LORD spoke unto Moses, saying,

15 If any person commit a trespass, and sin through ignorance, against the holy things of the LORD: then shall he bring as his trespass-offering unto the LORD a ram without blemish out of the flocks, in value of two shekels of silver, after the shekel of the sanctuary, for a trespass-offering.

16 And that, in which he hath sinned against the holy thing, shall he pay, and shall add its fifth part thereto, and give it unto the priest; and the priest shall make an atonement for him with the ram of the trespass-offering, and it shall be forgiven unto him.

17 ¶ And if any person sin, and commit any one of the prohibitions of the LORD which ought not to be done; and he know[b] not whether he have incurred guilt, and so bear his iniquity:

[a] Philippson renders, "Or if a person swear thoughtlessly to do," &c. Rashi seems to assent to this construction by commenting, "with the lips, but not the heart."

[b] i. e. It is probable that he has unawares committed a capital sin, without being certain whether it be so: f. e. that both lawful and prohibited food had been before him.

18 Then shall he bring a ram without blemish out of the flocks, of the usual value, for a trespass-offering, unto the priest; and the priest shall make an atonement for him concerning his sin of ignorance, wherein he hath erred and knoweth it not, and it shall be forgiven unto him.

19 It is a trespass-offering: he hath in trespassing trespassed against the LORD.[a]

20 ¶ And the LORD spoke unto Moses, saying,

21 If any person sin, and commit a trespass against the LORD; if he, namely, lie unto his neighbour in that which was delivered to him to keep, or in a loan, or in a thing taken away by violence, or if he have withheld the wages of his neighbour;

22 Or if he have found something which was lost, and lie concerning it, and swear falsely; in any one of all these which a man can do, to sin thereby:

23 Then shall it be, when he hath sinned, and is conscious of his guilt, that he shall restore what he hath taken violently away, or the wages which he hath withheld, or that which was delivered to him to keep, or the lost thing which he hath found,*

24 Or any one thing about which he may have sworn falsely; and he shall restore it in its principal, and the fifth part thereof shall he add thereto; unto him to whom it appertaineth shall he give it, on the day when he confesseth his trespass.

25 And his trespass-offering shall he bring unto the LORD, a ram without blemish out of the flocks, of the usual value, for a trespass-offering, unto the priest:

26 And the priest shall make an atonement for him before the LORD, and it shall be forgiven unto him, for any one thing of all that he may have done to trespass thereby.

Haphtorah in Isaiah xliii. 21 to xliv. 23.

SECTION XXV. TZAV, צו.

CHAPTER VI.

1 ¶ And the LORD spoke unto Moses, saying,

2 Command Aaron and his sons, saying, This is the law of the burnt-offering: It is the burnt-offering, which shall be burning[b] upon the altar all night unto the morning, and the fire of the altar shall be burning on it.[c]

3 And the priest shall put on his linen garment, and linen breeches shall he put upon his flesh, and he shall lift up the ashes which the fire hath made by consuming the burnt-offering on the altar, and he shall place them beside the altar.

4 And he shall take off his garments, and put on other garments, and carry forth the ashes to without the camp, unto a clean place.

5 And the fire upon the altar shall be burning on it, it shall not be put out, and the priest shall burn wood on it every morning; and he shall lay in order upon it the burnt-offering, and he shall burn thereon the fat of the peace-offerings.

6 A perpetual fire shall be burning upon the altar; it shall not go out.

7 ¶ And this is the law of the meat-offering: (one of) the sons of Aaron shall bring it near before the LORD, in front of the altar.

8 And he shall lift up from it his handful, of the flour of the meat-offering, and of its oil, and all the frankincense which is upon the meat-offering, and he shall burn it upon the altar, for a sweet savour, as its memorial,[d] unto the LORD.

9 And what is left thereof shall Aaron and his sons eat: unleavened shall it be eaten in a holy place; in the court of the tabernacle of the congregation shall they eat it.

10 It shall not be baked leaven; as their portion have I given it from my offerings made by fire; it is most holy, as is the sin-offering, and as is the trespass-offering.

11 All the males among the children of Aaron shall eat of it, as a fixed portion for ever in your generations from the fire-offerings of the LORD: every one that toucheth the same shall be holy.*

12 ¶ And the LORD spoke unto Moses, saying,

13 This is the offering of Aaron and of his sons, which they shall offer unto the LORD on the day when he is anointed: the tenth part

[a] In the Eng. ver. the fifth chapter ends here.
[b] Lit. "Upon the place of burning."
[c] i. e. The altar.
[d] This word must be so understood: the meat-offering is brought to the altar; the greater part is given to the priest; but the portion offered on the altar is, as it were, that which causeth the offerer to be remembered on high. Philippson translates the word as "the part to praise therewith."

of an ephah of fine flour for a meat-offering perpetually; half of it in the morning, and the other half of it in the evening.

14 In a pan, with oil, shall it be made, well sodden[a] shalt thou bring it; twice baked, a meat-offering of broken pieces, shalt thou offer it for a sweet savour unto the LORD.

15 And the priest that shall be anointed in his stead among his sons shall offer it: it is a statute for ever, unto the LORD; it shall be wholly burnt.

16 And every meat-offering of a priest shall be wholly burnt, it shall not be eaten.

17 ¶ And the LORD spoke unto Moses, saying,

18 Speak unto Aaron and to his sons, saying, This is the law of the sin-offering: On the place where the burnt-offering is killed shall the sin-offering be killed before the LORD; it is most holy.

19 The priest who maketh atonement with its blood shall eat it: in a holy place shall it be eaten, in the court of the tabernacle of the congregation.

20 Whatsoever may touch the flesh thereof shall be holy: and if there should be sprinkled any of its blood upon a garment, whatever it hath been sprinkled on shalt thou wash out in a holy place.

21 And any earthen vessel wherein it may have been boiled shall be broken: and if it have been boiled in a copper vessel, it shall be both scoured and rinsed with water.

22 Every male among the priests may eat thereof: it is most holy.

23 And every sin-offering whereof any of the blood is brought into the tabernacle of the congregation to make atonement therewith in the holy place, shall not be eaten; it shall be burnt in fire.

CHAPTER VII.

1 ¶ And this is the law of the trespass-offering: It is most holy.

2 On the place where they kill the burnt-offering shall they kill the trespass-offering; and the blood thereof shall be sprinkled upon the altar round about.

3 And all its fat shall be offered up from it; the rump, and the fat that covereth the inwards.

4 And the two kidneys, and the fat that is on them, which is on the flanks, and the midriff above the liver, with the kidneys shall he remove the same:

5 And the priest shall burn them upon the altar for an offering made by fire unto the LORD; it is a trespass-offering.

6 Every male among the priests may eat thereof; in a holy place shall it be eaten: it is most holy.

7 As the sin-offering is, so is the trespass-offering; there is one law for them: the priest that maketh atonement therewith, his shall it be.

8 And the priest that offereth any man's burnt-offering,—the skin of the burnt-offering which he hath offered shall belong to this priest alone.

9 And every meat-offering that is baked in the oven, and all that is dressed in the deep pan, and in the flat pan, shall belong to the priest that offereth it alone.[b]

10 And every meat-offering which is mingled with oil, or dry, shall belong to all the sons of Aaron, to one as much as the other.*

11 ¶ And this is the law of the sacrifice of peace-offering, which one may happen to offer unto the LORD.

12 If he offer it for a thanksgiving, then shall he offer with the sacrifice of thanksgiving unleavened cakes mingled with oil, and unleavened wafers anointed with oil, and fine flour, well sodden, made into cakes mingled with oil.

13 Together with cakes of leavened bread shall he bring his offering, with the sacrifice of his thanksgiving peace-offering.

14 And he shall offer thereof one out of every oblation for a heave-offering unto the LORD; to the priest that sprinkleth the blood of the peace-offering—to him shall it belong.

15 And the flesh of the sacrifice of his

[a] So Rashi explains the word כרבכת "sodden sufficient in hot water;" after which it was baked in an oven, broken in pieces, and baked again in the pan. Others explain this term with "softened with oil." But this being one of the words which occur in but one passage, it is difficult to state its precise signification.

[b] This is variously explained, so as to agree with the next verse. First, that it is the absolute property of the officiating priest, to distribute it at his option among his fellows; secondly, that it belongs to the family division of the sacrificer who may have the duties to perform on the day of the sacrifice. Arnheim and others render verse 10, "But," &c., thus making a distinction between the various kinds of sacrifices.

thanksgiving-peace-offering shall be eaten the same day that it is offered; he shall not leave any of it until the morning.

16 But if the sacrifice of his offering be a vow, or a voluntary offering, it shall be eaten the same day that he offereth his sacrifice: and on the morrow also shall what is left thereof be eaten.

17 But what is left of the flesh of the sacrifice, on the third day shall it be burnt with fire.

18 And if the intention[a] was to eat of the flesh of the sacrifice of his peace-offering on the third day, it shall not be favourably received; to him who offereth it shall it not be accounted; it shall be an abomination, and the person that eateth of it shall bear his iniquity.

19 And the flesh, that toucheth any unclean thing, shall not be eaten, with fire shall it be burnt: and as for the flesh, every one that is clean may eat thereof.

20 But the person that eateth the flesh of the sacrifice of peace-offering, that pertaineth unto the LORD, having his uncleanness upon him, even that person shall be cut off from his people.

21 And any person that toucheth any unclean thing, as the uncleanness of man, or any unclean beast, or any abominable unclean thing, and eateth of the flesh of the sacrifice of peace-offering, which pertaineth unto the LORD, even that person shall be cut off from his people.

22 And the LORD spoke unto Moses, saying,

23 Speak unto the children of Israel, saying, Every manner of fat, of ox,[b] or of sheep, or of goat shall ye not eat.

24 And the fat of a beast that dieth of itself, and the fat of that which is torn by beasts, may be used for any manner of work, but ye shall in no wise eat of it.

25 For whosoever eateth the fat of the cattle, of which one can offer an offering made by fire unto the LORD, even the person that eateth it shall be cut off from his people.

26 Moreover ye shall eat no manner of blood, in any of your dwellings, whether it be of fowl or of cattle.[c]

27 Whatsoever person it be that eateth any manner of blood, even that person shall be cut off from his people.

28 ¶ And the LORD spoke unto Moses, saying,

29 Speak unto the children of Israel, saying, He that offereth the sacrifice of his peace-offering unto the LORD shall bring his oblation unto the LORD from the sacrifice of his peace-offering.

30 His own hands shall bring it, as the fire-offerings of the LORD: the fat with the breast shall he bring, the breast that it may be waved for a wave-offering before the LORD.

31 And the priest shall burn the fat upon the altar; but the breast shall belong to Aaron and to his sons.

32 And the right shoulder shall ye give unto the priest for a heave-offering, of the sacrifices of your peace-offerings.

33 The one that offereth the blood of the peace-offerings and the fat, among the sons of Aaron, shall have the right shoulder for his part.

34 For the breast which hath been waved and the shoulder which hath been lifted up have I taken from the children of Israel from the sacrifices of their peace-offerings; and I have given them unto Aaron the priest and unto his sons as a fixed portion[d] for ever from the children of Israel.

35 This is the portion of the anointing[e] of Aaron, and of the anointing of his sons, from the fire-offerings of the LORD, on the day when he brought them near to become priests unto the LORD;

36 Which the LORD commanded to give unto them, on the day that he anointed them, from the children of Israel, as a fixed portion for ever throughout their generations.

37 This is the law of the burnt-offering, of the meat-offering, and of the sin-offering, and of the trespass-offering, and of the consecration-offering, and of the sacrifice of the peace-offering;

[a] After Rashi, in accordance with Zebachim, folio 28 a. See also Wesseli's note to this verse, where he proves that it would be incorrect to render "if any of the flesh, &c. be eaten."

[b] These are the species of which a sacrifice can be brought; consequently, the fat of the deer-kind is permitted.

[c] The blood, however, of all four-footed animals, as well as of birds, is interdicted, without distinction, whether the individual be fit for sacrifice or not.

[d] The word חק, otherwise rendered "statute," is here given, after Mendelssohn, with "fixed portion." (See Genesis xlvii. 22.)

[e] i. e. His, in consequence of his being anointed.

38 Which the LORD commanded Moses on mount Sinai, on the day that he commanded the children of Israel to offer their oblations unto the LORD, in the wilderness of Sinai.*

CHAPTER VIII.

1 ¶ And the LORD spoke unto Moses, saying,

2 Take Aaron and his sons with him, and the garments, and the anointing oil, and the bullock for the sin-offering, and the two rams, and the basket of unleavened bread;

3 And all the congregation shalt thou assemble together unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation.

4 And Moses did as the LORD had commanded him; and the assembly came together unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation.

5 And Moses said unto the congregation, This is the thing which the LORD hath commanded to do.

6 And Moses brought near Aaron and his sons, and washed them with water.

7 And he put upon him the coat, and girded him with the girdle, and clothed him with the robe, and put upon him the ephod, and he girded him with the belt of the ephod, and bound it unto him therewith.

8 And he put on him the breastplate; and he put in the breastplate the Urim and the Thummim.

9 And he put the mitre upon his head; and he placed upon the mitre, toward the front thereof, the golden plate, the holy crown; as the LORD had commanded Moses.

10 And Moses took the anointing oil, and anointed the tabernacle and all that was therein, and sanctified them.

11 And he sprinkled thereof upon the altar seven times; and he anointed the altar and all its vessels, also the laver and its foot, to sanctify them.

12 And he poured of the anointing oil upon Aaron's head, and he anointed him, to sanctify him.

13 And Moses brought near the sons of Aaron, and clothed them with coats, and girded them with girdles, and bound the bonnets on them; as the LORD had commanded Moses.*

14 And he brought near the bullock of the sin-offering: and Aaron and his sons laid their hands upon the head of the bullock of the sin-offering.

15 And some one[a] slew him; and Moses took the blood, and put it upon the horns of the altar round about with his finger, and purified the altar, and the (remaining) blood he poured out at the bottom of the altar, and sanctified it, to make henceforth atonement upon it.

16 And he took all the fat that was upon the inwards, and the midriff of the liver, and the two kidneys, and their fat, and Moses burnt them upon the altar.

17 But the bullock, and his hide, and his flesh, and his dung, he burnt with fire without the camp; as the LORD had commanded Moses.

18 And he brought near the ram of the burnt-offering; and Aaron and his sons laid their hands upon the head of the ram.

19 And some one killed him; and Moses sprinkled the blood upon the altar round about.

20 And the ram he[b] cut into the proper pieces; and Moses burnt the head, and the pieces, and the fat.

21 And he washed the inwards and the legs in water; and Moses burnt the whole ram upon the altar: it was a burnt-sacrifice for a sweet savour, an offering made by fire unto the LORD; as the LORD had commanded Moses.*

22 And he brought near the other ram, the ram of consecration; and Aaron and his sons laid their hands upon the head of the ram.

23 And some one slew him; and Moses took some of his blood, and put it upon the tip of Aaron's right ear, and upon the thumb

[a] This is the manner in which Arnheim and Wesseli explain וישחט used here and in verses 19 and 23, it having in all these instances a disjunctive accent. Mendelssohn, however, after Torath Kohanim, both translates "and Moses slew and took the blood," and comments that probably during the week of consecration the killing of the sacrifices was required to be done by Moses, perhaps to show the people the manner of killing the same, as he performed all the other duties of the service to show them all the laws thereof.

[b] Wesseli and Arnheim remark that the cutting up and the washing of the sacrifice were probably performed by another person, as above, verse 15; as they do not properly belong to the act of sacrificing, and could therefore be done by a person not connected with the priesthood.

24 And he brought near Aaron's sons, and Moses put some of the blood upon the tip of their right ear, and upon the thumb of their right hand, and upon the great toe of their right foot; and Moses sprinkled the blood upon the altar round about.

25 And he took the fat, and the rump, and all the fat that was upon the inwards, and the midriff of the liver, and the two kidneys, and their fat, and the right shoulder;

26 And out of the basket of unleavened bread, that was before the LORD,[a] he took one unleavened cake, and one cake of oiled bread, and one wafer, and he put them on the fat, and upon the right shoulder:

27 And he placed the whole upon the hands of Aaron, and upon the hands of his sons, and made with them a waving before the LORD.

28 And Moses then took these things from off their hands, and burnt them on the altar upon the burnt-offering: they were a consecration-offering for a sweet savour, a fire-offering were they unto the LORD.

29 And Moses took the breast, and made therewith a waving before the LORD; from the ram of consecration was it given to Moses as his portion; as the LORD had commanded Moses.*

30 And Moses took some of the anointing oil, and of the blood which was upon the altar, and sprinkled the same upon Aaron, and upon his garments, and upon his sons, and upon the garments of his sons with him; and he sanctified Aaron, his garments, and his sons, and the garments of his sons with him.

31 And Moses said unto Aaron and to his sons, Boil ye the flesh at the door of the tabernacle of the congregation; and there shall ye eat it with the bread that is in the basket of the consecration; as I have commanded, saying, Aaron and his sons shall eat it.

32 And that which is left of the flesh and of the bread shall ye burn with fire.*

33 And from the door of the tabernacle of the congregation shall ye not go forth seven days, until the days of your consecration be at an end; for seven days shall your consecration last[b]

34 As they have done this day, so hath the LORD commanded to do farther, to make an atonement for you.

35 And at the door of the tabernacle of the congregation shall ye abide day and night seven days, and keep the charge of the LORD, that ye die not; for so have I been commanded.

36 And Aaron and his sons did all the things which the LORD had commanded by the hand of Moses.

Haphtorah in Jeremiah vii. 21 to viii. 3 and ix. 22, 23.

SECTION XXVI. SHEMINEE, שמיני.

CHAPTER IX.

1 ¶ And it came to pass on the eighth day that Moses called Aaron and his sons, and the elders of Israel;

2 And he said unto Aaron, Take unto thyself a young calf[c] for a sin-offering, and a ram for a burnt-offering, without blemish, and bring them near before the LORD.

3 And unto the children of Israel shalt thou speak, saying, Take ye a he-goat for a sin-offering; and a calf and a sheep, both of the first year, without blemish, for a burnt-offering;

4 Also a bullock and a ram for peace-offerings, to sacrifice before the LORD, and a meat-offering mingled with oil; for this day the LORD will appear unto you.

5 And they brought that which Moses had commanded before the tabernacle of the congregation: and all the congregation drew near and stood before the LORD.

6 And Moses said, This thing which the LORD hath commanded shall ye do: and then will the glory of the LORD appear unto you.

7 And Moses said unto Aaron, Draw near unto the altar, and prepare thy sin-offering, and thy burnt-offering, and make an atonement for thyself, and for the people; and prepare the offering of the people, and make an

[a] Meaning, the basket which had been placed near the altar, as by this means it was more in the presence of God than in any other place.

[b] Lit. "Shall he (the consecrator) fill your hand."

[c] This phrase עגל בן בקר is said to mean a steer of two years, so likewise "ram" signifies one two years old; but when the words עגל and כבש "calf" and "sheep" are used, they mean animals one year old.

atonement for them; as the LORD hath commanded.

8 And Aaron drew near unto the altar; and he slew the calf of the sin-offering, which was for himself.

9 And the sons of Aaron brought the blood unto him; and he dipped his finger in the blood, and put it upon the horns of the altar; and the (remaining) blood he poured out at the bottom of the altar

10 And the fat, and the kidneys, and the midriff from the liver of the sin-offering, he burnt upon the altar; as the LORD had commanded Moses.

11 And the flesh and the hide he burnt with fire without the camp.

12 And he slew the burnt-offering; and the sons of Aaron presented unto him the blood, and he sprinkled it upon the altar round about.

13 And the burnt-offering they presented unto him, in its proper pieces, together with the head: and he burnt them upon the altar.

14 And he washed the inwards and the legs; and he burnt them upon the burnt-offering on the altar.

15 And he brought near the people's offering; and he took the goat of the sin-offering which belonged to the people, and slew it, and made atonement[a] with its blood, as the first.

16 And he brought near the burnt-offering, and offered it according to the prescribed manner.*

17 And he brought near the meat-offering, and he filled his hand thereof, and burnt it upon the altar, beside the burnt-sacrifice of the morning.

18 He slew also the bullock and the ram, the sacrifice of peace-offering which belonged to the people: and the sons of Aaron presented unto him the blood, and he sprinkled it upon the altar round about,

19 Also the fat of the bullock, and of the ram, the rump, and that which covereth the inwards, and the kidneys, and the midriff of the liver;

20 And they put these pieces of fat upon the breasts, and he burnt the fat upon the altar;

21 And with the breasts and the right shoulder Aaron made a waving before the LORD; as Moses had commanded.

22 And Aaron lifted up his hands toward the people, and blessed them; and came down after he had offered the sin-offering, and the burnt-offering, and peace-offerings.

23 And Moses and Aaron went into the tabernacle of the congregation, and came then out, and blessed the people: and the glory of the LORD appeared unto all the people.*

24 And there came forth a fire from before the LORD, and consumed upon the altar the burnt-offering and the fat; and when all the people saw this, they shouted, and fell on their faces.

CHAPTER X.

1 And Nadab and Abihu, the sons of Aaron, took each his censer, and they put therein fire, and put thereon incense: and they brought near before the LORD a strange fire,[b] which he had not commanded them.

2 And there went out a fire from before the LORD, and consumed them, and they died before the LORD.

3 Then said Moses unto Aaron, This is what the LORD hath spoken, saying, On those who are near unto me will I be sanctified, and before all the people will I be glorified: and Aaron held his peace.

4 And Moses called unto Mishaël and Elzaphan, the sons of 'Uzziël, the uncle of Aaron, and said unto them, Come near, carry your brethren from before the sanctuary to without the camp.

5 And they came near, and carried them in their coats to without the camp; as Moses had spoken.

6 And Moses said unto Aaron, and unto Elazar and unto Ithamar, his sons, The hair

[a] Onkelos thus renders יכפר, and views it as expressing that the priest made of it a sin-offering by sprinkling the blood: the word blood, however, is not in the text, and is merely understood. So also above, vi. 19, and elsewhere.

[b] The guilt of the sons of Aaron (more correctly Aharon) evidently consisted in their bringing incense upon a censer which had not been commanded, as it was merely to be sacrificed on the altar which was within the sanctuary, and then but twice every day. And while they were engaged in this unacceptable ministry, they were slain in the tabernacle by the mysterious fire. The words "consumed them" must, however, be understood, not as a perfect burning, but as merely enough to cause death, or else they could not have been carried forth to be buried in their garments.

of your head you shall not let grow long, and your garments you shall not rend, that ye die not, and that he be not wroth upon the whole congregation; but your brethren, the whole house of Israel, may bewail the burning which the LORD hath kindled.

7 And from the door of the tabernacle of the congregation shall ye not go out, lest ye die; for the anointing oil of the LORD is upon you; and they did according to the word of Moses.

8 ¶ And the LORD spoke unto Aaron, saying,

9 Wine or strong drink[a] shalt thou not drink, neither thou, nor thy sons with thee, when ye go in unto the tabernacle of the congregation, lest ye die: it shall be a statute for ever throughout your generations.

10 So that ye may be able to distinguish between the holy and the unholy, and between the unclean and the clean;

11 And that ye may be able to teach the children of Israel all the statutes which the LORD hath spoken unto them by the hand of Moses.*

12 ¶ And Moses spoke unto Aaron, and unto Elazar and unto Ithamar his sons, that were left, Take ye the meat-offering that is left of the fire-offerings of the LORD, and eat it unleavened beside the altar; for it is most holy.

13 And ye shall eat it in a holy place, because it is thy fixed portion, and the fixed portion of thy sons, from the fire-offerings of the LORD; for so have I been commanded.

14 And the breast which hath been waved and the shoulder which hath been lifted up, shall ye eat in a clean place, thou, and thy sons, and thy daughters with thee; for as thy fixed portion, and the fixed portion of thy sons, have they been given from the sacrifices of peace-offerings of the children of Israel.

15 The shoulder which is waved and the breast which is lifted up, shall they bring with the fat of the fire-offering, to make therewith a waving before the LORD; and then shall it be thine, and thy sons with thee, as a fixed portion for ever; as the LORD hath commanded.*

16 And the goat of the sin-offering Moses sought diligently, and behold, it was burnt: and he was angry with Elazar and Ithamar, the sons of Aaron who had been left, and said,

17 Wherefore have ye not eaten the sin-offering in the holy place, seeing that it is most holy, and that he hath given it to you to bear the iniquity of the congregation, to make atonement for them before the LORD?

18 Behold, its blood was not brought within the holy place: ye should then have eaten it in the holy place, as I commanded.

19 And Aaron spoke unto Moses, Behold, this day have they offered their sin-offering, and their burnt-offering before the LORD; and things as these have befallen me: and if I had eaten the sin-offering to-day,[b] would it have been pleasing in the eyes of the LORD?

20 And when Moses heard this, it was pleasing in his eyes.*

CHAPTER XI.

1 ¶ And the LORD spoke unto Moses and to Aaron, saying unto them,

2 Speak unto the children of Israel, saying, These are the beasts which ye may eat among all the beasts[c] that are on the earth.

3 Whatsoever divideth the hoof, and is cloven-footed, and cheweth the cud, among the beasts, that may ye eat.

4 But these shall ye not eat, of those that chew the cud, or of those that divide the hoof: the camel; because he cheweth the cud, but divideth not the hoof; he is unclean unto you.

5 And the cony; because he cheweth the

[a] From the fact that this section follows immediately the one containing the death of Aaron's sons, it was the opinion of Rabbi Ishmael, that they had entered the sanctuary in a state of druukenness; be this as it may, it is an energetic prohibition against the use of any intoxicating drink, by priests or judges, before they engage in their solemn duties.

[b] Aaron no doubt meant to exhibit to Moses, that as he had not enumerated the sin-offering among the things to be eaten, (verse 12,) it would have been wrong for him to eat thereof, while his sons were yet unburied; and he therefore had it burnt, as it could not lawfully be kept till the next day. And though he had concluded wrongly, still Moses was satisfied; as he had acted from pure intentions. —After WESSELI.

[c] בהמה in this and subsequent verses is rendered by Arnheim "fourfooted," i. e. animals. Usually it is given with "cattle," that is, the domestic ones, in opposition to חיה "the beast" which roams wild. But as "beast" in English includes both the wild and domestic animal, the word has been used to express both חיה and בהמה, from the difficulty of translating them always with the proper synonyme.

cud, but divideth not the hoof; he is unclean unto you.

6 And the hare; because he cheweth the cud, but divideth not the hoof; he is unclean unto you.

7 And the swine; because he divideth the hoof, and is cloven-footed, but he cheweth not the cud; he is unclean unto you.

8 Of their flesh shall ye not eat, and their carcass shall ye not touch; they are unclean unto you.

9 These may ye eat, of all that are in the waters: All that have fins and scales in the waters, in the seas, and in the rivers, them may ye eat.

10 But all that have not fins and scales in the seas, and in the rivers, of whatever moveth in the waters, and of any living thing which is in the waters, shall be an abomination unto you:

11 And an abomination shall they remain unto you; of their flesh shall ye not eat, and their carcasses ye shall have in abomination.

12 Whatsoever hath not fins and scales in the waters, shall be an abomination unto you.

13 And these shall ye have in abomination among the fowls; they shall not be eaten, they are an abomination: The eagle,[a] and the ossifrage, and the osprey,

14 And the vulture, and the kite after his kind;

15 Every raven after his kind;

16 And the ostrich, and the night-hawk, and the cuckoo, and the hawk after his kind;

17 And the little owl, and the cormorant, and the great owl,

18 And the swan, and the pelican, and the gier-eagle,

19 And the stork, the heron after his kind, and the lapwing, and the bat.

20 All flying insects that walk upon four feet, shall be an abomination unto you.

21 Yet these may ye eat, among all the flying insects that walk on four feet, which have spring-legs above their feet, to leap therewith upon the earth.

22 These of them may ye eat: The locust after its kind, and the sol'am[b] after its kind, and the chargol after its kind, and the chagab after its kind.

23 But all flying insects, which have four feet, shall be an abomination unto you;

24 And through these shall ye be rendered unclean: whosoever toucheth the carcass of them shall be unclean until the evening;

25 And whosoever beareth aught of their carcass shall wash his clothes, and be unclean until the evening.

26 Every species of beast,[c] which divideth the hoof and is not cloven-footed nor cheweth the cud, is unclean unto you: every one that toucheth the same shall be unclean.

27 And all that walk upon their paws, among all manner of beasts that walk on four feet, are unclean unto you; whosoever toucheth their carcass shall be unclean until the evening.

28 And he that beareth their carcass shall wash his clothes, and be unclean until the evening: unclean shall they be unto you.

29 ¶ And these shall be unclean unto you among the creeping things that creep upon the earth: The weasel, and the mouse, and the tortoise after its kind,

30 And the hedgehog, and the chameleon, and the lizard, and the snail, and the mole.

31 These shall be unclean to you among all that creep: whosoever doth touch them, when they are dead, shall be unclean until the evening.

32 And every thing upon which any part of them, when they are dead, doth fall, shall be unclean; whether it be any vessel of wood, or raiment, or skin, or sack, every vessel wherewith any work can be done, must be put into water, and it shall be unclean until the evening, when it shall be clean.*

33 And every earthen vessel whereinto

[a] The meaning of some of the birds' names, like that of the stones in the breastplate, are of very uncertain signification. (See also Deut. xiv. 12–18.)

[b] All these are species of the locust—the particular kinds are not known; hence they are left untranslated, as has been done by Mendelssohn and Arnheim. The same uncertainty prevails concerning the animals mentioned in verses 30 and 31.

[c] In this the prohibition is rendered general, that any animal which has a hoof that is not divided through, though it be partially split, shall be unclean. The touching to render man unclean, refers to the carcass, not the living animal, as appears from the whole tenor of the precept given here with regard to uncleanness arising from touching unclean animals. Verse 27 interdicts all animals that have neither mark of cleanness before given.

any part of them falleth, whatsoever is in it shall be unclean; and itself shall ye break.

34 All kinds of food which may be eaten,[a] on which water cometh, shall be unclean: and all drink that may be drunk, shall be rendered unclean in every vessel.

35 And every thing whereupon any part of their carcass falleth, shall be unclean; an oven,[b] or ranges for pots, shall be broken down, they are unclean; and unclean shall they be unto you.

36 Nevertheless, a fountain, or pit, receptacles for water, shall be clean;[c] but he[d] that toucheth their carcass shall be unclean.

37 And if any part of their carcass fall upon any sowing-seed which hath been[e] sown, it shall be clean.

38 But if any water be put upon the seed, and any part of their carcass fall thereon, it shall be unclean unto you.

39 ¶ And if any cattle die, which is allowed to you as food: he that toucheth its carcass shall be unclean until the evening.

40 And he that eateth of its carcass shall wash his clothes, and be unclean until the evening; he also that beareth its carcass shall wash his clothes, and be unclean until the evening.

41 And every creeping thing that creepeth upon the earth is an abomination, it shall not be eaten.

42 Whatsoever goeth upon the belly, and whatsoever goeth upon four feet, down to whatsoever hath many feet among all creeping things that creep upon the earth, shall ye not eat; for they are an abomination.

43 Ye shall not make yourselves abominable with any creeping thing that creepeth; and ye shall not make yourselves unclean with them, that ye should be defiled thereby.

44 For I am the LORD your God; ye shall therefore sanctify yourselves, and ye shall be holy; for I am holy: neither shall ye make yourselves unclean with any manner of creeping thing that creepeth upon the earth.*

45 For I am the LORD that have brought you up out of the land of Egypt, to be your God; ye shall therefore be holy, for I am holy.

46 This is the law of the beasts, and of the fowl, and of every living creature that moveth in the waters, and of every creature that creepeth upon the earth:

47 To distinguish between the unclean and the clean, and between the beast that may be eaten and the beast that may not be eaten.

SECTION XXVII. TAZREEANG, תזריע

CHAPTER XII.

1 ¶ And the LORD spoke unto Moses, saying,

2 Speak unto the children of Israel, saying, If a woman have conceived seed, and born a male child: then shall she be unclean seven days, even as in the days of the separation for her infirmity shall she be unclean.

3 And on the eighth day shall the flesh of his foreskin be circumcised.

4 And thirty and three days shall she then continue in the blood of her purification; any thing hallowed shall she not touch, and into the sanctuary shall she not come, until the days of her purification be at an end.

5 But if she bear a female child, then shall she be unclean two weeks, as in her separation; and sixty and six days shall she continue in the blood of the purification.

6 And at the completion of the days of her purification, for a son, or for a daughter, she shall bring a sheep of the first year for a burnt-offering, and a young pigeon, or a turtle-dove, for a sin-offering, unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, unto the priest.

7 And he shall bring it near before the LORD, and make an atonement for her, and she shall be cleansed from the issue of her blood; this is the law for her that hath given birth to a male or to a female.

8 And if her means will not suffice for a lamb, then shall she take two turtle-doves, or two young pigeons, the one for a burnt-offering, and the other for a sin-offering; and the priest shall make an atonement for her, and she shall be clean.

[b] Tradition defines these to mean movable earthen ovens and ranges.

CHAPTER XIII.

1 ¶ And the LORD spoke unto Moses and unto Aaron, saying,

2 If a man shall have in the skin of his flesh a swelling,[a] a rising, or a bright spot, and it might become[b] in the skin of his flesh the plague of leprosy: then shall he be brought unto Aaron the priest, or unto one of his sons the priests.

3 And if the priest shall see the plague in the skin of the flesh, and the hair in the plague be turned white, and the appearance of the plague be deeper than the skin of his flesh: it is a plague of leprosy; and (so soon as) the priest shall see him, he shall pronounce him unclean.

4 But if it be a white bright spot in the skin of his flesh, and its appearance be not deeper than the skin, and the hair be not turned white: then shall the priest shut up the plague seven days.

5 And the priest shall see him on the seventh day; and, behold, if the plague have remained unchanged in its appearance, the plague have not spread in the skin: then shall the priest shut him up seven days more.*

6 And the priest shall see him again on the seventh day; and, behold, if the plague be somewhat pale, and the plague have not spread in the skin: then shall the priest pronounce him clean; it is a rising, and he shall wash his clothes, and be clean.

7 But if the rising should spread abroad in the skin, after he hath been seen by the priest for his cleansing, he shall be seen again by the priest.

8 And if the priest see that, behold, the rising have spread abroad in the skin, then shall the priest pronounce him unclean: it is leprosy.

9 ¶ If the plague of leprosy happen to be on a man, then shall he be brought unto the priest;

10 And the priest shall see, and, behold, if there be a white swelling in the skin, and the hair in it have turned white, or[c] there be a trace of healthy[d] flesh in the swelling:

11 It is an inveterate leprosy in the skin of his flesh, and the priest shall pronounce him unclean; he shall not shut him up, for he is unclean.

12 And if the leprosy break out abroad in the skin, and the leprosy cover all the skin of (him that hath) the plague from his head even to the feet, so far as the eyes of the priest can see:

13 If now the priest should see, that, behold, the leprosy have covered all his flesh, he shall pronounce the plague clean; it is all turned white, he is clean.

14 But on the day that healthy flesh appeareth therein, he shall be unclean.

15 And the priest shall see the healthy flesh, and pronounce him to be unclean; the healthy flesh is unclean, it is the leprosy.

16 Or if the healthy flesh turn again, and be changed unto white, he shall come unto the priest;

17 And if the priest see him, and, behold, the plague be turned into white: then shall the priest pronounce the plague[e] clean, he is clean.*

18 ¶ And if there be a person who hath had in his skin an inflammation, and hath been healed,

19 And if there be on the place of the inflammation a white swelling, or a white and dark red[f] bright spot, he shall be shown to the priest;

[a] This is according to the version of Mendelssohn. Arnheim renders כפחת "tetter," or a tetter-like affection. Jonathan gives it with קלופי "peeling," "scale," or "scab." Philippson translates שאת simply with "spot," and comments that this is the first symptom of leprosy: this view explains quite naturally the "depression" spoken of in the next verse.

[b] Both Mendelssohn and Arnheim translate והיה as here given: it means then, that so soon as there is an appearance which might terminate in leprosy, the patient shall be brought to the priest for inspection.

[c] Tradition requires us to render "or," as Mendelssohn does. Arnheim and others give it with "and."

[d] Others translate this with "raw flesh."

[e] "Plague" stands for "him who hath the plague."

[f] This version of "dark red" is after Mendelssohn, who views after the Rabbins, ארכרם and ירקרק as the intensives of ארם and ירק, therefore "dark red, dark green." The verse should then be explained, that there be upon the place where a wound or a sore has been in the skin a swelling or spot not decidedly white, but intermingled with dark red streaks, which peculiar appearance is a distinctive mark of leprosy, not of a scar of the wound, if the other signs, the depression of the skin and the white hair, should be present. The same is the case with the next section.

20 And if the priest see, and, behold, its appearance be lower than the skin, and the hair thereof have been turned white: then shall the priest pronounce him unclean, it is the plague of leprosy broken out in the inflammation.

21 But if the priest see it, and, behold, there be no white hair therein, and if it be not lower than the skin, and it be pale: then shall the priest shut him up seven days.

22 And if it now spread abroad in the skin, then shall the priest pronounce him unclean: it is the plague (of leprosy).

23 But if the bright spot remain in its place, and spread not, it is a scar of the inflammation; and the priest shall pronounce him clean.*

24 ¶ Or if there be a person in whose skin there is a place burnt by fire, and the mark of the burning become a bright spot, white and dark red, or white;

25 And if the priest see it, and, behold, the hair in the bright spot have been turned white, and its appearance be deeper than the skin: it is leprosy, broken out in the fire-wound; and the priest shall pronounce him unclean, it is the plague of leprosy.

26 But if the priest see it, and, behold, there be in the bright spot no white hair, and it be not lower than the skin, and it be pale: then shall the priest shut him up seven days.

27 And the priest shall see him on the seventh day; if now it have spread abroad in the skin, then shall the priest pronounce him unclean: it is the plague of leprosy.

28 And if the bright spot remain in its place, (and) it have not spread abroad in the skin, and it be pale: it is a swelling of the fire-wound; and the priest shall pronounce him clean; for it is a scar of the fire-wound.*

29 ¶ And if there be a man or woman on whom there arise a plague, on the head or on the beard;

30 Then shall the priest see the plague; and, behold, if its appearance be deeper than the skin, and there be in it a yellow thin hair: then shall the priest pronounce him unclean, it is a dry scall, it is the leprosy of the head or of the beard.

31 And if the priest see the plague of the scall, and, behold, its appearance be not deeper than the skin, and there be no black hair in it: then shall the priest shut up the plague of the scall seven days.

32 And the priest shall see the plague on the seventh day; and, behold, if the scall have not spread, and there be in it no yellow hair, and the appearance of the scall be not deeper than the skin:

33 Then shall he be shaved, but the scall he shall not shave; and the priest shall shut up the scall seven days more.

34 And the priest shall see the scall on the seventh day; and, behold, if the scall have not spread in the skin, and its appearance be not deeper than the skin: then shall the priest pronounce him clean, and he shall wash his clothes, and be clean.

35 But if the scall should spread[a] abroad in the skin after his being pronounced clean:

36 Then shall the priest see him; and, behold, if the scall have spread in the skin, the priest shall not seek for the yellow hair; he is unclean.

37 But if the scall have remained stationary in its colour, and black hair have grown up therein: the scall is then healed, he is clean; and the priest shall pronounce him clean.

38 ¶ And if there be a man or a woman having in the skin of their flesh bright spots, white bright spots;

39 And if the priest do see, and, behold, there are in the skin of their flesh bright spots, pale and white: it is a freckly eruption grown in the skin; he is clean.*

40 ¶ And if there be a man whose hair of the head fall off, he is a bald head; he is clean.

41 And if from the side of his face his hair fall off, he is forehead-bald; he is clean.

42 But if there be on the bald head, or the bald forehead, an eruption, white and dark red: it is the leprosy sprung up on his bald head, or his bald forehead.

43 And the priest shall see him; and, behold, if the swelling of the eruption be white and dark red on his bald head, or on his bald forehead, like the appearance of the leprosy on the (other parts of the) skin of the flesh:

44 He is a leprous man, he is unclean;

[a] The spreading of the disorder being a sign of uncleanness, it is equally so whether it happen during the time that the leper is shut up, and before the decision of the priest, or after he has pronounced him clean.

the priest shall pronounce him unclean; his plague is on his head.

45 And the leper on whom the plague is, his clothes shall be rent, and his head shall be bare,[a] and he shall cover himself up to his upper lip, and, Unclean, unclean, shall he call out.

46 All the days whereon the plague which rendereth unclean is on him, he shall be unclean; alone shall he dwell; without the camp shall his habitation be.

47 ¶ And if there be a garment on which there arise a plague of leprosy, whether it be on a woollen garment, or on a linen garment;

48 Whether it be on the warp,[b] or on the woof; of linen, or of woollen; whether on a skin, or on any thing made of skin;

49 And the plague be dark green or dark red, on the garment, or on the skin, or on the warp, or on the woof, or on any article made of skin: it is the plague of leprosy; and it shall be shown unto the priest.

50 And the priest shall see the plague, and shut up the plague seven days.

51 And if he see the plague on the seventh day, that the plague have spread in the garment, either in the warp, or in the woof, or in the skin, or in any article that is made of skin: the plague is a corroding[c] leprosy; it is unclean.

52 And he shall then burn that garment, whether warp or woof, in woollen or in linen, or any article of skin, whereon the plague is; for it is a corroding leprosy, in fire shall it be burnt.

53 And if the priest shall see, and, behold, the plague have not spread on the garment, either on the warp, or on the woof, or on any article of skin:

54 Then shall the priest command that they wash the thing whereon the plague is, and he shall shut it up seven days more.*

55 And if the priest see, after the plague hath been washed, and, behold, the plague have not changed its colour, and the plague have not spread: it is unclean, in fire shalt thou burn it; it is a decay on its inside or on its outside.

56 And if the priest see, and, behold, the plague have become pale after its having been washed: then shall he tear it out from the garment, or from the skin, or from the warp, or from the woof.*

57 And if it appear again on the garment, either on the warp, or on the woof, or on any instrument of skin: it is a growing plague; with fire shalt thou burn that whereon the plague is.

58 And the garment, either the warp or the woof, or every instrument of skin, which thou shalt wash, and the plague depart therefrom, shall be washed the second time, when it shall be clean.

59 This is the law of the plague of leprosy on a garment of woollen or of linen, either in the warp, or the woof, or any article of skin, to pronounce it clean, or unclean.

Haphtorah in 2 Kings iv. 42 to v. 19.

SECTION XXVIII. METZORANG, מצרע.

CHAPTER XIV.

1 ¶ And the LORD spoke unto Moses, saying,

2 This shall be the law of the leper on the day of his being cleansed: He shall be brought unto the priest.

3 And the priest shall go forth[d] to without the camp; and if the priest see, and, behold, the plague of leprosy be healed on the leper:

4 Then shall the priest command to take for him that is to be cleansed two healthy, clean birds,[e] and cedar wood, and a string of scarlet yarn, and hyssop.

5 And the priest shall command that one

[a] "He shall let his hair grow long."—RASHI. And after this manner פרע has been rendered above, x. 6; perhaps this word includes both ideas.

[b] Philippson renders "plain woven or twilled stuff of linen or wool."

[c] In verse 49 the words "it is the plague of leprosy" are used, without its being thereby decided whether the garment, &c., be unclean or not, which is not the case with human beings who are unclean, when the leprosy is evident. Garments, however, need to be affected with a leprosy מכאת or פתחת "corrosion" or decay," before they can be pronounced unclean.—After ARNHEIM.

[d] The bringing before the priest, in the preceding verse, is explained in this, that he is to go out of the camp to the dwelling of the leper, to satisfy himself whether or not the leper can return unto the camp after the next prescribed ceremonies have been performed.

[e] Clean birds, means those which are permitted to be eaten, consequently none of the prohibited kinds could be taken. חיות is rendered here, "healthy," but not "living," in accordance with tradition. (See also Exodus i. 19.)

of the birds be killed in an earthen vessel over running water.

6 As for the living bird, he shall take it, and the cedar wood, and the string of scarlet yarn, and the hyssop, and he shall dip these and the living bird into the blood of the bird that was killed over the running water:

7 And he shall sprinkle upon him that is to be cleansed from the leprosy seven times; and when he hath cleansed him, he shall let the living bird fly forth into the open field.

8 And he that is to be cleansed shall wash his clothes, and shave off all his hair, and wash himself in water, and he shall be clean, and after that he may come into the camp; but he shall tarry outside of his tent seven days.

9 And it shall be on the seventh day, that he shall shave off all his hair, his head, and his beard, and his eyebrows, even all his hair shall he shave off: and he shall wash his clothes, he shall also wash his flesh[a] in water, when he shall be clean.

10 And on the eighth day he shall take two sheep without blemish, and one ewe of the first year without blemish, and three-tenth parts of fine flour for a meat-offering, mingled with oil, and one log of oil.

11 And the priest who cleanseth shall cause the man that is to be made clean, and these things, to stand before the LORD, at the door of the tabernacle of the congregation:

12 And the priest shall take the one sheep, and offer the same for a trespass-offering, with the log of oil; and he shall make with them a waving before the LORD.*

13 And he shall slay the sheep on the place where the sin-offering and the burnt-offering are killed, in the holy place; for as the sin-offering[b] so doth the trespass-offering belong to the priest: it is most holy.

14 And the priest shall take some of the blood of the trespass-offering; and the priest shall put it upon the tip of the right ear of him that is to be cleansed, and upon the thumb of his right hand, and upon the great toe of his right foot.

15 And the priest shall take some of the log of oil, and pour it into the palm of his own left hand.

16 And the priest shall dip his finger of the right hand in the oil that is in his left hand, and he shall sprinkle of the oil with his finger seven times before the LORD.

17 And of the rest of the oil that is in his hand shall the priest put upon the tip of the right ear of him that is to be cleansed, and upon the thumb of his right hand, and upon the great toe of his right foot, upon the blood of the trespass-offering.

18 And what is left of the oil that is in the priest's hand, he shall put upon the head of him that is to be cleansed: and the priest shall (thus) make an atonement for him before the LORD.

19 And the priest shall prepare the sin-offering, and make an atonement for him that is to be cleansed from his uncleanness; and afterward shall he kill the burnt-offering:

20 And the priest shall offer the burnt-offering and the meat-offering upon the altar; and the priest shall (thus) make an atonement for him, and he shall be clean.*

21 ¶ But if he be poor, and his means do not suffice, then shall he take one sheep for a trespass-offering to be waved, to make an atonement for him; and one-tenth part of fine flour mingled with oil for a meat-offering, and a log of oil;

22 And two turtle-doves, or two young pigeons, for which his means suffice; and one shall be a sin-offering, and the other a burnt-offering.

23 And he shall bring them on the eighth day of his being cleansed unto the priest, unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, before the LORD.

24 And the priest shall take the sheep of the trespass-offering, and the log of oil; and the priest shall make with them a waving before the LORD.

25 And he shall kill the sheep of the trespass-offering; and the priest shall take some of the blood of the trespass-offering, and put it upon the tip of the right ear of him that is to be cleansed, and upon the thumb of his right hand, and upon the great toe of his right foot.

26 And some of the oil shall the priest pour into the palm of his own left hand:

[a] This phrase, used here and elsewhere, means simply "to bathe the whole body at once."

[b] This is explained thus: As the blood of the sin-offering must be sprinkled, and the fat thereof be burnt upon the altar, before the priest can eat of it, so is it with the present trespass-offering; although in this place it is merely ordered that the blood be put upon the man that is to be cleansed.

27 And the priest shall sprinkle with his finger of the right hand some of the oil that is in his left hand, seven times before the LORD;

28 And the priest shall put of the oil that is in his hand upon the tip of the right ear of him that is to be cleansed, and upon the thumb of his right hand, and upon the great toe of his right foot; upon the place[a] of the blood of the trespass-offering;

29 And what is left of the oil that is in the priest's hand he shall put upon the head of him that is to be cleansed, to make an atonement for him before the LORD.

30 And he shall offer the one of the turtle-doves, or of the young pigeons, from what his means enable him (to bring);

31 Even what his means enable him, the one for a sin-offering, and the other for a burnt-offering, with the meat-offering:[b] and the priest shall (thus) make an atonement for him that is to be cleansed, before the LORD.

32 This is the law of him on whom is the plague of leprosy, whose means are not sufficient when he is cleansed.*

33 ¶ And the LORD spoke unto Moses and unto Aaron, saying,

34 When ye come into the land of Canaan, which I give to you for a possession, and I put the plague of leprosy on a house of the land of your possession:

35 Then shall he that owneth the house come and tell the priest, saying, Something[c] like a leprosy hath shown itself to me in the house.

36 And the priest shall command that they clear out the house, before the priest go into it to see the plague, that all be not made unclean that is in the house: and after this shall the priest go in to see the house.

37 And he shall view the plague, and, behold, if the plague be in the walls of the house, in depressions, dark green or dark red, and their appearance be deeper than the wall:

38 Then shall the priest go out of the house to the door of the house, and lock up the house seven days.

39 And the priest shall come again on the seventh day; and if he see, that, behold, the plague have spread in the walls of the house:

40 Then shall the priest command that they break out the stones on which the plague is; and they shall cast them forth without the city on an unclean place.

41 And the house he shall cause to be scraped within round about; and they shall pour out the rubbish[d] that they have scraped off without the city on an unclean place;

42 And they shall take other stones, and put them into the place of these stones; and other mortar shall he take, and shall plaster the house.

43 And if the plague come again, and break out in the house, after he hath taken away the stones, and after the house hath been scraped, and after it hath been plastered:

44 Then shall the priest come; and if he see that, behold, the plague have spread in the house, it is a corrosive leprosy in the house; it is unclean.

45 And he shall break down the house, its stones, and the timbers thereof, and all the mortar of the house; and he shall carry them forth to without the city, unto an unclean place.

46 And he that goeth into the house, all the days that it is locked up, shall be unclean until the evening.

47 And he that lieth in the house shall wash his clothes; and he that eateth in the house shall wash his clothes.

48 But if the priest should come in, and see, and, behold, the plague have not spread in the house, after the house was plastered: then shall the priest pronounce the house clean, because the plague is healed.

49 And he shall take, to atone[e] for the

[a] That is, upon the spot where the blood of the sacrifice has been put, there shall the oil also be applied, though in the mean time the blood may have been removed therefrom.

[b] The offering of flour which accompanied the trespass-sacrifice, but not a special gift; this meat-offering was not eaten, and but burnt on the altar.

[c] "Even if he be a man learned in the law, and knows it to be leprosy, he is not to pronounce absolutely 'A plague has shown itself,' but 'something like a plague.'" —RASHI.

[d] עפר otherwise "dust," is rendered here, according to Arnheim, with "rubbish," or the "old mortar;" and in the next verse it is given with "mortar."

[e] The word לחטא in the Piel form, means, to remove חטאת or "sin," therefore, "to remove the sin of the house," or simply "to atone for the house;" in this sense it is the same with לכפר "to make an atonement," wherefore both words have been given here with the same English term. The leprosy of a house was considered as a punishment for the owner; hence the atonement.

house, two birds, and cedar wood, and a string of scarlet yarn, and hyssop;

50 And he shall kill the one bird in an earthen vessel over running water;

51 And he shall take the cedar wood, and the hyssop, and the scarlet yarn, and the living bird, and dip them in the blood of the slain bird, and in the running water, and sprinkle on the house seven times:

52 And he shall atone for the house with the blood of the bird, and with the running water, and with the living bird, and with the cedar wood, and with the hyssop, and with the string of scarlet yarn;

53 But he shall let fly forth the living bird out of the city into the open field, and make (thus) an atonement for the house, and it shall be clean.*

54 This is the law for all manner of plague of leprosy, and scall,

55 And for the leprosy of a garment and of a house,

56 And for a swelling, and for a rising, and for a bright spot;

57 To teach on the day when something is unclean, and on the day when it is clean: this is the law of the leprosy.

CHAPTER XV.

1 ¶ And the LORD spoke unto Moses and to Aaron, saying,

2 Speak unto the children of Israel, and say unto them, When any man have a running issue out of his flesh: because of his issue is he unclean.

3 And this shall be his uncleanness in his issue: whether his flesh run with his issue, or his flesh be stopped from his issue, it is his uncleanness.

4 Every bed, whereon he may lie that hath the issue, shall be unclean: and every vessel, whereon he may sit, shall be unclean.

5 And any man that toucheth his bed shall wash his clothes, and bathe himself in water, and be unclean until the evening.

6 And he that sitteth on any vessel whereon he that hath the issue may sit, shall wash his clothes, and bathe himself in water, and be unclean until the evening.

7 And he that toucheth the flesh of him that hath the issue shall wash his clothes, and bathe himself in water, and be unclean until the evening.

8 And if he that hath the issue spit upon him that is clean: then shall this one wash his clothes, and bathe himself in water, and be unclean until the evening.

9 And what saddle soever he that hath the issue may ride upon shall be unclean.

10 And whosoever toucheth any thing, that may be under him, shall be unclean until the evening: and he that beareth any of these things shall wash his clothes, and bathe himself in water, and be unclean until the evening.

11 And whomsoever he that hath the issue may touch, and he have not rinsed his hands[a] in water, shall wash his clothes, and bathe himself in water, and be unclean until the evening.

12 And an earthen vessel that he who hath the issue may touch, shall be broken; and every vessel of wood shall be rinsed in water.

13 And when he that hath an issue becometh clean of his issue: then shall he number to himself seven days for his cleansing, and wash his clothes, and bathe his flesh in running water, and then shall he be clean.

14 And on the eighth day shall he take unto himself two turtle-doves, or two young pigeons, and come before the LORD, unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, and give them unto the priest:

15 And the priest shall offer them, the one for a sin-offering, and the other for a burnt-offering; and the priest shall make an atonement for him before the LORD for his issue.*

16 ¶ And if any man's seed of copulation go out from him, then shall he bathe all his flesh in water, and be unclean until the evening.

17 And any garment, and any skin, whereon the seed of copulation may be, shall be washed with water, and be unclean until the evening.

18 And if a man should lie with a woman with seed of copulation, then shall they bathe themselves in water, and be unclean until the evening.

19 ¶ And if a woman have an issue, so that blood flow from her flesh: then shall she be in her state of separation seven days; and whosoever toucheth her shall be unclean until the evening.

20 And every thing that she may lie upon

[a] This is explained to mean that he hath not bathed himself after the termination of the disease.

in her separation shall be unclean: and whatever she may sit upon shall be unclean.

21 And whosoever toucheth her bed shall wash his clothes, and bathe himself in water, and be unclean until the evening.

22 And whosoever toucheth any vessel, that she may sit upon, shall wash his clothes, and bathe himself in water, and be unclean until the evening.

23 And if something be on the bed, or on any thing whereon she may sit, when he toucheth it, he shall be unclean until the evening.

24 And if any man should lie with her, and the uncleanness of her separation come upon him, he shall be unclean seven days; and every bed whereon he may lie shall be unclean.

25 ¶ And if a woman have an issue of her blood many days out of the time of her separation, or if it run beyond the time of her separation: all the days of the issue of her uncleanness shall she be as in the days of her separation; she shall be unclean.

26 Every bed whereon she may lie all the days of her issue shall be unto her as the bed of her separation; and whatever vessel she may sit upon shall be unclean, as the uncleanness of her separation.

27 And whosoever toucheth these things shall be unclean; and he shall wash his clothes, and bathe himself in water, and be unclean until the evening.

28 And when she becometh clean of her issue, then shall she number to herself seven days, and after that shall she be clean.*

29 And on the eighth day shall she take unto herself two turtle-doves, or two young pigeons, and bring them unto the priest, to the door of the tabernacle of the congregation.

30 And the priest shall offer the one for a sin-offering, and the other for a burnt-offering; and the priest shall make an atonement[a] for her before the LORD for the issue of her uncleanness.*

31 And ye shall separate the children of Israel from their uncleanness; that they may not die in their uncleanness, when they defile my tabernacle that is in their midst.

32 This is the law of him that hath an issue, and of him whose seed goeth from him, and is defiled therewith;

33 And of her that is suffering in her separation, and of him that hath an issue, of the man, and of the woman, and of him that lieth with her that is unclean.

Haphtorah in 2 Kings vii. 3 to 20.

SECTION XXIX. ACHARAY MOTH, אחרי מות.

CHAPTER XVI.

1 ¶ And the LORD spoke unto Moses after the death of the two sons of Aaron, when they had come near before the LORD, and died:

2 And the LORD said unto Moses, Speak unto Aaron thy brother, that he come not at all times into the holy place within the vail, before the mercy-seat, which is upon the ark, that he die not; for in the cloud will I appear upon the mercy-seat.

3 With this shall Aaron come into the holy place: with a young bullock for a sin-offering, and a ram for a burnt-offering.

4 A holy linen[b] coat shall he put on, and linen breeches shall he have upon his flesh, and with a linen girdle shall he gird himself, and a linen mitre shall he bind on his head; these are holy garments; therefore shall he wash his flesh in water, and then put them on.

5 And from the congregation of the children of Israel shall he take two goats for a sin-offering, and one ram for a burnt-offering.

6 And Aaron shall bring near the bullock of the sin-offering, which is for himself, and make an atonement for himself, and for his house.

7 And he shall take the two goats, and place them before the LORD at the door of the tabernacle of the congregation.

8 And Aaron shall put lots upon the two goats; one lot "for the LORD," and the other lot "for 'Azazel."[c]

[a] As all leprosy and kindred uncleanness were considered as a punishment for sin, the leper or other sufferer had to bring a proper sacrifice at the period of his purification, to obtain atonement for the guilt which had caused his visitation.

[b] Not with the usual eight ornamental garments of his order, but in plain white attire should the priest enter the holy of holies; these articles are therefore pre-eminently called holy.

[c] "Scapegoat," Eng. ver.; but there is no reason for so giving it. The whole service of the day of atonement according to our tradition, is correctly described in the 'Abodah of the Moossaph for Kippur, according to the custom of the Sephardim, to which the reader is referred.

9 And Aaron shall bring near the goat upon which fell the lot "for the LORD," and offer him for a sin-offering.

10 But the goat on which fell the lot "for 'Azazel," shall be placed alive before the LORD, to make an atonement with him, by sending him away to 'Azazel into the wilderness.

11 And Aaron shall bring near the bullock of the sin-offering, which is for himself, and he shall make[a] an atonement for himself, and for his house; and he shall kill the bullock of the sin-offering which is for himself.

12 And he shall take a censer full of burning coals of fire from off the altar before the LORD, and both his hands full of incense of spices, pounded fine, and bring it within the vail;

13 And he shall put the incense upon the fire, before the LORD; that the cloud of the incense may envelop the mercy-seat that is upon the testimony, that he die not.

14 And he shall take of the blood of the bullock, and sprinkle it with his finger above toward the mercy-seat,[b] eastward; and before the mercy-seat shall he sprinkle seven times of the blood with his finger.

15 And he shall kill the goat of the sin-offering, that is for the people, and bring his blood to within the vail, and do with that blood as he did with the blood of the bullock, and sprinkle it above the mercy-seat, and before the mercy-seat.

16 And he shall make an atonement for the holy place, because of the uncleanness[c] of the children of Israel, and because of their transgressions in all their sins: and so shall he do for the tabernacle of the congregation, that abideth among them in the midst of their uncleanness.

17 And there shall not be any man in the tabernacle of the congregation when he goeth in to make an atonement in the holy place, until he come out: and so shall he make an atonement for himself, and for his household, and for the whole congregation of Israel.*

18 And he shall then go out unto the altar that is before the LORD, and make an atonement upon it; and he shall take of the blood of the bullock, and of the blood of the goat, and put it upon the horns of the altar round about.

19 And he shall sprinkle upon it of the blood with his finger seven times; and he shall cleanse it, and hallow it from the uncleanness of the children of Israel.

20 And when he hath made an end of atoning for the holy place, and the tabernacle of the congregation, and the altar: then shall he bring near the live goat.

21 And Aaron shall lay both his hands upon the head of the live goat, and confess over him all the iniquities of the children of Israel, and all their transgressions in all their sins, putting them upon the head of the goat, and he shall send him away by the hand of a man appointed thereto into the wilderness:

22 And the goat shall bear upon him all their iniquities unto a land not inhabited; and so shall he send away the goat into the wilderness.

23 And Aaron shall then go into the tabernacle of the congregation, and he shall take off the linen garments, which he had put on when he went into the holy place, and he shall leave them there:

24 And he shall bathe his flesh with water in a holy place, and put on his garments;[d] and come then forth, and offer his burnt-offering, and the burnt-offering of the people, and make an atonement for himself, and for the people.*

25 And the fat of the sin-offering shall he burn upon the altar.

26 And he that carrieth the goat to 'Azazel shall wash his clothes, and bathe his flesh in water, and afterward he may come into the camp.

27 And the bullock for the sin-offering, and the goat for the sin-offering, the blood of which was brought in to make atonement in the holy place, shall one carry forth without the camp; and they[e] shall burn in fire their skins, and their flesh, and their dung.

28[e] And he that burneth them shall wash

[a] i. e. By making a confession. (See the 'Abodah.)

[b] Meaning that the priest raised his hand in the direction above the cover of the ark and sprinkled the blood in the air, which fell then down on the floor; and so with the other seven sprinklings, where he directed his finger downward. (See the 'Abodah.)

[c] מטמאת is in the plural, and means, therefore, acts which cause uncleanness. So also in the end of this verse, and in verse 19.

[d] The usual ornamental garments of the high-priest, in which he officiated.

[e] Both יצא and ישרפו are indefinite in their meaning; "one" whoever he be that shall carry forth; and "they" whoever may be those who do the burning.

his clothes, and bathe his flesh in water, and afterward he may come into the camp.

29 And it shall be unto you a statute for ever: in the seventh month, on the tenth of the month, ye shall afflict yourselves (by fasting), and no work shall ye do, whether it be one of your own country, or the stranger that sojourneth among you;

30 For on that day shall (the high-priest) make an atonement for you, to cleanse you; from all your sins before the LORD shall ye be clean.

31 It shall be a sabbath of rest unto you, and ye shall afflict yourselves (by fasting), as a statute for ever.

32 And the priest, who shall be anointed, and who shall be consecrated[a] to minister as priest in his father's stead, shall make the atonement; and he shall put on the linen clothes, the holy garments.

33 And he shall make an atonement for the holy of holies; and for the tabernacle of the congregation, and for the altar shall he make an atonement; and also for the priests, and for all the people of the congregation shall he make an atonement.

34 And this shall be unto you as a statute for everlasting, to make an atonement for the children of Israel for all their sins once a year: and he did as the LORD had commanded Moses.*

CHAPTER XVII.

1 ¶ And the LORD spoke unto Moses, saying,

2 Speak unto Aaron, and unto his sons, and unto all the children of Israel, and say unto them, This is the thing which the LORD hath commanded, saying,

3 Any man whatsoever of the house of Israel, that killeth an ox, or a sheep, or a goat, in the camp, or that killeth it out of the camp,

4 And bringeth it not to the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, to offer it as an offering unto the LORD before the tabernacle of the LORD: as blood-guiltiness shall it be imputed unto that man, blood hath he shed; and that man shall be cut off from among his people.

5 In order that the children of Israel may bring their sacrifices, which they slay in the open field, and bring them unto the LORD, to the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, unto the priest, and slay them as sacrifices of peace-offerings unto the LORD.

6 And the priest shall sprinkle the blood upon the altar of the LORD at the door of the tabernacle of the congregation; and he shall burn the fat for a sweet savour unto the LORD.

7 So that they shall offer no more[b] their sacrifices unto evil spirits, after which they have gone astray: a statute for ever shall this be unto them throughout their generations.*

8 And unto them shalt thou say, Whatsoever man there be of the house of Israel, or of the strangers who may sojourn among them, that offereth a burnt-offering or a sacrifice,

9 And bringeth it not unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, to offer it unto the LORD: even that man shall be cut off from among his people.

10 And if there be any man of the house of Israel, or of the strangers that sojourn among them, that eateth any manner of blood: I will set my face against the person that eateth the blood, and I will cut him off from among his people.

11 For the life of the flesh is in the blood; and I have appointed it for you upon the altar to make an atonement for your souls; for the blood it is that maketh an atonement for the soul.[c]

12 Therefore have I said unto the children of Israel, No one of you shall eat blood, and the stranger that sojourneth among you shall not eat blood.

13 And if there be any man whatsoever of the children of Israel, or of the strangers that sojourn among them, who catcheth by

[a] This means, that whether the high-priest was anointed, as during the first temple, or was inducted into office by investiture with the high-priestly garments, as in the second, he should officiate in the place of Aaron.

[b] No doubt that, while in Egypt, the Israelites had learned to sacrifice to idols; they were therefore commanded, during their sojourn in the wilderness, to bring all sacrificial animals to the door of the tabernacle, to offer them to the LORD as peace-offerings, before being permitted to eat the flesh. שעירים "goat-demons," no doubt imaginary idols, like the satyrs of the Greeks.

[c] Arnheim renders, "For the blood itself maketh atonement through the life," and comments, i. e. "through the life that is in the same; for the atonement is upon the principle 'life for life;' in the blood itself, therefore, is only the principle of life, not the essence of atonement."

hunting any beast or fowl that may be eaten: then shall he pour[a] out the blood thereof, and cover it up with dust.

14 For the life of all flesh is its blood, on which its life[b] dependeth; therefore have I said unto the children of Israel, The blood of every manner of flesh shall ye not eat; for the life of all flesh is its blood, every one who eateth it shall be cut off.

15 And every person that eateth that which hath died of itself, or that which was torn by beasts, be this one born in your own country, or a stranger, shall both wash his clothes, and bathe himself in water, and be unclean until the evening, when he shall be clean.

16 But if he wash (them) not, nor bathe his flesh, then shall he bear his iniquity.

CHAPTER XVIII.

1 ¶ And the LORD spoke unto Moses, saying,

2 Speak unto the children of Israel, and say unto them, I am the LORD your God.

3 After the doings of the land of Egypt, wherein ye have dwelt, shall ye not do; and after the doings of the land of Canaan whither I am bringing you, shall ye not do; and in their customs shall ye not walk.

4 My ordinances shall ye do, and my statutes shall ye keep, to walk therein: I am the LORD your God.

5 And ye shall keep my statutes, and my ordinances, which if a man do, he shall live in them: I am the LORD.*

6 ¶ None of you shall approach to any that are near of kin to him, to uncover their nakedness: I am the LORD.

7 ¶ The nakedness of thy father, or the nakedness of thy mother, shalt thou not uncover: she is thy mother, thou shalt not uncover her nakedness.

8 ¶ The nakedness of thy father's wife shalt thou not uncover: it is thy father's nakedness.

9 ¶ The nakedness of thy sister, the daughter of thy father, or the daughter of thy mother, whether she be born at home, or born abroad,—even the nakedness of any of these, shalt thou not uncover.

10 ¶ The nakedness of thy son's daughter, or of thy daughter's daughter,—even the nakedness of any of these, shalt thou not uncover; for theirs is thy own nakedness.

11 ¶ The nakedness of thy father's wife's daughter, begotten of thy father, she is thy sister,—thou shalt not uncover her nakedness.

12 ¶ The nakedness of thy father's sister shalt thou not uncover: she is thy father's near kinswoman.

13 ¶ The nakedness of thy mother's sister shalt thou not uncover; for she is thy mother's near kinswoman.

14 ¶ The nakedness of thy father's brother shalt thou not uncover: his wife shalt thou not approach, she is thy aunt.

15 ¶ The nakedness of thy daughter-in-law shalt thou not uncover: she is thy son's wife, thou shalt not uncover her nakedness.

16 ¶ The nakedness of thy brother's wife shalt thou not uncover: it is thy brother's nakedness.

17 ¶ The nakedness of a woman and her daughter shalt thou not uncover: her son's daughter, or her daughter's daughter shalt thou not take, to uncover her nakedness; for they are near kinswomen; it is incest.

18 And a woman together with her sister shalt thou not take, to vex her,[c] to uncover her nakedness, beside the other, in her lifetime.

19 And a woman in the separation of her uncleanness shalt thou not approach, to uncover her nakedness.

20 And with thy neighbour's wife shalt thou not lie carnally, to defile thyself with her.

21 And any of thy seed shalt thou not let pass through (the fire) to Molech, and thou shalt not profane the name of thy God: I am the LORD.*

22 And with a man shalt thou not lie, as with a woman: it is an abomination.

23 And with any beast shalt thou not lie to defile thyself therewith; neither shall any

[a] i. e. By cutting the throat.

[b] Arnheim gives בנפשו with "its body;" thus, "is the blood in its body." The version in the text is after Rashi.

[c] לצרר is rendered by Mendelssohn "to excite jealousy." The evident construction of this verse, according to which Jewish authorities have always decided, is that only during the lifetime of the one is it prohibited to marry the other sister, even if a divorce should have taken place; but for this reason the prohibition also ceases when the cause given no longer operates.

woman stand before a beast to lie down thereto: it is confusion.

24 Do not defile yourselves through any of these things; for through all these have become defiled the nations which I cast out before you:

25 And the land became defiled; wherefore I have visited its iniquity upon it, and the land itself vomited out its inhabitants.*

26 Ye shall therefore keep my statutes and my ordinances, and ye shall not commit any of these abominations; neither any of your own nation, nor the stranger that sojourneth among you;

27 (For all these abominations have the men of the land done, who were before you, and the land hath become defiled;)*

28 That the land may not vomit you out also, when ye defile it, as it hath vomited out the nations that were before you.

29 For whosoever shall commit any of these abominations,—even the souls that commit them shall be cut off from among their people.

30 Therefore shall ye keep my charge, so that ye commit not any one of these abominable customs, which were committed before you, and that ye do not defile yourselves therewith: I am the LORD your God.

Haphtorah in Ezekiel xxii. 1 to 16. The Germans read to verse 18.

SECTION XXX. KEDOSHIM, קדשים.

CHAPTER XIX.

1 ¶ And the LORD spoke unto Moses, saying,

2 Speak unto all the congregation of the children of Israel, and say unto them, Ye shall be holy; for I the Eternal your God am holy.

3 Ye shall fear, every man, his mother and his father, and my sabbaths shall ye keep: I am the LORD your God.

4 Ye shall not turn unto the idols, and molten gods shall ye not make to yourselves: I am the LORD your God.

5 And if ye offer a sacrifice of peace-offering unto the LORD, ye shall offer it so that it may be favourably received from you.

6 On the same day ye offer it shall it be eaten, and on the morrow: and whatever is left until the third day, shall be burnt with fire.

7 And if the intention was that it should[a] be eaten on the third day, it is an abomination, it shall not be favourably received.

8 And whoever eateth it shall bear his iniquity; because he hath profaned the hallowed thing of the LORD: and that soul shall be cut off from among his people.

9 And when ye reap the harvest of your land, thou shalt not wholly reap the corners of thy field, neither shalt thou gather up the gleanings of thy harvest.

10 And thou shalt not glean thy vineyard, and the single grapes that drop in thy vineyard shalt thou not gather up; for the poor and the stranger shalt thou leave them: I am the LORD your God.

11 Ye shall not steal; neither shall ye deny[b] (another's property in your hands), nor lie one to another.

12 And ye shall not swear by my name falsely, and thou shalt not thus profane the name of thy God: I am the LORD.

13 Thou shalt not withhold any thing from thy neighbour, nor rob him: there shall not abide with thee the wages of him that is hired, through the night until morning.

14 Thou shalt not curse the deaf, nor put a stumbling-block before the blind; but thou shalt be afraid of thy God: I am the LORD.*

15 Ye shall do no unrighteousness in judgment; thou shalt not respect[c] the person of the poor, nor honour the person of the great; in righteousness shalt thou judge thy neighbour.

16 Thou shalt not go up and down as a talebearer among thy people; thou shalt not stand (idly) by the blood[d] of thy neighbour: I am the LORD.

17 Thou shalt not hate thy brother in thy heart: thou shalt indeed rebuke thy neighbour, and not bear sin on account of him.

18 Thou shalt not avenge, nor bear any grudge against the children of thy people; but thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself: I am the LORD.

[b] This is the version according to our authorities; see also above v. 21, where the different specifications are given.

[c] i. e. Not to favour the poor, nor to dread offending the great, but to act according to strict justice.

[d] i. e. Danger of life.

19 My statutes shall ye keep; thy cattle shalt thou not let gender with a diverse kind; thy field shalt thou not sow with mingled seeds; and a garment of mingled kinds, of linen and woollen, shall not come upon thee.

20 And if a man lie carnally with a woman, that is a bond-maid, betrothed to a man, but who hath neither been redeemed, nor hath her freedom been given her: there shall a scourging be decreed;[a] they shall not be put to death, because she was not free.

21 And he shall bring his trespass-offering unto the LORD, unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation: a ram for a trespass-offering.

22 And the priest shall make an atonement for him with the ram of the trespass-offering before the LORD for his sin which he hath done; and he shall be forgiven for his sin which he hath committed.*

23 ¶ And when ye come into the land, and plant any kind of tree bearing edible fruit, then shall ye count the fruit thereof as uncircumcised: three years shall it be as uncircumcised unto you, it shall not be eaten.

24 But in the fourth year shall all its fruit be holy for praisegiving[b] unto the LORD.

25 And in the fifth year shall ye eat of its fruit, in order that it may increase[c] unto you its productiveness: I am the LORD your God.

26 Ye shall not eat upon the blood;[d] nor shall ye use enchantment, nor observe times.

27 Ye shall not cut round the corners (of the hair) of your head, neither shalt thou destroy the corners of thy beard.

28 And for the dead shall ye not make any incision in your flesh; and any etched-in writing shall you not fix on yourselves: I am the LORD.

29 Do not profane thy daughter, to cause her to be a prostitute; lest the land fall to prostitution, and the land become full of incest.

30 My sabbaths shall ye keep, and my sanctuary shall ye reverence: I am the LORD.

31 Turn not unto them that have familiar spirits, and unto wizards; seek (them) not, to be defiled by them: I am the LORD your God.

32 Before the hoary head shalt thou rise up, and honour the face of the old man; and thou shalt be afraid of thy God: I am the LORD.*

33 ¶ And if a stranger sojourn with thee, in your land, ye shall not vex him.

34 As one born in the land among you, shall be unto you the stranger that sojourneth with you, and thou shalt love him as thyself; for ye were strangers in the land of Egypt: I am the LORD your God.

35 Ye shall do no unrighteousness in judgment, in meteyard, in weight, or in measure.

36 Just balances, just weights, a just ephah, and a just hin, shall ye have: I am the LORD your God, who have brought you forth out of the land of Egypt.

37 Ye shall therefore observe all my statutes, and all my ordinances, and do them: I am the LORD.*

CHAPTER XX.

1 ¶ And the LORD spoke unto Moses, saying,

2 And to the children of Israel shalt thou say, Whatsoever man of the children of Israel, or of the strangers that sojourn in Israel, that giveth any of his seed unto Molech, shall surely be put to death; the people of the land[e] shall stone him with stones.

3 And I will set my face against that man, and I will cut him off from among his people; because of his seed hath he given unto Molech, in order to defile my sanctuary,[f] and to profane my holy name.

[a] "She shall be scourged, not he."—RASHI.

[b] The fruit of the fourth year was to be eaten at Jerusalem, as a holy thing belonging to the owner.

[c] After Rashi. Philippson renders it, "That after this it may give you constantly more fruit," and comments, that after the fourth year, as the tree becomes naturally more productive, the fruit should belong undisturbed to the owner.

[d] This is variously explained: for instance, not to eat of the sacrifices till the blood be sprinkled; not to eat of any animal till life be entirely extinct by the running out of all the blood. Mendelssohn and others translate "near" or "by the blood." But Rashbam and Wesseli suppose that it was customary among heathens to eat upon the spot where the blood had run, from some superstitious notions; hence the Israelites were prohibited to follow this practice; and it connects therefore also with what follows.

[e] עם הארץ rendered above, iv. 27, "common people," includes all Israelites except the king, the high-priest, and the great sanhedrin of seventy-one. Rashi adds, "If the court be not able to enforce the decree, the people should aid them."

[f] Whatever acts tend to withdraw the people from the worship of God, or to divert any thing to the service of idols, is a profanation of the divine Majesty who promised

4 And if the people of the land should in any way hide their eyes from that man, when he giveth of his seed unto Molech, so as not to kill him:

5 Then will I set my face against that man, and against his family, and I will cut him off, and all that go astray after him, to go astray after Molech, from among their people.

6 And the person that turneth unto such as have familiar spirits, and unto wizards, to go astray after them,—then will I set my face against that person, and will cut him off from among his people.

7 Sanctify yourselves therefore, and be ye holy; for I am the LORD your God.*

8 And ye shall keep my statutes, and do them: I am the LORD who sanctify you.

9 For every one whatever that curseth his father or his mother shall be put to death: his father or his mother hath he cursed, his blood shall be upon him.

10 And if there be a man that committeth adultery with a man's wife, (whoever it be) that committeth adultery with his neighbour's wife: then shall the adulterer be put to death, together with the adulteress.

11 And a man that lieth with his father's wife, hath uncovered his father's nakedness: both of them shall be put to death; their blood shall be upon them.

12 And if a man lie with his daughter-in-law, both of them shall be put to death: they have committed an unnatural deed; their blood shall be upon them.

13 And if a man lie with a male, as they lie with a woman, both of them have committed an abomination: they shall be put to death; their blood shall be upon them.

14 And if a man take a woman and her mother, it is incest: in fire shall they burn him and them; that there be no incest among you.

15 And a man that lieth with a beast shall be put to death: and the beast also shall ye slay.

16 And if a woman approach unto any beast to lie down thereto, then shalt thou kill the woman, and the beast: they shall be put to death; their blood shall be put upon them.

17 And if a man take his sister, the daughter of his father, or the daughter of his mother, and he see her nakedness, and she see his nakedness: it is a disgraceful deed; and they shall be cut off before the eyes of their people; the nakedness of his sister hath he uncovered; his iniquity shall he bear.

18 And if a man lie with a woman suffering of her separation, and uncover her nakedness, and he lay open her fountain, and she uncover the fountain of her blood: then shall both of them be cut off from the midst of their people.

19 And the nakedness of thy mother's sister, or of thy father's sister shalt thou not uncover; for his near of kin he uncovereth: their iniquity shall they bear.

20 And the man that lieth with his uncle's wife, hath uncovered his uncle's nakedness: their sin shall they bear; childless shall they die.

21 And if a man do take his brother's wife, it is an abominable act: the nakedness of his brother hath he uncovered; childless shall they remain.

22 And keep ye all my statutes, and all my ordinances, and do them; that the land, whither I bring you to dwell therein, may not vomit[a] you forth.*

23 And ye shall not walk in the customs of the nation which I cast out before you; for all these things they committed, and therefore I felt loathing for them.

24 And I said unto you, Ye shall possess their land, and I will give it unto you to possess it, a land flowing with milk and honey: I am the Eternal your God, who have separated you from the nations.*

25 Ye shall therefore make a difference between the clean beast and the unclean, and between the unclean fowl and the clean; and ye shall not make your souls abominable by the beast, or by the fowl, or by any manner of thing that creepeth on the ground, which I have separated for you as unclean.

26 And ye shall be holy unto me, for I the LORD am holy; and I have separated you from the nations, that ye should be mine.

to dwell in Israel. If then a man devotes his offspring to the fire of Molech, he profanes the children of the covenant, given to him by God, to an object abhorrent to the Deity, while at the same time his example, should he remain unpunished, would mislead others to acts of wickedness, though they even might not reach the greatness of his transgressions.

[a] i. e. Cast out, as it were, the sinners dwelling in it.

27 And if there be among men or women one that hath a familiar spirit, or that is a wizard, they[a] shall be put to death; with stones shall they stone them; their blood shall be upon them.

Haphtorah in Amos ix. 7 to 15. The Portuguese read in Ezekiel xx. 2 to 20. Others begin at verse 1.

SECTION XXXI. EMORE, אמר.

CHAPTER XXI.

1 ¶ And the LORD said unto Moses, Speak unto the priests the sons of Aaron, and say unto them, None (of them) shall defile himself on the dead, among[b] his people;

2 But on his kin, that is near unto him, (that is,) on his mother, and on his father, and on his son, and on his daughter, and on his brother,

3 And on his sister that is a virgin, that is nigh unto him, who hath had no husband; on her may he defile himself.

4 The chief[c] man among his people shall not defile himself, to be profaned thereby.

5 They shall not make any baldness upon their head, and the corner of their beard shall they not shave off, and in their flesh shall they not make any incision.

6 Holy shall they be unto their God, and they shall not profane the name of their God; for the fire-offerings of the LORD, the bread of their God, do they offer, they shall therefore be holy.

7 A woman that is a harlot, or one profaned, shall they not take; and a woman put away from her husband shall they not take; for holy[d] is he unto his God.

8 And thou shalt sanctify him;[e] for the bread of thy God doth he offer: holy shall he be unto thee; for I the LORD, who sanctify you, am holy.

9 And if the daughter of any priest profane herself by committing incest, her father doth she profane: with fire shall she be burnt.

10 ¶ And the priest that is highest among his brethren, upon whose head the anointing oil hath been poured, and who hath been consecrated to put on the garments, shall not let the hair of his head grow long, and his garments shall he not rend;

11 Neither shall he go in to any dead body; even on his father, and on his mother shall he not defile himself.

12 And out of the sanctuary shall he not go, that he may not profane the sanctuary of his God; for the crown[f] of the anointing oil of his God is upon him: I am the LORD.

13 And he shall take a wife in her virgin state.

14 A widow, and a divorced woman, and one profaned, (and) a harlot, these shall he not take; but a virgin of his own people shall he take for wife;

15 So that he may not profane his seed among his people; for I, the LORD, do sanctify him.*

16 ¶ And the LORD spoke unto Moses, saying,

17 Speak unto Aaron, saying, Whosoever of thy seed in their generations it be on whom there is any blemish, shall not approach to offer the bread of his God.

18 For whatsoever man it be on whom there is a blemish, shall not approach: a blind, or a lame man, or one that hath a flattened nose, or a man one of whose limbs is too long,

19 Or a man who hath a broken foot, or a broken hand,

20 Or a crookbacked, or a dwarf, or one that hath a blemish in his eye, or the itch, or the scurvy, or the testicles broken.

21 Every man on whom there is a blemish, of the seed of Aaron the priest, shall not come nigh to offer the fire-offerings of the LORD:

[a] The plural is again used here after the singular, though preceded by the disjunctive "or;" and seems thus to say, that if there be many guilty of this sin, they shall all be punished alike.

[b] This is explained, "when others are there to bury the dead;" but if a priest find a corpse and no one is there to inter it, he himself must do it.

[c] Rashbam translates, "A husband among the priests shall not defile himself (on his wife) to be profaned thereby." Tradition, however, limits this to a woman whom the priest should of right not marry. Our version is after Onkelos, and refers to the high-priest, see farther, ver. 11.

[d] i. e. Each individual priest.

[e] "Sanctify him even against his will, so that if he will not put away such a woman as just mentioned, compel him by punishment to do so. Holy shall he be to thee, that is, look upon him as holy, to commence as the first in every thing, and to be the first to say the blessing at the table."—RASHI.

[f] Arnheim and others render נזר as "setting apart," hence "the consecration."

there is a blemish on him; he shall not come nigh to offer the bread of his God.

22 The bread of his God, both of the most holy, and of the holy things he may eat.

23 Only unto the vail, and unto the altar shall he not come nigh, because there is a blemish on him: that he profane not my holy things; for I the LORD do sanctify them.

24 And Moses spoke thus unto Aaron, and to his sons, and unto all the children of Israel.

CHAPTER XXII.

1 ¶ And the LORD spoke unto Moses, saying,

2 Speak unto Aaron and to his sons, that they keep themselves away from the holy things of the children of Israel, (so that they profane not my holy name) which[a] they hallow unto me: I am the LORD.

3 Say unto them, In your generations, if there be any man of all your seed, that approacheth unto the holy things, which the children of Israel hallow unto the LORD, having his uncleanness upon him, that soul shall be cut off from my presence: I am the LORD.

4 Any man whatsoever of the seed of Aaron, that is a leper, or hath a running issue, shall not eat of the holy things, until he be clean; and whoso toucheth any thing that is unclean by the dead, or a man whose seed goeth from him;

5 Or a man who toucheth any creeping thing, whereby he may be made unclean, or a man through whom he can be rendered unclean, through any kind of uncleanness which he hath:

6 The person that toucheth any such shall be unclean until the evening, and he shall not eat of the holy things, unless he have bathed his flesh in water.

7 And when the sun hath set, he shall be clean; and afterward he may eat of the holy things; because it is his food.

8 That which dieth of itself, or is torn by beasts, shall he not eat, to defile himself therewith: I am the LORD.

9 And they shall keep my charge, that they may not bear sin through it, and die therefor, if they profane it: I am the LORD who sanctify them.

10 And no stranger[b] shall eat of a holy thing: a sojourner[c] of a priest, or a hired servant, shall not eat of a holy thing.

11 But if a priest buy a person with his money, then may he eat of it; and those that are born in his house, may eat of his bread.

12 And if the daughter of a priest be married unto a stranger, she may not eat of the offered part[d] of holy things.

13 But the daughter of a priest, if she be a widow, or divorced, and have no child, and is returned unto her father's house, as in her youth, may eat of her father's bread; but no stranger shall eat thereof.

14 And if a man eat a holy thing unwittingly, then shall he add the fifth part thereof unto it, and he shall make good unto the priest the holy thing.

15 And they shall not profane the holy things of the children of Israel, which they offer unto the LORD;

16 And[e] load on themselves the iniquity of trespass, when they eat their holy things; for I am the LORD who sanctify them.*

17 ¶ And the LORD spoke unto Moses, saying,

18 Speak unto Aaron, and unto his sons, and unto all the children of Israel, and say unto them, If there be any man of the house of Israel, or of the strangers in Israel, that offereth his oblation, be it for any manner of vows, or for any manner of freewill-offerings, which they may offer unto the LORD for a burnt-offering:

19 Then shall it be, that it may be favourably received for you, a male without blemish, of the oxen, of the sheep, or of the goats.

20 Whatsoever on which there is a blemish shall ye not offer; for it will not be favourably received for you.

21 And when a man offereth a sacrifice of peace-offering unto the LORD as a vow, or a freewill-offering of the herds or of the flocks: it shall be without blemish to be favourably

[a] This refers back "to the holy things of the children of Israel." [b] One a stranger to the priesthood.

[c] By sojourner, is understood a Hebrew servant, whose ear was bored, who stays till the jubilee; and by a hired servant, one who stays till the end of the sixth year. —RASHI. (See Exodus xxi.)

[d] The breast and shoulder of the peace-offerings. (See Leviticus x. 15.)

[e] Arnheim renders, (after Rashbam,) "that these load themselves with the guilt of trespass, in their eating the holy things," referring to those strangers to the priesthood, who are not permitted to do so. Our version refers received; no kind of bodily defect shall be thereon.

22 A blind, or broken-limbed, or maimed animal, or one having a wen, or itch, or scurvy,—ye shall not offer these unto the LORD, and a fire-offering shall ye not make of them upon the altar unto the LORD.

23 And an ox or a lamb that hath a limb too long or too short, that mayest thou offer for a freewill-offering;[a] but for a vow it shall not be favourably received.

24 And one that is bruised, or crushed, or broken, or cut in the testicles, shall ye not offer unto the LORD; and in your land shall ye not make the like.

25 And from a stranger's hand shall ye not offer the bread of your God from any of these;[b] because their corruption is on them, a bodily defect is on them: they shall not be favourably received for you.

26 ¶ And the LORD spoke unto Moses, saying,

27 When a bullock, or a sheep, or a goat, is brought forth, then shall it remain seven days by its mother; and from the eighth day and thenceforth shall it be favourably received for an offering made by fire unto the LORD.

28 And whether it be ox[c] or sheep, ye shall not kill it and its young both in one day.

29 And when ye offer a sacrifice of thanksgiving unto the LORD, offer it so that it may be favourably received of you.

30 On the same day shall it be eaten up; ye shall leave none of it until the morning: I am the LORD.

31 And ye shall keep my commandments and do them: I am the LORD.

32 And ye shall not profane my holy name; so that I may be sanctified among the children of Israel; I am the LORD who sanctify you,

33 That brought you out of the land of Egypt, to be unto you a God: I am the LORD.*

CHAPTER XXIII.

1 ¶ And the LORD spoke unto Moses, saying,

2 Speak unto the children of Israel, and say unto them, The feasts of the LORD, which ye shall proclaim to be holy convocations,—these are my feasts:

3 Six days may work be done; but on the seventh day is the sabbath of rest, a holy convocation; no kind of work shall ye do thereon; it is the sabbath (holy) unto the LORD in all your dwellings.

4 ¶ These are the feasts of the LORD, the holy convocations, which ye shall proclaim in their seasons:

5 On the fourteenth day of the first month, toward evening, is the passover-lamb to be offered unto the LORD.

6 And on the fifteenth day of the same month is the feast of unleavened bread[d] unto the LORD: seven days must ye eat unleavened bread.

7 On the first day there shall be a holy convocation unto you; no servile work shall ye do thereon.

8 And ye shall offer an offering made by fire unto the LORD seven days: on the seventh day is a holy convocation; no servile work shall ye do.

9 ¶ And the LORD spoke unto Moses, saying,

10 Speak unto the children of Israel, and say unto them, When ye shall have come into the land which I give unto you, and reap the harvest thereof: then shall ye bring an omer full of the first of your harvest unto the priest;

11 And he shall wave the omer before the LORD, that it may be favourably received for you; on the morrow after the holy day[e] shall the priest wave it.

12 And ye shall offer on the day when ye to the priests themselves, who are to abstain from the sacred gifts when unclean. This is the view of Onkelos.

[a] i. e. It may be devoted to the expenses of the temple, but not for a sacrifice.

[b] No complaisance to a stranger to Israel could allow us to accept from him such an animal for sacrifice as was prohibited to us. Otherwise heathens were permitted to offer at the altar through the priest.

[c] Eng. ver. "cow or ewe;" but the Hebrew has "ox or sheep."

[d] The word פסח in the preceding verse is evidently of a different signification from the feast of unleavened bread mentioned here; hence the word has been rendered according to Rashi: "The passover-lamb," with the addition understood, "is to be offered." The fifteenth day, commencing the evening before, is the feast of unleavened bread.

[e] The word in Hebrew is שבת "the rest," which applies equally well to the strict holy days, when no work is to be done, as to the weekly day of rest, the sabbath proper. "The morrow after the holy day," in this verse, refers to the second day of the Passover, from which, till the Penteeost, are forty-nine days. The word שבת signifies also "week," probably because each week has one sabbath.

wave the omer, a male sheep without blemish of the first year for a burnt-offering unto the LORD.

13 And the meat-offering thereof shall be two tenth parts of fine flour mingled with oil, as an offering made by fire unto the LORD, for a sweet savour; with its drink-offering of wine, the fourth part of a hin.

14 And neither bread, nor parched corn, nor green ears, shall ye eat, until the self-same day, until ye have brought the offering of your God: it shall be a statute for ever throughout your generations in all your dwellings.

15 ¶ And ye shall count unto you from the morrow after the holy day, from the day that ye bring the omer of the wave-offering, (that) it be seven complete weeks:

16 Even unto the morrow after the seventh week shall ye number fifty days; and ye shall then offer a new[a] meat-offering unto the LORD.

17 Out of your own habitations shall ye bring two wave-loaves of two tenth parts; of fine flour shall they be; leavened shall they be baked; they are the first-fruits unto the LORD.

18 And ye shall offer with the bread seven sheep without blemish of the first year, and one young bullock, and two rams: they shall be for a burnt-offering unto the LORD, with their meat-offering, with their drink-offerings, an offering made by fire, of a sweet savour unto the LORD.

19 And ye shall sacrifice one he-goat for a sin-offering, and two sheep of the first year for a sacrifice of peace-offering.

20 And the priest shall make with them together with the bread of the first-fruits a waving before the LORD, together with the two sheep; holy shall they be to the LORD for the priest.

21 And ye shall proclaim on the self-same day, that it may be a holy convocation unto you; no servile work shall ye do; it shall be a statute for ever in all your dwellings throughout your generations.

22 And when ye reap the harvest of your land, thou shalt not cut away altogether the corners of thy field when thou reapest, and the gleaning of thy harvest shalt thou not gather up; unto the poor, and to the stranger shalt thou leave them: I am the LORD your God.*

23 ¶ And the LORD spoke unto Moses, saying,

24 Speak unto the children of Israel, saying, In the seventh month, on the first day of the month, shall ye have a rest, a (day of) memorial of sounding the cornet, a holy convocation.

25 No servile work shall ye do: and ye shall offer an offering made by fire unto the LORD.

26 ¶ And the LORD spoke unto Moses, saying,

27 But on the tenth day of this seventh month is the day of atonement, a holy convocation shall it be unto you, and ye shall fast;[b] and ye shall offer an offering made by fire[c] unto the LORD.

28 And no manner of work[d] shall ye do on this same day; for it is a day of atonement, to make an atonement for you before the LORD your God.

29 For whatsoever person it be that fasteth not on this same day, shall be cut off from among his people.

30 And if there be any person that doth any work on this same day, then will I destroy the same person from among his people.

31 No manner of work shall ye do: it shall be a statute for ever throughout your generations, in all your dwellings.

32 A sabbath of rest it shall be unto you, and ye shall fast: on the ninth day of the month at evening[e] (shall ye begin), from evening unto evening shall ye celebrate your sabbath.*

33 ¶ And the LORD spoke unto Moses, saying,

34 Speak unto the children of Israel, saying, On the fifteenth day of this seventh month, shall be the feast of tabernacles for seven days unto the LORD.

35 On the first day shall be a holy convocation; no servile work shall ye do.

[a] i. e. Of the new wheat.

[b] Heb. "Ye shall afflict your persons;" but this phrase is always employed as synonymous with צום "fasting," used in the prophetic books, but not found in the Pentateuch. It is, perhaps, also more comprehensive, as on the day of atonement all indulgences of whatever kind are prohibited.

[c] The offering is specified in the parallel passages, above, chapter xvi., and Numbers, chapter xxix. 7 to 11.

[d] Not even the preparation of food, which is permitted on other holy days; this being equal to the usual sabbath, a שבת שבתון a day of rest in the highest degree.

[e] The other festivals also begin at evening, as indicated

36 Seven days shall ye offer an offering made by fire unto the LORD: on the eighth day shall be a holy convocation unto you; and ye shall offer an offering made by fire unto the LORD, it is a solemn[a] assembly; no servile work shall ye do.

37 These are the feasts of the LORD, which ye shall proclaim to be holy convocations, to offer an offering made by fire unto the LORD, burnt-offering, and meat-offering, sacrifice, and drink-offerings, every thing upon its day:

38 Beside the sabbaths[b] of the LORD, and beside your gifts, and beside all your vows, and beside all your freewill-offerings, which ye may give unto the LORD.

39 But on the fifteenth day of the seventh month, when ye have gathered in the fruit of the land, shall ye keep the feast of the LORD seven days: on the first day shall be a rest, and on the eighth day shall be a rest.

40 And ye shall take unto yourselves[c] on the first day the fruit of the tree hadar,[d] branches of palm-trees, and the boughs of the myrtle-tree, and willows of the brook; and ye shall rejoice before the LORD your God seven days.

41 And ye shall keep it as a feast unto the LORD seven days in the year: it shall be a statute for ever throughout your generations; in the seventh month shall ye celebrate it.

42 In booths shall ye dwell seven days; all that are Israelites born shall dwell in booths.

43 In order that your generations may know, that I caused the children of Israel to dwell in booths, when I brought them forth out of the land of Egypt: I am the LORD your God.

44 And Moses declared the feasts of the LORD unto the children of Israel.*

CHAPTER XXIV.

1 ¶ And the LORD spoke unto Moses, saying,

2 Command the children of Israel, that they bring unto thee pure beaten olive-oil, for the lighting, to cause the lamp to burn continually.

3 Without the vail of the testimony, in the tabernacle of the congregation, shall Aaron put it in order (for) from evening unto morning before the LORD continually; as a statute for ever in your generations.

4 Upon the pure candlestick shall he put in order the lamps, before the LORD, continually.

5 ¶ And thou shalt take fine flour, and bake thereof twelve cakes: of two tenth parts shall each one cake be.

6 And thou shalt place them in two rows, six in a row, upon the pure table before the LORD.

7 And thou shalt put upon each row pure frankincense, that it may be unto the bread for a memorial,[e] as a fire-offering unto the LORD.

8 On every and each sabbath day shall he place it in order before the LORD continually, (obtained) from the children of Israel as an everlasting covenant.

9 And it shall belong to Aaron and to his sons; and they shall eat it in a holy place; for it is most holy unto him, from the fire-offerings of the LORD, as a perpetual fixed portion.

10 ¶ And there went forth a son of an Israelitish woman, but who was the son of an Egyptian man, among the children of Israel; and there quarrelled together in the camp this son of the Israelitish woman and an Israelitish man.

11 And the son of the Israelitish woman pronounced[f] the (holy) NAME, and blasphemed; and they brought him unto Moses: (and his mother's name was Shelomith, the daughter of Dibri, of the tribe of Dan;)

12 And they placed him in ward, until the decision of the LORD could be explained to them.

13 ¶ And the LORD spoke unto Moses, saying,

[a] Philippson: "Feast of conclusion," עצרת from עצר "to shut up," "to restrain."

[b] i. e. Beside the two lambs, the additional sacrifice for the sabbath, which are mentioned in Numbers xxviii. 9, 10.

[c] "Each of you shall take of his own."—WESSELI. In the same manner all similar phrases must be explained.

[d] Our tradition teaches us that this means the citron-tree. The origin of the name Hadar is otherwise doubtful. The English version of this verse is too incorrect to require remark.

[e] The bread belonged to the priests; but the frankincense alone was burnt; consequently it was the memorial for the showbread, the same as above, ii. 2, &c., with the ordinary meat-offering.

[f] "As Onkelos explains, he pronounced the most holy name of God, which they had heard on Sinai, and blasphemed."—RASHI.

14 Lead forth the blasphemer to without the camp; and all that have heard him shall lay their hands upon his head; and all the congregation shall stone him.

15 And unto the children of Israel shalt thou speak, saying, Whatsoever man that blasphemeth his God shall bear his sin.

16 But he that pronounced the name of the LORD (with blasphemy) shall be put to death, all the congregation shall stone him: be he a stranger, or be he one that is born in the land, when he pronounceth the (holy) NAME (with blasphemy,) he shall be put to death.

17 And he that taketh the life of any man shall surely be put to death.

18 And he that taketh the life of a beast shall make it good: beast for beast.

19 And if a man cause a bodily defect in his neighbour, as he hath done, so shall be done to him;

20 Breach for breach, eye for eye, tooth for tooth: in the manner as he hath caused a bodily defect in a man, so shall it be done to him.*

21 And he that killeth a beast, shall make restitution for it; and he that killeth a man, shall be put to death.

22 One manner of judicial law shall ye have, the stranger shall be equal with one of your own country; for I am the LORD your God.

23 And Moses spoke to the children of Israel; and they led forth the blasphemer to without the camp, and they stoned him with stones; and the children of Israel did as the LORD had commanded Moses.

Haphtorah in Ezekiel xliv. 15 to 31.

SECTION XXXII. BEHAR, בהר.

CHAPTER XXV.

1 ¶ And the LORD spoke unto Moses on mount Sinai, saying,

2 Speak unto the children of Israel, and say unto them, When ye come into the land which I give unto you; then shall the land keep a sabbath unto the LORD.

3 Six years shalt thou sow thy field, and six years shalt thou prune thy vineyard, and gather in the fruit thereof;

4 But in the seventh year there shall be a sabbath of rest unto the land, a sabbath (in honour) of the LORD: thy field shalt thou not sow, and thy vineyard shalt thou not prune.

5 That which groweth of its own accord of thy harvest shalt thou not reap, and the grapes of thy undressed vine shalt thou not gather: a year of rest shall it be unto the land.

6 And (the product of) the sabbath of the land shall be unto you for food, for thee, and for thy man-servant, and for thy maid-servant, and for thy hired labourer, and for thy stranger, that sojourn with thee;

7 And for thy cattle, and for the beasts that are in thy land, shall all its products be (left) for food.

8 ¶ And thou shalt number unto thee seven sabbaths of years, seven years seven times; and the space of the seven sabbaths of years shall be unto thee forty and nine years.

9 And then shalt thou cause the sound of the cornet to be heard, in the seventh month, on the tenth day of the month: on the day of atonement shall ye sound the cornet throughout all your land.

10 And ye shall hallow the fiftieth year, and proclaim freedom throughout the land unto all the inhabitants thereof: it shall be a jubilee[a] unto you; and ye shall return, every man, unto his possession, and ye shall return, every man, unto his family.

11 A jubilee shall this, the fiftieth year, be unto you: ye shall not sow, nor reap that which groweth of itself in it, nor gather in it the fruit of the undressed vines.

12 For it is the jubilee; holy shall it be unto you: from the field shall ye eat the products thereof.

13 In this year of the jubilee shall ye return, every man, unto his possession.*

14 And if thou sell aught unto thy neighbour, or buy aught of thy neighbour's hand, ye shall not overreach one the other;

15 According to the number of years after the jubilee shalt thou buy of thy neighbour,

[a] Properly, Yobel. Rashi derives this word from יובל "the ram," because the ram's horn (cornet) was blown to announce it; but as horns from other animals were also permitted for this service, Ramban derives it from יבל which signifies in Hiphil "to bring," that is, the year when each man is brought back to his own according unto the number of harvest-years[a] shall he sell unto thee;

16 According to the multitude of years shalt thou increase the price thereof, and according to the fewness of years shalt thou diminish the price thereof; for a number of harvests doth he sell unto thee.

17 And ye shall not overreach[b] one the other; but thou shalt be afraid of thy God; for I am the LORD your God.

18 And ye shall do my statutes, and my ordinances shall ye keep and do them; and then shall ye dwell in the land in safety.*

19 And the land shall yield its fruit, and ye shall eat your fill, and dwell in safety therein.

20 And if ye should say, What shall we eat in the seventh year? behold, we are not permitted to sow, and we cannot gather in our harvest:

21 Then will I command my blessing unto you in the sixth year, and it shall bring forth a harvest for three years.

22 And when ye sow in the eighth year, then shall ye eat yet of the old harvest; until the ninth year, until its harvest come in, shall ye eat of the old store.

23 And the land shall not be sold for a permanence (to the purchaser); for the land is mine; for strangers and sojourners are ye with me.

24 And in all the land of your possession ye shall grant a redemption for the land.*

25 ¶ If thy brother become poor, and sell away some of his possession: then may his nearest of kin come and redeem what his brother hath sold.

26 And if the man have none to redeem it, and he acquire the means, sufficient to be able to redeem it himself:

27 Then let him reckon the years since his sale, and restore the overplus unto the man to whom he sold it; and so shall he return unto his possession.

28 But if his means do not suffice to enable him to restore it to him: then shall that which he hath sold remain in the hand of him that hath bought it until the year of the jubilee; and it shall be freed in the jubilee, and he shall return unto his possession.*

29 ¶ And if a man sell a dwelling-house in a walled city: then shall the time of redemption last till the end of the year of his sale; a full year shall his time of redemption last.

30 And if it be not redeemed within the expiration of a full year: then shall the house which is in the walled city remain as a permanence to him that bought it throughout his generations; it shall not become freed in the jubilee.

31 But the houses of the villages which have no wall round about them shall be counted as the fields of the country: they shall have the right of redemption, and they shall become freed in the jubilee.

32 And (respecting) the cities of the Levites, the houses of the cities of their possession, a perpetual right of redemption shall belong to the Levites.

33 And if a man of the Levites redeem[c] something: then shall the house that was sold, and the city of his possession, become freed in the jubilee; for the houses of the cities of the Levites are their possession among the children of Israel.

34 And a field of the suburbs of their cities shall not be sold;[d] for a perpetual possession is it unto them.

35 ¶ And if thy brother become poor, and fall in decay with thee: then shalt thou assist him, (yea) a stranger, or a sojourner, that he may live with thee.

36 Thou shalt not take of him any usury or increase; but thou shalt be afraid of thy God: that thy brother may live with thee.

37 Thy money shalt thou not give him

[a] i. e. While harvesting is permitted to the buyer, or the years that are to elapse till the jubilee; for then the land returns to the original owner. Hence the price is higher if the time to the jubilee be long, and smaller in proportion; as in next verse.

[b] Tradition makes תונו not "deceive," but to "offend" with words, to "excite to anger." But in our version we followed Onkelos and others.

[c] Rashi renders this, "If a man purchase from the Levites," &c. Our translation is after Arnheim, who comments, that if a Levite should redeem a property sold by another of his tribe, it will revert to the original owner at the jubilee; whereas, as regards the lands of other Israelites, the law is silent, provided only that it must revert to the tribe of the seller. Philippson renders, "any one of the Levites may redeem," &c., and connects it with the preceding verse; and it then means, it requires no relative to redeem, but any one of the Levitical tribe.

[d] This is said to refer to a field sanctified by a Levi, which is not to be forfeited to the priests as in xxvii. 21.

upon usury, nor lend him thy victuals for increase.

38 I am the LORD your God, who have brought you forth out of the land of Egypt, to give unto you the land of Canaan, to be unto you a God.*

39 ¶ And if thy brother become poor near thee, and be sold unto thee: thou shalt not compel him to work as a bond-servant.

40 But as a hired labourer, as a sojourner, shall he be with thee; until the year of the jubilee shall he serve with thee:

41 And then shall he depart from thee, he and his children with him; and he shall return unto his own family, and unto the possession of his fathers shall he return.

42 For my servants are they, whom I brought forth out of the land of Egypt: they shall not be sold as bond-men are sold.

43 Thou shalt not rule over him with rigour; but thou shalt have fear of thy God.

44 But thy bond-man, and thy bond-woman that shall remain thine, shall be of the nations that are round about you; of them may ye buy bond-man and bond-woman.

45 And also of the children of the strangers that sojourn with you, of them may ye buy, and of their families that are with you, which they have begotten in your land; and they shall remain to you as a possession.

46 And ye may transfer them as an inheritance for your children after you, to inherit them for a possession; you may hold them to service for ever; but over your brethren the children of Israel, one over the other, ye* shall not rule with rigour.*

47 ¶ And if a stranger or sojourner wax rich near thee, and thy brother become poor near him, and he sell himself unto the sojourning stranger near thee, or to a descendant of a stranger's family:

48 After he hath sold himself shall he have the right of redemption; one of his brethren may redeem him.

49 Either his uncle, or his uncle's son, may redeem him, or any that is near of kin unto him of his family may redeem him; or if he obtain the means, he may redeem himself.

50 And he shall reckon with him that bought him from the year that he sold himself to him unto the year of the jubilee: and the price of his sale shall be according to the number of years, as the time of a hired labourer shall he have been with him.

51 If there be yet many years, according to them shall he return the price of his redemption out of his purchase-money.

52 And if there remain but few years unto the year of the jubilee: then shall he reckon with him; according to his years shall he return the price of his redemption.

53 As a labourer hired from year to year shall he be with him; he shall not rule over him with rigour before thy eyes.

54 And if he be not redeemed by (one of) these means: then shall he go out in the year of the jubilee, both he, and his children with him.*

55 For unto me are the children of Israel servants, my servants are they, whom I have brought forth out of the land of Egypt: I am the Eternal your God.

CHAPTER XXVI.

1 Ye shall not make yourselves any idols, and a graven image, or a standing image shall ye not rear up unto you, and any carved stone shall you not place in your land, to bow down upon it; for I am the Eternal your God.

2 My sabbaths shall ye keep, and my sanctuary shall ye reverence: I am the LORD.

Haphtorah in Jeremiah xxxii. 6 to 27.

SECTION XXXIII. BECHUCKOTAY, בחקתי.

3 ¶ If in my statutes ye walk, and if my commandments ye keep, and do them:

4 Then will I give you rains in their due season, and the earth shall yield her products, and the tree of the field shall yield its fruit.

5 And the threshing shall reach with you unto the vintage, and the vintage shall reach unto sowing-time; and ye shall eat your bread to the full, and ye shall dwell in safety in your land.*

6 And I will give peace in the land, and ye shall lie down, with none to make you afraid; and I will remove evil beasts out of the land, and the sword shall not pass through your land.

7 And ye shall chase your enemies, and they shall fall before you by the sword.

* Heb. "Thou shalt not rule," according to the Hebrew idiom.

JOSEPH INTERPRETING PHARAOH'S DREAM

8 And five of you shall chase a hundred, and a hundred of you shall chase ten thousand; and your enemies shall fall before you by the sword.

9 And I will turn myself unto you, and make you fruitful, and multiply you; and I will establish my covenant with you.*

10 And ye shall eat very old store, and the old shall ye remove away because of the new.

11 And I will set my dwelling among you; and my soul shall not loath[a] you.

12 And I will walk among you, and I will be to you a God, and ye shall be to me a people.

13 I am the Eternal your God, who have brought you forth out of the land of Egypt, that ye should not be their bond-men; and I have broken the bands of your yoke, and caused you to walk upright.

14 ¶ But if ye will not hearken unto me, and will not do all these commandments;

15 And if my statutes ye despise, and if my ordinances your soul loath, so as not to do all my commandments, in that ye break my covenant:

16 Then will I also do this unto you, and I will inflict on you terror, consumption, and the burning ague, that consume the eyes, and cause sorrow of heart; and ye shall sow in vain your seed, for your enemies shall eat it.[b]

17 And I will set my face against you, and ye shall be struck down before your enemies: and they that hate you shall bear rule over you; and ye shall flee while there is no one pursuing you.

18 And if with these things even ye will not yet hearken unto me: then will I chastise you yet more, sevenfold for your sins.

19 And I will break the pride of your power; and I will make your heaven as iron, and your earth as copper:

20 And in vain shall your strength be spent; for your land shall not yield her products, and the tree of the land shall not yield its fruit.

21 And if ye walk yet contrary unto me, and if you refuse to hearken unto me: then will I bring more plagues upon you, sevenfold according to your sins.

22 And I will send out against you the beasts of the field, which shall rob you of your children, and destroy your cattle, and diminish yourselves; so that your roads shall be desolate.

23 And if notwithstanding these things ye will not be reformed by me, and walk contrary unto me:

24 Then will I also walk contrary unto you, and I also will punish you, sevenfold for your sins.

25 And I will bring over you the sword, avenging the quarrel of my covenant, so that ye shall be gathered together within your cities; and then will I send the pestilence among you,[c] that ye shall deliver yourselves into the hand of the enemy;

26 When I break unto you the staff of bread; and ten women shall bake your bread in one oven, and they shall deliver your bread again by weight; and ye shall eat, and not be satisfied.

27 ¶ And if notwithstanding this ye will not hearken unto me, but walk contrary unto me:

28 Then will I also walk contrary unto you in fury; and I, even I, will chastise you, sevenfold for your sins.

29 And ye shall eat the flesh of your sons, and the flesh of your daughters shall ye eat.

30 And I will destroy your high-places, and cut down your sun-images, and cast your carcasses upon the carcasses of your idols; and my soul shall loath you.

31 And I will render your cities a waste, and I will make desolate your sanctuaries, and I will not smell the savour of your sweet odours.

32 And I will surely make desolate the land: and your enemies who dwell therein shall be astonished at it.

33 And you will I scatter among the nations, and I will draw out after you the sword; and your land shall be a desolate wild, and your cities shall be a waste.

[a] "Fear not that after a long time I will be tired of you and choose another nation to render it higher than you; for I the LORD change not; and if you do your part, to walk in my statutes, my dwelling shall be among you for ever."—WESSELI.

[b] "You shall sow, but nothing will grow; but if you should have any thing in your fields, then shall your enemies come and eat it."—RASHI.

[c] Meaning, the people having violated the covenant, God would send enemies into the land, fleeing before whom they should seek refuge in the towns, whence the plague should drive them again into the power of their pursuers

34 Then shall the land satisfy[a] its sabbaths, all the days of its desolation, when ye are in the land of your enemies: then shall the land rest, and satisfy its sabbaths.

35 All the days of its desolation shall it rest, the time which it did not rest in your sabbaths, when ye dwelt upon it.

36 And regarding those that are left of you, I will send a faintness into their hearts in the lands of their enemies; and the sound of a leaf shaken shall chase them; and they shall flee, as fleeing from the sword; and they shall fall with none pursuing.

37 And they shall stumble one over the other, as before the sword, without one pursuing: and ye shall have no power to stand up before your enemies.

38 And ye shall be lost among the nations, and the land of your enemies shall consume you.

39 And they that are left of you shall pine away in their iniquity in the land of your enemies; and also through the iniquities of their fathers shall they pine away with them.

40 And they shall then confess their iniquity, and the iniquity of their fathers, (that) through their trespass which they trespassed against me, and also that (because) they had walked contrary unto me:

41 I also had to walk[b] contrary unto them, and to bring them into the land of their enemies; and then shall their uncircumcised heart be humbled, and then shall they satisfy their iniquity.

42 And I will then remember my covenant with Jacob, and also my covenant with Isaac, and also my covenant with Abraham will I remember; and the land will I remember.

43 For the land shall be forsaken by them, and shall satisfy its sabbaths, while it lieth desolate without them, and they shall satisfy[c] their iniquity; because, even because my ordinances they despised, and my statutes their soul loathed.

44 And yet for all that, though they be in the land of their enemies, will I not cast them away, neither will I loath them, to destroy them utterly, to break my covenant with them; for I am the LORD their God.

45 But I will remember for their sakes the covenant of their ancestors, whom I brought forth out of the land of Egypt before the eyes of the nations, that I might be unto them a God: I am the LORD.

46 These are the statutes and ordinances and laws,[d] which the LORD made between him and the children of Israel on mount Sinai, by the hand of Moses.*

CHAPTER XXVII.

1 ¶ And the LORD spoke unto Moses, saying,

2 Speak unto the children of Israel, and say unto them, If a man make a particular vow, (to give) the estimated value of persons in honour of the LORD:

3 If the estimated value concern a male from twenty years old and unto sixty years old, then shall the estimation be fifty shekels of silver, after the shekel of the sanctuary.

4 And if it be a female, then shall the estimation be thirty shekels.

5 And if (the person be) from five years old and unto twenty years old, then shall the estimation of the male be twenty shekels, and for the female ten shekels.

6 And if (the person be) from a month old and unto five years old, then shall the estimation of the male be five shekels of silver, and for the female the estimation (shall be) three shekels of silver.

7 And if (the person be) from sixty years old and upward, if it be a male, then shall the estimation be fifteen shekels, and for the female ten shekels.

8 But if he be too poor for this estimation, then shall he present himself before the priest, and the priest shall value him; according to the ability to pay of him that hath vowed shall the priest value him.

[a] Make compensation for the years of release which the Israelites did not observe according to the dictates of the law.

[b] After Philippson; as אֵלֵךְ is the future form; thus expressing an act arising from a foregone cause. וְגַם given here with "and then," may also mean, as Rashi comments, "perhaps then," or "whether then." Thus: "I also had to walk contrary unto them, and bring them into the land of their enemies, (to see) whether then their uncircumcised heart would be humbled, and they would then atone for their iniquity."

[c] This word, employed also in verses 34 and 41, means that they shall suffer such punishment as will be in full satisfaction for the guilt they have incurred.

[d] Arnheim adds, as an ellipsis, "of the covenant," to tally with what follows, "between him," &c.

9 ¶ And if it be a beast,[a] whereof men can bring an offering unto the LORD, all that[b] a man giveth of such unto the LORD shall be holy.

10 He shall not alter it, nor change it, a good for a bad one, or a bad for a good one: and if he should change beast for beast, then shall it together with its exchange be holy.

11 And if it be any unclean beast, of which they cannot offer a sacrifice unto the LORD, then shall he present the beast before the priest:

12 And the priest shall value it, whether it be good or bad; as the priest valueth it, so shall it be.

13 And if he will redeem it, then shall he add a fifth part thereof unto the estimated value.

14 And if a man sanctify his house as holy unto the LORD, then shall the priest value it, whether it be good or bad; as the priest may value it, so shall it stand.

15 And if he that sanctified it will redeem his house, then shall he add the fifth part of the money of the estimated value unto it, and it shall remain his.*

16 And if a man sanctify some part of a field of his possession unto the LORD, then shall the estimation be in proportion to its required seed: the seed of a chomer of barley at fifty shekels of silver.

17 If immediately after the year of the jubilee he sanctify his field, according to this estimation shall it stand.

18 But if after the jubilee he sanctify his field, then shall the priest reckon unto him the money in proportion to the years that remain, until the year of the jubilee, and it shall be deducted from the estimation.

19 And if he that sanctified the field will redeem it, then shall he add the fifth part of the money of the estimated value unto it, and it shall be assured to him.

20 But if he will not redeem the field, or if he[c] have sold the field to another man, it shall not be redeemed any more.

21 But the field, when it is freed in the jubilee, shall be holy unto the LORD, as a devoted field: to the priest shall it belong as his possession.*

22 And if a man sanctify a field which he hath bought, which is not of the fields of his possession, unto the LORD:

23 Then shall the priest reckon unto him the amount of the estimated value to the year of the jubilee; and he shall give this estimation on that day, as a holy thing unto the LORD.

24 In the year of the jubilee the field shall return unto him of whom he bought it, to the one to whom belongeth the possession of the land.

25 And all estimations of value shall be according to the shekel of the sanctuary; twenty gerahs shall be the shekel.

26 Only the first-born which shall, by being first born, be sacred unto the LORD among cattle, no man shall sanctify;[d] whether it be ox, or lamb, it is the LORD'S.

27 And if it be an unclean animal, then shall he redeem it according to the estimated value, and he shall add its fifth part thereto; and if it be not redeemed, then shall it be sold according to the estimated value.

28 But any devoted thing, which a man may devote unto the LORD of all that he hath, both of man and beast, and of the field of his possession, shall not be sold nor redeemed: every devoted thing is most holy unto the LORD.*

29 Any one condemned,[e] who shall be condemned to death among men, shall not be redeemed: he shall be put to death.

30 And every tithe of the land, of the seed of the land, or of the fruit of the tree, belongeth to the LORD: it is holy unto the LORD.

31 And if a man will redeem any part of his tithe, its fifth part shall he add thereto.*

32 And concerning the tithe of the herds, or of the flocks, whatsoever passeth under the rod,[f] the tenth shall be holy unto the LORD.

33 He shall not search whether it be good or bad, neither shall he change it: and if he

[a] This means only domestic animals, cattle proper, the ox, sheep, and goat; for these only could be sacrificed.

[b] "If a man said, The leg of this shall be a burnt-offering, his words were valid, and it was sold for the purposes of the burnt-offering, and all the proceeds were profane property, with the exception of the value of that limb."—RASHI.

[c] i. e. The treasurer of the sanctuary.

[d] For the purpose of sacrifice, it being sacred by its birth.

[e] According to Rashi's commentary; and it says that the offering of the above valuations for the life of a condemned criminal shall be of no avail.

[f] "When he comes to tithe them, he causes them to go should change it, then both it and the exchange thereof shall be holy; it shall not be redeemed.

34 These are the commandments, which the LORD commanded Moses for the children of Israel on mount Sinai.

THE BOOK OF NUMBERS,

BEMIDBAR, במדבר.

CONTAINING THE HISTORY OF THE ISRAELITES IN THE DESERT.

SECTION XXXIV. BEMIDBAR, במדבר.

CHAPTER I.

1 ¶ AND the LORD spoke unto Moses in the wilderness of Sinai, in the tabernacle of the congregation, on the first day of the second month, in the second year after their going out of the land of Egypt, saying,

2 Take ye the sum of all the congregation of the children of Israel, after their families, by the descent from their fathers,[a] by numbering the names,[b] every male according to their polls;

3 From twenty years old and upward, all that are able to go forth to war in Israel: these shall ye number according to their armies, thou and Aaron.

4 And with you there shall be one man each of every tribe; a man who is the head of his family division.

5 And these are the names of the men that shall stand with you; of Reüben: Elizur the son of Shedeür.

6 Of Simeon: Shelumiël the son of Zurishaddai.

7 Of Judah: Nachshon the son of 'Amminadab.

8 Of Issachar: Nethanel the son of Zuär.

9 Of Zebulun: Eliäb the son of Chelon.

10 Of the children of Joseph, of Ephraim: Elishama the son of 'Ammihud; of Menasseh: Gamliël the son of Pedahzur.

11 Of Benjamin: Abidan the son of Gidoni.

12 Of Dan: Achiëzer the son of 'Ammishaddai.

13 Of Asher: Pagiël the son of 'Ochran.

14 Of Gad: Elyassaph the son of Deüel.

15 Of Naphtali: Achira the son of 'Enan.

16 These were the selected[c] of the congregation, the princes of the tribes of their fathers; the heads of the thousands[d] of Israel were they.

17 And Moses and Aaron took these men who are expressed by name:

18 And all the congregation they assembled together on the first day of the second month, and they were enrolled in the lists of their pedigrees after their families, by the descent from their fathers, by numbering the names, from twenty years old and upward, according to their polls.

19 As the LORD had commanded Moses, so did he number them in the wilderness of Sinai.*

through a doorway, one after the other, and the tenth he strikes with a rod having paint on it, that the animal may be recognised as the tithe; and so was done to the lambs and calves of every year."—RASHI.

[a] So Rashi explains the term בית אב "family descent reckoned from the father." But generally it is nearly synonymous with the word משפחה family, and it may be rendered "family division," or "branch," and is consequently a subdivision of "family," which itself is less than "tribe." In other instances בית אב appears the major, משפחה the lesser division. But in reality it means at last only those who have a common ancestry; hence it will be found variously rendered, to prevent the too frequent repetition of the same term.

[c] קרואי "the called," from קרא "to call;" hence, those called to the meetings of the chiefs, the selectmen, representatives; and so it is rendered elsewhere.

[d] Philippson translates אלפי not with "thousands," but with "families," as synonymous with אלפי in Genesis xxxvi. 43.

20 ¶ And there were of the children of Reüben the first-born of Israel, by their generations, after their families, by the descent from their fathers, by numbering the names, according to their polls, every male from twenty years old and upward, all that were able to go forth to war;

21 Those that were numbered of the tribe of Reüben, were forty and six thousand and five hundred.

22 ¶ Of the[a] children of Simeon, by their generations, after their families, by the descent from their fathers, those that were numbered of them, by numbering the names, according to their polls, every male from twenty years old and upward, all that were able to go forth to war;

23 Those that were numbered of the tribe of Simeon, were fifty and nine thousand and three hundred.

24 ¶ Of the children of Gad, by their generations, after their families, by the descent from their fathers, by numbering the names, from twenty years old and upward, all that were able to go forth to war;

25 Those that were numbered of the tribe of Gad, were forty and five thousand six hundred and fifty.

26 ¶ Of the children of Judah, by their generations, after their families, by the descent from their fathers, by numbering the names, from twenty years old and upward, all that were able to go forth to war;

27 Those that were numbered of the tribe of Judah, were seventy and four thousand and six hundred.

28 ¶ Of the children of Issachar, by their generations, after their families, by the descent from their fathers, by numbering the names, from twenty years old and upward, all that were able to go forth to war;

29 Those that were numbered of the tribe of Issachar, were fifty and four thousand and four hundred.

30 ¶ Of the children of Zebulun, by their generations, after their families, by the descent from their fathers, by numbering the names, from twenty years old and upward, all that were able to go forth to war;

31 Those that were numbered of the tribe of Zebulun, were fifty and seven thousand and four hundred.

32 ¶ Of the children of Joseph, namely, of the children of Ephraim, by their generations, after their families, by the descent from their fathers, by numbering the names, from twenty years old and upward, all that were able to go forth to war;

33 Those that were numbered of the tribe of Ephraim, were forty thousand and five hundred.

34 ¶ Of the children of Menasseh, by their generations, after their families, by the descent from their fathers, by numbering the names, from twenty years old and upward, all that were able to go forth to war;

35 Those that were numbered of the tribe of Menasseh, were thirty and two thousand and two hundred.

36 ¶ Of the children of Benjamin, by their generations, after their families, by the descent from their fathers, by numbering the names, from twenty years old and upward, all that were able to go forth to war;

37 Those that were numbered of the tribe of Benjamin, were thirty and five thousand and four hundred.

38 ¶ Of the children of Dan, by their generations, after their families, by the descent from their fathers, by numbering the names, from twenty years old and upward, all that were able to go forth to war;

39 Those that were numbered of the tribe of Dan, were sixty and two thousand and seven hundred.

40 ¶ Of the children of Asher, by their generations, after their families, by the descent from their fathers, by numbering the names, from twenty years old and upward, all that were able to go forth to war;

41 Those that were numbered of the tribe of Asher, were forty and one thousand and five hundred.

42 ¶ Of the children of Naphtali, by their generations, after their families, by the descent from their fathers, by numbering the names, from twenty years old and upward, all that were able to go forth to war;

43 Those that were numbered of the tribe of Naphtali, were fifty and three thousand and four hundred.

44 ¶ These are those that were numbered, whom Moses numbered with Aaron, and the

[a] The ל prefixed to each name must be taken in the sense of "of," as though it read, "there were of the sons of Simeon, &c., those that were numbered, fifty and nine thousand and three hundred," &c.

princes of Israel, being twelve men: one man each for his family division were they.

45 Thus were all those that were numbered of the children of Israel, by the descent from their fathers, from twenty years old and upward, all that were able to go forth to war in Israel,—

46 Even all they that were numbered, were six hundred thousand and three thousand and five hundred and fifty.

47 But the Levites, after the tribe of their fathers, were not numbered among them.

48 ¶ For[a] the LORD had spoken unto Moses, saying,

49 Only the tribe of Levi shalt thou not number, and their sum shalt thou not take, among the children of Israel;

50 But thou shalt appoint the Levites over the tabernacle of the testimony, and over all its vessels, and over all things that belong to it: they shall carry the tabernacle, and all its vessels; and they shall minister unto it; and round about the tabernacle shall they encamp.

51 And when the tabernacle is to be carried forward, the Levites shall take it down; and when the tabernacle is to be pitched, the Levites shall set it up: and the stranger[b] that cometh nigh shall be put to death.

52 And the children of Israel shall pitch[c] their tents, every man by his own camp, and every man by his own standard, according to their armies.

53 But the Levites shall encamp round about the tabernacle of the testimony, that there be no wrath upon the congregation of the children of Israel: and the Levites shall keep the charge of the tabernacle of the testimony.

54 And the children of Israel did so: all, just as the LORD had commanded Moses, so did they.*

CHAPTER II.

1 ¶ And the LORD spoke unto Moses and unto Aaron, saying,

2 Every man by his own standard, by the ensigns of their family division, shall the children of Israel pitch their tent: at some distance round about the tabernacle of the congregation shall they encamp.

3 And they, who encamp on the east, toward the rising of the sun, shall be (those who belong to) the standard of the camp of Judah according to their armies: and the prince of the children of Judah shall be Nachshon the son of 'Amminadab.

4 And his host, and those that were numbered of them, were seventy and four thousand and six hundred.

5 And those that encamp next unto him shall be the tribe of Issachar: and the prince of the children of Issachar shall be Nethanel the son of Zuär.

6 And his host, and those that were numbered thereof, were fifty and four thousand and four hundred.

7 (Then) the tribe of Zebulun: and the prince of the children of Zebulun shall be Eliäb the son of Chelon.

8 And his host, and those that were numbered thereof, were fifty and seven thousand and four hundred.

9 All that were numbered of the camp of Judah were one hundred thousand and eighty thousand and six thousand and four hundred, according to their armies: they shall first set forward.

10 ¶ The standard of the camp of Reüben shall be on the south side, according to their armies: and the prince of the children of Reüben shall be Elizur the son of Shedeür.

11 And his host, and those that were numbered thereof, were forty and six thousand and five hundred.

12 And those that encamp by him shall be the tribe of Simeon: and the prince of the children of Simeon shall be Shelumiël the son of Zurishaddai.

13 And his host, and those that were numbered of them, were fifty and nine thousand and three hundred.

14 Then the tribe of Gad: and the prince of the sons of Gad shall be Elyassaph the son of Reüel.

15 And his host, and those that were numbered of them, were forty and five thousand and six hundred and fifty.

[a] i. e. The not numbering of the Levites among the other sons of Israel was owing to a previous command that they should not be reckoned among them for secular purposes.

[b] The word זר used here and elsewhere, signifies "one strange in the matter specified;" here, therefore, any one of Israel who is not a Levite.

[c] Lit. "Shall encamp."

16 All that were numbered of the camp of Reüben were one hundred thousand and fifty and one thousand and four hundred and fifty, according to their armies; and as the second shall they set forward.

17 ¶ Then shall the tabernacle of the congregation, the camp of the Levites, set forward in the midst of the camps: as they encamp, so shall they set forward, every man in his place after their standards.

18 ¶ The standard of the camp of Ephraim shall be on the west side, according to their armies: and the prince of the sons of Ephraim shall be Elishama the son of 'Ammihud.

19 And his host, and those that were numbered of them, were forty thousand and five hundred.

20 And by him shall be the tribe of Menasseh; and the prince of the children of Menasseh shall be Gamliël the son of Pedahzur.

21 And his host, and those that were numbered of them, were thirty and two thousand and two hundred.

22 Then the tribe of Benjamin: and the prince of the sons of Benjamin shall be Abidan the son of Gideoni.

23 And his host, and those that were numbered of them, were thirty and five thousand and four hundred.

24 All that were numbered of the camp of Ephraim were one hundred thousand and eight thousand and one hundred, according to their armies; and as the third shall they set forward.

25 ¶ The standard of the camp of Dan shall be on the north side, according to their armies: and the prince of the children of Dan shall be Achiëzer the son of 'Ammishaddai.

26 And his host, and those that were numbered of them, were sixty and two thousand and seven hundred.

27 And those that encamp by him shall be the tribe of Asher: and the prince of the children of Asher shall be Pagiël the son of 'Ochran.

28 And his host, and those that were numbered of them, were forty and one thousand and five hundred.

29 Then the tribe of Naphtali: and the prince of the children of Naphtali shall be Achira the son of 'Enan.

30 And his host, and those that were numbered of them, were fifty and three thousand and four hundred.

31 All those that were numbered of the camp of Dan were one hundred thousand and fifty and seven thousand and six hundred; the hindmost shall they set forward according to their standards.[a]

32 ¶ These are those that were numbered of the children of Israel according to their family divisions: and all those that were numbered of the camps, according to their armies, were six hundred thousand and three thousand and five hundred and fifty.

33 But the Levites were not numbered among the children of Israel; as the LORD had commanded Moses.

34 And the children of Israel did all just as the LORD had commanded Moses, so did they encamp by their standards, and so did they set forward every one after his family, by his division.*

CHAPTER III.

1 ¶ And these are the generations of Aaron and Moses, on the day that the LORD spoke with Moses on mount Sinai.

2 And these are the names of the sons of Aaron: the first-born Nadab, and Abihu, Elazar, and Ithamar.

3 These are the names of the sons of Aaron, the priests that were anointed, who were consecrated to minister as priests.

4 And Nadab and Abihu died before the LORD, when they offered a strange fire before the LORD, in the wilderness of Sinai, and they had no children: and Elazar and Ithamar ministered as priests in the life-time of Aaron their father.

5 ¶ And the LORD spoke unto Moses, saying,

6 Bring the tribe of Levi near, and present the same before Aaron the priest, that they may serve him.

7 And they shall keep his charge, and the charge of the whole congregation[b] before the tent of the congregation, to do the service of the tabernacle.

[a] This would seem to indicate that each tribe had its separate banner, besides the general division-standards of Judah, Reüben, Ephraim, and Dan.

[b] The whole congregation are interested that the duties of the sanctuary be well performed; consequently the ministration of the Levites is doing the work of all Israel.

8 And they shall keep all the vessels of the tent of the congregation, and the charge of the children of Israel, to do the service of the tabernacle.

9 And thou shalt give the Levites unto Aaron and to his sons: as associates are[a] they given unto him out of the children of Israel.

10 And Aaron and his sons shalt thou instruct, that they shall guard well their priest's office; and the stranger that cometh nigh shall be put to death.

11 ¶ And the LORD spoke unto Moses, saying,

12 And I, behold, I have taken the Levites from the midst of the children of Israel instead of every first-born that openeth the womb among the children of Israel; and the Levites shall be mine.

13 Because mine is every first-born; on the day when I smote every first-born in the land of Egypt I hallowed unto me every first-born in Israel, both man and beast: mine shall they be; I am the LORD.*

14 ¶ And the LORD spoke unto Moses in the wilderness of Sinai, saying, 15 Number the children of Levi after their divisions, by their families; every male of them from a month old and upward shalt thou number.

16 And Moses numbered them according to the order of the LORD, as he had been commanded.

17 And these were the sons of Levi by their names: Gershon, and Kehath, and Merari.

18 And these are the names of the sons of Gershon after their families: Libni, and Shimi.

19 And the sons of Kehath after their families: 'Amram, and Yizhar, Chebron, and 'Uzziel.

20 And the sons of Merari after their families: Machli, and Mushi; these are the families of the Levites according to their family divisions.

21 Of Gershon: the family of the Libnites, and the family of the Shimites; these are the families of the Gershunites.

22 Those that were numbered of them, by the numbering of all the males from a month old and upward, even those that were numbered of them, were seven thousand and five hundred.

23 The families of the Gershunites used to encamp behind the tabernacle, westward.

24 And the prince of the family division of the Gershunites was Elyassaph the son of Laël.

25 And the charge of the sons of Gershon in the tabernacle of the congregation was the tabernacle and the tent, its covering, and the hanging for the door of the tabernacle of the congregation,

26 And the hangings of the court, and the curtain for the door of the court, which is by the tabernacle and by the altar, round about, and its cords for all the service thereof.

27 ¶ And of Kehath: the family of the 'Amramites, and the family of the Yizharites, and the family of the Chebronites, and the family of the 'Uzziëlites; these are the families of the Kehathites.

28 By the numbering of all the males, from a month old and upward, they were eight thousand and six hundred, keeping the charge of the sanctuary.

29 The families of the sons of Kehath used to encamp on the side of the tabernacle, southward.

30 And the prince of the division of the families of the Kehathites was Elizaphan the son of 'Uzziël.

31 And their charge was the ark, and the table, and the candlestick, and the altars, and the vessels of the sanctuary which are used for the service, and the vail, and all belonging thereto.

32 And the chief over the princes of the Levites was Elazar the son of Aaron the priest, having the oversight of those that kept the charge of the sanctuary.

33 Of Merari: the family of the Machlites, and the family of the Mushites; these are the families of Merari.

34 And those that were numbered of them, by the numbering of all the males, from a month old and upward, were six thousand and two hundred.

35 And the chief of the division of the families of Merari was Zuriël the son of Abichayil: they used to encamp on the side of the tabernacle, northward.

36 And under the custody and charge of the sons of Merari were the boards of the tabernacle, and its bars, and its pillars, and its sockets, and all its vessels, and all that belongeth thereto, 37 And the pillars of the court round about, and their sockets, and their pins, and their cords.

38 But those that encamped before the tabernacle toward the east, even before the tabernacle of the congregation toward the rising of the sun, were Moses, and Aaron, and his sons, keeping the charge of the sanctuary for the charge of the children of Israel; and the stranger that came nigh was to be put to death.

39 All that were numbered of the Levites, whom Moses numbered with Aaron, at the order of the LORD, according to their families, all the males from a month old and upward, were twenty and two[a] thousand.*

40 ¶ And the LORD said unto Moses, Number all the first-born males of the children of Israel from a month old and upward, and take the number of their names.

41 And thou shalt take the Levites for me,[b] I am the LORD, instead of all the first-born among the children of Israel; and the cattle of the Levites instead of all the first-born among the cattle of the children of Israel.

42 And Moses numbered, as the LORD had commanded him, all the first-born among the children of Israel.

43 And all the first-born males, by the numbering of the names, from a month old and upward, of those that were numbered of them, were twenty and two thousand two hundred and seventy and three.

44 ¶ And the LORD spoke unto Moses, saying,

45 Take the Levites instead of all the first-born among the children of Israel, and the cattle of the Levites instead of their cattle; and the Levites shall be mine: I am the LORD.[c]

46 And (for) those that are to be redeemed, the two hundred and seventy and three of the first-born of the children of Israel, who are more than the Levites,

47 Thou shalt take five shekels apiece for the poll; after the shekel of the sanctuary shalt thou take, twenty gerahs to the shekel;

48 And thou shalt give unto Aaron and to his sons the money, (for) those who are to be redeemed of those that are over the number of them.

49 And Moses took the redemption-money of those that were over in number above those who were redeemed by the Levites:

50 Of the first-born of the children of Israel did he take the money; a thousand three hundred and sixty and five shekels, after the shekel of the sanctuary.

51 And Moses gave the money of those who were redeemed unto Aaron and unto his sons, by the order of the LORD; as the LORD had commanded Moses.*

CHAPTER IV.

1 ¶ And the LORD spoke unto Moses and unto Aaron, saying,

2 Take the sum of the sons of Kehath from among the sons of Levi, after their families, by their divisions,

3 From thirty years old and upward even until fifty years old, all that are fitted for the service,[d] to do work at the tabernacle of the congregation.

4 This shall be the service of the sons of Kehath at the tabernacle of the congregation: The most holy things.

5 And Aaron shall come with his sons, when the camp setteth forward, and they shall take down the vail of the separation, and cover therewith the ark of the testimony;

6 And they shall put over it a covering of badgers' skins, and they shall spread over all a cloth wholly of blue (woollen yarn), and they shall put in its staves.[e]

7 And over the table of the showbread shall they spread a cloth of blue, and put thereon the dishes, and the spoons, and the tubes, and the staves of the covering; and the continual[f] bread shall be thereon:

8 And they shall spread over them a cloth

[a] Which Aben Ezra comments on, "beside three hundred first-born among them, as these did not redeem the first-born of Israel."

[b] Mendelssohn renders "unto me the LORD;" but it seems to be the phrase frequently found by positive enactments or prohibitions, and means to declare that they are the authoritative injunctions of the great Sovereign, which is the only reason assigned for their enactment.

[c] "Me the LORD."—MENDELSSOHN.

[d] After Mendelssohn; lit., "That enter the army" or "host," i. e. of those who do the service at the tabernacle, or those who are from thirty to fifty years of age.

of scarlet, and cover the same with a covering of badgers' skins; and they shall put in its staves.

9 And they shall take a cloth of blue, and cover the candlestick of the lighting, and its lamps, and its tongs, and its snuff-dishes, and all the oil-vessels thereof, wherewith they minister by it:

10 And they shall put it and all its vessels within a covering of badgers' skins, and they shall put it upon a barrow.

11 And over the golden altar shall they spread a cloth of blue, and cover it with a covering of badgers' skins; and they shall put in its staves.

12 And they shall take all the vessels of the service, wherewith they minister in the sanctuary, and put them in a cloth of blue, and cover them with a covering of badgers' skins; and they shall put them on a barrow.

13 And they shall take away the ashes from the altar, and spread over it a cloth of purple;

14 And they shall put upon it all its vessels, wherewith they minister upon it, the fire-pans, the forks, and the shovels, and the basins, all the vessels of the altar; and they shall spread over it a covering of badgers' skins, and put in its staves.

15 And when Aaron and his sons have thus made an end of covering the sanctuary, and all the vessels of the sanctuary, when the camp is to set forward: then shall, after that, the sons of Kehath come to carry it; but they shall not touch any holy thing, lest they die; these are the things which the sons of Kehath are to carry at the tabernacle of the congregation.

16 And under the supervision of Elazar the son of Aaron the priest shall be the oil for the lighting, and the incense of spices, and the daily meat-offering, and the anointing-oil; the supervision of all the tabernacle, and of all that is therein, over the sanctuary, and over its vessels.[a]

17 ¶ And the LORD spoke unto Moses and unto Aaron, saying,

18 Do ye[a] not cause the tribe of the families of the Kehathites to be cut off from among the Levites:

19 But thus do unto them, that they may live, and not die, when they approach unto the most holy things: Aaron and his sons shall go in, and appoint them, every one, to his service and to his burden;

20 That they may not go in to see when the holy things are covered, and die.

SECTION XXXV. NAHSSO, נשא.

21 ¶ And the LORD spoke unto Moses, saying,

22 Take also the sum of the sons of Gershon, by their divisions, after their families;

23 From thirty years old and upward until fifty years old shalt thou number them; all that are fitted for the service, to do work in the tabernacle of the congregation.

24 This shall be the service of the families of the Gershunites, to serve, and to carry:

25 They shall carry the curtains of the tabernacle, and of the tent of the congregation, its covering, and the covering of the badgers' skins that is over it above, and the hanging for the door of the tabernacle of the congregation,

26 And the hangings of the court, and the hanging for the door of the gate of the court, which is by the tabernacle and by the altar round about, and their cords, and all the vessels of their service; and all that is delivered[b] to them shall they perform.

27 By the order of Aaron and his sons shall be all the service of the sons of the Gershunites, in all their carrying, and in all their service: and ye shall designate unto them in charge all which they have to carry.

28 This is the service of the families of the sons of the Gershunites at the tabernacle of the congregation; and their charge shall be under the supervision of Ithamar the son of Aaron the priest.

29 ¶ The sons of Merari, shalt thou number after their families, by their divisions;

30 From thirty years old and upward, even until fifty years old, shalt thou number them, every one that is fitted for the service, to do the work of the tabernacle of the congregation.

[a] This is an injunction to the chief superintendent of the sanctuary not to allow those who are to be engaged in carrying it, to touch it in any wise before it is time, for by this they would incur the penalty of death. Hence the great care enjoined here.

[b] After Onkelos, who renders עשה in the sense "to be

31 And this is what is confided to them to carry, regarding all their service at the tabernable of the congregation: The boards of the tabernacle, and its bars, and its pillars, and its sockets,

32 And the pillars of the court round about, and their sockets, and their pins, and their cords, with all their instruments, and all which belongeth thereto; and by name shall ye designate (to them) the vessels which are confided to them to carry.

33 This is the service of the families of the sons of Merari, regarding all their service, at the tabernacle of the congregation, under the supervision of Ithamar the son of Aaron, the priest.*

34 And Moses with Aaron and the princes of the congregation numbered the sons of the Kehathites after their families, and after their divisions,

35 From thirty years old and upward, even until fifty years old, every one that was fitted for the service, for the work at the tabernacle of the congregation.

36 And those that were numbered of them after their families were two thousand seven hundred and fifty.

37 These were they that were numbered of the families of the Kehathites, all that could do service at the tabernacle of the congregation, whom Moses with Aaron numbered by the order of the LORD through the hand of Moses.*

38 ¶ And those that were numbered of the sons of Gershon, after their families, and after their divisions,

39 From thirty years old and upward, even until fifty years old, every one that was fitted for the service, for the work at the tabernacle of the congregation,

40 Even those that were numbered of them, after their families, after their divisions, were two thousand and six hundred and thirty.

41 These are they that were numbered of the families of the sons of Gershon, all that could do service at the tabernacle of the congregation, whom Moses with Aaron numbered by the order of the LORD.

42 And those that were numbered of the families of the sons of Merari, after their families, after their divisions,

43 From thirty years old and upward, even until fifty years old, every one that was fitted for the service, for the work at the tabernacle of the congregation,

44 Even those that were numbered of them after their families, were three thousand and two hundred.

45 These are those that were numbered of the families of the sons of Merari, whom Moses with Aaron numbered by the order of the LORD through the hand of Moses.

46 All those that were numbered of the Levites, whom Moses with Aaron and the chiefs of Israel numbered, after their families, and after their divisions,

47 From thirty years old and upward, even until fifty years old, every one that came to do the service of the ministry,[a] and the service of the carrying at the tabernacle of the congregation,

48 Even those that were numbered of them, were eight thousand and five hundred and eighty.

49 By the order of the LORD through the hand of Moses, did he appoint[b] them, every one to his proper service, and to his proper carrying: and they were numbered, as the LORD had commanded Moses.*

CHAPTER V.

1 ¶ And the LORD spoke unto Moses, saying,

2 Command the children of Israel, that they send out of the camp every leper, and every one that hath an issue, and whosoever is defiled by the dead:

3 Both male and female shall ye send out, to without the camp shall ye send them; that they defile not their camps, in the midst whereof I dwell.

4 And the children of Israel did so, and they sent them out to without the camp: as made over," or "assigned." Others render, "and whatever is to be done thereon."

[a] Perhaps referring to the priests, for they, being Levites, were also numbered with the other Kehathites. Rashi refers it to the music and singing, which devolved on the Levites. Jonathan has, "the service of watching."

Aben Ezra comments, "to raise the tabernacle, to make the bread, to slay (the sacrifices,) and to watch."

[b] The different versions of the word פקד in this passage are according to Mendelssohn; still, "appointing" is literally a "counting off" of all those are to do a certain work together.

the LORD had spoken unto Moses, so did the children of Israel.

5 ¶ And the LORD spoke unto Moses, saying,

6 Speak unto the children of Israel, If any man or woman commit any sin against a fellow-man, thereby doing a trespass against the LORD, and this person thus become guilty:

7 Then shall they[a] confess their sin which they have committed; and he shall make restitution for his trespass with the principal thereof, and its fifth part shall he add thereto, and give it unto him against whom he hath trespassed.[b]

8 But if the man have no kinsman to whom restitution could be made for the trespass, then shall the trespass which is restored unto the LORD, belong to the priest; besides the ram of the atonement, whereby an atonement shall be made for him.

9 And every offering of all the holy things of the children of Israel, which they bring unto the priest, shall be his.

10 And every man's hallowed things shall be his:[c] whatsoever any man giveth to the priest, shall belong to him.*

11 ¶ And the LORD spoke unto Moses, saying,

12 Speak unto the children of Israel, and say unto them, If the wife of any man go aside, and commit a trespass against him,

13 And a man lie with her carnally, and it be hidden from the eyes of her husband, because she hath been secretly defiled; and there be no witness against her, and she have not been detected in the fact;

14 And the spirit of jealousy come over him, and he be jealous of his wife, and she have been defiled; or the spirit of jealousy come over him, and he be jealous of his wife, and she have not been defiled:

15 Then shall the man bring his wife unto the priest, and he shall bring her offering for her, the tenth part of an ephah of barley-meal; he shall not pour any oil upon it, nor put any frankincense thereupon; for it is a meat-offering of jealousy, a meat-offering of memorial, bringing iniquity to remembrance.

16 And the priest shall bring her near, and place her before the LORD;

17 And the priest shall take holy water[d] in an earthen vessel; and of the dust that is on the floor of the tabernacle the priest shall take, and put it into the water;

18 And the priest shall place the woman before the LORD, and uncover the woman's head, and put upon her hands the meat-offering of memorial, it is the meat-offering of jealousy; and in the hand of the priest shall be the bitter waters that bring the curse.

19 And the priest shall charge her by an oath, and he shall say unto the woman, If no man have lain with thee, and if thou hast not gone aside to uncleanness behind thy husband: then be thou free from these bitter waters that bring the curse.

20 But if thou hast gone aside behind thy husband, and if thou hast been defiled, and some man have lain with thee besides thy husband:—[e]

21 And the priest shall charge the woman with an oath of imprecation, and the priest shall say unto the woman, The LORD then make thee a curse and an oath among thy people, when the LORD doth cause thy thigh to fall away, and thy belly to swell;

22 And these waters that bring the curse shall go into thy bowels, to cause the belly to swell, and the thigh to fall away; and the woman shall say, Amen, amen.

23 And the priest shall write these curses on a roll, and he shall blot them out with the bitter waters.

24 And he shall cause the woman to drink the bitter waters that bring the curse; and the waters that bring the curse shall enter into her for bitterness.

25 And the priest shall take out of the woman's hand the meat-offering of jealousy,

[a] The rapid change here from the singular to the plural, is a peculiarity in Hebrew, easily understood, and has been noticed before.

[b] i. e. If he should be living; but if dead, to his near relatives. This will explain the succeeding verse, where a person is spoken of who leaves no one authorized to claim his property.

[c] A man has the right to bestow the gifts of the priesthood on whomsoever he pleases, although he cannot use them himself. No individual priest has any claim on any Israelite for the sacred things; but when once parted with, then are they the priest's in full right.

[d] i. e. That which has been sanctified in the laver. The preparation of the bitter waters as here described, of the meanest materials in a mean vessel, was to typify the abhorrence of incest in the estimation of the LORD.

[e] Here the idea breaks off, and is resumed in the next verse at the words, "The LORD then make thee."

and he shall wave the meat-offering before the LORD, and bring it near to the altar:

26 And the priest shall take a handful from the meat-offering, as its memorial, and burn it upon the altar, and after that shall he cause the woman to drink the water.

27 And when he hath made her drink the water, then shall it come to pass, if she have been defiled, and have committed a trespass against her husband, that the waters that bring the curse shall enter into her, for bitterness, and her belly shall swell, and her thigh shall fall away; and the woman shall become a curse among her people.

28 And if the woman have not been defiled, but be clean: then shall she remain unharmed, and she shall conceive seed.

29 This is the law of jealousies, when a woman goeth aside behind her husband, and hath been defiled;

30 Or when the spirit of jealousy cometh over him, and he be jealous of his wife;[a] and he shall place the woman before the LORD, and the priest shall do unto her altogether according to this law.

31 And the man shall be guiltless from iniquity; but this woman shall bear her iniquity.[b]

CHAPTER VI.

1 ¶ And the LORD spoke unto Moses, saying,

2 Speak unto the children of Israel, and say unto them, When either man or woman pronounce an especial vow, the vow of a Nazarite, to be abstinent in honour of the LORD:

3 Then shall he abstain from wine and strong drink, vinegar of wine, or vinegar of strong drink shall he not drink, and any infusion of grapes shall he not drink, and grapes, fresh or dried, shall he not eat.

4 All the days of his abstinence shall he eat nothing that is made of the grape-vine, from the kernels even to the husk.

5 All the days of the vow of his abstinence no razor shall pass over his head: until the days be completed, in which he abstaineth in honour of the LORD, shall he be holy, letting grow untouched the hair of his head.

6 All the days of his abstinence in honour of the LORD shall he not come near any dead body.

7 On his father, or on his mother, on his brother, or on his sister, shall he not make himself unclean, when they die; because the consecration of his God is upon his head.

8 All the days of his abstinence is he holy unto the LORD.

9 And if some one die very suddenly by him, and he thus defile his consecrated head: then shall he shave his head on the day of his being cleansed, on the seventh day shall he shave it.

10 And on the eighth day shall he bring two turtle-doves, or two young pigeons, to the priest, to the door of the tabernacle of the congregation:

11 And the priest shall prepare the one for a sin-offering, and the other for a burnt-offering, and make an atonement for him, because he hath sinned through the dead; and he shall hallow[c] his head on that same day.

12 And he shall consecrate unto the LORD (again) the days of his abstinence, and he shall bring a sheep of the first year for a trespass-offering; but the prior days shall not be counted, because his consecration hath been defiled.

13 And this is the law of the Nazarite: On the day when the days of his abstinence are completed, shall he present himself at the door of the tabernacle of the congregation;

14 And he shall bring his offering unto the LORD, one male sheep of the first year without blemish for a burnt-offering, and one ewe of the first year without blemish for a sin-offering, and one ram without blemish for a peace-offering,

15 And a basket of unleavened bread, cakes of fine flour mingled with oil, and unleavened wafers anointed with oil; and their meat-offering, and their drink-offerings.

16 And the priest shall bring them near before the LORD, and he shall prepare his sin-offering, and his burnt-offering:

17 And the ram shall he prepare for a sacrifice of peace-offering unto the LORD, with the basket of unleavened bread; and the priest shall prepare his meat-offering and his drink-offering.

18 And the Nazarite shall shave at the door of the tabernacle of the congregation his consecrated head; and he shall take the hair of his consecrated head, and put it on the fire which is under the sacrifice of the peace-offering.

19 And the priest shall take the shoulder of the ram when it is cooked, and one unleavened cake out of the basket, and one unleavened wafer, and he shall put them upon the hands of the Nazarite, after he hath shaved his consecrated (head).

20 And the priest shall make with them a waving before the LORD; it is a holy gift for the priest, together with the breast that was waved and the shoulder that was lifted up:[a] and after that may the Nazarite drink wine.

21 This is the law of the Nazarite who hath vowed; his offering unto the LORD for his abstinence, besides that which he may be able to give: according to his vow which he may vow, so must he do in addition to what is required by the law of his abstinence.

22 ¶ And the LORD spoke unto Moses, saying,

23 Speak unto Aaron and unto his sons, saying, Thus[b] shall ye bless the children of Israel, saying unto them,

24 ¶ The LORD bless thee, and preserve thee;

25 ¶ The LORD make his face shine unto thee, and be gracious to thee;

26 ¶ The LORD lift up his countenance unto thee, and give thee peace.

27 ¶ And they shall put my name[c] upon the children of Israel: and I will bless them.*

CHAPTER VII.

1 ¶ And it came to pass on the day that Moses had finally set up the tabernacle, and had anointed, and sanctified it, and all its vessels, as also the altar and all its vessels, and had anointed them, and sanctified them:

2 That the princes of Israel, the heads of their family divisions, who were the princes of the tribes, the same who had superintended the numbering, offered.

3 And they brought their offering before the LORD, Six covered wagons, and twelve oxen; a wagon for two princes, and an ox for each one: and they presented them before the tabernacle.

4 And the LORD spoke unto Moses, saying,

5 Take it from them, that they may be used to do the service of the tabernacle of the congregation; and thou shalt give them unto the Levites, to every man according to his service.

6 And Moses took the wagons and the oxen, and gave them unto the Levites.

7 Two of the wagons and four of the oxen he gave unto the sons of Gershon, according to their service:

8 And four of the wagons and eight of the oxen he gave unto the sons of Merari, according to their service, under the supervision of Ithamar, the son of Aaron the priest.

9 But unto the sons of Kehath he gave none; because the service of the sanctuary belonged unto them, they were to bear upon their shoulders.

10 The princes also offered for the dedicating of the altar on the day that it was anointed; and the princes presented their offering before the altar.[d]

[a] As usual with other peace-offerings.

[b] You shall not bless them with a blessing of your own, as a man says: May such a good come upon the head of that one; but unto me shall ye pray that I may bless them; as it is said here, "May the LORD bless thee;" and I will hear your voice and bless Israel.—RASHBAM. The blessings, however, are not for the bestowal of worldly goods merely; for they also refer to the Divine grace and light, which are the greatest good unto man.

[c] This either means, as Rashi says, that in blessing the people the priests should pronounce the most holy name of the LORD, or that they should, as said already, refer the issue of events to God alone, who would bless as might seem best in his wisdom.

[d] After the altar had been duly consecrated by the ceremonies and sacrifices detailed in their proper places, the princes of the congregation volunteered yet more than the large gifts bestowed by them for the erection of the tabernacle, to testify their devotion for the religion which they had received. The first offering they brought, consisting of six covered wagons, with twelve draught oxen, Moses would not accept, till he was ordered to do so, and to apply them to the use of the Levites. Now the most holy things, as the ark, the altars, the table, and the candlestick, were intrusted to the sons of Kehath; but as all these were to be carried upon the shoulder, no beast of burden was assigned to them. Different, however, was it with those who were charged with the transportation of the heavier articles belonging to the tabernacle, to wit, the sons of Gershon, and they received therefore two wagons and four oxen, while those who carried the boards, pillars, and sockets, &c., of the tabernacle and court, the sons of Merari, obtained four wagons and eight oxen to aid them in their more laborious work. In addi-

11 And the LORD said unto Moses, One prince each on a given day, shall they offer their offering, for the dedication of the altar.*

12 ¶ And he that offered his offering on the first day was Nachshon the son of 'Amminadab, of the tribe of Judah:

13 And his offering was one silver charger, the weight whereof was a hundred and thirty shekels, one silver bowl of seventy shekels, after the shekel of the sanctuary; both of them full of fine flour mingled with oil for a meat-offering;

14 One spoon of ten shekels of gold, full of incense;

15 One young bullock, one ram, one sheep of the first year, for a burnt-offering;

16 One he-goat for a sin-offering;

17 And for a sacrifice of peace-offering, two oxen, five rams, five he-goats, five sheep of the first year; this was the offering of Nachshon the son of 'Amminadab.

18 ¶ On the second day Nethanel the son of Zuär, the prince of Issachar, did offer:

19 He offered for his offering one silver charger, the weight whereof was a hundred and thirty shekels, one silver bowl of seventy shekels, after the shekel of the sanctuary; both of them full of fine flour mingled with oil for a meat-offering;

20 One spoon of ten shekels of gold, full of incense;

21 One young bullock, one ram, one sheep of the first year, for a burnt-offering;

22 One he-goat for a sin-offering;

23 And for a sacrifice of peace-offering, two oxen, five rams, five he-goats, five sheep of the first year; this was the offering of Nethanel the son of Zuär.

24 ¶ On the third day Eliab the son of Chelon, the prince of the children of Zebulun, (did offer):

25 His offering was one silver charger, the weight whereof was a hundred and thirty shekels, one silver bowl of seventy shekels, after the shekel of the sanctuary; both of them full of fine flour mingled with oil for a meat-offering;

26 One spoon of ten shekels of gold, full of incense;

27 One young bullock, one ram, one sheep of the first year, for a burnt-offering;

28 One he-goat for a sin-offering;

29 And for a sacrifice of peace-offering, two oxen, five rams, five he-goats, five sheep of the first year; this was the offering of Eliab the son of Chelon.

30 ¶ On the fourth day Elizur the son of Shedeür, the prince of the children of Reuben, (did offer):

31 His offering was one silver charger, the weight whereof was a hundred and thirty shekels, one silver bowl of seventy shekels, after the shekel of the sanctuary; both of them full of fine flour mingled with oil for a meat-offering;

32 One spoon of ten shekels of gold, full of incense;

33 One young bullock, one ram, one sheep of the first year, for a burnt-offering;

34 One he-goat for a sin-offering;

35 And for a sacrifice of peace-offering, two oxen, five rams, five he-goats, five sheep of the first year; this was the offering of Elizur the son of Shedeür.

36 ¶ On the fifth day Shelumiël the son of Zurishaddai, the prince of the children of Simeon, (did offer):

37 His offering was one silver charger, the weight whereof was a hundred and thirty shekels, one silver bowl of seventy shekels, after the shekel of the sanctuary; both of them full of fine flour mingled with oil for a meat-offering;

38 One spoon of ten shekels of gold, full of incense;

39 One young bullock, one ram, one sheep of the first year, for a burnt-offering;

40 One he-goat for a sin-offering;

41 And for a sacrifice of peace-offering, two oxen, five rams, five he-goats, five sheep of the first year; this was the offering of Shelumiël the son of Zurishaddai.*

tion to these presents, the princes also came charged each with the same sacrifices and vessels for the use of the sanctuary; and so well was this liberality received by the Most High, that Moses was ordered to enjoin upon the princes that the sacrifices should not be offered all at once, but during a period of twelve days, and that they should use the order in which they moved forward in their march: Judah first, then Zebulun, Issachar, &c., ending with Naphtali, not according to the order of the birth of the fathers of the tribes. There was no difference whatever in the gifts of the various chiefs; thus showing that all were alike acceptable, whether descended from Leah and Rachel, or from Zilpah and Bilhah. This is also probably the reason why they are all separately recorded.

42 ¶ On the sixth day Elyassaph the son of Deüel,[a] the prince of the children of Gad, (did offer):

43 His offering was one silver charger, the weight whereof was a hundred and thirty shekels, one silver bowl of seventy shekels, after the shekel of the sanctuary; both of them full of fine flour mingled with oil for a meat-offering;

44 One spoon of ten shekels of gold, full of incense;

45 One young bullock, one ram, one sheep of the first year, for a burnt-offering;

46 One he-goat for a sin-offering:

47 And for a sacrifice of peace-offering, two oxen, five rams, five he-goats, five sheep of the first year; this was the offering of Elyassaph the son of Deüel.

48 ¶ On the seventh day Elishama the son of 'Ammihud, the prince of the children of Ephraim, (did offer):

49 His offering was one silver charger, the weight whereof was a hundred and thirty shekels, one silver bowl of seventy shekels, after the shekel of the sanctuary; both of them full of fine flour mingled with oil for a meat-offering;

50 One spoon of ten shekels of gold, full of incense;

51 One young bullock, one ram, one sheep of the first year, for a burnt-offering;

52 One he-goat for a sin-offering;

53 And for a sacrifice of peace-offering, two oxen, five rams, five he-goats, five sheep of the first year; this was the offering of Elishama the son of 'Ammihud.

54 ¶ On the eighth day Gamliël the son of Pedahzur, the prince of the children of Menasseh, (did offer):

55 His offering was one silver charger, the weight whereof was a hundred and thirty shekels, one silver bowl of seventy shekels, after the shekel of the sanctuary; both of them full of fine flour mingled with oil for a meat-offering;

56 One spoon of ten shekels of gold, full of incense;

57 One young bullock, one ram, one sheep of the first year, for a burnt-offering;

58 One he-goat for a sin-offering;

59 And for a sacrifice of peace-offering, two oxen, five rams, five he-goats, five sheep of the first year; this was the offering of Gamliël the son of Pedahzur.

60 ¶ On the ninth day Abidan the son of Gidoni, the prince of the children of Benjamin, (did offer):

61 His offering was one silver charger, the weight whereof was a hundred and thirty shekels, one silver bowl of seventy shekels, after the shekel of the sanctuary; both of them full of fine flour mingled with oil for a meat-offering;

62 One spoon of ten shekels of gold, full of incense;

63 One young bullock, one ram, one sheep of the first year, for a burnt-offering;

64 One he-goat for a sin-offering;

65 And for a sacrifice of peace-offering, two oxen, five rams, five he-goats, five sheep of the first year; this was the offering of Abidan the son of Gidoni.

66 ¶ On the tenth day Achiëzer the son of 'Ammishaddai, the prince of the children of Dan, (did offer):

67 His offering was one silver charger, the weight whereof was a hundred and thirty shekels, one silver bowl of seventy shekels, after the shekel of the sanctuary; both of them full of fine flour mingled with oil for a meat-offering;

68 One spoon of ten shekels of gold, full of incense:

69 One young bullock, one ram, one sheep of the first year, for a burnt-offering;

70 One he-goat for a sin-offering;

71 And for a sacrifice of peace-offering, two oxen, five rams, five he-goats, five sheep of the first year; this was the offering of Achiëzer the son of 'Ammishaddai.*

72 ¶ On the eleventh day Pagiël the son of 'Ochran, the prince of the children of Asher, (did offer):

73 His offering was one silver charger, the weight whereof was a hundred and thirty shekels, one silver bowl of seventy shekels, after the shekel of the sanctuary; both of them full of fine flour mingled with oil for a meat-offering;

74 One spoon of ten shekels of gold, full of incense;

75 One young bullock, one ram, one sheep of the first year, for a burnt-offering;

76 One he-goat for a sin-offering;

77 And for a sacrifice of peace-offering,

[a] This name is elsewhere (ii. 14) given as Reüel, the ר resh being substituted for ד daleth.

two oxen, five rams, five he-goats, five sheep of the first year; this was the offering of Pagiël the son of 'Ochran.

78 ¶ On the twelfth day Achira the son of 'Enan, the prince of the children of Naphtali, (did offer):

79 His offering was one silver charger, the weight whereof was a hundred and thirty shekels, one silver bowl of seventy shekels, after the shekel of the sanctuary; both of them full of fine flour mingled with oil for a meat-offering;

80 One spoon of ten shekels of gold, full of incense;

81 One young bullock, one ram, one sheep of the first year, for a burnt-offering;

82 One he-goat for a sin-offering;

83 And for a sacrifice of peace-offering, two oxen, five rams, five he-goats, five sheep of the first year; this was the offering of Achira the son of 'Enan.

84 ¶ This was the dedication-offering of the altar, on the day when it was anointed, from the princes of Israel: Twelve silver chargers, twelve silver bowls, twelve golden spoons;

85 A hundred and thirty shekels was the weight of each silver charger, and seventy of each bowl; the silver of all the vessels was two thousand and four hundred shekels, after the shekel of the sanctuary;

86 Twelve golden spoons, full of incense;[a] ten shekels was the weight of each spoon, after the shekel of the sanctuary; all the gold of the spoons was a hundred and twenty shekels.*

87 All the oxen for the burnt-offering were twelve bullocks, the rams were twelve, the sheep of the first year twelve, with their meat-offering; and the he-goats for sin-offering were twelve.

88 And all the oxen for the sacrifice of the peace-offerings were twenty and four bullocks, the rams were sixty, the he-goats sixty, the sheep of the first year sixty: this was the dedication-offering of the altar, after it had been anointed.

89 And when Moses went into the tabernacle of the congregation to speak with Him, then heard he the voice speaking unto him from off the mercy-seat that was upon the ark of testimony, from between the two cherubim: and thus he spoke unto him.

CHAPTER VIII.

1 ¶ And the LORD spoke unto Moses, saying,

2 Speak unto Aaron, and say unto him, When thou lightest the lamps,[b] then shall the seven lamps give light toward the body of the candlestick.

3 And Aaron did so; toward the body of the candlestick did he light its lamps; as the LORD had commanded Moses.

4 And this was the workmanship of the candlestick: It was of beaten gold, from the shaft thereof, unto the flowers thereof, it was beaten work; according unto the pattern

[a] Rashi, after Talmud Menachoth, remarks: "We find no mention of incense for an individual, nor such an offering upon the outer altar, (i. e. that of burnt-offering,) except in this instance, (i. e. at the consecration of the tabernacle,) and it was merely permitted as הוראת שעה a temporary rule only for the time." In farther explanation of this view, it may be added, that incense was a national offering, ordered to be burnt upon the golden altar, before the vail, morning and evening, and to be carried within the vail on the day of atonement. A special dispensation must therefore have been granted to do as the princes did at the consecration, though probably the mixture was not identical with that prepared for the sanctuary under the superintendence of Moses. This, however, in no wise abolishes the force of the general prohibition, nor can it legalize our deviating therefrom, unless by an equally authoritative dispensation; and thus a strange incense could on no account be offered on either altar, after the event under consideration. There are other instances in Scripture, of a temporary suspension of certain precepts, such as the officiating of Moses before Aaron's assumption of the priestly office; the sacrifice of Elijah on Carmel, against the positive order of the law not to offer any thing at any other place save the chosen sanctuary. But it will always be seen that there were weighty reasons for the suspensions,—that they were sanctioned or ordained by the Holy Spirit; and that consequently we are from such premises not authorized to suspend any precept by our own authority, except there be an absolute necessity which compels us to disobey.

[b] The middle light, which was not on the branches, but on the body of the candlestick; the wicks of the six lamps, upon the six branches, of the three eastern, as well as of the three western, were turned toward the middle lamp.—RASHI. In this manner the whole seven lights were all turned to one point.

which the LORD had shown Moses, so made he the candlestick.

5 ¶ And the LORD spoke unto Moses, saying,

6 Take the Levites from the midst of the children of Israel, and cleanse them.

7 And thus shalt thou do unto them, to cleanse them: Sprinkle upon them water of purification, after they have let the razor pass over all their flesh, and then let them wash their clothes, and so shall they be clean.

8 And they shall take a young bullock with his meat-offering, fine flour mingled with oil; and another young bullock shalt thou take for a sin-offering.

9 And thou shalt bring near the Levites before the tabernacle of the congregation: and thou shalt assemble together the whole congregation of the children of Israel.

10 And when thou hast brought near the Levites before the LORD, then shall the children of Israel lay their hands upon the Levites:

11 And Aaron shall make with the Levites a waving before the LORD from the children of Israel, that they may be ready to execute the service of the LORD.

12 And the Levites shall lay their hands upon the heads of the bullocks: and thou shalt prepare the one as a sin-offering, and the other as a burnt-offering, unto the LORD, to make an atonement for the Levites.

13 And thou shalt place the Levites before Aaron and before his sons, and make with them a waving before the LORD.

14 Thus shalt thou separate the Levites from the midst of the children of Israel: and the Levites shall be mine.*

15 And after that shall the Levites go in to do the service of the tabernacle of the congregation: after thou shalt have cleansed them, and made with them a waving.

16 For they are wholly given[a] unto me from the midst of the children of Israel: instead of every one that openeth the womb, of every first-born of the children of Israel, have I taken them unto me.

17 For mine are all the first-born of the children of Israel, both of man and beast: on the day that I smote every first-born in the land of Egypt did I sanctify them unto myself.

18 And I have taken the Levites, instead of all the first-born among the children of Israel.

19 And I have given the Levites as a gift to Aaron and to his sons from the midst of the children of Israel, to do the service of the children of Israel in the tabernacle of the congregation, and to make an atonement for the children of Israel; that there be no plague among the children of Israel, when the children of Israel come nigh unto the sanctuary.

20 And so did Moses, and Aaron, and all the congregation of the children of Israel, to the Levites: according unto all that the LORD had commanded Moses concerning the Levites, so did the children of Israel unto them.

21 And the Levites purified themselves, and they washed their clothes; and Aaron made with them a waving before the LORD: and Aaron made an atonement for them to cleanse them.

22 And after that went the Levites in to do their service in the tabernacle of the congregation before Aaron, and before his sons: as the LORD had commanded Moses concerning the Levites, so did they unto them.

23 ¶ And the LORD spoke unto Moses, saying,

24 This shall be the rule for the Levites: From twenty and five[b] years old and upward shall he go into the ranks to do the service of the tabernacle of the congregation;

25 And from the age of fifty years shall he go out of the ranks of the service, and he shall serve no more;

26 But he shall wait on his brethren in the tabernacle of the congregation, to keep the charge, but the service shall he not perform; thus shalt thou do unto the Levites in the discharge of their office.*

[a] Rashi comments on נתנים נתנים "they are given for carrying, given for singing." (See, however, for a different version, according to our authorities, above, iii. 9.)

[b] I. e. At this period they should commence to learn the service, which they entered on at thirty years. Rashbam reconciles the difficulty of iv. 3, &c., where thirty years are named, that that limit applied only to the carrying of the holy vessels and parts of the tabernacle, which also terminated with the fiftieth year; but that all other Levitical functions commenced at twenty-five and continued while the faculties lasted. Onkelos and Rashi also render verse 26, "But he shall serve with his brethren," thus also confining the excluded service to the carrying of the sanctuary.

CHAPTER IX.

1 ¶ And the LORD spoke unto Moses in the wilderness of Sinai, in the second year after their coming out of the land of Egypt, in the first month, saying.

2 That the children of Israel shall prepare the passover-lamb at its appointed season.

3 On the fourteenth day of this month, toward evening, shall ye prepare it at its appointed season: according to all its ordinances, and according to all its prescribed rules, shall ye prepare it.

4 And Moses spoke unto the children of Israel, that they should prepare the passover-lamb.

5 And they prepared the passover-lamb on the fourteenth day of the first month toward evening in the wilderness of Sinai: according to all that the LORD had commanded Moses, so did the children of Israel.

6 But there were certain men, who had been defiled by the dead body of a man, and they could not prepare the passover-lamb on that day: and they came before Moses and before Aaron on that day.

7 And these men said unto him, We are defiled by the dead body of a man: wherefore shall we be kept back, so as not to offer the sacrifice of the LORD at its appointed season in the midst of the (other) children of Israel?

8 And Moses said unto them, Wait ye, and I will hear what the LORD will command concerning you.

9 ¶ And the LORD spoke unto Moses, saying,

10 Speak unto the children of Israel, saying, If any man whatever should be unclean by reason of a dead body, or be on a distant journey,[a] among you or your posterity: yet shall he prepare the passover-lamb unto the LORD;

11 In the second month on the fourteenth day toward evening shall they prepare it, with unleavened bread and bitter herbs shall they eat it.

12 They shall leave none of it until morning, and no bone shall they break on it: according to the whole ordinance of the passover-lamb shall they prepare it.

13 But the man that is clean, and is not on a journey, and forbeareth to prepare the passover-lamb, even that same soul shall be cut off from his people; because the offering of the LORD hath he not brought at its appointed season, his sin shall that man bear.

14 And if a stranger sojourn among you, and will prepare the passover-lamb unto the LORD: according to the ordinance of the passover-lamb, and according to its prescribed rule, so shall he prepare it; one statute shall be for you, both for the stranger, and for the native born in the land.*

15 ¶ And on the day that the tabernacle was reared up the cloud covered the tabernacle of the tent of the testimony: and in the evening there was upon the tabernacle as it were the appearance of fire, until morning.

16 So it used to be always: the cloud covered it (by day), and the appearance of fire by night.

17 And as the cloud was taken up from the tabernacle, then after that did the children of Israel journey forward: and in the place where the cloud halted, there did the children of Israel encamp.

18 At the order of the LORD did the children of Israel journey forward, and at the order of the LORD they encamped: all the days that the cloud abode upon the tabernacle did they remain in camp.

19 And when the cloud tarried upon the tabernacle many days, then did the children of Israel keep the charge of the LORD, and journeyed not forward.

20 And at times it was, that the cloud remained but a few days upon the tabernacle; at the order of the LORD they abode in camp, and at the order of the LORD they journeyed forward.

21 And at times it was, that the cloud remained from evening until morning; and when the cloud was taken up in the morning, they journeyed forward; or a day and a night, and when the cloud was taken up, they journeyed forward;

22 Or two days, or a month, or a year; so long as the cloud tarried upon the tabernacle, to remain thereon, did the children of Israel remain encamped, and journeyed not forward;

[a] This is explained to mean any distance which prevents one from being within the precincts of the temple at the time of the slaying of the passover-lamb.

but when it was taken up, they journeyed forward.

23 At the order of the LORD they remained in camp, and at the order of the LORD they journeyed forward: the charge of the LORD they kept, at the order of the Lord by the hand of Moses.

CHAPTER X.

1 ¶ And the LORD spoke unto Moses, saying,

2 Make unto thyself two trumpets of silver, beaten out of one piece shalt thou make them; and they shall serve thee for the calling of the congregation, and for the setting forward of the camps.

3 And when they shall blow with both, all the congregation shall assemble themselves unto thee at the door of the tabernacle of the congregation.

4 And if they blow[a] with but one, then shall assemble themselves unto thee the princes, the heads of the thousands of Israel.

5 And when ye blow an alarm, then shall set forward the camps that encamp on the east side.

6 And when ye blow an alarm the second time, then shall set forward the camps that encamp on the south side: an alarm shall they blow for their setting forward.

7 But at the assembling of the assembly, ye shall blow, but ye shall not sound an alarm.

8 And the sons of Aaron, the priests, shall blow with the trumpets; and they shall be to you for an ordinance for ever throughout your generations.

9 And if ye go to war in your land against the oppressor that oppresseth you, then shall ye blow an alarm with the trumpets; and ye shall be remembered[b] before the LORD your God, and ye shall be saved from your enemies.

10 And on the day of your gladness, and on your appointed festivals, and on the beginnings of your months, shall ye blow with the trumpets over your burnt-offerings, and over the sacrifices of your peace-offerings; and they shall be to you for a memorial before your God: I am the LORD your God.

11 ¶ And it came to pass in the second year, in the second month, on the twentieth day of the month, that the cloud was taken up from off the tabernacle of the testimony.

12 And the children of Israel set forward on their journeys from the wilderness of Sinai, and the cloud halted in the wilderness of Paran.

13 And they set forward for the first time at the order of the LORD by the hand of Moses.

14 And the standard of the camp of the children of Judah set forward at the first, according to their armies: and over their host was Nachshon the son of 'Amminadab.

15 And over the host of the tribe of the children of Issachar was Nethanel the son of Zuär.

16 And over the host of the tribe of the children of Zebulun was Eliab the son of Chelon.

17 And (in the mean time) the tabernacle was taken down; and then set forward the sons of Gershon and the sons of Merari, the bearers of the tabernacle.

18 Then set forward the standard of the camp of Reüben, according to their armies: and over their host was Elizur the son of Shedeür.

19 And over the host of the tribe of the children of Simeon was Shelumiël the son of Zurishaddai.

20 And over the host of the tribe of the children of Gad was Elyassaph the son of Deüel.

21 And then set forward the Kehathites, the bearers of the sanctuary:[c] and the others set up the tabernacle against they came.

22 Then set forward the standard of the camp of the children of Ephraim according to their armies: and over their host was Elishama the son of 'Ammihud.

23 And over the host of the tribe of the children of Menasseh was Gamliël the son of Pedahzur.

24 And over the host of the tribe of the children of Benjamin was Abidan the son of Gidoni.

[a] The "simple blowing" תקיעה and the "alarm" תרועה are the sounds now blown on the cornet in the New-Year's festival.

[b] Obedience to God alone proves that those who claim his protection are worthy of his favour.

[c] i. e. The holy vessels. (See iv. 4.)

25 Then set forward the standard of the camp of the children of Dan, the rereward of all the camps, according to their hosts: and over their host was Achiëzer the son of 'Ammishaddai.

26 And over the host of the tribe of the children of Asher was Pagiël the son of 'Ochran.

27 And over the host of the tribe of the children of Naphtali was Achira the son of 'Enan.

28 In this order were the journeyings of the children of Israel according to their armies, when they set forward.

29 ¶ And Moses said unto Chobab, the son of Reüel the Midianite, the father-in-law of Moses, We are journeying unto the place of which the LORD hath said, This will I give unto you: come thou with us, and we will do thee good; for the LORD hath spoken (to bring) good upon Israel.

30 And he said unto him, I will not go; but to my own land, and to my birthplace will I go.

31 And he said, Do not, I pray thee, leave us; since thou didst find out the places where we were to encamp in the wilderness, and thou hast[a] been to us instead of eyes.

32 And it shall be, if thou go with us, yea, it shall be, that the same goodness which the LORD may do unto us, will we do unto thee.

33 And they set forward from the mount of the LORD a three days' journey: and the ark of the covenant of the LORD went before them in[b] the three days' journey, to search out for them a resting-place.

34 And the cloud of the LORD was over them by day, when they set forward from the camp.*

35 ¶ And it came to pass, when the ark set forward, that Moses said, Rise up, LORD, and let thy enemies be scattered; and let those that hate thee flee before thy face.

36 And when it rested, he said, Return, O LORD, among the myriads of the thousands of Israel.

CHAPTER XI.

1 ¶ And it came to pass that as the people complained in a manner displeasing in the ears of the LORD, the LORD heard it, and his anger was kindled, and the fire of the LORD burnt among them, and consumed at the uttermost part of the camp.

2 And the people then cried unto Moses; and Moses prayed unto the LORD, and the fire disappeared.

3 And he called the name of the place Tab'erah;[c] because the fire of the LORD had burnt among them.

4 And the mixed multitude that was among them felt a lustful longing: and the children of Israel also wept again, and said, Who will give us flesh to eat?

5 We remember the fish, which we could eat in Egypt for naught; the cucumbers, and the melons, and the leeks, and the onions, and the garlic;

6 But now our soul is faint: there is nothing at all, only to the manna are our eyes (directed).

7[d] But the manna was like coriander-seed, and its colour as the colour of the bdellium.

8 The people went about, and gathered it, and ground it in a mill, or pounded it in a mortar, and boiled it in a pot, or made cakes of it: and its taste was as the taste of cakes mixed with oil.[e]

9 And when the dew fell upon the camp in the night, the manna fell upon it.

10 And Moses heard the people weep according to their families, every man at the door of his tent: and the anger of the LORD was kindled greatly; and in the eyes of Moses also was it displeasing.

11 And Moses said unto the LORD, Wherefore hast thou done evil to thy servant? and wherefore have I not found favour in thy eyes, that thou layest the burden of all this people upon me?

12 Was it I who have conceived all this people? or was it I who have begotten them? that thou shouldst say unto me, Carry them in thy bosom, as a nursing father beareth the sucking child, unto the land which thou hast sworn unto their fathers?

13 Whence shall I obtain flesh to give unto all this people? for they weep around

[a] After Arnheim; others render, "and thou wilt be," &c.
[b] Others translate, "a distance of a three days' journey."
[c] "The place of burning," bak'er, from בער "to burn."
[d] Verses 7, 8, and 9 must be taken as a parenthesis explaining the excellence of the manna which the people despised. The narrative recommences at verse 10.
[e] After Onkelos. Arnheim gives, "the marrow (best) of oil."

me, saying, Give us flesh, that we may eat.

14 I am not able by myself alone to bear all this people, because it is too heavy for me.

15 And if thou wilt thus deal with me, then slay me, I pray thee, at once, if I have found favour in thy eyes; that I may not see my wretchedness.

16 ¶ And the LORD said unto Moses, Gather unto me seventy men of the elders of Israel, whom thou knowest to be the elders of the people, and its officers; and take them unto the tabernacle of the congregation, and they shall stand there with thee.

17 And I will come down and speak with thee there: and I will take some of the spirit which is upon thee, and I will put it upon them;[a] and they shall bear with thee the burden of the people, and thou shalt not bear it by thyself alone.

18 And unto the people shalt thou say, Hold yourselves ready against to-morrow, that ye may eat flesh; for ye have wept in the ears of the LORD, saying, Who shall give us flesh to eat? for it was better with us in Egypt: thus will the LORD give you flesh, and ye shall eat.

19 Not one day shall ye eat, nor two days, nor five days, nor ten days, nor twenty days;

20 But up to a full month, until it come out at your nostrils, and it become loathsome unto you; because that ye have despised the LORD who is in the midst of you, and ye have wept before him, saying, Why did we come forth out of Egypt?

21 And Moses said, Six hundred thousand men on foot is the people, in the midst of whom I am; and yet thou hast said, Flesh will I give them, that they may eat a whole month.

22 Shall flocks and herds be slain for them, that they may suffice for them? or shall all the fish of the sea be gathered together for them, that they may suffice for them?

23 ¶ And the LORD said unto Moses, Should the LORD'S hand be too short? now shalt thou see whether my word shall come to pass unto thee or not.

24 And Moses went out, and spoke to the people the words of the LORD; and he assembled seventy men from the elders of the people, and placed them round about the tabernacle.

25 And the LORD came down in a cloud, and spoke unto him; and he took some of the spirit that was upon him, and put it upon the seventy men, the elders: and it came to pass, that, when the spirit rested upon them, they prophesied, but they did not so any more.

26 And there remained two men in the camp, the name of the one was Eldad, and the name of the other Medad; and the spirit rested upon them; and they were of those that were written down,[b] but they had not gone out unto the tabernacle: and they prophesied in the camp.

27 And there ran a young man, and told to Moses, and said, Eldad and Medad are prophesying in the camp.

28 And Joshua the son of Nun, the servant of Moses from his youth, answered and said, My lord Moses, forbid them.

29 And Moses said unto him, Art thou zealous for my sake? And oh that one might render all the people of the LORD prophets, that the LORD would put his spirit upon them!*

30 And Moses retired back into the camp, he with the elders of Israel.

31 And a wind went forth from the LORD, and drove up quails from the sea, and scattered them over the camp, about a day's journey on this side, and about a day's journey on the other side, round about the camp, and about two cubits high over the face of the earth.

32 And the people arose all that day, and all that night, and all the following day, and they gathered the quails; he that had taken the least, had gathered ten chomers: and they spread them out for themselves round about the camp.

33 The flesh was yet between their teeth, it was not yet chewed: when the wrath of the LORD was kindled against the people, and the LORD smote among the people a very great plague.

34 And he called the name of that place Kibroth-hattaävah;[c] because there they buried the people that had lustfully craved.

[a] Unto what was Moses like at that hour? to a lamp standing upon a candlestick, by which all light their lamps, while its light is in nowise diminished.—RASHI.

[b] It is probable that seventy-two, six from each tribe, were first written down, wherefore two were left over.

[c] i. e. "The graves of the desire."

35 From Kibroth-hattaävah the people journeyed unto Chazeroth; and they remained at Chazeroth.

CHAPTER XII.

1 ¶ And Miriam and Aaron spoke against Moses, on account of the Ethiopian woman whom he had married; for an Ethiopian woman had he married.

2 And they said, Hath then only with[a] Moses the LORD spoken? hath he not also spoken with us? And the LORD heard it.

3 (But the man Moses was very meek, more so than any man who was upon the face of the earth.)

4 ¶ And the LORD said suddenly unto Moses, and unto Aaron, and unto Miriam, Go out ye three unto the tabernacle of the congregation; and these three went out.

5 And the LORD came down in a pillar of cloud, and stood at the door of the tabernacle; and he called Aaron and Miriam, and both of them went out.

6 And he said, Hear now my words: If there be a prophet of your kind, I, the LORD, do make myself known unto him in a vision,[b] in a dream do I speak with him.

7 Not so is my servant Moses, in all my house is he faithful.

8 Mouth to mouth do I speak with him, even evidently, and not in dark speeches; and the similitude of the LORD doth he behold: wherefore then were ye not afraid to speak against my servant, against Moses?

9 And the anger of the LORD was kindled against them, and he went away.

10 And the cloud departed from off the tabernacle; and, behold, Miriam became leprous, (white) as snow; and Aaron turned toward Miriam, and, behold, she was leprous.

11 Then said Aaron unto Moses, Alas, my lord, do not, I beseech thee, account to us as sin that wherein we have done foolishly, and wherein we have sinned.

12 Let her not be as a dead-born child, of which half the flesh is consumed, when it cometh out of its mother's womb.

13 And Moses cried unto the LORD, saying, O God! do thou heal her, I beseech thee.*

14 ¶ And the LORD said unto Moses, If her father had spit in her face, would she not be ashamed seven days? let her be shut up seven days outside of the camp, and after that let her be brought in again.

15 And Miriam was shut up outside of the camp seven days; and the people did not set forward till Miriam was brought in again.

16 And afterward the people removed from Chazeroth, and encamped in the wilderness of Paran.

SECTION XXXVII. SHELACH LECHA, שלח לך.

CHAPTER XIII.

1 ¶ And the LORD spoke unto Moses, saying,

2 Send thou out some men that they may spy out the land of Canaan, which I give unto the children of Israel: one man each of every tribe of their fathers shall ye send, every one who is a prince among them.

3 And Moses sent them out from the wilderness of Paran by the order of the LORD: they all were men, (who) were heads of the children of Israel.

4 And these are their names: Of the tribe of Reüben, Shammua the son of Zaccur.

5 Of the tribe of Simeon, Shaphat the son of Chori.

6 Of the tribe of Judah, Caleb the son of Yephunneh.

7 Of the tribe of Issachar, Yigal the son of Joseph.

8 Of the tribe of Ephraim, Hosheä, the son of Nun.

[a] After Onkelos. Others give "through."

[b] Marah, the feminine, denotes the indistiuct, dream-like perception, followed as it is by "dream;" march, however, the masculine, expresses the clear perception of Divine things. Arnheim translates, moreover, v. 8, in this manner: "To him I speak from mouth to mouth, and visibly, not in riddles, that he should see only an image of the Eternal," conceiving the word לא "not" to be understood before יבין; but the construction is too forced. תכונה given in our text, as in Genesis i. 26, with "similitude" or "likeness," refers to the higher conception which Moses had of God's power, and of his government of the world; and is to be considered merely a continuation of the preceding "and not in dark speeches," which is, the indistinct perception which all prophets had of what they themselves foresaw and foretold, when compared with Moses. (See Daniel xii. 8.)

9 Of the tribe of Benjamin, Palti the son of Raphu.

10 Of the tribe of Zebulun, Gaddiël the son of Sodi.

11 Of the tribe of Joseph, of the tribe of Menasseh, Gaddi the son of Sussi.

12 Of the tribe of Dan, 'Ammiël the son of Gemalli.

13 Of the tribe of Asher, Sethur the son of Michaël.

14 Of the tribe of Naphtali, Nachbi the son of Vophsi.

15 Of the tribe of Gad, Geüel the son of Machi.

16 These are the names of the men whom Moses sent to spy out the land; and Moses called Hosheä the son of Nun, Joshua [Yehoshua].[a]

17 And Moses sent them to spy out the land of Canaan, and he said unto them, Go you up this way at the south side, and go up into the mountain;

18 And see the land, what it is; and the people that dwell therein, whether they be strong or weak, whether they be few or many;

19 And what the land is on which they dwell, whether it be good or bad; and what the cities are in which they dwell, whether in open places, or in strongholds;

20 And what the land is, whether it be fat or lean, whether there be trees therein, or not; and take ye courage, and take away some of the fruit of the land. Now the time was the season of the first ripening of grapes.*

21 And they went up, and spied out the land from the wilderness of Zin unto Rechob, on the road to Chamath.

22 And they ascended on the south side, and came unto Hebron; and there were Achiman, Sheshai, and Talmai, the children of 'Anak; (now Hebron had been built seven years before Zoän in Egypt.)

23 And they came unto the valley of Eshcol, and they cut down from there a branch with one cluster of grapes, and they bore it upon a barrow between two; and (they took some) of the pomegranates and of the figs.

24 That place was called the valley of Eshcol,[b] on account of the cluster which the children of Israel cut down from there.

25 And they returned from spying out the land at the end of forty days.

26 And they went and came to Moses, and to Aaron, and to all the congregation of the children of Israel, unto the wilderness of Paran, to Kadesh; and they brought back word unto them, and unto all the congregation, and showed them the fruit of the land.

27 And they told him, and said, We came unto the land whither thou didst send us, and truly doth it flow with milk and honey;[c] and this is its fruit.

28 Nevertheless the people are strong that dwell in the land, and the cities are very strongly walled, and great; and the children of 'Anak also have we seen there.

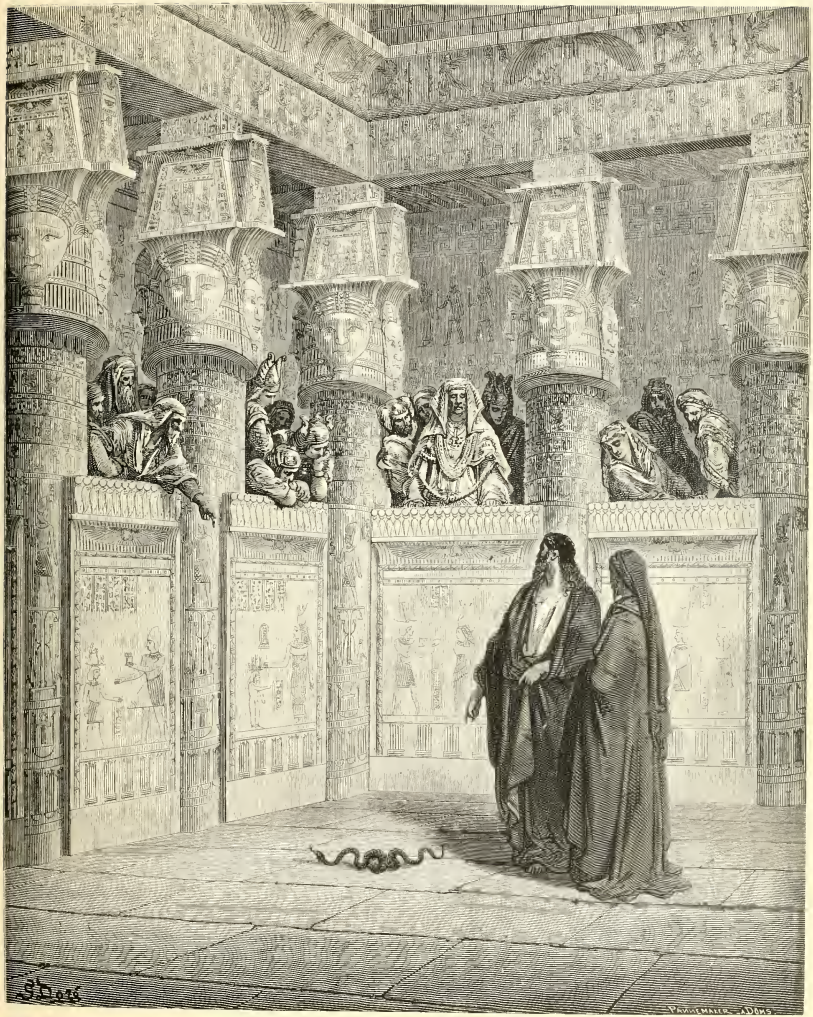
29 The Amalekites dwell in the southern country; and the Hittites, and the Jebusites, and the Emorites, dwell in the mountains; and the Canaanites dwell by the sea, and by the margin of the Jordan.

30 And Caleb stilled the people toward Moses, and he said, We can easily go up, and take possession of it; for we are well able to overcome it.

31 But the men who had gone up with him said, We are not able to go up against the people; for they are stronger than we.

32 And they brought up an evil report of the land which they had spied out unto the children of Israel, saying, The land through which we have passed to spy it out, is a land that consumeth its inhabitants; and all the people that we saw in it are men of a great stature.

33 And there we saw the giants, the sons of Anak, of the giants' (family): and we were in our own eyes as grasshoppers, and so were we in their eyes.



CHAPTER XIV.

1 And all the congregation lifted up their voice, and cried aloud; and the people wept that night.

[a] Signifying, "May the Lord aid (thee.)" Some suppose that this name was given to Hoshea at the time he entered the service of Moses; others, however, that it was bestowed at the present occasion, and is to be viewed as a prayer: "May the Lord save thee from the counsel of the spies."

[b] Eshcol signifies "cluster."

[c] To obtain credibility for their evil report, they spoke first in praise of the products of the land; and then they expatiated on the strength of the people, while they averred that the unhealthiness of the climate caused the death of the giants even.

MOSES AND AARON BEFORE PHARAOH.

2 And all the people murmured against Moses and against Aaron; and the whole congregation said unto them, Oh who would grant that we had died in the land of Egypt! or that we might but die in this wilderness!

3 And wherefore doth the LORD bring us unto yonder land, to fall by the sword? that our wives and our children may become a prey? is it not better for us to return to Egypt?

4 And they said one to another, Let us appoint a chief, and let us return to Egypt.

5 Then fell Moses and Aaron on their faces before all the assembly of the congregation of the children of Israel.

6 And Joshua, the son of Nun, and Caleb the son of Yephunneh, of those that had spied out the land, rent their garments.

7 And they said unto all the congregation of the children of Israel, as followeth, The land, through which we have passed to spy it out, this land is exceedingly good.*

8 If the LORD have delight in us, then will he bring us into this land, and give it to us: a land which is flowing with milk and honey.

9 Only against the LORD do ye not rebel;[a] and then ye need not fear the people of the land; for they are our bread: their shadow[b] is departed from them, while the LORD is with us; fear them not.

10 But all the congregation said to stone them with stones: when the glory of the LORD appeared in the tabernacle of the congregation unto all the children of Israel.

11 ¶ And the LORD said unto Moses, How long yet shall this people provoke[c] me? and how long yet will they not believe in me, with all the signs which I have shown in the midst of them?

12 I will smite them with the pestilence, and root them out, and I will make of thee a nation greater and mightier than they.

13 And Moses said unto the LORD, But when the Egyptians hear, from the midst of whom thou hast brought up in thy might this people;—

14 And when they tell to the inhabitants of this land, who[d] have heard that thou, LORD, art in the midst of this people, that face[e] to face thou, LORD, art seen, and that thy cloud standeth over them, and that in a pillar of cloud thou goest before them by day, and in a pillar of fire by night;—

15 That thou hast killed this people as one man: then will the nations that have heard thy fame, say in this manner,

16 That because the LORD was not able to bring this people into the land which he had sworn unto them, hath he slain them in the wilderness.

17 And now, I beseech thee, let the greatness of the power of the Lord be made manifest, as thou hast spoken, saying,

18 The Eternal is long-suffering, and abundant in beneficence, forgiving iniquity and transgression; but who will by no means clear the guilty, visiting the iniquity of the fathers upon the children, upon the third and upon the fourth generation.

19 Pardon, I beseech thee, the iniquity of this people, according to the greatness of thy beneficence, and as thou hast been indulgent to this people, from Egypt even until hitherto.

20 And the LORD said, I have pardoned according to thy word.

21 But as truly as I live, and as all the earth is filled with the glory of the LORD:—

22 That all the men who have seen my glory, and my signs, which I have displayed in Egypt and in the wilderness, and have tempted me these ten times, and have not hearkened to my voice,

23 Shall surely not see the land which I have sworn unto their fathers, yea all those that have provoked me shall not see it.

24 But my servant Caleb, as a reward that he had another spirit with him, and followed me fully,—therefore will I bring him into the

[a] That is to say, It is rebellion only which can make the Canaanites formidable enemies to the sons of Israel; since, if obedient to God, the conquest will be an easy thing, the people being as readily overcome as bread can be used for food.

[b] "Shadow" means, in Hebrew, "protection," "security." Rashi therefore explains, "the shadow of God is departed from them;" upon which then the next clause follows correctly, "while the Lord is with us."

[c] Reject me.—ARNHEIM.

[d] The word "who" is supplied, according to Onkelos. The connection of the verses 13–16 is given after Arnheim, and is to be taken in this manner: "When the Egyptians hear, and when the inhabitants of this land (Canaan) are told, that God hath killed the people: then will all of them say, that it was inability in God to accomplish his promise."

land whereinto he went; and his seed shall possess it.

25 And the Amalekites and the Canaanites dwell in the valley: to-morrow turn you, and set forward into the wilderness by the way to the Red Sea.*

26 ¶ And the LORD spoke unto Moses and unto Aaron, saying,

27 How long (shall indulgence be given) to this evil congregation, that murmur against me? the murmurings of the children of Israel, which they murmur against me, have I heard.

28 Say unto them, As truly as I live, saith the LORD, as ye have spoken in my ears, so will I do to you:

29 In this wilderness shall your carcasses fall, and all that were numbered of you, according to your whole number, from twenty years old and upward; ye who have murmured against me;

30 Truly ye shall not come into the land, concerning which I have lifted up my hand to let you dwell therein; save Caleb the son of Yephunneh, and Joshua the son of Nun.

31 But your little ones of which ye said, They would become a prey, them will I bring in, and they shall know the land which ye have despised.

32 But as for you, your carcasses shall fall in this wilderness.

33 And your children shall wander about in the wilderness forty years, and bear your backslidings, until your carcasses be spent in the wilderness.

34 After the number of the days in which ye spied out the land, forty days, yea, each one day for a year, shall ye bear for your iniquities, forty years; and ye shall experience my withdrawal[a] (of protection).

35 I the LORD have spoken it, surely, this will I do unto all this evil congregation that have assembled against me: in this wilderness shall they be spent, and therein shall they die.

36 And the men whom Moses had sent to spy out the land, and who returned, and caused all the congregation to murmur against him, by bringing up an evil report against the land,

37 Even these men, that had brought up the evil report of the land, died[b] by the plague before the LORD.

38 But Joshua the son of Nun, and Caleb the son of Yephunneh, remained alive of those men, who had gone to spy out the land.

39 And Moses spoke these words unto all the children of Israel; and the people mourned greatly.

40 And they rose up early in the morning, and went up to the top of the mountain, saying, Lo, here we are, and we will go up unto the place of which the LORD hath spoken; for we have sinned.

41 And Moses said, Wherefore now do ye transgress the order of the LORD? and it will not prosper.

42 Do not go up, for the LORD is not among you; that ye may not be smitten before your enemies.

43 For the Amalekites and the Canaanites are there before you, and ye will fall by the sword; since, because ye are turned away from the LORD, the LORD also will not be with you.

44 Yet they persisted to go up unto the top of the mountain; but the ark of the covenant of the LORD, and Moses, did not move out of the camp.

45 Then came down the Amalekites, and the Canaanites that dwelt on that mountain, and smote them, and discomfited them, even unto Chormah.

CHAPTER XV.

1 ¶ And the LORD spoke unto Moses, saying,

2 Speak unto the children of Israel, and say unto them, When ye shall have come into the land of your habitations, which I give unto you,

3 And ye will prepare a fire-offering unto the LORD, a burnt-offering, or a sacrifice, in performing a pronounced vow, or as a free-will-offering, or on your solemn feasts, to prepare a sweet savour unto the LORD, of the herds or of the flocks:

4 Then shall he that bringeth his offering unto the LORD, bring as a meat-offering a

* Rashi renders, "And ye shall know that you have withdrawn your heart from me." Onkelos gives more freely, "that ye have murmured against me." But in the present version, the idea of Mendelssohn, that the word "withdrawal" refers to an act of God, has been adopted; and it means then, that the people should experience the difference between the Divine protection and wrath.

tenth[a] part of fine flour mingled with the fourth of a hin of oil.

5 And wine for a drink-offering, the fourth of a hin, shalt thou prepare with the burnt-offering or sacrifice, for each one sheep.

6 But for a ram, shalt thou prepare as a meat-offering two tenth parts of fine flour mingled with the third of a hin of oil.

7 And wine for the drink-offering, the third of a hin, shalt thou bring, for a sweet savour unto the LORD.*

8 And when thou preparest a bullock for a burnt-offering, or for a sacrifice, in performing a pronounced vow, or as a peace-offering unto the LORD:

9 Then shall he bring with the bullock as a meat-offering, three tenth parts of fine flour mingled with half a hin of oil.

10 And wine shalt thou bring for a drink-offering, half a hin, as a fire-offering of a sweet savour unto the LORD.

11 Thus shall it be done for each one bullock, or for each one ram, or for a lamb, be it of the sheep or of the goats.

12 According to the number that ye may prepare, so shall ye do to every one according to their number.

13 All that are born[b] in the country shall do these things after this manner, in offering a fire-offering of a sweet savour unto the LORD.

14 And if a stranger sojourn with you, or whosoever may be among you in your generations, and will make an offering made by fire, of a sweet savour unto the LORD: as ye do, so shall he do.

15 Congregation![c] one statute shall be for you, and for the stranger that sojourneth: a statute for ever in your generations; as ye are, so shall the stranger be before the LORD.

16 One law and one code shall be for you, and for the stranger that sojourneth with you.*

17 ¶ And the LORD spoke unto Moses, saying,

18 Speak unto the children of Israel, and say unto them, When ye come into the land whither I bring you:

19 Then shall it be, that, when ye eat of the bread of the land, ye shall set aside a heave-offering unto the LORD.

20 As the first[d] of your doughs shall ye set aside a cake for a heave-offering; like the heave-offering of the threshing-floor, so shall ye set this aside.

21 Of the first of your doughs shall ye give unto the LORD a heave-offering, in your generations.

22 ¶ And if ye err,[e] and do not observe all these commandments, which the LORD hath spoken unto Moses,

23 All that the LORD hath commanded you by the hand of Moses, from the day that the LORD commanded (the same) and thenceforward, among your generations:

24 Then shall it be, if, through inadvertence of the congregation, it was committed by ignorance, that all the congregation shall prepare one young bullock for a burnt-offering, for a sweet savour unto the LORD, with his meat-offering, and his drink-offering, according to the prescribed manner, and one he-goat for a sin-offering.

25 And the priest shall make an atonement for all the congregation of the children of Israel, and it shall be forgiven unto them; for it is (a sin of) ignorance; and they have brought their offering, a sacrifice made by fire unto the LORD, and their sin-offering before the LORD, for their (sin of) ignorance:

26 And it shall be forgiven unto all the congregation of the children of Israel, and unto the stranger that sojourneth among them; for by all the people (was it done) in ignorance.*

27 ¶ And if any person sin through ignorance, then shall he bring a she-goat of the first year for a sin-offering.

28 And the priest shall make an atonement for the person that hath erred, in his sinning through ignorance before the LORD; to make

[a] Whenever this term is used, it means "a tenth of an ephah."

[b] In offering a sacrifice, nothing must be omitted which the law requires, in order to make it acceptable on high.

[c] This word is merely to be taken as an address to the entire people, whether native or adopted strangers.

[d] "Before ye eat of your dough, you shall offer a portion to the Lord."—RASHI. This was given to the priest, and had no fixed proportion by the letter of the law; but the Rabbins state, a twenty-fourth part by a housekeeper, and a forty-eighth by a baker.

[e] This refers to the sin of idolatry, according to our authorities.

an atonement for him, that it may be forgiven unto him.

29 For the native born among the children of Israel, and for the stranger that sojourneth among them:—one law shall be for you, for him that acteth through ignorance.

30 But the person that doth aught with a high hand,[a] be he one born in the land, or a stranger, the same dishonoureth the LORD; and that person shall be cut off from among his people.

31 Because the word of the LORD hath he despised, and his commandment hath he broken; that person shall be cut off, his iniquity is upon him.

32 ¶ And while the children of Israel were in the wilderness, they found a man gathering[b] sticks upon the sabbath-day.

33 And they that found him gathering sticks brought him for judgment unto Moses and Aaron, and unto all the congregation.

34 And they put him in ward; because it had not been declared what should be done to him.

35 ¶ And the LORD said unto Moses, The man shall be put to death: all the congregation shall stone him with stones without the camp.

36 And all the congregation brought him forth to without the camp, and they stoned him with stones, and he died; as the LORD had commanded Moses.*

37 ¶ And the LORD said unto Moses, as followeth,

38 Speak unto the children of Israel, and say to them, that they shall make themselves fringes[c] on the corners of their garments throughout their generations, and that they shall put upon the fringe of the corner a thread of blue:

39 And it shall be unto you for a fringe, that ye may look upon it, and remember all the commandments of the LORD, and do them; and that ye seek not after (the inclination of) your own heart and (the delight of) your eyes, in pursuit of which ye have been led astray.

40 In order that ye may remember, and do all my commandments, and be holy unto your God.

41 I am the LORD your God, who brought you out of the land of Egypt, to be your God: I am the LORD your God.

SECTION XXXVIII. KORACH, קרח.

CHAPTER XVI.

1 ¶ Now Korach, the son of Yizhar, the son of Kehath, the son of Levi, was presumptuous,[d] together with Dathan and Abiram, the sons of Eliab, and On, the son of Peleth, sons of Reüben:

2 So that they rose up before Moses, with certain men of the children of Israel, in number two hundred and fifty; (who were) princes of the congregation, called to the assembly, men of renown.

3 And they assembled themselves against Moses, and against Aaron, and said unto them, Ye assume too much; for the whole of the congregation are all of them holy, and the LORD is among them; wherefore then will you lift yourselves up above the congregation of the LORD?

4 And when Moses heard it, he fell upon his face:

5 And he spoke unto Korach and unto all his company, saying, To-morrow,—then will the LORD make known who is his, and who is holy, that he may cause them to come near unto him; and him whom he shall choose will he cause to come near unto him.

6 This do ye: Take yourselves censers, Korach and all his company;

7 And put therein fire, and put upon them incense before the LORD, to-morrow; and it shall be that the man whom the LORD will

[a] i. e. Wilfully; and for such sin no sacrifice can avail.

[b] Arnheim suggests, that מקשש may mean "making small," "chipping," or "splitting wood;" wherefore he committed a direct and well-defined labour on the sabbath.

[c] Mendelssohn and his successors have rendered ציצת with "schaufäden," literally, "threads to be looked upon." The word "fringes" has been retained here, because there is no English word nearer to the true meaning, from a root either signifying "a lock of hair" or "something to look on." Israelites are well acquainted with the "corner fringe," which is to be regarded as a memento of the commandments, a simple yet efficient symbol to call to mind the duty we owe to God.

choose, he shall be the holy one; you assume too much, ye sons of Levi.

8 And Moses said unto Korach, Hear, I pray you, ye sons of Levi:

9 Is it too little for you, that the God of Israel hath separated you from the congregation of Israel, to bring you near unto himself, to do the service of the tabernacle of the LORD, and to stand before the congregation to minister for them?

10 And he hath brought thee near, and all thy brethren the sons of Levi with thee: and now will ye seek the priesthood also?

11 For which cause (beware),[a] thou and all thy company that are gathered together against the LORD; for Aaron, what is he, that ye should murmur against him?

12 And Moses sent to call Dathan and Abiram, the sons of Eliab; but they said, We will not come up:

13 Is it too little that thou hast brought us up out of a land flowing with milk and honey, to kill us in the wilderness, that thou wilt assume to make thyself also a prince over us?*

14 Moreover thou hast not brought us into a land flowing with milk and honey, and thou hast not[b] given us inheritance of fields and vineyards: wilt thou bore out the eyes[c] of these men? we will not come up.

15 And this displeased Moses greatly, and he said unto the LORD, Have no respect unto their offering: I have not taken away an ass of any one of them, nor have I done wrong to any one of them.

16 And Moses said unto Korach, Thou and all thy company, be ye before the LORD, thou, and they, and Aaron, to-morrow:

17 And take ye every man his censer,[d] and put incense upon them, and bring ye near before the LORD every man his censer, two hundred and fifty censers; thou also, and Aaron, each his censer.

18 And they took every man his censer, and put fire on them, and laid incense thereupon; and they stood at the door of the tabernacle of the congregation with Moses and Aaron.

19 And Korach assembled against them all the congregation unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation; and the glory of the LORD then appeared unto all the congregation.*

20 ¶ And the LORD spoke unto Moses and unto Aaron, saying,

21 Separate yourselves from the midst of this congregation, and I will make an end of them in a moment.

22 And they fell upon their faces, and said, O God, the God of the spirits of all flesh,[e] this one man doth sin, and with all the congregation wouldst thou be wroth?

23 ¶ And the LORD spoke unto Moses, saying,

24 Speak unto the congregation, saying, Get you away from about the dwelling of Korach, Dathan, and Abiram.

25 And Moses rose up and went unto Dathan and Abiram; and there went after him the elders of Israel.

26 And he spoke unto the congregation, saying, Depart, I pray you, from the tents of these wicked men, and touch nothing which belongeth to them, lest ye be destroyed through all their sins.

27 So they got away from the dwelling of Korach, Dathan, and Abiram, on every side: and Dathan and Abiram came out, standing (boldly) at the door of their tents, with their wives, and their sons, and their little ones.

28 And Moses said, Through this shall ye know that the LORD hath sent me to do all these deeds; that (I have) not done them out of my own heart.

29 If these men die as all men die, and if the visitation of all men be visited on them: then hath the LORD not sent me.

[a] After Mendelssohn, who renders לכן in the sense it is used in Gen. iv. 15, as a threat. Philippson gives it, "Do you therefore assemble—against the LORD?" Arnheim, "Surely—you assemble against the LORD." But the ה in הנעדים favours the version in our text.

[b] After Rashi. Arnheim translates, "so that thou couldst give us," &c.

[c] i. e. "Wilt thou presume to blind the people to thy assumption of undue power and breach of promise?"

[d] This refers back to verse 5. Moses said there to Korach, that on the following day God would declare who was the holy and chosen servant of the tabernacle. The test now proposed was, that all who claimed the right to act as priests, should come with incense before the sanctuary, though it would be at great peril; since it would be destruction to all but the one who was justly chosen. The text tells the sequel.

* Arnheim gives this word elsewhere with "mortals."

30 But if the LORD do create[a] a new thing, and the earth open her mouth, and swallow them up, with all that appertaineth unto them, and they go down alive into the pit: then shall ye understand that these men have provoked the LORD.

31 And it came to pass, when he had made an end of speaking all these words, that the ground that was under them was cloven asunder:

32 And the earth opened her mouth, and swallowed them up, and their houses, and all the men that appertained unto Korach, and all their goods.

33 And they went down, they, and all they that appertained to them, alive into the pit; and the earth closed over them, and they disappeared from the midst of the congregation.

34 And all Israel that were round about them fled at their cry; for they said, Perhaps the earth may swallow us up (also).

35 And there came out a fire from the LORD, and consumed the two hundred and fifty men that had offered the incense.

CHAPTER XVII.

1[b] ¶ And the LORD spoke unto Moses, saying,

2 Speak unto Elazar the son of Aaron the priest, that he lift up the censers out of the burning, and throw out the fire far away; for they have been hallowed:

3 The censers of these sinners against their own lives; and they shall make of them broad plates for a covering for the altar; for they brought them near before the LORD, and they have thus become hallowed;[c] and they shall serve for a sign unto the children of Israel.

4 And Elazar the priest took the copper censers, which they that were burnt had brought near; and they beat them out for a covering unto the altar:

5 As a memorial unto the children of Israel, in order that no stranger, who is not of the seed of Aaron, should come near to burn incense before the LORD; that he become not as Korach, and as his company; as the LORD had spoken to him by the hand of Moses.

6 ¶ And all the congregation of the children of Israel murmured against Moses and Aaron, on the morrow, saying, It is you[d] who have caused the people of the LORD to die.

7 And it came to pass, when the congregation assembled against Moses and against Aaron, that they looked toward the tabernacle of the congregation, and, behold, the cloud covered it; and the glory of the LORD appeared.

8 And Moses came with Aaron before the tabernacle of the congregation.*

9 ¶ And the LORD spoke unto Moses, saying,

10 Remove yourselves from the midst of this congregation, that I may consume them in a moment. And they fell upon their faces.

11 And Moses said unto Aaron, Take the censer, and put therein fire from off the altar, and put on incense, and carry (it) quickly unto the congregation, and make an atonement for them; for the wrath is gone forth from the Lord; the plague hath begun.

12 And Aaron took as Moses had commanded, and he ran into the midst of the assembly; and, behold, the plague had begun among the people: and he put on the incense, and made an atonement for the people.

13 And he stood between the dead and the living; and the plague was stayed.

14 And those who died in the plague were fourteen thousand and seven hundred, besides those that had died about the matter of Korach.

15 And Aaron returned unto Moses, to the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, after the plague had been stayed.*

16 ¶ And the LORD spoke unto Moses, saying,

17 Speak unto the children of Israel, and take from them one staff each for a family division, from all their princes, according to their family divisions, twelve staves: the name of each man shalt thou write upon his staff.

18 And the name of Aaron shalt thou

[a] The sudden destruction of the rebels is called a creation, and Moses appealed to such an unheard-of display of power, as a verification of his truth.

[b] The English version commences ch. xvii. at verse 16.

[c] Although the sacrifice was in sin, still the offering sanctified the instruments used.

[d] They ascribed the death of the elders to the agency of Moses and Aaron write upon the staff of Levi; for there shall be but one staff for the head of their family division.

19 And thou shalt lay them down in the tabernacle of the congregation before the testimony, where I usually meet with you.

20 And it shall come to pass, that the staff of the man whom I shall choose, shall blossom:[a] and I will allay from around me the murmurings of the children of Israel, which they murmur against you.

21 And Moses spoke unto the children of Israel, and all their princes gave him each a staff, one for every prince, according to their family divisions, twelve staves: and the staff of Aaron was among their staves.

22 And Moses laid down the staves before the LORD in the tabernacle of the testimony.

23 And it came to pass on the morrow, that as Moses went into the tabernacle of the testimony, behold, the staff of Aaron for the house of Levi had budded;[b] and it brought forth buds, and produced blossoms, and yielded ripe almonds.

24 And Moses brought out all the staves from before the LORD unto all the children of Israel; and they looked (at them), and took away every one his staff.[c]

25 ¶ And the LORD said unto Moses, Carry back the staff of Aaron before the testimony, to be kept as a token against the children of rebellion, that there may be an end of their murmurings from around me, and they die not.

26 And Moses did so; as the LORD had commanded him, so did he.

27 ¶ And the children of Israel said unto Moses, thus, Behold, we perish, we are lost, we are all lost.

28 Every one that cometh near at all unto the tabernacle of the LORD must die: shall we totally perish?[c]

[a] In the preceding narrative, the selection of Aaron was demonstrated by the punishment of those who contended against him. The present attestation was, however, to be one of peace, to confirm the institution of the priesthood.

[b] Rashbam comments, that the evident meaning of this is, that when Moses first brought out Aaron's staff to the people it had just budded; and it was before them that the buds expanded, opened into blossoms, and yielded ripe almonds. Rashi renders נץ with "the young fruit" which appears immediately on the blossom's falling.

CHAPTER XVIII.

1 ¶ And the LORD said unto Aaron, Thou and thy sons and thy father's house with thee shall bear the iniquity[d] of the sanctuary; and thou and thy sons with thee shall bear the iniquity of your priesthood.

2 And also thy brethren, the tribe of Levi, the tribe of thy father, bring thou near with thee, that they may be joined with thee, and minister unto thee; while thou and thy sons with thee shall be before the tabernacle of the testimony.

3 And they shall keep thy charge, and the charge of all the tabernacle: only unto the vessels of the sanctuary and unto the altar shall they not come near, that they may not die, either they or you.

4 And they shall be joined unto thee, and keep the charge of the tabernacle of the congregation, respecting all the service of the tabernacle: and a stranger shall not come nigh unto you.

5 And ye shall keep the charge of the sanctuary, and the charge of the altar; that there be not any more wrath upon the children of Israel.

6 And I, behold, I have taken your brethren the Levites from the midst of the children of Israel; unto you are they given as a gift for the LORD, to perform the service of the tabernacle of the congregation.

7 And thou and thy sons with thee shall keep your priesthood concerning every matter of the altar, and for that within the vail, where ye shall serve: as a service of gift do I give you your priesthood; and the stranger that cometh nigh shall be put to death.

8 ¶ And the LORD spoke unto Aaron, And I, behold, I give thee the charge of my heave-offerings; of all the hallowed things of the children of Israel, unto thee have I given [c] i. e. Since every attempt to approach proves fatal.

[d] "Against the sanctuary;" "against your priesthood." —ARNHEIM. "On you I place the punishment of the strangers that may commit sin through the hallowed things which are intrusted to you (the priests and the sons of Kehath:)—you shall sit and warn every stranger that approaches, from touching them; while thou and thy sons the priests shall bear the iniquity of your priesthood, because this is not intrusted to the Levites, and you shall warn these not to interfere in your proper service."—RASHI.

them as an official portion, and to thy sons, as a fixed right for ever.

9 This shall belong to thee of the most holy things, from the fire-(offerings):[a] every oblation of theirs, namely, every meat-offering of theirs, and every sin-offering of theirs, and every trespass-offering of theirs, which they shall render unto me, shall, as most holy things, belong to thee and to thy sons.

10 In a most holy place shalt thou eat it: every male shall eat it; holy shall it be unto thee.

11 And this shall be thine, as the heave-offering of their gift, of all the wave-offerings of the children of Israel; unto thee have I given them, and to thy sons and to thy daughters with thee, as a fixed portion for ever: every one that is clean in thy house may eat thereof.

12 All the best of oil, and all the best of wine, and of corn, the first-fruits thereof which they shall offer unto the LORD, to thee have I given them.

13 The first ripe fruit of whatsoever is in their land, which they may bring unto the LORD, shall be thine: every one that is clean in thy house may eat thereof.

14 Every thing devoted in Israel shall be thine.

15 Whatever openeth the womb of all flesh, which they bring unto the LORD, be it of men or of cattle, shall be thine: nevertheless thou shalt redeem the first-born of man, and the firstling of the unclean cattle shalt thou redeem.

16 And those that are to be redeemed from a month old shalt thou redeem, according to the usual estimation of five shekels of silver, after the shekel of the sanctuary, which is twenty gerahs.

17 But the firstling of an ox, or the firstling of a sheep, or the firstling of a goat, thou shalt not redeem; they are holy: their blood shalt thou sprinkle upon the altar, and their fat shalt thou burn as a fire-offering, for a sweet savour unto the LORD.

18 And their flesh shall be thine: as the breast that is waved and as the right shoulder shall it be thine.

19 All the heave-offerings of the holy things, which the children of Israel set apart unto the LORD, I have given to thee, and to thy sons and to thy daughters with thee, as a fixed portion for ever: it is a covenant of salt[b] for ever before the LORD for thee and for thy seed with thee.

20 And the LORD said unto Aaron, In their land shalt thou have no inheritance, and any portion shalt thou not have among them:[c] I am thy portion and thy inheritance among the children of Israel.*

21 ¶ And to the children of Levi, behold, I have given every tithe in Israel, for an inheritance, in lieu of their service which they render, the service of the tabernacle of the congregation.

22 And the children of Israel shall not henceforth come nigh unto the tabernacle of the congregation, to bear sin, to die thereby.

23 But they of the tribe of Levi themselves shall perform the service of the tabernacle of the congregation, and they shall bear their iniquity: a statute for ever shall it be throughout your generations; and among the children of Israel shall they not possess any inheritance.

24 But the tithes of the children of Israel, which they offer as a heave-offering unto the LORD, have I given to the Levites for an inheritance: therefore have I said unto them, Among the children of Israel shall they obtain no inheritance.

25 ¶ And the LORD spoke unto Moses, saying,

26 And unto the Levites shalt thou speak, and say unto them, When ye take from the children of Israel the tithes which I have given you from them for your inheritance: then shall ye separate therefrom a heave-offering of the LORD, the tenth part of the tithe.

27 And your heave-offering shall be reckoned unto you, like the corn of the threshing-floor, and as the fulness of the wine-press.[d]

[a] After Aben Ezra; Onkelos, Rashi, and others, "what is left from the fire," i. e. after the fat has been burnt.

[b] That is, "as unvarying and uniform as the salt, which never becomes corrupt or putrid."—After RASHI.

[c] The priests and servants of the LORD should not have political power through extended possessions.

[d] i. e. Wine and oil, which are produced by means of expressing the grape and olive; properly therefore, "with what the wine-press is filled." The verse itself is to be so understood: The Israelites were commanded to give a fiftieth part of their annual product to the priests; this gift was called a heave-offering תרומה; and the tithes being the Levites' threshing-floor and wine-press, that is, their means of livelihood, they were ordered to give from their income also a portion to the priests, before they could legally use it for their own purposes.

28 Thus shall ye also offer a heave-offering unto the LORD from all your tithes, which ye may receive from the children of Israel; and ye shall give thereof the heave-offering of the LORD to Aaron the priest.

29 From all your gifts shall ye set apart every heave-offering of the LORD, from every best part thereof, its hallowed portion therefrom.[a]

30 And thou shalt say unto them, When ye have separated the best thereof from it: then shall (the remainder) be counted unto the Levites as the produce of the threshing-floor, and as the produce of the wine-press.

31 And ye may eat it in every place, ye and your households; for it is your reward in lieu of your service at the tabernacle of the congregation.

32 And ye shall not bear any sin by reason of it, when ye have separated its best part from it: and the holy things of the children of Israel shall ye not profane, lest ye die.

SECTION XXXIX. CHUCKATH, חקת.

CHAPTER XIX.

1 ¶ And the LORD spoke unto Moses and unto Aaron, saying,

2 This is the statute[a] of the law which the LORD hath commanded, saying, Speak unto the children of Israel, that they bring unto thee a completely red cow, on which there is no blemish, upon which no yoke hath ever come.

3 And ye shall give her unto Elazar the priest, and he shall lead her forth to without the camp, and some one shall slay her before his face:

4 And Elazar the priest shall take some of her blood with his finger; and he shall sprinkle in the direction of the front of the tabernacle of the congregation of her blood seven times.

5 And some one shall burn the cow before his eyes; her skin, and her flesh, and her blood, with her dung, shall he burn.

6 And the priest shall take cedar-wood, and hyssop, and a scarlet string, and cast it into the midst of the burning of the cow.

7 And the priest shall wash his clothes, and he shall bathe his flesh in water, and afterward may he come into the camp; and the priest shall be unclean until the evening.

8 And he that burneth her shall wash his clothes in water, and bathe his flesh in water; and he shall be unclean until the evening.

9 And a man that is clean shall gather up the ashes of the cow, and lay them up without the camp in a clean place; and it shall be kept for the congregation of the children of Israel for a water of sprinkling: it is a purification-offering.

10 And he that gathereth up the ashes of the cow shall wash his clothes, and be unclean until the evening: and it shall be unto the children of Israel, and unto the stranger[b] that sojourneth among them, for a statute for ever.

11 He that toucheth the dead body of any[c] human person shall be unclean seven days.

12 Such a one shall purify himself with it on the third day and on the seventh day, when he shall be clean; but if he purify himself not on the third day and on the seventh day, he shall not be clean.

13 Whosoever toucheth the dead body, the person of any man that is dead, and purifieth himself not, hath defiled the tabernacle of the LORD; and that soul shall be cut off from Israel; because the water of sprinkling was not sprinkled upon him, he shall be unclean; his uncleanness is yet upon him.

14 This is the law, when a man dieth in a tent: Every one that cometh into the tent, and all that is in the tent, shall be unclean seven days.

15 And every open vessel, on which there is not a closely fitting cover, is unclean.

16 And whosoever toucheth in the open field one that hath been slain with a sword, or a dead body, or a bone of a man, or a grave, shall be unclean seven days.

17 And they shall take for the unclean person some of the ashes of the burnt purification-offering, and they shall put thereupon running water in a vessel.*

18 And a clean person shall take hyssop, and dip it in the water, and sprinkle it upon the tent, and upon all the vessels, and upon the persons that have been there, and upon him that hath touched the bone, or the one slain, or the dead, or the grave:

19 And the clean person shall sprinkle upon the unclean on the third day and on the seventh day; and when he hath purified him on the seventh day, then shall he wash his clothes, and bathe himself in water, and shall be clean at evening.

20 But a man that is unclean, and doth not purify himself, that soul shall be cut off from among the congregation; because the sanctuary of the LORD hath he defiled; the water of sprinkling hath not been sprinkled upon him; he is unclean.

21 And it shall be unto them for a perpetual statute; and he that sprinkleth[a] the water of sprinkling shall wash his clothes; and he that toucheth the water of sprinkling shall be unclean until the evening.

22 And whatsoever the unclean person may touch shall be unclean; and the person that toucheth him[b] shall be unclean until the evening.

CHAPTER XX.

1 ¶ And the children of Israel, the whole congregation, came into the desert of Zin in the first month, and the people abode in Kadesh; and Miriam died there, and was buried there.

2 And there was no water for the congregation; and they assembled themselves together against Moses and against Aaron.

3 And the people quarrelled with Moses, and said thus, Oh that we had but perished when our brethren perished before the LORD!

4 And why have ye brought the congregation of the LORD into this wilderness, to die there, we and our cattle?

5 And wherefore have ye caused us to come up out of Egypt, to bring us in unto this evil place? it is no place for sowing, or of figs, or of vines, or of pomegranates; and water even there is none to drink.

6 And Moses and Aaron went from the presence of the assembly unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, and they fell upon their faces: and the glory of the LORD appeared unto them.*

7 ¶ And the LORD spoke unto Moses, saying,

8 Take the staff, and gather the assembly together, thou, with Aaron thy brother, and ye shall speak unto the rock before their eyes, that it shall give forth its water; and thou shalt bring forth for them water out of the rock, and give drink to the congregation and their cattle.

9 And Moses took the staff from before the LORD, as he had commanded him.

10 And Moses and Aaron assembled the congregation together before the rock, and he said unto them, Hear now, ye rebels! shall we out of this rock bring forth water for you?

11 And Moses lifted up his hand, and he smote the rock with his staff twice: and there came out much water, and the congregation drank, together with their cattle.

12 ¶ And the LORD said unto Moses and Aaron, Because ye have not confided[c] in me, to sanctify me before the eyes of the children of Israel: therefore shall ye not bring this congregation into the land which I have given to them.

13 These are the waters of Meribah;[d] where the children of Israel quarrelled with the LORD, and through which[e] he was sanctified.*

14 ¶ And Moses sent messengers from Kadesh unto the king of Edom. Thus hath said thy brother Israel, Thou knowest all the hardship that hath befallen us.

15 How our fathers went down into Egypt, and we dwelt in Egypt many days; and the Egyptians did evil to us, and to our fathers:

[a] The wise men expound this, that he who sprinkles the water of purification shall not be rendered unclean, he is merely to wash his garments; while all others engaged in this sacrifice are made unclean thereby, till evening. Hence, in view of these peculiarities, it is pre-eminently a statute, or a positive ordinance of the LORD, given as the will of our Legislator.

[b] i. e. One defiled by touching a dead body.

[c] "The Scriptures here declare, that had it not been for this sin, they would have entered into the land, that it should not be said of them that they were punished for the transgression of their generation, against whom the decree had been pronounced, that they should not come to Palestine."—RASHI.

[d] Meribah means quarrelling. (See also Exodus xvii. 7.)

[e] This refers to "the water," according to Rashi, who adds, "When the LORD executes judgment upon his saints, he becomes feared and sanctified among men."

16 And we cried unto the LORD, and he heard our voice, and he sent a messenger, and caused us to go forth out of Egypt; and, behold, we are in Kadesh, a city at the outmost end of thy border.

17 Let us pass, we pray thee, through thy country; we will not pass through field, or through vineyard, and we will not drink the water of the wells: by the king's highway will we go, we will not turn to the right hand nor to the left, until we have passed thy border.

18 And Edom said unto him, Thou shalt not pass through my land, lest I come against thee with the sword.

19 And the children of Israel said unto him, We will go by the highway: and if we drink of thy water, I and my cattle, then will I pay its value; I will do thee no injury,[a] only on foot will I pass through.

20 And he said, Thou shalt not pass through; and Edom came out against him with much people, and with a strong hand.

21 And as Edom thus refused to permit Israel to pass through his border, Israel turned away from him.[*]

22 ¶ And they set forward from Kadesh; and the children of Israel, the whole congregation,[b] came unto mount Hor.

23 And the LORD said unto Moses and Aaron at mount Hor, by the boundary of the land of Edom, as followeth, 24 Aaron shall be gathered unto his people; for he shall not enter into the land which I have given unto the children of Israel, because ye rebelled against my order at the waters of Meribah.

25 Take[*] Aaron and Elazar, his son, and cause them to go up unto mount Hor:

26 And cause Aaron to take off his garments, and clothe therewith Elazar his son; and Aaron shall be gathered in, and he shall die there.

27 And Moses did as the LORD had commanded; and they went up to mount Hor before the eyes of all the congregation.

28 And Moses caused Aaron to take off his garments, and he clothed therewith Elazar his son; and Aaron died there on the top of the mount; and Moses and Elazar then came down from the mount.

29 And when all the congregation saw that Aaron was departed, they wept for Aaron thirty days, even all the house of Israel.

CHAPTER XXI.

1 ¶ And when the Canaanite, the king of 'Arad, who dwelt in the south, heard that Israel was coming by the way of the spies:[c] he made an attack on Israel, and took from them some prisoners.

2 And Israel made a vow unto the LORD, and said, If thou wilt but deliver this people into my hand, then will I devote their cities.

3 And the LORD hearkened to the voice of Israel, and he deliverd up the Canaanites; and they devoted them and their cities: and they called the name of the place Chormah.

4 ¶ And they set forward from mount Hor by the way to the Red Sea, to go round the land of Edom: and the spirit of the people became impatient because of the way.[d]

5 And the people spoke against God, and against Moses, Wherefore have ye brought us up out of Egypt to die in the wilderness? for there is no bread, and there is no water; and our soul loatheth this miserable bread.

6 And the LORD let loose against the people poisonous serpents, and they bit the people; and there died much people of Israel.

7 And the people then came to Moses, and they said, We have sinned, for we have spoken against the LORD, and against thee; pray unto the LORD, that he take away from us the serpents. And Moses prayed for the people.

8 And the LORD said unto Moses, Make thyself a serpent,[e] and set it upon a pole: and it shall come to pass, that whoever is bitten shall look at it, and he shall live.

9 And Moses made a serpent of copper, and

[a] After Onkelos. Arnheim, "It is not the least even (I desire)." Philippson, "It is surely nothing."

[b] All righteous and ready to enter Palestine; there was none left among them of those who had the decree of exclusion pronounced against them; for the whole of them had already perished, and of those who then remained, it was said, "And ye who have adhered unto the LORD your God, are all alive this day."—RASHI.

[c] According to the Septuagint, האתרים is the name of a place, "Atharim."

[d] Although, as just said, the people had been purified by the death of the fathers, still the sons also murmured when they themselves were yet detained from Palestine.

[e] When they looked upward and subdued their heart to their Father in heaven, they were healed; and if not, they perished.—YOMA.

put it upon a pole; and it came to pass, that, when a serpent had bitten any man, and he looked up to the serpent of copper, he remained alive.*

10 And the children of Israel set forward, and encamped in Oboth.

11 And they journeyed from Oboth, and encamped at 'Iye-ha'abarim, in the wilderness, which is before Moäb, toward the rising of the sun.

12 From there they set forward and encamped in the valley[a] of Zered.

13 From there they set forward, and encamped on the other side of Arnon, which is in the wilderness, and which cometh out of the boundary of the Emorites; for Arnon is the border of Moäb, between Moäb and between the Emorites.

14 Therefore mention is made in the book of the wars of the LORD, of Vaheb in Supha,[b] and of the brooks of Arnon,

15 And the descent of the brooks, that turneth toward Shebeth-'Ar, and leaneth upon the border of Moäb;

16 And from there to the well; this is the well where the LORD said unto Moses, Assemble the people and I will give them water.

17 ¶ Then did Israel sing this song, Come up, O well; sing ye unto it:

18 Well, which the princes have dug, which the nobles of the people have hollowed out with the sceptre, with their staves;—and from the wilderness to Mattanah;

19 And from Mattanah to Nachaliël; and from Nachaliël to Bamoth;

20 And from Bamoth to the valley, which is in the fields of Moäb, to the top of Pisgah, which looketh toward the desert.*

21 ¶ And Israel sent messengers unto Sichon the king of the Emorites, saying, 22 Let me pass through thy land; we will not turn aside into field, or into vineyard; we will not drink the water of a well: by the king's highway will we go along, until we have passed thy border.

23 But Sichon would not suffer Israel to pass through his border; and Sichon assembled all his people together, and went out against Israel into the wilderness; and he came to Yahaz, and fought against Israel.

24 And Israel smote him with the edge of the sword, and took possession of his land from Arnon unto Yabbok, even unto the children of 'Ammon; for the border of the children of 'Ammon was strong.[c]

25 And Israel took all these cities; and Israel dwelt in all the cities of the Emorites, in Cheshbon, and in all the villages thereof.

26 For Cheshbon was the city of Sichon the king of the Emorites; and he had fought against the former king of Moäb, and taken all his land out of his hand, up to the Arnon.

27 Therefore said the poets, Come into Cheshbon, let the city of Sichon be built and established.

28 For a fire is gone out of Cheshbon, a flame from the city of Sichon: it hath consumed 'Ar-Moäb, the men of the high places of the Arnon.

29 Wo to thee, Moäb! thou art lost, O people of Kemosh: he hath suffered his sons to become fugitives, and his daughters to go into captivity, unto the king of the Emorites, Sichon.

30 We have thrown them down; lost is Cheshbon even unto Dibon, and we have laid waste (all) up to Nophach, which reacheth unto Medeba.

31 Thus Israel dwelt in the land of the Emorites.

32 And Moses sent to spy out Ya'zer, and they captured the villages thereof, and drove out the Emorites that were there.

33 And they turned and went up by the way to Bashan; and 'Og, the king of Bashan, went out against them, he, and all his people, to the battle at Edreï.*

[a] The wadys, or deep valleys, in the neighbourhood of Palestine, generally have a stream running through them, which swells greatly in the rainy season. Hence נחל signifies both "valley" and "stream."

[b] These places, and those mentioned farther, are names which occur in the book of the wars of the LORD, and are unknown to us now. Arnon has several branches which form the main stream. The descent next spoken of refers to these rivulets, which unite and flow toward the city of 'Ar-Moäb, here called Shebeth-'Ar, literally, "dwelling of 'Ar;" whence the river turned to the well, Beër, which was discovered probably in a country otherwise destitute of good drink water. Onkelos renders, "And thence was the well given them." English version, "And from thence they went to Beër." In this version, Arnheim's translation has been followed.

[c] "And what was its strength? the prohibition of God, who had told them, 'Attack them not,'" &c.—RASHI

34 And the LORD said unto Moses, Fear him not; for into thy hand have I delivered him, and all his people, and his land; and thou shalt do unto him as thou hast done unto Sichon, the king of the Emorites, who dwelt at Cheshbon.

35 And they smote him and his sons, and all his people, until there was none left unto him that escaped; and they took possession of his land.

CHAPTER XXII.

1 And the children of Israel set forward, and encamped in the plains of Moäb, on this side of the Jordan, opposite Jericho.

Haphtorah in Judges xi. 1 to 33.

SECTION XL. BALAK, בלק.

2 ¶ And Balak the son of Zippor saw all that Israel had done to the Emorites.

3 And Moäb was greatly afraid of the people, because it was numerous; and Moäb was horrified because of the children of Israel.

4 And Moäb said unto the elders of Midian, Now will this assemblage devour all that is round about us, as the ox devoureth the grass of the field; and Balak the son of Zippor was king of Moäb at that time.

5 And he sent messengers unto Bil'am[a] the son of Beör to Pethor, which is by the river, in the land of the children of his people, to have him called; saying, Behold, there is a people come out from Egypt; behold, it covereth the surface of the earth, and it is abiding opposite to me:

6 And now do but come, curse me this people; for it is too mighty for me; peradventure I may be able to smite it, that I may drive it out of the land; for I know that he whom thou blessest is blessed, and he whom thou cursest is cursed.

7 And the elders of Moäb and the elders of Midian departed with the rewards[b] of divination in their hand; and they came unto Bil'am, and spoke unto him the words of Balak.

8 And he said unto them, Remain you here this night, and I will bring you word again, as the LORD may speak unto me; and the princes of Moäb abode with Bil'am.

9 And God came unto Bil'am, and said, Who are these men with thee?

10 And Bil'am said unto God, Balak the son of Zippor, the king of Moäb, hath sent unto me, (saying,)

11 Behold, there is the people that is come out of Egypt, and covereth the face of the earth: now come, denounce it for me; peradventure I shall be able to fight against it, and drive it away.

12 And God said unto Bil'am, Thou shalt not go with them: thou shalt not curse the people; for it is blessed.*

13 And Bil'am rose up in the morning, and said unto the princes of Balak, Go back to your land; for the LORD refuseth to give me leave to go with[c] you.

14 And the princes of Moäb rose up, and they went unto Balak, and said, Bil'am refuseth to come with us.

15 And Balak sent yet again princes, more in number, and more honourable than those.

16 And they came to Bil'am, and said to him, Thus hath said Balak the son of Zippor, Do not suffer thyself, I pray thee, to be prevented from coming unto me;

17 For I will honour thee greatly, and whatsoever thou mayest say unto me will I do: and only come, I pray thee, denounce me this people.

18 And Bil'am answered and said unto the servants of Balak, If Balak would give me his house full of silver and gold, I could not transgress the order of the LORD my God, to do a small or a great thing.

19 And now, I pray you, tarry ye also here this night, that I may know what the LORD will farther speak with me.

20 And God came unto Bil'am at night, and said unto him, If to call thee the men have come, rise up, go with them; but only the word which I shall speak unto thee, that shalt thou do.*

[a] Eng. ver. "Balaam."

[b] According to Midrash Rabba, quoted by Rashi, the translation should be, "with instruments of divination in their hands."

[c] By not stating the reasons for this refusal, the messengers were left in doubt as regards them. Hence they and the king thought, perhaps, that it was because the deputation had not been commensurate with the dignity of the prophet; wherefore Balak despatched a second more numerous and honoured deputation to call him, and then for the first time did Bil'am reveal his powerlessness.

21 And Bil'am rose up in the morning, and saddled his ass, and went with the princes of Moäb.

22 And the anger of God was kindled, because he went; and an angel of the LORD placed himself in the way to be a hindrance to him; and he was riding upon his ass, and his two servants were with him.

23 And the ass saw the angel of the LORD standing in the way, with his sword drawn in his hand; and the ass turned aside out of the way, and went into the field: and Bil'am smote the ass, to make her turn into the way.

24 But the angel of the LORD stepped into a path between the vineyards, (with) a wall on this side, and a wall on that side.

25 And when the ass saw the angel of the LORD, she forced herself against the wall, and pressed Bil'am's foot against the wall: and he smote her again.

26 And the angel of the LORD went yet farther, and stood in a narrow place, where there was no way to turn either to the right or to the left.

27 And when the ass saw the angel of the LORD, she lay down under Bil'am: whereupon Bil'am's anger was kindled, and he smote the ass with a stick.

28 And the LORD opened the mouth of the ass, and she said unto Bil'am, What have I done unto thee, that thou hast smitten me these three times?

29 And Bil'am said unto the ass, Because thou hast mocked me: had I but a sword in my hand, I would assuredly have now killed thee.

30 And the ass said unto Bil'am, Am not I thy ass, upon which thou hast ridden from thy commencement[a] unto this day? was I ever wont to do so unto thee? and he said, No.

31 Then the LORD opened the eyes of Bil'am, and he saw the angel of the LORD standing in the way, with his sword drawn in his hand: and he bowed down his head and prostrated himself on his face.

32 And the angel of the LORD said unto him, Wherefore hast thou smitten thy ass these three times? behold, I went out to be a hindrance; because the journey which is odious to me was too quickly begun.[b]

33 And the ass saw me, and turned aside before me these three times; if she had not turned aside from me, I would surely now not only have slain thee, but saved her alive.

34 And Bil'am said unto the angel of the LORD, I have sinned; for[c] I knew not that thou wast standing against me in the way; but now, if it be evil in thy eyes, I will return home again.

35 And the angel of the LORD said unto Bil'am, Go with the men; however, only the word which I will speak unto thee, that shalt thou speak:[d] and Bil'am went with the princes of Balak.

36 And when Balak heard that Bil'am was come, he went out to meet him unto 'Ir-Moäb, which is on the border of Arnon, which is at the outmost end of the boundary.

37 And Balak said unto Bil'am, Did I not earnestly send unto thee to have thee called? wherefore camest thou not unto me? in truth, am I not able to honour thee?

38 And Bil'am said unto Balak, Lo, I am come unto thee; have I now any power whatever to speak the least? the word that God may put in my mouth, that alone must I speak.*

39 And Bil'am went with Balak, and they came unto Kiryath-chuzoth.

40 And Balak slew oxen and sheep, and sent to Bil'am, and to the princes that were with him.

41 And it came to pass in the morning, that Balak took Bil'am, and brought him up into the high places of Baäl, and he saw thence a portion of the people.

CHAPTER XXIII.

1 And Bil'am said unto Balak, Build me here seven altars, and prepare me here seven bullocks and seven rams.

2 And Balak did as Bil'am had spoken; and Balak and Bil'am offered a bullock and a ram on every altar.

[a] Heb. "From thy first being," which the commentator to Mendelssohn's translation explains, "from the first time thou didst ride."

[b] Mendelssohn, after Rashi; and it means that though permission had been given to the gentile prophet to go to Balak, he nevertheless showed too great and culpable an eagerness to attempt cursing the people of God.

[c] Arnheim renders כּ with "that;" Philippson, with "nevertheless."

[d] Bil'am was evidently anxious to injure Israel.

3 And Bil'am said unto Balak, Place thyself by thy burnt-offering; and I will go, peradventure the LORD will come to meet me, and whatsoever he may show me I will tell thee: and he went thoughtfully alone.[a]

4 And God met Bil'am: and he said unto him, The seven altars have I made ready, and I have offered a bullock and a ram upon every altar.

5 And the LORD put a word[b] in Bil'am's mouth, and said, Return unto Balak, and thus shalt thou speak.

6 And he returned unto him, and, lo, he was standing by his burnt-offering, he, and all the princes of Moäb.

7 And he took up his parable, and said, From Aram did Balak send for me, the king of Moäb, out of the mountains of the east, Come, curse me Jacob, and come, defy Israel.

8 How shall I denounce, whom God hath not denounced? and how shall I defy, whom the LORD hath not defied?

9 For from the top of rocks I see him, and from hills I behold him: lo, it is a people that shall dwell alone, and among the nations it shall not be reckoned.

10 Who can count the dust of Jacob, and number the fourth part of Israel? May my soul die the death of the righteous, and may my last end be like his![c]

11 And Balak said unto Bil'am, What hast thou done unto me? to denounce my enemies did I take thee, and, behold, thou hast even blessed them.

12 And he answered and said, Must I not take heed to speak that only which the LORD may put in my mouth?*

13 And Balak said unto him, Come, I pray thee, with me unto another place, from where thou canst see them; nevertheless a portion of them only wilt thou see, but the whole of them thou wilt not see: and denounce them for me from there.

14 And he brought him to the field of the watchmen, on the top of Pisgah, and he built seven altars, and offered a bullock and a ram on every altar.

15 And he said unto Balak, Place thyself here by thy burnt-offering, while I will repair to yonder place.

16 And the LORD met Bil'am, and put a word in his mouth, and said, Return unto Balak, and thus shalt thou speak.

17 And he came to him, and behold, he was standing by his burnt-offering, and the princes of Moäb with him; and Balak said unto him, What hath the LORD spoken?

18 And he took up his parable, and said, Rise up, Balak, and hear; bend hither thy ear unto me, son of Zippor!

19 God is not a man, that he should lie; nor a son of man, that he should repent: hath he said, and shall he not do it? and hath he spoken, and shall he not fulfil it?

20 Behold, to bless I have received (the word); and he hath blessed, and I cannot reverse it.

21 He hath not beheld any wrong[d] in Jacob, nor hath he seen perverseness in Israel: the LORD his God is with him, and the glory of the king dwelleth among him.

22 God, who brought them out of Egypt, is to them like the heights[e] of the reëm.

23 For there is no enchantment in Jacob, nor is there any divination in Israel: at the proper time shall it be said to Jacob and to Israel, what God doth work.

24 Behold, it is a people, that shall rise up as a lioness, and as a lion shall it raise itself: it will not lie down until it have eaten the prey, and have drunk the blood of the slain.

25 And Balak said unto Bil'am, Neither shalt thou denounce them, nor shalt thou any wise bless them.

26 But Bil'am answered and said unto Balak, Have I not spoken unto thee, saying, All that the LORD will speak, that must I do?*

27 And Balak said unto Bil'am, Come, I pray thee, I will take thee unto another

[a] Mendelssohn renders, "to a mountain-top;" but Onkelos gives יחידי "alone;" Rashi agrees with this. Arnheim renders "devoutly." In the present version it has been endeavoured to unite both these ideas.

[b] Mendelssohn, "answer;" Philippson, "speech."

[c] i. e. The people, personified as an individual.

[d] Onkelos refers both the "wrong" and "perverseness" to the worship of idols, and so is it rendered by Arnheim. תרועת מלך is given after Onkelos. Rashi, Rashbam, and, after them, Arnheim, render it with "love" or "kindness." Philippson, "the joyous shout of the king."

[e] Arnheim, after whom this verse is given, thinks that it means "God is to the people a sure refuge, like the Alpine heights are to the reëm, which he supposes to be here the ehamois, where it is safe against the hunter." Onkelos translates "the strength and height are his," (God's,) meaning that He is mightier than all. O. does not regard therefore ראם as the name of an animal in this verse.

place. peradventure it may be pleasing in the eyes of God that thou mayest denounce them for me from there.

28 And Balak took Bil'am unto the top of Peör, that looketh toward the desert.

29 And Bil'am said unto Balak, Build me here seven altars, and prepare me here seven bullocks and seven rams.

30 And Balak did as Bil'am had said, and he offered a bullock and a ram on every altar.

CHAPTER XXIV.

1 And when Bil'am saw that it was pleasing in the eyes of the LORD to bless Israel, he went not, as at other times, to seek for enchantments, but he set his face toward the wilderness.

2 And Bil'am lifted up his eyes, and when he saw Israel encamped according to their tribes, there came upon him the spirit of God.

3 And he took up his parable, and said, Thus saith Bil'am the son of Beör, and thus saith the man whose eyes are open;

4 Thus saith he who heareth the sayings of God, who seeth the vision of the Almighty, falling down, with unvailed eyes:

5 How beautiful are thy tents, O Jacob, thy dwellings, O Israel!

6 As streams[a] are they spread forth, as gardens by the river's side, as aloe-trees, which the LORD hath planted, as cedar-trees beside the waters.

7 Water runneth out of His[b] buckets, that his seed may be moistened by abundance of water; and exalted above Agag shall be his king, and raised on high shall be his kingdom.

8 God, who brought him forth out of Egypt, is to him like the heights of the reëm; he will devour nations, his oppressors, and their bones will he break, and pierce (them) through with his arrows.

9 He coucheth, he lieth down as a lion, and as a lioness: who shall make him rise up? They that bless thee be blessed, and they that curse thee be cursed.

10 And the anger of Balak was kindled against Bil'am, and he struck his hands together: and Balak said unto Bil'am, To denounce my enemies did I call thee, and, behold, thou hast even blessed them these three times.

11 And now flee thou to thy place: I thought to honour thee greatly; but, lo, the LORD hath kept thee back from honour.

12 And Bil'am said unto Balak, Did I not already speak to thy messengers, whom thou sentest unto me, saying,

13 If Balak would give me his house full of silver and gold, I could not transgress the order of the LORD, to do good or evil out of my own heart: what the LORD will speak, that must I speak?*

14 And now, behold, I am going unto my people: come, I will advise thee against what this people will do to thy people in the end of days.

15 And he took up his parable and said, Thus saith Bil'am the son of Beör, and thus saith the man whose eyes are open;

16 Thus saith he who heareth the sayings of God, and knoweth the knowledge of the Most High, who seeth the vision of the Almighty, falling down, with unvailed eyes:

17 I see him, but not now; I behold him, but not nigh; there steppeth forth a star out of Jacob, and there ariseth a sceptre out of Israel, and he pierceth the chiefs[c] of Moäb, and destroyeth all the children of Sheth.

18 And Edom shall be a conquest, and Seïr shall be a conquest for his enemies; and Israel shall do valiantly.

19 And there shall rule the one from Jacob, and he shall destroy whatever escapeth out of the city.

20 And he looked on Amalek, and he took up his parable, and said, The first of nations[d] is Amalek; but his latter end shall be destruction[e] for ever.

21 And he looked on the Kenites, and took up his parable, and said, Strong is thy dwelling-place, and placed on the rock is thy nest.[f]

22 Nevertheless the Kenite shall be wast-

[a] Others, "valleys."

[b] Arnheim refers "his" to God, who is represented as planting the trees of Israel by flowing streams, the great fertilizers in all countries, particularly in warm climates; the buckets of God, his clouds, then send forth a constant supply, that the seed of the trees spoken of may be blessed by the abundance of the element through which they grow.

[c] After Onkelos. Arnheim and others, "corners."

ed: whither[a] will Asshur carry thee away captive?

23 And he took up his parable, and said, Alas, who shall live when God doth appoint this one?[b]

24 But ships will come from the coast of Kittim, and will afflict Asshur, and will afflict 'Eber; and he also will be given to destruction for ever.

25 And Bil'am rose up, and went and returned to his place; and Balak also went his way.

CHAPTER XXV.

1 ¶ And Israel abode in Shittim, and the people began to commit incest with the daughters of Moäb.

2 And they called the people unto the sacrifices of their gods: and the people did eat, and bowed themselvès down to their gods.

3 And Israel joined themselves unto Baäl-peör; and the anger of the LORD was kindled against Israel.

4 And the LORD said unto Moses, Take all the heads of the people, and (cause them to) hang[c] the (guilty) up before the LORD, in the face of the sun, that the fierce anger of the LORD may be turned away from Israel.

5 And Moses said unto the judges of Israel, Slay ye every one his men that have been joined unto Baäl-peör.

6 And, behold, one of the children of Israel came, and brought unto his brethren a Midianitish woman, before the eyes of Moses, and before the eyes of all the congregation of the children of Israel, and these were weeping by the door of the tabernacle of the congregation.*

7 And when Phinehas, the son of Elazar, the son of Aaron the priest, saw it, he rose up from the midst of the congregation, and took a javelin in his hand;

8 And he went after the man of Israel into the tent, and thrust both of them through, the man of Israel, and the woman through her body: and the plague was stayed from the children of Israel.

9 And those that died in the plague were twenty and four thousand.

Haphtorah in Micah v. 6 to vi. 8.

SECTION XLI. PINECHAS. פינחס.

10 ¶ And the LORD spoke unto Moses, saying,

11 Phinehas, the son of Elazar, the son of Aaron the priest, hath turned away my wrath from the children of Israel, while he was zealous in my stead[d] in the midst of them, that I consumed not the children of Israel in my indignation.

12 Therefore say, Behold, I give unto him my covenant of peace;

13 And it shall be unto him and unto his seed after him a covenant of an everlasting priesthood; because he was zealous for his God, and made an atonement for the children of Israel.

14 Now the name of the man of Israel that was slain, who was slain with the Midianitish woman, was Zimri, the son of Sahlu, a prince of a family division among the Simeonites.

15 And the name of the Midianitish woman that was slain was Cozbi, the daughter of Zur; he was head of tribes, of a family division in Midian.

16 ¶ And the LORD spoke unto Moses, saying,

17 Attack the Midianites and smite them;

18 For they are enemies unto you with their wiles, wherewith they have beguiled you in the matter of Peör, and in the matter of Cozbi, the daughter of a prince of Midian, their sister, who was slain on the day of the plague for the sake of Peör.

CHAPTER XXVI.

1 And it came to pass after the plague,

¶ That the LORD spoke unto Moses and unto Elazar the son of Aaron the priest, saying,

2 Take ye the sum of all the congregation of the children of Israel, from twenty years old and upward, by the descent from their fathers, all that are able to go forth to war in Israel.

[d] Heb. "In his avenging my vengeance;" meaning, that Phinehas executed the judgment which the LORD would otherwise have executed upon the daring Zimri.—The word "indignation" is used here for בקנאתי, as this expresses the idea of "wrath existed by the exhibition of the apostasy" spoken of in the first verses of this chapter, better than "jealousy."

3 And Moses with El'azar the priest spoke with them in the plains of Moäb by the Jordan opposite Jericho, saying,

4 (Take[a] the sum of the people,) from twenty years old and upward; as the LORD commanded Moses and the children of Israel, who went forth out of the land of Egypt.*

5 Reüben, the eldest son of Israel: the children of Reüben, of Chanoch, the family of the Chanochites; of Pallu, the family of the Palluites;

6 Of Chezron, the family of the Chezronites; of Carmi, the family of the Carmites.

7 These are the families of the Reübenites; and those that were numbered of them were forty and three thousand and seven hundred and thirty.

8 And the sons of Pallu: Eliab.

9 And the sons of Eliab: Nemuël, and Dathan, and Abiram. These are Dathan and Abiram, men called to the assembly, who quarrelled against Moses and against Aaron in the company of Korach, at the time they quarrelled against the LORD;

10 When the earth opened her mouth, and swallowed them up together with Korach, while that company died, when the fire devoured the two hundred and fifty men; and they became a sign.[b]

11 But the sons of Korach did not die.

31 And of Assriël, the family of the Assriëlites; and of Shechem, the family of the Shichmites;

[a] The words enclosed in parentheses are not in the Hebrew, as is likewise the case with nearly all others marked thus in this version; but they are such as are absolutely required by the context.

[b] The punishment inflicted on the trangressors must always be looked upon as a means of guarding others against following the sinful course through which the evil was brought upon the sinners; hence the persons in the text are said to have become a "sign," or, more properly, a "banner," or a signal raised up on high, as a landmark for those who may pass the road where the banner is planted. Rashi, therefore, comments, "As a sign and memorial, in order that no stranger shall in future approach to contend about the priesthood."

32 And of Shemida', the family of the Shemida'ites; and of Chepher, the family of the Chephrites.

33 And Zelophchad the son of Chepher had no sons, but only daughters; and the names of the daughters of Zelophchad were Machlah, and No'ah, Choglah, Milcah, and Tirzah.

36 And these are the sons of Shuthelach: of 'Eran, the family of the 'Eranites.

37 These are the families of the sons of Ephraim according to those that were numbered of them, thirty and two thousand and five hundred: these are the sons of Joseph after their families.

38 ¶ The sons of Benjamin after their families: of Bela', the family of the Bal'ites; of Ashbel, the family of the Ashbelites; of Achiram, the family of the Achiramites;

39 Of Shephupham,[a] the family of the Shuphamites; of Chupham, the family of the Chuphamites.

40 And the sons of Bela' were Ard and Na'aman: of Ard, the family of the Ardites; and of Na'aman, the family of the Na'amites.

41 These are the sons of Benjamin after their families; and those that were numbered of them were forty and five thousand and six hundred.

42 ¶ These are the sons of Dan after their families: of Shucham, the family of the Shuchamites; these are the families of Dan after their families.

43 All the families of the Shuchamites, according to those that were numbered of them, were sixty and four thousand and four hundred.

44 ¶ The children of Asher after their families: of Yimnah, the family of the Yimnites; of Yishvi, the family of the Yishvites; of Beri'ah, the family of the Beri'ites.

45 Of the sons of Beri'ah: of Cheber, the family of the Chebrites; of Malkiël, the family of the Makiëlites.

46 And the name of the daughter of Asher was Serach.

47 These are the families of the sons of Asher according to those that were numbered of them, fifty and three thousand and four hundred.

48 ¶ The sons of Naphtali after their families: of Yachzeël, the family of the Yachzeëlites; of Guni, the family of the Gunites;

49 Of Yezer, the family of the Yizrites; of Shillem, the family of the Shillemites.

50 These are the families of Naphtali according to their families; and those that were numbered of them were forty and five thousand and four hundred.

51 These were the numbered of the children of Israel, six hundred thousand, and one thousand, seven hundred and thirty.[5]

52 ¶ And the LORD spoke unto Moses, saying,

53 Unto these shall the land be divided for an inheritance according to the number of the names.

54 To the large tribe shalt thou give the more inheritance, and to the small shalt thou give the less inheritance: to each according to those that were numbered thereof shall its inheritance be given.

55 Nevertheless, through the lot shall the land be divided: according to the names of the tribes of their fathers shall they obtain their inheritance.

56 By the decision of the lot shall the inheritance of each be divided, according as they are many or few.

57 ¶ And these are those that were numbered of the Levites after their families: of Gershon, the family of the Gershnites; of Kehath, the family of the Kehathites; of Merari, the family of the Merarites.

58 These are the families of Levi: the family of the Libnites, the family of the Chebronites, the family of the Machlites, the family of the Mushites, the family of the Korchites; and Kehath begat 'Amram.

[a] In comparing the names of the families of Israel with those of the fathers who first came into Egypt, there will be found considerable variation in some of them; for instance, the name in the text is Shephupham; in Genesis xlvi. 21, it is Muppim; so likewise Nemuël is in Genesis Yemuël; Zochar there, is Zerach here; Yob is Yashub, &c. The reason of these changes is not very apparent: perhaps the original founders of the family were known by both names, or these may have become corrupted in the process of time.

59 And the name of 'Amram's wife was Yochebed, the daughter of Levi, whom (her mother) bore to Levi in Egypt; and she bore unto Amram, Aaron and Moses, and Miriam their sister.

60 And there were born unto Aaron, Nadab, and Abihu, Elazar, and Ithamar.

61 And Nadab and Abihu died, when they offered a strange fire before the LORD.

62 And those that were numbered of them were twenty and three thousand, all the males from a month old and upward; for they were not numbered among the children of Israel, because there was not given unto them any inheritance among the children of Israel.

63 These are those that were numbered by Moses and Elazar the priest, who numbered the children of Israel in the plains of Moäb by the Jordan, opposite Jericho.

64 And among these there was not one man of those whom Moses and Aaron the priest had numbered, who numbered the children of Israel in the wilderness of Sinai.

65 For the LORD had said of them, They shall surely die in the wilderness: and there was not left of them one man, save Caleb the son of Yephunneh, and Joshua the son of Nun.

CHAPTER XXVII.

1 ¶ And there came nigh the daughters of Zelophehad, the son of Chepher, the son of Gil'ad, the son of Machir, the son of Menasseh, of the families of Menasseh the son of Joseph: and these are the names of his daughters, Machlah, No'ah, and Choglah, and Milcah, and Tirzah.

2 And they stood before Moses, and before Elazar the priest, and before the princes, and all the congregation, by the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, saying,

3 Our father died in the wilderness; but he was not among the company of those that gathered themselves together against the LORD in the company of Korach; but in his own sin he died, and sons he had not.

4 Why should the name of our father be done away from the midst of his family, because he hath no son? Give unto us a possession among the brothers of our father.

5 And Moses brought their cause before the LORD.*

6 ¶ And the LORD spoke unto Moses, saying,

7 The daughters of Zelophehad speak rightly: thou shalt indeed give them a possession as an inheritance among the brothers of their father; and thou shalt cause the inheritance of their father to pass unto them.

8 And unto the children of Israel shalt thou speak, saying, If a man die, and have no son, then shall ye cause his inheritance to pass unto his daughter.

9 And if he have no daughter, then shall ye give his inheritance unto his brothers.

10 And if he have no brothers, then shall ye give his inheritance unto his father's brothers.

11 And if his father have no brothers, then shall ye give his inheritance unto his kinsman that is next to him of his family, and he shall inherit it; and it shall be unto the children of Israel a statute of justice, as the LORD hath commanded Moses.

12 ¶ And the LORD said unto Moses, Go thou up unto this mount of 'Abarim, and see the land which I have given unto the children of Israel.

13 And when thou hast seen it, then shalt thou also be gathered unto thy people, as Aaron thy brother hath been gathered.

14 Because ye rebelled against my order in the desert of Zin, at the quarrelling of the congregation, to sanctify[x] me through the waters before their eyes: these are the waters of Meribah in Kadesh, in the wilderness of Zin.

15 ¶ And Moses spoke unto the LORD, saying,

16 Let the LORD, the God of the spirits of all flesh, appoint a man over the congregation, 17 Who may go out before them, and who may come in before them, and who may lead them out, and who may bring them in; that the congregation of the LORD be not as a flock which have no shepherd.

18 And the LORD said unto Moses, Take to thyself Joshua the son of Nun, a man in whom there is a spirit, and thou shalt lay thy hand upon him;

19 And thou shalt cause him to stand before Elazar the priest, and before all the congregation; and thou shalt give him a charge[a] before their eyes.

20 And thou shalt put some of thy greatness upon him; in order that all the congregation of the children of Israel may be obedient.

21 And before Elazar the priest shall he stand, and he shall ask of him after the judgment of the Urim before the LORD: at his[b] direction shall they go out, and at his direction shall they come in, he, and all the children of Israel with him, and all the congregation.

22 And Moses did, as the LORD had commanded him; and he took Joshua, and caused him to stand before Elazar the priest, and before all the congregation;

23 And he laid his hands upon him, and gave him a charge: as the LORD had commanded by the hand of Moses.*

CHAPTER XXVIII.

1 ¶ And the LORD spoke unto Moses, saying,

2 Command the children of Israel, and say unto them, My offering, my bread for my sacrifices consumed by fire, for a sweet savour unto me, shall ye observe to offer unto me in its due season.[c]

3 And thou shalt say unto them, This is the offering made by fire which ye shall bring unto the LORD: Sheep of the first year without blemish, two on every day, as a continual burnt-offering.

4 The one sheep shalt thou prepare in the morning, and the other sheep shalt thou prepare toward evening;

5 And a tenth part of an ephah of fine flour for a meat-offering, mingled with the fourth part of a hin of beaten oil.

6 It is a continual burnt-offering, as it was prepared at mount Sinai, for a sweet savour, a sacrifice made by fire unto the LORD.

7 And the drink-offering thereof shall be the fourth part of a hin for the one sheep: in the holy place shalt thou cause the strong wine to be poured out as a drink-offering unto the LORD.

8 And the other sheep shalt thou prepare toward evening: as the meat-offering of the morning, and as the drink-offering thereof, shalt thou prepare it; an offering made by fire, for a sweet savour unto the LORD.

9 ¶ And on the sabbath-day two sheep of the first year without blemish, and two tenth parts of fine flour for a meat-offering, mingled with oil, and the drink-offering thereof.

10 This is the burnt-offering of the sabbath on every sabbath, besides the continual burnt-offering, and its drink-offering.

11 ¶ And on the beginnings of your months shall ye bring as a burnt-offering unto the LORD, two young bullocks, and one ram, seven sheep of the first year without blemish.

12 And three tenth parts of fine flour for a meat-offering, mingled with oil, for each one bullock; and two tenth parts of fine flour for a meat-offering, mingled with oil, for the one ram;

13 And a tenth part of fine flour mingled with oil for a meat-offering for every sheep: as a burnt-offering for a sweet savour, a sacrifice made by fire unto the LORD.

14 And their drink-offerings shall be half of a hin of wine for each bullock, and the third part of a hin for the ram, and a fourth part of a hin for every sheep: this is the burnt-offering of the new moon for every month throughout the months of the year.

15 And one he-goat for a sin-offering unto the LORD: beside the continual burnt-offering shall it be prepared with its drink-offering.*

16 ¶ And in the first month, on the fourteenth day of the month, the passover-lamb (must be offered) unto the LORD.

17 And on the fifteenth day of this month is the feast; seven days shall unleavened bread be eaten.

18 On the first day is a holy convocation; no manner of servile work shall ye do;

19 And ye shall bring as a sacrifice made by fire for a burnt-offering unto the LORD, two young bullocks, and one ram, and seven sheep of the first year; without blemish shall they be unto you;

[c] Whether on sabbath or week-days

20 And their meat-offering shall be of fine flour mingled with oil; three tenth parts for each bullock, and two tenth parts for the ram shall ye offer;

21 A tenth part each shalt thou offer for every sheep, of the seven sheep;

22 And one goat for a sin-offering, to make an atonement for you.

23 Besides the burnt-offering of the morning, which is for a continual burnt-offering, shall ye prepare these.

24 After this manner[a] shall ye prepare daily, throughout the seven days, the food of the sacrifice made by fire, for a sweet savour unto the LORD: besides the continual burnt-offering shall it be prepared with its drink-offering.

25 And on the seventh day shall ye have a holy convocation; no servile work shall ye do.

26 ¶ And on the day of the first-fruits,[b] when ye bring a new meat-offering unto the LORD, after your weeks are out, shall ye have a holy convocation; no servile work shall ye do.

27 And ye shall bring as a burnt-offering for a sweet savour unto the LORD, two young bullocks, one ram, seven sheep of the first year;

28 And their meat-offering of fine flour mingled with oil, three tenth parts for each one bullock, two tenth parts for the one ram,

29 A tenth part each for every sheep, of the seven sheep;

30 One he-goat to make an atonement for you:

31 Besides the continual burnt-offering and its meat-offering shall ye prepare them; without blemish shall they be unto you together with their drink-offerings.

CHAPTER XXIX.

1 ¶ And in the seventh month, on the first day of the month, shall ye have a holy convocation; no servile work shall ye do: a day of blowing the cornet shall it be unto you.

2 And ye shall prepare as a burnt-offering for a sweet savour unto the LORD, one young bullock, one ram, seven sheep of the first year without blemish;

3 And their meat-offering of fine flour mingled with oil, three tenth parts for the bullock, and two tenth parts for the ram,

4 And one tenth part for every sheep, of the seven sheep;

5 And one he-goat for a sin-offering, to make an atonement for you:

6 Besides the burnt-offering of the new-moon,[c] and its meat-offering, and the daily burnt-offering, and its meat-offering, and their drink-offerings, according unto their prescribed manner; for a sweet savour, a sacrifice made by fire unto the LORD.

7 ¶ And on the tenth day of this seventh month shall ye have a holy convocation; and ye shall afflict[d] your persons; no manner of work shall ye do.

8 And ye shall bring as a burnt-offering unto the LORD for a sweet savour, one young bullock, one ram, seven sheep of the first year; without blemish shall they be unto you.

9 And their meat-offering shall be of fine flour mingled with oil, three tenth parts for the bullock, two tenth parts for the one ram,

10 A tenth part each for every sheep, of the seven sheep;

11 One he-goat for a sin-offering: besides the sin-offering of the atonement,[e] and the continual burnt-offering, and the meat-offering thereof, and their drink-offerings.*

12 ¶ And on the fifteenth day of the seventh month shall ye have a holy convocation; no servile work shall ye do; and ye shall keep a feast unto the LORD seven days.

13 And ye shall bring as a burnt-offering, a sacrifice made by fire, for a sweet savour unto the LORD, thirteen young bullocks,[f] two seek for any particular reason for the diversity in the various festivals. Only when offered as ordained, were burnt and other offerings acceptable, as acts of obedience and submission to the supreme will of Israel's Ruler and King. Hence, also, it is useless to seek for an exact solution of the various ceremonies attending them.

SECTION XLII. MATTOTH, מטות.

2 ¶ And Moses spoke unto the heads of the tribes of the children of Israel, saying, This is the thing which the LORD hath commanded,

3 If a man make a vow unto the LORD, or he swear an oath to bind his soul with an obligation:[a] he shall not profane his word; according to all that proceedeth out of his mouth shall he do.

4 And if a woman make a vow unto the LORD, and bind herself by an obligation, being in her father's house in her youth;

5 And her father hear her vow, and her obligation wherewith she hath bound her soul, and her father be silent to her: then shall all her vows stand, and every obligation wherewith she hath bound her soul shall stand.

6 But if her father disallow her on the day that he heareth it: all her vows or her obligations, wherewith she hath bound her soul, shall not stand; and the LORD will forgive her, because her father hath disallowed her.

7 And if she be given to a man, and have vows upon her, or what she may have uttered with her lips, wherewith she hath bound her soul;

8 And her husband hear it, and be silent to her on the day that he heareth it: then shall her vows stand, and her obligations, wherewith she hath bound her soul, shall stand.

9 But if on the day of her husband's hearing it, he disallow her: then doth he annul her vow which is upon her, and that which she hath uttered with her lips, wherewith she hath bound her soul; and the LORD will forgive her.

10 But regarding the vow of a widow, or of her that is divorced, all, wherewith she hath bound her soul, shall stand for her.

11 And if she had vowed in her husband's house,[b] or had bound her soul by an obligation with an oath;

12 And her husband heard it, and was silent to her, and disallowed her not: then all her vows shall stand, and every obligation, wherewith she hath bound her soul, shall stand.

13 But if her husband hath annulled them on the day he heard them: then whatsoever proceeded out of her lips, concerning her vows, or concerning the obligation of her soul, shall not stand; her husband hath annulled them; and the LORD will forgive her.

14 Every vow, and every binding oath to afflict the person, her husband may confirm it, or her husband may annul it.

15 But if her husband should be silent to her from day to day: then hath he confirmed all her vows, or all her obligations, which are upon her; he hath confirmed them, because he was silent to her on the day that he heard them.

16 But if he should annul them after (the day) that he hath heard them: then shall he bear her iniquity.

17 These are the statutes, which the LORD commanded Moses, between a man and his wife, between the father and his daughter, being yet in her youth, in her father's house.*

CHAPTER XXXI.

1 ¶ And the LORD spoke unto Moses, saying,

2 Execute the vengeance of the children of Israel on the Midianites, after which thou shalt be gathered unto thy people.

3 And Moses spoke unto the people, saying, Arm from yourselves some men for the army, and let them go against the Midianites, to execute the vengeance of the LORD on Midian.

4 A thousand each for every tribe, of all the tribes of Israel, shall ye send to the army.

5 And there were levied out of the thou-

[a] That is, to prohibit oneself something which otherwise is permitted to him, whereas a vow may refer to do something which otherwise would not be obligatory. In either case, whether it was by an oath or simple declaration, we are warned not to violate our word, called in the text to profane it.

[b] Verse 8 refers evidently to oaths made before the engagement of the female to her husband, although a second-

* ary rule concerning the vows of a minor, who is betrothed, is also drawn from it; whereas the present addresses itself to those made after marriage, while the wife is in her husband's house. It is also inferred from this that, if a woman, during her husband's life, has made a vow to take effect after a certain time, and he disallow it, though he should die before the time, still the vow is annulled.

sands of Israel, a thousand of every tribe, twelve thousand armed for the army.

6 And Moses sent them, a thousand of every tribe, to the army; them and Phinehas the son of Elazar the priest, to the army, with the holy vessels, and the trumpets for blowing the alarm in his hand.

7 And they marched out against the Midianites, as the LORD had commanded Moses; and they slew every male.

8 And the kings of Midian they slew, besides the rest of their men that were slain; namely, Evi, and Rekem, and Zur, and Chur, and Reba', the five kings of Midian; and Bil'am the son of Beör they slew with the sword.

9 And the children of Israel took captives the women of Midian, and their little ones; and all their cattle, and all their flocks, and all their goods, they took as spoil.

10 And all their cities wherein they dwelt, and all their castles they burnt with fire.

11 And they took all the spoil, and all the booty, both of men and of cattle.

12 And they brought unto Moses, and to Elazar the priest, and unto the congregation of the children of Israel, the captives,[a] and the booty, and the spoil, unto the camp, to the plains of Moäb, which are by the Jordan opposite Jericho.*

13 ¶ And Moses, and Elazar the priest, and all the princes of the congregation, went forth to meet them, to without the camp.

14 And Moses was wroth with the officers of the host, the captains over the thousands, and the captains over the hundreds, who had come from the war-campaign.

15 And Moses said unto them, Have ye allowed all the females to live?

16 Behold, these chiefly were the cause unto the children of Israel, through the counsel of Bil'am, to commit the gross trespass against the LORD in the matter of Peör; through which there was the plague among the congregation of the LORD.

17 And now kill ye every male among the little ones, and every woman that hath known man by lying with him shall ye kill.

18 But all among the women-children, that have not known a man by lying with him, keep alive for yourselves.

19 But ye,—you must abide without the camp seven days: all ye who have killed any person, and all who have touched any one slain, shall purify yourselves on the third day, and on the seventh day;[b] both you and your captives.

20 And every garment, and whatever is made of skins, and every work of goats' hair, and every vessel made of wood, shall ye purify unto yourselves.

21 ¶ And Elazar the priest said unto the men of the army who had gone to the battle, This is the ordinance of the law which the LORD hath commanded Moses:

22 Nevertheless[c] the gold, and the silver, the copper, the iron, the tin, and the lead,

23 Every thing that cometh into the fire shall ye make go through the fire, and it shall be clean; only it shall be purified with the waters of sprinkling: and whatsoever doth not come into the fire shall ye cause to go through the water.

24 And ye shall wash your clothes on the seventh day, and ye shall be clean, and after that may ye come into the camp.*

25 ¶ And the LORD said unto Moses, as followeth,

26 Take the sum of the booty of the captives, both of man and of cattle, thou, with Elazar the priest, and the chiefs of the families of the congregation:

27 And thou shalt divide the booty, between those that carried on the war, who went out to the army, and between all the congregation.

28 And thou shalt levy a tribute unto the LORD from the men of war who went out to the army, one individual from every five hundred, of the persons, and of the beef-cattle, and of the asses, and of the sheep;

29 From their half shall ye take it; and

[a] The word "captives" שבי refers to human beings; "spoil" שלל to inanimate things, "booty" מלקוח to the cattle. But when they are not all enumerated together, both שלל and מלקוח refer to all things taken in war, as the English word spoil.

[b] In obedience to the injunction contained in chap. xix., by which every one touching a dead body is rendered unclean, and remains so, till sprinkled with the ashes of the red cow.

[c] "Although Moses only instructed you respecting the law of uncleanness, you are now to be instructed, in addition, concerning the purification of vessels used for forbidden food. 'Only' means an exception: you are not to use such articles even after they have been cleansed from thou shalt give it unto Elazar the priest, for a heave-offering of the LORD.

30 And from the half of the children of Israel, shalt thou take one individual, as it may come,[a] from any fifty, of the persons, of beef-cattle, of the asses, and of the flocks, of all manner of cattle; and thou shalt give the same unto the Levites, who keep the charge of the tabernacle of the LORD.

31 And Moses with Elazar the priest did, as the LORD had commanded Moses.

32 And the booty, being the rest of the spoil which the men of the army had taken, was of sheep and goats, six hundred thousand and seventy thousand and five thousand,

33 And of beef-cattle, seventy and two thousand,

34 And of asses, sixty and one thousand,

35 And of human persons, of women that had not known man by lying with him, in all thirty and two thousand.

36 And the half, the portion of those who had gone out in the army, was, in the number of sheep and goats, three hundred thousand and seven and thirty thousand and five hundred.

37 And the tribute unto the LORD of the flocks was six hundred and seventy and five.

38 And the beef-cattle were thirty and six thousand; and the tribute thereof unto the LORD was seventy and two.

39 And the asses were thirty thousand and five hundred; and the tribute thereof unto the LORD was sixty and one.

40 And the human persons were sixteen thousand; and the tribute thereof unto the LORD was thirty and two persons.

41 And Moses gave the tribute, the LORD'S heave-offering, unto Elazar the priest, as the LORD had commanded Moses.*

42 And from the half of the children of Israel, which Moses divided off from the men that had gone forth in the army,—

43 (Now the half of the congregation was, of sheep and goats three hundred thousand and thirty thousand, seven thousand and five hundred,

44 And beef-cattle, thirty and six thousand,

45 And asses thirty thousand five hundred,

46 And human persons sixteen thousand;)

47 And Moses took from this half of the children of Israel, as it came, one from every fifty, of man and of cattle, and gave the same unto the Levites, who kept the charge of the tabernacle of the LORD; as the LORD had commanded Moses.

48 And there came near unto Moses the officers who had been over the thousands of the army, the captains of the thousands, and the captains of the hundreds,

49 And they said unto Moses, Thy servants have taken the sum of the men of war who have been under our command, and there lacketh not one man of us.

50 We have therefore brought an oblation unto the LORD, each what he hath gotten of vessels of gold, chains, and bracelets, finger-rings, ear-rings, and tablets, to make an atonement[b] for our souls before the LORD.

51 And Moses with Elazar the priest took the gold from them, all kinds of wrought articles.

52 And all the gold of the offering that they offered up to the LORD, was sixteen thousand seven hundred and fifty shekels, from the captains of the thousands, and from the captains of the hundreds.

53 The men of the army had taken spoil, every man for himself.

54 And Moses and Elazar the priest took the gold from the captains of the thousands and of the hundreds, and they brought it into the tabernacle of the congregation, as a memorial for the children of Israel before the LORD.*

the uncleanness of the dead, till they have been treated after the manner prescribed in this section.—After RASHI.

[a] חוּשׁ means "to seize;" the participle here employed means, therefore, "just as it came," or "as it was seized hold of," that is, no particular care being employed in making the selection.

[b] By referring to Exodus xxx. 12, it will be found that when numbering the people, it was ordained that every one should offer half a shekel as an atonement, that "there might be no plague among the children of Israel." It was no doubt this commandment, at the taking of the general census, which induced the captains of the army to offer a similar gift as an atonement for the numbering of the men intrusted to their command, at the partial census which they had instituted.

and the land of Gil'ad, that, behold, the place was a place for cattle.

2 And the children of Gad and the children of Reüben came, and said unto Moses, and unto Elazar the priest, and unto the princes of the congregation, as followeth,

3 'Ataroth, and Dibon, and Ya'zer, and Nimrah, and Cheshbon, and El'aleh, and Sebam, and Nebo, and Be'on,

4 The country which the LORD hath smitten before the congregation of Israel, is a land for cattle: and thy servants have cattle.

5 ¶ And they said, If we have found grace in thy eyes, let this land be given unto thy servants for a possession: do not compel us to go over the Jordan.

6 And Moses said unto the children of Gad, and unto the children of Reüben, Shall your brethren go to the war, and will ye[a] sit here?

7 And wherefore will you turn aside the heart of the children of Israel from going over into the land which the LORD hath given them?

8 Thus did your fathers, when I sent them from Kadesh-barnea' to see the land.

9 For they went up as far as the valley of Eshcol, and they saw the land, and then they turned aside the heart of the children of Israel, so that they would not go into the land which the LORD had given them.

10 And the anger of the LORD was kindled on that day, and he swore, saying,

11 Surely none of the men that came up out of Egypt, from twenty years old and upward, shall see the land which I swore unto Abraham, unto Isaac, and unto Jacob; because they have not wholly followed me:[b]

12 Save Caleb the son of Yephunneh the Kenizzite, and Joshua the son of Nun; for they have wholly followed the LORD.

13 And the anger of the LORD was thus kindled against Israel, and he made them wander about in the wilderness forty years, until all the generation was spent, that had done the evil in the eyes of the LORD.

14 And now, behold, ye are risen up in your fathers' stead, a new race of sinful men, to augment yet more the fierce anger of the LORD toward Israel.

15 For if ye turn away from after him, he will yet longer leave them in the wilderness; and ye will thus be destruction to all this people.

16 ¶ And they came near unto him, and said, Sheepfolds will we build for our cattle here, and cities for our little ones;

17 But we ourselves will go ready armed before the children of Israel, until that we have brought them unto their place; and our little ones shall dwell in the fortified cities, because of the inhabitants of the land.

18 We will not return unto our houses, until the children of Israel have acquired for themselves every man his inheritance.

19 For we will not take possession with them on the other side of the Jordan, and farther on: when[c] our inheritance hath come to us on this side of the Jordan eastward.*

20 ¶ And Moses said unto them, If ye will do this thing, if ye will arm yourselves before the LORD for the war;

21 And every armed man of you will go over the Jordan before the LORD, until he have driven out his enemies from before him;

22 And when, only after the land hath been subdued before the LORD, ye will return, and ye be thus guiltless[d] before the LORD, and before Israel: then shall this land be yours for a possession before the LORD.

23 But if ye will not do so, behold, ye have sinned against the LORD; and ye shall experience the punishment[e] of your sin which will overtake you.

24 Build yourselves cities for your little ones, and folds for your flocks; and that which hath proceeded out of your mouth shall ye do.

[a] Moses thought, probably, that it was an unwillingness on the part of the petitioners to enter Palestine, which caused them to prefer the eastern side of Jordan; and that their refusal to participate in the conquest of the western part might perhaps induce the other tribes to rebel, which again would cause the wandering in the desert to be continued for an indefinite length of time. Hence his remonstrances, and their assurance that it was simply because the land was suited for the pasture of their cattle that their request was made.

[b] Heb. "They have not filled after me;" meaning, that they had not rendered their hearts fully willing to follow the LORD.

[c] Onkelos and others, "because."

[d] Arnheim renders והייתם נקים with "ye have discharged the duty."—We can derive from this a lesson, that it is not enough for us to act justly before God, but we should also strive to avoid suspicion from man.

[e] חטאת properly signifies "the sin," and then also the punishment which follows on the same.

25 And the children of Gad and the children of Reüben said unto Moses, as followeth, Thy servants will do as my lord commandeth.

26 Our little ones, our wives, our flocks, and all our cattle, shall remain there in the cities of Gil'ad;

27 But thy servants will pass over, every one that is armed for the army, before the LORD, to the war, as my lord speaketh.

28 And Moses commanded concerning them Elazar the priest, and Joshua the son of Nun, and the chiefs of the families of the tribes of the children of Israel;

29 And Moses said unto them, If the children of Gad and the children of Reüben do pass with you over the Jordan, every one that is armed for the war, before the LORD, and the land shall be subdued before you: then shall ye give to them the land of Gil'ad for a possession;

30 But if they should not pass over armed with you, they shall take possessions among you in the land of Canaan.[a]

31 And the children of Gad and the children of Reüben answered, saying, That which the LORD hath spoken concerning thy servants, even so will we do.

32 We will indeed pass over armed before the LORD into the land of Canaan, while ours remaineth the possession of our inheritance on this side of the Jordan.

33 And Moses gave unto them, to the children of Gad, and to the children of Reüben, and to half the tribe of Menasseh the son of Joseph, the kingdom of Sichon, the king of the Emorites, and the kingdom of 'Og, the king of Bashan, the land, with its cities within the boundaries, the cities of the country round about.

34 And the children of Gad built Dibon, and 'Ataroth, and 'Aro'er,

35 And 'Atroth-shophan, and Ya'zer, and Yogbehah,

36 And Beth-nimrah, and Beth-haran, fortified cities, and folds for flocks,

37 And the children of Reüben built Chesh bon, and El'aleh, and Kiryathayim, 38 And Nebo, and Ba'al-me'on (their names being changed), and Sibmah; and they gave the former names[b] unto the cities which they built.

39 And the children of Machir the son of Menasseh went to Gil'ad, and conquered it, and dispossessed the Emorites who were in it.*

40 And Moses gave Gil'ad unto Machir the son of Menasseh; and he dwelt therein.

41 And Yaïr the son of Menasseh went and conquered the small towns thereof, and called them Chavoth-yaïr.

42 And Nobach went and conquered Kenath, and the villages thereof, and called it Nobach, after his own name.

CHAPTER XXXIII.

1 ¶ These are the journeys of the children of Israel, who went forth out of the land of Egypt according to their armies, under the guidance of Moses and Aaron.

2 And Moses wrote their departures according to their journeys by the order of the LORD; and these are their journeys according to their departures.

3 And they set forward from Ra'meses in the first month; on the fifteenth day of the first month, on the morrow after the passover-sacrifice[c] the children of Israel went out with a high hand before the eyes of all the Egyptians.

4 And the Egyptians were burying all the first-born, whom the LORD had smitten among them; and upon their gods also did the LORD execute judgments.

5 And the children of Israel removed from Ra'meses, and encamped in Succoth.

6 And they removed from Succoth, and en-

[a] As each tribe had to secure its possession by conquest, (see Judges i.,) it was a proper denunciation of punishment for the Reübenites and their associates to be compelled to acquire new territory, if they forfeited the land already conquered, by their breach of this covenant.

[b] The commentator to Mendelssohn's translation supposes that Sichon, in conquering the part of the country of Moab mentioned above, xxi. 26, had given new names to the cities; and that the Reübenites adopted again the Moäbite names, except Nebo and Ba'al-Me'on, which they changed. But Arnheim renders, "And they called by various names the cities which they built;" meaning, that they applied new names to the towns erected by them in their country camped in Etham, which is on the edge of the wilderness.

7 And they removed from Etham, and returned unto Pi-hachiroth, which is before Ba'al-zephon; and they encamped before Migdol.

8 And they removed from before Pi-hachiroth, and passed through the midst of the sea into the wilderness; and they went a three days' journey in the wilderness of Etham, and encamped in Marah.

9 And they removed from Marah, and came unto Elim; and in Elim there were twelve springs of water, and seventy palm-trees; and they encamped there.

10 And they removed from Elim, and encamped by the Red Sea.*

11 And they removed from the Red Sea, and encamped in the wilderness of Sin.

12 And they removed from the wilderness of Sin, and encamped in Dophkah.

13 And they removed from Dophkah, and encamped in Alush.

14 And they removed from Alush, and encamped at Rephidim, and there was no water for the people to drink.

15 And they removed from Rephidim, and encamped in the wilderness of Sinai.

16 And they removed from the wilderness of Sinai, and encamped in Kibroth-hattaävah.

17 And they removed from Kibroth-hattaävah, and encamped in Chazeroth.

18 And they removed from Chazeroth, and encamped in Rithmah.

19 And they removed from Rithmah, and encamped in Rimmon-perez.

20 And they removed from Rimmon-perez, and encamped in Libnah.

21 And they removed from Libnah, and encamped in Rissah.

22 And they removed from Rissah, and encamped in Kehelathah.

23 And they removed from Kehelathah, and encamped in mount Shapher.

24 And they removed from mount Shapher, and encamped in Charadah.

25 And they removed from Charadah, and encamped in Makheloth.

26 And they removed from Makheloth, and encamped in Tachath.

27 And they removed from Tachath, and encamped in Tarach.

28 And they removed from Tarach, and encamped in Mithkah.

29 And they removed from Mithkah, and encamped in Chashmonah.

30 And they removed from Chashmonah, and encamped in Mosseroth.

31 And they removed from Mosseroth, and encamped in Bené-ya'akan.

32 And they removed from Bené-ya'akan, and encamped in Chor-hagidgad.

33 And they removed from Chor-hagidgad, and encamped in Yotbathah.

34 And they removed from Yotbathah, and encamped in 'Abronah.

35 And they removed from 'Abronah, and encamped at 'Ezyon-geber.

36 And they removed from 'Ezyon-geber, and encamped in the wilderness of Zin, which is Kadesh.

37 And they removed from Kadesh, and encamped at mount Hor, on the edge of the land of Edom.

38 And Aaron the priest went up on mount Hor by the order of the LORD, and died there, in the fortieth year after the going out of the children of Israel from the land of Egypt, in the fifth month, on the first of the month.

39 And Aaron was a hundred and twenty and three years old when he died on mount Hor.

40 ¶ And the Canaanite the king of 'Arad, who dwelt on the south side in the land of Canaan, heard of the coming of the children of Israel.

41 And they removed from mount Hor, and encamped in Zalmonah.

42 And they removed from Zalmonah, and encamped in Punon.

43 And they removed from Punon, and encamped in Oboth.

44 And they removed from Oboth, and encamped in 'Iyé-ha'abarim, on the border of Moäb.

45 And they removed from Iyim, and encamped in Dibon-gad.

46 And they removed from Dibon-gad, and encamped in 'Almon-diblathaymah.

47 And they removed from 'Almon-diblathaymah, and encamped on the mountains of 'Abarim, before Nebo.

48 And they removed from the mountains of 'Abarim, and encamped in the plains of Moäb by the Jordan opposite Jericho.

49 And they encamped by the Jordan, from Beth-hayeshimoth even unto Abel-hashittim in the plains of Moäb.*

50 ¶ And the LORD spoke unto Moses in the plains of Moäb by the Jordan opposite Jericho, saying,

51 Speak unto the children of Israel, and say unto them, When ye pass over the Jordan into the land of Canaan:

52 Then shall ye drive out all the inhabitants of the land from before you, and ye shall destroy all their statues, and all their molten images shall ye destroy, and devastate all their high places.

53 And ye shall drive out (the inhabitants of) the land, and ye shall dwell therein; for unto you have I given the land to possess it.

54 And ye shall divide the land by lot for an inheritance among your families; to the numerous shall ye give the more inheritance, and to the small in number shall ye give the less inheritance: there, where the lot designateth it for him, shall every one's possessions be; according to the tribes of your fathers shall ye divide it among yourselves.

55 But if ye will not drive out the inhabitants of the land from before you: then shall it come to pass, that those whom ye will let remain of them shall be as thorns in your eyes, and as stings in your sides, and they shall trouble you in the land wherein ye dwell.

56 And it shall come to pass, that as I purposed to do unto them, will I do unto you.

CHAPTER XXXIV.

1 ¶ And the LORD spoke unto Moses, saying,

2 Command the children of Israel, and say unto them, When ye come into the land of Canaan, shall this be the land that shall fall unto you for an inheritance: The land of Canaan according to its boundaries.

3 And the southern side shall be unto you from the wilderness of Zin along by the boundary of Edom, and your southern border shall commence at the outmost edge of the Salt Sea on its east side.

4 And the border shall turn for you from the south of the ascent of 'Akrabbim, and pass on to Zin; and its terminating points shall be to the south of Kadesh-barnea', and shall go on to Chazar-addar, and pass on to 'Azmon;

5 And the border shall turn from 'Azmon unto the river of Egypt, and its terminating points shall be at the sea.

6 And as the western border, shall ye have the Great Sea for a border: this shall be your western border.

7 And this shall be unto you the northern border: from the Great Sea shall ye mark out for you (the boundary to) mount Hor;[a]

8 From mount Hor shall ye mark out (the boundary) unto the entrance of Chamath; and the terminations of the border shall be toward Zedad;

9 And the border shall go on to Ziphron, and its terminating points shall be at Chazar-'enan: this shall be unto you the northern border.

10 And ye shall turn yourselves to the eastern border, from Chazar-'enan to Shepham;

11 And the boundary shall go down from Shepham to Riblah, to the eastward of 'Ayin; and the boundary shall descend, and shall touch upon the coast of the sea of Kinnereth, eastward;

12 And the border shall go down to the Jordan, and its terminating points[b] shall be at the Salt Sea: this shall be your land after its boundaries round about.

13 And Moses commanded the children of Israel, saying, This is the land which ye shall divide among yourselves by lot, which the LORD hath commanded to give unto the nine tribes, and to the half tribe.

14 For the tribe of the children of Reüben according to their family divisions, and the tribe of the children of Gad according to their family divisions, have received,—and the half of the tribe of Menasseh have received their inheritance;

15 The two tribes and the half tribe have received their inheritance on this side of the Jordan opposite Jericho eastward, toward the rising of the sun.*

16 ¶ And the LORD spoke unto Moses, saying,

* A different mount from the one where Aaron died; the one here being a headland on the north-west, now called Ras-al-shaka, between Beirut and Trablos (Tripoli;) whereas the other is at the south-east.

[a] i. e. The farthest points of the boundary in that direction

17 These are the names of the men who shall parcel out unto you the land: Elazar the priest, and Joshua the son of Nun.

18 And one prince each from every tribe shall ye take to parcel out the land.

19 And these are the names of the men: Of the tribe of Judah, Caleb the son of Yephunneh;

20 And of the tribe of the children of Simeon, Shemuël the son of 'Ammihud;

21 Of the tribe of Benjamin, Elidad the son of Kisslon;

22 And of the tribe of the children of Dan the prince, Bukki the son of Yogli;

23 Of the children of Joseph, for the tribe of the children of Menasseh the prince, Channiël the son of Ephod;

24 And of the tribe of the children of Ephraim the prince, Kemuël the son of Shiphtan;

25 And of the tribe of the children of Zebulun the prince, Elizaphan the son of Parnach;

26 And of the tribe of the children of Issachar the prince, Paltiël the son of 'Azzan;

27 And of the tribe of the children of Asher the prince, Achihud the son of Shelomi;

28 And of the tribe of the children of Naphtali the prince, Pedahel the son of 'Ammihud.

29 These are they whom the LORD hath commanded to divide out the inheritance unto the children of Israel in the land of Canaan.*

CHAPTER XXXV.

1 ¶ And the LORD spoke unto Moses in the plains of Moäb by the Jordan opposite Jericho, saying,

2 Command the children of Israel, that they give unto the Levites from the inheritance of their possession cities to dwell in; and an open space for the cities round about them shall ye give (also) unto the Levites.

3 And the cities shall serve them to dwell in; and their open spaces shall be for their cattle, and for their goods, and for all their requirements.

4 And the open spaces of the cities, which ye shall give unto the Levites, shall reach from the wall of the city and outward a thousand[a] cubits round about.

5 And ye shall measure from without the city on the east side two thousand cubits, and on the south side two thousand cubits, and on the west side two thousand cubits, and on the north side two thousand cubits, with the city in the midst: this shall be to them the open spaces of the cities.

6 And the cities which ye shall give unto the Levites shall be the six cities of refuge, which ye shall appoint that the manslayer may flee thither; and in addition to them shall ye give forty and two cities.

7 All the cities which ye shall (thus) give to the Levites shall be forty and eight cities, they with their open spaces.

8 And the cities which ye shall give of the possession of the children of Israel, from the tribe that hath many shall ye give many; but from the one that hath few shall ye give few: every one according to its inheritance which it may inherit shall give of its cities unto the Levites.*

9 ¶ And the LORD spoke unto Moses, saying,

10 Speak unto the children of Israel, and say unto them, When ye have passed over the Jordan into the land of Canaan:

11 Then ye shall appoint unto yourselves proper cities, that they be cities of refuge for you; and thither shall flee the manslayer who killeth any person at unawares.

12 And these cities shall be unto you for a refuge from the avenger; that the manslayer die not, until he have stood before the congregation for trial.[b]

13 And the cities which ye shall give, shall be six cities of refuge unto you;

[a] "And afterward he mentions two thousand. How is this? He gives them two thousand cubits all round, and of these the inner thousand are for the open space, and the outer thousand for fields and vineyards."—RASHI and RASHBAM. But Philippson conceives that the whole should form a square of two thousand cubits, in the centre of which the city should be situated, which would make the line one thousand cubits only from each side of the city wall. But Rashi's opinion seems preferable, especially if we consider that the space of one thousand cubits was to be for pasture, &c., and they would have thus had nothing for fields and vineyards.

[b] לִמְשְׁפָּט, to be judged and inquired into whether the deed was murder or accidental homicide, or whether it happened at all.—This also shows us that even open murder had to be tried by the public courts.

14 Three of these cities shall ye give on this side of the Jordan, and the three other cities shall ye give in the land of Canaan: cities of refuge shall they be.

15 For the children of Israel, and for the stranger, and for the sojourner among them, shall these six cities be for a refuge: that every one[a] may flee thither that killeth any person at unawares.

16 And if he have smitten him with an instrument of iron, so that he die, he is a murderer: the murderer shall surely be put to death.

17 And if he have smitten him with a stone which one can take in the hand,[b] wherewith he may die, and he die, he is a murderer: the murderer shall surely be put to death.

18 Or if he have smitten him with an article of wood, which one can take in the hand, wherewith he may die, and he die, he is a murderer: the murderer shall surely be put to death.

19 The avenger of the blood himself shall slay the murderer; when he meeteth him, shall he slay him.

20 And if he push[c] against him out of hatred, or he have hurled at him (any thing) by lying in wait, that he die;

21 Or if in enmity he have smitten him with his hand, that he died, he that smote him shall surely be put to death; (for) he is a murderer: the avenger of the blood shall slay the murderer, when he meeteth with him.

22 But if he have pushed against him accidentally without enmity, or have cast upon him any thing without lying in wait,

23 Or with any stone wherewith a man may die, without seeing him, and he have let it fall upon him, that he died; whereas he was not his enemy, and did not seek his harm:

24 Then shall the congregation judge between the slayer and the avenger of the blood according to these institutions;

25 And the congregation shall deliver the manslayer out of the hand of the avenger of the blood, and the congregation shall restore him to the city of his refuge, whither he had fled; and he shall abide in it until the death of the high-priest, who hath been anointed with the holy oil.

26 But if the manslayer should at any time pass the boundary of the city of his refuge, whither he may have fled;

27 And the avenger of the blood should find him beyond the boundary of the city of his refuge, and the avenger of the blood should kill the manslayer: he shall not be guilty of blood;

28 Because in the city of his refuge shall he remain until the death of the high-priest; but after the death of the high-priest the manslayer may return unto the land of his possession.[d]

29 And these things shall be unto you for a statute of justice throughout your generations, in all your dwellings.

30 Whoever it be that killeth a person, according to the testimony of witnesses shall the murderer be put to death; but one witness shall not testify against any person to cause him to die.

31 Moreover ye shall take no redemption money for the person of a murderer,[e] who is guilty of death; but he shall surely be put to death.

32 And ye shall take no redemption money for him that hath fled to the city of his refuge, that he should come again to dwell in the land, until the death of the priest.

33 And ye shall not defile the land wherein ye are; for the blood it is which defileth the land: and no atonement can be made unto the land for the blood which hath been shed therein, except through the blood of him that hath shed it.

34 And ye shall not render unclean the

[a] Another injunction to treat the stranger well.

[b] That is, as Rashi says, a stone that fills the hand, and is large enough to produce death; so also with wood. A small piece of iron, however, can produce death; no size, therefore, is mentioned. Mendelssohn renders, "If he take a stone, with which one can be slain, in the hand, and smite some one," &c. But the evident intention of the law is to provide that the stone or wood must be of a size likely to produce death, and to exclude from wilful murder when the article was of that kind as to preclude a murderous intent, though death should have accidentally ensued.

[c] "Push him down from a high place."—Aben Ezra.

[d] At this return he is free from civil punishment; consequently, to kill him would be a punishable murder.

[e] This prohibition, not to take money to redeem a murderer from his punishment, permits by implication that it is permitted to assess a fine for inflicting a wound on another, and not to take actually eye for eye or tooth for tooth. This also was the practice of Jewish courts.

PHARAOH APPEALING TO MOSES TO DEPART WITH THE CHILDREN OF ISRAEL

land which ye inhabit, in the midst of which I dwell; for I the LORD dwell in the midst of the children of Israel.*

CHAPTER XXXVI.

1 ¶ And there came near the chiefs of the divisions of the family of the children of Gil'ad, the son of Machir, the son of Menasseh, of the families of the sons of Joseph; and they spoke before Moses, and before the princes, the chiefs of the divisions of the children of Israel;

2 And they said, The LORD hath commanded my lord to give the land for an inheritance by lot to the children of Israel; and my lord hath been commanded by the LORD to give the inheritance of Zelophchad our brother unto his daughters.

3 And if they become the wives of any of the sons of the (other) tribes of the children of Israel: then will their inheritance be taken from the inheritance of our fathers, and be added to the inheritance of the tribe whereamong they may be married;[a] and from the lot of our inheritance will it be taken away.

4 And whenever the jubilee shall be to the children of Israel: then will their inheritance be added unto the inheritance of the tribe whereamong they may be married; and from the inheritance of the tribe of our fathers will their inheritance be taken away.

5 And Moses commanded the children of Israel by the order of the LORD, saying, The tribe of the sons of Joseph have spoken well.

6 This is the thing which the LORD hath commanded[b] concerning the daughters of Zelophchad, saying, To those who are pleasing in their eyes may they become wives; however only to the family of the tribe of their father shall they become wives.

7 And the inheritance of the children of Israel shall not pass from tribe to tribe: but the children of Israel shall adhere every one to the inheritance of the tribe of his fathers.

8 And every daughter that inheriteth any possession out of any tribe of the children of Israel, shall become the wife unto one of the family of the tribe of her father; in order that the children of Israel may inherit every one the inheritance of his fathers.

9 And no inheritance shall pass from one tribe to another tribe; but the tribes of the chidren of Israel shall adhere, every one, to his own inheritance.*

10 Even as the LORD had commanded Moses, so did the daughters of Zelophchad;

11 And Machlah, Tirzah, and Choglah, and Milcah, and No'ah, the daughters of Zelophchad became the wives of the sons of their uncles.

12 (To persons) of the families of the sons of Menasseh the son of Joseph did they become wives, and their inheritance remained in the tribe of the family of their father.

13 These are the commandments and the ordinances, which the LORD commanded by the hand of Moses unto the children of Israel, in the plains of Moäb by the Jordan opposite Jericho.

Haphtorah in Jeremiah ii. 4 to 28; to which the Germans add iii. 4; and the Portuguese, iv. 1 and 2.

[a] לנשים is here again understood; hence the word "married" has been supplied.

[b] It is probable that the restriction now made known was a part of the law of inheritance communicated to Moses with the other clauses above, xxvii. 7 to 11, but was withheld until the elders most interested came to inquire as might have been at once expected, so as to give the matter greater sanction and force.

SECTION XLIV. DEBARIM, דברים.

CHAPTER I.

1 ¶ These are the words which Moses spoke unto all Israel on this side of the Jordan[a] in the wilderness, in the plain opposite Suph, between Paran, and Tophel, and Laban, and Chazeroth, and Di-zahab.

2 It is a journey of eleven days from Horeb by the way of mount Seïr unto Kadesh-barnea'.

3 And it came to pass in the fortieth[b] year, in the eleventh month, on the first day of the month, that Moses spoke unto the children of Israel, according to all that the Lord had commanded him concerning them;

4 After he had smitten Sichon the king of the Emorites, who dwelt in Cheshbon, and 'Og the king of Bashan, who dwelt at 'Ashtaroth in Edre'i.

5 On this side of the Jordan, in the land of Moäb, began Moses to explain this law, saying,

6 The Lord our God spoke unto us in Horeb, saying, Ye have tarried long enough at this mount;

7 Turn you, and take your journey, and go to the mountain of the Emorites, and unto all its neighbouring places, in the plain, in the mountain, and in the lowlands, and in the southern country, and by the coast of the sea, to the land of the Canaanites, and unto the Lebanon, up to the great river, the river Euphrates.

8 Behold I have given up the land before you: go in and take possession of the land which the Lord hath sworn unto your fathers, to Abraham, to Isaac, and to Jacob, to give it unto them and to their seed after them.

9 And I said unto you at that time, as followeth, I am not able alone to bear you:

10 The Lord your God hath multiplied you, and, behold, ye are this day as the stars of heaven for multitude.

11 May[c] the Lord the God of your fathers make you a thousand times as many more as ye are; and bless you, as he hath spoken unto you.[*]

12 How can I by myself alone bear your cumbrance, and your burden, and your strife?

13 Furnish for yourselves wise and understanding men, and those known among your tribes,[d] and I will place them as chiefs over you.

14 And ye answered me, and said, The thing which thou hast spoken is good to do.

15 And I took the chiefs of your tribes, wise and known men, and I set them as heads over you, captains over thousands, and captains over hundreds, and captains over fifties, and captains over tens, and as officers for your tribes.

16 And I commanded your judges at that time, saying, Hear the causes between your brethren, and judge righteously, between a man and his brother, and between his stranger.[e]

17 Ye shall not respect persons in judgment; the small as well as the great shall ye

[a] Properly "Yarden."

[b] i. e. After the going out from Egypt, which is always the era mentioned in the Bible up to the Babylonian captivity.

[*] This verse is a parenthesis: Moses says in the preceding one that he was not able to bear all the labour of the great multitude; and adds nevertheless, may it be the will of God to add to them a thousand-fold as many; and then continues with the narrative.

[c] According to the Massorah, "and those well known, according to your tribes."

[d] The law knows of no distinction between the Israelite and the foreigner; all are alike before the Supreme Judge of the world.

hear; ye shall not be afraid of any man; for the judgment belongeth to God: and the cause that is too hard for you shall ye bring unto me, and I will hear it.

18 And I commanded you at that time all the things which ye should do.

19 And we departed from Horeb, and we went through all that great and terrible wilderness, which ye have seen, by the way of the mountain of the Emorites, as the LORD our God had commanded us; and we came as far as Kadesh-barnea'.

20 And I said unto you, Ye are come unto the mountain of the Emorites, which the LORD our God doth give unto us.

21 Behold, the LORD thy God hath given up[a] the land before thee: go up and take possession of it, as the LORD the God of thy fathers hath spoken unto thee; do not fear, and be not discouraged.*

22 And ye all[b] came near unto me and said, Let us send out men before us, that they may search out for us the land, and bring us word again concerning the way by which we must go up, and the cities to which we shall come.

23 And the thing was pleasing in my eyes; and I took of you twelve men, one man for every tribe:

24 And they turned and went up into the mountain, and came unto the valley of Eshcol, and spied it out.

25 And they took in their hand some of the fruit of the land, and brought it down unto us; and they brought us word again, and said, The land which the LORD our God doth give us is good.

26 But you would not go up, and ye rebelled against the order of the LORD your God;

27 And ye murmured in your tents, and said, On account of the hatred of the LORD toward us, hath he brought us forth out of the land of Egypt, to deliver us into the hand of the Emorites, to destroy us.

28 Whither shall we go up? our brethren have made faint our heart, saying, The people is greater and taller than we; the cities are great and fortified up to heaven; and moreover the sons of the 'Anakim have we seen there.

29 And I said unto you, Have no dread, nor be ye afraid of them.

30 The LORD your God who goeth before you, he it is who will fight for you; all just as he did for you in Egypt before your eyes;

31 And in the wilderness which[c] thou hast seen, where the LORD thy God bore thee, as a man doth bear his son, on all the way that ye have gone, until ye came unto this place.

32 Yet in this thing do ye not believe in the LORD your God,

33 Who goeth before you on the way to seek out for you a place for your encamping, in fire by night, to cause you to see on the way in which ye are to go, and in a cloud by day.

34 And the LORD heard the voice of your words; and he was wroth, and swore, saying,

35 Surely there shall not one of these men of this evil generation see that good land, which I have sworn to give unto your fathers;

36 Save Caleb the son of Yephunneh, he shall see it, and to him will I give the land upon which he hath trodden, and to his children; because he hath wholly followed the LORD.

37 Also with me was the LORD angry[d] for your sakes, saying, Also thou shalt not go in thither.

38 Joshua the son of Nun, who standeth before thee, he shall go in thither: him encourage; for he shall cause Israel to inherit it.*

39 And your little ones, of whom ye said, They will become a prey, and your children who know not this day either good or evil, these shall go in thither; and unto them will I give it, and they shall possess it.

[a] Meaning, "surrendered, yielded up;" elsewhere called "to give into the hands."

[b] "Confusedly; and elsewhere (Deut. v. 20) it is said, 'The heads of your tribes, and your elders,' &c.; that approaching was a worthy one, the young men honoured the elders by letting them go in advance; and so did the elders to the chiefs; but in this case you all came in confusion, young men pushing aside the elders and the elders the chiefs."—RASHI.

[c] According to Rashi, this ought to read, "Where thou hast seen that the LORD, &c." But in either way the sense is the same.

[d] As Moses was relating the doom of "the generation of the desert," as they are called by our writers, he includes also the decree which was pronounced upon him, since he too did not pass over the Jordan. "For your sak" means only that the disobedience of the people caus[e] his own transgression.

40 But as for you, turn you, and take your journey into the wilderness by the way of the Red Sea.

41 And ye answered and said unto me, We have sinned against the LORD; we indeed will go up and we will fight, according to all that the LORD our God hath commanded us; and ye girded on every man his weapons of war, and ye insisted to go up into the mountain.

42 And the LORD said unto me, Say unto them, Go not up, and do not fight; for I am not among you; lest ye be smitten before your enemies.

43 And I spoke unto you; but ye would not hear; and ye rebelled against the order of the LORD, and you were presumptuous, and went up into the mountain.

44 And the Emorites, who dwelt in that mountain, came out against you, and they pursued you, as the bees do, and they overthrew you in Seïr, as far as Chormah.

45 And ye returned and wept before the LORD; but the LORD hearkened not to your voice, nor gave ear unto you.

46 And ye tarried in Kadesh many days, according unto the days that ye tarried there.

CHAPTER II.

1 Then we turned, and took our journey into the wilderness by the way of the Red Sea. as the LORD had spoke unto me: and we travelled around mount Seïr many days.*

2 ¶ And the LORD said unto me, as followeth.

3 Ye have travelled long enough around this mountain; turn yourselves northward.

4 And the people command thou, saying, Ye are passing by the border of your brethren the children of Esau, who dwell in Seïr; and they will be afraid of you; therefore take ye good heed unto yourselves:

5 Do not contend with them; for I will not give unto you of their land, even so much as a foot's breadth; because unto Esau have I given mount Seïr for an inheritance.

6 Food shall ye buy of them for money, that ye may eat; and water also shall ye buy of them for money, that ye may drink.

7 For the LORD thy God hath blessed thee in all the works of thy hand;[a] he hath provided for[b] thy wandering through this great wilderness: these forty years the LORD thy God hath been with thee; thou hast lacked nothing.

8 And we passed away from our brethren the children of Esau, who dwell in Seïr, from the way through the plain, from Elath, and from 'Ezyon-gaber.

¶ And we turned and passed the way of the wilderness of Moäb.

9 And the LORD said unto me, Do not attack the Moäbites, nor contend with them in battle; for I will not give thee from their land any inheritance; because unto the children of Lot have I given 'Ar for an inheritance.

10 The Emim in times past dwelt therein, a people great, and numerous, and tall as the 'Anakim;

11 As Rephaïm[c] were also they accounted. equally with the 'Anakim; and the Moäbites called the Emim.

12 And in Seïr dwelt the Chorim in times past; but the children of Esau drove them out, and they destroyed them from before them, and dwelt in their stead; as Israel hath done unto the land of his inheritance, which the LORD hath given unto them.

13 Now rise up, and get you over the brook Zered; and we passed over the brook Zered.

14 And the time which we came from Kadesh-barneä', until we had passed over the brook Zered, was thirty and eight years; until all the generation of the men of war were spent from out the midst of the camp, as the LORD had sworn unto them.

15 And also the hand of the LORD was against them, to destroy them from the midst of the camp; until they were spent.

16 So it came to pass, when all the men of war were spent by dying from the midst of the people,

17 ¶ That the LORD spoke unto me, saying,

18 Thou art passing this day by the border of Moäb, by 'Ar,

[a] Meaning, that they could have no excuse for asking favours of men, since their wealth, abundant as it was, had been supplied by the liberal hand of their God.

[b] Heb. ידע. "he hath known;" a knowledge of a person's wants being requisite, before his benefactor can furnish him with the needful.

[c] "Mighty ones."—ONKELOS. "Giants."—English version.

19 And thou comest nigh opposite the children of 'Ammon: do not attack them, nor contend with them; for I will not give unto thee of the land of the children of 'Ammon any inheritance; because unto the children of Lot have I given it for an inheritance.

20 As a land[a] of Rephaïm was it also accounted: Rephaïm dwelt therein in times past; and the 'Ammonites called them Zamzummim;

21 A people great, and numerous, and tall, as the 'Anakim; but the LORD destroyed them before them; and they drove them out, and dwelt in their stead:

22 As he hath done to the children of Esau, who dwell in Seïr, from before whom he destroyed the Chorim; and they drove them out and dwelt in their stead, even unto this day.

23 And the 'Avvim, who dwelt in open towns,[b] as far as unto Gazzah,—the Caphtorim, who came forth out of Caphtor, destroyed them, and dwelt in their stead.

24 Rise ye up, set forward, and pass over the brook Arnon; behold I have given into thy hand Sichon the king of Cheshbon, the Emorite, and his land: begin to drive him out, and contend with him in battle.

25 This day will I begin to put the dread of thee and the fear of thee upon the nations that are under the whole heaven; whoever will hear the report of thee, shall tremble, and shall quake because of thee.

26 And I sent messengers out of the wilderness of Kedemoth unto Sichon, the king of Cheshbon, with words of peace, saying, 27 Let me pass through thy land: always by the highway will I go along; I will not turn unto the right hand or unto the left.

28 Food shalt thou sell me for money, that I may eat; and water for money shalt thou give me, that I may drink: only let me pass through on foot;

29 (As the children of Esau who dwell in Seïr, and the Moäbites[c] who dwell in 'Ar, have done unto me;) until that I shall pass over the Jordan into the land which the LORD our God giveth us.

30 But Sichon, the king of Cheshbon, would not suffer our passing by him; for the LORD thy God had hardened his spirit, and had made obstinate his heart, that he might deliver him into thy hand, as (hath happened) this day.*

31 ¶ And the LORD said unto me, Behold, I have begun to give up Sichon and his land before thee: begin to drive him out, that thou mayest inherit his land.

32 And Sichon came out against us, he and all his people, to the battle at Yahaz.

33 And the LORD our God gave him up before us; and we smote him, and his sons, and all his people.

34 And we conquered all his cities at that time, and devoted every inhabited city, and the women, and the little ones; we left none that escaped.

35 Only the cattle we took as booty unto ourselves, and the spoil of the cities which we had captured.

36 From 'Aro'er, which is by the bank of the brook of Arnon, and the city that is in the brook, even unto Gil'ad, there was not one city which was too strong for us; the whole did the LORD our God give up before us.

37 Only unto the land of the children of 'Ammon didst thou not come nigh, unto the whole margin of the brook Yabbok, and the cities in the mountain, and unto whatsoever the LORD our God had forbidden us.

CHAPTER III.

1 And we turned, and went up the way to Bashan; and 'Og the king of Bashan came out against us, he and all his people, to the battle at Edre'i.

2 And the LORD said unto me, Fear him not; for into thy hand have I given him, and

[a] Not only the land of 'Og, the king of Bashan, was the one at times called the "giant country," Eretz Rephaim; since the people of Moäb and 'Ammon also had taken possession of two districts belonging to the same general tribe of men.

[b] Rabbi Joseph Schwarz, in his Geography of Palestine, renders this with "the towns called Chazer," or "Chazerim;" as there were several in the southern district having this as a general name.

[c] This must not be understood as if the Israelites had been permitted to pass through the countries of Moab and Edom: Moses's request was twofold, to pass through the country and to purchase provisions. We can therefore infer that the Edumeans and Moäbites sold provisions to the Israelites, while Sichon alone prepared to attack them. But as the Moäbites were relatives of Israel, their sordidness in refusing to meet them with bread and water, waiting till money was offered, and their hiring Bil'am to curse the people, caused them afterward to be prohibited the right of becoming proselytes. (Deut. xxiii. 4.)

all his people, and his land; and thou shalt do unto him as thou hast done unto Sichon, the king of the Emorites, who dwelt at Cheshbon.

3 And the LORD our God gave into our hands also 'Og the king of Bashan, and all his people; and we smote him until none was left to him who escaped.

4 And we conquered all his cities at that time, there was not a city[a] which we took not from them, sixty cities, all the region of Argob, the kingdom of 'Og in Bashan.

5 All these were fortified cities, with high walls, gates, and bars; besides the unwalled towns, which were a great many.

6 And we devoted them, as we had done unto Sichon the king of Cheshbon, devoting every inhabited[b] city, the women, and the little ones.

7 But all the cattle, and the spoil of the cities, we took as booty to ourselves.

8 And we took at that time out of the hand of the two kings of the Emorites the land which is on this side of the Jordan, from the river of Arnon unto mount Chermon;

9 (The Sidonians call Chermon Siryon; and the Emorites call it Senir;)

10 All the cities of the plain, and all Gil'ad, and all Bashan, unto Salchah and Edre'i, the cities of the kingdom of 'Og in Bashan.

11 For only 'Og the king of Bashan had been left of the remnant of the Rephaïm; behold, his bedstead was a bedstead of iron; lo! it is in Rabbah of the children of 'Ammon: nine cubits is its length, and four cubits its breadth, after the arm[c] of a man.

12 And of this land, of which we took possession at that time, from 'Aro'er, which is by the river Arnon, and half mount Gil'ad, and the cities thereof, I gave unto the Reübenites and to the Gadites.

13 And the rest of Gil'ad, and all Bashan, the kingdom of 'Og, I gave unto the half tribe of Menasseh: all the region of Argob, with all Bashan, this is called the land of Rephaïm.

14 Yaïr the son of Menasseh took all the region of Argob up to the border of the Geshurites and the Ma'achathites; and he called them the (land of) Bashan, after his own name, the villages of Yaïr,[d] unto this day.*

15 And unto Machir I gave Gil'ad.

16 And unto the Reübenites and unto the Gadites I gave from Gil'ad even unto the brook Arnon, the land within[e] the river and that adjoining, even unto the brook Yabbok, the border of the children of 'Ammon;

17 The plain also, and the Jordan, and the adjoining land, from Kinnereth even unto the sea of the plain, the Salt Sea, under the declivities of Pisgah, eastward.

18 And I commanded you at that time, saying, The LORD your God hath given you this land to possess it: armed shall ye pass over before your brethren the children of Israel, all that are fit to bear arms.

19 But your wives, and your little ones, and your cattle, (I know that ye have much cattle,) shall abide in your cities which I have given you;*

20 Until that the LORD have given rest unto your brethren, as well as unto you, and they also have taken possession of the land which the LORD your God giveth them beyond the Jordan: then shall ye return every man unto his possession which I have given you.

21 And Joshua also I commanded at that time, saying, Thy own eyes have seen all that the LORD your God hath done unto these two kings: thus will the LORD do unto all the kingdoms whither thou passest.

22 Ye shall not fear them; for the LORD your God it is who fighteth for you.

SECT. XLV. VAETCHANNAN, ואתחנן.

23 ¶ And I besought the LORD at that time, saying,

24 O Lord ETERNAL, thou hast begun to show thy servant thy greatness, and thy

[a] "Fortified place."—ARNHEIM—who thus distinguishes between קריה עיר "fortress" and "simple city." Perhaps קריה is derived from קיר "walls," "a town fenced in by a wall."

[b] Lit. "City of men;" and this means again, "The men who lived therein."

[c] "The cubit of a man." Mendelssohn however renders "Vorderarm," or, "the forepart of the arm," which is certainly not the usual length of the cubit, which is the entire arm.

[d] Chavvoth-yaïr.

[e] This is rendered according to Onkelos, who has been followed by Arnheim. תוך is in this sense a noun, signifying "that within;" and means then the land comprised within the bed of the river; and the banks on both sides are comprised by the word גבל, as Rashi explains.

mighty hand; for what god is there in heaven or on earth, that can do aught like thy works, and like thy mighty deeds?

25 Let me go over, I pray thee, that I may see the good land which is on the other side of the Jordan, this goodly mountain, and the Lebanon.

26 But the LORD was wroth with me for your sakes, and he would not hear me: and the LORD said unto me, Let it suffice thee; do not continue to speak unto me any more of this matter.

27 Get thee up unto the top of Pisgah, and lift up thy eyes, westward, and northward, and southward, and eastward, and behold it with thy eyes; for thou shalt not pass over this Jordan.

28 And do thou charge Joshua, and strengthen him, and encourage him; for he shall go over before this people, and he shall divide out to them the land which thou shalt see.

29 And we abode[a] in the valley opposite Beth-peör.

CHAPTER IV.

1 ¶ And now, O Israel, hearken unto the statutes and unto the ordinances which I teach you to do; in order that ye may live, and go in and take possession of the land which the LORD, the God of your fathers, giveth unto you.

2 Ye shall not add unto the word which I command you, nor shall ye diminish aught from it; that ye may keep the commandments of the LORD your God which I command you.

3 Your own eyes have seen that which the LORD hath done because of Baäl-peör; for every man that followed Baäl-peör,[b] him the LORD thy God hath destroyed from the midst of thee.

4 But ye that did cleave unto the LORD your God, are alive, every one of you, this day.*

5 See, I have taught you statutes and ordinances, just as the LORD my God commanded me; that ye may do so in the midst of the land whither ye go to take possession of it.

6 Keep therefore and do them; for this is your wisdom and your understanding before the eyes of the nations, that shall hear all these statutes, and they will say, Nothing but a wise and understanding people is this great nation.

7 For what great nation is there that hath gods so nigh unto it, as is the LORD our God at all times[c] that we call upon him?

8 And what great nation is there that hath statutes and ordinances so righteous as is all this law, which I lay before you this day?*

9 Only take heed to thyself, and guard thy soul diligently, that thou do not forget the things which thy eyes have seen, and that they depart not from thy heart all the days of thy life; but thou shalt make them known unto thy sons, and unto thy sons' sons;

10 The day that thou stoodest before the LORD thy God at Horeb, when the LORD said unto me, Assemble for me the people, and I will cause them to hear my words, which they shall learn, to fear me all the days that they shall live upon the earth, and which they shall teach their children.

11 And ye came near and stood at the foot of the mount; and the mount was burning with fire unto the midst of the heaven, (from amidst) darkness, clouds, and thick darkness.

12 And the LORD spoke unto you out of the midst of the fire; the sound of words ye heard, but any similitude ye saw not: there was nothing but a sound.

13 And he told unto you his covenant, which he commanded you to perform, the ten commandments; and he wrote them upon two tables of stone.

14 And me the LORD commanded at that time to teach you statutes and ordinances, that ye might do them in the land whither ye go over to possess it.

15 Take ye therefore good heed of your souls;[d] for ye saw no manner of similitude[e] on

[a] Here must be supplied, "at the time that this occurred."

[b] As idolatry was the prevailing sin among all ancient nations, Moses commences by calling the attention of the people pre-eminently to the consequences of their relapse in the country of Moäb; how that so many that transgressed died, while those firm in the service of God remained alive.

[c] Others render, "in all things."

[d] "For your souls' sake."—ARNHEIM.

[e] The great King of Israel did not make himself manifest under any bodily shape. All on the mountain was darkness and cloud. A loud voice was heard, audible words reached the ear of all at once, one impression was made upon all alike. Hence the energetic prohibition against the folly of representing the Invisible and Incomprehensible under any outward shape, even the most beautiful and strong. All will fail of reaching him; consequently all are odious to the Deity.

the day that the LORD spoke unto you at Horeb out of the midst of the fire:

16 That ye become not corrupt, and make yourselves a graven image, the similitude of any idol-figure, the likeness of a male or of a female,

17 The likeness of any beast that is on the earth, the likeness of any winged fowl that flieth in the air of heaven,

18 The likeness of any thing that creepeth on the ground, the likeness of any fish that is in the waters beneath the earth;

19 And that thou lift not up thy eyes unto the heavens, and thou see the sun, and the moon, and the stars, all the host of heaven, and be misled to bow down to them, and to serve them, those which the LORD thy God hath assigned[a] unto all nations under the whole heaven.

20 But you did the LORD take, and he brought you forth out of the iron furnace, out of Egypt, to be unto him a people of inheritance, as ye are this day.

21 Furthermore the LORD was angry with me for your sakes, and he swore that I should not go over the Jordan, and that I should not go in unto that good land, which the LORD thy God giveth unto thee for an inheritance;

22 For I must die in this land; I shall not go over the Jordan; but ye will go over and take possession of this good land.

23 Take heed unto yourselves, that ye do not forget the covenant of the LORD your God, which he hath made with you, and make yourselves a graven image, the likeness of any thing, which the LORD thy God hath forbidden thee.

24 For the LORD thy God is a consuming fire, yea, a watchful God.

25 ¶ When thou begettest children, and children's children, and ye shall have remained long in the land, and ye become corrupt, and make a graven image, the likeness of any thing, and do the evil in the eyes of the LORD thy God, to provoke him to anger:

26 I call this day the heavens and the earth to witness against you, that ye shall soon perish from off the land whereunto ye go over the Jordan to possess it; ye shall not remain many days upon it, but ye shall surely be destroyed.

27 And the LORD will scatter you among the nations, and ye will be left few in number among the nations, whither the LORD will lead you.

28 And ye will serve[b] there gods, the work of man's hands, wood and stone, which neither can see, nor hear, nor eat, nor smell.

29 But thou wilt seek from there the LORD thy God, and wilt find him, if thou apply to him with all thy heart and with all thy soul.

30 When thou art in tribulation, and all these things have overtaken thee, in the latter end of days; then wilt thou return to the LORD thy God, and be obedient unto his voice.

31 For a merciful God is the LORD thy God; he will not forsake thee, nor destroy thee; and he will not forget the covenant of thy fathers which he hath sworn unto them.

32 For do but ask of former days, which were before thee, since the day that God created man upon the earth, and from the one end of the heavens unto the other end of the heavens, whether there hath been the like of this great thing, or whether the like of it hath been heard?

33 Hath ever a people heard the voice of a[c] god, speaking out of the midst of the fire, as thou hast heard, and remained alive?

34 Or hath a god essayed to go to take to himself a nation from the midst of a nation, by proofs, by signs, and by wonders, and by war, and by a mighty hand, and by an outstretched arm, and by great terrors, like all

[a] "To give them light."—TALMUD MEGILLAH, fol. 9. "But the text evidently means that the Lord had not interfered with the nations in their false worship. With Israel, however, he acted otherwise, taking them from slavery to be his people."—RASHBAM.

[b] As the verse stands, it means that under the oppressions of the times, many will fall off to idolatry and false worship. This prediction has come to pass, during the many persecutions which have occurred. Onkelos, however, paraphrases, "And ye shall serve there nations, worshipping error, (idolatry,) the work of the hands of men," conceiving, probably, as the commentator to Mendelssohn observes, that to worship idols is a sin, not a punishment.

[c] Meaning, the gods of any other nation; did such ever speak to their followers? and so also in the succeeding verse. But Onkelos, Jonathan, Aben Ezra, and others refer God to the Supreme, and the text then says that the mercy which Israel witnessed was imparted to no other people that which the LORD your God hath done for you in Egypt before thy eyes?

35 Unto thee it was shown, that thou mightest know, that the ETERNAL is the God: there is none else besides him.

36 Out of the heavens he caused thee to hear his voice, to correct thee: and upon the earth he caused thee to see his great fire; and his words didst thou hear out of the midst of the fire.

37 And therefore, because he loved thy fathers, he chose their seed after them, and brought thee out in his presence[a] with his mighty power out of Egypt;

38 To drive out nations greater and mightier than thou art, from before thee, to bring thee in, to give unto thee their land for an inheritance, as it is this day.

39 Know therefore this day, and reflect in thy heart, that the ETERNAL is the God in the heavens above, and upon the earth beneath: there is none else.

40 And thou shalt keep his statutes, and his commandments, which I command thee this day, that it may go well with thee, and with thy children after thee; and that thou mayest live many days upon the land which the LORD thy God giveth thee, for all times.*

41 ¶ Then Moses set aside three cities on this side of the Jordan, toward the rising of the sun;

42 That thither might flee the manslayer, who should kill his neighbour unawares, when he had not been an enemy to him in times past; and that he should flee unto one of these cities and live.

44 And this is the law which Moses set before the children of Israel:

45 These are the testimonies, and the statutes, and the ordinances, which Moses spoke unto the children of Israel, when they came forth out of Egypt,

46 On this side of the Jordan, in the valley opposite to Beth-peör, in the land of Sichon the king of the Emorites, who dwelt at Cheshbon, whom Moses and the children of Israel smote, after they were come forth out of Egypt;

47 And they took possession of his land, and of the land of 'Og the king of Bashan, the two kings of the Emorites, who were on this side of the Jordan toward the rising of the sun;

48 From 'Aro'er, which is on the bank of the river Arnon, even unto Mount Sion, which is Chermon, 49 And all the plain on this side of the Jordan eastward, even unto the sea of the plain, under the declivities[b] of Pisgah.*

CHAPTER V.

1 ¶ And Moses called all Israel, and said unto them, Hear, O Israel, the statutes and the ordinances which I speak in your ears this day, that ye may learn them, and that ye may observe to do them.

2 The LORD our God made a covenant with us in Horeb.

3 Not with our fathers did the LORD make this covenant, but with us, we who are here all of us alive this day.

4 Face[c] to face did the Lord speak with you on the mount, out of the midst of the fire,

5 (I[d] was standing between the LORD and between you at that time, to announce to you the word of the LORD; for ye were afraid by reason of the fire, and ye went not up into the mount;) saying,

6 ¶ I am the LORD thy God, who have brought thee out of the land of Egypt, from the house of slavery.

7 Thou shalt have no other gods before me.

8 Thou shalt not make unto thyself any graven image, any likeness of any thing that

[b] Others render this word with "springs;" others with "the foot;" others with "heights;" but it probably means the direction which streams take in quitting a mountain, or the slope; here, therefore, the points where the slopes of the Pisgah commence. (See Num. xxi. 15.)

12 ¶ Keep the sabbath-day to sanctify it, as the LORD thy God hath commanded[a] thee.

13 Six days shalt thou labour, and do all thy work;

14 But the seventh day is the sabbath in honour of the LORD thy God; on it thou shalt not do any work, neither thou, nor thy son, nor thy daughter, nor thy man-servant, nor thy maid-servant, nor thy ox, nor thy ass, nor any of thy cattle, nor thy stranger that is within thy gates: in order that thy man-servant and thy maid-servant may rest as well as thou.

15 And thou shalt remember that thou hast been a servant in the land of Egypt, and that the LORD thy God brought thee out from there by a mighty hand and by an outstretched arm; therefore hath the LORD thy God commanded thee to observe the sabbath-day.

16 ¶ Honour thy father and thy mother, as the LORD thy God hath commanded thee: in order that thy days may be prolonged, and in order that it may go well with thee, in the land which the LORD thy God giveth thee.

17 ¶ Thou shalt not kill.

¶ Neither[b] shalt thou commit adultery.

¶ Neither shalt thou steal.

¶ Neither shalt thou bear false witness against thy neighbour.

18 ¶ Neither shalt thou covet thy neighbour's wife.

¶ Neither shalt thou desire[c] thy neighbour's house, nor his field, nor his man-servant, nor his maid-servant, nor his ox, nor his ass, nor any thing that is thy neighbour's.[3]

19 ¶ These words did the LORD speak unto all your assembly on the mount out of the midst of the fire, of the cloud, and of the thick darkness, with a great voice, but he did so no more;[d] and he wrote them on two tables of stone, and he gave them unto me.

20 And it came to pass, when ye heard the voice out of the midst of the darkness, while the mount was burning with fire, that ye came near unto me, even all the heads of your tribes, and your elders;

21 And ye said, Behold, the LORD our God hath caused us to see his glory and his greatness, and his voice have we heard out of the midst of the fire: this day have we seen that God can speak with man, who nevertheless may live.

22 But now why should we die? for this great fire may consume us; if we continue to hear the voice of the LORD our God any more, then shall we die.

23 For where is there any flesh, that hath heard the voice of the living God speaking out of the midst of the fire, like us, and hath remained alive?

24 Do thou approach, and hear all that the LORD our God may say; and thou shalt speak unto us all that the LORD our God may speak unto thee; and we will hear and do it.

25 And the LORD heard the voice of your words, while ye were speaking unto me; and the LORD said unto me, I have heard the voice of the words of this people, which they have spoken unto thee: they have done well in all that they have spoken

[a] "As the LORD thy God commanded thee in Marah, before the giving of the law."—RASHI. Otherwise the phrase is merely general, referring to the institution of the sabbath as a divine thing, and is an expression of Moses in his address to the people, calling their attention to the necessity of obedience, because it is the will of God. Hence the introduction of the exodus from Egypt in verse 15. See also verse 16, where the same phrase occurs again.

[b] The English version makes separate verses of all the commandments; so also in Exodus xx.

[c] If we consider that the repetition of the Decalogue was only to recall the general tenor thereof to the people, the variations from the text in Exodus xx. will readily explain themselves; it is there the very word of God; here Moses teaches what had been confided to him.

[d] Meaning, that this was the only time that God spoke to the people without a mediator, as Moses himself was.

26 Who would grant[a] that this their heart might remain in them, to fear me, and to keep all my commandments at all times; in order that it might be well with them, and with their children for ever!

27 Go, say to them, Return you unto your tents.

28 But as for thee, remain thou here by me, and I will speak unto thee all the commandments, and the statutes, and the ordinances, which thou shalt teach them, that they may do them in the land which I give them to possess it.

29 Observe ye then to do as the LORD your God hath commanded you: ye shall not turn aside to the right or to the left.

30 Altogether in the way, which the LORD your God hath commanded you, shall ye walk; in order that ye may live, and that it may be well with you, and that ye may remain many days in the land which ye will possess.

CHAPTER VI.

1 And this is the commandment, with the statutes, and the ordinances, which the LORD your God hath commanded to teach you, to do them in the land whither ye are passing over to possess it:

2 In order that thou mayest fear the LORD thy God, to keep all his statutes and his commandments, which I command thee, thou and thy son, and thy son's son, all the days of thy life; and in order that thy days may be prolonged.

3 Hear, therefore, O Israel, and observe to do them; that it may be well with thee, and that ye may increase greatly, as the LORD the God of thy fathers hath spoken to thee, (in) the land flowing with milk and honey.[a]

4 ¶ Hear, O Israel! The LORD, our God, is the ONE Eternal Being.[b]

5 And thou shalt love the LORD thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy might.

6 And these words which I command thee this day, shall be in thy heart:

7 And thou shalt teach them diligently unto thy children, and thou shalt speak of them when thou sittest in thy house, and when thou walkest by the way, and when thou liest down, and when thou risest up.

8 And thou shalt bind them for a sign upon thy hand, and they shall be as frontlets between thy eyes.

9 And thou shalt write them upon the door-posts of thy house, and upon thy gates.

10 ¶ And it shall be, when the LORD thy God shall bring thee into the land which he hath sworn unto thy fathers, to Abraham, to Isaac, and to Jacob, to give unto thee,[c] great and goodly cities, which thou didst not build,

11 And houses full of all good things, which thou didst not fill, and wells hewed out which thou didst not hew, vineyards and olive-trees, which thou didst not plant; and thou hast eaten and art satisfied:

12 Then beware that thou do not forget the LORD, who hath brought thee forth out of the land of Egypt, from the house of slavery.

13 The LORD thy God shalt thou fear, and him shalt thou serve, and by his name shalt thou swear.

14 Ye[d] shall not go after other gods, of the gods of the nations which are round about you;

15 For the LORD thy God is a watchful[e] God among you: so that the anger of the LORD thy God may not be kindled against thee, and he destroy thee from off the face of the earth.

16 ¶ Ye shall not tempt the LORD your God, as ye tempted him in Massah.

17 Ye shall diligently keep the command-

[a] God is represented as speaking in the fashion of man. Piety is here shown to be voluntary; as no Divine force is spoken of as compelling to obedience. The miracles, therefore, however astonishing they were, were nevertheless evanescent, and left human nature unchanged. Hence the wish that the will then expressed might last for ever.

[b] Philippson translates, "Hear, Israel, the Eternal, our God, the Eternal is One." But every attempt to convey in another language the simplicity of the Hebrew must fail. Here we have the third revelation of God's being; in Genesis xvii. he is revealed as the Almighty; in Exodus vi. as the Eternal; and now as the ONE, uncompound, indivisible, and not liable to change or increase. We have thus the complete idea of the Godhead, as the highest Power, Eternity, Unity.—After PHILIPPSON.

[c] Here we must understand "replete with."

[d] As Moses addresses all the people of Israel, he occasionally employs the singular, they being but one body in his eyes; and again the plural, as they are composed of individuals. Hence the frequent changes observable in the text.

[e] One who sees iniquity and is ever ready to recompense it with retribution.

ments of the LORD your God, and his testimonies, and his statutes, which he hath commanded thee.

18 And thou shalt do that which is right and good in the eyes of the LORD; in order that it may be well with thee, and that thou mayest go in and take possession of the good land with the LORD hath sworn unto thy fathers, 19 To cast out all thy enemies from before thee; as the LORD hath spoken.

20 ¶ When thy son should ask thee in time[a] to come, saying, What mean the testimonies, and the statutes, and the ordinances, which the LORD our God hath commanded you?

21 Then shalt thou say unto thy son, We were bond-men unto Pharaoh in Egypt; and the LORD brought us out of Egypt with a mighty hand;

22 And the LORD let come signs and wonders, great and sore, on Egypt, on Pharaoh, and on all his household, before our eyes;

23 And us he brought out from there; in order to bring us in, to give us the land which he had sworn unto our fathers.

24 And the LORD commanded us to do all these statutes, to fear the LORD our God; that it might be well with us at all times, and that he might preserve us alive, as it is at this day.

25 And it shall be accounted righteousness unto us, if we observe to do all this commandment before the LORD our God, as he hath commanded us.

CHAPTER VII.

1 ¶ When the LORD thy God shall bring thee into the land whither thou goest to possess it, and cast out many nations before thee, the Hittites, and the Girgashites, and the Emorites, and the Canaanites, and the Perizzites, and the Hivites, and the Jebusites, seven nations, greater in number and mightier than thou;

2 And when the LORD thy God shall give them up before thee, and thou dost smite them: thou shalt utterly destroy them; thou shalt not make any covenant with them, nor show mercy unto them.

3 Neither shalt thou make marriages with them; thy daughter shalt thou not give unto his son, and his daughter shalt thou not take unto thy son.

4 For he would turn away thy son[b] from following me, so that they might serve other gods; and the anger of the LORD would be kindled against you, and he would destroy thee speedily.

5 But thus shall ye do unto them: their altars shall ye pull down, and their statues shall ye break, and their groves shall ye cut down, and their graven images shall ye burn with fire.

6 For thou art an holy people unto the LORD thy God; of thee the LORD thy God hath made choice to be unto himself a special people, above all the nations that are upon the face of the earth.

7 Not because ye are more in number than all the nations, did the LORD desire you and make choice of you; for ye are the fewest of all the nations;

8 But on account of the love of the LORD for you, and because he keepeth the oath which he hath sworn unto your fathers, hath the LORD brought you out with a mighty hand, and redeemed you out of the house of bond-men, out of the hand of Pharaoh the king of Egypt.[3]

9 Know then that the Eternal thy God, is the[c] God, the faithful God, who keepeth the covenant and the mercy with those that love him and with those that keep his commandments to the thousandth generation;

10 And repayeth those that hate him to their face,[4] to destroy them; he will not delay to him that hateth him, he will repay him to his face.

11 Therefore shalt thou keep the commandment, and the statutes, and the ordinances, which I command thee this day, to do them.

and keep, and do them, that the LORD thy God will keep unto thee the covenant and the kindness which he hath sworn unto thy fathers:

13 And he will love thee, and bless thee, and multiply thee; and he will bless the fruit of thy womb, and the fruit of thy land, thy corn, and thy wine, and thy oil, the increase of thy cattle, and the young of thy flocks, in the land which he hath sworn unto thy fathers to give unto thee.

14 Blessed shalt thou be above all the nations; there shall not be a barren male or female among thee, nor among thy cattle.

15 And the LORD will take away from thee all sickness; and all the evil diseases of Egypt, which thou knowest, will he not put upon thee; but he will lay them upon all those that hate thee.

16 And thou shalt consume all the nations which the LORD thy God giveth unto thee; thy eye shall not look with pity upon them: and thou shalt not serve their gods; for that would be a snare unto thee.

17 ¶ If thou shouldst say in thy heart, These nations are more numerous than I: how shall I be able to dispossess them?

18 Thou shalt not be afraid of them; (but) thou shalt well remember what the LORD thy God did unto Pharaoh, and unto all Egypt;

19 The great proofs[a] which thy eyes have seen, and the signs, and the wonders, and the mighty hand, and the outstretched arm, whereby the LORD thy God brought thee out: in this wise will the LORD thy God do unto all the people of whom thou art afraid.

20 Moreover the hornet will the LORD thy God send out against them, until they that are left, and hide themselves from thee, be destroyed.

21 Thou shalt not be affrighted at them; for the LORD thy God is in the midst of thee, a mighty and terrible God.

22 And the LORD thy God will chase out these nations before thee, little by little: thou shalt not be able to make an end of them speedily, lest the beasts of the field increase upon thee.

23 And the LORD thy God will give them up before thee, and he will bring among them a mighty confusion, until they be destroyed.

24 And he will give their kings into thy hand, and thou shalt destroy their name from under the heavens: no man shall be able to stand up before thee, until thou have destroyed them.

25 The graven images of their gods shall ye burn with fire: thou shalt not covet the silver or gold that is on them, so that thou wouldst take it unto thyself, lest thou be ensnared thereby; for it is an abomination to the LORD thy God.

26 And thou shalt not bring an abomination into thy house, lest thou become accursed like it: thou shalt utterly detest it, and thou shalt utterly abhor it; for it is accursed.

CHAPTER VIII.

1 ¶ All the commandment which I command thee this day shall ye observe to do; in order that ye may live, and multiply, and go in and take possession of the land which the LORD hath sworn unto your fathers.

2 And thou shalt remember all the way which the LORD thy God hath led thee these forty years in the wilderness, in order to afflict thee, to prove thee, to know what is in thy heart, whether thou wouldst keep his commandments, or not.

3 And he afflicted thee, and suffered thee to hunger, and he gave thee manna to eat, which thou knewest not, and which thy fathers had not known; in order that he might make thee know that not by bread alone man doth live, but by every thing that proceedeth out of the mouth[b] of the LORD doth man live.

6 And thou shalt keep the commandments of the LORD. thy God, to walk in his ways, and to fear him.

7 For the LORD thy God bringeth thee into a good land, a land of brooks of water, of fountains and depths[b] that spring out of valleys and mountains;

8 A land of wheat, and barley, and of the vine, and the fig-tree, and the pomegranate; a land of the oil-olive, and of honey;

9 A land wherein thou shalt eat bread without scarceness, wherein thou shalt not lack any thing; a land the stones whereof are iron, and out of the mountains of which thou canst hew copper.

10 And when thou hast eaten and art satisfied, then shalt thou bless the LORD thy God for the good land which he hath given thee.*

11 Take[c] heed unto thyself that thou forget not the LORD thy God, so as not to keep his commandments, and his ordinances, and his statutes, which I command thee this day;

12 That when thou hast eaten and art satisfied, and hast built goodly houses, and dwelt therein;

13 And when thy herds and thy flocks multiply, and thy silver and thy gold are multiplied, and all that thou hast is multiplied:

14 Thy heart be then not lifted up, and thou forget the LORD thy God, who hath brought thee forth out of the land of Egypt, from the house of slavery;

15 Who hath led thee through the great and terrible wilderness, wherein are snakes, poisonous serpents, and scorpions, and drought, where there is no water; who hath brought forth for thee water out of the flinty rock;

16 Who hath fed thee in the wilderness with manna, which thy fathers knew not; in order to afflict thee, and in order to prove thee, to do thee good at thy latter end;

17 And thou say in thy heart, My power and the strength of my hand have gotten me this wealth.

18 But thou shalt remember the LORD thy God; for it is he that giveth thee power to get wealth; in order that he might fulfil his covenant which he hath sworn unto thy fathers, as it is this day.

19 ¶ And it shall come to pass, that, if thou shouldst forget the LORD thy God, and walk after other gods, and serve them, and bow thyself down to them, I testify against you this day that ye shall surely perish;

20 Like the nations which the LORD destroyeth from before you, so shall ye perish; in recompense of that ye would not hearken unto the voice of the LORD your God.

CHAPTER IX.

1 ¶ Hear, O Israel: Thou art to pass this day over the Jordan, to go in to drive out nations greater and mightier than thou, (to conquer) cities great and fortified up to heaven,

2 A people great and tall, the children of the 'Anakim, whom thou knowest, and of whom thou hast heard say, Who can stand before the children of 'Anak!

3 Understand therefore this day, that the LORD thy God it is who goeth over before thee, he is a consuming fire; he will destroy them, and he will subdue them before thy face; and thou wilt drive them out, and destroy them quickly,[d] as the LORD hath spoken unto thee.*

4 Thou must not say in thy heart, when the LORD thy God doth cast them out from before thee, as followeth, For my righteousness hath the LORD brought me in to possess this land; and that for the wickedness of these nations the LORD doth drive them out from before thee.

5 Not for thy righteousness, nor for the uprightness of thy heart, dost thou go in to possess their land; but for the wickedness of these nations doth the LORD thy God drive

[c] All from this verse to v. 17 inclusive is one sentence, and must be so understood: Moses warns the people not to imagine, after all the dangers should be passed, that it was their strength which had accomplished all, but to look upon their acquisitions as the gift of God; man indeed must labour, but God alone can grant success.

[d] This is no contradiction to vii. 22; for there it merely says that the conquest shall be gradual; here that, though it take place in this way, it would still be in less time than the Israelites, from their unprepared state to cope with their enemies, could rationally expect.

them out from before thee, and in order that he may fulfil the word which the LORD hath sworn unto thy fathers, to Abraham, to Isaac, and to Jacob.

6 And thou shalt know, that not for thy righteousness doth the LORD thy God give unto thee this good land to possess it; for thou art a stiff-necked people.

7 Remember,[a] do not forget, how thou didst provoke the LORD thy God to wrath in the wilderness: from the day that thou wentest out of the land of Egypt, until ye came unto this place, have ye been rebellious against the LORD.

8 Also at Horeb ye provoked the LORD to wrath, so that the LORD was angry with you to destroy you.

9 When I was gone up into the mount to receive the tables of stone, the tables of the covenant which the LORD had made with you, and I abode on the mount forty days and forty nights, bread did I not eat, and water did I not drink.

10 And the LORD gave unto me the two tables of stone inscribed by the finger of God; and on them (was written) according to all the words, which the LORD had spoken with you on the mount out of the midst of the fire on the day of the assembly.

11 And it came to pass at the end of forty days and forty nights, that the LORD gave unto me the two tables of stone, the tables of the covenant.

12 And the LORD said unto me, Arise, get thee down quickly from here; for thy people which thou hast brought forth out of Egypt have become corrupted; they have quickly turned aside out of the way which I have commanded them; they have made themselves a molten image.

13 And the LORD said unto me, thus, I have seen this people, and, behold, it is a stiff-necked people:

14 Let me alone, and I will destroy them, and blot out their name from under the heavens; and I will make of thee a nation mightier and more numerous than they.

15 And I turned and came down from the mount, and the mount was burning with fire; and the two tables of the covenant were upon my two hands.

16 And I looked, and, behold, ye had sinned against the LORD your God, ye had made yourselves a molten calf; ye had turned aside quickly out of the way which the LORD had commanded you.

17 And I took hold of the two tables, and cast them out of my two hands, and I broke them before your eyes.

18 And I threw myself down before the LORD, as at the first, forty days and forty nights; bread did I not eat, and water did I not drink; on account of all your sins which ye had committed, in doing what is evil in the eyes of the LORD, to provoke him to anger.

19 For I was afraid of the anger and the indignation, wherewith the LORD was wroth against you to destroy you; but the LORD hearkened unto me also at that time.

20 And with Aaron was the LORD very angry to destroy him; and I prayed also for Aaron at the same time.

21 And your work of sin, which ye had made, the calf, I took and burnt it in fire, and stamped it, grinding it very small, until it was as fine as dust: and I cast the dust thereof into the brook that descendeth from the mount.

22 And at Taberah, and at Massah and at Kibroth-hattaävah, have ye been provoking the LORD to wrath.

23 And when the LORD sent you from Kadesh-barneä',[b] saying, Go up and take possession of the land which I have given you: then rebelled ye against the order of the LORD your God, and ye believed not in him, and ye hearkened not to his voice.

24 Rebellious have ye been against the LORD, from the day that I have known you.

25 And I threw myself down before the LORD those forty days and forty nights, which I threw myself down; because the LORD had said that he would destroy you.

26 And I prayed unto the LORD, and said,[c] O Lord Eternal, destroy not thy people and

[a] Since men are so apt to imagine all they receive as justly their due, the prophet here impresses upon the people, that they had deserved punishment, not the great mercy which was and would be shown them.

[b] Although Moses had already spoken of the rebellion upon the occasion of the spies, he sums up here this event also as a connected portion of their series of obdurate sinning.

[c] As was said above with the ten commandments, so it is here: Moses gives merely the substance of what oc-thy heritage, which thou hast redeemed through thy greatness, which thou hast brought forth out of Egypt with a mighty hand.

27 Think of thy servants, of Abraham, of Isaac, and of Jacob; turn not unto the stubbornness of this people, nor to its wickedness, nor to its sin:

28 Lest (the inhabitants of) the land whence thou hast brought us out say, Out of want of ability in the LORD to bring them into the land which he had promised them, and out of his hatred to them, hath he brought them out to slay them in the wilderness.

29 Whereas they are thy people and thy heritage, whom thou hast brought out by thy mighty power and by thy outstretched arm.*

CHAPTER X.

1 ¶ At that time the LORD said unto me, Hew for thyself two tables of stone like unto the first, and come up unto me into the mount; and make thyself an ark of wood.

2 And I will write on the tables the words that were on the first tables which thou hast broken; and thou shalt put them in the ark.

3 And I made an ark of shittim-wood, and hewed two tables of stone like unto the first; and I went up into the mount, with the two tables in my hand.

4 And he wrote on the tables, like the first writing, the ten commandments, which the LORD had spoken unto you on the mount out of the midst of the fire on the day of the assembly; and the LORD gave them unto me.

5 And I turned myself and came down from the mount, and I put the tables in the ark which I had made; and they have remained there, as the LORD hath commanded me.

6 And the children of Israel took their journey from the wells of the children of Ya'akan to Mosserah: there[a] Aaron died, and he was buried there; and Elazar his son became priest in his stead.

7 From there they journeyed unto Gudgodah; and from Gudgodah to Yotbatha, a land of brooks of waters.

8 At that time[b] did the LORD separate the tribe of Levi, to bear the ark of the covenant of the LORD, to stand before the LORD to minister unto him, and to bless in his name, unto this day.

9 Therefore was not assigned unto Levi any portion or inheritance with his brethren: the LORD is his inheritance, as the LORD thy God hath spoken to him.

10 And I stayed on the mount, like the first days, forty days and forty nights; and the LORD hearkened unto me also at that time, the LORD would not destroy thee.

11 And the LORD said unto me, Arise, go on the journey before the people, that they may go in and take possession of the land, which I have sworn unto their fathers to give unto them.*

12 ¶ And now, Israel, what doth the LORD thy God require of thee, but to fear the LORD thy God, to walk in all his ways, and to love him, and to serve the LORD thy God with all thy heart and with all thy soul, 13 To keep the commandments of the LORD, and his statutes, which I command thee this day, for thy own good?

14 Behold, to the LORD thy God belong the heavens and the heavens of heavens, and the earth with all that is thereon;

15 Yet only in thy fathers had the LORD delight, to love them; he chose, therefore, their seed after them, namely you, from all the nations, as it is this day.

16 Remove[c] therefore the obduracy of your heart, and be no more stiff-necked.[d]

17 For the LORD your God is the God of gods, and the Lord of lords, the great, the mighty, and the terrible God, who hath no regard to persons, and taketh no bribe; curred, and confines himself not to the exact words which were spoken. His object is to condense, and occasionally to add some particulars not before dwelt upon.

[a] This verse is thus explained by Aben Ezra: "Above it is said that Moses prayed also for Aaron; and he did not die then, but at the end of forty years." The places mentioned here are either divisions of Mount Hor, or neighbouring places thereto. The former opinion is probably the most correct.

[b] At the time first mentioned, when the golden calf was made.

[c] The phrase employed in the Hebrew is so peculiarly idiomatic, that it has been freely rendered, more so than any other hitherto in this version. Whatever is odious among the Israelites is called "uncircumcised;" hence, to convert the heart, to be no longer disobedient, is called "circumcising the heart."

[d] Lit. "And cause not your neck to be stiff any more."

18 Who executeth justice for the fatherless and the widow, and loveth the stranger, to give him food and raiment.

19 Love ye then the stranger; for you have been strangers in the land of Egypt.

20 The LORD thy God shalt thou fear: him shalt thou serve, and to him shalt thou cleave, and by his name shalt thou swear.

21 He is thy praise, and he is thy God, who hath done for thee these great and fearful things, which thy own eyes have seen.

22 With seventy persons did thy fathers go down into Egypt; and now the LORD thy God hath made thee like the stars of heaven in multitude.

CHAPTER XI.

1 Thou shalt therefore love the LORD thy God, and keep his charge, and his statutes, and his ordinances, and his commandments, all the days.

2 And ye shall know this day, that (I speak) not with your children who have not known, and who have not seen the chastisement of the LORD your God, his greatness, his strong hand, and his outstretched arm;

3 And his signs, and his acts, which he displayed in the midst of Egypt, unto Pharaoh the king of Egypt, and unto all his land;

4 And what he did unto the army of Egypt, unto its horses, and to its chariots; over whom he caused the water of the Red Sea to flow, as they pursued after you, and whom the LORD destroyed unto[a] this day;

5 And what he did unto you in the wilderness, until ye came unto this place;

6 And what he did unto Dathan and Abiram, the sons of Eliab, the son of Reüben; how the earth opened her mouth, and swallowed them up, and their households, and their tents, and all the living substance that followed them, in the midst of all Israel;

7 But[b] it is your own eyes which have seen all the great acts of the LORD which he hath done.

8 Ye shall therefore keep all the commandment which I command you this day, that ye may be strong, and go in and take possession of the land, whither ye go over to possess it;

9 And in order that ye may live many days in the land, which the LORD hath sworn unto your fathers to give unto them and to their seed, a land flowing with milk and honey.*

10 ¶ For the land, whither thou goest in to possess it, is not like the land of Egypt, from where ye came out, where thou sowest thy seed, and waterest it with thy foot,[c] as a garden of herbs;

11 But the land, whither ye go over to possess it, is a land of mountains and valleys, from the rain of heaven doth it drink water:

12 A land which the LORD thy God careth for; always are the eyes of the LORD thy God upon it, from the beginning of the year even unto the end of the year.

13 ¶ And it shall come to pass, if ye will hearken diligently unto my commandments which I command you this day, to love the LORD your God, and to serve him with all your heart and with all your soul,

14 That I will send rain for your land in its due season, the first rain and the latter rain, that thou mayest gather in thy corn, and thy wine, and thy oil.

15 And I will give grass in thy field for thy cattle; and thou shalt eat and be satisfied,

16 Take heed to yourselves, that your heart be not deceived, and ye turn aside, and serve other gods, and worship them;

17 (For) then the LORD's wrath will be kindled against you, and he will shut up the heavens that there be no rain, and the land will not yield her products; and ye shall perish quickly from off the good land which the LORD giveth unto you.

18 Therefore shall ye lay up these my words in your heart and in your soul; and ye shall bind them for a sign upon your hand, and they shall be as frontlets between your eyes.

19 And ye shall teach them to your chil-

[a] Mendelssohn renders freely: "And the LORD destroyed them to such a degree, that none of them is to be seen any more." It appears, however, that the phrase is merely the strong affirmative frequently used by Moses.

[b] With this verse ends the sentence commenced with verse 2.

[c] "In Egypt it was necessary to bring water from the Nile on foot," (hence the expression in the verse,) "and to water it, like the vegetable garden, which has not enough from the rain of heaven."—RASHI. It however probably alludes to the water-wheels used in the East for purposes of irrigation, which are worked by treading upon them, in the manner of a tread-mill; in this view, the foot actually does the watering.

dren, to speak of them when thou sittest in thy house, and when thou walkest by the way, and when thou liest down, and when thou risest up.

20 And thou shalt write them upon the door-posts of thy house, and upon thy gates.

21 In order that your days may be multiplied, and the days of your children, in the land which the LORD swore unto your fathers to give unto them, as the days of the heavens over the earth.[a]*

22 ¶ For if ye will diligently keep all this commandment which I command you, in order to do it, to love the LORD your God, to walk in all his ways, and to cleave unto him:

23 Then will the LORD drive out all these nations from before you, and ye shall supplant nations greater and mightier than yourselves.

24 Every place whereon the sole of your foot may tread shall be yours: from the wilderness and the Lebanon, from the river, the river Euphrates, even unto the Western Sea[b] shall be your boundary.

25 There shall no man be able to stand up before you; the dread of you and the fear of you will the LORD your God lay upon all the land which ye may tread upon, as he hath spoken unto you.

Haphtorah in Isaiah xlix. 14 to li. 3.

SECTION XLVII. REAY, ראה.

26 ¶ Behold, I lay before you this day a blessing and a curse:

27 The blessing, if ye will hearken unto the commandments of the LORD your God, which I command you this day;

28 And the curse, if ye will not hearken unto the commandments of the LORD your God, and ye turn aside out of the way which I command you this day, to go after other gods, which ye know not.

29 ¶ And it shall come to pass, when the LORD thy God shall have brought thee in unto the land whither thou goest to possess it, that thou shalt put the blessing[c] upon mount Gerizzim, and the curse upon mount 'Ebal.

30 Behold, they are on the other side of the Jordan, far away in the direction of the going down of the sun, in the land of the Canaanites, who dwell in the plain, opposite Gilgal, near the grove of Moreh.

31 For ye are about to pass over the Jordan to go in to take possession of the land which the LORD your God giveth you; and ye will possess it, and dwell therein.

32 And ye shall then observe to do all the statutes and ordinances which I set before you this day.

CHAPTER XII.

1 These are the statutes and ordinances, which ye shall observe to do, in the land which the LORD, the God of thy fathers, giveth unto thee to possess it, all the days that ye live upon the earth.

2 Ye shall utterly destroy all the places whereon the nations which ye are about to drive out served their gods, upon the high mountains, and upon the hills, and under every green tree;

3 And ye shall overthrow their altars, and break their statues, and their groves shall ye burn with fire; and the graven images of their gods shall ye hew down; and ye shall destroy their name out of the same place.

4 Ye shall not do so[d] unto the LORD your God;

5 But unto the place which the LORD your God may choose out of all your tribes to put his name there, even unto his habitation shall ye repair, and thither shalt thou come;

6 And ye shall bring thither your burnt-offerings, and your sacrifices, and your tithes, and the heave-offering of your hand, and your vows, and your freewill-offerings, and the first-born of your herds and of your flocks;

[a] i. e. While the sky is visible over the earth, or always.

[b] i. e. The Mediterranean Sea, which is at the west of Palestine; so called in reference to the Sea of Kinnereth, which is at the east. אחרון is in this sense opposed to קדמון, "west" and "east," not "last" and "first."—After ARNHEIM.

[c] The manner of doing this will be found farther explained in chap. xxvii.

[d] "Ye shall not sacrifice unto Heaven in every place," &c.—RASHI. This is another energetic prohibition against following the heathen practices. On every promontory, hill, or remarkable place, temples and statues were erected; and to this day similar customs prevail among the gentiles; but not so should Israel do: they were one people; they had but one God; they needed no mediator, so they should have but one temple, and one altar.

7 And ye shall eat there before the LORD your God, and ye shall rejoice with all the acquisition of your hand, ye and your households, wherewith the LORD thy God may have blessed thee.

8 Ye shall not do after all the manner that we do here this day, every one whatsoever is right in his own eyes.

9 For ye are not as yet come to the rest and to the inheritance, which the LORD thy God giveth thee.

10 But ye will go over the Jordan, and dwell in the land which the LORD your God causeth you to inherit, and he will give you rest from all your enemies round about, so that ye may dwell in safety.*

11 And then shall it be, that the place which the LORD your God will choose to cause his name to dwell there,—(even) thither shall ye bring all that I command you: your burnt-offerings, and your sacrifices, your tithes, and the heave-offering of your hand, and all your choice vows which ye may vow unto the LORD;

12 And ye shall rejoice before the LORD your God, ye, and your sons, and your daughters, and your men-servants, and your maid-servants, and the Levite who is within your gates; because he hath not any portion nor inheritance with you.

13 Take heed to thyself that thou offer not thy burnt-offerings in every place which thou mayest see;

14 But in the place which the LORD will choose in one of thy tribes, there shalt thou offer thy burnt-offerings, and there shalt thou do all that I command thee.

15 Notwithstanding, according to all the longing of thy soul, mayest thou kill and eat flesh, according to the blessing of the LORD thy God which he hath given thee, in all thy gates: the unclean and the clean may eat thereof, as of the roebuck, and as of the hart.

16 Only the blood shall ye not eat: upon the earth shall ye pour it out as water.

17 Thou mayest not eat within thy gates the tithe of thy corn, or of thy wine, or of thy oil, nor the first-born of thy herds or of thy flocks, nor any of thy vows which thou mayest vow, nor thy freewill-offerings, and the heave-offering of thy hand;

18 But before the LORD thy God must thou eat them in the place which the LORD thy God may choose, thou, and thy son, and thy daughter, and thy man-servant, and thy maid-servant, and the Levite who is within thy gates; and thou shalt rejoice before the LORD thy God with all the acquisition of thy hand.

19 Take heed to thyself that thou forsake not the Levite as long as thou livest upon thy land.

20 ¶ When the LORD thy God will enlarge thy border, as he hath spoken unto thee, and thou dost say, I wish to eat flesh, because thy soul longeth to eat flesh: then mayest thou, according to all the longing of thy soul, eat flesh.

21 If the place which the LORD thy God may choose to put his name there be too far for thee: then mayest thou kill of thy herds[a] and of thy flocks, which the LORD hath given thee, as I have commanded thee; and thou shalt eat in thy gates according to all the longing of thy soul.

22 But as the roebuck and the hart are eaten, so shalt thou eat the same: the unclean and the clean may eat thereof together.

23 Only be firm so as not to eat the blood; for the blood is the life; and thou shalt not eat the life with the flesh.

24 Thou shalt not eat it: upon the earth shalt thou pour it out like water.

25 Thou shalt not eat it; in order that it may go well with thee, and with thy children after thee, when thou wilt do what is right in the eyes of the LORD.

26 Nevertheless thy holy things which thou mayest have, and thy vows, shalt thou take, and go unto the place which the LORD may choose:

27 And thou shalt offer thy burnt-offerings, the flesh and the blood, upon the altar of the LORD thy God; and the blood of thy sacrifices shall be poured out upon the altar of the LORD thy God, and the flesh shalt thou eat.

28 Observe and hear all these words which I command thee; in order that it may go well with thee, and with thy children after thee for ever, when thou wilt do what is good and right in the eyes of the LORD thy God.*

[a] In this and in v. 14, permission is granted to kill animals for food, beyond the precincts of the temple, prohibited during the journey on the desert. (Lev. xxvii. 3, 4.) Of such killing, the clean and unclean may eat together. Verse 26 again enjoins that whatever has been sanctified, must nevertheless be brought to the altar.

29 ¶ When the LORD thy God will cut off the nations, whither thou goest to drive them out from before thee, and thou succeedest them, and dwellest in their land:

30 Then take heed to thyself that thou be not snared by following them, after they have been destroyed from before thee; and that thou inquire not after their gods, saying, How did these nations serve their gods? even so will I do likewise.

31 Thou shalt not do so unto the LORD thy God; for every abomination[a] to the LORD, which he hateth, have they done unto their gods; for even their sons and their daughters have they burnt in the fire to their gods.

CHAPTER XIII.

1 What thing soever I command you, even that shall ye observe to do: thou shalt not add thereto, and thou shalt not diminish therefrom.[b]

2 ¶ If there arise in the midst of thee a prophet, or a dreamer of dreams, and he giveth thee a sign or a token,

3 And the sign or the token come to pass, whereof he spoke unto thee, saying, Let us go after other gods, which thou dost not know, and let us serve them:

4 Then shalt thou not hearken unto the words of that prophet, or unto that dreamer of dreams; for the LORD your God proveth you, to know whether ye indeed love[c] the LORD your God with all your heart and with all your soul.

5 After the LORD your God shall ye walk, and him shall ye fear, and his commandments shall ye keep, and his voice shall ye obey, and him shall ye serve, and unto him shall ye cleave.

6 And that prophet, or that dreamer of dreams, shall be put to death; because he hath spoken revolt against the LORD your God, who hath brought you out of the land of Egypt, and who hath redeemed you out of the house of bond-men, to mislead thee from the way which the LORD thy God commanded thee to walk therein; and thou shalt put the evil away from the midst of thee.

7 ¶ If thy brother, the son of thy mother, or thy son, or thy daughter, or the wife of thy bosom, or thy friend, who is (dear to thee) as thy own soul, should entice thee, in secret, saying, Let us go and serve other gods, which thou dost not know, either thou, or thy fathers;

8 Some of the gods of the nations which are round about you, that are nigh unto thee, or that are far off from thee, from one end of the earth even unto the other end of the earth:

9 Then shalt thou not consent unto him, nor shalt thou hearken unto him; nor shall thy eye look with pity on him, nor shalt thou spare, nor shalt thou conceal it for him;

10 But thou shalt surely kill him; thy hand shall be the first upon him to put him to death, and the hand of all the people afterward.

11 And thou shalt stone him with stones, that he die; because he sought to mislead thee from the LORD thy God, who hath brought thee out of the land of Egypt, from the house of bond-men.

12 And all Israel shall hear it, and they shall be afraid, and they shall not do any more such a wicked deed as this is in the midst of thee.

13 ¶ If thou shouldst hear concerning one of thy cities, which the LORD thy God hath given thee to dwell there, saying,

14 There have gone forth men, children of worthlessness,[d] from the midst of thee, and have misled the inhabitants of their city, saying, Let us go and serve other gods, which ye have not known:

15 Then shalt thou inquire, and make search, and ask diligently; and, behold, if it be true, the thing is certain, such abomination hath been wrought in the midst of thee:

* Inasmuch as the worship of the heathens presented so many abominations, the Israelites are here prohibited from copying any of their customs in this respect; only that which God commanded could be lawfully considered Divine worship, and no addition, however elegant, could be tolerated. The next verse, therefore, follows properly as a farther exposition.

[b] The English version commences chap. xiii. at verse 2.

[c] The Divine legislation is the standard of truth; consequently no miracle, should such be wrought, can be considered as an evidence of Divine mission, if it contradict the law. The will of God is expressed in his revelation, and he is no man, that he should change.

[d] בלי עול "without yoke, who have thrown off the yoke of Heaven."—RASHI. "Sons of Belial" has no meaning.

16 Then shalt thou smite the inhabitants of that city with the edge of the sword, devoting it utterly, and all that is therein, and the cattle thereof, to the edge of the sword.

17 And all its spoil shalt thou gather into the midst of the market-place thereof, and thou shalt burn with fire the city, and all its spoil entirely, unto the LORD thy God; and it shall be a ruinous heap for ever: it shall not be built again.

18 And there shall not cleave to thy hand aught of the devoted things; in order that the LORD may turn from the fierceness of his anger, and grant thee mercy, and have mercy upon thee, and multiply thee, as he hath sworn unto thy fathers;

19 When thou wilt hearken to the voice of the LORD thy God, to keep all his commandments which I command thee this day, to do what is right in the eyes of the LORD thy God.*

CHAPTER XIV.

1 ¶ Ye are the children of the LORD your God: ye shall not cut yourselves, nor make any baldness between your eyes for the dead.

2 For a holy people art thou unto the LORD thy God, and the LORD hath made choice of thee to be unto himself a peculiar nation above all the nations that are upon the face of the earth.

3 ¶ Thou shalt not eat any abominable thing.

4 These are the beasts which ye may eat: The ox, the sheep, and the goat,

5 The hart, and the roebuck, and the fallow-deer, and the chamois, and the gazelle, and the wild ox, and the antelope.

6 And every beast that hath parted hoofs, and whose feet are cleft into two claws, and cheweth the cud among the beasts—that alone may ye eat.

7 Nevertheless these shall ye not eat of those that chew the cud, and of those that possess the divided cloven hoof: The camel, and the hare, and the coney; for they chew the cud, but divide not the hoof; unclean are they unto you;

8 And the swine, because it divideth the hoof, yet cheweth not the cud, it is unclean unto you; of their flesh shall ye not eat, and their dead carcass shall ye not touch.

9 ¶ This may ye eat of all that is in the waters: All that hath fins and scales may ye eat;

10 And whatsoever hath not fins and scales shall ye not eat; it is unclean unto you.

11 ¶ Every clean bird may ye eat.

12 But these are they which ye shall not eat of them: The eagle, and the ossifrage, and the osprey,

13 And the glede, and the kite, and the vulture after his kind,

14 And every raven after his kind,

15 And the ostrich, and the night-hawk, and the cuckoo, and the hawk after his kind,

16 The little owl, and the great owl, and the swan,[a]

17 And the pelican, and the gier-eagle, and the cormorant,

18 And the stork, and the heron after his kind, and the lapwing, and the bat.[b]

19 And every winged insect is unclean unto you: it shall not be eaten.

20 All clean fowls may ye eat.

21 Ye shall not eat any thing that dieth of itself: unto the stranger[c] that is in thy gates canst thou give it, that he may eat it; or thou mayest sell it unto an alien: for thou art a holy people unto the LORD thy God; thou shalt not seethe a kid in its mother's milk.*

22 ¶ Thou shalt truly tithe all the produce of thy seed, which the field bringeth forth year by year.

23 And thou shalt eat before the LORD thy God, in the place which he will choose to cause his name to dwell there, the tithe of thy corn, of thy wine, and of thy oil, and the first-born of thy herds and of thy flocks; in order that thou may learn to fear the LORD thy God all the days.

[a] "The bat," according to Rashi and Mendelssohn. Although this word has been left unchanged from the English version, it is not probable that the rendering "swan" is correct; the word תנשמת being also applied among the creeping animals as synonymous with "mole," consequently used here most probably to denote the flying species, "the bat."

[b] "The swallow."—MENDELSSOHN; who, singularly enough, doubtless by an oversight in transcribing, renders this word in Lev. xi. 19, with "Wiedehopf," English "pewet" or "lapwing," "hoopoe."

[c] These things not being interdicted for their unhealthiness, but because God chose to forbid them to Israel, they may be eaten by others, if they will.

24 And if the way be too long for thee, so that thou art not able to carry it; because the place is too far from thee, which the LORD thy God will choose to set his name there, because the LORD thy God will bless thee:

25 Then shalt thou turn it into money, and bind up the money in thy hand, and thou shalt go unto the place which the LORD thy God will choose;

26 And thou shalt lay out that money for whatsoever thy soul longeth after, for oxen, or for sheep, or for wine, or for strong drink, or for whatsoever thy soul asketh of thee; and thou shalt eat it there before the LORD thy God, and thou shalt rejoice, thou, and thy household.

27 And the Levite, who is within thy gates, him shalt thou not forsake; for he hath no portion nor inheritance with thee.

28 ¶ At the end of three years shalt thou bring forth[a] all the tithe of thy produce in the same year, and thou shalt lay it down within thy gates:

29 And then shall come the Levite, because he hath no portion nor inheritance with thee, with the stranger, and the fatherless, and the widow, that are within thy gates, and they shall eat and be satisfied; in order that the LORD thy God may bless thee in all the work of thy hand which thou doest.*

CHAPTER XV.

1 ¶ At the end of (every) seven years shalt thou make a release.

2 And this is the manner of the release: Every creditor shall release the loan which he hath lent to his neighbour; he shall not exact it of his neighbour, or of his brother; because the release year in honour of the LORD hath been proclaimed.

3 Of a foreigner thou mayest exact (payment); but that which is thine with thy brother shall thy hand release.

4 Although[b] indeed there should be no needy man among thee; for the LORD will greatly bless thee in the land which the LORD thy God giveth thee for an inheritance to possess it:

5 Yet only if thou wilt carefully hearken unto the voice of the LORD thy God, to observe to do all this commandment which I command thee this day.

6 For the LORD thy God blesseth thee, as he hath spoken unto thee; and thou shalt lend unto many nations, but thou shalt not borrow; and thou shalt rule over many nations, but over thee shall they not rule.

7 ¶ If there be among thee a needy man, any one of thy brethren within any of thy gates in thy land which the LORD thy God giveth thee: thou shalt not harden thy heart, nor shut thy hand from thy needy brother.

8 But thou shalt open wide thy hand unto him, and thou shalt surely lend him sufficient for his need, which his want requireth.

9 Beware that there be not a wicked thought in thy heart, saying, The seventh year, the year of release, is at hand; and thy eye be thus evil against thy needy brother, so that thou wouldst give him nought; and if he cry concerning thee unto the LORD, it will be sin in thee:

10 Thou shalt surely give him, and thy heart shall not be grieved when thou givest unto him; for because of this thing the LORD thy God will bless thee in all thy work, and in all the acquisition of thy hand.

11 For the needy will not cease out of the land; therefore do I command thee, saying, Thou shalt open wide thy hand unto thy brother, to thy poor, and to thy needy, in thy land.

12 ¶ If thy brother, the Hebrew, or a Hebrew woman, be sold unto thee, he shall serve thee six years; and in the seventh year shalt thou let him go free from thee.

13 And when thou lettest him go out free from thee, thou shalt not let him go away empty:

14 Thou shalt furnish him liberally out of thy flocks, and out of thy threshing-floor, and out of thy wine-press; wherewith the LORD thy God hath blessed thee, that shalt thou give unto him.

15 And thou shalt remember that thou

[a] i. e. Out of the house. Every third year the tithe which at other times was eaten at Jerusalem, was reserved for the poor in all cities.

[b] This verse has been rendered according to Mendelssohn; but it evidently means that the poor should be very few; hence to relieve them will be no difficult duty.

hast been a bond-man in the land of Egypt, and that the LORD thy God hath redeemed thee; therefore do I command thee this thing to-day.

16 And it shall be, if he say unto thee, I will not go away from thee; because he loveth thee and thy house, because he is well with thee:

17 Then shalt thou take an awl, and thrust it through his ear unto the door, and he shall be unto thee a servant for ever;[a] and also unto thy maid-servant shalt thou do likewise.

18 It shall not seem hard unto thee, when thou sendest him away free from thee, that for double the wages of a hired labourer hath he served thee six years: and the LORD thy God will bless thee in all that thou doest.*

19 ¶ All the first-born males that come of thy herds and of thy flocks shalt thou sanctify unto the LORD thy God: thou shalt do no work with the first-born of thy bullock, and not shear the first-born of thy sheep.

20 Before the LORD thy God shalt thou eat it year by year, in the place which the LORD will choose, thou with thy household.

21 And if there be any blemish thereon, if it be lame, or blind, or have any (other) ill blemish, thou shalt not sacrifice it unto the LORD thy God.

22 Within thy gates shalt thou eat it, the unclean and the clean together, as the roebuck, and as the hart.

23 Only the blood thereof shalt thou not eat: upon the ground shalt thou pour it out as water.

CHAPTER XVI.

1 ¶ Observe the month of Abib,[b] and prepare the passover-sacrifice unto the LORD thy God; for in the month of Abib did the LORD thy God bring thee forth out of Egypt by night.

2 And thou shalt sacrifice the passover-offering unto the LORD thy God of sheep and oxen, in the place which the LORD will choose to let his name dwell there.

3 Thou shalt not eat therewith any leavened bread: seven days shalt thou eat therewith unleavened bread, the bread of affliction; for in haste didst thou go forth out of the land of Egypt; in order that thou mayest remember the day of thy going forth out of the land of Egypt all the days of thy life.

4 And there shall not be seen with thee any leaven in all thy borders seven days; neither shall there any of the flesh, which thou sacrificedst in the evening, on the first day, remain all night until the morning.

5 Thou mayest not slay the passover within any of thy gates, which the LORD thy God giveth thee;

6 But at the place which the LORD thy God will choose to let his name dwell in, there shalt thou slay the passover at even-ing, at the going down of the sun, at the season that thou camest forth out of Egypt.

7 And thou shalt roast[c] and eat it in the place which the LORD thy God will choose; and thou shalt turn in the morning, and go unto thy tents.

8 Six days shalt thou eat unleavened bread; and on the seventh day shall be a solemn assembly to the LORD thy God: thou shalt do no work.

9 ¶ Seven weeks shalt thou number unto thyself: from the time thou beginnest to put the sickle to the corn, shalt thou begin to number seven weeks.

10 And thou shalt keep the feast of weeks unto the LORD thy God with a tribute of a freewill-offering of thy hand, which thou shalt give: according as the LORD thy God shall have blessed thee.

11 And thou shalt rejoice before the LORD thy God, thou, and thy son, and thy daughter, and thy man-servant, and thy maid-servant, and the Levite that is within thy gates, and the stranger, and the fatherless, and the widow, that are in the midst of thee, in the place which the LORD thy God will choose to let his name dwell there.

12 And thou shalt remember that thou hast been a bond-man in Egypt; and thou shalt observe and do these statutes.*

13 ¶ The feast of tabernacles shalt thou hold for thyself seven days, when thou hast gathered in the produce of thy threshing-floor and of thy wine-press:

14 And thou shalt rejoice on thy feast,

[a] i. e. Till the jubilee, when all servitude terminates.
[b] i. e. The ripening of the grain.

[c] Heb. "Boil;" but the preparation of the passover was by roasting.

thou, and thy son, and thy daughter, and thy man-servant, and thy maid-servant, and the Levite, and the stranger, and the fatherless, and the widow, that are within thy gates.

15 Seven days shalt thou keep a solemn feast unto the LORD thy God in the place which the LORD will choose; because the LORD thy God will bless thee in all thy product, and in all the work of thy hands, and thou shalt only rejoice.

16 Three times in the year shall every one of thy males appear before the LORD thy God in the place which he will choose: on the feast of unleavened bread, and on the feast of weeks, and on the feast of tabernacles; and no one shall appear before the LORD empty;

17 Every man according to what his hand can give, according to the blessing of the LORD thy God which he hath given thee.

Haphtorah in Isaiah liv. 11 to lv. 5.

SECTION XLVIII. SHOPHETIM, שֹׁפְטִים.

18 ¶ Judges and officers shalt thou appoint unto thyself in all thy gates, which the LORD thy God giveth thee, throughout thy tribes: and they shall judge the people with a just judgment.

19 Thou shalt not wrest judgment; thou shalt not respect persons, and thou shalt not take a bribe; for the bribe blindeth the eyes of the wise, and perverteth the words of the righteous.

20 Justice, only justice shalt thou pursue; in order that thou mayest live, and retain possession of the land which the LORD thy God giveth thee.

21 ¶ Thou shalt not plant unto thyself a grove, any tree, near the altar of the LORD thy God, which thou shalt make unto thyself.

22 Neither shalt thou set thee up any statue,[a] which the LORD thy God hateth.

CHAPTER XVII.

1 ¶ Thou shalt not sacrifice unto the LORD thy God any bullock, or lamb, whereon there is a blemish, any thing evil; for it is an abomination unto the LORD thy God.

2 ¶ If there be found in the midst of thee, within any one of thy gates, which the LORD thy God giveth thee, a man or a woman, that doth the wickedness in the eyes of the LORD thy God, to transgress his covenant.

3 And he hath gone and served other gods, and worshipped them, either the sun, or the moon, or any of the host of heaven, which I have prohibited;

4 And it be told thee, and thou hearest of it: then shalt thou inquire diligently; and, behold, if it be true, the thing is certain, such abomination hath been wrought in Israel:

5 Then shalt thou bring forth that man or that woman, who have committed this wicked thing, unto thy gates, the man or the woman, and thou shalt stone them with stones till they die.

6 Upon the evidence[b] of two witnesses, or of three witnesses, shall he that is worthy of death be put to death: he shall not be put to death upon the evidence of one witness.

7 The hand of the witnesses shall be first upon him to put him to death, and the hand of all the people at the last; and thou shalt put the evil away from the midst of thee.

8 ¶ If a matter be unknown[c] to thee for decision, between blood and blood, between plea and plea, and between bodily injury and injury, (or) matters of controversy within thy gates: then shalt thou arise, and get thee up unto the place which the LORD thy God will choose;

9 And thou shalt come unto the priests, the Levites, and unto the judge that may be in those days, and thou shalt inquire, and they shall inform thee of the sentence of the case;

10 And thou shalt do according to the sentence, which they may tell thee from that place which the LORD will choose, and thou shalt observe to do according to all that they may instruct thee;

11 In accordance with the instruction which they may instruct thee, and according to the decision which they may say unto thee, shalt thou do: thou shalt not depart from the

[a] Lit. "Monument," or "standing stone." Single stones were erected by heathens for altars to idols, and some idols even were represented by rude unsculptured blocks; hence the prohibition of them, and of all figures or statues put up as monuments.

[b] Heb. "Mouth," or that spoken by the mouth; here, "evidence."

[c] יִפָּלֵא from פָּלָא "a wonder;" hence "extraordinary," "too difficult," or "unknown." The last word has been selected as best comprising all the shades of meaning.

sentence which they may tell thee, to the right, or to the left.

12 And the man that will act presumptuously, so as not to hearken unto the priest that standeth to minister there before the LORD thy God, or unto the judge, even that man shall die; and thou shalt put away the evil from Israel.

13 And all the people shall hear, and be afraid, and not act presumptuously any more.*

14 ¶ When thou art come unto the land which the LORD thy God giveth thee, and thou hast taken possession of it, and dwellest therein, and thou sayest, I wish to set a king over me, like all the nations that are round about me:

15 Then mayest thou indeed set a king over thee, the one whom the LORD thy God will choose; (but) from the midst of thy brethren shalt thou set a king over thee; thou mayest not set over thee a stranger, who is not thy brother.

16 Only he shall not acquire for himself many horses, so that he may not cause the people to return to Egypt,[a] in order to acquire many horses; whereas the LORD hath said unto you, Ye shall henceforth not return on that way any more.

17 Neither shall he take to himself many wives, that his heart may not turn away; nor shall he acquire for himself too much silver and gold.

18 And it shall be, when[b] he sitteth upon the throne of his kingdom, that he shall write for himself a copy of this law in a book out of (that which is) before the priests, the Levites;

19 And it shall be with him, and he shall read therein all the days of his life: in order that he may learn to fear the LORD his God, to keep all the words of this law and these statutes, to do them.

20 So that his heart be not lifted up above his brethren, and so that he turn not aside from the commandment, to the right, or to the left: in order that he may live many days in his kingdom, he, and his children, in the midst of Israel.*

CHAPTER XVIII.

1 ¶ The priests, the Levites, and all the tribe of Levi, shall have no portion nor inheritance with Israel: the fire-offerings of the LORD, and his inheritance shall they consume.

2 But any inheritance shall he not have among his brethren: the LORD is his inheritance, as he hath spoken unto him.

3 ¶ And this shall be the priests' due from the people, from them that slay an animal, whether it be ox or lamb: then shall each one give unto the priest the shoulder, and the two cheeks, and the maw.

4 The first-fruit of thy corn, of thy wine, and of thy oil, and the first shearing[c] of thy sheep, shalt thou give him.

5 For him the LORD thy God hath chosen out of all thy tribes, to stand to minister in the name of the LORD, he and his sons all the days.*

6 ¶ And if the Levite come from any one of thy gates out of all Israel, where he sojourneth, and come with all the longing of his soul unto the place which the LORD will choose:

7 Then can he minister in the name of the LORD his God, like all his brethren the Levites, who stand there before the LORD.

8 They shall have like portions to eat, besides that which cometh of the sale[d] of his patrimony.

9 ¶ When thou comest into the land which the LORD thy God giveth thee, thou shalt not learn to do after the abominations of those nations.

10 There shall not be found among thee any one who causeth his son or his daughter to pass through the fire, one who useth divination, one who is an observer of times, or an enchanter, or a conjurer,

11 Or a charmer, or a consulter with familiar spirits, or a wizard, or who inquireth of the dead.

[c] Tradition fixes a sixtieth portion, and with a possession of not less than five sheep.

[d] This version of the English Bible is nearly in accordance with Aben Ezra. Mendelssohn renders, "Besides his income of his property at home which he may sell." Arnheim, however, refers this part of the verse back to verse 1:—The priests, the Levites, &c., shall have no property, "except the assigned portions (see Lev. xxv. 34) which shall remain in the family divisions;" taking כמכר in the light of "assigned portion," and האבות as כתי האבות "family divisions," and understanding יהיו before על. Compare with Num. xxxvi. 12. This construction is ingenious, but certainly too improbable. Rashi refers this section to the priests, who are also called Levites, as they are the only ones entitled to take part in the sacrifices.

12 For an abomination unto the LORD are all that do these things; and on account of these abominations the LORD thy God doth drive them out from before thee.

13 Perfect shalt thou be with the LORD thy God.*

14 For these nations, which thou art about to dispossess, hearken unto observers of times, and unto diviners; but as for thee, the LORD thy God hath not assigned the like unto thee.

15 A prophet from the midst of thee, of thy brethren, like unto me, will the LORD thy God raise up unto thee; unto him shall ye hearken:

16 According to all that thou didst desire of the LORD thy God at Horeb on the day of the assembly, saying, I wish no more to hear the voice of the LORD my God, and this great fire I wish not to see again, that I die not.

17 And the LORD said unto me, They have done well in what they have spoken.

18 A prophet will I raise up unto them from among their brethren, like unto thee; and I will put my words in his mouth; and he shall speak unto them all that I may command him.

19 And it shall come to pass, that if there be a man who will not hearken unto my words which he shall speak in my name, I myself will require it of him.

20 But the prophet, who may presume to speak a word in my name, which I have not commanded him to speak, or who may speak in the name of other gods—even that prophet shall die.

21 And if thou shouldst say in thy heart, How shall we know the word which the LORD hath not spoken?

22 That which the prophet speaketh in the name of the LORD, and the thing do not happen and come not to pass—this is the word which the LORD hath not spoken; in presumption hath the prophet spoken it; thou shalt not be afraid of him.

CHAPTER XIX.

1 ¶ When the LORD thy God shall have cut off the nations, whose land the LORD thy God giveth thee, and thou hast driven them out, and dwellest in their cities, and in their houses:

2 Then shalt thou set apart three cities for thyself, in the midst of thy land, which the LORD thy God giveth thee to possess it.

3 Thou shalt put in order[a] for thyself the (way to them), and divide into three parts the territory of thy land, which the LORD thy God will give thee to inherit, and it shall serve, that every man-slayer may flee thither.

4 And this is the case of the man-slayer, who shall flee thither, that he may live: Whoso smiteth his neighbour without knowledge, when he hath not been an enemy to him in time past;

5 And he that goeth into the forest with his neighbour to hew wood, and his hand fetcheth a stroke with the axe to cut down the tree, and the iron slippeth from the helve, and striketh his neighbour, that he die: this one shall flee unto one of these cities, and live;

6 That the avenger of the blood pursue not the man-slayer, while his heart is hot, and overtake him, because the way is long, and smite him dead; whereas he deserveth not a judgment of death, inasmuch as he was not an enemy to him in time past.

7 Therefore do I command thee, saying, Three cities shalt thou set apart for thyself.

8 And if the LORD thy God enlarge thy boundary, as he hath sworn unto thy fathers, and give thee all the land which he hath spoken to give unto thy fathers;

9 Because thou dost keep all this commandment to do it, which I command thee this day, to love the LORD thy God, and to walk in his ways all the days: then shalt thou add for thyself three cities more, unto these three;

10 That innocent blood be not shed in the midst of thy land, which the LORD thy God giveth thee for an inheritance, and blood-guiltiness be brought upon thee.

11 ¶ But if any man be an enemy to his neighbour, and he lie in wait for him, and rise up against him, and smite him mortally so that he die, and he flee unto one of these cities:

12 Then shall the elders of his city send and fetch him thence, and they shall deliver him into the hand of the avenger of the blood, that he may die.

[a] The road was to be made level, and guide-posts put up, so that the murderer might not be detained needlessly

13 Thy eye shall not look with pity on him; but thou shalt put away the (shedding of) innocent blood from Israel, that it may go well with thee.*

14 ¶ Thou shalt not remove the landmark of thy neighbour, which they of old time have set, in thy inheritance which thou shalt inherit, in the land that the LORD thy God giveth thee to possess it.

15 ¶ There shall not rise up one single witness against a man for any iniquity, or for any sin, in any sin that he sinneth: upon the evidence of two witnesses, or upon the evidence of three witnesses, must a case be established.

16 If a witness of violence rise up against any man to testify against him for any wrong:

17 Then shall both the men, who have the controversy, stand before the LORD, before the priests and the judges, who shall be in those days;

18 And the judges shall inquire diligently; and, behold, if the witness be a false witness, he hath testified a falsehood against his brother:

19 Then shall ye do unto him, as he had purposed to do unto his brother; and thou shalt put away the evil from the midst of thee.

20 And those who remain shall hear, and be afraid, and shall henceforth commit no more any such evil thing in the midst of thee.

21 And thy eye shall have no pity; but life (shall go) for life, eye for eye, tooth for tooth, hand for hand, foot for foot.

CHAPTER XX.

1 ¶ When thou goest out to battle against thy enemies, and thou seest horse, and chariot, people more in number than thou: be not afraid of them; for the LORD thy God is with thee, who brought thee up out of the land of Egypt.

2 And it shall be, when ye come nigh unto the battle, that the priest shall approach and speak unto the people;

3 And he shall say unto them, Hear, O Israel, ye come nigh this day unto the battle against your enemies: let not your hearts faint, fear not, and be not downcast, and do not tremble because of them;

4 For the LORD your God it is who goeth with you, to fight for you against your enemies, to help you.

5 And the officers shall speak unto the people, saying, What man is there who hath built a new house, and hath not dedicated[a] it? let him go and return unto his house, lest he die in the battle, and another man dedicate it.

6 And what man is there who hath planted a vineyard, and hath not redeemed[b] it? let him go and return unto his house, lest he die in the battle, and another man redeem it.

7 And what man is there that hath betrothed a wife, and hath not taken her? let him go and return unto his house, lest he die in the battle, and another man take her.

8 And the officers shall speak yet farther unto the people, and they shall say, What man is there that is fearful and faint-hearted? let him go and return unto his house, that the heart of his brethren become not as faint as his heart.

9 And it shall be, when the officers have made an end of speaking unto the people, that they shall appoint captains of the armies at the head of the people.[c]*

10 ¶ When thou comest nigh unto a city to make war against it, then summon it with words of peace.

11 And it shall be, if it make thee an answer of peace, and open (its gates) unto thee: then shall it be, that all the people that are found therein shall be tributaries unto thee, and they shall serve thee.

12 But if it will not make peace with thee, and wageth war against thee; then shalt thou besiege it;

13 And when the LORD thy God hath delivered it into thy hands, thou shalt[d] smite every male thereof with the edge of the sword;

14 But the women, and the little ones, and the cattle, and all that may be in the city, all the spoil thereof, shalt thou take as booty unto thyself; and thou shalt enjoy the spoil of thy enemies, which the LORD thy God hath given thee.

[c] Mendelssohn renders this, "Then shall some chiefs commence the mustering at the head of the people."

15 Thus shalt thou do unto all the cities which are very far off from thee, which are not of the cities of these nations.

16 But of the cities of these people, which the LORD thy God doth give thee for an inheritance, shalt thou not let live a single soul.

17 But thou shalt utterly devote them; namely, the Hittites, and the Emorites, the Canaanites, and the Perizzites, and the Hivites, and the Jebusites; as the LORD thy God hath commanded thee;

18 In order that they may not teach you to do in accordance with all their abominations, which they have done unto their gods; and ye would thus sin against the LORD your God.

19 ¶ When thou besiegest a city a long time, to make war against it to capture it, thou shalt not destroy the trees thereof by forcing an axe against them; for of them thou mayest eat, and thou shalt not cut them down, (for man liveth of the trees[a] of the field,) to employ them in thy siege;

20 Only those trees of which thou knowest that they are not fruit-trees, thou mayest destroy and cut down; and (thus) thou canst build bulwarks against the city that wageth war with thee, until it be subdued.

CHAPTER XXI.

1 ¶ If there be found a slain person in the land which the LORD thy God giveth thee to possess it, lying in the field, (and) it be not known who hath slain him:

2 Then shall thy elders and thy judges go forth, and they shall measure unto the cities which are round about the one that is slain.

3 And it shall be, that the city which is the nearest unto the slain person, even the elders of that city shall take a heifer, which hath not been wrought with, which hath not drawn in a yoke;

4 And the elders of that city shall bring down the heifer unto a rough[b] valley, which is neither tilled nor sown, and they shall break there the neck of the heifer in the valley;

5 And the priests the sons of Levi shall come near; for them the LORD thy God hath chosen to minister unto him, and to bless in the name of the LORD; and after their decision shall be done (at) every controversy and every injury;

6 And all the elders of that city who are nearest unto the slain person shall wash their hands over the heifer, the neck of which is broken in the valley.*

7 And they shall commence and say, Our hands have not shed this blood, and our eyes have not seen it.

8 Grant pardon unto thy people Israel, whom thou hast redeemed, O LORD, and lay not innocent blood in the midst of thy people Israel: and the blood shall be forgiven unto them.

9 And thou shalt put away the (guilt of) the innocent blood[c] from the midst of thee, when thou wilt do what is right in the eyes of the LORD.

Haphtorah in Isaiah li. 12 to lii. 12.

SECTION XLIX. KI TETZAY, כִּי תֵצֵא.

10 ¶ When thou goest forth to war against thy enemies, and the LORD thy God delivereth them into thy hands, and thou takest captives of them;

11 And thou seest among the captives a woman of handsome form, and hast a desire unto her, that thou wouldst take her to thee for wife:

12 Then shalt thou bring her home to thy house; and she shall shave her head, and let grow[d] her nails;

13 And she shall put off the raiment of her captivity from her, and she shall remain in thy house, and weep for her father and her mother a full month; and after that thou

[a] Onkelos, Rashi, and Mendelssohn render, "Is then the tree of the field like man, that thou shouldst put it in a state of siege?" And Rashi adds, "Why wouldst thou destroy it?" The English version has been followed in our text, and it agrees with Aben Ezra, Arnheim, and the commentator to Mendelssohn's translation. The last clause may read: "to put (the city) in siege before thee."

[b] Philippson, after Rambam, "rapid stream," which does not dry up in the summer, and the bed of which can therefore never be ploughed.

mayest go in unto her, and be her husband, that she may become thy wife.

14 And it shall be, if thou have no delight in her, then shalt thou let her go whither she will; but thou shalt nowise sell her for money: thou shalt not make a servant of her, because thou hast humbled her.

15 ¶ If a man have two wives, one beloved, and the other hated, and they bear him children, both the beloved and the hated; so that the first-born son be hers that is hated:

16 Then shall it be, when he divideth as inheritance among his sons what he hath, that he shall not institute the son of the beloved as the first-born before[a] the son of the hated, the first-born;

17 But the first-born, the son of the hated woman, shall he acknowledge, to give him a double portion of all that is found in his possession; for he is the beginning of his strength; to him belongeth the right of the first birth.

18 ¶ If a man have a stubborn and rebellious son, who hearkeneth not to the voice of his father, or the voice of his mother, and they chastise him, and he will not hearken unto them:

19 Then shall his father and his mother lay hold on him, and bring him out unto the elders of his city, and unto the gate of his place;

20 And they shall say unto the elders of his city, This our son is stubborn and rebellious, he will not hearken to our voice; he is a glutton, and a drunkard.

21 And all the men of his city shall stone him with stones, that he die; and thou shalt put away the evil from the midst of thee; and all Israel shall hear, and be afraid.*

22 ¶ And if a man have committed a sin for which there is a punishment of death, and he be to be put to death, and thou hang him on a tree:

23 Then shall his body not remain all night on the tree, but thou shalt surely bury him on that day; (for he that is hanged is a dishonour of God;) and thou shalt not defile thy land, which the LORD thy God giveth thee for an inheritance.

CHAPTER XXII.

1 ¶ Thou shalt not see thy brother's ox or his lamb go astray, and withdraw thyself from them: thou shalt surely bring them back again unto thy brother.

2 But if thy brother be not nigh unto thee, or thou know him not: then shalt thou take it unto thy own house, and it shall remain with thee until thy brother inquire after it, and then shalt thou restore it to him.

3 In like manner shalt thou do with his ass; and in like manner shalt thou do with his raiment; and in like manner shalt thou do with every lost thing of thy brother's, which may have been lost to him, and which thou hast found: thou art not at liberty to withdraw thyself.

4 ¶ Thou shalt not see thy brother's ass or his ox fallen down by the way, and withdraw thyself from them: thou shalt surely help him to lift them up again.

5 ¶ A woman shall not have upon her the apparel of a man, and a man shall not put on a woman's garment; for an abomination unto the LORD thy God are all who do this.[b]

6 ¶ If a bird's nest chance to be before thee in the way, on any tree, or on the ground, with young ones, or with eggs, and the mother be sitting upon the young, or upon the eggs: thou shalt not take the mother with the young;

7 But thou shalt surely let the mother go, and the young thou mayest take to thyself; in order that it may be well with thee, and that thou mayest live many days.*

8 ¶ When thou buildest a new house, thou shalt make a battlement for thy roof; that thou bring not blood upon thy house, if any one were to fall from there.[c]

9 Thou shalt not sow thy vineyard with divers seeds; that the ripe fruit of thy seed which thou hast sown, and the fruit of the vineyard, be not defiled.

10 ¶ Thou shalt not plough with an ox and an ass together.

11 Thou shalt not wear a garment of divers sorts, of woollen and linen together.

12 ¶ Thou shalt make thyself fringes upon the four corners of thy vesture, wherewith thou coverest thyself.

13 ¶ If any man take a wife, and go in unto her, and hate her,

[a] "In the lifetime of," &c.—ARNHEIM.

[b] Since such a practice might easily lead to lewdness and thus demoralize the people.

* We are here prohibited from being the cause through want of foresight, or culpable neglect, that any injury whatever should happen to our fellow-men.

14 And he lay an accusation against her, and spread abroad an evil name upon her, and say, This woman I took (for wife), and when I came near to her, I found no tokens of virginity in her:

15 Then shall the father of the damsel, and her mother, take and bring forth the tokens of the damsel's virginity unto the elders of the city, to the gate.

16 And the father of the damsel shall say unto the elders, My daughter I gave unto this man for wife; but he hath conceived hatred toward her;

17 And, lo, he hath laid an accusation (against her), saying, I have found no tokens of virginity in thy daughter; and yet these are the tokens of my daughter's virginity: and they shall spread the cloth before the elders of the city.

18 And the elders of that city shall take that man and chastise him;

19 And they shall amerce him in a hundred shekels of silver, and give them unto the father of the damsel; because he hath spread abroad an evil name upon a virgin of Israel: and she shall remain his wife; he shall not be at liberty to put her away all his days.

20 ¶ But if this thing was true, there have not been found tokens of virginity in the damsel:

21 Then shall they lead out the damsel to the door of her father's house,[a] and the men of her city shall stone her with stones that she die; because she hath wrought a disgraceful deed in Israel, to commit incest in her father's house; and thou shalt put away the evil from the midst of thee.

22 ¶ If a man be found lying with a woman married to a husband: then shall both of them die, the man that lieth with the woman, and the woman; and thou shalt put away the evil from Israel.

23 ¶ If a damsel that is a virgin be betrothed unto a man, and a man find her in the city, and lie with her:

24 Then shall ye lead them both out unto the gate of that city, and ye shall stone them with stones that they die; the damsel, because she cried not (for aid) in the city; and the man, because he hath done violence to his neighbour's wife; and thou shalt put away the evil from the midst of thee.

25 ¶ But if in the field the man should find the betrothed damsel, and the man take hold of her by force, and lie with her: then shall the man that lay with her die alone;

26 But unto the damsel shalt thou not do any thing; there is in the damsel no sin worthy of death; for as when a man riseth against his neighbour, and striketh him dead, even so is this matter;

27 For in the field did he find her; had the betrothed damsel even cried,[b] there would have been none to aid her.

28 ¶ If a man find a damsel that is a virgin, who is not betrothed, and lay fast hold on her, and lie with her, and they be found:

29 Then shall the man who lieth with her give unto the father of the damsel fifty shekels of silver; and she shall become his wife, because he hath done violence to her, he shall not be at liberty to put her away all his days.

CHAPTER XXIII.

1[c] ¶ A man shall not take his father's wife, and he shall not uncover his father's skirt.

2 ¶ He that is wounded in the testicles, or hath his privy member cut, shall not enter into the congregation of the LORD.

3 ¶ One born from prohibited connections shall not enter into the congregation of the LORD; even the tenth generation of him shall not enter into the congregation of the LORD.

4 ¶ An 'Ammonite and a Moäbite shall not enter into the congregation of the LORD; even the tenth generation of them shall not enter into the congregation of the LORD, for ever;

5 For the reason, that they met you not with bread and with water on the way, when ye came forth out of Egypt; and because be[d] hired against thee Bil'am the son of Beör of Pethor in Mesopotamia, to curse thee;

6 But the LORD thy God would not hearken unto Bil'am; and the LORD thy God changed unto thee the curse into a blessing, because the LORD thy God loved thee.

[a] The house which she has disgraced by her lewdness shall be the scene of her punishment; so as to strike additional terror in others, that the sanctity of the people of God might be preserved inviolate.

[b] Others: "The betrothed damsel did cry out, but there was none to aid her."

[c] The English version commences chap. xxiii. at verse 2

[d] The king of Moäb.

7 Thou shalt not seek their peace and their welfare all thy days, for ever.*

8 ¶ Thou shalt not abhor[a] an Edomite; for he is thy brother: thou shalt not abhor an Egyptian; because thou wast a stranger in his land.

9 The children that are born unto them in the third generation, may enter of them into the congregation of the LORD.

10 ¶ When thou goest forth into camp against thy enemies, then keep thyself from every evil thing.

11 If there be among thee any man, that is not clean by reason of an occurrence by night; then shall he go abroad to without the camp, he shall not come within the camp;

12 But it shall be, that toward evening he shall bathe himself in water; and when the sun goeth down, he may come into the midst of the camp.

13 And a place shalt thou have without the camp, whither thou shalt go forth abroad:

14 And a spade shalt thou have with thy weapons; and it shall be, when thou sittest abroad, that thou shalt dig therewith, and shalt afterward cover that which cometh from thee;

15 For the LORD thy God walketh in the midst of thy camp, to deliver thee and to give up thy enemies before thee; therefore shall thy camp be holy; that he see no unseemly thing in thee, and turn away from thee.

16 ¶ Thou shalt not deliver unto his master the servant who may escape unto thee from his master;

17 With thee shall he dwell, in the midst of thee, in the place which he may choose in any one of thy gates, where it seemeth best to him: thou shalt not oppress him.

18 ¶ There shall not be a prostitute of the daughters of Israel, and there shall not be a sodomite of the sons of Israel.

19 Thou shalt not bring the hire of a harlot, or the price of a dog, into the house of the LORD thy God for any vow; for both of these are equally an abomination unto the LORD thy God.

20 ¶ Thou shalt not take interest from thy brother, interest of money, interest of victuals, interest of any thing that is lent upon interest:

21 From an alien thou mayest take interest; but from thy brother thou shalt not take interest; in order that the LORD thy God may bless thee in all the acquisition of thy hand, in the land whither thou goest to possess it.

22 ¶ When thou makest a vow unto the LORD thy God, thou shalt not delay to pay it; for the LORD thy God will surely require it of thee; and it would be sin in thee.

23 But if thou forbear to vow, it shall be no sin in thee.

24 What is gone out of thy lips shalt thou keep and perform, as thou hast vowed unto the LORD thy God voluntarily, as thou hast spoken with thy mouth.*

25 ¶ When thou comest into thy neighbour's vineyard, thou mayest eat grapes at thy own pleasure, till thou have enough; but into thy vessel shalt thou not put any.

26 ¶ When thou comest into the standing corn of thy neighbour, thou mayest pluck ears with thy hand; but a sickle shalt thou not move over thy neighbour's standing corn.

CHAPTER XXIV.

1 ¶ When a man hath taken a wife, and married her, and it come to pass, that if she find no favour in his eyes, because he hath found some scandalous thing in her, he may write her a bill of divorcement, and give it in her hand, and sent her away out of his house;

2 And she shall depart out of his house; and if she go and become another man's wife;

3 And the latter husband hate her, and write her a bill of divorcement, and give it in her hand, and send her away out of his house; or if the latter husband, who took her as his wife, should die:[b]

4 Then shall her former husband, who had sent her away, not be at liberty to take her again to be his wife, after she hath been defiled; for it is abomination before the LORD; and thou shalt not bring sin upon the land.

[a] That is, we are not to refuse admission to the third generation of the Edomite and Egyptian proselyte from intermarrying with descendants of Israel; as a probation of this length of time shall qualify them for a commixing with the chosen people.

[b] The connection of this passage has been given after Arnheim. Mendelssohn, however, who here terminates the first portion of the sentence, makes the whole from verse 1 a continued condition, thus: "And he write a bill—give it—and if she depart—and go and become—and the latter husband hate her, &c.: then shall," &c.

which the LORD thy God giveth thee for an inheritance.*

5 ¶ When a man hath taken a new wife, he shall not go out to war, neither shall he be charged with any public business: he shall be free for his house one year, and shall cheer up his wife whom he hath taken.

6 No man shall take to pledge the nether or the upper mill-stone; for he taketh a man's life to pledge.

7 ¶ If a man be found stealing any one of his brethren of the children of Israel, and he treateth[a] him as a slave, and selleth him: then shall that thief die; and thou shalt put the evil away from the midst of thee.

8 ¶ Take heed in the plague of leprosy, to observe diligently, and to do according to all that the priests, the Levites, may instruct you;[b] as I have commanded them, so shall ye observe to do.

9 Remember what the LORD thy God did unto Miriam on the journey, at your coming forth out of Egypt.

10 ¶ When thou dost lend thy brother any thing as a loan, thou shalt not go into his house to take his pledge.

11 In the street shalt thou stand, and the man to whom thou dost lend shall bring out unto thee the pledge into the street.

12 And if he be a poor man, thou shalt not lie down with his pledge:

13 Thou shalt punctually deliver him the pledge again when the sun goeth down, that he may lie under his own cover,[c] and bless thee; and unto thee shall it be as righteousness before the LORD thy God.*

14 ¶ Thou shalt not withhold the wages of a hired man, of the poor and needy, (whether he be) of thy brethren, or of thy strangers[d] that are in thy land within thy gates:

15 On the same day shalt thou give him his wages, that the sun may not go down upon it; for he is poor, and his soul longeth[e] for it; so that he may not cry against thee unto the LORD, and it be sin in thee.[f]

16 ¶ Fathers shall not be put to death for the children, neither shall children be put to death for the fathers: for his own sin shall every man be put to death.

17 ¶ Thou shalt not pervert the cause of the stranger, or of the fatherless; and thou shalt not take in pledge the raiment of a widow;

18 But thou shalt remember that thou wast a bond-man in Egypt, and that the LORD thy God redeemed thee thence; therefore do I command thee to do this thing.

19 ¶ When thou cuttest down thy harvest in thy field, and forgettest a sheaf in the field, thou shalt not go back to fetch it; for the stranger, for the fatherless, and for the widow shall it be; in order that the Lord thy God may bless thee in all the work of thy hands.

20 ¶ When thou beatest thy olive-tree, thou shalt not go over the boughs again; for the stranger, for the fatherless, and for the widow shall it be.

21 When thou gatherest the grapes of thy vineyard, thou shalt not glean the small fruit afterward; for the stranger, for the fatherless, and for the widow shall it be.

22 And thou shalt remember that thou wast a bond-man in the land of Egypt; therefore do I command thee to do this thing.

CHAPTER XXV.

1 ¶ If there be a controversy between men, and they come nigh unto a court of justice, and they judge them; and they justify the righteous, and condemn the wicked:

2 Then shall it be, if the guilty man deserve to be beaten, that the judge shall cause him to lie down, and to be beaten before his face, according to the degree of his fault, by a (certain) number.

3 Forty stripes may he give him, not more; so that he shall not exceed to have him beaten above these, with too many stripes, and thy brother be thus rendered vile before thy eyes.

7 And if the man have no desire to take his sister-in-law: then shall his sister-in-law go up to the gate unto the elders, and say, My husband's brother refuseth to raise up unto his brother a name in Israel, he will not perform on me the duty of a husband's brother.

8 Then shall the elders of his city call him, and speak unto him; and if he persist,[a] and say, I have no desire to take her:

19 And it shall come to pass, when the LORD thy God giveth thee rest from all thy enemies round about, in the land which the LORD thy God giveth thee for an inheritance to possess it, that thou shalt blot out the remembrance of 'Amalek from under the heavens: thou shalt not forget.

CHAPTER XXVI.

1 ¶ And it shall come to pass, when thou art come in unto the land which the LORD thy God giveth thee for an inheritance, and thou hast taken possession of it, and dwellest therein:

2 That thou shalt take of the first of all the fruit of the soil, which thou shalt bring in from thy land which the LORD thy God giveth thee, and shalt put it in a basket; and thou shalt go unto the place which the LORD thy God will choose to let his name dwell there.

3 And thou shalt come unto the priest that may be in those days, and thou shalt say unto him, I give thanks this day unto the LORD thy God, that I am come into the land which the LORD swore unto our fathers to give to us.

4 And the priest shall take the basket out of thy hand, and set it down before the altar of the LORD thy God.

5 And thou shalt commence and say before the LORD thy God, A Syrian, wandering[e] about, was my father, and he went down into Egypt, and sojourned there with a family few in number, and he became there a nation, great, mighty, and numerous.

[a] Heb. "And he standeth," i. e. fixed in his mind.

[b] Heb. "Of the one whose shoe was pulled off."

[c] This is explained, that she is to pay the damages for the insult offered: "Thy eye," &c., even if she be poor.

[d] Another injunction against overreaching; not even to keep any article in the house which might by chance be unlawfully employed, can be allowed.

[e] i. e. Abraham or Jacob, both of whom were residents of Syria, and moving from place to place with their cattle; but Onkelos and Rashi give: "A Syrian (Laban) wished to destroy my father (Jacob)."

6 And the Egyptians treated us ill, and afflicted us, and laid upon us hard labour;

7 And then we cried unto the ETERNAL, the God of our fathers; and the LORD heard our voice, and looked on our affliction, and our trouble, and our oppression;

8 And the LORD brought us forth out of Egypt with a mighty hand, and with an outstretched arm, and with great terror, and with signs, and with wonders;

9 And he brought us unto this place, and gave unto us this land, a land flowing with milk and honey.

10 And now, behold, I have brought the first of the fruits of the soil, which thou hast given me, O LORD; and thou shalt set it down before the LORD thy God, and prostrate thyself before the LORD thy God;

11 And thou shalt rejoice with every good thing which the LORD thy God hath given unto thee, and unto thy house, thou, with the Levite, and the stranger that is in the midst of thee.*

12 ¶ When thou hast made an end of giving away all the tithe of thy produce in the third year, the year of the tithing,[a] and hast given it unto the Levite, to the stranger, to the fatherless, and to the widow, and[b] they have eaten it within thy gates, and are satisfied:

13 Then shalt thou say before the LORD thy God, I have removed away the hallowed things out of the house, and I have also given them unto the Levite, and unto the stranger, to the fatherless, and to the widow, according to all thy commandment which thou hast commanded me; I have not deviated from thy commandments, and I have not forgotten;

14 I have not eaten thereof in my mourning, neither have I removed away aught thereof in an unclean state, nor have I given aught thereof for the dead; I have hearkened to the voice of the LORD my God, I have done all, just as thou hast commanded me.

15 Look down from the habitation of thy holiness, from the heavens, and bless thy people Israel, and the soil which thou hast given unto us, as thou hast sworn unto our fathers, a land flowing with milk and honey.*

16 ¶ This day the LORD thy God commandeth thee to do these statutes and ordinances; and thou shalt keep and do them with all thy heart, and with all thy soul.

17 Thou hast this day acknowledged[c] the LORD, that he is thy God, and that thou wilt walk in his ways, and keep his statutes, and his commandments, and his ordinances, and hearken unto his voice;

18 And the LORD hath acknowledged thee this day, that thou art unto him a peculiar people, as he hath spoken unto thee, and that thou shouldst keep all his commandments;

19 So that he may set thee highest above all nations that he hath made, in praise, and in name, and in honour; and that thou mayest be a holy people unto the LORD thy God, as he hath spoken.*

CHAPTER XXVII.

1 ¶ And Moses with the elders of Israel commanded the people, saying, Keep the whole commandment which I command you his day.

2 And it shall be on the day when ye pass over the Jordan unto the land which the LORD thy God giveth thee, that thou shalt set up for thyself great stones, and cover them with plaster;

3 And thou shalt write upon them all the words of this law, so soon as thou art passed over; in order that thou mayest go in unto the land which the LORD thy God giveth thee, a land flowing with milk and honey; as the LORD, the God of thy fathers, hath spoken unto thee.

4 And it shall be so soon as ye are gone over the Jordan, that ye shall set up these stones, which I command you this day, on mount 'Ebal; and thou shalt cover them with plaster.

[a] In the first two years a tithe was set aside to be eaten at Jerusalem; in the third it was given to the poor.

[b] "That they may eat," &c.—ARNHEIM and English version.

[c] והאמרת "There is no phrase in Scripture by which the correct meaning of these words could be ascertained; but to me it appears that they convey the idea of separation and setting aside; thou hast separated him from foreign gods to be to thee as God, and he has separated thee from the nations of the earth to be to him as a peculiar people."—RASHI. Arnheim simply gives them with "declared openly," "undisguisedly," "acknowledged," as in the text. Mendelssohn translates with "given occasion;" thus, "Thou hast given this day occasion unto the LORD (to make a covenant with thee) to be unto thee a God," &c. Philippson after Aben Ezra, Rashbam, &c., simply, "Thou lettest it be told unto the LORD," and "The LORD letteth it be told unto thee," as the causative from אמר "to say," or "cause something to be told, said, or answered." But the sense in each case is the same.

5 And thou shalt build there an altar unto the LORD thy God, an altar of stones: thou shalt not lift up any iron tool upon them.

6 Of whole stones shalt thou build the altar of the LORD thy God; and thou shalt offer thereupon burnt-offerings unto the LORD thy God;

7 And thou shalt slay peace-offerings, and eat (them) there; and thou shalt rejoice before the LORD thy God.

8 And thou shalt write upon the stones all the words of this law, very plainly.

9 ¶ And Moses with the priests, the Levites, spoke unto all Israel, saying, Be attentive, and hearken, O Israel! this day art thou become a people unto the LORD thy God.

10 Thou shalt therefore hearken to the voice of the LORD thy God, and do his commandments and his statutes, which I command thee this day.*

11 ¶ And Moses commanded the people on the same day, saying,

12 These shall stand upon mount Gerizzim to bless[a] the people, when ye are come over the Jordan: Simeon, and Levi, and Judah, and Issachar, and Joseph, and Benjamin.

13 And these shall stand for the sake of the curse upon mount 'Ebal: Reüben, Gad, and Asher, and Zebulun, Dan, and Naphtali.

14 And the Levites shall commence, and say unto all the men of Israel with a loud voice,

15 ¶ Cursed be the man who maketh a graven or molten image, the abomination of the LORD, the work of the hands of the craftsman, and putteth it in a secret place; and all the people shall answer, and say, Amen.

16 ¶ Cursed be he that holdeth in light esteem his father or his mother; and all the people shall say, Amen.

17 ¶ Cursed be he that removeth the landmark of his neighbour; and all the people shall say, Amen.

18 ¶ Cursed be he that causeth the blind to wander out of the way; and all the people s. all say, Amen.

19 ¶ Cursed be he that perverteth the cause of the stranger, of the fatherless, and of the widow; and all the people shall say, Amen.

20 Cursed be he that lieth with his father's wife; because he uncovereth his father's skirt; and all the people shall say, Amen.

21 ¶ Cursed be he that lieth with any manner of beast; and all the people shall say, Amen.

22 ¶ Cursed be he that lieth with his sister, the daughter of his father, or the daughter of his mother, and all the people shall say, Amen.

23 ¶ Cursed be he that lieth with his mother-in-law; and all the people shall say, Amen.

24 ¶ Cursed be he that smiteth his neighbour secretly; and all the people shall say, Amen.

25 ¶ Cursed be he that taketh a bribe to slay a person, an innocent blood; and all the people shall say, Amen.

26 ¶ Cursed be he that executeth not the words of this law to do them; and all the people shall say, Amen.

CHAPTER XXVIII.

1 ¶ And it shall come to pass, if thou wilt hearken diligently unto the voice of the LORD thy God, to observe to do all his commandments which I command thee this day, that the LORD thy God will set thee highest above all nations of the earth;

2 And all these blessings shall come upon thee, and overtake thee; because thou wilt hearken unto the voice of the LORD thy God.

3 Blessed shalt thou be in the city, and blessed shalt thou be in the field.

4 Blessed shall be the fruit of thy body, and the fruit of thy ground, and the fruit of thy cattle, the increase of thy cattle, and the young of thy flocks.

5 Blessed shall be thy basket and thy kneading-trough.

6 Blessed shalt thou be at thy coming in, and blessed shalt thou be at thy going[b] out.*

7 The LORD will cause thy enemies that rise up against thee to be smitten before thy face: on one way shall they come out against thee, and on seven ways[a] shall they flee before thee.

[a] Six tribes went up to the top of mount Gerizzim, and six to that of mount 'Ebal, while the priests, with the Levites and the ark were in the middle of the valley below; the Levites thereupon turned their faces toward Gerizzim, and commenced with the blessing: "Blessed be the man who doth not make a graven image," &c.; when both parties answered, "Amen." They then turned their faces toward mount 'Ebal, and commenced with the curse: "Cursed be the man," &c., and so till the last, "that observeth not."—MISHNA SOTAH, vii. § 5.

8 The LORD will command upon thee the blessing in thy storehouses, and in all the acquisitions of thy hand; and he will bless thee in the land which the LORD thy God giveth thee.

9 The LORD will raise thee up unto himself as a holy people, as he hath sworn unto thee; if thou wilt keep the commandments of the LORD thy God, and walk in his ways.

10 And all the nations of the earth shall see, that thou art called by the name of the LORD; and they shall be afraid of thee.

11 And the LORD will make thee preeminent for good, in the fruit of thy body, and in the fruit of thy cattle, and in the fruit of thy ground, in the land which the LORD swore unto thy fathers to give unto thee.

12 The LORD will open unto thee his good treasure, the heaven, to give the rain of thy land in its season, and to bless all the work of thy hand; and thou shalt lend unto many nations, but thou shalt not borrow.

13 And the LORD will constitute thee the head, and not the tail; and thou shalt only be uppermost, and thou shalt not be beneath; if thou wilt hearken unto the commandments of the LORD thy God, which I command thee this day to observe and to do;

14 And thou wilt not go aside from all the words which I command thee this day, to the right, or to the left, to go after strange gods, to serve them.

15 ¶ But it shall come to pass, if thou wilt not hearken unto the voice of the LORD thy God, to observe to do all his commandments and his statutes which I command thee this day: that all these curses shall come upon thee, and overtake thee.

16 Cursed shalt thou be in the city, and cursed shalt thou be in the field.

17 Cursed shall be thy basket and thy kneading-trough.

18 Cursed shall be the fruit of thy body, and the fruit of thy land, the increase of thy cattle, and the young of the flocks.

19 Cursed shalt thou be at thy coming in, and cursed shalt thou be at thy going out.

20 The LORD will send out against thee misfortune, confusion, and failure, in all the occupation of thy hand which thou mayest engage in; until thou be destroyed, and until thou perish quickly; because of the wickedness of thy doings, that thou hast forsaken me.

21 The LORD will cause the pestilence to cleave unto thee, until it have consumed thee from off the land, whither thou goest to possess it.

22 The LORD will smite thee with consumption, and with fever, and with inflammation, and with extreme burning, and with drought,[b] and with blasting, and with mildew; and they shall pursue thee until thou be lost.

23 And thy heavens that are over thy head shall be copper, and the earth that is under thee shall be iron.

24 The LORD will give as the rain of thy land powder and dust: from heaven shall it come down upon thee, until thou be destroyed.

25 The LORD will cause thee to be smitten before thy enemies: on one way shalt thou go out against them, and on seven ways shalt thou flee before them; and thou shalt become a horror[c] unto all the kingdoms of the earth.

26 And thy carcass shall become food unto all the fowls of the heavens, and unto the beasts of the earth, but with no one to scare them away.

27 The LORD will smite thee with the inflammatory disease of Egypt, and with the hemorrhoids, and with the scab, and with the itch, whereof thou shalt not be able to be healed.

28 The LORD will smite thee with madness, and with blindness, and with confusion of heart;

29 And thou shalt grope about at noonday, as the blind gropeth about in the darkness, and thou shalt not prosper in thy ways; and thou shalt be only oppressed and robbed all the days, but with no one to help.[d]

[a] "This is the course of those who flee hastily, that they scatter themselves on all sides."—RASHI.

[b] Mendelssohn considers these three as diseases of the human system: "unnatural dryness, wasting, and jaundice;" others, however, view them as diseases in dental to the products of the earth.

[d] This prefigurates the helplessness of Israel in exile

30 A wife wilt thou betroth, and another man shall lie with her; a house wilt thou build, and thou shalt not dwell therein; a vineyard wilt thou plant, and thou shalt not redeem it.

31 Thy ox shall be slain before thy eyes, and thou shalt not eat thereof; thy ass shall be violently taken away from before thy face, and shall not be brought back to thee; thy sheep shall be given unto thy enemies, without any one to help thee.

32 Thy sons and thy daughters shall be given unto another people, and thy eyes shall look on, and fail with longing for them all the day long; but without any power in thy hand.

33 The fruit of thy soil, and all thy exertion, shall a nation which thou knowest not eat up; and thou shalt only be oppressed and crushed all the days.

34 And thou shalt become mad from the sight of thy eyes which thou wilt see.

35 The LORD will smite thee with a sore inflammation upon the knees, and upon the legs, of which thou shalt not be able to be healed, from the sole of thy foot unto the top of thy head.

36 The LORD will drive thee, and thy king whom thou wilt set over thee, unto a nation which neither thou nor thy fathers have known; and thou wilt serve there strange gods, of wood and stone.

37 And thou shalt become an astonishment, a proverb, and a by-word, among all the nations whither the LORD will lead thee.

38 Much seed wilt thou carry out into the field, yet but little shalt thou gather in; for the locust shall consume it.

39 Vineyards wilt thou plant and dress; but wine shalt thou not drink nor lay up; for the worms shall eat them.

40 Olive-trees wilt thou have throughout all thy borders; but with the oil shalt thou not anoint thyself; for thy olive shall cast the fruit.

41 Sons and daughters wilt thou beget; but they shall not remain thine; for they shall go into captivity.

42 All thy trees and the fruit of thy land shall the cricket strip bare.

43 The stranger that is in the midst of thee shall get up above thee higher and higher; but thou shalt come down lower and lower;

44 He shall lend to thee, and thou shalt not lend to him; he shall become the head, and thou shalt become the tail.

45 And there shall come upon thee all these curses, and they shall pursue thee, and overtake thee, till thou be destroyed; because thou didst not hearken unto the voice of the LORD thy God, to keep his commandments and his statutes which he hath commanded thee;

46 And they shall remain on thee for a sign and for a token, and on thy seed, for ever.

47 For the reason that thou didst not serve the LORD thy God with joyfulness, and with gladness of heart, while there was an abundance of all things;

48 Therefore shalt thou serve thy enemies whom the LORD will send out against thee, in hunger, and in thirst, and in nakedness, and in want of every thing; and they will put a yoke of iron upon thy neck, until they have destroyed thee.

49 The LORD will bring up against thee a nation from afar, from the end of the earth, as the eagle rusheth down; a nation whose tongue thou wilt not understand;

50 A nation of a fierce[a] countenance, that will not have respect for the old, nor show favour to the young;

51 And it will eat the fruit of thy cattle, and the fruit of thy soil, until thou be destroyed; so that it will not leave unto thee corn, wine, or oil, the increase of thy cattle, or the young of thy flocks, until it have ruined thee.

52 And it will besiege thee in all thy gates, until thy high and strong walls come down, wherein thou trustest, throughout all thy land; and it will besiege thee in all thy gates throughout all thy land, which the LORD thy God hath given thee.

53 And thou shalt eat the fruit of thy own body, the flesh of thy sons and of thy daughters, whom the LORD thy God hath given thee, in the siege, and in the straitness, wherewith thy enemy will distress thee.

54 The man that is the most tender among thee, and who is very delicate,—his eye shall look enviously toward his brother, and toward the wife of his bosom, and toward the remnant of his children whom he may spare;

55 So as not to give to any of them of the flesh of his children which he may eat; because there is nothing left unto him, in the siege, and in the straitness, wherewith thy enemy will distress thee in all thy gates.

56 The woman, the most tender among thee, and the most delicate, who hath never adventured to set the sole of her foot upon the ground for delicateness and tenderness,—her eye shall look enviously toward the husband of her bosom, and toward her son, and toward her daughter,

57 And toward her young one that is come from between her feet, and toward her children which she hath born; for she shall eat them for want of every thing secretly, in the siege and in the straitness, wherewith thy enemy will distress thee in thy gates.

58 If thou wilt not observe to do all the words of this law which are written in this book;[a] to fear this glorious and fearful name, THE LORD THY GOD:

59 Then will the LORD render peculiar thy plagues, and the plagues of thy seed, plagues great, and of long continuance, and sicknesses sore, and of long continuance.

60 And he will bring back upon thee all the diseases of Egypt, of which thou wast afraid; and they shall cleave unto thee.

61 Also every sickness, and every plague which is not written in the book of this law, will the LORD bring upon thee, until thou be destroyed.

62 And ye shall be left but few in number, instead of that ye once were as the stars of heaven for multitude; because thou didst not hearken unto the voice of the LORD thy God.

63 And it shall come to pass, that, as the LORD rejoiced over you to do you good, and to multiply you, so will the LORD rejoice over you to bring you to nought, and to destroy you: and ye shall be plucked from off the land whither thou goest to possess it.

64 And the LORD will scatter thee among all the nations, from one end of the earth even unto the other end of the earth; and there wilt thou serve strange gods, which neither thou nor thy fathers have known, even wood and stone.

65 And among these nations shalt thou find no ease, and there shall not be any rest for the sole of thy foot: and the LORD will give thee there a trembling heart, and a failing of eyes, and a faintness of soul.

66 And thy life shall hang[b] in doubt before thee; and thou shalt be in dread day and night, and thou shalt have no confidence of thy life;

67 In the morning thou wilt say, Who would but grant that it were only evening! and at evening thou wilt say, Who would but grant that it were only morning! from the dread of thy heart which thou wilt experience, and from the sight of thy eyes which thou wilt see.

68 And the LORD will bring thee back to Egypt in ships, by the way whereof I have spoken unto thee, Thou shalt no more see it again: and there will ye offer yourselves[c] for sale unto your enemies for bond-men and bond-women, without any one to buy you.

69[d] ¶ These are the words of the covenant, which the LORD commanded Moses to make with the children of Israel in the land of Moäb, besides the covenant which he had made with them in Horeb.*

CHAPTER XXIX.

1 ¶ And Moses called unto all Israel, and said unto them, Ye yourselves have seen all that the LORD hath done before your eyes in the land of Egypt unto Pharaoh, and unto all his servants, and unto all his land;

It is a faithful adherence to the law which alone could build up our state, as the reverse is the only thing which could give our enemies the victory over us.

4 And I have led you forty years in the wilderness; your clothes did not fall worn out from off you, and thy shoe did not fall worn out from off thy foot.

6 And when ye came unto this place, Sichon the king of Cheshbon, and Og the king of Bashan went out against us unto battle, and we smote them:

8 Keep ye therefore the words of this covenant, and do them, that ye may prosper in all that ye do.

SECTION LI. NITZABIM, נצבים.

9 ¶ Ye are standing this day, all of you, before the LORD your God; your heads of your tribes, your elders, and your officers, all the men of Israel,

10 Your little ones, your wives, and thy stranger that is in the midst of thy camp, from the hewer of thy wood unto the drawer of thy water:

11 That thou shouldst enter into the covenant of the LORD thy God, and into his oath of denunciation, which the LORD thy God maketh with thee this day.*

12 In order to raise thee up to-day unto himself for a people, and that he may be unto thee a God, as he hath spoken unto thee, and as he hath sworn unto thy fathers, to Abraham, to Isaac, and to Jacob.

13 And not with you alone do I make this covenant and this oath;

14 But with him that is standing here with us this day before the LORD our God, and with him that is not here with us this day.*

15 (For ye know how we dwelt in the land of Egypt; and how we passed through the nations through which ye have passed;

16 And ye saw their abominations, and their idols, of wood and stone, silver and gold, which they had with them:)

17 So[b] that there may not be among you a man, or a woman, or a family, or a tribe, whose heart turneth away this day from the LORD our God, to go to serve the gods of these nations; that there may not be among you a root that beareth abundantly poison and wormwood.

18 And it might come to pass, when he heareth the words of this denunciation, that he would bless himself in his heart, saying, There will be peace unto me, though I walk in the stubbornness of my heart; in order that the indulgence[c] of the passions may appease the thirst (for them):

19 The LORD will not pardon him; but then the anger of the LORD and his jealousy will smoke[d] against that man, and there shall rest upon him all the curse that is written in this book; and the LORD will blot out his name from under the heavens.

20 And the LORD will single him out unto evil out of all the tribes of Israel, according to all the denunciations of the covenant which is written in this book of the law.

21 And the latest generation, your children that will rise up after you, and the stranger that will come from a far land, will say, when they see the plagues of that land,

[a] Despite of the many proofs of God's mercy the people had obtained, they were yet wavering in their faith.

[b] The reaffirmation of the covenant, with the oath of denunciation (above, xxvii. 15–26) for transgression now superadded, was for the purpose of impressing the more strongly the necessity of obedience upon the people, so that there might not be one individual or family, who, in daring carelessness, would offend against the will of the LORD, seeing that he himself had bound his soul with the covenant into which he and all Israel had voluntarily entered.—This verse connects with verse 14.

[c] After Aruheim, who renders כפות with "to appease," "to still;" רוה from the Aramaic רוי "drunkenness," "violent indulgence;" and צמאה "thirst," "desire;" and means then, that he will continue to indulge in unlawful desires, forgetful of the command of God, simply because his own will is stubborn, and he is careless about yielding obedience. Philippson renders כפות with "to increase;" thus, "so that the drunkenness should yet farther increase the thirst; i. e. for greater indulgence. שרות Aruheim derives for שרר "fast, firm," hence, "security."

[d] This expression is taken from the effects of strong anger in a man, which is seen in the smoke coming out of his nostrils; and is only used to personify the results of wilful disobedience to God's will. "Jealousy" then represents the consequence of slighted affection which the mortal should feel for his heavenly Father, who both deserves and expects love and obedience from his creatures.

and its sufferings with which the LORD hath smitten it;

22 (That) the whole soil thereof is brimstone, and salt, and a burning waste, which is not sown, and beareth not, and in which no kind of grass springeth up, like the overthrow of Sodom, and Gomorrah, Admah, and Zeboyim which the LORD overthrew in his anger, and in his wrath:—

23 Even all the nations will say, Wherefore hath the LORD done thus unto this land? whence the heat of this great anger?

24 Then shall men say, Because they had forsaken the covenant of the LORD, the God of their fathers, which he made with them when he brought them forth out of the land of Egypt;

25 And they went and served other gods, and bowed down to them, gods which they knew not, and which he had not assigned[a] unto them;

26 And the anger of the LORD was kindled against this land, to bring upon it the entire curse that is written in this book;

27 And the LORD plucked them out of their land in anger, and in wrath, and in great indignation, and he cast them into another land, as it is this day.

28 The secret things belong unto the LORD our God; but those things which are publicly known belong unto us and to our children for ever, to do all the words of this law.*

CHAPTER XXX.

1 ¶ And it shall come to pass, when all these things are come upon thee, the blessing and the curse, which I have set before thee, and thou reflectest on them in thy heart among all the nations, whither the LORD thy God hath driven thee,

2 So that thou returnest unto the LORD thy God, and hearkenest unto his voice according to all that I command this day, thou and thy children, with all thy heart, and with all thy soul:

3 That then the LORD thy God will restore thy captivity, and have mercy upon thee; and he will again gather thee from all the nations, whither the LORD thy God hath scattered thee.

4 If thy outcasts be at the outmost parts of heaven, from there will the LORD thy God gather thee, and from there will he fetch thee:

5 And the LORD thy God will bring thee into the land which thy fathers possessed, and thou shalt possess it; and he will do thee good, and multiply thee above thy fathers.

6 And the LORD thy God will circumcise thy heart, and the heart of thy seed, to love the LORD thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, in order that thou mayest live.*

7 And the LORD thy God will put all these denunciations upon thy enemies, and on those that hate thee, who have persecuted thee.

8 And thou wilt return and hearken unto the voice of the Lord, and thou wilt do all his commandments which I command thee this day.

9 And the LORD thy God will make thee pre-eminent[b] in every work of thy hand, in the fruit of thy body, and in the fruit of thy cattle, and in the fruit of thy land, for good; for the LORD will again rejoice over thee for good, as he rejoiced over thy fathers;

10 If[c] thou wilt hearken unto the voice of the LORD thy God, to keep his commandments and his statutes which are written in this book of the law; if thou wilt return unto the LORD thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul.*

11 ¶ For this commandment which I command thee this day, is not hidden from thee, nor is it far off.

12 It is not in heaven; that thou shouldst say, Who will go up for us to heaven, and fetch it down unto us, and cause us to hear it, that we may do it?

13 Neither is it beyond the sea; that thou shouldst say, Who will go over the sea for us, and fetch it unto us, and cause us to hear it, that we may do it?

14 But the word is very nigh unto thee,

[a] Our religion points out to us how we are to worship; consequently idolatry being interdicted, is properly a species of worship not assigned to us by God.

[b] והותירך from יתר "more;" therefore in Hiphil, "to make one more or greater than another," "to distinguish one for something." (See also above, xxviii. 11.)

[c] All the blessings must be earned by obedience in the first instance; and when they have been forfeited by sin, they can only be recovered through a perfect return unto God with all the heart and all the soul. This is the only condition pointed out to us in this beautiful passage.

in thy month, and in thy heart, that thou mayest do it.*

15 ¶ See, I have set before thee this day life and the good, death and the evil;

16 In that I command thee this day to love the LORD thy God, to walk in his ways, and to keep his commandments and his statutes and his ordinances; that thou mayest live and multiply; and that the LORD thy God may bless thee in the land whither thou goest to possess it.

17 But if thy heart turn away, so that thou wilt not hearken, and thou sufferest thyself to be drawn away, and thou bowest down to other gods, and servest them:*

18 I announce unto you this day, that ye shall surely perish; ye shall not remain many days upon the land, whither thou passest over the Jordan to go thither to possess it.

19 I call heaven and earth as witnesses against you this day, that I have set before you life[a] and death, the blessing and the curse; therefore choose thou life, in order that thou mayest live, both thou and thy seed;

20 To love the LORD thy God, to hearken to his voice, and to cleave unto him; for he is thy life, and the length of thy days; that thou mayest dwell in the land which the LORD swore unto thy fathers, to Abraham, to Isaac, and to Jacob, to give unto them.

Haphtorah in Isaiah lxi. 10 to lxiii. 9.

SECTION LII. VAYELECH, וַיֵּלֶךְ.

CHAPTER XXXI.

1 ¶ And Moses went and spoke these words unto all Israel.

2 And he said unto them, I am a hundred and twenty years old this day; I am not able any more to go out and come in; for[b] the LORD hath said unto me, Thou shalt not go over this Jordan.

3 The LORD thy God it is who goeth over before thee; he will destroy these nations from before thee, and thou shalt dispossess them: Joshua it is who goeth over before thee, as the LORD hath spoken.*

4 And the LORD will do unto them as he hath done to Sichon and to Og, the kings of the Emorites, and unto their land, whom he hath destroyed.

5 And the LORD will give them up before you; and ye shall do unto them according unto the whole of the commandment which I have commanded you.

6 Be strong and of a good courage, be not afraid and be not dismayed on account of them; for the LORD thy God it is that goeth with thee; he will not let thee fail, nor forsake thee.*

7 ¶ And Moses called unto Joshua, and said unto him before the eyes of all Israel, Be strong and of a good courage; for thou must go with this people unto the land which the LORD hath sworn unto their fathers to give unto them; and thou shalt divide it for them as a possession.

8 And the LORD it is that goeth before thee; he will be with thee, he will not let thee fail, nor will he forsake thee: fear not, nor be thou discouraged.

9 And Moses wrote down this law, and delivered it unto the priests the sons of Levi, who bore the ark of the covenant of the LORD, and unto all the elders of Israel.*

10 And Moses commanded them, saying, At the end of (every) seven[c] years, at the fixed time of the year of release, on the feast of tabernacles,

11 When all Israel come to appear before the LORD thy God in the place which he will choose, shalt thou read this law in the presence of all Israel in their hearing.

12 Assemble the people together, the men, and the women, and the children, and thy stranger that is within thy gates; in order that they may hear, and in order that they may learn how they are to fear the LORD

[a] Life is the sure recompense of goodness, death that of evil; and as God loves mercy, he counsels man to choose goodness, in order that he may live.

[b] Literally, "and;" but Rashi explains correctly that the reason why Moses could no longer be the leader of the people was not physical weakness, which is contradicted by xxxiv. 7; but the will of God that he should not go over the Jordan.

[c] At the Feast of Tabernacles succeeding the release year, as it is explained by our authorities. It was then that the chief of the people was to read the law in the hearing of all; since all had an equal interest in the same, and all were bound to give it strict obedience. Religious instruction should therefore in our day also be imparted to all who belong to the house of Israel, whether they be male or female, young or old.

your God, and observe to do all the words of this law;

13 And that their children, who have not yet any knowledge, may hear, and learn to fear the LORD your God, all the days which ye live in the land whither ye go over the Jordan to possess it.*

14 ¶ And the LORD said unto Moses, Behold, thy days approach that thou must die; call Joshua, and place yourselves in the tabernacle of the congregation, that I may give him a charge:[a] and Moses and Joshua went, and placed themselves in the tabernacle of the congregation.

15 And the LORD appeared in the tabernacle in a pillar of cloud; and the pillar of cloud stood at the door of the tabernacle.

16 And the LORD said unto Moses, Behold, thou shalt sleep with thy fathers: and then will this people rise up, and go astray after the gods of the strangers of the land, whither they go to be in the midst of them, and they will forsake me, and break my covenant which I have made with them.

17 And my anger shall be kindled against them on that day, and I will forsake them, and I will hide my face from them, and they shall be given to be devoured, and many evils and troubles shall overtake them; and they will say on that day, Is it not, because my God is not in the midst of me, that these evils have overtaken me?

18 But I will assuredly hide my face on that day on account of all the evils which they have wrought, because they have turned unto other gods.

19 Now therefore write ye for yourselves this song, and teach it the children of Israel, put it in their mouth; in order that this song may become for me a witness against the children of Israel.*

20 For when I shall have brought them into the land which I have sworn unto their fathers, that floweth with milk and honey; and they shall have eaten and filled themselves, and grown fat: then will they turn unto other gods, and serve them, and provoke me, and break my covenant.

21 And it shall come to pass, when many evils and troubles have befallen them, that this song shall testify against them as a witness; for it shall not be forgotten out of the mouth of their seed;[b] for I know their inclination[c] which they have shown, even this day, before I have brought them into the land which I have sworn.

22 And Moses wrote down this song on the same day, and taught it the children of Israel.

23 And he[d] gave a charge unto Joshua the son of Nun, and said, Be strong and of a good courage; for thou shalt bring the children of Israel into the land which I have sworn unto them; and I will be with thee.

24 And it came to pass, when Moses had made an end of writing the words of this law in a book, until they were finished,*

25 That Moses commanded the Levites, the bearers of the ark of the covenant of the LORD, saying,

26 Take this book of the law, and put it at the side of the ark of the covenant of the LORD your God, that it may remain there against thee for a witness.

27 For I know thy rebellion, and thy stiff neck: behold, while I am yet alive with you this day, have ye been rebellious against the LORD, and how much more after my death?*

28 Assemble unto me all the elders of your tribes, and your officers; and I will speak in their ears these words, and I will call as witnesses against them the heavens and the earth.

29 For I know that after my death ye will to a surety become corrupt, and turn aside from the way which I have commanded you; and that the evil will befall you in the latter days, when ye do the evil in the eyes of the LORD, to incense him through the work of your hands.

[a] This refers to verse 23, where it says, "And he gave a charge to Joshua, &c." As Joshua was to succeed Moses, it was proper that the Spirit should speak with him in the presence of his teacher; so that the people might respect him.

[b] A promise that the law shall never be forgotten, which has been signally fulfilled.

[c] "The song shall, through the predictions it contains, be an evidence that their sinful life was already present before me, before they had yet taken possession of the promised land."—ARNHEIM. Aben Ezra comments, "For if I did not know the future, I know already what they have done till now;" taking יצר in its literal sense, "to make," not as in our version after Arnheim, "show," which then refers to "inclination."

[d] This refers to "God." (See above, verse 14.)

30 And Moses spoke in the ears of all the congregation of Israel the words of this song, until they were ended.

SECTION LIII. HAAZEENU, האזינו.

CHAPTER XXXII.

1 ¶ Give ear, O ye heavens, and I will speak; and let the earth hear the words of my mouth.

2 My doctrine shall drop as the rain, my speech shall distil as the dew, as heavy rains upon the grass, and as showers upon herbs.

3 When I call on the name of the LORD, ascribe ye greatness unto our God.

4 He is the Rock, his work is perfect; for all his ways are just: the God of truth and without iniquity, just and upright is he.

5 The corruption is not his,[a] it is the defect of his children, of the perverse and crooked generation.

6 Will ye thus requite the LORD, O people, worthless and unwise? is he not thy father who hath bought thee? is it not he who hath made thee, and established thee?*

7 Remember the days of old, consider the years of former generations; ask thy father, and he will tell thee; thy elders, and they will say it unto thee:

8 When the Most High divided to the nations their inheritance, when he separated the sons of man: he set the bounds of the tribes[b] according to the number of the sons of Israel.

9 For the portion of the LORD is his people; Jacob is the lot of his inheritance.

10 He found him in a desert land, and in the waste of the howling of the wilderness; he encircled him, he watched him, he guarded him as the apple of his eye.

11 As an eagle stirreth up his nest, fluttereth over his young, spreadeth abroad his wings, seizeth them, beareth them aloft on his pinions:

12 So did the LORD alone lead him, and there was not with him a stranger god.*

13 He caused him to stride on the high places of the earth, and he ate the products of the fields; and he made him to suck honey out of the rock, and oil out of the flinty stone;

14 Cream of cows, and milk of sheep, with fat of lambs, and rams of the breed of Bashan, and goats, with the fat of the kidneys[c] of wheat; and of the blood of the grape thou drankest unmixed wine.

15 Thus did Yeshurun grow fat, and he kicked; (thou art grown fat, thick, fleshy;) and then he forsook the God who made him, and lightly esteemed the Rock of his salvation.

16 They incensed him with strange gods, with abominations they provoked him to anger.

17 They sacrificed unto evil spirits, things that are not god, gods that they knew not, new ones lately come up, which your fathers dreaded not.

18 Of the Rock that begat thee thou wast unmindful, and forgottest the God that had brought thee forth.*

19 And the LORD saw this, and he was angry; because of the provoking of his sons and of his daughters.

20 And he said, I will hide my face from them, I will see what their end will be; for a perverse generation are they, children in whom there is no faith.

21 They have moved me to wrath with things that are not god; they have provoked me to anger with their vanities; and I too will move them to jealousy with those which are not a people; I will provoke them to anger with a worthless nation.

22 For a fire is kindled in my anger, and it burneth unto the lowest deep; and it consumeth the earth with her products, and it setteth on fire the foundations of the mountains.

23 I will heap upon them miseries; all my arrows will I spend upon them.

[a] The sinning of Israel is not a blemish upon the goodness of God: he gave them a law which would render them happy; but they chose sin and its subsequent sorrows.

[b] Established twelve tribes from the twelve sons of Israel.

[c] "An image borrowed from the shape of the wheat, for 'fine flour.'"

24 They shall be wasted with hunger, and devoured with burning heat, and with bitter deadly disease; also the tooth of beasts will I let loose against them, with the poison of serpents that crawl in the dust.

25 Without shall the sword destroy, and terror within the chambers, both the young man and the virgin, the suckling with the man of gray hairs.

26 I said, I would drive them into one corner,[a] I would cause their remembrance to cease from among men:

27 Were it not that I feared the wrath of the enemy, lest their oppressors should mistake the truth, lest they should say, Our hand is high, and the LORD hath not wrought all this.

28 For a nation void of counsel are they, and there is no understanding in them.*

29 If they were but wise, they would understand this, they would consider their latter end!

30 How should one chase a thousand, and two put ten thousand to flight, unless their Rock had sold them, and the LORD had delivered them up?

31 For not as our Rock is their rock, even our enemies themselves being judges.

32 For from the vine of Sodom is their vine, and from the fields of Gomorrah; their grapes are grapes of gall, they bear bitter clusters.

33 The poison of serpents is their wine, and the deadly[b] venom of asps.

34 Behold! this is laid up in store with me, it is sealed up among my treasures!

35 Mine are vengeance and recompense, at the time that their foot shall slip; for nigh draweth the day of their calamity, and the future speedeth along for them.

36 For the LORD will espouse the cause of his people, and bethink himself concerning his servants: when he seeth that their power is gone, and the guarded and fortified are no more.

37 Then will he say, Where are their gods the rock in whom they trusted, 38 They[c] that ate the fat of their sacrifices, and drank the wine of their drink-offerings? let them arise and help you, let them be a protection over you.

39 See now that I, even I, am he, and there is no god with me: I alone kill, and I make alive; I wound, and I heal; and no one can deliver out of my hand.*

40 For I lift up my hand to heaven, and say, I live for ever.[d]

41 When I whet my glittering sword, and my hand taketh hold on judgment:[e] I will render vengeance unto my enemies, and those that hate me will I requite.

42 I will make my arrows drunken with blood, and my sword shall devour flesh; from the blood of the slain and of the captives, from the crushed head of the enemy.

43 Speak aloud, O ye nations, the praises of his people; for he[f] will avenge the blood of his servants, and vengeance will he render to his adversaries, and forgive his land, and his people.*

44 ¶ And Moses came and spoke all the words of this song in the ears of the people, he, and Hosheä the son of Nun.

45 And when Moses had made an end of speaking all these words to all Israel:

46 He said unto them, Set your hearts unto all the words which I testify against you this day, so that ye may command them your children, to observe to do all the words of this law.

47 For it is not a vain word for you; on the contrary, it is your life; and through this word shall ye live many days in the land, whither ye go over the Jordan to possess it.*

48 ¶ And the LORD spoke unto Moses on that self-same day, saying,

49 Get thee up into this mountain of 'Abarim, unto mount Nebo, which is in the land of Moäb, that is in front of Jericho; and be-

[a] Rashi; others render, "I would make an end of them;" others, "scatter them."

[b] Lit. "Cruel," "unpitying;" hence, "fatal in its effects," here, "deadly."

[c] After Rashi. Arnheim renders, "The fat of whose sacrifices they ate, the wine of whose drink-offerings they drank?"

[d] Arnheim views this not as an oath, but merely as a declaration that the display of the Divine power will convince the heathens that the LORD God lives for ever.

[e] Arnheim renders משפט "the instrument of punishment," or that by which the judgment or sentence of the judge is executed.

[f] Aben Ezra refers "he" to people, and would give, "It will avenge the blood of his (God's) servents and render vengeance to its enemies—and his people will atone for his land."

hold the land of Canaan, which I give unto the children of Israel for a possession;

50 And die on the mount whither thou goest up, and be gathered unto thy people; as Aaron thy brother died on mount Hor, and was gathered unto his people;

51 Because ye trespassed against me in the midst of the children of Israel at the waters of contention at Kadesh, in the wilderness of Zin; because ye sanctified me not in the midst of the children of Israel.

52 For from afar shalt thou see the land; but thither shalt thou not go unto the land which I give the children of Israel.

SECT. LIV. VEZOTH HABERACHAH, וזאת הברכה.

CHAPTER XXXIII.

1 ¶ And this is the blessing, wherewith Moses, the man of God, blessed the children of Israel before his death.

2 And he said, The LORD came from Sinai, and rose up from Seïr unto them: he shone forth from mount Paran, and he came from among myriads of saints; from his right hand he gave a fiery law unto them.

3 Yea, thou also lovedst the tribes; all their saints were in thy hand; and they, prostrate before thy feet, received thy words.[a]

4 "The[b] law which Moses commanded us, is the inheritance of the congregation of Jacob."

5 Thus became he king in Yeshurun, when the heads of the people were assembled, as one the tribes of Israel.

6 May Reüben live, and not die; and may not his men be few.

7 ¶ And this is (the blessing) of Judah, and he said, Hear, LORD, the voice of Judah, and bring him unto his people: let the power of his hands contend[c] for him; and be thou a help to him from his adversaries.[*]

8 ¶ And of Levi he said, Thy Thummim[d] and thy Urim are with thy holy man, whom thou didst prove at Massah, and with whom thou didst strive at the waters of Meribah;

9 Who said of his father and of his mother, I have not seen him; and who did not acknowledge his brothers, nor regarded his own children; for they observe thy word, and thy covenant they keep.

10 They shall teach thy ordinances unto Jacob, and thy law unto Israel: they shall put incense before[e] thee, and whole burnt-sacrifice upon thy altar.

11 Bless, O LORD, his substance, and receive favourably the work of his hands: crush the loins of those that rise up against him, and those that hate him, that they cannot rise again.

12 ¶ And of Benjamin he said, The beloved of the LORD (is he), he shall dwell in safety by him: he will shield him all the day long, and between his shoulders will he dwell.[*]

13 ¶ And of Joseph he said, Blessed of the LORD be his land, through the precious gift of heaven, through the dew, and through the deep that coucheth beneath,

14 And through the precious fruits brought forth by the sun, and through the precious things put forth by the moon,

15 And through the best things of the ancient mountains, and through the precious things of the everlasting hills,

16 And through the precious things of the earth and its fulness, and through the good-will of him that dwelt in the thorn-bush: may this blessing come upon the head of Joseph, and upon the crown of the head of him that was separated from his brothers.

17 His first-born steer is adorned with glory, and his horns are like the horns of reëm;[f] with them shall he push nations to

[a] Arnheim translates this verse: "He also bore the tribes on his bosom, all his (Israel's) saints were in thy hand; but they were stretched out at thy feet, and trembled at thy word."

[b] Rashi comments, that these are the words which the people spoke.

[c] After Targum and Rashi; and it means then, that Judah may be blessed with the means of contending against his opponents. Others, such as Aben Ezra and the English version, translate, "let his hands be sufficient for him." Arnheim renders the concluding portion, "and may they (the hands) be a help," &c.

[d] "Thy justice and thy light are," &c.—ARNHEIM and PHILIPPSON.

[e] Lit. "In thy nose," to wit, "as an agreeable savour."

[f] "Buffalo."—PHILIPPSON. But in this version it is left untranslated, from the uncertainty of the derivation.

gether to the ends of the earth: and they are the myriads of Ephraim, and they are the thousands of Menasseh.*

18 ¶ And of Zebulun he said, Rejoice, Zebulun, in thy going out; and, Issachar, in thy tents.

19 They will call the tribes unto the mountain; there will they offer sacrifices of righteousness; for they will suck the abundance of the seas, and the treasures hid in the sand.

20 ¶ And of Gad he said, Blessed[a] be he that enlargeth Gad: like a lioness lieth he down, and teareth off the arm with the crown of the head.

21 And he provided the first part for himself, because there is the field of the lawgiver, of the hidden;[b] and he went forth at the head of the people: he executed the justice[c] of the LORD, and his judgments with Israel.*

22 ¶ And of Dan he said, Dan is a lion's whelp, that leapeth forth from Bashan.

23 And of Naphtali he said, O Naphtali, satisfied with favour, and full of the blessing of the LORD, take thou possession of the west and the south.

24 ¶ And of Asher he said, More than (all) the children be Asher blessed: he shall be the most favoured of his brethren, and bathe his foot in oil.

25 Iron and copper shall be thy bolts; and as thy (younger) days[d] so shall thy old age be.

26 There is none like unto the God of Yeshurun, who rideth to help thee upon the heavens, and in his excellency upon the skies.*

27 Thy refuge[e] is the eternal God, and here beneath, the everlasting arms; and he thrust out the enemy from before thee; and he said, Destroy.

28 And then dwelt Israel in safety, alone, the fountain of Jacob; in a land of corn and wine; also its heavens shall drop down dew.

29 Happy art thou, O Israel! who is like unto thee, O people, saved by the LORD, the Shield of thy help, and who is the Sword of thy excellency! and thy enemies shall fawn upon thee; and thou shalt tread upon their high-places.*

CHAPTER XXXIV.

1 ¶ And Moses went up from the plains of Moäb unto the mount of Nebo, to the top of Pisgah, that is before Jericho; and the LORD showed him all the land (from) Gil'ad unto Dan,

2 And all Naphtali, and the land of Ephraim, and Menasseh, and all the land of Judah, unto the western sea.

3 And the south, and the plain, the valley of Jericho, the city of palm-trees, unto Zoär.

4 And the LORD said unto him, This is the land which I swore unto Abraham, unto Isaac, and unto Jacob, saying, Unto thy seed will I give it: I have let thee see it with thy eyes, but thither shalt thou not go over.

5 And Moses the servant of the LORD died there in the land of Moäb, according to the order of the LORD.

6 And he buried him in the valley in the land of Moäb, opposite Beth-peör; but no man knoweth of his sepulchre unto this day.

7 And Moses was a hundred and twenty years old when he died; his eye was not dimmed, and his natural force had not abated.

8 And the children of Israel wept for Moses in the plains of Moäb thirty days; and then were ended the days of weeping and mourning for Moses.

9 And Joshua the son of Nun was full of the spirit of wisdom; for Moses had laid his hands upon him; and the children of Israel hearkened unto him, and did, as the LORD had commanded Moses.

10 And there arose not a prophet since then in Israel like unto Moses, whom the LORD knew face to face,

11 In respect to all the signs and the wonders, which the LORD had sent him to do in the land of Egypt to Pharaoh, and to all his servants, and to all his land, 12 And in respect to all that mighty hand, and in all the great terrific deeds which Moses displayed before the eyes of all Israel.

CHAPTER I.

1 ¶ And it came to pass after the death of Moses, the servant of the Lord, that the Lord spoke unto Joshua[a] the son of Nun, the minister of Moses, saying,

2 Moses my servant is dead; now therefore arise, pass over this Jordan, thou, and all this people, unto the land which I do give to them, to the children of Israel.

3 Every place that the sole of your foot shall tread upon, that have I given unto you, as I said unto Moses.

4 From[b] the wilderness and this Lebanon even unto the great river, the river Euphrates, all the land of the Hittites, and unto the great sea toward the going down of the sun, shall be your boundary.

5 No man shall be able to stand up before thee all the days of thy life; as I was with Moses, so will I be with thee: I will not let thee fail, nor forsake thee.

6 Be strong and of a good courage; for thou shalt divide for an inheritance unto this people the land, which I swore unto their fathers to give to them.

7 Only be thou strong and very courageous, to observe to do according to all the law, which Moses my servant hath commanded thee: turn not from it to the right hand or to the left; in order that thou mayest prosper whithersoever thou goest.

8 This book of the law shall not depart out of thy mouth; but thou shalt meditate therein day and night, in order that thou mayest observe to do according to all that is written therein; for then shalt thou make thy way prosperous, and then shalt thou have good success.

9 Behold,[a] I have commanded thee, Be strong and of good courage; be not dismayed, neither be thou discouraged; for the Lord thy God is with thee withersoever thou goest.

10 ¶ Then Joshua commanded the officers of the people, saying,

11 Pass through the midst of the camp, and command the people, saying, Prepare yourselves provisions; for after only three days more ye shall pass over this Jordan, to go in to possess the land, which the Lord your God giveth you, to possess it.

12 ¶ And to the Reübenites, and to the Gadites, and to half the tribe of Menasseh, spoke Joshua, saying,

13 Remember the word which Moses the servant of the Lord commanded you, saying, The Lord your God hath granted you rest, and hath given you this land;

14 Your wives, your little ones, and your cattle, shall remain in the land which Moses gave you on this side of the Jordan; but ye shall pass over armed before your brethren, all the mighty men of valour, and help them;

15 Until the Lord shall have granted your brethren rest, as he hath done to you, and they also have taken possession of the land which the Lord your God giveth them: then shall ye return unto the land of your possession, and possess it, which Moses the servant of the Lord gave you on this side of the Jordan, toward the rising of the sun.

CHAPTER II.

1 ¶ And Joshua, the son of Nun, had sent[a] out from Shittim two men as spies, secretly, saying, Go ye, view the land and especially Jericho; and they went, and came unto the house of a woman, a harlot, whose name was Rachab, and they lodged[b] there.

2 And it was told unto the king of Jericho, saying, Behold, men came in hither this night, of the children of Israel, to search out the country.

3 And the king of Jericho sent to Rachab, saying, Bring forth the men who are come to thee, who came to thy house; for, to search out all the country are they come.

4 But the woman had taken the two men, and hidden them; and she said, It is true, the men came unto me, but I knew not whence they were.

5 And it came to pass, about the time of shutting the gate, when it was dark, that the men went out; I know not whither the men are gone: pursue quickly after them, for ye can overtake them.

6 But she had brought them up to the roof, and had hidden them among the stalks of flax, which she had laid in order upon the roof.

7 And the men pursued after them, by the way to the Jordan unto the fords; and the gate was closed, as soon as those who pursued after them were gone out.

8 But they had not yet laid themselves down, when she came up unto them upon the roof.

9 And she said unto the men, I know that the LORD hath given you the land, and that the terror of you hath fallen upon us, and that all the inhabitants of the land are become faint-hearted, because of you.

10 For we have heard, how that the LORD dried up the waters of the Red Sea before you, when ye went forth out of Egypt; and what ye have done unto the two kings of the Emorites, who were on the other side of the Jordan, unto Sichon and Og, whom ye have utterly destroyed.

11 And when we heard this, our heart melted, and there remained not any more courage in any man, because of you; for the LORD your God[c] is alone God in the heavens above, and upon the earth beneath.

12 And now swear, I pray you, unto me by the LORD, because I have shown you kindness, that ye will also, for your part, show kindness, unto my father's house; and give me a sure token, 13 That ye will preserve the life of my father, and my mother, and my brothers, and my sisters, and all that they have, and deliver our lives from death.

14 And the men said unto her, Our life shall be (doomed) to death instead of yours, if ye tell not this our business; and it shall be, when the LORD giveth us the land, that we will show thee kindness and truth.

15 Then she let them down by a cord through the window; for her house was within the town wall, and within the wall she dwelt.

16 And she said unto them, Get you to the mountain, lest the pursuers meet with you; and hide yourselves there three days, until the pursuers be returned; and afterward ye may go your way.

17 And the men said unto her, We will be blameless[d] of this thy oath which thou hast caused us to swear.

18 Behold, when we come into the land, this line of scarlet thread shalt thou bind in the window by which thou hast let us down; and thy father, and thy mother, and thy brothers, and all thy father's household, thou must bring together unto thee into the house.

19 And it shall be, that whosoever will go out of the doors of thy house into the street, his blood shall be upon his head, and we will be guiltless; and whosoever will remain with thee in the house, his blood shall be on our head, if a hand be laid upon him.

20 And if thou tell this our business, then will we be free of thy oath which thou hast caused us to swear.

21 And she said, According unto your words, so be it; and she dismissed them, and they departed; and she bound the scarlet line in the window.

22 And they went, and came unto the mountain, and they remained there three days, until the pursuers were returned; and the pursuers sought throughout all the way, but found nothing.

23 And the two men returned, and descended from the mountain, and passed over, and came to Joshua the son of Nun, and related to him all the things that had befallen them.

24 And they said unto Joshua, Truly[a] the LORD hath given up into our hand all the country; for all the inhabitants of the country are already become faint-hearted because of us.

CHAPTER III.

1 ¶ And Joshua rose early in the morning; and they broke up from Shittim, and came close to the Jordan, he and all the children of Israel; and they lodged there before they passed over.

2 And it came to pass at the end of three days, that the officers passed through the midst of the camp.

3 And they commanded the people, saying, When ye see the ark of the covenant of the LORD your God, and the priests the Levites bearing it, then shall ye break up from your place, and go after it.

4 Nevertheless there shall be a space between you and it, of about two thousand cubits by measure: come not near unto it, in order that ye may know the way by which ye must go; for ye have not passed this way heretofore.[b]

5 ¶ And Joshua said unto the people, Sanctify yourselves;[c] for to-morrow will the LORD do wonders in the midst of you.

6 And Joshua said unto the priests, as followeth, Take up the ark of the covenant, and pass over before the people. And they took up the ark of the covenant, and went before the people.

7 ¶ And the LORD said unto Joshua, This day will I begin to make thee great in the eyes of all Israel, that they may know that, as I was with Moses, so will I be with thee.

8 And thou shalt command the priests that bear the ark of the covenant, saying, When ye are come to the brink of the waters of the Jordan, ye shall stand still in the Jordan.

9 ¶ And Joshua said unto the children of Israel, Approach hither, and hear the words of the LORD your God.

10 And Joshua said, Hereby shall ye know that the living God is in the midst of you, and that he will without fail drive out from before you the Canaanites, and the Hittites, and the Hivites, and the Perizzites, and the Girgashites, and the Emorites, and the Jebusites.

11 Behold, the ark of the covenant of the LORD of all the earth passeth over before you into the Jordan.

12 And now take yourselves twelve men out of the tribes of Israel, one man each out of every tribe.

13 And it shall come to pass, that as soon as the soles of the feet of the priests that bear the ark of the LORD, the Lord of all the earth, shall rest in the waters of the Jordan, the waters of the Jordan shall be cut off, namely, the waters that come down from above; and they shall stand up as a wall.

14 ¶ And it came to pass, when the people broke up from their tents, to pass over the Jordan, and the priests the bearers of the ark of the covenant were before the people;

15 And as they that bore the ark were come up to the Jordan, and the feet of the priests that bore the ark were dipped in the edge of the water, (the Jordan, however, had overflowed all its banks all the time of harvest,)

16 That the waters which came down from above stood still and rose up as a wall, very far[a] from the city Adam, which is beside Zarethan; and those that ran down toward the sea of the plain, the salt sea, failed,[b] were cut off; and the people passed over opposite to Jericho.

17 And the priests that bore the ark of the covenant of the LORD stood firm[c] on dry ground in the midst of the Jordan, and all the Israelites passed over on dry ground, until all the people had finished passing over the Jordan.

CHAPTER IV.

1 And it came to pass, when all the people had finished passing over the Jordan,

¶ That the LORD said unto Joshua, as followeth,

2 Take yourselves twelve men out of the people, one man each out of every tribe,

3 And command ye them, saying, Take yourselves hence out of the midst of the Jordan, out of the place where the priests' feet stood firmly, twelve stones, and ye shall carry them over with you, and leave them in the lodging-place, where ye will lodge this night.

4 ¶ Then did Joshua call the twelve men, whom he had appointed out of the children of Israel, one man each out of every tribe:

5 And Joshua said unto them, Pass over before the ark of the LORD your God into the midst of the Jordan, and take yourselves up every man one stone upon his shoulder, according unto the number of the tribes of the children of Israel;

6 In order that this may be a sign among you, when your children ask in time to come, saying, What mean ye by these stones?

7 That ye shall answer them, That the waters of the Jordan were cut off before the ark of the covenant of the LORD; when it passed over the Jordan, the waters of the Jordan were cut off; and these stones shall be for a memorial unto the children of Israel for ever.

8 And the children of Israel did so as Joshua had commanded; and they took up twelve stones out of the midst of the Jordan, as the LORD had spoken unto Joshua, according to the number of the tribes of the children of Israel; and they carried them over with them unto the place where they lodged, and laid them down there.

9 Twelve stones also did Joshua set up in the midst of the Jordan, on the spot where the feet of the priests who bore the ark of the covenant had stood: and they have remained there unto this day.

10 But the priests who bore the ark stood in the midst of the Jordan, until every thing was finished that the LORD had commanded Joshua to speak unto the people, according to all that Moses had commanded Joshua; and the people hastened and passed over.

11 And it came to pass, when all the people had finished passing over, that the ark of the LORD passed over with the priests in the presence of the people.[d]

12 And the children of Reüben, and the children of Gad, and the half tribe of Menasseh, passed over armed before the children of Israel, as Moses had spoken unto them:

13 About forty thousand ready armed for war,[e] did they pass over before the LORD unto battle, to the plains of Jericho.

14 ¶ On that day the LORD made Joshua great in the eyes of all Israel; and they feared him, as they had feared Moses, all the days of his life.

15 ¶ And the LORD said unto Joshua, as followeth,

16 Command the priests that bear the ark of the testimony, that they come up out of the Jordan.

17 And Joshua commanded the priests, saying, Come ye up out of the Jordan.

18 And it came to pass, when the priests that bore the ark of the covenant of the LORD were come up out of the midst of the Jordan, the soles of the feet of the priests were lifted up unto the dry land, that the waters of the Jordan returned unto their place, and flowed over all its banks, as on the preceding days.

19 And the people came up out of the Jordan on the tenth day of the first month, and encamped in Gilgal, on the extreme eastern border of Jericho.

20 And those twelve stones, which they had taken out of the Jordan, did Joshua set up in Gilgal.

21 And he said unto the children of Israel, thus, When your children shall ask in time to come their fathers, saying, What mean these stones?

22 Then shall ye let your children know, saying, On dry land did Israel pass over this Jordan;

23 That the LORD your God dried up the waters of the Jordan from before you, until ye were passed over, as the LORD your God did to the Red Sea, which he dried up from before us, until we were gone over;

24 In order that all the nations of the earth may know the hand of the LORD, that it is mighty; in order that ye may fear the LORD your God all the days.

CHAPTER V.

1 ¶ And it came to pass, when all the kings of the Emorites, who were on the side of the Jordan westward, and all the kings of the Canaanites, who were by the sea, heard that the LORD had dried up the waters of the Jordan from before the children of Israel, until they were passed over, that their heart melted, and there remained no more any courage in them, because of the children of Israel.

2 ¶ At that time the LORD said unto Joshua, Make thee sharp knives,[a] and circumcise again[b] the children of Israel the second time.

3 And Joshua made himself sharp knives, and circumcised the children of Israel at the hill of 'Araloth.

4 And this is the cause why Joshua did circumcise: All the people that came out of Egypt, the males, all the men of war, died in the wilderness on the way, after their going forth out of Egypt.

5 For all the people that came out were circumcised; but all the people that were born in the wilderness on the way at their going forth out of Egypt, they had not circumcised.

6 For during forty years the children of Israel wandered in the wilderness, till there was an end of all the people, the men of war, who were come out of Egypt, who had not obeyed the voice of the LORD; unto whom the LORD had sworn that he would not let them see the land, which the LORD had sworn unto their fathers that he would give unto us, a land flowing with milk and honey.

7 But their children he raised up in their stead: these did Joshua circumcise; for they were uncircumcised, because they had not circumcised them on the way.

8 And it came to pass, when the whole people had all been circumcised, that they abode in their places in the camp till they were healed.

9 ¶ And the LORD said unto Joshua, This day have I rolled away the reproach of Egypt from off you. And he called the name of the place Gilgal[c] unto this day.

10 And the children of Israel encamped in Gilgal, and they prepared the passover-offering on the fourteenth day of the month at evening in the plains of Jericho.

11 And they ate of the corn of the land on the morrow after the passover-offering, unleavened cakes and parched corn, on the self-same day.

12 And the manna ceased on the morrow after they had eaten of the corn of the land; and the children of Israel had not any more manna; but they did eat of the product of the land of Canaan during that year.

13 ¶ And it came to pass, when Joshua was by Jericho, that he lifted up his eyes and looked, and, behold, a man was standing over against him with his sword drawn in his hand; and Joshua went unto him, and said to him, Art thou for us, or for our adversaries?

14 And he said, No; for I am a captain of the host of the LORD: now am I come. And Joshua fell on his face to the earth, and bowed himself, and said to him, What doth my lord speak unto his servant?

15 And the captain of the LORD'S host said unto Joshua, Put off thy shoe from off thy foot; for the place whereon thou standest is holy. And Joshua did so.

CHAPTER VI.

1 Now Jericho was shut up, and barred up, because of the children of Israel: no one went out, and no one came in.

2 ¶ And the LORD said unto Joshua, See, I have given into thy hand Jericho and its king, even the mighty men of valour.

3 And ye shall compass the city, all the men of war, going round about the city once. Thus shalt thou do six days.

4 And seven priests shall bear before the ark seven cornets of rams' horns; and on the seventh day shall ye compass the city seven times, and the priests shall blow with the cornets.

5 And it shall come to pass, that, when they blow a long blast with the ram's horn, when ye hear the sound of the cornet all the people shall utter a great shout; and the wall of the city shall fall down flat,[a] and the people shall ascend up every man straight before him.

6 And Joshua the son of Nun called the priests, and said unto them, Take up the ark of the covenant, and let seven priests bear seven cornets of rams' horns before the ark of the LORD.

7 And he said unto the people, Pass on, and compass the city, and let the armed men pass on before the ark of the LORD.

8 And it came to pass, when Joshua had spoken unto the people, that the seven priests, bearing the seven cornets of rams' horns before the LORD, passed on and blew with the cornets; and the ark of the covenant of the LORD followed them.

9 And the armed men went before the priests that blew with the cornets, and the rereward came after the ark, going on, and blowing[b] with the cornets.

10 And Joshua had commanded the people, saying, Ye shall not shout, nor let your voice be heard, neither shall any word proceed out of your mouth, until the day I bid you, Shout; and then shall ye shout.

11 So the ark of the LORD compassed the city, going round it once; and they came into the camp, and lodged in the camp.

12 ¶ And Joshua rose early in the morning, and the priests took up the ark of the LORD.

13 And the seven priests bearing seven cornets of rams' horns before the ark of the LORD went on continually, and blew with the cornets; and the armed men went before them; and the rereward came after the ark of the LORD, going on, and blowing with the cornets.

14 And they compassed the city on the second day once, and returned into the camp: so did they six days.

15 And it came to pass on the seventh day, that they rose early about the dawning of the day, and compassed the city after this manner seven times; only on that day they compassed the city seven times.

16 And it came to pass at the seventh time, when the priest blew with the cornets, that Joshua' said unto the people, Shout; for the LORD hath given you the city.

17 And the city shall be devoted, it, and all that is therein, to the LORD: only Rachab the harlot shall live, she and all that are with her in the house; because she did hide the messengers that we sent.

18 But ye, keep yourselves from the devoted things, lest ye devote and yet take of the devoted things, and make the camp of Israel a curse, and trouble it.

19 And all the silver, and gold, and vessels of copper and iron, shall be holy unto the LORD: into the treasury of the LORD shall they come.

20 So the people shouted, when they blew with the cornets; and it came to pass, when the people heard the sound of the cornet, that the people uttered a great shout, and the wall fell down flat, and the people went up into the city, every man straight before him, and they captured the city.

21 And they utterly destroyed all that was in the city, both man and woman, young and old, and ox, and lamb, and ass, with the edge of the sword.

22 But unto the two men that had spied out the country, Joshua said, Go into the house of the woman, the harlot, and bring out thence the woman, and all belonging to her, as ye have sworn unto her.

23 And the young men, the spies, went in, and brought out Rachab, and her father, and her mother, and her brothers, and all belonging to her; and they brought out all her kindred,[a] and they left them without[b] the camp of Israel.

24 And the city they burnt with fire, and all that was therein: only the silver, and the gold, and the vessels of copper and of iron, they put into the treasury of the house of the LORD.

25 And Rachab the harlot did Joshua save alive, and her father's household, and all belonging to her; and she dwelt in the midst of Israel even unto this day; because she had hidden the messengers, whom Joshua had sent to spy out Jericho.

26 ¶ And Joshua adjured (the people) at that time, saying, Cursed be the man before the LORD, that will rise up and build this city Jericho: with[c] his first-born shall he lay its foundation, and with his youngest shall he set up its gates.

27 ¶ And the LORD was with Joshua; and his fame was spread throughout all the country.

CHAPTER VII.

1 But the children of Israel committed a trespass on the devoted things; for 'Achan, the son of Carmi, the son of Zabdi, the son of Zerach, of the tribe of Judah, took of the devoted things: and the anger of the LORD was kindled against the children of Israel.

2 ¶ And Joshua sent men from Jericho to 'Ai, which is beside Beth-aven, on the east side of Beth-el, and said unto them, thus, Go up and spy out the country. And the men went up and spied out 'Ai.

3 And they returned to Joshua, and said unto him, Let not all the people go up; but let about two or three thousand men go up and smite 'Ai: do not fatigue all the people (to go) thither; for they are but few.

4 So there went up thither of the people about three thousand men; and they fled before the men of 'Ai.

5 And the men of 'Ai smote of them about thirty and six men; and they chased them from before the gate unto the stone-quarries, and smote them on the declivity (of the hill); wherefore the heart of the people melted, and became as water.

6 And Joshua rent his clothes, and fell upon his face to the earth before the ark of the LORD until the evening, he with the elders of Israel, and they put dust upon their head.

7 And Joshua said, Alas, O Lord Eternal, wherefore hast thou caused this people to pass over the Jordan, to deliver us into the hand of the Emorites, to destroy us? and oh! that we had been content, and dwelt on the other side of the Jordan!

8 I pray thee, O Lord, what shall I say, since Israel have turned their back before their enemies?

9 And when the Canaanites and all the inhabitants of the land will hear of it, they will environ us round, and cut off our name from the earth; and what wilt thou do for thy great name?

10 ¶ And the LORD said unto Joshua, Get thee up; wherefore liest thou upon thy face.

11 Israel hath sinned, and they have also transgressed my covenant which I have commanded them; and they have also taken of the devoted things, and have also stolen, and have also dissembled, and they have also put it into their own vessels.

12 Therefore will the children of Israel not be able to stand up before their enemies; their back will they turn before their enemies, because they have become accursed: I will not be any more with you, except ye destroy the accursed from among you.

13 Rise up, sanctify the people, and say, Sanctify yourselves against to-morrow; for thus hath said the LORD the God of Israel, An accursed thing is in the midst of thee, O Israel: thou shalt not be able to stand up before thy enemies, until ye have removed the accursed from among you.

14 And ye shall be brought near[d] in the morning according to your tribes: and it shall be, that the tribe which the LORD will seize[a] shall come near according to its families; and the family which the LORD will seize shall come near by households; and the household which the LORD shall seize will come near by its men.

15 And it shall be, that he that is seized with the accursed thing shall be burnt with fire, he and all that he hath; because he hath transgressed the covenant of the LORD, and because he hath wrought wickedness in Israel.

16 ¶ So Joshua rose up early in the morning, and brought Israel near by their tribes, and the tribe of Judah was seized;

17 And he brought near the family of Judah, and he seized the family of the Zarchites; and he brought near the family of the Zarchites by its men, and Zabdi was seized;

18 And he brought near his household by its men, and 'Achan, the son of Carmi, the son of Zabdi, the son of Zerach, of the tribe of Judah, was seized.

19 And Joshua said unto 'Achan, My son, give, I pray thee, glory to the LORD, the God of Israel, and make confession unto him; and tell me, I pray thee, what thou hast done: hide nothing from me.

20 And 'Achan answered Joshua, and said, Truly! I have indeed sinned against the LORD the God of Israel, and thus and thus have I done:

21 I saw among the spoil a handsome Babylonish[b] mantle, and two hundred shekels of silver, and a wedge of gold of fifty shekels in weight, and I coveted them, and took them; and, behold, they are hidden in the earth in the midst of my tent, with the silver beneath the same.

22 Joshua thereupon sent messengers, and they ran unto the tent; and, behold, it was hidden in his tent, and the silver beneath it.

23 And they took them out of the midst of the tent, and brought them unto Joshua, and unto all the children of Israel, and they laid[c] them out before the LORD.

24 And Joshua took 'Achan the son of Zerach, and the silver, and the mantle, and the wedge of gold, and his sons, and his daughters, and his ox, and his ass, and his sheep, and his tent, and all that he had, and all Israel were with him, and they brought them up[d] unto the valley of 'Achor.

25 And Joshua said, How hast thou troubled us! so shall the LORD trouble thee this day. And all Israel stoned him with stones, and burnt them with fire, after they had stoned[e] them with stones.

26 And they raised over him a great heap of stones (which is) unto this day; and the LORD turned from the fierceness of his anger. Wherefore the name of that place was called, The valley of 'Achor,[f] unto this day.

CHAPTER VIII.

1 ¶ And the LORD said unto Joshua, Fear not, neither be thou discouraged: take with thee all the people of war, and arise, go up to 'Ai; see, I have given into thy hand the king of 'Ai, and his people, and his city, and his land.

2 And thou shalt do to 'Ai and to its king as thou hast done unto Jericho and its king; only its spoil and its cattle shall ye take for booty unto yourselves; but lay thee an ambush for the city in its rear.

3 So Joshua arose, and all the people of war, to go up against 'Ai: and Joshua chose out thirty thousand mighty men of valour, and sent them away by night.

4 And he commanded them, saying, Behold, ye shall lie in wait against the city, in the rear of the city; go not very far from the city; and be ye all ready;

5 And I, and all the people that are with me, will approach unto the city; and it shall come to pass that, when they come out against us, as at the first time, we will flee before them;

6 And they will come out after us, till we have drawn them from the city; for they will say, They flee before us as at the first time: and we will flee before them.

7 And then shall ye rise up from the ambush, and take possession of the city; and the LORD your God will deliver it in into your hand.

8 And it shall be, that as soon as ye have seized the city, ye shall set the city on fire; according to the word of the LORD shall ye do: see, I have commanded you.

9 And Joshua sent them off: and they went to lie in ambush, and remained between Beth-el and 'Ai, on the west side of 'Ai; but Joshua lodged that night among the people.

10 ¶ And Joshua rose up early in the morning, and numbered the people, and went up, he and the elders of Israel, before the people, toward 'Ai.

11 And all the people[a] of war that were with him went up, and drew nigh, and came opposite the city, and encamped on the north side of 'Ai; and the valley was between them and 'Ai.

12 And he took about five thousand men,[b] and set them as an ambush between Beth-el and 'Ai, on the west side of 'Ai.

13 And the people, all the camp that was on the north of the city, and its ambush on the west of the city got ready;[c] and Joshua went that night into the midst of the valley.

14 And it came to pass, when the king of 'Ai saw this, the men of the city hastened and rose up early, and went out against Israel to battle, he and all his people, at the time appointed, before the plain; but he knew not that there was an ambush against him in the rear of the city.

15 And Joshua and all Israel feigned themselves beaten before them, and fled by the way of the wilderness.

16 And all the people that were in 'Ai were called together to pursue after them; and they pursued after Joshua, and were drawn away from the city.

17 And there was not a man left in 'Ai or Beth-el, that went not out after Israel; and they left the city open, and pursued after Israel.

18 ¶ And the LORD said unto Joshua, Stretch out the spear[d] that is in thy hand toward 'Ai; for into thy hand will I give it. And Joshua stretched out the spear which was in his hand toward the city.

19 And the ambush arose quickly out of their place, and they ran as soon as he stretched out his hand; and they entered into the city, and took possession of it, and hastened and set the city on fire.

20 And the men of 'Ai turned (and looked) behind them, and they saw, and, behold, the smoke of the city ascended up to heaven; and they had no power to flee this way or that way; and the people that had fled to the wilderness turned back upon the pursuers.

21 For when Joshua and all Israel saw that the ambush had seized the city, and that the smoke of the city ascended: they turned back, and smote the men of 'Ai.

22 And the others issued out of the city against them; so that the Israelites had them in the middle, some on this side, and some on that side; and they smote them, until there was not left of them one that remained or escaped.

23 And the king of 'Ai they caught alive, and brought him to Joshua.

24 And it came to pass, that, when Israel had made an end of slaying all the inhabitants of 'Ai in the field, in the wilderness wherein they had pursued them, and when they were all fallen by the edge of the sword, until they were consumed,

¶ All the Israelites returned unto 'Ai, and smote it with the edge of the sword.

25 And (the number of) all that fell in that day, both of men and women, was twelve thousand, all the people of 'Ai.

26 And Joshua drew not back his hand, wherewith he had stretched out the spear, until he had utterly destroyed all the inhabitants of 'Ai.

27 Only the cattle and the spoil of that city Israel took as booty unto themselves, according to the word of the LORD which he had commanded Joshua.

28 And Joshua burnt 'Ai, and made it a ruinous heap of desolation for ever, even unto this day,

29 And the king of 'Ai he hanged on a tree until eventide; and at the going down of the sun, Joshua commanded, and they took his carcass down from the tree and cast it at the entrance of the city gate, and they raised

[a] העם הכולחמה stands for "the people, who were עם the people of war;" our text gives the sense merely.

[b] Rashi thinks that this means a second ambush nearer the city than the first; else it should be "had taken."

over him a great heap of stones, (which is) even unto this day.

30 ¶ Then did Joshua build an altar unto the LORD, the God of Israel on mount 'Ebal, 31 As Moses the servant of the LORD had commanded the children of Israel, as it is written in the book of the law of Moses,[a] an altar of whole stones, over which no one had lifted up any iron tool; and they offered thereon burnt-offerings unto the LORD, and sacrificed peace-offerings.

32 And he wrote there upon the stones a copy of the law of Moses, which he[b] wrote in the presence of the children of Israel.

33 And all Israel, and their elders, and the officers, and their judges, stood on this side and on that side of the ark, opposite the priests the Levites, who bore the ark of the covenant of the LORD, the stranger no less than the native born: half of them turned toward mount Gerizzim, and the other half of them turned toward mount 'Ebal; as Moses the servant of the LORD had commanded, to bless the people of Israel at first.[c]

34 And afterward he read all the words of the law, the blessing and the curse, all, just as it is written in the book of the law.

35 There was not a word of all that Moses had commanded, which Joshua did not read before all the congregation of Israel, with the women, and the little ones, and the stranger that walked in the midst of them.

CHAPTER IX.

1 ¶ And it came to pass, when all the kings that were on this side of the Jordan, in the mountain, and in the lowlands, and in all the coast of the great sea opposite Lebanon, the Hittites, and the Emorites, the Canaanites, the Perizzites, the Hivites, and the Jebusites, heard this,

2 That they assembled themselves all together, to fight with Joshua and with Israel, with one accord.

3 ¶ And when the inhabitants of Gib'on heard what Joshua had done unto Jericho and unto 'Ai,

4 They also[d] did work wilily, and went and feigned to be messengers, and took old sacks for their asses, and wine-bottles, old, and rent, and bound up;

5 And (put) old and patched-up shoes upon their feet, and old garments upon themselves; and all the bread of their provision was dry and mouldy.

6 And they went to Joshua unto the camp at Gilgal, and said unto him, and to the men of Israel, We are come from a far-off country; and now make ye a covenant with us.

7 And the men[e] of Israel said unto the Hivites, Peradventure ye dwell in the midst of us; and how can we make a covenant with you?

8 And they said unto Joshua. We are thy servants. And Joshua said unto them, Who are ye? and whence come ye?

9 And they said unto him, From a very far-off country are thy servants come, because of the name of the LORD thy God: for we have heard his fame, and all that he hath done in Egypt;

10 And all that he hath done to the two kings of the Emorites, that were beyond the Jordan, to Sichon the king of Cheshbon, and to 'Og the king of Bashan, who was at 'Ashtaroth.

11 Wherefore our elders and all the inhabitants of our country said to us, as followeth, Take provisions with you[f] for the journey, and go to meet them, and say unto them, Your servants are we: and now make ye with us a covenant.

12 This our bread we took hot for our provision out of our houses on the day we came forth to go unto you; and now, behold, it is dry, and it is become mouldy:

13 And these wine-bottles, which we filled, when new,—but behold, they are now become rent; and these our garments and our shoes are become worn out by reason of the very long journey.

[d] The word "also" Herxheimer refers to the manner in which 'Ai was taken, by stratagem. ויצטירו rendered here in accordance with Rashi, is given by Philippson and Herxheimer with "and commenced their journeying," from the Arabic צאר "to go."—The wine-bottles in the East are made of skins, which naturally crack from age.

14 And the men took of their provisions, but the decision of the LORD they did not ask.

15 And Joshua made peace with them, and made a covenant with them, to let them live; and the princes of the congregation swore unto them.

16 And it came to pass at the end of three days after they had made a covenant with them, that they heard that they were their neighbours, and that they dwelt in the midst of them.

17 And the children of Israel broke up, and came unto their cities on the third day; and their cities were Gib'on, and Kephirah, and Bĕëroth, and Kiryath-ye'arim.

18 And the children of Israel smote them not; because the princes of the congregation had sworn unto them by the LORD, the God of Israel; but all the congregation murmured against the princes.

19 And all the princes said unto all the congregation, We have sworn unto them by the LORD the God of Israel; and now we cannot touch them.

20 This[a] will we do to them, and we will let them live, that there be no wrath upon us, on account of the oath which we have sworn unto them.

21 And the princes said unto them, Let them live: and they became hewers of wood and drawers of water unto all the congregation. as the princes had spoken unto them.

22 ¶ And Joshua called for them, and he spoke unto them, saying, Wherefore have ye deceived us, saying, We are very far from you: whereas ye dwell in the midst of us?

23 And now be ye cursed, and there shall not cease to be[b] of you servants and hewers of wood and drawers of water for the house of my God.

24 And they answered Joshua, and said, Because it was certainly told thy servants, how that the LORD thy God had commanded his servant Moses to give unto you all the land, and to destroy all the inhabitants of the land from before you; wherefore we were sore afraid for our lives because of you, and we have done this thing.

25 And now, behold, we are in thy hand; as it seemeth good and right in thy eyes to do unto us, so do.

26 And he did unto them thus; and he delivered them out of the hand of the children of Israel, and they slew them not.

27 And Joshua appointed them on that day hewers of wood and drawers of water for the congregation, and for the altar of the LORD, even unto this day, for the place which he should choose.

CHAPTER X.

1 ¶ Now it came to pass, when Adonizedek the king of Jerusalem heard that Joshua had captured 'Ai, and had utterly destroyed it; (that) as he had done to Jericho and its king, so had he done to 'Ai and its king; and that the inhabitants of Gib'on had made peace with Israel, and were in the midst of them:

2 That they were greatly afraid; because Gib'on was a great city, like one of the royal cities, and because it was greater than 'Ai, and all the men thereof were mighty.

3 Therefore Adoni-zedek the king of Jerusalem sent unto Hoham the king of Hebron, and unto Piram the king of Yarmuth, and unto Yaphia' the king of Lachish, and unto Debir the king of 'Eglon, saying,

4 Come up unto me, and help me, that we may smite Gib'on; for it hath made peace with Joshua and with the children of Israel.

5 And the five kings of the Emorites, the king of Jerusalem, the king of Hebron, the king of Yarmuth, the king of Lachish, the king of 'Eglon, assembled themselves together, and went up, they and all their camps, and encamped before Gib'on, and made war against it.

6 And the men of Gib'on sent unto Joshua to the camp to Gilgal, saying, Do not withdraw thy hand from thy servants: come up to us quickly, and save us, and help us; for all the kings of the Emorites that dwell in the mountains are assembled together against us.

7 And Joshua went up from Gilgal, he, and all the people of war with him, and all the mighty men of valour.

8 ¶ And the LORD said unto Joshua, Be not afraid of them; for into thy hand have I delivered them: there shall not stand a man of them before thee.

[a] Referring to next verse. The condition is not expressed, but can easily be inferred, that the employment of the Gib'onites was in accordance therewith.

9 And Joshua came unto them suddenly; the whole night he went up from Gilgal.

10 And the LORD brought them in confusion before Israel, and they smote[a] them with a great slaughter at Gib'on, and pursued them by the way of the ascent to Beth-choron, and smote them up to 'Azekah, and up to Makkedah.

11 And it came to pass, as they fled from before Israel, while they were in the declivity of Beth-choron, that the LORD cast down upon them great stones from heaven, up to 'Azekah, and they died: there were more who died by means of the hailstones than those whom the children of Israel had slain with the sword.

12 ¶ Then spoke Joshua to the LORD on the day when the LORD delivered up the Emorites before the children of Israel, and he said before the eyes of Israel, Sun, stand[b] thou still upon Gib'on; and thou, Moon, in the valley of Ayalon.

13 And the sun stood still, and the moon stayed, until the people had avenged themselves upon their enemies. Is not this written in the book of Yashar? And[c] the sun stood still in the midst of the heavens, and hastened not to go down about a whole day.

14 And there was no day like that before it or after it, that the LORD hearkened unto the voice of a man; for the LORD fought for Israel.

15 ¶ And Joshua returned, and all Israel with him, unto the camp to Gilgal.

16 But these five kings fled, and hid themselves in the cave at Makkedah.

17 And it was told to Joshua, saying, The five kings have been found hidden in the cave at Makkedah.

18 And Joshua said, Roll great stones to the mouth of the cave, and set men over it to guard them;

19 But you, do ye not stay, pursue after your enemies, and smite the hindmost of them:[d] suffer them not to enter into their cities; for the LORD your God hath delivered them into your hand.

20 And it came to pass, when Joshua and the children of Israel had made an end of smiting them with a very great defeat, till they were all spent, and those that escaped had fled from them and entered into the fortified cities, 21 That all the people returned to the camp to Joshua at Makkedah in peace: no one pointed against any[e] man of the children of Israel his tongue.

22 Then said Joshua, Open the mouth of the cave, and bring out unto me those five kings out of the cave.

23 And they did so, and brought forth unto him those five kings out of the cave, the king of Jerusalem, the king of Hebron, the king of Yarmuth, the king of Lachish, the king of 'Eglon.

24 And it came to pass, when they brought out those kings unto Joshua, that Joshua called for all the men of Israel, and said unto the chiefs of the men of war who had gone with him, Come near, put your feet upon the necks of these kings. And they came near, and put their feet upon their necks.

25 And Joshua said unto them, Fear not, nor be disheartened, be strong and of good courage; for thus will the LORD do unto all your enemies against whom ye fight.

26 And Joshua smote them afterward, and slew them, and hanged them on five trees; and they remained hanging upon the trees until the evening.

27 And it came to pass at the time of the going down of the sun, that Joshua commanded, and they took them down from the trees, and cast them into the cave wherein they had been hidden; and they placed great stones upon the mouth of the cave, (which remain) even until this very day.

28 ¶ And Joshua captured Makkedah on

[a] i. e. Israel.

[b] A living writer in the English Jewish paper explains this passage, that Joshua commanded the sun not to shed his light, but to be obscured, דם "silent," so that the moon appeared; and only when the darkness was cleared up, which was at midday, the sun reappeared, as natural, in the midst of heaven, and then set at the close of day. If this exposition be correct, the only miracle was that the sun was obscured at the moment it was needed for Israel to pursue their enemies in the dark. Ingenious as it is, it is not in consonance with the received opinion.

[c] Some suppose that these words are literally quoted from the book of Yashar.

that day, and smote it with the edge of the sword, and its king he devoted, them, and all the souls that were therein; he left none that escaped; and he did to the king of Makkedah as he had done unto the king of Jericho.

29 ¶ Then did Joshua, and all Israel with him, pass from Makkedah unto Libnah; and he fought against Libnah;

30 And the LORD delivered it also into the hand of Israel, with its king; and he smote it with the edge of the sword, and all the souls that were therein; he left none in it that escaped; and he did unto its king as he had done unto the king of Jericho.

31 ¶ And Joshua, and all Israel with him, passed from Libnah unto Lachish, and encamped against it, and fought against it;

32 And the LORD delivered Lachish into the hand of Israel; and he captured it on the second day, and smote it with the edge of the sword, and all the souls that were therein: just as he had done to Libnah.

33 ¶ Then came up Horam the king of Gezer to help Lachish; and Joshua smote him and his people, until he had left him none that escaped.

34 ¶ And Joshua and all Israel with him passed from Lachish unto 'Eglon; and they encamped against it, and fought against it;

35 And they captured it on that day, and smote it with the edge of the sword; and all the souls that were therein he devoted on that day: just as he had done to Lachish.

36 ¶ And Joshua and all Israel with him went up from 'Eglon unto Hebron; and they fought against it;

37 And they captured it, and smote it with the edge of the sword, and its king, and all its cities, and all the souls that were therein; he left none that escaped, just as he had done to 'Eglon; and he devoted it, and all the souls that were therein.

38 ¶ And Joshua and all Israel with him returned to Debir; and fought against it;

39 And he captured it, and its king, and all its cities; and they smote them with the edge of the sword, and devoted all the souls that were therein; he left none that escaped: as he had done to Hebron, so did he to Debir and to its king; and as he had done to Libnah and to its king.

40 ¶ And Joshua smote all the country, the mountain, and the south, and the lowlands, and the declivities, and all their kings; he left none that escaped; and all that breathed he utterly destroyed, as the LORD, the God of Israel had commanded.

41 And Joshua smote them from Kadesh-barnea' even unto Gazzah, and all the country of Goshen,[a] even up to Gib'on.

42 And all these kings and their land did Joshua capture at one time; because the LORD, the God of Israel fought for Israel.

43 And Joshua returned, and all Israel with him, unto the camp to Gilgal.

CHAPTER XI.

1 ¶ And it came to pass, that, when Yabin the king of Chazor heard these things, he sent to Yobab the king of Madon, and to the king of Shimron, and to the king of Achshaph,

2 And to the kings that were at the north, on the mountains, and in the plains, south of Kinneroth, and in the lowlands, and in the district of Dor on the west,

3 To the Canaanites on the east and on the west, and to the Emorites, and the Hittites, and the Perizzites, and the Jebusites in the mountains, and to the Hivites under Chermon in the land of Mizpah.

4 And they went out, they and all their camps with them, much people, even as the sand that is upon the sea-shore in multitude, and with very many horses and chariots.

5 And all these kings assembled themselves together, and they came and encamped together at the waters of Merom, to fight against Israel.

6 ¶ And the LORD said unto Joshua, Be not afraid because of them; for to-morrow about this time will I give all of them up slain before Israel: their horses shalt thou hamstring and their chariots shalt thou burn with fire.

7 And Joshua and all the people of war with him came upon them by the waters of Merom suddenly; and they fell upon them.

8 And the LORD delivered them into the hand of Israel, who smote them, and pursued them unto great Zidon, and unto Misrephoth-mayim,[b] and unto the valley of Mizpeh east-

[a] A district in the mountain of Judah.

[b] This is rendered by the Targum "sea-water ditches," which Rashi supposes were made to draw off the sea-water, which evaporating, was converted into salt. Others ward; and they smote them, until they left them none that escaped.

9 And Joshua did unto them as the LORD had said unto him: their horses he hamstringed and their chariots he burnt with fire.

10 ¶ And Joshua at that time turned back, and captured Chazor, and its kings he smote with the sword; for Chazor aforetimes was the head of all these kingdoms.

11 And they smote all the souls that were therein with the edge of the sword, and devoted them; there was not left any one having breath; and Chazor he burnt with fire.

12 And all the cities of these kings, and all their kings, did Joshua capture, and he smote them with the edge of the sword, and he devoted them, as Moses the servant of the LORD had commanded.

13 But as for the cities that had been left standing in their strength,[a] these did Israel not burn: save Chazor only did Joshua burn.

14 And all the spoil of these cities, and the cattle, did the children of Israel take as booty unto themselves; but all the men they smote with the edge of the sword, until they had destroyed them: they left not any one having breath.

15 As the LORD had commanded Moses his servant, so did Moses command Joshua, and so did Joshua: he left nothing undone of all that the LORD had commanded Moses.

16 And Joshua took all that land, the mountain, and all the south country, and all the land of Goshen, and the lowlands, and the plain, and the mountain of Israel, and its lowlands;

17 From the bald mountain that goeth up to Seïr, even unto Baäl-gad in the valley of Lebanon under mount Chermon; and all their kings he captured, and smote them, and slew them.

18 A long time did Joshua make war with all these kings.

19 There was not a city that made peace with the children of Israel, save the Hivites the inhabitants of Gib'on: the whole they took by war.

20 For of the LORD it was to harden their heart, that they should come against Israel in battle, in order to destroy them utterly, that they might obtain no favour; but in order that he might exterminate them, as the LORD had commanded Moses.

21 ¶ And Joshua came at that time, and cut off the 'Anakim from the mountains, from Hebron, from Debir, from 'Anab, and from the whole mountain of Judah, and from the whole mountain of Israel: with their cities did Joshua destroy them utterly.

22 There was none of the 'Anakim left in the land of the children of Israel: only in Gazzah, in Gath, and in Ashdod, there remained some.

23 And Joshua' took the whole land, all just as the LORD had spoken unto Moses; and Joshua, gave it for an inheritance unto Israel, according to their divisions by their tribes. And the land rested from war.

CHAPTER XII.

1 ¶ And these are the kings of the land whom the children of Israel smote, and whose land they took possession of on the other side of the Jordan, toward the rising of the sun, from the river Arnon unto mount Chermon, and all the plain on the east:

2 Sichon the king of the Emorites, who dwelt in Cheshbon, and ruled from 'Aro'er, which is upon the bank of the brook Arnon, and over the land in the middle of the brook, and from half Gil'ad, even unto the brook Yabbok, the boundary of the children of 'Ammon;

3 And over the plain up to the sea of Kinneroth on the east, and up to the sea of the plain, the salt sea on the east, on the way to Beth-hayeshimoth; and at the south, under the declivities of Pisgah;

4 And the territory of 'Og the king of Bashan, who was of the remnant of the Rephaïm, that dwelt at 'Ashtaroth and at Edre'i,

5 And reigned over mount Chermon, and over Salchah, and over all Bashan, unto the border of the Geshurites and the Ma'achathites, and half Gil'ad, (to) the boundary of Sichon the king of Cheshbon.

6 These did Moses the servant of the LORD suppose the words to mean "burning springs," as those of Tiberias; others again, that it was merely a name, as in our text.

and the children of Israel smite; and Moses the servant of the LORD gave it for a possession unto the Reübenites, and the Gadites, and the half tribe of Menasseh.

7 ¶ And these are the kings of the country whom Joshua and the children of Israel smote on this side of the Jordan on the west, from Baäl-gad in the valley of Lebanon as far as the bald mountain, that goeth up to Seïr; and Joshua gave it unto the tribes of Israel for a possession, according to their divisions;

8 In the mountains, and in the lowlands, and in the plain, and in the declivities, and in the wilderness, and in the south country: the Hittites, the Emorites, and the Canaanites, the Perizzites, the Hivites, and the Jebusites.

9 ¶ The king of Jericho, one; the king of 'Ai, which was beside Beth-el, one;

10 The king of Jerusalem, one; the king of Hebron, one;

11 The king of Yarmuth, one; the king of Lachish, one;

12 The king of 'Eglon, one; the king of Gezer, one;

13 The king of Debir, one; the king of Geder, one;

14 The king of Chormah, one; the king of 'Arad, one;

15 The king of Libnah, one; the king of 'Adullam, one;

16 The king of Makkedah, one; the king of Beth-el, one;

17 The king of Tappuach, one; the king of Chepher, one;

18 The king of Aphek, one; the king of Lasharon, one;

19 The king of Madon, one; the king of Chazor, one;

20 The king of Shimron-meron, one; the king of Achshaph, one;

21 The king of Ta'anach, one; the king of Megiddo, one;

22 The king of Kedesh, one; the king of Yokne'am on Carmel, one;

23 The king of Dor in the district of Dor, one; the king of Goyim in Gilgal, one;

24 The king of Tirzah, one: in all thirty and one kings.

CHAPTER XIII.

1 ¶ Now Joshua was old, well stricken in years; and the LORD said unto him, Thou art old, stricken in years, and of the land there remaineth yet very much to be taken possession of.

2 This is the land that yet remaineth: All the circles of the Philistines, and all (the land of the) Geshurites,

3 From the Shichor, which runneth before Egypt, even unto the boundary of 'Ekron northward, is counted to the Canaanites; the five lords of the Philistines; the Gazzathites, and the Ashdodites, the Eshkelonites, the Gittites, and the 'Ekronites; also the 'Avvim;

4 On the south, all the land of the Canaanites, and Me'arah[a] that belongeth to the Zidonians, up to Aphek, up to the border of the Emorites;

5 And the land of the Giblites, and all Lebanon, toward the rising of the sun, from Ba'al-gad under mount Chermon up to the entrance of Chamath.

6 All the inhabitants of the mountain from Lebanon unto Missrephoth-mayim, all the Zidonians: these will I drive out from before the children of Israel; only divide thou it by lot unto the Israelites for an inheritance, as I have commanded thee.

7 And now divide this land for an inheritance unto the nine tribes, and the half tribe of Menasseh.

8 With him the Reübenites and the Gadites have received their inheritance, which Moses gave unto them, beyond the Jordan eastward, as Moses the servant of the LORD hath given them;

9 From 'Aro'er, that is upon the bank of the brook Arnon, and the city that is in the midst of the brook, and all the plain of Medeba up to Dibon;

10 And all the cities of Sichon the king of the Emorites, who reigned over Cheshbon, up to the border of the children of 'Ammon;

11 And Gil'ad, and the territory of the Geshurites and Ma'achathites, and all mount Chermon, and all Bashan up to Salchah;

12 All the kingdom of 'Og in Bashan, who reigned in 'Ashtaroth and in Edre'i; who had been left of the remnant of the Rephaïm; and Moses smote them, and cast them out.

13 Nevertheless the children of Israel expelled not the Geshurites and the Ma'achathites; but the Geshurites and the Ma'achathites continued to dwell in the midst of the Israelites until this day.

14 Only unto the tribe of Levi he gave no inheritance: the fire-offerings of the LORD, the God of Israel, are their inheritance, as he hath spoken unto them.

15 ¶ And Moses gave unto the tribe of the children of Reüben according to their families;

16 And their territory was from 'Aro'er, that is on the bank of the brook Arnon, and the city that is in the midst of the brook, and all the plain by Medeba;

17 Cheshbon, and all its cities that are in the plain; Dibon, and Bamoth-ba'al, and Beth-ba'al-me'on,

18 And Yahzah, and Kedemoth, and Mepha'ath,

19 And Kiryathayim, and Sibmah, and Zereth-hashachar on the mount of the valley,

20 And Beth-pe'or, and the declivities of Pisgah, and Beth-hayeshimoth,

21 And all the cities of the plain, and all the kingdom of Sichon the king of the Emorites, who reigned in Cheshbon, whom Moses smote with the princes of Midian, Evi, and Rekem, and Zur, and Chur, and Reba', the dukes of Sichon, the dwellers of the country.

22 And Bil'am the son of Be'or, the soothsayer, did the children of Israel slay with the sword among their slain.

23 And the boundary of the children of Reüben was the Jordan, and its bordering territory. This was the inheritance of the children of Reüben after their families, the cities and their villages.

24 ¶ And Moses gave unto the tribe of Gad, unto the children of Gad according to their families;

25 And their territory was Ya'zer, and all the cities of Gil'ad, and half the land of the children of 'Ammon, up to 'Aro'er that is before Rabbah;

26 And from Cheshbon unto Ramath-mizpeh, and Betonim; and from Machanayim up to the border of Debir;

27 And in the valley, Beth-haram, and Beth-nimrah, and Succoth, and Zaphon, the rest of the kingdom of Sichon the king of Cheshbon, the Jordan and its bordering territory, up to the edge of the sea of Kinnereth on the other side the Jordan eastward.

28 This is the inheritance of the children of Gad after their families, the cities and their villages.

29 ¶ And Moses gave unto the half tribe of Menasseh; and it belonged to the half tribe of the children of Menasseh after their families;

30 And their territory was from Machanayim, all Bashan, all the kingdom of 'Og the king of Bashan, and all the villages of Ya'ir, which are in Bashan, sixty cities;

31 And half Gil'ad, and 'Ashtaroth, and Edre'i, the cities of the kingdom of 'Og in Bashan, (belonged) unto the children of Machir the son of Menassch, even to the one half of the children of Machir after their families.

32 These are they to whom Moses did distribute an inheritance in the plains of Moäb, on the other side of the Jordan, by Jericho, eastward.

33 But unto the tribe of Levi Moses gave not any inheritance: the LORD the God of Israel is himself their inheritance, as he hath spoken unto them.

CHAPTER XIV.

1 ¶ And these are the countries which the children of Israel obtained as an inheritance in the land of Canaän, which Elazar the priest, and Joshua the son of Nun, and the heads of the divisions of the tribes of the children of Israel, distributed for an inheritance unto them,

2 By the lot as their inheritance: as the LORD had commanded by the hand of Moses, for the nine tribes, and the half tribe.

3 For Moses had given the inheritance of the two tribes and the half tribe on the other side of the Jordan; but unto the Levites he had given no inheritance among them.

4 For the children of Joseph were two tribes, Menasseh and Ephraim; therefore they gave no portion unto the Levites in the land, save cities to dwell in, with their open spaces for their cattle and for their substance.

5 As the LORD had commanded Moses, so did the children of Israel, and so divided they the land.

6 ¶ And the children of Judah came near unto Joshua in Gilgal; and Caleb the son of Yephunneh the Kenizzite said unto him,

Thou well knowest the word which the LORD spoke unto Moses the man of God concerning me and thyself in Kadesh-barnea'.

7 Forty years old was I when Moses the servant of the LORD sent me from Kadesh-barnea' to spy out the land; and I brought him word again as it was in my heart.

8 But my brethren who had gone up with me caused the heart of the people to be faint; but I wholly followed the LORD my God.

9 And Moses swore on that day, saying, Surely the land whereon thy foot hath trodden shall belong to thee for an inheritance, and to thy children for ever; because thou hast wholly followed the LORD my God.

10 And now, behold, the LORD hath kept me alive, as he hath spoken: it is now forty and five years since the LORD spoke this word unto Moses, while Israel wandered in the wilderness; and now, behold, I am this day eighty and five years old.

11 I am yet this day as strong as I was on the day that Moses sent me: as my strength was then, even so is my strength now, for war, and to go out, and to come in.

12 Now therefore give me this mountain, whereof the LORD spoke on that day; for thou didst hear on that day that the 'Anakim were there, and great fortified cities: perhaps the LORD will be with me, and I shall drive them out, as the LORD hath spoken.

13 And Joshua blessed him, and gave Hebron unto Caleb the son of Yephunneh for an inheritance.

14 Therefore did Hebron become the inheritance of Caleb the son of Yephunneh the Kenizzite unto this day; for the cause that he had wholly followed the LORD the God of Israel.

15 And the name of Hebron was aforetimes Kiryath-arba',* who was the greatest man among the 'Anakim. And the land had rest from war.

CHAPTER XV.

1 ¶ And the lot for the tribe of the children of Judah after their families came by the border of Edom, with the wilderness of Zin, southward, as the uttermost southern boundary.

2 And their southern boundary was from the end of the salt sea, from the bay that bendeth southward;

3 And it went out to the south to the heights of 'Akrabbim, and passed along to Zin, and ascended up on the south side unto Kadesh-barnea', and passed along to Chezron, and went up to Adar, and fetched a compass to Karka';

4 And it passed on toward 'Azmon, and went out unto the river of Egypt; and the terminations of the boundary were at the sea: this shall be your southern boundary.

5 And the east boundary was the salt sea, unto the end of the Jordan. And the boundary in the north quarter was from the bay of the sea at the end of the Jordan;

6 And the boundary went up to Beth-choglah, and passed along by the north of Beth-'arabah; and the boundary went up to Eben-bohan the son of Reüben;

7 And the boundary went up toward Debir from the valley of 'Achor, and at the north it bent toward Gilgal, that is opposite the heights of Adummim, which is on the south side of the valley; and the boundary passed toward the waters of 'En-shemesh, and its terminations were at 'En-rogel;

8 And the boundary went up to the valley of the son of Hinnom unto the south side of the Jebusite, the same is Jerusalem; and the boundary went up to the top of the mount that lieth before the valley of Hinnom westward, which is at the end of the valley of Rephaïm northward;

9 And the boundary extended from the top of the mount unto the spring of the waters of Nephtoäch, and went out to the cities of mount 'Ephron; and the boundary extended to Ba'alah, which is Kiryath-ye'arim;

10 And the boundary compassed from Ba'alah westward unto mount Seïr, and passed along unto the side of mount Ye'arim, which is Kessalon, on the north side, and went down to Beth-shemesh, and passed on to Timnah;

11 And the boundary went out unto the side of 'Ekron northward; and the boundary extended to Shikron, and passed along to the mount of Ba'alah, and went out unto Yabneël; and the terminations of the boundary were at the sea.

12 And the west boundary was by the great sea, and the coast thereof. This is the

* i. e. "The city of Arba', who was," &c.

boundary of the children of Judah round about according to their families.

13 ¶ And unto Caleb the son of Yephunneh he gave as a portion among the children of Judah, according to the order of the LORD to Joshua, Kiryath-arba' the father of 'Anak, which is Hebron.

14 And Caleb drove out from there the three sons of 'Anak, Sheshai, and Achiman, and Talmai, the children of 'Anak.

15 And he went up from there to the inhabitants of Debir; and the name of Debir before was Kiryath-sepher.

16 And Caleb said, He that will smite Kiryath-sepher, and capture it, to him will I give 'Achsah my daughter for wife.

17 And 'Othniel the son of Kenaz, the brother of Caleb, captured it; and he gave him 'Achsah his daughter for wife.

18 And it came to pass, as she came thither, that she persuaded him to ask of her father a field: and she alighted from her ass; and Caleb said unto her, What aileth thee?

19 And she said, Give me a blessing; for a dry land hast thou given me: give me then also springs of water. And he gave her the upper springs and the lower springs.

20 ¶ This is the inheritance of the tribe of the children of Judah according to their families.

21 And the cities on the boundary line of the tribe of the children of Judah toward the border of Edom, on the south, were Kabzeël, and 'Eder, and Yagur,

22 And Kinah, and Dimonah, and 'Adadah,

23 And Kedesh, and Chazor, and Yithnan,

24 Ziph, and Telem, and Be'aloth,

25 And Chazor-chadattah, and Keriyoth-chezron,[a] which is Chazor,

26 Amam, and Shema', and Moladah,

27 And Chazar-gaddah, and Cheshmon, and Beth-palet,

28 And Chazar-shuäl, and Beër-sheba, and Bizyotheyah,

29 Ba'alah, and 'Iyim, and 'Azem,

30 And Eltolad, and Kessil, and Chormah,

31 And Ziklag, and Madmannah, and Sansannah,

32 And Lebaöth, and Shilchim, and 'Ayin, and Rimmon: in all twenty and nine[b] cities, with their villages.

33 ¶ And in the lowlands, Eshtaol, and Zor'ah, and Ashnah,

34 And Zanoach, and 'En-gannim, Tappuach, and 'Enam,

35 Yarmuth, and 'Adullam, Sochoh, and 'Azekah,

36 And Sha'arayim, and 'Adithayim, and Gederah, and Gederothayim: fourteen cities with their villages.

37 ¶ Zenan, and Chadashah, and Migdalgad.

38 And Dil'an, and Mizpeh, and Yoktheël,

39 Lachish, and Bozkath, and 'Eglon,

40 And Cabbon, and Lachmass, and Kithlish,

41 And Gederoth, Beth-dagon, and Na'amah, and Makkedah: sixteen cities with their villages.

42 ¶ Libnah, and 'Ether, and 'Ashan,

43 And Yiphtach, and Ashnah, and Nezib,

44 And Ke'ilah, and Achzib, and Mareshah: nine cities with their villages.

45 ¶ 'Ekron, with its towns and its villages:

46 From 'Ekron even unto the sea, all that lay alongside of Ashdod, with their villages.

47 ¶ Ashdod with its towns and its villages, Gazzah, with its towns and its villages, up to the brook of Egypt, and the great sea, and its territory.

48 ¶ And in the mountains, Shamir, and Yattir, and Sochoh,

49 And Dannah and Kiryath-sannah, which is Debir,

50 And 'Anab, and Eshtemoh, and 'Anim,

51 And Goshen, and Cholon, and Giloh: eleven cities with their villages.

52 ¶ Arab, and Dumah, and Esh'an,

53 And Yanum, and Beth-tappuach, and Aphekah,

54 And Chumtah, and Kiryath-arba', which is Hebron, and Zi'or: nine cities with their villages.

55 ¶ Ma'on, Carmel, and Ziph, and Yutah,

56 And Yizre'el, and Yokde'am, and Zanoäch,

[a] Others, "Chazor, Chadattah, and Keriyoth, Chezron, which," &c.

[b] As the enumerated places exceed twenty-nine, it has been supposed by Abarbanel, that but that number were large places, or cities, the others villages.

[c] "The islands therein."—RASHI.

57 Kayin, Gib'ah, and Timnah: ten cities with their villages.

58 ¶ Chalchul, Beth-zur, and Gedor,

59 And Ma'arath, and Beth-'anoth, and Eltekon: six cities with their villages.

60 ¶ Kiryath-baäl, which is Kiryath-ye-'arim, and Rabbah; two cities with their villages.

61 ¶ In the wilderness, Beth-ha'arabah, Middin, and Sechachah,

62 And Nibshan, and 'Ir-hammelach,[a] and 'En-gedi: six cities with their villages.

63 ¶ As for the Jebusites the inhabitants of Jerusalem, these the children of Judah could not drive out; but the Jebusites dwelt with the children of Judah at Jerusalem, even unto this day.

CHAPTER XVI.

1 ¶ And the lot of the children of Joseph fell[b] from the Jordan by Jericho, unto the waters of Jericho on the east, to the wilderness that goeth up from Jericho by the mount Beth-el,

2 And (the boundary) went out from Beth-el to Luz, and passed along unto the boundary of the Arkites to 'Ataroth,

3 And went down westward to the boundary of the Yaphleti, unto the border of Beth-choron the lower, and to Gezer; and its terminations were toward the sea.

4 This did the children of Joseph, Menasseh and Ephraim, take as their inheritance.

5 ¶ And (this) was the boundary of the children of Ephraim according to their families; and the boundary of their inheritance on the east side was 'Atroth-addar, up to Beth-choron the upper;

6 And the boundary went out toward the sea to Michmethath on the north; and the boundary fetched a compass eastward unto Taänath-shiloh, and passed by it on the east to Yanochah;

7 And it went down from Yanochah to 'Ataroth, and to Na'arath, and touched on Jericho, and went out at the Jordan.

8 From Tappuach westward the border went out unto the brook Kanah; and its terminations were toward the sea. This is the inheritance of the tribe of the children of Ephraim after their families;

9 And (in addition to this) the cities which were separated for the children of Ephraim in the midst of the inheritance of the children of Menasseh, all the cities with their villages.

10 And they drove not out the Canaanites that dwelt in Gezer; but the Canaanites dwelt among the Ephraimites until this day, and became tributary servants.

CHAPTER XVII.

1 ¶ And then came the lot for the tribe of Menasseh; for he was the first-born of Joseph: to wit, for Machir the first-born of Menasseh, the father of Gil'ad; because he was a man of war, therefore he obtained Gil'ad and Bashan.

2 There was also a lot for the rest of the children of Menasseh after their families; for the children of Abi'ezer, and for the children of Chelek, and for the children of Assriël, and for the children of Shechem, and for the children of Chepher, and for the children of Shemida': these were the male children of Menasseh the son of Joseph after their families.

3 But Zelophchad, the son of Chepher, the son of Gil'ad, the son of Machir, the son of Menasseh, had no sons, but only daughters; and these are the names of his daughters, Machlah, and No'ah, Choglah, Milcah, and Tirzah.

4 And they came near before Elazar the priest, and before Joshua the son of Nun, and before the princes, saying, The LORD commanded Moses to give unto us an inheritance among our brethren. And he gave them, according to the order of the LORD, an inheritance among the brethren of their father.

5 And there fell ten portions of Menasseh, beside the lands of Gil'ad and Bashan, which were on the other side of the Jordan;

6 Because the daughters of Menasseh obtained an inheritance among his sons: and the land of Gil'ad belonged to the rest of the sons of Menasseh.

7 And the boundary of Menasseh was from Asher to Michmethath, that lieth before Shechem; and the boundary went along on the right hand unto the inhabitants of 'En-tappuach.

[a] Others translate the name, "the city of salt;" by some supposed to be Zo'ar.

[b] Heb. "went forth."

8 To Menasseh belonged the land of Tappuach; but Tappuach on the borders of Menasseh belonged to the children of Ephraim;

9 And the boundary descended unto the brook Kanah, southward of the brook; these cities belonging to Ephraim are in the midst of the cities of Menasseh; and the boundary of Menasseh was on the north side of the river, and its terminations were toward the sea:

10 Southward it was Ephraim's, and northward it was Menasseh's, and the sea was (there) his boundary; and on Asher they touched on the north, and on Issachar on the east.

11 And to Menasseh belonged in Issachar and in Asher Beth-sheän and its towns, and Yible'am and its towns, together with the inhabitants of Dor and its towns, and the inhabitants of 'En-dor and its towns, and the inhabitants of Ta'anach and its towns, and the inhabitants of Megiddo and its towns, namely the three districts.[a]

12 Yet the children of Menasseh could not drive out the inhabitants of these cities; but the Canaanites succeeded to dwell in this land;

13 Yet it came to pass, when the children of Israel were become strong, that they put the Canaanites to tribute; but they did not drive them out.

14 ¶ And the children of Joseph spoke unto Joshua, saying, Why hast thou given me but one lot and one portion as an inheritance, seeing I am a numerous people, to which extent the LORD hath hitherto blessed me?

15 And Joshua said unto them, If thou art a numerous people, then get thee up to the wood country, and cut down (a space) for thyself there in the land of the Perizzites and of the Rephaïm, if the mountain of Ephraim be too narrow for thee.

16 And the children of Joseph said, The mountain will not be enough[b] for us; and chariots of iron are belonging to all the Canaanites that dwell in the land of the valley, to those who are at Beth-sheän and its towns, and to those who are in the valley of Yizre'ël.[c]

17 And Joshua said unto the house of Joseph, to Ephraim and to Menasseh, as followeth, Thou art a numerous people, and hast great power; thou shalt not have one lot only;

18 But the mountain shall be thine; it is indeed a wood, yet thou canst cut it down; and the terminations[d] of it shall be thine; for thou shalt drive out the Canaanites, though they have iron chariots, though they be strong.

CHAPTER XVIII.

1 ¶ And the whole congregation of the children of Israel assembled together at Shiloh, and set up there the tabernacle of the congregation. And the land was subdued before them.[e]

2 ¶ And there remained among the children of Israel, that had not yet received their inheritance, seven tribes.

3 And Joshua said unto the children of Israel, How long will ye show yourselves slack to go to take possession of the land, which the LORD the God of your fathers hath given to you?

4 Furnish for yourselves three men for each tribe; and I will send them out, and they shall arise, and walk through the land, and describe[f] it according to their inheritance, and come again to me.

5 And they shall divide it into seven parts: Judah shall remain on his boundary at the south, and the house of Joseph shall remain on their boundary at the north.

6 But you shall make a description of the land in seven parts, and bring it hither to me; and I will cast the lot for you here, before the LORD our God.

7 For to the Levites there is no portion among you; for the priesthood of the LORD is their inheritance; and Gad, and Reüben, and half the tribe of Menasseh have already received their inheritance beyond the Jordan,

[c] Generally called Jezreël.

[d] When the woods are cut down, the way to the plain below will be open; hence the driving out of the Canaanites of verse 17 will be accomplished, notwithstanding their strength.

[e] Although in point of fact single districts were not conquered, still the country as a whole was in possession of the Israelites at the time spoken of in the text.

at the east, which Moses the servant of the LORD gave to them.

8 And the men arose, and went away; and Joshua charged those that went to describe the land, saying, Go and walk through the land, and describe it, and return again to me; and here will I cast the lot for you before the LORD, in Shiloh.

9 And the men went and passed through the land, and described it according to the cities in seven parts in a book; and they came again to Joshua to the camp at Shiloh.

10 And Joshua cast the lot for them in Shiloh before the LORD; and Joshua divided there the land unto the children of Israel according to their divisions.

11 ¶ And the lot of the tribe of the children of Benjamin came up according to their families; and the boundary of their lot came forth between the children of Judah and the children of Joseph.

12 And their boundary was on the north side (starting) from the Jordan; and the boundary went up to the side of Jericho on the north, and went up through the mountains westward; and its terminations were at the wilderness of Beth-aven.

13 And the boundary went over from there toward Luz, to the south side of Luz, which is Beth-el; and the boundary descended to 'Atroth-addar, upon the mount that is on the south side of the lower Beth-choron.

14 And the border extended (thence), and fetched a compass to the west side, to the south of the mount that is before Beth-choron at the south; and its terminations were at Kiryath-ba'al, which is Kiryath-ye'arim, a city of the children of Judah: this was the west side.

15 And the south side commenced from the end of Kiryath-ye'arim, and the boundary went out on the west, and went out to the spring of the waters of Nephtoäch;

16 And the boundary went down to the end of the mountain that is before the valley of the son of Himnom, and which is in the valley of Rephaïm at the north, and descended to the valley of Hinnom, to the side of the Jebusi on the south, and descended to 'En-rogel,

17 And extended northwardly, and went forth to 'En-shemesh, and went forth toward Geliloth, which is opposite to the ascent of Adummim, and descended to Eben-bohan the son of Reüben,

18 And passed along on this side opposite to 'Arabah northward; and went down unto 'Arabah;

19 And the boundary passed along to the side of Beth-choglah northward; and the terminations of the border were at the north bay of the Salt Sea at the south end of the Jordan: this was the south boundary.

20 And the Jordan bounded it on the east side. This was the inheritance of the children of Benjamin, by its boundaries round about, according to their families.

21 Now these were the cities of the tribe of the children of Benjamin according to their families, Jericho, and Beth-choglah, and 'Emek-keziz,

22 And Beth-ha'arabah, and Zemarayim and Beth-el,

23 And Avvim, and Parah, and 'Ophrah,

24 And Kephar-ha'ammonah, and 'Ophni, and Geba': twelve cities with their villages.

25 Gib'on, and Ramah, and Beëroth,

26 And Mizpeh, and Kephirah, and Mozah,

27 And Rekem, and Yirpeël, and Taralah,

28 And Zela', Eleph, and Jebusi, which is Jerusalem, Gib'ath, and Kiryath: fourteen cities with their villages. This is the inheritance of the children of Benjamin according to their families.

CHAPTER XIX.

1 ¶ And then came forth the second lot for Simeon, for the tribe of the children of Simeon according to their families; and their inheritance was within the inheritance of the children of Judah.

2 And they obtained in their inheritance Beër-sheba', (or) Sheba', and Moladah,

3 And Chazar-shu'al, and Balah, and 'Ezem,

4 And Eltolad, and Bethul, and Chormah,

5 And Ziklag, and Beth-hamarcaboth, and Chazar-sussah,

6 And Beth-lebaöth, and Sharuchen: thirteen cities and their villages.

7 'Ayin, Rimmon, and 'Ether, and 'Ashan; four cities and their villages.

8 And all the villages that were round about these cities up to Ba'alath-beër, South

Ramah.[a] This is the inheritance of the tribe of the children of Simeon according to their families.

9 Out of the portion of the children of Judah was the inheritance of the children of Simeon; for the portion of the children of Judah was too much for them; therefore the children of Simeon obtained their inheritance within their inheritance.

10 ¶ And then came up the third lot for the children of Zebulun according to their families; and the boundary of their inheritance extended up to Sarid;

11 And their boundary went up toward the sea, and Mar'alah, and touched on Dabbesheth, and touched on the brook that is before Yokne'am;

12 And turned from Sarid eastward toward the rising of the sun unto the border of Kisloth-tabor, and then went out to Daberath, and went up to Yaphia';

13 And from there it passed on in front to the east unto Gath-Chepher, to 'Eth-kazin, and went out to Rimmon, whence it extended to Ne'ah;[b]

14 And this boundary turned[c] about on the north side to Channathon; and its terminations were in the valley of Yiphthach-el;

15 And Kattath, and Nahallal, and Shimron, and Yidalah, and Beth-lechem: twelve cities with their villages.

16 This is the inheritance of the children of Zebulun according to their families, these cities with their villages.

17 ¶ For Issachar came out the fourth lot, for the children of Issachar according to their families.

18 And their boundary went to Yizre'el, and Kessulloth, and Shunem,

19 And Chapharayim, and Shiön, and Anacharath,

20 And Rabbith, and Kishyon, and Abez,

21 And Remeth, and 'En-gannim, and 'Enchaddah, and Beth-pazzez;

22 And the boundary touched on Tabor, and Shachazimah, and Beth-shemesh; and the terminations of their boundaries were at the Jordan: sixteen cities with their villages.

23 This is the inheritance of the tribe of the children of Issachar according to their families, the cities and their villages.

24 ¶ And then came out the fifth lot for the tribe of the children of Asher according to their families.

25 And their boundary was Chelkath, and Chali, and Beten, and Achshaph,

26 And Allammelech, and 'Am'ad, and Mishal; and it touched on Carmel at the sea, and on Shichor-libnath;

27 And it turned toward the rising of the sun to Beth-dagon, and touched on Zebulun, and on the valley of Yiphthach-el at the north, on Beth-ha'emek, and Ne'iël, and went out to Cabul on the left,

28 And 'Ebron, and Rechob, and Chammon, and Kanah, up to Zidon the great city,[d]

29 And then the boundary turned back to Ramah, and to the city of Mibzar-zor;[e] and then the boundary turned back to Chossah; and the terminations were by the sea in the district toward Achzib;

30 And 'Ummah and Aphek, and Rechob: twenty and two cities with their villages.

31 This is the inheritance of the tribe of the children of Asher according to their families, these cities with their villages.

32 ¶ Unto the children of Naphtali came out the sixth lot, for the children of Naphtali according to their families.

33 And their boundary was from Cheleph, from Allon-beza'anannim, and Adami-hanekeb, and Yabneël, as far as Lakkum; and its terminations were at the Jordan;

34 And then the boundary turned westward to Aznoth-tabor, and went out from there to Chukkok, and touched on Zebulun on the south, and touched on Asher on the west, and on Judah upon the Jordan[f] toward the rising of the sun.

[a] No doubt it means that Ba'alath-beër is the same with South Ramah.

[b] After Jonathan and Rashi; others, to "Rimmon-methoar, to Neah," as though it were a proper name of the place.

[c] Others, "and the boundary turned around this," &c.

[d] Eng. version, "Great Zidon."

[e] i. e. The fortified Rock; no doubt, an ancient Tyre, not the afterward famous city of Tyre, (from tzur, "rock.")

[f] As Judah proper did not touch Naphtali at all, various conjectures have been hazarded; one, the most ingenious, is broached by Rabbi Joseph Schwarz, in accordance with Aben Ezra to Numb. xxxii. 42, that Yaïr, who possessed the territory in Menassch opposite Naphtali on the east side of the Jordan, was by the father's side from Judah, and, by the mother's, of Menassch. (See 1. Chron. ii. 21, 22.)

35 And fortified cities, Ziddim, Zer, and Hammath, Rakkath, and Kinnereth, 36 And Adamah, and Ramah, and Chazor,
37 And Kedesh, and Edre'i, and 'En-chazor,
38 And Yiron, and Migdal-el, Chorem, and Beth-'anath, and Beth-shemesh: nineteen cities with their villages.
39 This is the inheritance of the tribe of the children of Naphtali according to their families, the cities and their villages.
40 ¶ For the tribe of the children of Dan according to their families came out the seventh lot.
41 And the boundary of their inheritance was Zor'ah, and Eshtaol, and 'Ir-shemesh,
42 And Sha'alabbin, and Ayalon, and Yithlah,
43 And Elon, and Thimnathah, and 'Ekron,
44 And Eltekeh, and Gibbethon, and Ba'alath,
45 And Yehud, and Bené-berak, and Gath-rimmon,
46 And Me-hayarkon, and Rakkon, with the boundary before Yapho.[a]
47 And the territory of the children of Dan went out beyond these; for the children of Dan went up and fought against Leshem, and captured it, and smote it with the edge of the sword, and took possession of it, and dwelt therein, and they called Leshem, Dan, after the name of Dan their father.
48 This is the inheritance of the tribe of the children of Dan according to their families, these cities with their villages.
49 ¶ And they made an end of dividing the land for inheritance after its boundaries; and the children of Israel gave an inheritance to Joshua the son of Nun among them;
50 By the order of the LORD did they give him the city which he had asked, Timnath-serach[b] on the mountain of Ephraim: and he built the city, and dwelt therein.
51 ¶ These are the inheritances, which Elazar the priest, and Joshua the son of Nun, and the heads of the divisions of the tribes of the children of Israel, divided for an inheritance by lot, at Shiloh before the LORD, at the door of the tabernacle of the congregation. So they made an end of dividing the country.

CHAPTER XX.

1 ¶ And the LORD spoke unto Joshua, saying,
2 Speak to the children of Israel, saying, Appoint for yourselves the cities of refuge, whereof I have spoken unto you by the hand of Moses;
3 That thither may flee the manslayer that killeth any person unawares, without knowledge; and they shall be unto you for a refuge from the avenger of the blood.
4 And he shall flee unto one of those cities, and he shall stand at the entrance of the gate of the city, and speak in the ears of the elders of that city his words; and they shall take him into the city unto them, and give him a place, that he may dwell among them.
5 And if the avenger of the blood should pursue after him, then shall they not deliver the manslayer up into his hand; because without knowledge did he smite his neighbour, and he was not an enemy to him in time past.
6 And he shall dwell in that city, until he shall have stood before the congregation for judgment, (and) until the death of the high-priest that may be in those days: then shall the manslayer return, and come unto his own house, unto the city whence he hath fled.
7 And they appointed[c] Kedesh in Galilee[d] in the mountain of Naphtali, and Shechem in the mountain of Ephraim, and Kiryath-arba', which is Hebron, in the mountain of Judah.
8 And on the other side of the Jordan by Jericho eastward, they appointed Bezer in the wilderness in the plain from the tribe of Reüben, and Ramoth in Gil'ad from the tribe of Gad, and Golan in Bashan from the tribe of Menasseh.
9 These were the cities assigned for all the children of Israel, and for the stranger that sojourneth among them, that thither might flee whosoever killeth any person at unawares, and that he should not die by the hand of the avenger of the blood, until he have stood before the congregation.

CHAPTER XXI.

1 ¶ Then came near the heads of the divisions of the Levites unto Elazar the priest,

[a] Afterward Joppa, now the town of Jaffa and unto Joshua the son of Nun, and unto the heads of the divisions of the tribes of the children of Israel;

[d] Correctly, "Galil."

2 And they spoke unto them at Shiloh, in the land of Canaan, saying, The LORD commanded by the hand of Moses to give unto us cities to dwell in, with the open spaces thereof for our cattle.

3 And the children of Israel gave unto the Levites from their inheritance, at the order of the LORD, these cities and their open spaces.

4 ¶ And the lot came out for the families of the Kehathites: and the children of Aaron the priest, who were of the Levites, obtained from the tribe of Judah, and from the tribe of Simeon, and from the tribe of Benjamin, by lot, thirteen cities.

5 ¶ And the rest of the children of Kehath obtained from the families of the tribe of Ephraim, and from the tribe of Dan, and from the half tribe of Menasseh, by lot, ten cities.

6 ¶ And the children of Gershon obtained from the families of the tribe of Issachar, and from the tribe of Asher, and from the tribe of Naphtali, and from the half tribe of Menasseh in Bashan, by lot, thirteen cities.

7 ¶ The children of Merari after their families obtained from the tribe of Reüben, and from the tribe of Gad, and from the tribe of Zebulun, twelve cities.

8 ¶ And the children of Israel gave unto the Levites these cities with their open spaces, as the LORD had commanded by the hand of Moses, by lot.

9 ¶ And they gave from the tribe of the children of Judah, and from the tribe of the children of Simeon, these cities which are called by name.

10 And the children of Aaron, of the families of the Kehathites, of the children of Levi, obtained them;[a]—for they had the first lot.

11 And they gave unto them Kiryath-arba', (the father of 'Anak,) which is Hebron, in the mountain of Judah, with the open spaces thereof round about it;

12 But the fields of the city, and its villages, they gave to Caleb the son of Yephunneh for his possession.

13 ¶ And to the children of Aaron the priest they gave the city of refuge for the manslayer, Hebron with its open spaces, and Libnah with its open spaces,

14 And Yattir with its open spaces, and Eshtemoä' with its open spaces.

15 And Cholon with its open spaces, and Debir with its open spaces,

16 And 'Ayin with its open spaces, and Yuttah with its open spaces, and Beth-shemesh with its open spaces: nine cities from those two tribes.

17 ¶ And from the tribe of Benjamin, Gib'on with its open spaces, Geba' with its open spaces, 18 'Anathoth with its open spaces, and 'Almon with its open spaces: four cities.

19 All the cities of the children of Aaron, the priests, were thirteen cities with their open spaces.

20 ¶ And the families of the children of Kehath, the Levites, who remained of the children of Kehath, obtained the cities of their lot from the tribe of Ephraim.

21 And they gave to them the city of refuge for the manslayer, Shechem with its open spaces in the mountain of Ephraim, and Gezer with its open spaces, 22 And Kibzayim with its open spaces, and Beth-choron with its open spaces: four cities.

23 ¶ And from the tribe of Dan, Elteké with its open spaces, Gibbethon with its open spaces, 24 Ayalon with its open spaces, Gath-rimmon with its open spaces: four cities.

25 ¶ And from the half tribe of Menasseh, Ta'nach with its open spaces, and Gath-rimmon with its open spaces: two cities.

26 All the cities were ten with their open spaces for the families of the children of Kehath that remained.

27 ¶ And unto the children of Gershon, of the families of the Levites, (they gave) from the other half tribe of Menasseh the city of refuge for the manslayer, Golan in Bashan with its open spaces, and Be'eshterah with its open spaces: two cities.

28 ¶ And from the tribe of Issachar, Kishyon with its open spaces, Daberath with its open spaces, 29 Yarmuth with its open spaces, 'En-gannim with its open spaces: four cities.

30 ¶ And from the tribe of Asher, Mishal with its open spaces, Abdon with its open spaces,

[a] i. e. The places which are named subsequently.

HAGAR AND HER CHILD IN THE WILDERNESS.

31 Chelkath with its open spaces, and Rechob with its open spaces: four cities.

32 ¶ And from the tribe of Naphtali, the city of refuge for the manslayer, Kedesh in Galilee with its open spaces, and Chammothdor with its open spaces, and Karthan with its open spaces: three cities.

33 All the cities of the Gershunites according to their families were thirteen cities with their open spaces.

34 ¶ And unto the families of the children of Merari, the remainder of the Levites, (they gave) from the tribe of Zebulun, Yokne'am with its open spaces, and Karthah with its open spaces,

35 Dimnah with its open spaces, Nahalal with its open spaces: four cities.[a]

36 And from the tribe of Gad, the city of refuge for the manslayer, Ramoth in Gil'ad with its open spaces, and Machanayim with its open spaces, 37 Cheshbon with its open spaces, Ya'zer with its open spaces: four cities in all.

38 All the cities for the children of Merari after their families, they who were remaining of the families of the Levites,—even their lot was twelve cities.

39 All the cities of the Levites in the midst of the possession of the children of Israel were forty and eight cities with their open spaces.

40 These cities were every one with their open spaces round about them: thus it was with all these cities.

41 ¶ And the LORD gave unto Israel all the land which he had sworn to give unto their fathers; and they possessed it, and dwelt therein.

42 And the LORD gave them rest round about, all just as he had sworn unto their fathers: and there stood not up before them a man of all their enemies; all their enemies the LORD delivered into their hand.

43 There failed[b] not aught of all the good thing which the LORD had spoken unto the house of Israel: it all came to pass.

CHAPTER XXII.

1 ¶ Then did Joshua call the Reübenites, and the Gadites, and the half tribe of Menasseh,

2 And he said unto them, Ye have indeed kept all that Moses the servant of the LORD commanded you, and ye have obeyed my voice in all that I commanded you:

3 Ye have not forsaken your brethren these many days, until this day; but ye have kept the obligation of the commandment of the LORD your God.

4 And now the LORD your God hath given rest unto your brethren, as he promised them; therefore now turn yourselves, and get you unto your tents, unto the land of your possession, which Moses the servant of the LORD gave unto you on the other side of the Jordan.

5 Only take diligent heed to practise the commandment and the law, which Moses the servant of the LORD hath commanded you, to love the LORD your God, and to walk in all his ways, and to keep his commandments, and to cleave unto him, and to serve him with all your heart and with all your soul.

6 And Joshua blessed them, and sent them away; and they went unto their tents.

7 ¶ Now to the one half of the tribe of Menasseh Moses had given possession in Bashan; but unto the other half thereof gave Joshua with their brethren on this side of the Jordan westward; and when Joshua sent them also away unto their tents, he blessed them;

8 And he said unto them, as followeth, With much riches return unto your tents, and with very much cattle, with silver, and with gold, and with copper, and with iron, and with very many garments: divide the spoil of your enemies with your brethren.

9 ¶ And the children of Reüben and the children of Gad and the half tribe of Menasseh returned, and departed from the children of Israel from Shiloh, which is in the land of Canaan, to go unto the country of Gil'ad, to the land of their possession, whereof they were possessed, according to the order of the LORD by the hand of Moses.

10 And when they came unto the districts of the Jordan, that are in the land of Canaan,

[a] Here follow in some copies the following two verses; but they are not in the Hebrew text:—
"36 And from the tribe of Reüben, Bezer with its open spaces, and Yahzah with its open spaces,
"37 Kedemoth with its open spaces, and Mepha'ath with its open spaces: four cities."
If these verses are included, v. 36 is 38, &c.

[b] Heb. "Fell," viz. "to the ground," or "failed."

the children of Reüben and the children of Gad and the half tribe of Menasseh built there an altar by the Jordan, a great altar for a show.[a]

11 And the children of Israel heard, as followeth, Behold, the children of Reüben and the children of Gad and the half tribe of Menasseh have built an altar in the front of the land of Canaan, in the districts of the Jordan, at the side belonging to the children of Israel.

12 And when the children of Israel heard it, the whole congregation of the children of Israel assembled themselves together at Shiloh, to go up against them to war.[b]

13 ¶ And the children of Israel sent unto the children of Reüben, and to the children of Gad, and the half tribe of Menasseh, into the land of Gil'ad, Phinehas the son of Elazar the priest,

14 And ten princes with him, one prince each for every division of all the tribes of Israel; and each one was a head of their family divisions among the thousands[c] of Israel.

15 And they came unto the children of Reüben, and to the children of Gad, and to the half tribe of Menasseh, unto the land of Gil'ad, and they spoke with them, saying,

16 Thus have said the whole congregation of the LORD, What trespass is this that ye have committed against the God of Israel to turn away this day from following the LORD, in that ye have built yourselves an altar, that ye might rebel this day against the LORD?

17 Have we had too little in the iniquity of Peör,—from which we are not yet cleansed until this day,—when there was a plague in the congregation of the LORD?

18 And will ye turn away this day from following the LORD? and it will be, that when ye will rebel this day against the LORD, tomorrow he will be wroth with the whole congregation of Israel.

19 But, notwithstanding, if the land of your possession be unclean, then pass ye over unto the land of the possession of the LORD, wherein dwelleth the tabernacle of the LORD, and take possession in the midst of us; but rebel not against the LORD, and against us do not rebel, in building yourselves an altar, beside the altar of the LORD our God.

20 Did not 'Achan the son of Zerach commit a trespass on the devoted things, and wrath fell on all the congregation of Israel? and he, though but one man, perished not alone in his iniquity.

21 ¶ But the children of Reüben and the children of Gad and the half tribe of Menasseh answered, and they spoke unto the heads of the thousands of Israel,

22 The God of gods, the Eternal,[d] the God of gods, the Eternal, he knoweth, and Israel also shall know: if it be in rebellion, or if in transgression against the LORD, (aid[e] us not this day,)

23 That we have built us an altar to turn away from following the LORD; or if to offer thereon burnt-offering or meat-offering, or if to offer thereon peace-offerings, may the LORD himself require it;[f]

24 Or whether we have not done it for fear of this thing, saying, In time to come your children might say unto our children, as followeth, What have ye to do with the LORD, the God of Israel?

25 For the LORD hath made a boundary between us and you, ye children of Reüben and children of Gad,—the Jordan; ye have no part in the LORD: thus might your children make our children cease so as not to fear the LORD.

26 Wherefore we said, Let us now act for ourselves to build this altar, not for burnt-offering, nor for sacrifice;

27 But it shall be a witness between us, and you, and our generations after us, that we may perform the service of the LORD before him with our burnt-offerings, and with our sacrifices, and with our peace-offerings; and that your children may not say in time to come to our children, Ye have no portion in the LORD.

28 And we said, that it shall be when they should say this to us and to our generations in time to come, that we may say, Behold the pattern of the altar of the LORD, which our fathers made, not for burnt-offering, nor for sacrifice; but it is a witness between us and you.

29 Far be it from us that we should rebel against the LORD, and turn away this day from following the LORD, to build an altar for burnt-offering, for meat-offering, or for sacrifice, beside the altar of the LORD our God that is before his dwelling.

30 ¶ And when Phinehas the priest, and the princes of the congregation and the heads of the thousands of Israel who were with him, heard the words which the children of Reüben and the children of Gad and the children of Menasseh had spoken, it was pleasing in their eyes.

31 And Phinehas the son of Elazar the priest said unto the children of Reüben, and to the children of Gad, and to the children of Menasseh, This day do we know that the LORD is in our midst, because ye have not committed this trespass against the LORD: now have ye delivered[a] the children of Israel out of the hand of the LORD.

32 ¶ And Phinehas the son of Elazar the priest, and the princes, returned from the children of Reüben, and from the children of Gad, out of the land of Gil'ad, unto the land of Canaan, to the children of Israel, and they brought them word again.

33 And the thing was pleasing in the eyes of the children of Israel; and the children of Israel blessed God; and they did not speak any more to go up against them to battle, to destroy the land wherein the children of Reüben and Gad dwelt.

34 And the children of Reüben and the children of Gad called the altar ("'Ed");[b] for (they said) it is a witness between us that the Eternal is God.

CHAPTER XXIII.

1 ¶ And it came to pass after many days, after the LORD had given rest unto Israel from all their enemies round about, and Joshua had grown old and was well stricken in age,

2 That Joshua called for all Israel, for their elders, and for their heads, and for their judges, and for their officers, and said unto them, I am become old and well stricken in age;

3 And ye have yourselves seen all that the LORD your God hath done unto all these nations, because of you; for the LORD your God it is that hath fought for you.

4 Behold, I have divided[c] unto you by lot those nations that yet remain, to be an inheritance according to your tribes, from the Jordan, with all the nations that I have cut off, as far as the great sea, toward the setting of the sun.

5 And the LORD your God will indeed expel them from before you, and drive them out from before you; and ye shall possess their land, as the LORD your God hath spoken unto you.

6 But be ye very steadfast to keep and to do all that is written in the book of the law of Moses, so as not to turn aside therefrom to the right or to the leît;

7 So as not to come among these nations, those that are left remaining near you; and of the name of their gods shall ye not make mention, nor cause any to swear thereby, neither shall ye serve them, nor bow yourselves down unto them;

8 But unto the LORD your God shall ye cleave, as ye have done unto this day.

9 And the LORD drove out from before you great and mighty nations; but as for you, no man hath been able to stand up before you unto this day.

10 One man of you can chase a thousand; for the LORD your God it is that fighteth for you, as he hath spoken unto you.

11 Take good heed therefore for your souls' sake, to love the LORD your God.

12 For if ye do in any wise turn back, and cleave unto the remnant of these nations, those that are left remaining near you, and make marriages with them, and come in among them, and they among you:

13 Know for a certainty that the LORD your God will no more drive out these nations from before you; but they shall be snares and traps unto you, and scourges in your sides, and stings in your eyes, until ye perish from off this good land which the LORD your God hath given you.

14 And, behold, I am going this day the way of all the earth; and ye know with all your heart and with all your soul, that not one thing hath failed of all the good things[a] which the LORD your God spoke concerning you: all are come to pass unto you, not one thing thereof hath failed.

15 But it shall come to pass, that as every good thing is come upon you, which the LORD your God spoke unto you: so will the LORD bring upon you every evil thing, until he have destroyed you from off this good land which the LORD your God hath given unto you.

16 When ye transgress the covenant of the LORD your God, which he hath commanded you, and go and serve other gods, and bow yourselves down to them: then will the anger of the LORD be kindled against you, and ye shall perish quickly from off the good land which he hath given unto you.

CHAPTER XXIV.

1 ¶ And Joshua assembled all the tribes of Israel to Shechem; and he called for the elders of Israel, and for their heads, and for their judges, and for their officers, and they presented themselves[b] before God.

2 And Joshua said unto all the people, Thus hath said the LORD the God of Israel, On the other side of the river[c] did your fathers dwell in old time, even Terach, the father of Abraham, and the father of Nachor; and they served other gods.

3 And I took your father Abraham from the other side of the river, and I led him throughout all the land of Canaan; and I multiplied his seed, and gave him Isaac.

4 And I gave unto Isaac, Jacob and Esau: and I gave unto Esau mount Seïr, to possess it; but Jacob and his children went down into Egypt.

5 And I sent Moses and Aaron, and I plagued Egypt in the manner as I have done among them; and after that I brought you out.

6 And I brought your fathers out of Egypt; and ye came unto the sea; and the Egyptians pursued after your fathers with chariots and horsemen unto the Red Sea.

7 And they cried unto the LORD, and he put darkness between you and the Egyptians, and he brought the sea over them, and covered them; and your eyes saw what I had done on Egypt; and ye dwelt in the wilderness many days.

8 And I brought you into the land of the Emorites, that dwelt on the other side of the Jordan; and they fought with you: and I gave them into your hand, and ye took possession of their land; and I destroyed them from before you.

9 Then Balak the son of Zippor, the king of Moäb, arose and warred[d] against Israel; and he sent and called Bil'am the son of Beör to curse you;

10 And I would not hearken unto Bil'am; but he had to bless you instead: and I delivered you out of his hand.

11 And ye passed over the Jordan, and came unto Jericho; and then fought the men of Jericho against you, the Emorites, and the Perizzites, and the Canaanites, and the Hittites, and the Girgashites, the Hivites, and the Jebusites: and I gave them up into your hand.

12 And I sent before you the hornet which drove them out from before you, even the two kings of the Emorites: not with thy sword, and not with thy bow.

13 And I gave you a land for which ye had not toiled, and cities which ye had not built, and ye dwell in them: of vineyards and oliveyards which ye planted not do ye eat.

14 Now therefore fear the LORD, and serve him in sincerity and in truth; and put away the gods which your fathers served on the other side of the river and in Egypt, and serve the LORD.

15 And if it be displeasing in your eyes to serve the LORD, choose for yourselves this day whom ye will serve: whether the gods which your fathers that were on the other side of the river served, or the gods of the Emorites, in whose land ye dwell; but as for me and my house, we will serve the LORD.

[a] Philippson, "Not one word," "good words."
[b] Lit. "Placed themselves standing."
[c] The Euphrates.
[d] Balak did not make actual war, but his intention to do so (Num. xxii. 6) was accounted as though he had done so.—After REDAK.

16 ¶ And the people answered and said, Far be it from us to forsake the LORD, to serve other gods;

17 For the LORD our God it is that hath brought us and our fathers up out of the land of Egypt, from the house of slavery, and who hath done those great signs before our eyes, and preserved us upon all the way whereon we have gone, and among all the people through the midst of whom we have passed:

18 And the LORD hath driven out all the nations, and the Emorites who dwelt in the land, from before us; therefore also will we serve the LORD; for he is our God.

19 And Joshua said unto the people, Ye will not be able[a] to serve the LORD; for he is a holy God; he is a watchful God; he will not have any indulgence for your transgressions and for your sins;

20 If ye forsake the LORD, and serve strange gods, then will he again do you evil,[b] and consume you, after that he hath done you good.

21 And the people said unto Joshua. No; nevertheless the LORD will we serve.

22 And Joshua said unto the people, Ye are witnesses against yourselves that ye yourselves have chosen for you the LORD, to serve him. And they said, We are witnesses.

23 And[c] now put away the strange gods which are in the midst of you, and incline your heart unto the LORD the God of Israel.

24 And the people said unto Joshua, The LORD our God will we serve, and his voice will we obey.

25 And Joshua made a covenant with the people on that day, and set them a statute[d] and an ordinance in Shechem.

26 And Joshua wrote these words in the book of the law of God; and he took a great stone, and set it up there under the oak, that was by the sanctuary of the LORD.

27 ¶ And Joshua said unto all the people, Behold, this stone shall be among us as a witness; for it hath heard all the words of the LORD which he spoke unto us: it shall be therefore as a witness against you, that ye may not deny your God.

28 And Joshua let the people depart, every man unto his inheritance.

29 ¶ And it came to pass after these things, that Joshua the son of Nun, the servant of the LORD, died, one hundred and ten years old.

30 And they buried him on the border of his inheritance at Timnath-serach, which is on the mountain of Ephraim, on the north side of mount Ga'ash.

31 And Israel served the LORD all the days of Joshua, and all the days of the elders who lived many days after Joshua, and who had known all the deeds of the LORD, that he had done for Israel.

32 And the bones of Joseph, which the children of Israel had brought up out of Egypt, they buried in Shechem, in a parcel of the field which Jacob had bought of the sons of Chamor the father of Shechem for one hundred kessitah: and it remained the inheritance of the children of Joseph.

33 And Elazar the son of Aaron died; and they buried him on the hill of Phinehas his son, which was given him in the mountain of Ephraim.

CONTAINING THE HISTORY OF ISRAEL FROM THE DEATH OF JOSHUA TO THE BIRTH OF SAMUEL.

CHAPTER I.

1 ¶ And it came to pass after the death of Joshua, that the children of Israel asked the Lord, saying, Who shall go up for us against the Canaanites at the first, to fight against them?

2 And the Lord said, Judah shall go up; behold, I have delivered[a] the land into his hand.

3 And Judah said unto Simeon his brother, Come up with me into my lot, and we will fight against the Canaanites; and I likewise will go with thee into thy lot. So Simeon went with him.[b]

4 And Judah went up; and the Lord delivered the Canaanites and the Perizzites into their hand; and they smote (of) them in Bezek ten thousand men.

5 And they found Adoni-bezek in Bezek; and they fought against him, and they smote the Canaanites and the Perizzites.

6 But Adoni-bezek fled; and they pursued after him, and caught him, and cut off his thumbs and his great toes.

7 And Adoni-bezek said, Seventy kings,[c] having their thumbs and their great toes cut off, gathered food under my table: as I have done, so hath God requited me. And they brought him to Jerusalem, and he died there.

8 ¶ And the children of Judah fought against Jerusalem,[d] and captured it, and they smote it with the edge of the sword, and the city they set on fire.

9 And afterward did the children of Judah go down to fight against the Canaanites, that dwelt in the mountain, and in the south, and in the lowlands.

10 And Judah went against the Canaanites that dwelt in Hebron; (now the name of Hebron was formerly Kiryath-arba';) and they smote Sheshai, and Achiman, and Talmai.

11 And he went from there against the inhabitants of Debir; and the name of Debir was formerly Kiryath-sepher:

12 And Caleb said, He that will smite Kiryath-sepher, and capture it, to him will I give 'Achsah my daughter for wife.

13 And 'Othniel the son of Kenaz, Caleb's younger brother, captured it: and he gave him 'Achsah his daughter for wife.

14 And it came to pass, when she came to him, that she persuaded him to ask of her father a field: and she alighted from off her ass; and Caleb said unto her, What aileth thee?

15 And she said unto him, Give me a blessing; for thou hast given me a dry land: give me also springs of water. And Caleb gave her the upper springs and the nether springs.

16 ¶ And the children of the Kenite, the father-in-law of Moses, went up out of the city of palm-trees with the children of Judah into the wilderness of Judah, which is at the south of 'Arad; and they went and dwelt with the people.

17 And Judah went with Simeon his brother, and they smote the Canaanites that inhabited Zephath, and devoted it. And the name of the city was called Chormah.

18 And Judah captured Gazzah with its territory, and Ashkelon with its territory, and 'Ekron with its territory.

19 And the LORD was with Judah; and he took possession of the mountain; but[a] could not drive out the inhabitants of the valley, because they had chariots of iron.

20 And they gave Hebron unto Caleb, as Moses had spoken; and he drove out thence the three sons of 'Anak.

21 And the Jebusites that inhabited Jerusalem, the children of Benjamin did not drive out; but the Jebusites dwelt with the children of Benjamin in Jerusalem until this day.

22 ¶ And the house of Joseph, these also, went up against Beth-el; and the LORD was with them.

23 And the house of Joseph sent to spy out Beth-el: now the name of the city formerly was Luz.

24 And the watchers saw a man coming forth out of the city, and they said unto him, Show us, we pray thee, the entrance into the city, and we will show thee kindness.

25 And he showed them the entrance into the city, and they smote the city with the edge of the sword; but the man and all his family they let go free.

26 And the man went into the land of the Hittites, and built a city, and called its name Luz: this is its name unto this day.

27 ¶ Neither did Menasseh drive out (the inhabitants of) Beth-sheän and its towns, nor Ta'anach and its towns, nor the inhabitants of Dor and its towns, nor the inhabitants of Yible'am and its towns, nor the inhabitants of Megiddo and its towns; but the Canaanites succeeded[b] to remain in this land.

28 And it came to pass, when Israel became strong, that they put the Canaanites to tribute; but they did not drive them out entirely.

29 ¶ Neither did Ephraim drive out the Canaanites that dwelt in Gezer; and the Canaanites dwelt in the midst of them at Gezer.

30 ¶ Zebulun did not drive out the inhabitants of Kitron, nor the inhabitants of Nahalol; and the Canaanites dwelt in the midst of them, and became tributary.

31 ¶ Asher did not drive out the inhabitants of 'Akko, nor the inhabitants of Zidon, nor of Achlab, nor of Achzib, nor of Chelbah, nor of Aphik, nor of Rechob;

32 And the Asherites dwelt in the midst of the Canaanites, the inhabitants of the land; for they did not drive them out.

33 ¶ Naphtali did not drive out the inhabitants of Beth-shemesh, nor the inhabitants of Beth-'anath; and he dwelt in the midst of the Canaanites, the inhabitants of the land; nevertheless the inhabitants of Beth-shemesh and of Beth-'anath became tributary unto them.

34 And the Emorites forced the children of Dan into the mountain; for they would not suffer them to come down into the valley;

35 And the Emorites succeeded to remain on mount Cheres, in Ayalon, and in Sha'albim; but when the hand of the house of Joseph prevailed,[c] they became tributary.

36 And the territory of the Emorites was from the ascent of 'Akrabbim, from the Rock[d] upward.

CHAPTER II.

1 ¶ And a messenger of the LORD came up from Gilgal to Bochim.

¶ And he said, I caused you to go up out of Egypt, and I brought you unto the land which I had sworn unto your fathers; and I said, I will not break my covenant with you for ever.

2 But ye for your part shall make no covenant with the inhabitants of this land; their altars shall ye throw down; but ye have not obeyed my voice: what is this ye have done?

3 And I also have said, I will not drive them out from before you; but they shall be evil neighbours to you,[e] and their gods shall become a snare unto you.

[b] After Sachs; others, "They were content," meaning, "not to encroach elsewhere;" Philippson, "they began;" Herxheimer, "undertook."

[c] Lit. "As the hand of the house of Joseph grew heavy," which means that the Emorites who resisted the Danites were at length overcome by the tribe of Ephraim.

[d] Sela'; no doubt, Petra, in Edom, the capital of Arabia Petræa, which was called after it. "And upward" means farther to the southern mountain range.

[e] In Num. xxxiii. 55, לְצִדִּים has been given with "as thorns;" it might be rendered here again so, "they shall be to you as thorns;" but as the word stands unconnected, Rashi has been followed, who gives, "that they shall attack your sides with troops and armies to rob and plunder." Jonathan translates לְמִיעָקִין "as terrors." Our version embraces all the ideas.

4 And it came to pass, when the messenger of the LORD spoke these words unto all the children of Israel, that the people lifted up their voice, and wept.

5 And they called the name of that place, Bochim;[a] and they sacrificed there unto the LORD.

6 ¶ And when[b] Joshua had let the people go, the children of Israel went every man unto his inheritance to take possession of the land.

7 And the people served the LORD all the days of Joshua, and all the days of the elders that lived many days after Joshua, who had seen all the great deeds of the LORD, which he had done for Israel.

8 Then died Joshua the son of NUN, the servant of the LORD, being one hundred and ten years old.

9 And they buried him on the border of his inheritance in Timnath-cheres, in the mountain of Ephraim, on the north side of mount Ga'ash.

10 And also all that generation were gathered unto their fathers; and there arose another generation after them, who knew not the LORD, and likewise not the deeds which he had done for Israel.

11 ¶ And the children of Israel did the evil in the eyes of the LORD, and served the Be'alim:

12 And they forsook the LORD the God of their fathers, who had brought them out of the land of Egypt, and they went after other gods, of the gods of the nations that were round about them, and they bowed themselves unto them, and incensed the LORD.

13 And they forsook the LORD, and served Baäl and 'Ashtaroth.

14 And the anger of the LORD was kindled against Israel, and he delivered them into the hand of spoilers who spoiled them, and he sold them into the hand of their enemies round about, and they were not able any longer to stand before their enemies.

15 Whithersoever they went out, the hand of the LORD was against them for evil, as the LORD had spoken, and as the LORD had sworn unto them: and they were greatly distressed.

16 And the LORD raised up judges, and they delivered them out of the hand of those that spoiled them.

17 But also unto their judges they did not hearken; but they went astray after other gods, and bowed themselves unto them: they turned quickly out of the way which their fathers had walked in, to obey the commandments of the LORD; they did not so.

18 And when the LORD raised them up judges, then was the LORD with the judge, and he delivered them out of the hand of their enemies all the days of the judge; for the LORD bethought himself because of their groaning by reason of those that oppressed them and ill-treated them.

19 And it came to pass, when the judge died, that they returned, and became more corrupt than their fathers, in going after other gods to serve them, and to bow down unto them: they omitted nothing from their doings, and from their stubborn way.

20 And the anger of the LORD was kindled against Israel; and he said, For the cause that this people have transgressed my covenant which I commanded their fathers, and have not hearkened unto my voice:

21 So will I also for my part not drive out henceforth any man from before them out of the nations which Joshua left when he died;

22 In order to prove through them the Israelites, whether they will keep the way of the LORD, to walk therein, as their fathers did keep it, or not.

23 And thus did the LORD leave these nations, so as not to drive them out speedily; and he delivered them not into the hand of Joshua.

CHAPTER III.

1 ¶ Now these are the nations that the LORD left, to prove by them the Israelites, namely, all those who had not experienced all the wars of Canaan;

2 Only in order that the future generations of the children of Israel might obtain knowledge, to teach them war; but only such as before had learned nothing thereof;[c]

[a] That is, "weepers."

[b] This passage (6 to 10) refers back to the narrative at the end of the book of Joshua, which has been interrupted by the account of the conquest of the land.

[c] Namely, the wars of Canaan mentioned in verse 1. Rashi comments: "Only for this purpose did God leave them, that the future generations of Israel might know and understand the effects of sinning, since they would be compelled to learn war; while, however, (רק) before, when they were ready to serve the LORD, they had no knowledge of these wars and their pomps, and had no need of them."

3 Namely, the five lords of the Philistines, and all the Canaanites, and the Zidonians, and the Hivites that dwelt on mount Leba-non, from mount Ba'al-chermon unto the entrance[a] of Chamath.

4 And they were left to prove by them the Israelites, to know whether they would hearken unto the commandments of the LORD, which he had commanded their fathers by the hand of Moses.

5 And the children of Israel dwelt in the midst of the Canaanites, the Hittites, and the Emorites, and the Perizzites, and the Hivites, and the Jebusites;

6 And they took their daughters to themselves for wives, and their daughters they gave to their sons; and they served their gods.

7 ¶ And the children of Israel did (thus) the evil in the eyes of the LORD, and forgot the LORD their God, and served the Be'alim and the groves.[b]

8 Wherefore the anger of the LORD was kindled against Israel, and he sold them into the hand of Cushan-rish'athayim the king of Mesopotamia; and the children of Israel served Cushan-rish'athayim eight years.

9 And the children of Israel cried then unto the LORD, and the LORD raised up a deliverer to the children of Israel, who delivered them, namely, 'Othniel the son of Kenaz, the younger brother of Caleb.

10 And the spirit of the LORD came over him, and he judged Israel, and went out to battle: and the LORD delivered Cushan-rish-'athayim the king of Mesopotamia into his hand; and his hand prevailed over Cushan-rish'athayim.

11 And the land had rest forty years; and then died 'Othniel the son of Kenaz.

12 ¶ And the children of Israel did again the evil in the eyes of the LORD; and the LORD strengthened 'Eglon the king of Moäb against Israel, because they had done the evil in the eyes of the LORD.

13 And he gathered unto him the children of 'Ammon and 'Amalek, and they went and smote Israel, and took possession of the city of palm-trees.

14 And the children of Israel served 'Eglon the king of Moäb eighteen years.

15 But the children of Israel cried then unto the LORD; and the LORD raised up unto them a deliverer, Ehud the son of Gera a Benjamite, a man who was lamed in his right hand;[c] and the children of Israel sent by him a present unto 'Eglon the king of Moäb.

16 But Ehud made himself a sword which had two edges, of a cubit length; and he girded it under his garments upon his right thigh.[d]

17 And he brought the present near unto 'Eglon the king of Moäb; now 'Eglon was a very fat man.

18 And it came to pass when he had made an end to offer the present, that he sent away the people who had borne the present.

19 But he himself returned again from the quarries that were by Gilgal, and said, I have a secret word unto thee, O king. And he said, Keep silence. And thereupon went out from his presence all that stood by him.

20 And Ehud came in unto him; and he was sitting in the summer upper chamber,[e] which was for himself alone. And Ehud said, I have a word of God unto thee. And he arose out of his chair.

21 And Ehud stretched forth his left hand, and took the sword from his right thigh, and thrust it into his body.

22 And the haft also went in after the blade; and the fat closed upon the blade; for he did not draw the sword out of his body, and it passed into the fundament.

23 And Ehud went forth into the anteroom, and shut[f] the doors of the upper chamber after him, and locked them.

24 He was just gone out, when his servants came; and they saw, behold, the doors of the upper chamber were locked; and they said, Surely he covereth his feet in the summer chamber.

[a] Called at a later period "Cœlesyria."

[b] Sachs leaves אשרות untranslated, "Asheroth." Philippson, "the Astartés," as though it were 'Ashtaroth, and says, that the Phœnicians placed the statue of this idol, "the goddess of fortune," in groves.

[c] After Rashi and Jonathan; others, "left-handed," and others again, "using both hands alike."

[e] Lit. "a cooling upper-room," or the chamber under the roof of the house, which was open to the cooling winds; often used for private conversation (1 Sam. ix. 26,) or prayer (2 Kings xxiii. 12).

[f] Sachs and others, "locked the doors—and bolted them."

25 And they tarried till they were ashamed; and behold, he opened not the doors of the upper chamber; wherefore they took the key and opened them: and, behold, their lord was lying dead on the floor.

26 And Ehud had escaped while they were tarrying, and passed beyond the quarries, and escaped unto Se'irah.[a]

27 And it came to pass, when he was come, that he blew the cornet on the mountain of Ephraim, and the children of Israel went down with him from the mountain, and he before them.

28 And he said unto them, Pursue after me; for the LORD hath delivered your enemies, the Moäbites, into your hand. And they went down after him, and seized on the fords of the Jordan toward Moäb, and suffered not a man to pass over.

29 And they smote of Moäb at that time about ten thousand men, all lusty, and all men of valour; and there escaped not a man.

30 And Moäb was humbled that day under the hand of Israel. And the land had rest eighty years.

31 ¶ And after him was Shamgar the son of 'Anath, who smote of the Philistines six hundred men with an ox-goad;[b] and he also delivered Israel.

CHAPTER IV.

1 ¶ And the children of Israel again did the evil in the eyes of the LORD, when Ehud was dead.

2 And the LORD sold them into the hand of Yabin the king of Canaan, that reigned in Chazor; and the captain of his army was Sissera, who dwelt in Charosheth-hagoyim.

3 And the children of Israel cried unto the LORD; for he had nine hundred chariots of iron; and he oppressed the children of Israel with might twenty years.

4 And Deborah, a prophetess, the wife of Lapidoth,—she judged Israel at that time.

5 And she held her sitting under the palm-tree of Deborah between Ramah and Beth-el on the mountain of Ephraim: and the children of Israel came up to her for judgment.

6 And she sent and called Barak the son of Abino'am out of Kedesh-naphtali; and she said unto him, Behold, the LORD the God of Israel hath commanded, Go and lead on toward mount Tabor, and take with thee ten thousand men of the children of Naphtali and of the children of Zebulun.

7 And I will draw unto thee, to the brook Kishon, Sissera, the captain of Yabin's army, and his chariots and his multitude; and I will give him up into thy hand.

8 And Barak said unto her, If thou wilt go with me, then will I go; but if thou wilt not go with me, I will not go.

9 And she said, I will indeed go with thee; nevertheless it will not be for thy honour, on the way which thou goest; for into the hand of a woman will the LORD deliver[c] Sissera; and Deborah arose, and went with Barak to Kedesh.

10 And Barak called Zebulun and Naphtali together to Kedesh; and there went up in his train ten thousand men; also Deborah went up with him.

11 Now Cheber the Kenite had severed himself from the Kenites, from the children of Chobab the father-in-law of Moses; and he had pitched his tent as far as[d] Elon-beza'anannim, which is near Kedesh.

12 And they told Sissera that Barak the son of Abino'am was gone up to mount Tabor.

13 And Sissera called together all his chariots, nine hundred chariots of iron, and all the people that were with him, from Charosheth-hagoyim unto the brook Kishon.

14 And Deborah said unto Barak, Up! for this is the day on which the LORD hath given Sissera into thy hand; behold, the LORD is gone out before thee: so Barak went down from mount Tabor, with ten thousand men after him.

15 And the LORD confounded Sissera, and all his chariots, and all his army,[e] with the edge of the sword before Barak; and Sissera alighted from his chariot, and fled away on foot.

16 And Barak pursued after the chariots,

[a] "Brush-wood."—RASHI.

[b] A long stick, armed at the end with a sharp point, for driving oxen; a powerful instrument in the hand of a strong man.

[c] Heb. "sell."

[d] Meaning that, in moving about with his herds, he had extended his pasture-ground to the place indicated. (See also Gen. xiii. 12.) Elon is translated by others, "the grove of Za'anannim."

[e] Lit "camp;" or, "those who make up the camp" and after the army, unto Charosheth-hagoyim: and all the army of Sissera fell by the edge of the sword; there was not left even one.

17 But Sissera[a] had fled away on foot to the tent of Ja'el the wife of Cheber the Kenite; for there was peace between Yabin the king of Chazor and the house of Cheber the Kenite.

18 And Ja'el went out to meet Sissera, and said unto him, Turn in, my lord, turn in unto me, fear not: and he turned in unto her into the tent, and she covered him with a blanket.

19 And he said unto her, Give me to drink, I pray thee, a little water; for I am thirsty: and she opened a bottle of milk, and gave him to drink, and covered him up.

20 And he said unto her, Stand at the door of the tent; and it shall be, that, when any man should come and ask of thee, and say, Is there any man here? thou shalt say, No.

21 And Ja'el the wife of Cheber took thereupon the nail of the tent, and placed a hammer in her hand, and went softly unto him, and struck the nail into his temple, and it became fastened in the ground;[b] but he was fast asleep and weary; so he died.

22 And, behold, Barak came in pursuit of Sissera, and Ja'el came out to meet him, and said unto him, Come, and I will show thee the man whom thou art seeking: and he came to her, and behold, Sissera was lying dead, with the nail in his temple.

23 So did God humble on that day Yabin the king of Canaan before the children of Israel.

24 And the hand of the children of Israel became constantly heavier upon Yabin the king of Canaan, until they had destroyed Yabin the king of Canaan.

CHAPTER V.

1 ¶ Then sang Deborah with Barak the son of Abino'am on that day, saying,

2 When depravity[c] had broken out in Israel, then did the people offer themselves willingly; (therefore) praise ye the LORD.

3 Hear, O kings; give ear, O princes; I—unto the LORD will I sing; I will sing praise to the LORD, the God of Israel.

4 LORD, at thy going forth out of Seïr, at thy marching along out of the field of Edom, the earth trembled, also the heavens dropped, also the clouds dropped water.

5 The mountains melted away because of the presence of the LORD, yonder Sinai, because of the presence of the LORD, the God of Israel.

6 In the days of Shamgar the son of 'Anath, in the days of Ja'el, the highways were unoccupied, and those who travelled on roads walked through crooked by-paths.

7 Desolate were the open towns[d] in Israel, they were desolate, until that I arose, Deborah, that I arose a mother in Israel.

8 They chose new gods, then was there war in the gates: was there a shield seen or a spear among forty thousand in Israel?[e]

9 My heart (belongeth) to the governors of Israel, that offered themselves willingly among the people:[f] praise ye the LORD.

10 Ye that ride on white asses, ye that sit in judgment,[g] and ye who walk on the way, utter praise!

11 (Urged on)[h] by the voice of those who

[a] This is quite in accordance with the manner of the writers of the Bible; they first give an account in general terms, and next they relate the particulars which resulted to one or more of the persons in the narrative.

[b] Arnheim renders והצנח בארץ "she (Ja'el) cowered down on the ground," viz. for the purpose of striking.

[c] After Rashi, Arnheim, and Sachs. (Exod. xxxii. 25.) Philippson renders פרעות with "princes," and derives it from an Arabic root, signifying "to lead in a matter;" and translates, "that in their might arose the princes in Israel; that the people," &c. Herxheimer, "when deliverance (Num. v. 18) was effected in Israel." According to our version, this verse forms the retrospect upon the past.

[d] Rashi; but Sachs and others, after the Septuagint, make פרז "a chief;" hence פרזון "princes;" "the princes ceased;" but the text requires no such forced construction.

[e] Although they had arms, their sins caused them not to wield them, and to flee ingloriously.

[f] This means, that her goodwill is for those chiefs who volunteered with the people in time of danger.

[g] Ralbag makes "Middin" the name of a place, (Josh. xv. 61,) thus: "Those who had to stop at Middin for fear." Zunz and others, "on carpets," i. e. who live at home; first the "riders," next, "the sitters," and next, "the wanderers," are thus called on to thank God.

[h] "Instead of the voice of the archers,"—PHILIPPSON, מחצצים from חץ "arrow." Sachs, "louder than the call of those who divide," from חצץ "to divide;" i. e. those who sing praises shall now be able to speak out more freely than the shepherds do when they divide their flocks after watering them, without fearing the enemy. Our text says, that the people, incited by the shepherds, who now are again unmolested, shall sing.

divide (the flocks) between the watering wells, there shall they rehearse the benefits of the LORD, the benefits toward his open towns in Israel; (for) now go down (again) to the gates the people of the LORD.

12 Awake, awake, Deborah! awake, awake, utter a song! up, Barak, and lead away thy captives, son of Abino'am.

13 Then obtained[a] dominion a few that had escaped for the nobles among the people —the LORD gave me dominion over the mighty.

14 They whose root is out of Ephraim were against 'Amalek; after thee, Benjamin, with thy armies; out of Machir came down lawgivers, and out of Zebulun they that handle the pen[b] of the writer.

15 And the princes of Issachar were with Deborah; yea Issachar, the support[c] of Barak; into the valley he hastened down in his train; (but) at the streams[d] of Reüben there were great thoughts[e] of heart.

16 Why didst thou sit among the sheepfolds to hear the bleatings[f] of the flocks? At the streams of Reüben there were great searchings of heart.

17 Gil'ad abode beyond the Jordan; and Dan—why would he tarry in ships? Asher remained on the seashore, and abode near his bays.

18 Zebulun is a people that jeoparded its life unto death, and Naphtali—on the high places of the (battle) field.

19 There came kings, (and) fought, then fought the kings of Canaan, in Ta'anach by the waters of Megiddo: gain[g] of money they took not away.

20 From heaven they fought—the stars in their courses fought against Sissera.

21 The stream of Kishon swept them away, that ancient[h] stream, the stream of Kishon: step along, O my soul, in victorious strength.

22 Then were crushed the hoofs of the horses, through the prancings, the prancings of their mighty ones.

23 Curse ye Meroz, saith the messenger of the LORD, yea, curse ye bitterly its inhabitants; because they came not to the help of the LORD, to the help of the LORD among the mighty.

24 Blessed above (other) women shall be Ja'el the wife of Cheber the Kenite, above (other) women (dwelling) in the tent may she be blessed.

25 Water he asked, milk she gave (him): in a lordly dish she brought him cream.

26 Her hand she put forth to the nail, and her right hand to the laborious workmen's hammer; and she hammered Sissera, she struck his head, and crushed and smote through his temple.

27 Between her feet he bent, he fell, he lay; between her feet he bent, he fell: where he had bent, there he fell down, bereft of life.

28 Out of the window looked and moaned the mother of Sissera, through the lattice, Why tarrieth his chariot so long in coming? why lag the wheels[i] of his chariot?

29 The wise among her ladies answered her, she also returned a reply to herself,

30 Will they not find,—divide booty? one maiden, two maidens for every man, a booty of coloured garments for Sissera, a booty of coloured embroidered garments, coloured, double-worked garments round the necks of the captives?

31 Thus may perish all thy enemies, O LORD; but may those that love him be as the rising of the sun in his might. And the land had rest forty years.

[a] After Sachs. Rashi, "Then obtained a remnant dominion over the nobles of the enemy." PHILIPPSON, "Then went down a handful against a mighty people, the LORD went down with me against the heroes,"—taking ירד yerad as equal to yarad; whereas the others make it derived from ודה radah, "to rule."

[b] After Jonathan. Zunz and others, "the staff of the writer." Philippson and Herxheimer take כפר sopher, "leader," referring to Jer. lii. 25, though there it is more likely "secretary or scribe."

[c] After Arnheim; but Rashi has it, "and the other men of Issachar likewise," כן as thus, "were with Barak." In our version כן is in the sense of "base," hence, "support."

[d] Rashi renders "in the divisions of the heart of Reüben." We have given it as "streams," after Ps. lxv. 10.

[e] i. e. Very cautious men, who would not venture into the battle.

[f] Philippson, "pipes," in opposition to the "cornet" of the warrior.

[g] Philippson after Thanchum, "a small piece of silver;" but Rashi comments, "they came to help Sissera without object of reward." It may mean, however, that they obtained no booty; and it is then an ironical allusion to the shameful defeat of the Canaanites.

[h] "The battle stream."—SACHS and others.

[i] Lit. "the steps of his chariots." Sachs, "the steps of his teams."

CHAPTER VI.

1 ¶ And the children of Israel did the evil in the eyes of the LORD: and the LORD delivered them into the hand of Midian seven years.

2 And the hand of Midian prevailed over Israel; and because of the Midianites the children of Israel made for themselves the passes which are in the mountains, and the caves, and the strong-holds.

3 And it was, when Israel had sown, that the Midianites came up, and the 'Amalekites, and the children of the east, and they went up against them;

4 And they encamped against them, and destroyed the products of the earth, as far as Gazzah,[a] and they left no sustenance for Israel, neither lamb, nor ox, nor ass.

5 For they came up with their cattle and their tents, and came as locusts in multitude; and both they and their camels were without number; and they came into the land to destroy it.

6 And Israel was greatly impoverished because of the Midianites; and the children of Israel cried unto the LORD.

7 ¶ And it came to pass, when the children of Israel had cried unto the LORD because of the Midianites,

8 That the LORD sent a prophet unto the children of Israel, and he said unto them, Thus hath said the LORD the God of Israel, I led you forth out of Egypt, and brought you out of the house of slavery;

9 And I delivered you out of the hand of the Egyptians, and out of the hand of all that oppressed you, and I drove them out from before you, and gave you their land;

10 And I said unto you, I am the LORD your God: ye shall not fear the gods of the Emorites, in whose land ye dwell; but ye have not obeyed my voice.

11 ¶ And there came an angel of the LORD, and sat down under the oak which was in 'Ophrah, that pertained unto Joäsh[b] the Abi'ezrite; and Gid'on[c] his son was beating out wheat in the wine-press,[d] to hide it from the Midianites.

12 And the angel of the LORD appeared unto him, and said unto him, The LORD is with thee, thou mighty man of valour.

13 And Gid'on said unto him, Pardon, my lord, if the LORD be indeed with us, why then hath all this befallen us? and where are all his wonders of which our fathers have told us, saying, Did not the LORD bring us up from Egypt? But now the LORD hath forsaken us, and delivered us into the hand of Midian.

14 And the LORD turned toward him, and said, Go in this thy might, and thou shalt save Israel from the hand of the Midianites: behold, I have sent thee.

15 And he said unto him, Pardon my Lord,[e] wherewith shall I save Israel? behold, my family is the weakest in Menasseh, and I am the youngest in my father's house.

16 And the LORD said unto him, Because I will be with thee, and thou shalt smite the Midianites as one man.

17 And he said unto him, If now I have found grace in thy eyes, then give me a sign[f] that thou hast been speaking with me;

18 Depart not hence, I pray thee, until I come unto thee, and bring forth my present, and set it before thee. And he said, I will tarry until thy return.

19 And Gid'on went in, and made ready a kid, and unleavened cakes of an ephah of flour: the flesh he put in a basket, and the broth he put in a pot, and brought it out unto him under the oak, and presented it.

20 And the angel of God said unto him, Take the flesh and the unleavened cakes, and lay them upon this rock, and the broth pour out. And he did so.

21 Then the angel of the LORD put forth the end of the staff that was in his hand, and touched the flesh and the unleavened cakes; and there rose up fire out of the rock, and consumed the flesh and the unleavened cakes. And the angel of the LORD departed out of his sight.

22 And when Gid'on perceived that it was

[a] Lit. "until thou comest to Gazza."

[b] Correctly Yoäsh.

[c] Commonly spelled "Gideon."

[d] i. e. Only a small quantity at a time, so as not to attract the watchful Midianites.

[e] According to the Massorah, Gid'on addressed God, as it is written Adonay, not Adoni. But our version is after Michlol Yophi.

[f] Gid'on requested a token by which he could be certain that it was no delusion, his having been conversing with a messenger of God, or more yet, that he had received a direct communication from the LORD.

an angel of the LORD, Gid'on said, Alas, O Lord Eternal! because I have surely seen an angel of the LORD face to face.

23 And the LORD said unto him, Peace be unto thee; fear not: thou shalt not die.

24 And Gid'on built there an altar unto the LORD, and called it Adonay-shalom [the Eternal of Peace:] unto this day it is yet in 'Ophrah of the Abi'ezrites.

25 ¶ And it came to pass in the same night, that the LORD said unto him, Take thy father's young bullock, and the second bullock of seven years old, and throw down the altar of Baäl which belongeth to thy father, and the grove that is around it shalt thou cut down.

26 And build an altar unto the LORD thy God upon the top of this rock, on the level place, and take the second bullock, and offer (it as) a burnt-sacrifice with the wood of the grove which thou shalt cut down.

27 And Gid'on took ten men of his servants, and did as the LORD had spoken unto him; but it came to pass, because he feared his father's household, and the men of the city, to do it by day, that he did it by night.

28 And when the men of the city arose early in the morning, behold, the altar of Baäl was overthrown, and the grove that was around it was cut down, and the second bullock was offered upon the altar which had been built.

29 And they said one to another, Who hath done this thing? And they inquired and searched, and then said, Gid'on the son of Joäsh hath done this thing.

30 Thereupon said the men of the city unto Joäsh, Bring out thy son, that he may die; because he hath overthrown the altar of Baäl, and because he hath cut down the grove that was around it.

31 But Joäsh said unto all that stood around him, Will ye indeed contend for Baäl? will ye assist him? he that will contend for him, shall be put to death; (wait)[b] until morning: if he be a god, let him contend for himself, because one hath overthrown his altar.

32 And the people called him on that day Yerubba'al,[c] saying, Let Baäl contend against him, because he hath overthrown his altar.

33 ¶ And all the Midianites and 'Amalekites and the children of the east assembled together, and went over[d] and encamped in the valley of Yizre'el.

34 But the Spirit of the LORD endued Gid'on, and he blew the cornet: and Abi'ezer assembled and followed him.

35 And he sent messengers throughout all Menasseh, who also assembled and followed him; and he sent messengers through Asher, and through Zebulun, and through Naphtali, and they came up to meet them.

36 And Gid'on said unto God, If thou wilt save Israel by my hand, as thou hast spoken, 37 Behold, I set up this fleece of wool in the threshing floor: if now there be dew on the fleece alone, and it be dry upon all the ground, then shall I know that thou wilt save Israel by my hand, as thou hast spoken.

38 And it was so; and when he rose up early on the morrow, he squeezed the fleece together, and wrung dew out of the fleece, (making) a bowl full of water.

39 And Gid'on said unto God, Let not thy anger be kindled against me, and I will speak but this once (more); let me have a proof, I pray thee, but this once more with the fleece; let it, I pray, be dry upon the fleece alone, and upon all the ground let there be dew.

40 And God did so that night; and it was dry upon the fleece alone, and on all the ground there was dew.

CHAPTER VII.

1 ¶ Then Yerubba'al, who is Gid'on, and all the people that were with him, rose up early, and encamped beside the spring of Charod; and the camp of the Midianites was on the north side of them, by the hill of Moreh, in the valley.

2 ¶ And the LORD said unto Gid'on, The people that are with thee are too many for me to give the Midianites into their hand: lest Israel should vaunt themselves against me, saying, My own hand hath saved me.

3 Now therefore, do proclaim in the ears of the people, saying, Whosoever is fearful and afraid, let him return and depart early[e] from mount Gil'ad.[a] And there returned of the people twenty and two thousand; and ten thousand remained.

4 ¶ And the LORD said unto Gid'on, The people are yet too many; let them go down unto the water, and I will try them for thee there: and it shall be, that of whom I will say unto thee, This one shall go with thee, the same shall go with thee; and of whomsoever I will say unto thee, This one shall not go with thee, the same shall not go.

5 ¶ So he caused the people to go down unto the water: and the LORD said unto Gid'on, Every one that lappeth of the water with his tongue, as the dog lappeth, him shalt thou set by himself; likewise every one that bendeth down upon his knees to drink.

6 And the number of those that lapped, putting their hand[b] to their mouth, was three hundred men; but all the rest of the people bent down upon their knees to drink water.

7 ¶ And the LORD said unto Gid'on, By the three hundred men that lapped will I save you, and deliver the Midianites into thy hand; and let all the other people go every man unto his place.

8 And they took the provision of the people in their hand, and their cornets; and all the rest of Israel he dismissed, every man unto his tent; but those three hundred men he retained: and the camp of Midian was beneath him in the valley.

9 ¶ And it came to pass, during the same night, that the LORD said unto him, Arise, get thee down into the camp; for I have delivered it into thy hand.

10 And if thou fear to go down, then go thou down with Purah thy servant to the camp.

11 And thou shalt hear what they will say; and after that shall thy hands be strengthened, and thou wilt go down unto the camp. And he went down with Purah his servant unto the outside[c] of the armed men that were in the camp.

12 And the Midianites and the 'Amalekites and all the children of the east lay along in the valley like the locusts for multitude; and their camels were without number, as the sand which is by the seaside for multitude.

13 And when Gid'on was come, behold, a man was telling a dream unto his fellow, and said, Behold, I have dreamed a dream, and, lo, a baked cake of barley bread was rolling round through the camp of Midian, and came unto the tent,[d] and struck against it so that it fell, and it turned it bottom upward, and the tent thus tumbled down.

14 And his fellow answered and said, This is nothing else save the sword of Gid'on the son of Joäsh, a man of Israel; into whose hand God hath delivered Midian, and the whole camp.

15 ¶ And it was, when Gid'on heard the narration of the dream, and its interpretation, that he prostrated himself, and returned unto the camp of Israel, and said, Arise; for the LORD hath delivered into your hand the camp of Midian.

16 And he divided the three hundred men into three companies, and he put cornets in the hand of all of them, with empty pitchers, and torches in the pitchers.

17 And he said unto them, What you see me do, do ye likewise; and, behold, when I am come to the edge of the camp, it shall be that, as I do, so shall ye do.

18 When I blow the cornet, I and all that are with me, then shall ye blow the cornets also on every side of all the camp, and say, For the LORD, and for Gid'on.

19 ¶ And Gid'on, and the hundred men that were with him, came unto the edge of the camp in the beginning of the middle watch; when they had but newly set the sentinels: and they blew the cornets, and broke the pitchers that were in their hand.

20 And the three companies blew the cornets, and broke the pitchers, and seized with their left hand the torches, and with their right hand the cornets to blow; and they cried, The sword for the LORD, and for Gid'on.

21 And they remained standing every man in his place round about the camp; and all (in) the camp ran, and shouted, and fled.

[a] Rabbi Joseph Schwarz, in his Geography, page 164, alleges that there is, about one mile east of Serain, the ancient Yizre'el, a mount called Djebl Djulud, which he deems a corruption from Djilead, or the Gil'ad of this verse. Others explain that they might go back to mount Gil'ad proper, on the east side of the Jordan.

[b] These put their hand into the spring and lapped the water out their hand; the others kneeled down in form and drank from the spring direct, or fetched it in buckets or their helmets.

[c] Perhaps equal to the modern "outposts."

[d] No doubt that of the sheik.

22 And as the three hundred cornets sounded, the LORD set every man's sword against his fellow, even throughout all the camp;[a] and (those in) the camp fled as far as Beth-hashittah to Zererah, up to the border of Abelmecholah, near Tabbath.

23 And the men of Israel were called together out of Naphtali, and out of Asher, and out of all Menasseh, and they pursued after the Midianites.

24 And Gid'on sent messengers throughout all the mountain of Ephraim, saying, Come down against the Midianites, and seize from them the waters as far as Beth-barah and the Jordan. And all the men of Ephraim assembled themselves, and seized on the waters as far as Beth-barah and the Jordan.

25 And they captured two princes of the Midianites, 'Oreb and Zeëb; and they slew 'Oreb upon the rock 'Oreb, and Zeëb they slew at the winepress of Zeëb, and pursued the Midianites; and the heads of 'Oreb and Zeëb they brought to Gid'on from[b] the other side of the Jordan.

CHAPTER VIII.

1 And the men of Ephraim said unto him, What is this thing that thou hast done unto us, not to call for us, when thou wentest to fight with the Midianites? And they quarrelled with him vehemently.

2 And he said unto them, What have I done now in comparison with you? Is not the gleaning of Ephraim better than the vintage of Abi'ezer?

3 Into your hand God delivered the princes of Midian, 'Oreb and Zeëb: and what have I been able to do in comparison with you? Then was their anger[c] abated from him, when he had spoken this speech.

4 And Gid'on came to the Jordan, and passed over, he, and the three hundred men that were with him, faint, and in pursuit.

5 And he said unto the men of Succoth, Give, I pray you, a few loaves of bread unto the people that are in my train; for they are faint, and I am pursuing after Zebach and Zalmunna,' the kings of Midian.

6 And the princes of Succoth said, Is the sole[d] of the foot of Zebach and Zalmunna' now already in thy hand, that we should give unto thy army bread?

7 And Gid'on said, Therefore when the LORD hath delivered Zebach and Zalmunna' into my hand, then will I thresh your flesh with the thorns of the wilderness and with briers.

8 And he went up thence to Penuël, and spoke unto them in the same manner: and the men of Penuël answered him as the men of Succoth had answered.[e]

9 And he said also unto the men of Penuël thus, When I return again in peace, I will break down this tower.

10 ¶ Now Zebach and Zalmunna' were in Karkor, and their camps with them, about fifteen thousand men, all that had been left of all the camp of the children of the east; but those who had fallen were one hundred and twenty thousand men that drew the sword.

11 And Gid'on went up by the way of those that dwelt in tents,[f] to the east of Nobach and Yogbehah, and smote the camp; but the camp thought itself secure.

12 And Zebach and Zalmunna' fled; but he pursued after them, and captured the two kings of Midian, Zebach and Zalmunna', and all the camp he discomfited.[g]

13 And Gid'on the son of Joäsh returned from the battle before the rising of the sun,

14 And he caught a young man of the people of Succoth, and inquired of him: and he wrote down for him the princes of Succoth, and the elders thereof, seventy and seven men.

15 And he came unto the men of Succoth, and said, Behold here are Zebach and Zalmunna', with whom ye derided me, saying, Is the sole of the foot of Zebach and Zalmunna' now already in thy hand, that we should give unto thy weary men bread?

[e] The people of Succoth and Penuël were evidently afraid of the vengeance of the Midianites in case they were to supply Gid'on with food, deeming him too feeble to overcome the formidable army still in their neighbourhood.

[g] Heb. "terrified."

16 And he took the elders of the city, and the thorns of the wilderness and briers, and chastised with them the men of Succoth.

17 And the tower of Penuël he beat down, and slew the men of the city.

18 And he said unto Zebach and Zalmunna', What kind of men were those whom ye slew at Tabor? And they answered, As thou art, so were they; one[a] was in form like that of the children of a king.

19 And he said, They were my brothers, the sons of my mother; as the LORD liveth, if ye had spared them alive, I would not slay you.

20 And he said unto Yether his first-born, Rise up, and slay them. But the youth drew not his sword; for he was afraid, because he was yet a youth.

21 Then said Zebach and Zalmunna', Rise thou, and fall upon us; for as the man is, so is his strength. And Gid'on arose, and slew Zebach and Zalmunna'; and he took away the crescent ornaments that were on the necks of their camels.

22 ¶ And the men of Israel said unto Gid'on, Rule thou over us, both thou and thy son, and thy son's son also; for thou hast delivered us out of the hand of Midian.

23 And Gid'on said unto them, I will not rule over you, neither shall my son rule over you: the LORD shall rule over you.

24 And Gid'on said unto them, I would ask one request of you, that ye should give me every man the ear-ring of his booty; for they[b] had had golden ear-rings, because they were Ishmaelites.

25 And they answered, We will willingly give. And they spread out a garment, and they cast therein every man the ear-ring of his booty.

26 And the weight of the golden ear-rings that he had requested was a thousand and seven hundred shekels of gold; besides the crescent ornaments, and ear-drops, and purple garments that were on the kings of Midian, and besides the chains that were about their camels' necks.

27 And Gid'on made thereof an ephod, and set it up in his city, in 'Ophrah: and all Israel went astray after it thither; and it became a snare unto Gid'on, and to his house.

28 And Midian was humbled before the children of Israel, so that they lifted not up their head any more. And the country was quiet forty years in the days of Gid'on.

29 ¶ And Yerubba'al the son of Joäsh went and dwelt in his own house.

30 And Gid'on had seventy sons begotten of his body; for he had many wives.

31 And his concubine that was in Shechem, she also bore him a son, and he gave him the name, Abimelech.

32 And Gid'on the son of Joäsh died in a good old age, and was buried in the sepulchre of Joäsh his father, in 'Ophrah of the Abi'ezrites.

33 ¶ And it came to pass, when Gid'on was dead, that the children of Israel turned again, and went astray after the Be'alim, and made themselves Ba'al-berith for a god.

34 And the children of Israel remembered not the LORD their God, who had delivered them out of the hand of all their enemies on every side:

35 Neither showed they kindness to the house of Yerubba'al, namely, Gid'on, in accordance with all the good which he had done unto Israel.

CHAPTER IX.

1 ¶ And Abimelech the son of Yerubba'al went to Shechem unto his mother's brothers, and spoke unto them, and unto all the family of the house of his mother's father, saying,

2 Speak, I pray you, in the ears of all the men[c] of Shechem, What is better for you, either that there should rule over you seventy men, all the sons of Yerubba'al, or that there reign over you one man? and remember that I am your bone and your flesh.

3 And his mother's brothers spoke concerning him in the ears of all the men of Shechem all these words; and their heart became inclined after Abimelech; for they said, He is our brother.

4 And they gave him seventy pieces of silver out of the house of Ba'al-berith; and Abimelech hired therewith idle and heedless persons, who followed him.

5 And he came unto his father's house at

'Ophrah, and slew his brothers the sons of Yerubba'al, seventy persons, upon one stone; and there was yet left Yotham the youngest son of Yerubba'al; for he had hidden himself.

6 ¶ And all the men of Shechem and all Beth-millo assembled together, and went, and made Abimelech king, by the oak of the pillar[a] that was by Shechem.

7 And they told it to Yotham; and he went and stood on the top of mount Gerizzim, and he lifted up his voice, and cried; and he said unto them, Hearken unto me, ye men of Shechem, so that God may hearken unto you.

8 The trees went once forth to anoint a king over them; and they said unto the olive-tree, Reign thou over us.

9 But the olive-tree said unto them, Should I give up my fatness, wherewith through me they honour God and men, and shall I go to be promoted[b] over the trees?

10 And the trees said to the fig-tree, Come thou, reign over us.

11 But the fig-tree said unto them, Should I give up my sweetness, and my good productiveness, and go to be promoted over the trees?

12 Then said the trees unto the vine, Come thou, reign over us.

13 But the vine said unto them, Should I give up my fresh wine, which rejoiceth God and men, and go to be promoted over the trees?

14 Then said all the trees unto the bramble, Come thou, reign over us.

15 And the bramble said unto the trees, If in truth ye anoint me as king over you, then come seek protection in my shadow; and if not, then let fire come out of the bramble, and devour the cedars of the Lebanon.

16 And now, if ye have acted in truth and sincerity, when ye made Abimelech king, and if ye have dealt well with Yerubba'al and his house, and have done unto him according to the merit of his hands;

17 (In that my father fought for you, and cast his life far away,[c] and delivered you out of the hand of Midian;

18 While ye are risen up against my father's house this day, and have slain his sons, seventy men, upon one stone, and have made Abimelech, the son of his maid-servant, king over the men of Shechem, because he is your brother;)

19 If ye have thus acted in truth and sincerity with Yerubba'al and with his house this day: then rejoice ye in Abimelech, and let him also rejoice in you.

20 But if not, let fire come out from Abimelech, and devour the men of Shechem and Beth-millo; and let fire come out from the men of Shechem, and from Beth-millo, and devour Abimelech.

21 And Yotham ran away, and fled, and went to Beër, and dwelt there, for fear of Abimelech his brother.

22 ¶ And Abimelech ruled over Israel three years;

23 And then did God send an evil spirit between Abimelech and the men of Shechem; and the men of Shechem became unfaithful toward Abimelech;

24 So that the violence (done) to the seventy sons of Yerubba'al might come, and their blood be laid upon Abimelech their brother, who had slain them; and upon the men of Shechem, who had strengthened his hands to slay his brothers.

25 And the men of Shechem set persons to lie in wait for him on the tops of the mountains, and they robbed all that passed by them on that way: and it was told unto Abimelech.

26 ¶ And there came Ga'al the son of 'Ebed with his brothers, and passed through Shechem: and the men of Shechem put their confidence in him.

27 And they went out into the field, and gathered their vineyards, and trod (the grapes), and made joyful feasts, and went into the house of their god, and ate and drank, and cursed Abimelech.

28 And Ga'al the son of 'Ebed said, Who is Abimelech, and who is Shechem, that we should serve him? is not he the son of Yerubba'al? and Zebul his superintendent? serve[d] the men of Chamor the father of Shechem; for why indeed should we serve him?

people into my power! and I would remove Abimelech. And he let it be said to Abimelech, Increase thy army, and come out.

30 And when Zebul the ruler of the city heard the words of Ga'al the son of 'Ebed, his anger was kindled.

31 And he sent messengers unto Abimelech privately,[a] saying, Behold, Ga'al the son of 'Ebed and his brothers are come to Shechem; and, behold, they incite[b] the city to enmity against thee.

32 And now rise up by night, thou and the people that are with thee, and lie in wait in the field:

33 And it shall be, in the morning, the moment the sun shineth, that thou shalt rise early, and set[c] upon the city; and, behold, when he and the people that are with him come out against thee, then mayest thou do to him as thy means[d] may let thee.

34 ¶ And Abimelech rose up, and all the people that were with him, by night, and they lay in wait against Shechem in four companies.

35 And Ga'al the son of 'Ebed went out, and stood in the entrance of the city-gate: and Abimelech rose up, and the people that were with him, from the ambush.

36 And when Ga'al saw the people, he said to Zebul, Behold, people are coming down from the tops of the mountains. And Zebul said unto him, Thou regardest the shadow of the mountains as men.

37 And Ga'al spoke again and said, See people are coming down from the highest point of the land, and one company is coming along by the way of the grove of Me'onenim.[e]

38 Then said Zebul unto him, Where is now thy mouth, wherewith thou saidst, Who is Abimelech, that we should serve him? is not this the people that thou hast despised? go out now, I pray, and fight with them.

39 And Ga'al went out before the men of Shechem, and fought with Abimelech.

40 And Abimelech pursued him, and he fled before him, and many fell slain, even as far as the entrance of the gate.

41 And Abimelech remained at Arumah: and Zebul banished Ga'al and his brothers, that they should not remain in Shechem.

42 And it came to pass on the morrow, that the people went out into the field; and it was told to Abimelech.

43 And he took the people, and divided them into three companies, and lay in wait in the field; and as he saw, and, behold, that the people were coming forth out of the city, he rose up against them, and smote them.

44 And Abimelech, and the companies that were with him, spread forward, and took position in the entrance of the city-gate: and the two other companies spread over all that were in the fields, and smote them.

45 And Abimelech fought against the city all that day; and he captured the city, and the people that were therein he slew; and he beat down the city, and sowed it with salt.

46 ¶ And when all the men of the tower of Shechem heard this, they entered into the strong-hold of the house of the god Berith.

47 And it was told unto Abimelech, that all the men of the tower of Shechem were gathered together.

48 And Abimelech went thereupon up to mount Zalmon, he and all the people that were with him; and Abimelech took an axe in his hand, and cut down a bough from a tree, and bore it, and laid it on his shoulder; and he said unto the people that were with him, What ye have seen that I have done, make haste, and do like me.

49 And all the people also cut down every man his bough, and followed Abimelech, and put the same to the stronghold, and set the stronghold over them[f] on fire: and thus died also all the people of the tower of Shechem, about a thousand men and women.

50 ¶ And Abimelech went then to Thebez, and encamped against Thebez, and captured it.

51 But there was a strong tower within the city, and thither fled all the men and the women, and all the chief persons of the city, and shut the doors behind them, and went up to the roof of the tower.

52 And Abimelech came up to the tower, and fought against it, and approached as far as the door of the tower to burn it with fire.

53 But a certain woman cast a piece of an upper millstone upon Abimelech's head, and crushed his skull.

54 Then called he hastily unto the young man that bore his armour, and said unto him, Draw thy sword, and slay me, that people may not say of me, A woman hath slain him. And his young man thrust him through, and he died.

55 And when the men of Israel saw that Abimelech was dead, they departed every man to his place.

56 Thus did God compensate the evil of Abimelech, which he had done unto his father, in slaying his seventy brothers:

57 And all the evil of the men of Shechem did God bring back upon their own head; and there came upon them the curse of Yotham the son of Yerubba'al.

CHAPTER X.

1 ¶ And there arose after Abimelech to deliver Israel Tola' the son of Puah, the son of Dodo, a man of Issachar; and he dwelt in Shamir in the mountain of Ephraim.

2 And he judged Israel twenty and three years, and then died, and was buried in Shamir.

3 ¶ And after him arose Yaïr, the Gil'adite, and judged Israel twenty and two years;

4 And he had thirty sons that rode on thirty ass-colts,[a] and they had thirty cities, which are called Chavvoth-yaïr unto this day, which are in the land of Gil'ad.

5 And Yaïr died, and was buried in Kamon.

6 ¶ And the children of Israel repeated to do the evil in the eyes of the LORD, and they served the Be'alim, and 'Ashtaroth, and the gods of Syria, and the gods of Zidon, and the gods of Moäb, and the gods of the children of 'Ammon, and the gods of the Philistines, and they forsook the LORD, and served not him.

7 And the anger of the LORD was kindled against Israel, and he sold them into the hand of the Philistines, and into the hand of the children of 'Ammon.

8 And they afflicted and oppressed the children of Israel that[b] year; (and) for eighteen years all the children of Israel that were on the other side of the Jordan in the land of the Emorites, which is in Gil'ad.

9 And the children of 'Ammon passed over the Jordan to fight also against Judah, and against Benjamin, and against the house of Ephraim; so that Israel was sorely distressed.

10 And the children of Israel cried unto the LORD, saying, We have sinned against thee, because we have forsaken our God, and have served the Be'alim.

11 ¶ And the LORD said unto the children of Israel, Behold (I delivered you) from the Egyptians, and from the Emorites, from the children of 'Ammon, and from the Philistines.

12 And when the Zidonians, and the 'Amalekites, and the Ma'onites did oppress you, and ye cried to me, I delivered you also out of their hand.

13 And yet ye have forsaken me, and served other gods; wherefore I will deliver you no more.

14 Go and cry unto the gods which ye have chosen; let these deliver you in the time of your tribulation.

15 And the children of Israel said unto the LORD, We have sinned: do thou unto us entirely as it seemeth good in thy eyes; only deliver us, we pray thee, this time.[c]

16 And they put away the strange gods from their midst, and served the LORD: and his soul was grieved[d] for the trouble of Israel.

17 ¶ And the children of 'Ammon were called together, and they encamped in Gil'ad. And the children of Israel also assembled themselves together, and encamped in Mizpah.

18 And the people, the princes of Gil'ad, said one to another, Whatever man it be that will begin to fight against the children of 'Ammon, shall become the head over all the inhabitants of Gil'ad.

CHAPTER XI.

1 ¶ Now Yiphthach[a] the Gil'adite was a mighty man of valour, but he was the son of a harlot; and Gil'ad had begotten Yiphthach.

2 And the wife of Gil'ad also bore him sons; and when the sons of the wife were grown up, they drove away Yiphthach, and said unto him, Thou shalt not inherit in the house of our father; for the son of another[b] woman art thou.

3 And Yiphthach fled away from his brothers, and dwelt in the land of Tob; and there gathered themselves to Yiphthach idle men, and they went out with him.

4 ¶ And it came to pass after some time, that the children of 'Ammon made war against Israel.

5 And it was so, when the children of 'Ammon made war against Israel, that the elders of Gil'ad went to fetch Yiphthach out of the land of Tob.

6 And they said unto Yiphthach, Come, and become a leader unto us, that we may fight with the children of 'Ammon.

7 And Yiphthach said unto the elders of Gil'ad, Did ye not hate me, and drive me away out of my father's house? and why are ye come unto me now, when ye are in distress?

8 And the elders of Gil'ad said unto Yiphthach, Therefore are we now come back to thee, that thou mayest go with us, and fight against the children of 'Ammon; and thou shalt become unto us a head, unto all the inhabitants of Gil'ad.

9 And Yiphthach said unto the elders of Gil'ad, If ye bring me home again to fight against the children of 'Ammon, and the LORD give them up before me, shall[c] I remain your head?

10 And the elders of Gil'ad said unto Yiphthach, The LORD shall be a hearer[d] between us, if we do not so according to thy word.

11 Then went Yiphthach with the elders of Gil'ad, and the people appointed him over them as head and as leader; and Yiphthach spoke all his words before the LORD in Mitzpah.

12 ¶ And Yiphthach sent messengers unto the king of the children of 'Ammon, saying, What have I to do with thee, that thou art come unto me to fight against my land?

13 And the king of the children of 'Ammon said unto the messengers of Yiphthach, Because Israel took away my land, when they came up out of Egypt, from the Arnon even unto the Yabbok, and unto the Jordan: and now restore these (lands) again in peace.

14 And Yiphthach again sent messengers unto the king of the children of 'Ammon;

15 And he said unto him, Thus hath said Yiphthach, Israel did not take away the land of Moäb, nor the land of the children of 'Ammon;

16 For when they came up out of Egypt, Israel walked through the wilderness unto the Red Sea, and came to Kadesh;

17 And Israel then sent messengers unto the king of Edom, saying, Let me pass, I pray thee, through thy land; but the king of Edom would not hearken; and also to the king of Moäb they sent; but he would not consent: and Israel remained in Kadesh.

18 Then they wandered through the wilderness, and travelled round the land of Edom, and the land of Moäb, and came from the rising of the sun to the land of Moäb, and encamped on the other side of the Arnon; but they came not within the border of Moäb; for the Arnon is the boundary of Moäb.

19 And Israel sent messengers unto Sichon the king of the Emorites, the king of Cheshbon; and Israel said unto him, Let us pass, we pray thee, through thy land unto my[e] place.

20 But Sichon trusted not Israel to (let them) pass through his territory; and Sichon assembled all his people, and encamped in Yahaz, and fought against Israel.

21 And the LORD the God of Israel delivered Sichon and all his people into the hand of [b] Others, "a strange woman." It was, no doubt, illegal to banish Yiphthach, as the children of a concubine, (which according to Jewish opinion is meant here,) could inherit.

[c] Arnheim renders this affirmatively, "then will I remain your head." Either way it is a contract which he made with the elders, that it should not be merely for the war that he was to be the leader, but even after the deliverance of the people had been achieved: the elders assented to this proposition also in verse 10.

[d] Eng. version, "witness," viz. through means of hearing.

[e] The chief speaking in the singular in the name of the people.

Israel, and they smote them; and Israel took possession of all the land of the Emorites, the inhabitants of that country.

22 And they took possession of all the territory of the Emorites, from the Arnon even unto the Yabbok, and from the wilderness even unto the Jordan.

23 So now the LORD the God of Israel hath dispossessed the Emorites from before his people Israel, and shouldst thou possess[a] it?

24 Truly! that which Kemosh thy god may give thee to possess, even that canst thou possess; but whatsoever the LORD our God hath driven out from before us, even that will we possess.

25 And now art thou then any better than Balak the son of Zippor, the king of Moäb? did he ever strive against Israel, or did he ever fight against them?

26 (And) while Israel hath dwelt in Cheshbon and in its towns, and in 'Ar'or and in its towns, and in all the cities that are along the margins of the Arnon, three hundred years: why did ye not recover them within that time?

27 Whereas I myself have not sinned against thee, and thou doest me wrong to war against me: may the LORD, the Judge, decide this day between the children of Israel and the children of 'Ammon.

28 Nevertheless the king of the children of 'Ammon hearkened not unto the words of Yiphthach which he had sent to him.

29 ¶ Then came upon Yiphthach the spirit of the LORD, and he passed through Gil'ad and Menasseh, and passed through Mitzpeh of Gil'ad, and from Mitzpeh of Gil'ad he passed over unto the children of 'Ammon.

30 And Yiphthach made a vow unto the LORD, and said, If thou wilt indeed deliver the children of 'Ammon into my hand,

31 Then shall it be, that whatsoever cometh[b] forth out of the doors of my house to meet me, when I return in peace from the children of 'Ammon, shall belong to the LORD, and I will offer it up for a burnt-offering.

32 ¶ So Yiphthach passed over unto the children of 'Ammon to fight against them: and the LORD delivered them into his hand.

33 And he smote them from 'Aro'er, even till thou comest to Minnith, twenty cities, and unto Abel-keramin, with a very great defeat; and the children of 'Ammon were humbled before the children of Israel.

34 ¶ And Yiphthach came to Mizpah unto his house, and, behold, his daughter came out to meet him with timbrels and with dances: and she[c] was his sole child; he had beside her neither son nor daughter.

35 And it came to pass, when he saw her, that he rent his garments, and said, Alas, my daughter! thou hast bent me down very low, and thou art one of those that trouble me; for I have opened my mouth unto the LORD, and I cannot go back.

36 And she said unto him, My father, if thou hast opened thy mouth unto the LORD, do to me in accordance with what hath proceeded out of thy mouth; since the LORD hath taken vengeance for thee on thy enemies, on the children of 'Ammon.

37 And she said unto her father, Let this thing be done for me: Let me alone two months, that I may descend[d] to the mountains, and bewail my virginity, I with my companions.

38 And he said, Go. And he sent her away for two months: and she went with her companions, and bewailed her virginity on the mountains.

39 And it came to pass at the end of two months, that she returned unto her father, and he fulfilled[e] on her his vow which he had vowed; and she knew no man; and it became a custom in Israel,

40 That the daughters of Israel went from year to year to lament[f] for the daughter of Yiphthach the Gil'adite four days in the year.

[a] Others render, "and thou wouldst drive them out?"

[b] Heb. "the forthcomer that cometh forth."

[c] ורק is not translatable in this passage: it means, "and only;" and is used to qualify intensively the adjective יחידה, thus, "absolutely his sole child."

[d] "The term 'descend to the mountains' is used, because Mizpah was situated on higher ground."—HERXHEIMER. "Descending is here used as indicating to go into the caves of the same."—PHILIPPSON. Rashi renders, וירדתי "I will mourn on the mountains."

[e] Some suppose that Yiphthach actually slew his daughter, though of course not in the sanctuary; others, among them Redak, that he built a house beyond the precincts of the city, where she, his only child, lived secluded and unmarried all her life. To those who know how much Israelites regarded children as a blessing, it will be easy to conceive that such a seclusion must have been extremely painful to Yiphthach no less than to his daughter, without assuming that he actually sacrificed her.

CHAPTER XII.

1 ¶ And the men of Ephraim were called together, and went northward, and said unto Yiphthach, Wherefore didst thou pass over to fight against the children of 'Ammon, and didst not call for us to go with thee? thy house will we burn over thee with fire.

2 And Yiphthach said unto them, I and my people were greatly engaged in strife with the children of 'Ammon; and I called you, but ye helped me not out of their hand.

3 And when I saw that ye helped me not, I put my life[a] in my hand, and passed over to the children of 'Ammon, and the LORD delivered them into my hand; and why then are ye come up unto me this day, to fight against me?

4 Then Yiphthach gathered together all the men of Gil'ad, and fought with Ephraim; and the men of Gil'ad smote Ephraim, because they said, Ye are fugitives of Ephraim: Gil'ad is in the midst, between Ephraim and Menasseh.[b]

5 And the Gil'adites seized on the passages of the Jordan before the Ephraimites: and it came to pass, when the Ephraimites who had escaped said, Let me pass over; that the men of Gil'ad said unto him, Art thou an Ephrathite? and if he said, No;

6 Then said they unto him, Do say, Shibboleth; but when he said, Sibboleth, and was not able to pronounce it correctly, they laid hold of him and slew him on the passages of the Jordan; and there fell at that time of the Ephraimites forty and two thousand.

7 And Yiphthach judged Israel six years; and then died Yiphthach the Gil'adite, and was buried in (one of) the cities of Gil'ad.

8 ¶ And after him there judged Israel Ibzan of Beth-lechem.

9 And he had thirty sons; and thirty daughters he sent abroad,[c] and thirty daughters he brought in for his sons from abroad; and he judged Israel seven years.

10 Then died Ibzan, and was buried at Beth-lechem.

11 ¶ And after him there judged Israel Elon the Zebulonite: and he judged Israel ten years.

12 Then died Elon the Zebulonite, and was buried in Ayalon in the country of Zebulun.

13 ¶ And after him there judged Israel 'Abdon the son of Hillel the Pir'athonite.

14 And he had forty sons and thirty grandsons, that rode on seventy ass-colts: and he judged Israel eight years.

15 Then died 'Abdon the son of Hillel the Pir'athonite, and was buried in Pir'athon in the land of Ephraim, in the mountain of the 'Amalekites.

CHAPTER XIII.

1 ¶ And the children of Israel did again the evil in the eyes of the LORD; and the LORD delivered them into the hand of the Philistines forty years.

2 ¶ And there was a certain man of Zor'ah, of the family of the Danites, whose name was Manoäch; and his wife was barren, and did not bear.

3 And there appeared an angel of the LORD unto the woman, and he said unto her, Behold, thou art barren, and hast not born; but thou wilt conceive, and bear a son.

4 And now do beware, and drink neither wine nor strong drink, and eat not any thing unclean.

5 For, lo, thou wilt conceive, and bear a son; and no razor shall come on his head; for a Nazarite of God shall the lad be from the womb: and he shall begin to deliver Israel out of the hand of the Philistines.

6 And the woman came and told her husband, saying, A man of God came unto me, and his appearance was like the appearance of an angel of God, very terrible; but I asked him not whence he might be, and his name he did not tell me.

7 And he said unto me, Behold, thou wilt conceive, and bear a son; and now thou must drink neither wine nor strong drink, and not

[a] Figuratively for "perilling life."

[b] After Philippson, who considers these the words of the Gil'adites, reproaching the men of Ephraim, who, endeavouring to fly, were taunted when taken with their presumptuous invasion of the east side of the Jordan. The meaning is, "Now ye Ephraimites have to fly, and we Gil'adites will prevent you, as our country, bordering on the river, is situated between the two tribes." Rashi, after Jonathan, translates, "For the meanest of the Ephraimites had, despising the Gil'adites, said, What are you valued at in the midst of Ephraim and the midst of Menasseh?" The slaughter of the fugitives is in this way assigned to motives of revenge for past ill-usage. There are other versions of this difficult verse, but we cannot give them all.

[c] i. e. He gave in marriage eat any thing unclean; for the child shall be a Nazarite of God from the womb until the day of his death.

8 ¶ And Manoäch entreated the LORD, and said, Hear me, O Lord, let the man of God, whom thou didst send, come again unto us, and instruct us what we shall do unto the child that is to be born.

9 And God hearkened to the voice of Manoäch; and the angel of God came again unto the woman, as she was sitting in the field; and Manoäch her husband was not with her.

10 And the woman made haste, and ran, and informed her husband; and she said unto him, Behold, there hath appeared unto me the man, that came unto me the other[a] day.

11 And Manoäch arose, and went after his wife; and he came to the man, and said unto him, Art thou the man that spokest unto the woman? and he said, I am.

12 And Manoäch said, If now[b] thy words come to pass, what shall be (our) proceeding with the child, and what shall be done unto him?

13 And the angel of the LORD said unto Manoäch, Of all that I have said unto the woman must she beware.

14 Of any thing that cometh of the grape-vine she may not eat, and wine or strong drink she may not drink, and any thing unclean she may not eat: all that I commanded her must she observe.

15 And Manoäch said unto the angel of the LORD, Let us, I pray thee, detain thee, and we will make a kid ready for[c] thee.

16 And the angel of the LORD said unto Manoäch, Though thou detain me, I will not eat of thy bread; but if thou wilt offer a burnt-offering, thou must offer it unto the LORD; for Manoäch knew not that he was an angel of the LORD.

17 And Manoäch said unto the angel of the LORD, What is thy name, that, when thy word cometh to pass, we may do thee honour?

18 And the angel of the LORD said unto him, Why is it that thou wilt ask after my name, seeing it is secret?

19 And Manoäch took the kid and the meat-offering, and offered it upon the[d] rock unto the LORD: and he did wondrously; and Manoäch and his wife looked on.

20 And it came to pass, when the flame went up from off the altar toward heaven, that the angel of the LORD ascended in the flame of the altar; and Manoäch and his wife looked on, and they fell on their faces to the ground.

21 And the angel of the LORD was no longer visible to Manoäch and to his wife: then knew Manoäch that he was an angel of the LORD.

22 And Manoäch said unto his wife, We shall surely die, because a divine being have we seen.

23 But his wife said unto him, If the LORD were pleased to kill us, he would not have received from our hand a burnt-offering and a meat-offering, nor would he have let us see all these things, and at this time he would not have let us hear (such a thing) as this.

24 And the woman bore a son, and called his name Samson;[e] and the child grew up, and the LORD blessed him.

25 And the Spirit of the LORD began to move him in Machaneh-dan[f] between Zor'ah and Eshtaöl.

CHAPTER XIV.

1 ¶ And Samson went down to Timnathah, and saw a woman in Timnathah of the daughters of the Philistines.

2 And he went up, and told his father and his mother, and said, I have seen a woman in Timnathah of the daughters of the Philistines; and now take her to me for wife.

3 Then said unto him his father and his mother, Is there not among the daughters of thy brethren, or among all my people, a woman, that thou art going to take a wife from the Philistines, the uncircumcised? And Samson said unto his father, This one take for me; for she pleaseth me well.[g]

4 But his father and his mother knew not that it was from the LORD, that he sought but an occasion against the Philistines; and at that time the Philistines had dominion over Israel.

5 ¶ And Samson thus went down, with his father and his mother, to Timnathah; and when they were come as far as the vineyards of Timnathah, behold, a young lion came roaring toward him.

6 And the Spirit of the LORD came suddenly over him, and he rent him as he would have rent a kid, and he had nothing in his hand; but he told not his father or his mother what he had done.

7 And he went down, and spoke unto the woman; and she pleased Samson well.

8 And when he returned after a time to take her, he turned aside to see the carcass of the lion: and, behold, there was a swarm of bees in the carcass of the lion and honey likewise.

9 And he took it out in his hands, and went on, eating as he was going, and came to his father and mother, and he gave unto them, and they did eat; but he told them not that out of the carcass of the lion he had taken the honey.

10 And his father went down unto the woman; and Samson made there a feast; for so used the young men to do.

11 And it came to pass, when they saw him, that they brought thirty companions, and they remained with him.

12 And Samson said unto them, I will now propound unto you a riddle: if ye can in anywise tell it me within the seven days of the feast, and find it out, then will I give you thirty shirts and thirty changes of garments;

13 But if ye will not be able to tell it to me, then shall ye give me thirty shirts and thirty changes of garments. And they said unto him, Propound thy riddle, that we may hear it.

14 And he said unto them, Out of the eater came forth food, and out of the strong came forth sweetness. And they could not solve[a] the riddle in three days.

15 And it came to pass on the seventh day, that they said unto Samson's wife, Persuade thy husband, that he may solve unto us the riddle, lest we burn thee and thy father's house with fire: have ye invited us to impoverish us? is it not so?

16 And Samson's wife wept before him, and said, Thou dost but hate me, and lovest me not: that riddle hast thou propounded unto the children of my people, and me hast thou not told (the solution). And he said unto her, Behold, I have not told it to my father and to my mother, and thee shall I tell it?

17 And she wept before him the seven days,[b] while their feast lasted; and it came to pass on the seventh day, that he told her, because she had worried him: and she told (the solution of) the riddle to the children of her people.

18 Then said unto him the men of the city on the seventh day before the sun was yet gone down, What is sweeter than honey? and what is stronger than a lion? And he said unto them, If ye had not ploughed with my heifer, ye had not found out my riddle.

19 And the Spirit of the LORD came suddenly over him, and he went down to Ashkelon, and slew of them thirty men, and he took their apparel, and gave the changes of garments unto the expounders of the riddle; but his anger was kindled, and he went up to his father's house.

20 And Samson's wife was given to his companion who had been given him as his associate.

CHAPTER XV.

1 ¶ And it came to pass after some time, in the time of wheat-harvest, that Samson visited his wife with a kid; and he said, Let me go in to my wife into the chamber; but her father would not suffer him to go in.

2 And her father said, I verily thought that thou didst utterly hate her; therefore I gave her to thy companion: is not her younger sister fairer than she? Let her be thine, I pray thee, instead of her.

3 And Samson said to them, Now shall I be more[c] blameless than the Philistines, though I do them evil.

4 And Samson went and caught three hundred foxes,[d] and took torches, and turned tail to tail, and put one torch between two tails in the midst;

5 And he set the torches on fire, and let them go into the standing corn of the Philistines, and burnt up both shocks and standing corn, as also olive-yards.

6 Then said the Philistines, Who hath done this? And they answered, Samson, the son-in-law of the Timnite, because he hath taken his wife, and given her to his companion. And the Philistines went up, and burnt her and her father with fire.

7 And Samson said unto them, Since ye will do the like of this, I will surely be avenged on you, and after that will I cease.

8 And he smote them hip[c] and thigh with a great slaughter; and he went down and tarried in the cleft of the rock 'Etam.

9 ¶ And the Philistines went up, and encamped in Judah, and spread themselves in Lechi.

10 And the men of Judah said, Why are ye come up against us? And they answered, To bind Samson are we come up, to do to him as he hath done to us.

11 Thereupon went three thousand men of Judah down to the cleft of the rock 'Etam, and said to Samson, Knowest thou not that the Philistines rule over us? and what is this that thou hast done unto us? And he said unto them, As they did unto me, so have I done unto them.

12 And they said unto him, To bind thee are we come down, to deliver thee into the hand of the Philistines. And Samson said unto them, Swear unto me, that ye will not assail me yourselves.

13 And they said unto him, thus, No; for we will (only) bind thee fast, and deliver thee into their hand; but we will in nowise kill thee. And they bound him with two new cords, and brought him up from the rock.

14 When he was come unto Lechi, the Philistines shouted against him; but the Spirit of the LORD came suddenly over him, and the cords that were upon his arms became as flax threads that are burnt with fire, and his bands melted from off his hands.

15 And he found a fresh jaw-bone of an ass, and put forth his hand, and took it, and smote therewith a thousand men.

16 And Samson said, With a jaw-bone of an ass, heaps upon heaps, with the jaw-bone of an ass have I smitten a thousand men.

17 And it came to pass, when he had made an end of speaking, that he cast away the jaw-bone out of his hand, and called that place Ramath-lechi.[b]

18 And he became very thirsty, and he called on the LORD, and said, Thou hast granted through the hand of thy servant this great deliverance;[c] and now shall I die for thirst, and fall into the hand of the uncircumcised?

19 But God clave a hollow place that was at Lechi, and there came forth water out of it; and he drank, and his spirit came again, and he revived; wherefore he called the name thereof 'En-hakkoré,[d] which is in Lechi unto this day.

20 And he judged Israel in the days of the Philistines[e] twenty years.

CHAPTER XVI.

1 ¶ Then went Samson to Gazzah, and saw there a harlot, and went in unto her.

2 And it was told to the Gazzites, saying, Samson is come hither: and they compassed him in, and lay in wait for him all the night in the gate of the city, and held themselves quiet all the night, saying, By the time it is light in the morning will we kill him.

3 And Samson lay till midnight; but he arose at midnight, and took hold of the doors of the city-gate, and the two door-posts, and tore them away with the bolt, and put them upon his shoulders, and carried them up to the top of the mount that is before Hebron.

4 ¶ And it came to pass after this, that he loved a woman in the valley of Sorek, whose name was Delilah.

5 And the lords of the Philistines came up unto her, and said unto her, Persuade him, and see wherein his great strength lieth, and by what means we may prevail over him, that we may bind him to subdue him: and we will give thee every one of us eleven hundred pieces of silver.

6 And Delilah said to Samson, Tell me, I pray thee, wherein thy great strength lieth, and wherewith thou canst be bound to subdue thee.

7 And Samson said unto her, If they bind me with seven moist cords which have not yet been dried, then shall I become weak, and be like any other of mankind.

8 And the lords of the Philistines brought up to her seven moist cords which had not yet been dried, and she bound him with them.

9 And she had men lying in wait, sitting near her in the chamber. And she said unto him, The Philistines are upon thee, Samson. And he tore the cords, as a thread of tow is torn when it toucheth[a] the fire; and his strength was not perceived.[b]

10 And Delilah said unto Samson, Behold, thou hast deceived me, and told me lies; now do tell me, I pray thee, wherewith thou canst be bound.

11 And he said unto her, If they bind me fast with new ropes that have never been used in work, then shall I become weak, and be like any other of mankind.

12 And Delilah took new ropes, and bound him therewith, and said unto him, The Philistines are upon thee, Samson. And the liers in wait were sitting in the chamber. But he tore them from off his arms like a thread.

13 And Delilah said unto Samson, Hitherto thou hast deceived me, and told me lies; do tell me wherewith thou canst be bound. And he said unto her, If thou weavest the seven locks of my head with the web.

14 And she fastened[c] it with the pin, and said unto him, The Philistines are upon thee, Samson. And he awakened out of his sleep, and tore away the pin of the loom, with the web.

15 And she said unto him, How canst thou say, I love thee, when thy heart is not with me? these three times hast thou deceived me, and hast not told me wherein thy great strength lieth.

16 And it came to pass, when she worried him daily with her words, and urged him, that his soul became impatient to die;[d]

17 And he told her all his heart, and said unto her, A razor hath not passed over my head; for a Nazarite of God have I been from my mother's womb; if I were shaved, my strength would depart from me, and I should become weak, and be like all other men.

18 And when Delilah saw that he had told her all his heart, she sent and called for the lords of the Philistines, saying, Come up this once; for he hath told me all his heart. Then came the lords of the Philistines up unto her, and brought the money in their hand.

19 And she made him sleep upon her knees; and she called a man, and caused him to shave off the seven locks of his head; and she began to subdue him, and his strength departed from him.

20 And she said, The Philistines are upon thee, Samson. And he awoke out of his sleep, and thought, I will go out as at other times before, and shake myself free. But he knew not that the LORD had departed from him.

21 And the Philistines seized him, and put out his eyes, and brought him down to Gazzah, and bound him with fetters of copper; and he had to grind in the prison-house.

22 But the hair of his head began to grow again after it was shaved off.

23 ¶ And the lords of the Philistines gathered themselves together to offer a great sacrifice unto Dagon their god, and to rejoice; and they said, Our god hath delivered into our hand Samson our enemy.

24 And when the people saw him, they praised their god; for they said, Our god hath delivered into our hand our enemy, and the destroyer of our country, and him who hath slain so many of us.[e]

25 And it came to pass, when their heart was merry, that they said, Call for Samson, that he may make sport for us. And they called for Samson out of the prison-house; and he made sport before them; and they placed him between the pillars.

26 And Samson said unto the lad that held him by the hand, Suffer me (to go) and let me feel the pillars whereupon the house is supported, that I may lean upon them.

27 Now the house was full of men and women; and there were all the lords of the Philistines; and upon the roof were about three thousand men and women, that looked on while Samson made sport.

28 And Samson called unto the LORD, and said, O Lord Eternal, remember me, I pray thee, and do thou strengthen me only this once, O God, that I may be avenged for one[a] of my two eyes on the Philistines.

29 And Samson threw his arms around the two middle pillars upon which the house was supported, and he leaned on them, (on) one with his right hand, and (on) the other with his left.

30 And Samson said, Let me[b] die with the Philistines. And he bent (them) with might, and the house fell upon the lords, and upon all the people that were therein. So the dead whom he slew at his death were more than those whom he had slain in his life.

31 Then came[c] down his brothers and all the house of his father, and they took him up, and carried him up, and buried him between Zor'ah and Eshtaöl, in the burying-place of Manoäch his father. And he had judged Israel twenty years.

CHAPTER XVII.

1 ¶ And there was[e] a man of the mountain of Ephraim, whose name was Michayhu.

2 And he said unto his mother, The eleven hundred shekels of silver that were taken from thee, about which thou cursedst,[d] and spokest of also in my ears,—behold, the silver is with me; I took it. And his mother said, Blessed be my son unto the LORD.

3 And he restored the eleven hundred shekels of silver to his mother; and his mother said, I had wholly dedicated the silver unto the LORD from my hand, for my son, to make a graven and molten image; and now I will give it back unto thee.

4 Yet he gave the money[e] back unto his mother; and his mother took two hundred shekels of silver, and gave them to the silversmith, who made thereof a graven and molten image; and it was in the house of Micah.[f]

5 And the man Micah had a house of god, and he made an ephod, and teraphim, and consecrated[g] one of his sons, who became his priest.

6 In those days there was no king in Israel: every man did what seemed right in his own eyes.

7 ¶ And there was a young man out of Beth-lechem-judah of the family of Judah,[h] but he was a Levite, and sojourned there.

8 And the man departed from the city, from Beth-lechem-judah, to sojourn where he could find (a place); and he came to the mountain of Ephraim to the house of Micah, as he was pursuing his journey.

9 And Micah said unto him, Whence comest thou? And he said unto him, I am a Levite from Beth-lechem-judah, and I go to sojourn where I may find (a place).

10 And Micah said unto him, Remain with me, and become unto me a father and a priest, and I will give thee ten shekels of silver for the year, and suitable apparel, and thy victuals. And the Levite went in.

11 And the Levite consented to dwell with the man; and the young man was unto him as one of his sons.

12 And Micah consecrated the Levite; and the young man became his priest, and remained in the house of Micah.

13 Then said Micah, Now I know that the LORD will do me good, seeing I have obtained a Levite for priest.

2 ¶ And the children of Dan sent from their family five men from among themselves, men of valour, from Zor'ah, and from Eshtaöl, to spy out the land, and to search it; and they said unto them, Go, search the land. And they came to the mountain of Ephraim, as far as the house of Micah, and lodged there.

3 They were just by the house of Micah, when they recognised the voice of the young man the Levite; and they turned in thither, and said unto him, Who brought thee hither? and what doest thou in this place? and what hast thou here?

4 And he said unto them, Thus and thus hath Micah done unto me; and he hired me, and I became his priest.

5 And they said unto him, Ask counsel, we pray thee, of God, that we may know whether our way on which we are going shall be prosperous.

6 And the priest said unto them, Go in peace: before the LORD is your way on which ye will go.

7 ¶ And the five men departed, and came to Layish, and saw the people that were therein, dwelling in security, after the manner of the Zidonians, quiet and secure; and no one inflicted any wrong in the land, as hereditary ruler;[a] and they were far from the Zidonians, and had no concern with any man.

8 And they came unto their brethren to Zor'ah and Eshtaöl: and their brethren said unto them, What (news bring) ye?

9 And they said, Arise, and let us go up against them; for we have seen the land, and, behold, it is very good: and you keep still?[b] be not slothful, to go, to enter to take possession of the land.

10 When ye enter, ye will come unto a secure people, and the land is roomy; for God hath given it into your hand; a place where there is no want of any thing that is on the earth.

11 ¶ And there went from there of the family of the Danites, out of Zor'ah and out of Eshtaöl, six hundred men girded with weapons of war.

12 And they went up, and encamped in Kiryath-ye'arim, in Judah; wherefore they called that place Machaneh-dan until this day; behold, it is behind Kiryath-ye'arim.

13 And they passed thence unto the mountain of Ephraim, and came as far as the house of Micah.

14 Then commenced the five men that had gone to spy out the country of Layish, and said unto their brethren, Do ye know that there are in these houses an ephod, and teraphim, and a graven and molten image? and now consider what ye have to do.

15 And they turned thitherward, and came to the house of the young man the Levite, unto the house of Micah, and asked him after his welfare.[c]

16 And the six hundred men who were of the children of Dan, girded with their weapons of war, remained standing by the entrance of the gate.

17 And the five men that had gone to spy out the land went up, and came in thither, and took the graven image, and the ephod, and the teraphim, and the molten image; and the priest stood in the entrance of the gate with the six hundred men that were girded with the weapons of war.

18 And these went into Micah's house, and took the graven image, the ephod, and the teraphim, and the molten image; and the priest said unto them, What are ye doing?

19 And they said unto him, Be still, lay thy hand upon thy mouth, and go with us, and become to us a father and a priest: is it better that thou be a priest unto the house of one man, or that thou be a priest unto a tribe and a family in Israel?

20 And the priest's heart became glad, and he took the ephod, and the teraphim, and the graven image, and came into the midst of the people.

21 And they turned and went away, and

[a] After Sachs; and means then, that there was no contest and its consequent wrong and injuries arising, as so frequently, from a quarrel about the succession. Philippson comments that no ruler in the vicinity had the power to injure them; whence their security.

[b] Abarbanel, "But you keep still?" i. e. keep your expedition a secret. Rashi and others, "And you remain idle?" i. e. hesitate to go thither.

placed the little ones and the cattle and the heavy things before them.

22 When they were at a distance from the house of Micah, the men that were in the houses near to Micah's house were called together, and they overtook the children of Dan.

23 And they called unto the children of Dan, who turned their faces, and said unto Micah, What aileth thee, that thou hast called out thy people?

24 And he said, My god which I made have ye taken away, and the priest, and are gone away; and what have I more? and what is this ye say unto me, What aileth thee?

25 And the children of Dan said unto him, Cause not thy voice to be heard among us, lest men of an imbittered spirit assail thee, and thou lose thy life, with the life of thy household.

26 And the children of Dan went on their way; and when Micah saw that they were too strong for him, he turned and went back unto his house.

27 And they took what Micah had made, and the priest whom he had had, and came over Layish, over a people that were quiet and secure; and they smote them with the edge of the sword, and the city they burnt with fire.

28 And there was no deliverer; because it was far from Zidon, and the people had no business with any man; and it was in the valley that lieth by Beth-rechob. And they rebuilt the city, and dwelt therein.

29 And they called the name of the city, Dan, after the name of Dan their father, who was born unto Israel: nevertheless, Layish was the name of the city at first.

30 And the children of Dan erected for themselves the graven image: and Jonathan, the son of Gershom, the son of Menasseh,[a] he and his sons were priests to the tribe of Dan until the day of the exile of the land.[b]

31 And they set up for themselves Micah's graven image, which he had made, all the time that the house of God was in Shiloh.

CHAPTER XIX.

1 ¶ And it came to pass in those days, when there was no king in Israel,[c] that there was a certain Levite sojourning on the lower edge of the mountain of Ephraim, who took to himself a concubine out of Beth-lechem-judah.

2 And his concubine became faithless unto him, and she went away from him unto her father's house to Beth-lechem-judah, and was there one year[d] and four months.

3 And then her husband arose, and went after her, to speakly friendly unto her, to bring her back; and he had his servant with him, and a couple of asses: and she brought him into her father's house; and when the father of the damsel saw him, he rejoiced to meet him.

4 And his father-in-law, the damsel's father, detained him; and he abode with him three days: and they ate and drank, and lodged there.

5 And it came to pass on the fourth day, that they arose early in the morning, and he rose up to depart; but the damsel's father said unto his son-in-law, Comfort thy heart with a morsel of bread, and afterward can ye go your way.

6 And they sat down, and both of them ate together and drank; and the damsel's father said unto the man, Do consent, I pray thee, and tarry all night, and let thy heart be merry.

7 Still the man rose up to depart; but his father-in-law urged him, and he turned back and lodged there.

8 And when he arose early in the morning on the fifth day to depart, the damsel's father said, Comfort thy heart, I pray thee, and tarry until the decline of the day: and both of them did eat.

9 And when the man rose up to depart, he, and his concubine, and his servant, his father-in-law, the damsel's father, said unto him, Behold, now the day draweth toward evening, tarry all night, I pray you: behold, it is the resting time of day, lodge here, and let thy heart be merry; and you may get early to-morrow on your way, and go then to thy tent.

10 But the man would not tarry that night, but he rose up and went away, and came as far as opposite Jebus, which is Jerusalem; and he had with him two saddled asses, and his concubine also was with him.

11 When they were by Jebus, the day was far spent; and the servant said unto his master, Come, I pray thee, and let us turn in unto this city of the Jebusites, and lodge in it.

12 And his master said unto him, We will not turn into one of the cities of the stranger, that are not belonging to the children of Israel; but we will pass on as far as Gib'ah.

13 And he said unto his servant, Come, and let us draw near to one of these places; and let us lodge all night in Gib'ah, or in Ramah.

14 And they passed on and went forward; and the sun went down unto them by Gib'ah, which belongeth to Benjamin.

15 And they turned aside thither, to go in to lodge in Gib'ah; and when he went in, he sat down in the street of the city; for there was no man that brought them into his house to lodge.

16 And, behold, an old man was coming from his work out of the field at evening, and this man was from the mountain of Ephraim, and he sojourned in Gib'ah; but the men of the place were Benjamites.

17 And he lifted up his eyes, and saw the wayfaring man in the street of the city: and then said the old man, Whither goest thou? and whence comest thou?

18 And he said unto him, We are passing from Beth-lechem-judah toward the lower edge of the mountain of Ephraim; from there am I, and I went as far as Beth-lechem-judah; but I am going to the house of the LORD; and there is no man that bringeth me into his house.

19 Yet there is both straw and provender for our asses; and there are also bread and wine for me, and for thy handmaid, and for the young man who is with thy servants; there is no want of any thing.

20 And the old man said, Peace be with thee; only let all thy wants lie upon me; at least lodge not in the street.

21 So he brought him to his house, and gave provender unto the asses: and they washed their feet, and they ate and drank.

22 As they were making their hearts merry, behold, the men of the city, worthless people, beset the house round about, knocking at the door; and they said to the master of the house, the old man, thus, Bring forth the man that is come to thy house, that we may know him.

23 And the man, the master of the house, went out unto them, and said unto them, No, my brethren, I pray you, act not wickedly; since this man is once come into my house, do not this scandalous thing.

24 Behold, here is my daughter a virgin, and his concubine; let me bring them out now, and humble ye them, and do to them what seemeth good in your eyes; but unto this man do not this scandalous thing.

25 But the men would not hearken to him; so the man took hold of his concubine, and brought her forth unto them into the street; and they knew her, and ill-used her all the night until the morning; and they let her go when the day began to dawn.

26 Then came the woman (home) in the early part of the morning, and fell down at the door of the man's house where her lord was, (and lay) till it was light.

27 And when her lord rose up in the morning, and opened the doors of the house, and went out to go on his way: behold, the woman, his concubine, was lying at the door of the house, with her hands upon the threshold.

28 And he said unto her, Rise up, and let us be going; but no one answered. Then he took her upon the ass, and the man rose up, and went unto his place.

29 And when he was come into his house, he took a knife, and laid hold on his concubine, and divided her, according to her bones, into twelve pieces, and sent her about in all the territory of Israel.

30 And it happened, that whoever saw it said, There hath no such deed been done or seen from the day that the children of Israel came up out of the land of Egypt until this day: reflect well on it, give advice, and speak.

CHAPTER XX.

1 ¶ Then went out all the children of Israel, and the congregation was assembled together as one man, from Dan even to Beër-sheba', with the land of Gil'ad, unto the LORD in Mizpah.

2 And there presented themselves the chiefs[a] of all the people, of all the tribes of Israel, in the assembly of the people of God, four hundred thousand men on foot that drew the sword.

3 ¶ (And the children of Benjamin heard that the children of Israel were gone up to Mizpah.) And the children of Israel said, Speak, how did this wickedness take place?

4 And the Levite, the husband of the woman that was murdered, answered and said, I came to Gib'ah that belongeth to Benjamin, I and my concubine, to stay one night,

5 When the men of Gib'ah rose against me, and beset the house round about against me by night; me they intended to slay; and my concubine they humbled, so that she died.

6 And I took hold of my concubine and cut her in pieces, and sent her about throughout all the fields of the inheritance of Israel; for they had committed incest and scandal in Israel.

7 Behold, ye are all here children of Israel: furnish for yourselves here advice and counsel.

8 And all the people then arose as one man, saying, We will not go any of us to his tent, neither will we turn any of us into his house.

9 And now this shall be the thing which we will do to Gib'ah: We will go up against it by lot;

10 And we will take ten men out of every hundred throughout all the tribes of Israel, and a hundred out of every thousand, and a thousand out of every ten thousand, to procure provisions for the people; that they may do, when they come to Gib'ah of Benjamin, in accordance with all the scandalous deed that they have wrought in Israel.

11 So all the men of Israel were gathered against the city, associated together as one man.

12 ¶ And the tribes of Israel sent men through all the divisions[b] of Benjamin, saying, What wickedness is this that hath been done among you?

13 Now therefore deliver up the men, those worthless people, who are in Gib'ah, that we may put them to death, and remove evil from Israel. But the children of Benjamin would not hearken to the voice of their brethren the children of Israel.

14 ¶ And the children of Benjamin gathered themselves together out of the cities unto Gib'ah, to go out to battle with the children of Israel.

15 And at that time there were numbered of the children of Benjamin out of the cities twenty and six thousand men that drew the sword, beside the inhabitants of Gib'ah, who were numbered seven hundred chosen men.

16 Among all this people there were seven hundred chosen men lame[c] in the right hand: every one of these could sling a stone at a hair, and would not miss.

17 ¶ And the men of Israel, beside Benjamin, were numbered four hundred thousand men that drew the sword: all these were men of war.

18 And they arose, and went up to Beth-el, and asked counsel of God; and the children of Israel said, Who of us shall go up at first to the battle with the children of Benjamin? And the LORD said, Judah, at first.

19 And the children of Israel rose up in the morning, and encamped against Gib'ah.

20 And the men of Israel went out to battle with Benjamin; and the men of Israel put themselves in battle-array against them by Gib'ah.

21 And the children of Benjamin came forth out of Gib'ah, and struck down[d] to the ground of the Israelites on that day twenty and two thousand men.

22 And the people the men of Israel took courage, and set themselves again in battle-array in the place where they had arrayed themselves on the first day.

23 And the children of Israel went up and wept before the LORD until the evening, and asked counsel of the LORD, saying, Shall I again approach to battle with the children of Benjamin my brother? And the LORD said, Go up against him.

24 ¶ And the children of Israel came near against the children of Benjamin on the second day.

25 And Benjamin went forth against them out of Gib'ah on the second day, and struck down to the ground of the children of Israel again eighteen thousand men: all these were men that drew the sword.

26 Now all the children of Israel, and all the people, went up, and came unto Beth-el, and wept, and sat there before the LORD, and fasted on that day until the evening, and offered burnt-offerings and peace-offerings before the LORD.

27 And the children of Israel inquired of the LORD, (for there was the ark of the covenant of God in those days, 28 And Phinehas, the son of Elazar, the son of Aaron, stood before it in those days,) saying, Shall I yet continue to go out to battle with the children of Benjamin my brother, or shall I forbear? And the LORD said, Go up; for to-morrow will I deliver him into thy hand.

29 And Israel set men to lie in wait round about Gib'ah.

30 ¶ And the children of Israel went up against the children of Benjamin on the third day, and put themselves in array against Gib'ah, as at previous times.

31 And the children of Benjamin went out against the people, and were drawn away from the city; and they began to smite some of the people, and kill,[a] as at previous times, in the highways, of which one goeth up to Beth-el, and the other to Gib'ah in the field, about thirty men of Israel.

32 And the children of Benjamin said, They are defeated before us, as at the first. But the children of Israel said, Let us flee, and draw them from the city unto the highways.

33 And all the men of Israel rose up out of their place, and put themselves in array at Ba'al-thamar: and those that lay in wait of Israel rushed forth out of their place, out of the meadows of Gib'ah.

34 And there came against Gib'ah ten thousand chosen men out of all Israel, and the battle was severe; but they knew not that the evil was overtaking them.

35 ¶ And the LORD smote Benjamin before Israel; and the children of Israel destroyed of the Benjamites on that day twenty and five thousand and one hundred men: all these were those that drew the sword.

36 And the children of Benjamin saw that they[b] were defeated; for the men of Israel gave place to the Benjamites, because they trusted unto those that lay in wait whom they had set against Gib'ah.

37 And those in ambush hastened, and spread themselves over Gib'ah; and those that lay in wait moved along, and smote all the city with the edge of the sword.

38 Now there was an understanding between the men of Israel and those that lay in wait, that they should make an abundance of columns of smoke rise up out of the city.

39 And when the men of Israel turned round in the battle, and Benjamin began to smite and kill of the men of Israel about thirty persons; for they said, Surely they are entirely defeated before us, as in the first battle:

40 Then began the cloud[c] to arise up out of the city as a pillar of smoke; and when the Benjamites looked behind them, behold, the flames of all the city were ascending up to heaven.

41 And when the men of Israel turned again, the men of Benjamin were amazed; for they saw that the evil had overtaken them.

42 Therefore they turned round before the men of Israel unto the way to the wilderness; but the battle overtook them; and those who came out of the cities destroyed them in the midst of them.

43 They enclosed the Benjamites round about, chased them, they overtook them in their places of rest,[d] as far as opposite to Gib'ah toward the rising of the sun.

[a] Lit. "smite of the people slain."

[b] Some refer this "they" to the "men of Israel," meaning, that the Benjamites thought in the beginning of the battle that the others were defeated, as they began to fly.

[c] Redak renders, "The flames to send up."

[d] Rashi. Others, "they trod them down with ease;" others, "they chased them to Menuchah," as though it were the name of a place.

44 And there fell of Benjamin eighteen thousand men: all these were men of valour.

45 And they turned and fled toward the wilderness unto the rock of Rimmon; and they gleaned of them in the highways five thousand men; and they pursued hard after them as far as Gid'om, and slew of them two thousand men.

46 So that all who fell on that day of Benjamin were twenty and five thousand men that drew the sword: all these were men of valour.

47 But six hundred men turned and fled into the wilderness unto the rock Rimmon, and they abode on the rock Rimmon four months.

48 And the men of Israel turned again upon the children of Benjamin, and smote them with the edge of the sword, as well the men of every city,[a] as the beasts, and all that was found: also all the cities that they came upon did they set on fire.

CHAPTER XXI.

1 ¶ Now the men of Israel had sworn in Mizpah, saying, Not any one of us shall give his daughter unto Benjamin for wife.

2 And the people came to Beth-el, and abode there till the evening, before God, and they lifted up their voices, and wept with a great lamentation;

3 And they said, Wherefore, O LORD, God of Israel, is this come to pass in Israel, that there should be lacking this day out of Israel one tribe?

4 And it came to pass on the morrow, that the people rose early, and built there an altar, and offered burnt-offerings and peace-offerings.

5 ¶ And the children of Israel said, Who is there among all the tribes of Israel that came not up with the congregation unto the LORD? For there had been taken the great oath concerning him that came not up to the LORD to Mizpah, saying, He shall surely be put to death.

6 And the children of Israel felt regret for Benjamin their brother, and they said, One tribe hath this day been cut down from Israel.

7 What shall we do as respecteth wives for those that remain, since we have sworn by the LORD that we will give none of our daughters unto them for wives?

8 And they said, What one is there of the tribes of Israel that came not up unto the LORD to Mizpah? And, behold, there had not come to the camp a man from Yabesh-gil'ad to the assembly.

9 For the people were numbered, and, behold, there was not present a man of the inhabitants of Yabesh-gil'ad.

10 And the congregation sent thither twelve thousand persons of the valiant men, and commanded them, saying, Go and smite the inhabitants of Yabesh-gil'ad with the edge of the sword, with the women and the children.

11 And this is the thing that ye shall do, every male, and every woman that hath known (man) by lying with him, shall ye devote.

12 And they found among the inhabitants of Yabesh-gil'ad four hundred young virgins that had not known man by lying with any male: and they brought them unto the camp to Shiloh, which is in the land of Canaan.

13 ¶ And the whole congregation sent and spoke to the children of Benjamin that were on the rock Rimmon, and[b] offered them peace.

14 And Benjamin returned at that time: and they gave unto them the wives whom they had saved alive out of the women of Yabesh-gil'ad; but they found not sufficient for them in this way.

15 And the people felt regret for Benjamin; because that the LORD had made a breach in the tribes of Israel.

16 ¶ And the elders of the congregation said, What shall we do for those that remain as respecteth wives; because the women have been destroyed out of Benjamin?

17 And they said, Their inheritance[c] must be secured for Benjamin, that not a tribe may be blotted out from Israel.

18 Nevertheless we ourselves are not able to give them wives of our own daughters; for the children of Israel have sworn, saying,

[a] Rashi. Sachs and others render כתם not as כתים with "people," but "entirely;" thus, "the entire city, no less than the cattle," &c.

[b] Lit. "and proclaimed to them peace."

[c] Lit. "An inheritance of escape shall be for Benjamin;" i. e. care must be taken that the possessions of this tribe shall remain with it, and not be diverted by its extinction.

Cursed be he that giveth a wife to Benjamin.

19 ¶ And they said, Behold, there is a feast of the LORD in Shiloh from year to year[a] (at a place) which is on the north side of Beth-el, on the east side of the highway that goeth up from Beth-el to Shechem, and on the south of Lebonah.

20 And they commanded the children of Benjamin, saying, Go ye and lie in wait in the vineyards;

21 And look out, and, behold, if the daughters of Shiloh go out to dance in dances: then come ye forth out of the vineyards, and snatch you every man his wife from the daughters of Shiloh, and go then to the land of Benjamin.

22 And it shall be, when their fathers or their brothers come to contend with us, that we will say unto them, Be favourable[b] unto them for our sakes; because we took not for each man his wife in the war; (and) because ye yourselves did not give them unto them, that ye should at this time be guilty.

23 And the children of Benjamin did so, and took themselves wives, according to their number, from the dancers whom they had stolen away; and they went and returned unto their inheritance, and rebuilt the cities, and dwelt in them.

24 And the children of Israel departed thence at that time, every man to his tribe and to his family, and they went out from there every man to his inheritance.

25 In those days there was no king in Israel: every man did what was right in his own eyes.

THE FIRST BOOK OF SAMUEL,

ספר שמואל א׳.

CONTAINING THE HISTORY OF ISRAEL FROM THE BIRTH OF SAMUEL TO THE DEATH OF SAUL.

CHAPTER I.

1 AND there was a certain man of Ramathayim-zophim, of the mountain of Ephraim, whose name was Elkanah, the son of Yerocham, the son of Elihu, the son of Tochu, the son of Zuph, an Ephrathite.

2 And he had two wives; the name of the one was Hannah, and the name of the other Peninnah: and Peninnah had children, but Hannah had no children.

3 And this man went up out of his city from year to year to prostrate himself and to sacrifice unto the LORD of hosts in Shiloh. And at that place were the two sons of Eli, Chophni and Phinehas, priests of the LORD.

4 And when the day was come that Elkanah offered, he gave to Peninnah his wife, and to all her sons and her daughters, portions;

5 But unto Hannah he gave a double portion; for Hannah he loved (greatly); but the LORD had shut up her womb.

6 And her rival also provoked her continually, in order to make her fret; because the LORD had shut up her womb.

7 And as he did so[c] year by year, as often as she went up to the house of the LORD, so did she provoke her; wherefore she wept, and did not eat.

8 Then said to her Elkanah her husband, Hannah, why wilt thou weep? and why wilt thou not eat? and why should thy heart be grieved? am not I better to thee than ten sons?

[a] i. e. Once every year at a particular period.

[b] Sachs and Philippson translate, "grant them," i. e. the young women, "to us; for we have not taken a wife for each in the battle, (i. e. against Yabesh,)" &c.—The guilt referred to is the breaking of the oath, which they declared was not incurred, since the maidens were taken by the Benjamites, not given to them voluntarily by their parents

[c] "And so it happened," &c.—PHILIPPSON.

9 And Hannah rose up after they had eaten in Shiloh, and after they had drunk; and 'Eli the priest was sitting upon a chair by the door-post of the temple of the LORD.

10 But she had bitterness of soul,[a] and prayed unto the LORD, and wept greatly.

11 And she vowed a vow, and said, O LORD of hosts, if thou wilt indeed look on the affliction of thy handmaid, and remember me, and not forget thy handmaid, but wilt give unto thy handmaid a man-child: then will I give him unto the LORD all the days of his life, and no razor shall come upon his head.

12 And it came to pass, as she continued praying long before the LORD, that 'Eli watched her mouth.

13 Now as for Hannah, she spoke in her heart; only her lips moved, but her voice could not be heard;[b] wherefore 'Eli regarded her as a drunken woman.

14 And 'Eli said unto her, How long wilt thou be drunken? put away thy wine from off thee.

15 And Hannah answered and said, No, my lord, I am a woman of a sorrowful spirit; but neither wine nor strong drink have I drunk, and I have poured out my soul before the LORD.

16 Esteem not thy handmaid as a worthless woman; for out of the abundance of my grief and vexation have I spoken hitherto.

17 Then 'Eli answered and said, Go in peace; and may the God of Israel grant thy petition which thou hast asked of him.

18 And she said, Let thy handmaid find grace in thy eyes. The woman then went on her way, and did eat, and her countenance was no longer as before.

19 And they rose up early in the morning, and prostrated themselves before the LORD, and returned, and came to their house at Ramah; and Elkanah knew Hannah his wife; and the LORD remembered her.

20 And it came to pass,[c] after the lapse of some time, that Hannah conceived, and bore a son; and she called his name Samuel,[d] saying, Because from the LORD have I asked him.

21 And the man Elkanah went up, with all his house, to offer unto the LORD the yearly sacrifice, and his vow.

22 But Hannah did not go up; for she said unto her husband, So soon as the child shall be weaned, then I will bring him, that he may appear before the LORD, and abide there for ever.[e]

23 And Elkanah her husband said unto her, Do what seemeth good in thy eyes; tarry until thou hast weaned him; only may the LORD fulfil his word. So the woman remained behind, and gave her son suck until she weaned him.

24 And she took him up with her, when she had weaned him, with three bullocks, and one ephah of flour, and a bottle of wine, and she brought him unto the house of the LORD at Shiloh; although the child was yet young.

25 And they slew a bullock, and brought the child to 'Eli.

26 And she said, Pardon, my lord, as thy soul liveth, my lord, I am the woman that stood by thee here, to pray unto the LORD.

27 For this lad did I pray; and the LORD hath granted me my petition which I asked of him;

28 Therefore also have I lent him, for my part, to the LORD; all the days that have been assigned to him shall he be lent to the LORD. And he bowed himself there before the LORD.

CHAPTER II.

1 ¶ And Hannah prayed, and said, My heart is glad in the LORD, my horn is exalted through the LORD: my mouth is enlarged[f] over my enemies; because I rejoice in thy salvation.

2 There is none holy like the LORD; for there is none beside thee; and there is not any rock like our God.

3 Talk no more so exceeding proudly; let not arrogance come out of your mouth; for a God of knowledge is the LORD, and by him are actions weighed.

4 The bow of the mighty is broken, and those that stumbled are girded with strength.

5 They that were full hire themselves out

[a] i. e. Felt deep and corroding grief.

[b] Prayer to be acceptable to God should be the outpouring of sincere feeling, and needs not a loud voice.

for bread; and they that were hungry cease (from labour): while the barren hath born seven, she that hath many children fadeth away.

6 The LORD killeth, and maketh alive: he bringeth down to the grave, and bringeth up.

7 The LORD maketh poor and maketh rich: he bringeth low and also lifteth up.

8 He raiseth up out of the dust the poor, from the dunghill he lifteth up the needy, to set them among nobles, and he assigneth them the throne of glory; for the LORD'S are the pillars of the earth, on which he hath set the world.

9 He ever guardeth the feet of his pious ones, and the wicked shall be made silent in darkness; for not by strength can man prevail.

10 The LORD—his adversaries will be crushed; out of heaven will he thunder upon them: the LORD will judge the ends of the earth; and he will give strength unto his king, and lift up the horn of his anointed.

11 ¶ And Elkanah went to Ramah to his house. And the lad was ministering unto the LORD before 'Eli the priest.

12 And the sons of 'Eli were worthless men: they knew not the LORD.

13 And the custom of the priests with the people was, that, when any man offered a sacrifice, the priest's servant came, while (the man) was seething the flesh, with a fork with three teeth in his hand;

14 And he struck it into the pan, or the kettle, or the caldron, or the pot; (and) all that the fork brought up the priest took away with it. So did they unto all the Israelites that came thither, to Shiloh.

15 Even[a] before they had yet burnt the fat, the priest's servant would come, and say to the man that sacrificed, Give flesh to roast for the priest; for he will not take from thee sodden flesh, but raw.

16 And if the man said unto him, They will surely presently burn the fat, and then take whatever thy soul may long for: then would he say, No; but thou shalt give it me now; and if not, I will it take by force.

17 And the sin of the young men was very great before the LORD; for the men[b] despised the offering of the LORD.

18 But Samuel was ministering before the LORD, being a lad, girded with a linen ephod.

19 Moreover his mother used to make him a little overcoat, and brought it to him from year to year, when she came up with her husband to offer the yearly sacrifice.

20 And 'Eli blessed Elkanah and his wife, and said, May the LORD give thee seed from this woman instead of the loan who is lent to the LORD. And they went back unto his place.

21 And truly the LORD visited Hannah, and she conceived, and bore three sons and two daughters. And the lad Samuel grew up before the LORD.

22 ¶ Now 'Eli was very old, and heard all that his sons were in the habit of doing unto all Israel; and how they would lie with the women that assembled at the door of the tabernacle of the congregation.

23 And he said unto them, Why will ye do such things? for I hear of your evil dealings from all this people.

24 No, my sons; for the report that I hear is not good, which the LORD'S people spread abroad.[c]

25 If one man sin against another, the judge shall judge him; but if against the LORD a man should sin, who shall pray for him? Nevertheless would they not hearken unto the voice of their father, because the LORD desired to slay them.

26 And the lad Samuel was constantly growing and increasing in favour both with the LORD, and also with men.

27 ¶ And there came a man of God unto 'Eli, and said unto him, Thus hath said the LORD, Did I (not) appear unto the house of thy father, when they were in Egypt in Pharaoh's house?

28 And did I (not) choose him out of all

[a] The priests had of sacrifices the breast and shoulder, and this was theirs only after the fat was burnt. Hence, their exaction was so odious, especially as they showed such a disrespect for the proper service, that they would be served before they had completed the duties demanded of them.

[b] Some refer this to the people who formerly sacrificed, who obtained a disgust for offerings so shamefully abused by the priests. Others refer "the men" to 'Eli's sons, who acted unworthily with the sacrifices as hypocrites of all ages do, seeking the sanctuary for their worldly advancement.

[c] Others, "that you mislead the LORD'S people to sin." Our version is after Rashi. (See Exod. xxxvi. 6.)

the tribes of Israel to me as a priest, to offer upon my altar, to burn incense, to wear an ephod before me? and did I (not) give unto the house of thy father all the fire-offerings of the children of Israel?

29 Wherefore kick ye at my sacrifice and at my meat-offering, which I have commanded in(my)habitation? and (why) honouredst thou thy sons above me, to fatten yourselves with the first of every offering of Israel my people?

30 Therefore saith the LORD the God of Israel, I had indeed said, Thy house, and the house of thy father, should walk before me for ever; but now, saith the LORD, Be it far from me; for those that honour me will I honour, and those that despise me shall be lightly esteemed.

31 Behold, days are coming, that I will hew off thy arm, and the arm of thy father's house, so that there shall not be an old man in thy house.

32 And thou shalt behold a rival[a] in my habitation, in all that by which he[b] will do good for Israel: and there shall not be an old man in thy house in all times.

33 And yet I will not cut off the men descended from thee[c] from my altar, to consume thy eyes, and to grieve thy soul: and all the increase of thy house shall die as (vigorous) men.

34 And this shall be unto thee the sign, that shall happen on thy two sons, on Chophni and Phinehas: On one day shall they, both of them, die.

35 And I will raise up to me a faithful priest, who shall do in accordance with what is in my heart and in my mind; and I will build for him an enduring house; and he shall walk before my anointed in all times.

36 And it shall come to pass, that whoever is left in thy house shall come to bow down to him for a gera[d] of silver and a loaf of bread, and shall say, Attach me, I pray thee, unto one of the priestly offices, that I may eat a piece of bread.

CHAPTER III.

1 ¶ And the lad Samuel was ministering unto the LORD before 'Eli. And the word of the LORD was scarce in those days: prophecy was not extended.

2 And it came to pass one day, when 'Eli was lying down in his place, and his eyes had begun to grow dim, he could not see;

3 And the lamp of God had not yet gone out, while Samuel was lying down in (the hall of) the temple of the LORD, where the ark of God was;

4 That the LORD called Samuel: and he said, Here am I.

5 And he ran unto 'Eli, and said, Here am I; for thou didst call me. And he said, I did not call: lie down again. And he went and lay down.

6 And the LORD continued to call again, Samuel. And Samuel arose and went to 'Eli, and said, Here am I; for thou didst call me. And he answered, I did not call, my son: lie down again.

7 And Samuel knew not yet the LORD, nor had the word of the LORD been as yet revealed unto him.

8 And the LORD continued to call, Samuel, the third time; and he arose and went to 'Eli, and said, Here am I; for thou didst call me. And 'Eli then perceived that the LORD was calling the lad.

9 And 'Eli said unto Samuel, Go, lie down; and it shall be, if he call thee, that thou shalt say, Speak, LORD; for thy servant heareth. And Samuel went and lay down in his place.

10 And the LORD came, and placed himself, and called as at previous times, Samuel, Samuel. And Samuel said, Speak; for thy servant heareth.

11 ¶ And the LORD said to Samuel, Behold, I will do a thing in Israel, at which both the ears of every one that heareth it shall tingle.

12 On that day will I fulfil on 'Eli all

[a] After Rashi. Others render צר adverbially, "Thou wilt look about thee with envy." But it means simply that 'Eli, or his descendants, should be compelled to see in God's house one who should supersede them.

[b] "He" refers to the rival, and means "the good which he shall be permitted to effect." Rashi renders, "on all, when it shall go well with Israel."

[c] Lit. "I will not cut off a man unto thee;" i. e. there shall be descendants from 'Eli, so that there may ever be some of them to serve at the altar under the conditions named.

[d] i. e. A small coin. The meaning is, that though 'Eli was both judge and high-priest, his descendants should apply to the new head for means of support.

that I have spoken concerning his house: I will begin and finish.[a]

13 And I tell him that I will judge his house for ever; for the iniquity that he knew that his sons were drawing a curse on themselves,[b] and he restrained them not.

14 And therefore have I sworn unto the house of 'Eli, that the iniquity of 'Eli's house shall not be atoned for with sacrifice or meat-offering for ever.

15 And Samuel lay until the morning, when he opened the doors of the house of the LORD; and Samuel feared to tell the vision unto 'Eli.

16 But 'Eli called Samuel, and said, Samuel, my son. And he said, Here am I.

17 And he said, What is the word which he hath spoken unto thee? do not, I pray thee, conceal it from me: may God do to thee thus, and continue to do so, if thou conceal any thing from me of all the word that he hath spoken unto thee.

18 And Samuel told him all the words, and concealed nothing from him. And he said, He is the LORD: let him do what seemeth good in his eyes.

19 And Samuel grew up, and the LORD was with him, and he did not let fall any one of all his words to the ground.

20 And thus knew all Israel from Dan even to Beër-sheba' that Samuel was accredited as a prophet of the LORD.

21 ¶ And the LORD continued to appear in Shiloh; for the LORD revealed himself to Samuel in Shiloh by the word of the LORD.

CHAPTER IV.

1 And the word of Samuel became known to all Israel. Now Israel went out against the Philistines to battle, and encamped beside Eben-ha'ezer;[c] and the Philistines encamped in Aphek.

2 And the Philistines put themselves in battle-array against Israel; and the battle became general,[d] and Israel was smitten before the Philistines: and they slew on the battle-ground[e], in the field, about four thousand men.

3 And when the people were come back into the camp, the elders of Israel said, Wherefore hath the LORD smitten us this day before the Philistines? Let us bring over to us out of Shiloh the ark of the covenant of the LORD, that it may come in the midst of us, and deliver us out of the hand of our enemies.

4 So the people sent to Shiloh, and they brought away from there the ark of the covenant of the LORD of hosts, who dwelleth over the cherubim: and the two sons of 'Eli, Chophni and Phinehas, were there with the ark of the covenant of God.

5 And it happened when the ark of the covenant of the LORD came into the camp, that all Israel set up a great shout, so that the earth trembled.

6 And when the Philistines heard the noise of the shouting, they said, What meaneth the noise of this great shouting in the camp of the Hebrews? And they understood that the ark of the LORD was come into the camp.

7 And the Philistines were afraid; for they said, God is come into the camp. And they said, Wo unto us! for the like of this hath not been, yesterday or the day before.

8 Wo unto us! who shall deliver us out of the hand of these mighty Gods? these are the Gods that smote the Egyptians with every plague in the wilderness.

9 Be strong, and act like men, O Philistines, so that ye become not servants unto the Hebrews, as they have been servants to you: therefore act like men, and fight.

10 And the Philistines fought, and the Israelites were smitten, and they fled every man unto his tent: and the defeat was very great; and there fell of Israel thirty thousand men on foot.

11 And the ark of God was taken; and the two sons of 'Eli, Chophni and Phinehas, died also.

12 And there ran a man of Benjamin from the battle-field, and came to Shiloh on the same day, with his clothes rent, and earth upon his head.

13 And when he came, lo, 'Eli was sitting upon a chair by the wayside watching; for his heart was anxious for the ark of God.

[b] "Were rendering themselves vile."—RASHI.

[c] i. e. The place afterward so called.

[d] Lit. "was spread out."

[e] Sachs; literally, "in the battle-array."

And when the man came to tell it in the city, all the city cried out.

14 And when 'Eli heard the noise of the crying, he said, What meaneth the noise of this multitude? And the man came in hastily, and told it to 'Eli.

15 Now 'Eli was ninety and eight years old; and his eyes were fixed, so that he could not see.

16 And the man said unto 'Eli, I am the person that came from the battle-field, and I myself fled from the battle-field to-day. And he said, What was it that took place, my son?

17 And the messenger answered and said, Israel is fled before the Philistines, and there hath also been a great slaughter among the people, and also thy two sons, Chophni and Phinehas, are dead, and the ark of God hath been taken.

18 And it came to pass, when he mentioned the ark of God, that he fell from off the chair backward by the side of the gate, and his neck was broken, and he died; for the man was old, and heavy. And he had judged Israel forty years.

19 And his daughter-in-law, the wife of Phinehas, was with child, near to be delivered: and when she heard the tidings concerning that the ark of God had been taken, and that her father-in-law and her husband were dead, she sank down and gave birth; for her pains came suddenly upon her.

20 And at the moment of her dying, the women that stood around her spoke (unto her), Fear not; for a son hast thou born. But she answered not, nor did she take it to heart.

21 And she named the child I-chabod,[a] saying, Glory is departed from Israel; because of the taking away of the ark of God, and because of her father-in-law and her husband.

22 And she said, Glory is departed from Israel; for the ark of God hath been taken away.

CHAPTER V.

1 ¶ And the Philistines took the ark of God, and brought it into the house of Dagon, and set it by Dagon.

2 And the Philistines took the ark of God, and brought it into the house of Dagon, and set it by Dagon.

3 And when the people of Ashdod arose early on the morrow, behold, Dagon was lying upon his face on the earth before the ark of the LORD. And they took Dagon, and set him again in his place.

4 And when they arose early on the morning of the following day, behold, Dagon was lying upon his face on the ground before the ark of the LORD; and the head of Dagon and both the palms of his hands were cut off upon the threshold; only the fish portion[b] was left on him.

5 Therefore do the priests of Dagon, and all that come into Dagon's house, not step on the threshold of Dagon in Ashdod even until this day.

6 ¶ And the hand of the LORD became heavy upon the people of Ashdod, and he destroyed them, and smote them with hemorrhoids, even Ashdod and its territory.

7 And when the men of Ashdod saw that it was so, they said, The ark of the God of Israel shall not remain with us; for his hand is sore upon us, and upon Dagon our god.

8 And they sent and gathered together all the lords of the Philistines unto them, and said, What shall we do with the ark of the God of Israel? And they answered, Let the ark of the God of Israel be removed unto Gath. And they removed the ark of the God of Israel thither.

9 And it happened, after they had removed it, that the hand of the LORD was against the city with a very great confusion; and he smote the men of the city, both small and great, and they had hemorrhoids in their secret parts.

10 And they sent away the ark of God to 'Ekron. And it came to pass, as the ark of God came to 'Ekron, that the 'Ekronites cried out, saying, They have removed to us[c] the ark of the God of Israel, to slay us and our people.

11 So they sent and gathered together all the lords of the Philistines, and said, Send away the ark of the God of Israel, that it may return to its own place, so that it may not slay us, and our people; for there was a confusion of death throughout all the city; the hand of God was very heavy there.

12 And the people that did not die were smitten with the hemorrhoids; and the lamentation of the city went up to heaven.

CHAPTER VI.

1 ¶ And the ark of the LORD was in the fields of the Philistines seven months.

2 And the Philistines called for the priests and the diviners, saying, What shall we do with the ark of the LORD? let us know wherewith we shall send off it to its place.

3 And they said, If ye send away the ark of the God of Israel, send it not away empty; but ye must to a certainty return him[a] a trespass-offering: then will ye be healed, and it will be known to you why his hand is not removed from you.

4 And they said, What shall be the trespass-offering that we shall return to him? And they answered, According to the number of the lords of the Philistines, five golden hemorrhoids, and five golden mice;[b] for one plague affected them all, and your lords.

5 Therefore make images of your hemorrhoids, and images of your mice that devastate the land;[c] and give glory unto the God of Israel: perhaps he will lighten his hand from off you, and from off your gods, and from off your land.

6 And why will ye harden your heart, just as the Egyptians and Pharaoh hardened their heart? Did not they, when he had wrought wonderful deeds among them, dismiss them, and they departed?

7 And now make a new wagon, and take two milch-cows, on which there hath come no yoke, and harness the cows to the wagon, and bring their calves home away from them:

8 And take the ark of the LORD, and place it into the wagon; and the articles of gold, which ye return him as a trespass-offering, ye must put in a casket alongside of it; and then send it away, that it may go.

9 And then see, if it go up by the way to its own boundary, to Beth-shemesh, then hath he done us this great evil; but if not, then shall we know that not his hand hath smitten us; it is a chance which hath happened to us.

10 And the men did so; and they took two milch-cows, and harnessed them to the wagon, and their calves they shut up at home:

11 And they placed the ark of the LORD in the wagon, and the casket with the mice of gold and images of their hemorrhoids.

12 And the cows went straight forward on the way on the road to Beth-shemesh: on one high-way they did go along, lowing as they went, and turned not aside to the right or to the left; and the lords of the Philistines went after them as far as the border of Beth-shemesh.

13 And they of Beth-shemesh were reaping their wheat-harvest in the valley; and when they lifted up their eyes, and saw the ark, they rejoiced to see it.

14 And the wagon came to the field of Joshua, the Beth-shemite, and stood still there; and there was a great stone; and they split the wood of the wagon, and the cows they offered as a burnt-offering unto the LORD.

15 And the Levites took down the ark of the LORD, and the casket that was with it, wherein were the articles of gold, and put them on the great stone; and the men of Beth-shemesh offered burnt-offerings and sacrificed sacrifices on the same day unto the LORD.

16 And when the five lords of the Philistines had seen it, they returned to 'Ekron on the same day.

17 ¶ And these are the golden hemorrhoids which the Philistines returned as a trespass-offering unto the LORD: For Ashdod one, for Gazzah one, for Ashkelon one, for Gath one, for 'Ekron one.

18 ¶ And the golden mice were according to the number of all the cities of the Philistines under the five lords, from the fortified city, down to the open village, even unto the great stone[a] whereon they had set down the ark of the LORD, and which is unto this day in the field of Joshua, the Beth-shemite.

[a] i. e. The God of Israel. Sachs and others, "it," referring to the ark.

[b] Probably this was the plague of field-mice, which destroyed the crops. But Philippson, after Abarbanel, supposes that it means a local disease, called "mouse," as now "cancer," denotes a peculiar malady.

[c] It was customary for the ancient heathen to offer to their gods such monuments of their deliverance as represented the evils from which they had been rescued; and Tavernier (Travels, p. 92) informs us, that among the Indians, when a pilgrim goes to one of the pagodas for a cure, he brings the figure of the member affected, made of gold, silver, or copper, according to his circumstances, which he offers to his god.

19 And he smote among the men of Beth-shemesh, because they had looked into the ark of the LORD, namely, he smote among the people seventy men and fifty thousand men:[b] and the people mourned because the LORD had caused among the people a great slaughter.

20 And the men of Beth-shemesh said, Who is able to stand before the LORD, this holy God? and to whom shall it go up away from us?

21 And they sent messengers to the inhabitants of Kiryath-ye'arim, saying, The Philistines have brought back the ark of the LORD: come ye down, and fetch it up to you.

CHAPTER VII.

1 And the men of Kiryath-ye'arim came, and fetched up the ark of the LORD, and brought it unto the house of Abinadab on the hill, and Elazar his son they sanctified to guard the ark of the LORD.

2 ¶ And it came to pass, from the time the ark remained in Kiryath-ye'arim, and the time was long, and it was twenty years: that all the house of Israel followed anxiously after the LORD.

3 And Samuel said unto all the house of Israel, as followeth, If with all your heart ye do return unto the LORD, then put away the gods of the stranger and the 'Ashtaroth from your midst, and direct your heart unto the LORD, and serve him alone: and then will he deliver you out of the hand of the Philistines.

4 Then did the children of Israel put away the Be'alim and the 'Ashtaroth, and served the LORD alone.

5 ¶ And Samuel said, Assemble all Israel together at Mizpah, and I will pray in your behalf unto the LORD.

6 And they assembled themselves together at Mizpah, and drew water, and poured it out before the LORD, and fasted on that day, and said there, We have sinned against the LORD. And Samuel judged the children of Israel in Mizpah.

7 And when the Philistines heard that the children of Israel had assembled themselves at Mizpah, the lords of the Philistines went up against Israel. And when the children of Israel heard it, they were afraid of the Philistines.

8 And the children of Israel said to Samuel, Do not abstain,[c] so as not to cry for us unto the LORD our God, that he may help us out of the hand of the Philistines.

9 And Samuel took one sucking lamb, and offered it for an entire burnt-offering unto the LORD: and Samuel cried unto the LORD in behalf of Israel; and the LORD answered him.

10 And as Samuel was offering up the burnt-offering, the Philistines drew near to battle against Israel; but the LORD thundered with a loud noise on that day over the Philistines, and brought them into confusion, and they were smitten before Israel.

11 And the men of Israel went out of Mizpah, and pursued the Philistines, and smote them, as far as below Beth-car.

12 And Samuel took one stone, and set it between Mizpah and Shen, and called its name Eben-ha'ezer,[d] saying, As far as this hath the LORD helped us.

13 So were the Philistines humbled, and they came no more into the territory of Israel; and the hand of the Lord was against the Philistines all the days of Samuel.[e]

14 And the cities which the Philistines had taken from Israel came again to Israel, from 'Ekron even unto Gath, and their territory did Israel deliver out of the hand of the Philistines. And there was peace between Israel and the Emorites.

15 And Samuel judged Israel all the days of his life.

16 And he went from year to year and travelled in circuit to Beth-el, and Gilgal, and Mizpah, and judged Israel in all these places.

17 And his return was to Ramah; for there was his house; and there he judged Israel: and he built there an altar unto the LORD.

CHAPTER VIII.

1 ¶ And it came to pass, when Samuel was old, that he appointed his sons judges over Israel.

2 And the name of his first-born was Joël;[a] and the name of his second Abiyah: they judged in Beër-sheba'.

3 But his sons walked not in his ways, and they inclined after their own advantage, and took bribes, and perverted justice.

4 ¶ Then did all the elders of Israel assemble themselves together, and came to Samuel unto Ramah,

5 And said unto him, Behold, thou art old, and thy sons have not walked in thy ways: now appoint for us a king to judge us like all the nations.

6 But the thing was displeasing in the eyes of Samuel, when they said, Give us a king to judge us. And Samuel prayed unto the LORD.

7 ¶ And the LORD said unto Samuel, Hearken unto the voice of the people in all that they may say unto thee; for not thee have they rejected, but me have they rejected, that I should not reign over them.

8 In accordance with all the deeds which they have done since the day that I brought them up out of Egypt even until this day, when they forsook me, and served other gods: so do they also unto thee.

9 And now hearken unto their voice; nevertheless thou must still solemnly forewarn them, and tell them the manner[b] of the king that will reign over them.

10 ¶ And Samuel said all the words of the LORD unto the people that had asked of him a king.

11 ¶ And he said, This will be the manner of the king that will reign over you: Your sons will he take, and appoint them for himself with his chariots, and among his horsemen; and they will have to run before his chariot;

12 And to appoint for himself captains over thousands, and captains over fifties; and to plough his ground, and to reap his harvest, and to make his instruments of war, and the instruments of his chariots.

13 And your daughters will he take for ointment makers, and for cooks, and for bakers.

14 And your fields, and your vineyards, and your olive-yards, yea the best, will he take, and give them to his servants.

15 And of your seeds, and of your vineyards will he take the tenth, and give (the same) to his officers, and to his servants.

16 And your men-servants, and your maid-servants, and your best young men, and your asses will he take, and employ (them) for his work.

17 Of your flocks will he take the tenth: and ye yourselves will become his servants.

18 And ye will cry out on that day because of your king whom ye will have chosen for yourselves; but the LORD will not answer you on that day.

19 Nevertheless the people refused to listen to the voice of Samuel; and they said, No; but a king shall be over us;

20 That we also may ourselves be like all the nations; and that our king may judge us, and go out before us, and fight our battles.

21 And Samuel heard all the words of the people, and he spoke them before[c] the ears of the LORD.

22 ¶ And the LORD said to Samuel, Hearken unto their voice, and appoint them a king. And Samuel said unto the men of Israel, Go ye every man unto his city.

CHAPTER IX.

1 ¶ Now there was a man of Benjamin, whose name was Kish, the son of Abiël, the son of Zeror, the son of Bechorath, the son of Aphiach, the son of a Benjamite, a mighty man of valour.

2 And he had a son whose name was Saül,[d] young[e] and handsome; and there was not a man among the children of Israel handsomer than he: from his shoulders and upward he was taller than any of the people.

3 And there were lost the asses belonging to Kish, Saül's father; and Kish said to Saül his son, Do take with thee one of the servants, and arise, go seek the asses.

4 And he passed through the mountain of Ephraim, and passed through the land of Sha-lisha, but they found (them) not; then they passed through the land of Sha'alim, and there was nothing there; and he passed through the land of Benjamin, but they found them not.

5 When they were come in the land of Zuph, Saül said to his servant that was with him, Come, and let us return; lest my father relinquish the care for the asses, and become anxious for us.

6 And the other said unto him, Behold now, a man of God is in this city, and the man is honoured; all that he ever saith will surely come to pass: now let us go thither; perhaps he can tell us our way that we should go.

7 Then said Saül to his servant, But, behold, if we should go, what shall we bring to the man? for the bread is spent out of our vessels, and there is not a present[a] to bring to the man of God: what have we with us?

8 And the servant answered Saül again, and said, Behold, I have[b] here in my hand the fourth part of a shekel of silver; and I will give this to the man of God, that he may tell us our way.

9 In former times it was custom in Israel, that when a man went to inquire of God, he said thus, Come, and let us go as far as the seër; for the Prophet of the present day was in former times called a Seër.

10 Then said Saül to his servant, Thy word is good: come, let us go. So they went unto the city where the man of God was.

11 As they went up the ascent to the city, they found some maidens going out to draw water; and they said unto them, Is the seër here?

12 And they answered them, and said, He is; behold, he is before you: make haste now, for this day came he to the city; because the people have a sacrifice to-day on the high-place;

13 As soon as ye are come into the city, ye will straightway find him, before yet he can go up to the high-place to eat; for the people will not eat until he be come, because he always blesseth the sacrifice; afterward eat those that are invited; and now go you up; for just to-day will ye surely find him.

14 And they went up into the city. They were entering into the city, when, behold, Samuel came out toward them, to go up to the high-place.

15 ¶ And the LORD had revealed to Samuel's ear one day before Saül's coming, saying,

16 About this time to-morrow will I send unto thee a man out of the land of Benjamin, and thou shalt anoint him as chief over my people Israel, that he may save my people out of the hand of the Philistines; for I have beheld my people, because their cry is come unto me.

17 And when Samuel saw Saül, the LORD addressed him, Behold the man of whom I spoke to thee, This one shall rule over my people.

18 And Saül drew near to Samuel within the gate, and said, Tell me, I pray thee, where is the house of the seër.

19 And Samuel answered Saül, and said, I am the seër: go up before me unto the high-place, and ye shall eat with me to-day; and I will let thee go in the morning, and all that is in thy heart will I tell thee.

20 And as for thy asses that were lost unto thee this day three days ago, do not set thy heart on them; for they have been found. And to whom belongeth all that is desirable in Israel? Is it not to thee, and to all thy father's house?

21 And Saül answered and said, Am not I a son of Benjamin, of one of the smallest tribes of Israel? and (is not) my family the least of all the families of the tribes of Benjamin? wherefore then hast thou spoken to me such a thing?

22 And Samuel took Saül and his servant, and brought them into the apartment; and he assigned them a place at the head of the invited guests, who were about thirty persons.

23 And Samuel said unto the cook, Hand here the portion which I gave thee, of which I said unto thee, Put it away by thee.

24 And the cook took up the shoulder, and that which was on it, and set it before

[a] We are not to suppose from this that the prophets took money to predict future events: Saül only refers to an invariable custom, that no man approached a superior without some present or another, however small in value.

[b] Heb. "there is found in my hand."

Saül: and he said, Behold what is left! set it before thee, and eat; for unto this time hath it been kept from thee, since I said, I have invited the people. And Saül ate with Samuel on that day.

25 And they went down from the high-place into the city, and he spoke with Saül upon the roof.

26 And they got up early; and it came to pass when the morning-dawn arose, that Samuel called Saül to the roof, saying, Up, that I may send thee away. And Saül arose, and they went out, both of them, he and Samuel, into the street.

27 As they were going down to the end of the city, Samuel said to Saül, Say to the servant that he pass on before us,—and he passed on,—but thou remain standing a while, and I will let thee hear the word of God.

CHAPTER X.

1 ¶ And Samuel took a flask of oil, and poured it upon his head, and kissed him, and said, Behold, it is because the LORD hath anointed thee over his inheritance as chief.

2 When thou goest this day away from me, thou wilt find two men who are now[a] by Rachel's sepulchre, on the boundary of Benjamin at Zelzach; and they will say unto thee, The asses which thou wentest to seek are found: and, lo, thy father hath given up the matter of the asses, and is anxious for you, saying, What shall I do for my son?

3 Then shalt thou go on forward from there, and thou shalt come as far as the grove of Tabor, and there shall meet thee three men going up to God to Beth-el, one carrying three kids, and another carrying three loaves of bread, and another carrying a bottle of wine:

4 And they will ask thee after thy welfare, and give thee two loaves of bread, which thou must take from their hand.

5 After that shalt thou come to the hill of God,[b] where the outposts of the Philistines are; and it shall come to pass, when thou art come thither to the city, that thou wilt meet a company of prophets[c] coming down from the high-place, having before them a psaltery, and a tambourine, and a pipe, and a harp; and they will be prophesying;[d]

6 And the Spirit of the LORD will suddenly come over thee, and thou shalt prophesy with them, and thou shalt be changed into another man.

7 And it shall be, that, when these signs are come unto thee, then do thou what thy hand may be able to effect; for God is with thee.

8 And thou shalt go down before me to Gilgal; and, behold, I will come down unto thee, to offer burnt-offerings, (and) to sacrifice sacrifices of peace-offerings: seven days shalt thou tarry, till I come to thee, and then will I tell thee what thou shalt do.

9 And it happened, that, as he turned his back to go away from Samuel, God changed his heart into another; and all these signs came to pass on that same day.

10 ¶ And when they came thither to the hill, behold, a company of prophets met him; and the Spirit of God came suddenly over him, and he prophesied in the midst of them.

11 And it came to pass, when all that knew him before[e] saw, that, behold, he prophesied with the prophets, then said the people one to another, What is this that hath happened to the son of Kish? is Saül also among the prophets?

12 And one of that place answered and said, And who is their father?[f] Therefore it became a proverb, Is Saül also among the prophets?

13 And when he had made an end of prophesying, he came to the high-place.

14 And Saül's uncle said unto him and to his servant, Whither were ye gone? And he said, To seek the asses; and when we saw that they were nowhere, we went to Samuel.

15 And Saül's uncle said, Do tell me, I pray thee, what did Samuel say unto you.

16 And Saül said unto his uncle, He told us plainly that the asses had been found.

[e] Lit. "yesterday, the day before yesterday."

[f] Jonathan, "Who is their teacher?" referring to the prophets; meaning, prophecy is no inheritance, but a gift of God; why then do you wonder that the son of Kish prophesies also?

But of the matter of the kingdom, whereof Samuel had spoken, he told him not.

17 ¶ And Samuel called the people together unto the LORD to Mizpah;

18 And he said unto the children of Israel, Thus hath said the LORD the God of Israel, I brought up Israel for Egypt, and delivered you out of the hand of the Egyptians, and out of the hand of all the kingdoms that oppressed you;

19 And ye for your part have this day rejected your God, he who hath saved you out of all your misfortunes and your tribulations; and ye have said unto him, Nevertheless, thou must set a king over us: and now present yourselves before the LORD according to your tribes, and according to your thousands.

20 And Samuel caused all the tribes of Israel to come near; and the tribe of Benjamin was seized.

21 And he caused the tribe of Benjamin to come near according to its families, and the family of Matri was seized, and then was seized Saül the son of Kish: and they sought him, but he could not be found.

22 And they inquired again of the LORD, Is the man yet come hither?[a]

¶ And the LORD said, Behold, he hath hidden himself among the vessels.[b]

23 And they ran and fetched him thence, and he placed himself erect in the midst of the people, and he was higher than any of the people from his shoulders and upward.

24 And Samuel said to all the people, Have ye seen him whom the LORD hath made choice of, that there is none like him among all the people? And all the people shouted, and said, Long live the king.

25 ¶ Then did Samuel speak to the people the rights of the kingdom, and wrote it in a book, and laid it down before the LORD. And Samuel sent away all the people, every man to his house.

26 And Saül also went to his home to Gib'ah; and there went with him a large crowd, whose heart God had touched.

27 But the worthless men said, In what can this one help us? And they despised him, and brought him no present. But he acted as though he were deaf.

CHAPTER XI.

1 ¶ Then came up Nachash the 'Ammonite, and encamped against Yabesh-gil'ad: and all the men of Yabesh said unto Nachash, Make a covenant with us, and we will serve thee.

2 And Nachash the 'Ammonite said unto them, On this condition will I make it with you, that ye all have put out the right eye, that I may lay it as a reproach upon all Israel.

3 And the elders of Yabesh said unto him, Grant us seven days respite, that we may send messengers throughout all the boundary of Israel: and then, if there be none to save us, will we come out to thee.

4 And the messengers came to Gib'ah of Saül, and spoke the words in the ears of the people; and all the people lifted up their voice, and wept.

5 And, behold, Saül was coming after the herds out of the field; and Saül said, What aileth the people that they weep? And they told him the words of the men of Yabesh.

6 And the Spirit of God came suddenly over Saül when he heard these words, and his anger was kindled greatly.

7 And he took a yoke of oxen, and cut them in pieces, and sent them about throughout all the boundary of Israel by the hand of the messengers, saying, Whosoever goeth not forth after Saül and after Samuel, shall have his herds thus treated. And the dread of the LORD fell on the people, and they went out as one man.

8 And he numbered them in Bezek; and the children of Israel were three hundred thousand, and the men of Judah thirty thousand.

9 And they said unto the messengers that were come, Thus shall ye say unto the men of Yabesh-gil'ad, To-morrow shall ye have help, when the sun shineth hot. And the messengers came and told it to the men of Yabesh; and these were glad.

10 And the men of Yabesh said,[c] To-morrow will we go out unto you, and ye can do unto us in accordance with all that seemeth good in your eyes.

11 ¶ And it happened on the morrow,

[a] After Redak, as though it were הֹאִישׁ. Others, "Is yet another man come hither?"

[b] i. e. The baggage of the assembly.

[c] Meaning, they sent word to the 'Ammonites.

that Saül put the people in three companies; and they came into the midst of the camp in the morning watch, and they smote the 'Ammonites until the heat of the day: and it came to pass, that those that remained were scattered, and no two among them were left together.

12 And the people said unto Samuel, Who is there that saith, Shall Saül reign over us? give up the men, and we will put them to death.

13 And Saül said, There shall not a man be put to death on this day; for to-day the LORD hath wrought deliverance[a] in Israel.

14 ¶ And Samuel said to the people, Come and let us go to Gilgal, and renew there the choice[b] of the king.

15 And all the people went to Gilgal; and they appointed there Saül as king before the LORD in Gilgal; and they sacrificed there sacrifices of peace-offerings before the LORD; and Saül with all the men of Israel rejoiced there very greatly.

CHAPTER XII.

1 ¶ And Samuel said unto all Israel, Behold, I have hearkened unto your voice in all that ye said unto me, and I have set a king over you.

2 And now, behold, the king is walking before you; and I am old and gray-headed; and my sons, behold, they are with you; and I have walked before you from my youth even until this day.

3 Behold, here am I; testify against me in the presence of the LORD, and in the presence of his anointed: Whose ox have I taken? or whose ass have I taken? or whom have I defrauded? whom have I oppressed? or from whose hand have I received any ransom so that I withdrew my eyes from him? and I will restore it you.

4 And they said, Thou hast not defrauded us, nor hast thou oppressed us, and thou hast not taken from any man's hand the least.

5 And he said unto them, The LORD is witness against you, and his anointed is witness this day, that ye have not found in my hand the least: and they answered, He is witness.

6 And Samuel said unto the people, It is the LORD who did[c] (wonders through) Moses and Aaron, and who brought your fathers up out of the land of Egypt.

7 And now stand up, that I may hold judgment with you before the LORD concerning all the benefits of the LORD, which he hath done to you and to your fathers.

8 When Jacob was come into Egypt, then did your fathers cry unto the LORD, and the LORD sent Moses and Aaron, and they brought forth your fathers out of Egypt, and caused them to dwell in this place.

9 And when they forgot the LORD their God, he sold them into the hand of Sissera, the chief of the host of Chazor, and into the hand of the Philistines, and into the hand of the king of Moäb, and they made war against them.

10 And they cried (then) unto the LORD, and said, We have sinned, because we have forsaken the LORD, and have served the Be'alim and the 'Ashtaroth; and now deliver us out of the hand of our enemies, and we will serve thee.

11 And the LORD sent Yerubba'al, and Bedan,[d] and Yiphthach, and Samuel, and he delivered you out of the hand of your enemies on every side, so that ye dwelt safely.

12 But when ye saw that Nachash the king of the children of 'Ammon came against you, ye said unto me, No; but a king shall reign over us: when the LORD your God is your king.

13 And now here is the king whom ye have chosen, whom ye have asked for! and, behold, the LORD hath set over you a king.

14 If ye will fear the LORD, and serve him, and obey his voice, and will not rebel against the will[e] of the LORD: then[f] shall both ye and also the king that reigneth over you continue following the LORD your God.

[a] Zunz, "Victory."

[b] After Sachs. Rashi agrees with this, in commenting, "Because at first some objected, but now all were satisfied." Others render, "the kingdom."

[c] According to Jonathan's version, who supplies between עשה and כושה the word פלא, thus, דעבד נבורן על ידא דכושה. Others render, "who appointed Moses and Aaron."

[d] Samson, or "son of Dan."

[e] Lit. "mouth," elsewhere given with "order."

[f] Both Sachs and Arnheim view this part of the verse as a continuation of the condition, and render, "And if both ye and also the king that reigneth over you, follow the LORD your God,"—the consequence is then understood, meaning, "then will you be blessed."

15 But if ye will not hearken to the voice of the LORD, and rebel against the will of the LORD: then will the hand of the LORD be against you, as it was against your fathers.

16 Also now stand up and see this great thing, which the LORD is about doing before your eyes.

17 Is it not wheat-harvest[a] to-day? I will call unto the LORD, and he will send thunders and rain; and ye will (thus) perceive and see that your wickedness is great, which ye have done, in the eyes of the LORD, to ask for yourselves a king.

18 And Samuel called unto the LORD; and the LORD sent thunders and rain on that day: and all the people feared greatly the LORD and Samuel.

19 And all the people said unto Samuel, Pray in behalf of thy servants unto the LORD thy God, that we may not die; for we have added unto all our sins yet this evil, to ask for ourselves a king.

20 And Samuel said unto the people, Fear not; ye have indeed done all this evil: yet turn not aside from following the LORD, and serve ye the LORD with all your heart;

21 And turn ye not aside; for then would ye go after vain things, which cannot profit nor deliver; because they are vain.

22 For the LORD will not forsake his people for the sake of his great name; because it hath pleased the LORD to make you a people unto himself.

23 Moreover as for me, far be it from me that I should sin against the LORD by ceasing to pray in behalf of you; but I will teach you the good and the right way:

24 Only fear the LORD, and serve him in truth with all your heart; for see what great things he hath done with you.

25 But if ye will in any wise do wickedly, both ye yourselves as also your king shall perish.

CHAPTER XIII.

1 ¶ When Saul had reigned one year,—and two[b] years he reigned over Israel,—

2 Saül chose for himself three thousand men out of Israel; and there were with Saül two thousand in Michmash and on the mountain of Beth-el, and a thousand were with Jonathan[c] in Gib'ah of Benjamin: and the rest of the people he sent away every man to his tents.

3 And Jonathan smote the outpost[d] of the Philistines that was at Geba', and the Philistines heard of it. And Saül blew the cornet throughout all the land, saying, Let the Hebrews hear it.

4 And all Israel heard it, saying, Saül hath smitten the outpost of the Philistines, and the Israelites also have put themselves in ill-favour with the Philistines. And the people were called together after Saül to Gilgal.

5 And the Philistines gathered themselves together to fight with Israel, thirty thousand chariots, and six thousand horsemen, and people as the sand which is on the sea-shore in multitude; and they came up, and encamped in Michmash, eastward from Beth-aven.

6 And when the men of Israel saw that they were in a strait, (for the people were oppressed,) then did the people hide themselves in caves, and in thickets, and in rocks, and in strong-holds, and in pits.

7 And some of the Hebrews passed over the Jordan to the land of Gad and Gil'ad. As for Saül, he was still in Gilgal, and all the people followed him hastily.[e]

8 And he tarried seven days, according to the set time that Samuel[f] had appointed; but Samuel came not to Gilgal; and the people were scattering themselves from him.

9 And Saül said, Bring hither to me the burnt-offering and the peace-offerings. And he offered the burnt-offering.

10 And it came to pass, that, as soon as he had made an end of offering the burnt-offering, behold, Samuel came; and Saül went out to meet him, that he might greet him.

11 And Samuel said, What hast thou done? And Saül said, Because I saw that the people were scattering themselves from me, whereas thou camest not at the appointed day, and

[d] Others, "garrison."

[e] Rashi. Others, "trembling," or "fearfully."

[f] Philippson supposes that Samuel had made it a rule, independently of the order above, x. 8, for Saül to wait with public sacrifices at Gilgal, where the tabernacle was probably at that time, till his arrival, which might require some days from the time he was bidden.

the Philistines are gathering themselves together at Michmash;

12 And I said, The Philistines will now come down unto me to Gilgal, and I have not yet made supplication unto the LORD: therefore I forced myself, and offered the burnt-offering.

13 And Samuel said to Saül, Thou hast done foolishly: thou hast not kept the commandment of the LORD thy God, which he had commanded thee; for now would the LORD have established thy government over Israel for ever.

14 But now thy government shall not endure: the LORD hath sought out for himself a man after his own heart, and the LORD hath ordained him to be chief over his people; because thou hast not kept what the LORD had commanded thee.

15 ¶ And Samuel arose, and went up from Gilgal unto Gib'ah of Benjamin. And Saül numbered the people that were to be found with him, about six hundred men.

16 And Saül, and Jonathan his son, and the people that were to be found with them, were lying in Geba' of Benjamin; but the Philistines were encamped in Michmash.

17 And the troop of freebooters went out of the camp of the Philistines in three companies: one company turned into the way to 'Ophrah, unto the land of Shu'al;

18 And another company turned into the way to Beth-choron; and the other company turned into the way to the frontier that looketh over the valley of Zebo'im toward the wilderness.

19 ¶ Now there was no smith to be found throughout all the land of Israel; for the Philistines said, So that the Hebrews shall not make themselves swords or spears.

20 But all the Israelites went down to the Philistines, to sharpen every man his ploughshare, and his coulter,[a] and his axe, and his mattock.

21 And they used a file[b] for the mattocks, and for the coulters, and for three-pronged forks, and for the axes, and to sharpen the goads.

22 So it came to pass on the day of battle, that there was neither sword nor spear found in the hand of any of the people that were with Saül and Jonathan; but they were found with Saül and with Jonathan his son.

23 And the outpost of the Philistines went out to the pass of Michmash.

CHAPTER XIV.

1 ¶ Now it happened one day, that Jonathan the son of Saül said unto the young man that bore his armour, Come, and let us go over to the Philistines' outpost, that is on the other side yonder. But unto his father he told nothing.

2 And Saül tarried in the lower part of Gib'ah under the pomegranate-tree which is by Migron: and the people that were with him were about six hundred men.

3 And Achiyah, the son of Achitub, the brother of I-chabod, the son of Phinchas, the son of 'Eli, the priest of the LORD in Shiloh, wore the ephod. And the people knew not that Jonathan was gone.

4 And between the passes, by which Jonathan sought to go over unto the outpost of the Philistines, there was a sharp point of rock on the one side, and a sharp point of rock on the other side: and the name of the one was Bozez, and the name of the other Seneh.

5 The one point rose up abruptly northward opposite Michmash, and the other southward opposite Geba'.

6 And Jonathan said to the young man that bore his armour, Come, and let us go over unto the outpost of these uncircumcised: it may be that the LORD will work for us; for there is no restraint to the LORD to save by means of many or by means of few.

7 And his armour-bearer said unto him, Do all that is in thy heart: turn thee; behold, I am with thee according to thy heart.

8 Then said Jonathan, Behold, we will pass over unto these men, and we will show ourselves unto them.

9 If they say thus unto us, Stand still until we come to you: then will we remain standing in our places, and will not go up unto them.

[a] Philippson, "plough-share, scythe, axe, and sickle."

[b] Philippson, "namely, when the edge was dull on the agricultural implements, or on the scythes," &c., taking פצירה as signifying "gap," "dulness," from פצר "to blunt." Our version is after Rashi.

10 But if they say thus, Come up unto us: then will we go up; for the LORD hath delivered them into our hand; and this shall be unto us the sign.

11 And when both of them showed themselves unto the outpost of the Philistines, the Philistines said, Behold, Hebrews are coming forth out of the holes wherein they have hidden themselves.

12 And the men of the outpost addressed Jonathan and his armour-bearer, and said, Come up to us, and we will let you know something. Then said Jonathan unto his armour-bearer, Come up after me; for the LORD hath given them up into the hand of Israel.

13 And Jonathan then ascended upon his hands and upon his feet, and his armour-bearer after him: and they fell before Jonathan, and his armour-bearer was killing after him.

14 And that first defeat, which Jonathan and his armour-bearer caused, was about twenty men, within about the half of a field,[a] which a yoke of oxen might plough.

15 And there arose a terror in the camp, in the field, and among all the people; the outposts, and the free-booters, they also were terrified, and the earth quaked; and it became a very great terror.[b]

16 And the watchers of Saül in Gib'ah of Benjamin looked; and, behold, the multitude became scattered,[c] and ran hither and thither.

17 ¶ Then said Saül unto the people that were with him, Muster now, and see who is gone away from us. And they mustered, and, behold, there was neither Jonathan nor his armour-bearer.

18 And Saül said unto Achiyah, Bring hither the ark of God; for the ark of God was on that day with the children of Israel.

19 And it happened, while Saül was speaking unto the priest, that the confusion which was in the camp of the Philistines went on and increased more and more:

¶ And Saül said unto the priest, Withdraw thy hand.

20 And Saül and all the people that were with him were called together, and they came to the battle: and, behold, the sword of every man was against his fellow, the disorder being very great.

21 And the Hebrews that were with the Philistines as before that time, those namely who had gone up with them, were in the camp round about; but these also resolved to be with the Israelites that were with Saül and Jonathan.

22 And all the men of Israel who had hidden themselves on the mountain of Ephraim, heard that the Philistines had fled; and they also followed hard after them in the battle.

23 So the LORD saved Israel that day: and the battle passed over unto Beth-aven.

24 And the men of Israel were hard urged that day; and Saül adjured the people, saying, Cursed be the man that will eat food[d] until the evening, until I have been avenged on my enemies. And the whole people tasted thus no food.

25 And (the men of) all the land came to a forest; and there was honey[e] upon the surface of the field.

26 And when the people were come into the forest, behold, there was a stream of honey; but no one put his hand to his mouth; for the people feared the oath.

27 But Jonathan had not heard his father charging the people with the oath; he therefore[e] put forth the end of the staff that was in his hand, and dipped it in a honey-comb,[f] and carried his hand again to his mouth; and his eyes became clear.

28 Then commenced one of the people, and said, Thy father strictly charged the people with an oath, saying, Cursed be the man that will eat food this day; though the people were faint.[g]

29 Then said Jonathan, My father hath troubled the land: see, I pray you, how

[e] This was wild honey, which even now abounds in Judea; and bursting from the comb runs down the hollow trees, rocks, &c. Rashi, however, comments, "the juice of canes growing in the land of Israel."

my eyes are become clear, because I have tasted a little of this honey.

30 How much more, if haply the people had eaten freely this day of the spoil of their enemies which they found? for would there not have been now a greater defeat among the Philistines?

31 And they smote on that day among the Philistines from Michmash to Ayalon; and the people were very faint.

32 And the people flew upon the spoil, and took sheep, and oxen, and young steers, and slew them on the ground: and the people did eat upon[a] the blood.

33 And they told Saül, saying, Behold, the people are sinning against the LORD, in eating upon the blood. And he (then) said, Ye have acted treacherously: roll (hither) unto me this day a great stone.

34 And Saül said, Disperse yourselves among the people, and say unto them, Bring near unto me every man his ox, and every man his lamb, and slaughter here, and eat; and sin not against the LORD in eating by the blood. And all the people brought near every man his ox by his hand that night, and slaughtered (them) there.

35 And Saül built an altar unto the LORD: the same was the first[b] altar that he built unto the LORD.

36 ¶ And Saül said, Let us go down after the Philistines by night, and spoil them until the morning-light, and let us not leave a man of them. And they said, Do whatsoever seemeth good in thy eyes.

¶ Then said the priest, Let us draw near hither unto God.

37 And Saül asked counsel of God, Shall I go down after the Philistines? wilt thou deliver them into the hand of Israel? But he answered him not on that day.

38 And Saül said, Draw ye near hither all the chief of the people: and know and see through what this sin hath happened this day.

39 For, as the LORD liveth, who saveth Israel, that if it be in Jonathan my son, he shall surely die. But no one answered him among all the people.

40 Then said he unto all Israel, Ye shall be on one side, and I and Jonathan my son will be on the other side. And the people said unto Saül, Do what seemeth good in thy eyes.

41 And Saül said unto the LORD, God of Israel, O, show forth the perfect truth.[c] And Jonathan and Saül were seized; but the people came forth (free).

42 And Saül said, Cast the lot between me and Jonathan my son. And Jonathan was seized.

43 Then said Saül to Jonathan, Do tell me what thou hast done. And Jonathan told him, and said, I did but taste with the end of the staff that was in my hand a little honey: lo, I am willing to die.

44 And Saül said, May God do thus now, and in future also; for thou shalt surely die, Jonathan.

45 And the people said unto Saül, Shall Jonathan die, who hath wrought this great salvation in Israel? This shall not be: as the LORD liveth, there shall not fall one hair of his head to the ground; for with God hath he wrought this day. So the people rescued Jonathan, and he died not.

46 ¶ Then went Saül up from following the Philistines; and the Philistines went to their own place.

47 So Saül strengthened himself in the government over Israel; and he fought on every side against all his enemies, against Moäb, and against the children of 'Ammon, and against Edom, and against the kings of Zobah, and against the Philistines: and whithersoever he turned himself, he caused terror.

48 And he gathered an army,[d] and he smote the 'Amalekites, and delivered Israel out of the hands of those that spoiled them.

49 ¶ Now the sons of Saül were Jonathan, and Yishvi, and Malkishua': and the names

[a] See Leviticus xix. 26.—Rashi thinks they slew the dams with the young, against the law. Others this: that they sanctified the cattle, and ate before the blood was sprinkled. Ralbag, that they ate on the place where the blood had flowed, as in our text; but Redak, that having slain the cattle on the ground, the blood was not fully drained out, which ought to be done, as blood is prohibited. Hence Saül's order, verses 3, 4. Whatever it was, it was an infraction of a precept of the law.

[b] Literally, "with it he began to build an altar."

[c] תמים "perfect," that which is in accordance with truth. Rashi, "give a true lot." Others, "declare the innocent."

[d] After Jonathan. Others, "he did mighty deeds."

of his two daughters—the name of the first-born was Merab, and the name of the younger Michal.

50 And the name of Saül's wife was Achino'am, the daughter of Achima'az: and the name of the captain of his army was Abiner, the son of Ner, Saül's uncle.

51 And Kish the father of Saül, and Ner the father of Abner, were each the son of Abiël.

52 ¶ And the war against the Philistines was violent all the days of Saül: and when Saül saw any strong man, or any valiant man, he took him unto himself.

CHAPTER XV.

1 ¶ And Samuel said unto to Saül, Me did the LORD send to anoint thee as king over his people, over Israel; and now hearken thou unto the voice of the words of the LORD.

2 ¶ Thus hath said the LORD of hosts, I remember what Amalek did to Israel, how he lay in wait for him on the way, when he came up from Egypt.

3 Now go and smite 'Amalek, and devote all that they have, and spare them not; but slay both man and woman, infant and suckling, ox and lamb, camel and ass.

4 ¶ And Saül ordered the people to assemble, and he numbered them in Telaïm,[a] two hundred thousand men on foot, and ten thousand of the men of Judah.

5 And Saül came to the city of 'Amalek, and he fought[b] in the valley.

6 And Saül said unto the Kenites, Go, depart, get you down from the midst of the 'Amalekites, lest I destroy you with them; whereas ye acted kindly with all the children of Israel, at their coming up out of Egypt. And the Kenites departed from the midst of the 'Amalekites.

7 And Saül smote the 'Amalekites from Chavilah until thou comest to Shur, that is before Egypt.

8 And he caught Agag the king of the 'Amalekites alive, and all the people he devoted to the edge of the sword.

9 But Saül together with the people had pity on Agag, and on the best of the flocks, and of the oxen, and of the fatlings, and the fat lambs, and all that was good, and they would not destroy them; but all the cattle that was of little value and weak, that they destroyed.

10 ¶ And the word of the LORD came unto Samuel, saying,

11 I repent that I have set up Saül as king; for he hath turned back from following me, and my word hath he not performed: and it displeased Samuel, and he cried unto the LORD all the night.

12 And Samuel rose up early to meet Saül in the morning; and it was told to Samuel, saying, Saül came to Carmel, and, behold, he set himself up a monument, and then went about, and passed on, and went down to Gilgal.

13 And Samuel came to Saül; and Saül said unto him, Blessed be thou unto the LORD, I have performed the word of the LORD.

14 And Samuel said, What is then this bleating of the flocks in my ears, and the lowing of the oxen which I hear?

15 And Saül said, From the 'Amalekites have they brought them; because the people had pity on the best of the flocks and of the oxen, in order to sacrifice unto the LORD thy God; and the rest have we destroyed.

16 ¶ And Samuel said unto Saül, Stay, and I will tell thee what the LORD said to me this night: and he said unto him, Speak.

17 ¶ And Samuel said, Is it not that, however little thou wast in thy own eyes,[c] thou art the head of the tribes of Israel? and the LORD anointed thee as king over Israel?

18 And the LORD sent thee on a journey,[d] and said, Go and destroy the sinners, the 'Amalekites, and thou shalt fight against them until they be consumed.

[a] Rashi and others translate, "And he numbered them with lambs," and expound, he told every one to take a lamb out of the king's flock, and then counted the lambs, because it was prohibited to count the persons of Israel. See Exodus xxx. 12. Others, however, consider Telaïm as the name of a place, as in the text.

[b] Rashi. Others take וירב for ויארב "and lay in wait." Abarbanel, "and he contended for the stream."

[c] Meaning, "However humble Saül might have deemed himself before his appointment, he was still, through his having been anointed, king over Israel; hence his example ought to have led others to obedience." Our version is after Sachs.—Philippson, "Art thou not become, although thou wast little in thy eyes," &c.

[d] Lit. "way," and means the campaign or military journey.

19 Wherefore then didst thou not hearken unto the voice of the LORD, and didst fly upon the spoil, and didst the evil in the eyes of the LORD?

20 ¶ And Saül said unto Samuel, Yea, I have fully hearkened unto the voice of the LORD; and I went on the way which the LORD had sent me; and I have brought Agag the king of 'Amalek; and the 'Amalekites have I destroyed.

21 And the people took of the spoil, of the flocks and oxen, the chief of the devoted things, to sacrifice unto the LORD thy God in Gilgal.

22 ¶ And Samuel said, Hath the LORD as much delight in burnt-offerings and in sacrifices, as in obeying the voice of the LORD? Behold, to obey is better than sacrifice, and to attend more than the fat of the rams.

23 For the sin of witchcraft is rebellion, and idolatry and image-worship, stubbornness; inasmuch as thou hast despised the word of the LORD, he hath also despised thee that thou shalt not be king.

24 ¶ And Saül said unto Samuel, I have sinned; for I have transgressed the will of the LORD, and thy words; because I feared the people, and I hearkened to their voice.

25 And now, I pray thee, pardon my sin, and return with me, that I may prostrate myself to the LORD.

26 ¶ And Samuel said unto Saül, I will not return with thee; for thou didst despise the word of the LORD, and the LORD hath despised thee, that thou shalt not be king over Israel.

27 And Samuel turned about to go: and he laid hold on the corner of his mantle, and it was rent.

28 ¶ And Samuel said unto him, The LORD hath rent the kingdom of Israel from off thee this day, and hath given it to thy associate, who is better than thou.

29 And also the Strength of Israel will not lie nor repent; for he is not a man, that he should repent.

30 And he said, I have sinned; (yet) honour me now, I pray thee, in the presence of the elders of my people, and in the presence of Israel, and return with me, that I may prostrate myself unto the LORD thy God.

31 So Samuel returned, following Saül; and Saül prostrated himself to the LORD.

32 ¶ And Samuel said, Bring ye hither unto me Agag the king of the 'Amalekites: and Agag came unto him cheerfully; and Agag said, Surely the bitterness of death is past.

33 ¶ And Samuel said, As thy sword did make women childless, so shall thy mother be childless among women; and Samuel hewed Agag in pieces before the LORD in Gilgal.

34 ¶ Then Samuel went to Ramah; and Saül went up to his house at Gib'ăh of Saül.

35 And Samuel did not see Saül any more until the day of his death; because Samuel mourned for Saül; and the LORD repented that he had made Saül king over Israel.

CHAPTER XVI.

1 ¶ And the LORD said unto Samuel, How long wilt thou mourn for Saül, seeing I have rejected him so as not to reign over Israel? fill thy horn with oil, and go, I will send thee to Jesse[a] the Beth-lechemite; for I have selected[b] among his sons unto myself a king.

2 And Samuel said, How shall I go? if Saül should hear it, he would kill me.

¶ And the LORD said, Take a heifer with thee, and say, To sacrifice unto the LORD am I come.

3 And invite[c] Jesse to the sacrifice, and I will let thee know what thou shalt do; and thou shalt anoint unto me the one whom I will say unto thee.

4 And Samuel did that which the LORD had spoken, and came to Beth-lechem. And the elders of the town came hastily[d] to meet him, and said, Peace to thee at thy coming.

5 And he said, Peace: to sacrifice unto the LORD am I come; sanctify yourselves, and come with me to the sacrifice. And he sanctified Jesse and his sons, and invited them to the sacrifice.

6 And it came to pass, when they came, that he saw Eliab, and said, Surely the LORD's anointed is (here) before him.

7 ¶ But the LORD said unto Samuel, Regard not his appearance, nor the height of his stature; because I have rejected him; for not what man looketh on;[a]—for man looketh on the eyes, but the LORD looketh on the heart.

[a] Correctly, Yishai.

[b] Lit. "seen." German, "ersehen," i. e. "select by seeing."

[c] Lit. "call."

8 Then Jesse called Abinadab, and caused him to pass before Samuel. And he said, This one also hath the LORD not chosen.

9 Then Jesse caused Shammah to pass by. And he said, This one also hath the LORD not chosen.

10 And Jesse caused seven of his sons to pass before Samuel: and Samuel said unto Jesse, The LORD hath not made choice of these.

11 And Samuel said unto Jesse, Are there no more young men? And he said, There is yet left behind the youngest, and, behold, he is feeding the flocks. And Samuel said unto Jesse, Send and fetch him; for we will not sit down[b] till he have come hither.

12 And he sent, and brought him in. Now he was ruddy,[c] having withal handsome eyes, and being of a goodly appearance.

¶ And the LORD said, Arise, anoint him; for this is he.

13 Then took Samuel the horn of oil, and anointed him from among[d] his brothers; and the Spirit of the LORD came suddenly upon David from that day and forward. And Samuel then rose up, and went to Ramah.

14 And the Spirit of the LORD departed from Saül, and there troubled him an evil spirit[e] from the LORD.

15 And Saül's servants said unto him, Behold now, an evil spirit from God troubleth thee.

16 Let our lord but say (the word), and thy servants, now before thee, will seek out a man, who is skilful as a player on the harp; and it shall come to pass, when the evil spirit from God is upon thee, that he shall play with his hand, that thou mayest be well.

17 And Saül said unto his servants, Select for me, I pray you, a man that can play well, and bring him to me.

18 Then answered one of the servants, and said, Behold, I have seen a son of Jesse the Beth-lechemite, who is skilful as a player, and a mighty valiant man, and a man of war, and intelligent in speech,[f] and a person of a good form, and the LORD is with him.

19 Thereupon Saül sent messengers unto Jesse, and said, Send me David thy son, who is with the flocks.

20 And Jesse took an ass laden with bread, and a bottle of wine, and a kid, and sent them through David his son unto Saül.

21 And David came to Saül, and stood before him; and he loved him greatly, and he became his armour-bearer.

22 And Saül sent to Jesse, saying, Let David, I pray thee, stand before me; for he hath found favour in my eyes.

23 And it came to pass, when the spirit of God was upon Saül, that David took the harp, and played with his hand; so Saül became relieved, and he felt well, and the evil spirit departed from him.

CHAPTER XVII.

1 ¶ And the Philistines gathered together their camps to battle, and they gathered themselves together at Sochoh, which belongeth to Judah; and they encamped between Sochoh and 'Azekah, at Ephess-dammim.

2 And Saül and the men of Israel gathered themselves together, and encamped in the valley of Elah, and put themselves in battle-array opposite to the Philistines.

3 And the Philistines stood on a mountain on the one side, and the Israelites stood on a mountain on the other side: and the valley was between them.

4 And there went out the[g] champion out of the camp of the Philistines, Goliath of Gath was his name, whose height was six cubits and a span.

5 And he had a helmet of copper upon his head, and he was clothed with a scaly coat of mail; and the weight of the coat of mail was five thousand shekels of copper.

[a] The sentence is completed at the end of the verse, "but God looketh on the heart." Some render, "that which man seeth is nothing." Jonathan, "man seeth with the eyes, and before God are revealed the thoughts of the heart."

[b] נסב literally, "sit round," i. e. the table.

[c] "Red-haired."—PHILIPPSON.

[d] Redak.

[e] A melancholy, depression of spirit, the effect of Divine punishment.

[f] Jonathan, "in counsel." Philippson refers this to a knowledge of language in poetic composition, a quality highly necessary for extemporaneous song.

[g] איש הבנים "the champion," who had probably been distinguished by deeds of arms before, and therefore now chosen to challenge Israel.

6 And he had greaves of copper upon his legs, and a javelin[a] of copper between his shoulders.

7 And the staff of his spear was like a weaver's beam; and the blade of his spear (weighed) six hundred shekels of iron: and the shield-bearer was walking before him.

8 And he stood and called unto the arrays of Israel, and said unto them, Why will ye come out to put yourselves in battle-array? Behold! I am the Philistine, and ye are servants to Saül! select for yourselves one man, and let him come down to me;

9 If he be able to fight with me, and he kill me, then will we be unto you as servants; but if I prevail against him, and kill him, then shall ye be unto us as servants, and ye shall serve us.

10 And the Philistine said, I have defied the arrays of Israel this day; give me a man, and let us fight together.

11 When Saül and all Israel heard these words of the Philistine, they were disheartened, and became greatly afraid.

12 ¶ Now David was the son of that Ephrathite of Beth-lechem-judah, whose name was Jesse; and he had eight sons: and the man was old in the days of Saül, belonging to the persons (of high esteem).

13 And the three eldest sons of Jesse were gone following Saül to the battle: and the names of his three sons that were gone to the battle were Eliab the first-born, and the next to him Abinadab, and the third Shammah.

14 And David was the youngest: and the three eldest followed Saül.

15 But David kept going and returning from Saül to feed his father's flocks at Beth-lechem.

16 And the Philistine drew near morning and evening, and presented himself forty days.

17 And Jesse said unto David his son, Take, I pray thee, for thy brothers an ephah of this parched corn, and these ten loaves, and run to the camp to thy brothers;

18 And these ten cheeses shalt thou bring unto the captain of the thousand, and inquire of thy brothers how they fare, and take away their pledge.[b]

19 Now Saül, and they, and all the men of Israel, were in the valley of Elah, fighting with the Philistines.

20 ¶ And David rose up early in the morning, and gave up the flocks to a keeper, and took, and went, as Jesse had commanded him; and he came to the entrenchment, as the host was going forth in battle-array, and shouted the battle-cry.

21 And the Israelites and the Philistines put themselves in battle-array, army[c] against army.

22 And David left the articles which he had on him in the hand of the keeper of the baggage, and ran into the array, and came and asked of his brothers after their welfare.

23 And as he was speaking with them, behold, there came up the champion, Goliath the Philistine, by name, of Gath, out of the battle-arrays of the Philistines, and spoke in accordance with these same words: and David heard it.

24 And all the men of Israel, when they saw the man, fled from before him, and were greatly afraid.

25 And the men of Israel said, Have ye seen this man that is coming forth? for to defy Israel is he coming forth; and it shall be, that the man who killeth him,—him will the king enrich with great riches, and his daughter will he give him, and his father's house will he make free in Israel.

26 ¶ And David said to the men that stood by him, thus, What shall be done to the man that may smite you Philistine, and take away the reproach from Israel? for who is this uncircumcised Philistine, that he should defy the arrays of the living God?

27 And the people spoke to him after this manner, saying, So shall it be done to the man that may smite him.

28 And Eliab his eldest brother heard when he was speaking unto the men; and Eliab's anger was kindled against David, and he said, Why didst thou come down hither? and with whom hast thou left those few sheep in the wilderness? I know thy presumption, and the wickedness of thy heart; for in order to see the battle art thou come down.

[a] Jonathan, however, regards כידון here as a lance-shaped metal band brought down from the helmet to defend the back of the neck. But it may have been a javelin slung behind, to be used when needed.

[b] No doubt a token that they were well, to satisfy the anxious father; or it may be a testimonial of good conduct from their superior.

[c] Lit. "array opposite array."

29 And David said, What have I now done? It is nothing but a word.

30 And he turned from him toward another, and spoke after the same manner: and the people made him again a reply after the former manner.

31 And the words which David had spoken were heard, and they told them in the presence of Saül, who sent for him.

32 And David said to Saül, Let no man's heart fail because of him: thy servant will go and fight with this Philistine.

33 And Saül said to David, Thou art not able to go unto this Philistine to fight with him; for thou art but a lad, and he (hath been) a man of war from his youth.

34 ¶ And David said unto Saül, Thy servant was feeding his father's flocks, and there came a lion, and[a] a bear, and bore off a lamb out of the drove;

35 And I went out after him, and smote him, and delivered it out of his mouth: and when he rose up against me, I caught him by his beard, and smote him, and slew him.

36 Both the lion and the bear did thy servant smite: and this uncircumcised Philistine shall become as one of them; because he hath defied the arrays of the living God.

37 ¶ Moreover David said, The LORD who hath delivered me out of the power of the lion, and out of the power of the bear, will also surely deliver me out of the hand of this Philistine.

¶ And Saül said unto David, Go, and may the LORD be with thee.

38 And Saül clothed David with his garments, and he put a helmet of copper upon his head; and he clothed him also with a coat of mail.

39 And David girded his sword over his garments, and he essayed to go; for he had not tried it. And David said unto Saül, I cannot walk in these (things); for I have never tried it before. And David put them off from him.

40 And he took his staff in his hand, and chose himself five smooth stones out of the brook, and put them in the shepherd's pouch which he had, even in a scrip, with his sling in his hand; and he approached to the Philistine.

41 And the Philistine went and drew nearer and nearer unto David; and the man that bore the shield went before him.

42 And when the Philistine looked about, and saw David, he disdained him; for he was but a lad, and ruddy, with a fair appearance.

43 And the Philistine said unto David, Am I a dog, that thou comest unto me with sticks? And the Philistine cursed David by his gods.

44 And the Philistine said to David, Come to me, and I will give thy flesh unto the fowls of the heavens, and to the beasts of the field.

45 ¶ Then said David to the Philistine, Thou comest unto me with a sword, and with a spear, and with a javelin; but I come to thee in the name of the LORD of hosts, the God of the arrays of Israel, that thou hast defied.

46 This day will the LORD deliver thee into my hand; and I will smite thee, and remove thy head from thee; and I will give the carcasses of the army of the Philistines this day unto the fowls of the air, and to the wild beasts of the earth; and all the earth shall know that there is a God for Israel.

47 And all this assembly shall know that the LORD saveth not through sword and spear; for the battle is the LORD'S, and he will give you up into our hand.

48 And it came to pass, when the Philistine arose, and went and drew nigh to meet David, that David hastened, and ran toward the battle-array to meet the Philistine.

49 And David put his hand into the pouch, and took thence a stone, and slung it, and he struck the Philistine on his forehead, and the stone sunk into his forehead: and he fell upon his face to the ground.

50 So David prevailed over the Philistine with the sling and with the stone, and smote the Philistine, and slew him; but there was no sword in the hand of David.

51 And David ran, and stood by the Philistine, and took his sword, and drew it out of its sheath, and slew him, and cut off his head therewith. And when the Philistines saw that their hero was dead, they fled.

52 And then arose the men of Israel and of Judah, and shouted, and pursued the Philistines, until thou comest to the valley, and to the gates of 'Ekron. And the slain of the Philistines fell down by the way to Sha'arayim, even as far as Gath, and up to 'Ekron.

53 And the children of Israel returned from hotly pursuing after the Philistines, and they spoiled their camps.

54 And David took the head of the Philistine, and brought it to Jerusalem; but his weapons he placed in his tent.

55 ¶ And when Saül saw David going forth against the Philistine, he said unto Abner, the captain of the army, Abner, whose son is this lad?[a] And Abner said, As thy soul liveth, O king, I know it not.

56 And the king said, Ask thou whose son this youth is.

57 ¶ And as David returned from smiting the Philistine, Abner took him, and brought him before Saül with the head of the Philistine in his hand.

58 And Saül said to him, Whose son art thou, young man? And David answered, The son of thy servant Jesse the Beth-lechemite.

CHAPTER XVIII.

1 And it came to pass, when he had made an end of speaking unto Saül, that the soul of Jonathan was knit on the soul of David; and Jonathan loved him as his own soul.

2 And Saül took him on that day, and would not permit him to go home to his father's house.

3 Then Jonathan and David made a covenant, because of his loving him as his own soul.

4 And Jonathan stripped himself of the robe that he had upon him, and gave it to David, and likewise his garments, even to his sword, and to his bow, and to his girdle.

5 And David went out; whithersoever Saül used to send him, he was successful; and Saül set him over the men of war; and he was accepted in the eyes of all the people, and also in the eyes of the servants of Saül.

6 ¶ And it came to pass as they came home, when David returned from smiting the Philistine, that the women came forth out of all the cities of Israel, singing and dancing, to meet king Saül, with tambourines, with joy, and with triangles.

7 And the women that played answered one another, and said, Saül hath slain his thousands, and David his ten thousands.

8 And Saül was very wroth, and this saying was displeasing in his eyes; and he said, They have given unto David ten thousands, and to me they have given the thousands: and all that he lacketh now yet is only the kingdom.

9 And Saül looked jealous on David from that day and forward.

10 ¶ And it came to pass on the morrow, that an evil spirit from God came suddenly over Saül, and he spoke foolish things in the midst of the house: while David was playing with his hand, as on previous days; and the spear was in the hand of Saül.

11 And Saül cast the spear; and he thought, I will strike David through even on the wall. And David turned aside out of his presence twice.

12 And Saül was afraid of David; because the LORD was with him, and from Saül he was departed.

13 Therefore Saül removed him from himself, and made him his captain over a thousand: and he went out and came in before the people.

14 ¶ And David was successful on all his ways; and the LORD was with him.

15 And when Saül saw that he was very successful, he was in dread of him.

16 But all Israel and Judah loved David; because he went out and came in before them.

17 ¶ And Saül said to David, Behold here is my eldest daughter Merab, her will I give to thee for wife: only be thou unto me a man of valour, and fight the LORD's battles. And Saül thought, Let not my hand be against him, but let the hand of the Philistines be against him.

18 And David said unto Saül, Who am I? and what is my life, (or) my father's family

[a] Ralbag explains the circumstance of Saül's not recognising David, as owing to the fact that he had hitherto been only at court during Saül's melancholy, and had since then been away to keep the flocks, and he appeared before him now in a shepherd's dress. Abner, who was all the time with the army, might never have seen David till then. But after all, the chief inquiry was after David's father, whose house was to be made free in Israel.

in Israel, that I should be a son-in-law to the king?

19 But it happened at the time when Merab, Saül's daughter should have been given to David, that she was given unto 'Adriël the Mecholathite for wife.

20 And Michal Saül's daughter loved David: and they told it to Saül, and the thing was right in his eyes.

21 And Saül said, I will give her to him, that she may become unto him a snare, and that the hand of the Philistines may be against him. Wherefore Saül said to David, Through[a] the second shalt thou this day become my son-in-law.

22 And Saül commanded his servants, Speak to David secretly, saying, Behold, the king hath delight in thee, and all his servants love thee; and now thou must become the king's son-in-law.

23 And the servants of Saül spoke in the ears of David these words. And David said, Doth it seem so light in your eyes to become the king's son-in-law, seeing that I am a poor man, and of light esteem?

24 And the servants of Saül told him, saying, Words such as these David hath spoken.

25 ¶ And Saül said, Thus shall ye say to David, The king desireth not any dowry, but a hundred foreskins of the Philistines, to be avenged on the king's enemies. But Saül thought to cause David to fall by the hand of the Philistines.

26 And when his servants told David these words, the thing was pleasing in the eyes of David to become the king's son-in-law: and the days were not complete, 27 When David arose and went, he and his men, and smote of the Philistines two hundred men; and David brought their foreskins, and they counted them out in full to the king, that he might become the king's son-in-law. And Saül gave him Michal his daughter for wife.

28 And Saül saw and understood that the LORD was with David: and Michal, Saül's daughter, loved him.

29 And Saül was yet the more afraid of David; and Saül was David's enemy all the time.

30 ¶ And the princes of the Philistines went forth: and it came to pass, whenever they went forth, that David was more successful than all the servants of Saül; so that his name was highly prized.

CHAPTER XIX.

1 And Saül spoke to Jonathan his son, and to all his servants, that he would kill David. But Jonathan the son of Saül delighted greatly in David.

2 And Jonathan told David, saying, Saül my father seeketh to kill thee; now therefore, I pray thee, take heed to thyself in the morning, and abide in a secret place, and hide thyself:

3 And I will go out and stand by the side of my father in the field where thou art, and I myself will speak of thee to my father; and I will see what it is, and I will tell thee.

4 ¶ And Jonathan spoke favourably of David unto Saül his father, and said unto him, Let not the king sin against his servant, against David; since he hath not sinned against thee, and because his deeds are very good for thee;

5 And he did put his life in his hand, and he slew the Philistine, and the LORD wrought a great salvation for all Israel; thou sawest it, and wast rejoiced: wherefore then wilt thou commit sin on innocent blood, by slaying David without a cause?

6 And Saül hearkened unto the voice of Jonathan: and Saül swore, As the LORD liveth, he shall not be put to death.

7 And Jonathan called David, and Jonathan told him all these words. And Jonathan brought David to Saül, and he was in his presence, as in times past.

8 ¶ And the war occurred again: and David went out, and fought with the Philistines, and smote them with a great defeat, and they fled from before him.

9 And the evil spirit from the LORD came upon Saül, and he was sitting in his house with his spear in his hand: and David was playing with his hand.

10 And Saül sought to strike David through with the spear even to the wall; but he slipped away from before Saül, who struck the spear into the wall: and David fled, and escaped that night.

11 ¶ But Saül sent messengers unto David's house, to watch him, and to slay him in the morning; and Michal his wife told it to David, saying, If thou save not thy life this night, to-morrow thou wilt be put to death.

12 And Michal let David down through the window: and he went, and fled, and escaped.

13 And Michal took an image,[a] and put it in the bed, and a pillow[b] of goats' hair she put for its head to rest on, and covered it with a cloth.

14 And when Saül sent messengers to take David, she said, He is sick.

15 And Saül sent the messengers to see David, saying, Bring him up to me in the bed, that I may put him to death.

16 And when the messengers were come in, behold, there was an image in the bed, with a pillow of goats' hair for its head to rest on.

17 And Saül said unto Michal, Why hast thou thus deceived me, and sent away my enemy, that he is escaped? And Michal said to Saül, He said unto me, Let me go away: why should I kill thee?

18 So David fled, and escaped, and came unto Samuel to Ramah, and he told him all that Saül had done to him. And he and Samuel went and remained in Nayoth.[c]

19 And it was told unto Saül, saying, Behold, David is at Nayoth near Ramah.

20 And Saül sent messengers to take David; and when they saw the company of the prophets prophesying,[d] and Samuel standing as superintendent over them: then came upon the messengers of Saül the spirit of God, and they also prophesied.

21 And when it was told to Saül, he sent other messengers, and these prophesied likewise. And Saül sent again messengers the third time, and these also prophesied.

22 Then went he himself also to Ramah, and came as far as the great well that is in Sechu: and he asked and said, Where are Samuel and David? And some one said, Behold, they are at Nayoth near Ramah.

23 And he went thither to Nayoth near Ramah: and there came upon him also the Spirit of God, and he went on, and prophesied as he went, until he came to Nayoth near Ramah.

24 And he also stripped off his clothes,[e] and he also prophesied himself before Samuel, and lay down naked all that day and all that night. Therefore people are in the habit of saying, Is Saül too among the prophets?

CHAPTER XX.

1 ¶ And David fled from Nayoth near Ramah, and came and said before Jonathan, What have I done? what is my iniquity? and what is my sin before thy father, that he seeketh my life?

2 And he said unto him, God forbid; thou shalt not die: behold, my father is not wont to do a great thing or a small thing, which he doth not inform[f] me of; and why should my father conceal this thing from me? it is not so.

3 But David swore again, and said, Thy father well knoweth that I have found grace in thy eyes; wherefore he said, Jonathan must not know this, lest he be grieved: nevertheless, as truly as the LORD liveth, and thy soul liveth, there was but one step between me and death.

4 Then said Jonathan unto David, Whatsoever thy soul sayeth will I do for thee.

5 And David said unto Jonathan, Behold, to-morrow is the new-moon, and I should as usual sit with the king to eat; but let me go, that I may hide myself in the field until the third evening.

6 If thy father at all miss me, then do thou say, David asked earnestly leave of me that he might run to Beth-lechem his city; for there is a yearly sacrifice there for all the family.

7 If he should say thus, It is well: then shall thy servant have peace; but if it be at all displeasing to him, then know that the evil is determined on by him.

8 And do thou deal kindly with thy servant; for into a covenant of the LORD hast thou brought thy servant with thee; but if

[a] Some suppose that it may have been a bust of David; as it would not be likely that there should have been in his house an image for worship.

[b] Rashi, "the skin of a goat."

[c] "School-house."—JONATHAN. Probably the house where the scholars of the prophet-schools met.

[d] Perhaps as above, x. 6, engaged in singing religious hymns, in which the messengers joined instead of seizing David.

[f] Lit. "and he will not reveal my ear."

there be in me any iniquity, slay me thyself; for why shouldst thou bring me to thy father?

9 And Jonathan said, Far be it from thee;[a] for if I should know for certain that evil were determined on by my father to come upon thee, would I not tell it thee?

10 Then said David to Jonathan, Who shall tell it me? or what,[b] if thy father answer thee roughly?

11 And Jonathan said unto David, Come, and let us go out into the field. And they went out, both of them, into the field.

12 ¶ And Jonathan said unto David, May the God of Israel (punish me) if, when I have sounded my father about this time to-morrow, or of the third day, and, behold, if he be good toward David, I do not then send unto thee, and inform thee of it.

13 May the LORD do so to Jonathan and continue so yet farther, that, if it please my father (to do) thee evil, I will inform thee of it, and send thee away, that thou mayest go in peace; and may the LORD be with thee, as he hath been with my father.

14 And wilt thou not,[c] should I be yet alive, show me the kindness of the LORD, that I may not die?

15 But, surely, thou wilt not withdraw thy kindness from my house for ever, not even when the LORD cutteth off the enemies of David, every one, from off the face of the earth.

16 So Jonathan made a covenant with the house of David, (saying,) May the LORD require it at the hand of David's enemies.

17 And Jonathan caused David to swear again, by his love for him; for he loved him as he loved his own soul.

18 ¶ Then Jonathan said to David, To-morrow is the new-moon: and thou wilt be missed, because thy seat will be left empty.

19 And when thou hast stayed till the third day, then shalt thou go down greatly, and come to the place where thou didst hide thyself on the work-day;[d] and thou shalt remain by the stone Ezel.[e]

20 And I will myself shoot three arrows on the side thereof, as though I were shooting at a mark.

21 And, behold, I will send the lad, saying, Go, find the arrows; if I should now say unto the lad, Behold, the arrows are on this side of thee: then take him[f] and come; for there is peace to thee, and it is nothing; as the LORD liveth.

22 But if thus I should say unto the young man, Behold, the arrows are beyond thee: then go thy way, for the LORD hath sent thee off.

23 And touching the matter of which we have spoken, thou and I, behold, the LORD is between me and thee for ever.

24 ¶ So David hid himself in the field: and when the new-moon was come, the king set himself down to the repast to eat.

25 And the king sat upon his seat, as at other times, upon the seat by the wall: and when Jonathan arose, Abner seated himself by the side of Saül, and David's place was left empty.

26 Nevertheless Saül spoke not the least on that day; for he thought, Something hath befallen him, he is not clean; because he hath not yet purified himself.[g]

27 ¶ And it came to pass on the morrow, the second day of the new-moon, that David's place was left empty: and Saül said unto Jonathan his son, Wherefore is the son of Jesse not come, both yesterday and to-day, to the repast?

28 And Jonathan answered Saül, David asked earnestly leave of me to go as far as Beth-lechem.

29 And he said, Let me go, I pray thee; for we have a family-sacrifice in the city, and my brother himself hath commanded it to me; and now, if I have found favour in thy eyes, let me get away, I pray thee, that I may see my brothers: therefore is he not come unto the king's table.

30 ¶ And the anger of Saül was kindled against Jonathan, and he said unto him, Thou son of perverse rebelliousness![a] do I not know that thou hast chosen the son of Jesse to thy own shame, and to the shame of thy mother's nakedness?

31 For all the days that the son of Jesse liveth upon the ground, thou wilt not have any permanence with thy kingdom: therefore now send and fetch him unto me, for he shall surely die.[b]

32 ¶ And Jonathan answered Saül his father, and said unto him, Wherefore shall he be put to death? what hath he done?

33 And Saül cast his spear at him to smite him: and Jonathan understood that it was determined on by his father to put David to death.

34 And Jonathan arose from the table in fierce anger, and did eat no food on the second day of the new-moon; for he was grieved for David; because his father had made him feel ashamed.

35 ¶ And it came to pass in the morning, that Jonathan went out into the field to the place appointed with David, and a little lad was with him.

36 And he said unto his lad, Run, do find out the arrows which I shoot: and the lad ran, and he shot the arrow so as to pass beyond him.

37 And when the lad was come to the place of the arrow which Jonathan had shot, Jonathan called after the lad, and said, Behold, the arrow is beyond thee!

38 And Jonathan called after the lad, Make haste, speed, stay not: and Jonathan's lad gathered up the arrows, and came to his master.

39 But the lad knew not the least: only Jonathan and David knew the matter.

40 And Jonathan gave his weapons unto the lad who was with him, and said unto him, Go, carry them to the city.

41 And as soon as the lad was gone, David arose from the south side (of the stone), and fell on his face to the ground, and bowed himself three times: and they kissed one another, and wept one with another, until David exceeded.[c]

42 And Jonathan said to David, Go in peace: what we have sworn, both of us, in the name of the LORD, saying, The LORD shall be between me and thee, and between my seed and thy seed for ever, (shall be kept).

CHAPTER XXI.

1[d] ¶ And he arose and departed; and Jonathan went into the city.

2 And David came to Nob to Achimelech the priest; and Achimelech hastened trembling to meet David, and said unto him, Why art thou alone, and no man is with thee?

3 And David said unto Achimelech the priest, The king commanded me a business, and said unto me, Let not any man know the least of the business concerning which I send thee, and which I have commanded thee. And the young men have I appointed to such and such a place.

4 And now what hast thou on hand?[e] put five loaves of bread into my hand, or what else can be found.

5 And the priest answered David, and said, I have no common bread on hand, but there is hallowed bread; if the young men have only withheld themselves from women.

6 ¶ And David answered the priest and said to him, To a certainty women have been denied us yesterday and the day before, when I went forth, and the vessels of the young men were holy: and if this was the custom with unholy things, how much more will it remain this day holy in the vessels.[f]

7 So the priest gave him hallowed bread; for there was no bread there except the show-bread, that was removed from before the LORD, so as to put down hot bread on the day when it was taken away.

8 Now a certain man of the servants of

[a] Sachs. Others, "Thou son of a perverse rebellious woman."

[c] I. e. He wept more than Jonathan; but Sachs, "until David wept aloud."

[d] This is in the English version a part of the verse 42 of the last chapter; our verse 2 is there verse 1, &c.

[e] Lit. "what is under thy hand?"

[f] After Ralbag. Sachs, "When already, &c., and this was the custom with the unholy," &c. The latter part of the verse is an assurance that the show-bread should not be rendered unclean by giving it to David and his men, as their vessels were all untouched by uncleanness. (See Leviticus xi. xiv. xv. and elsewhere.)

Saül was there on that day, detained before the LORD: and his name was Doëg, the Edomite, the chief of the herdsmen that belonged to Saül.

9 And David said unto Achimelech, Hast thou not also here at hand a spear or sword? for both my sword as also my other weapons have I not brought with me, because the king's business was urgent.

10 ¶ And the priest said, The sword of Goliath the Philistine, whom thou didst slay in the valley of Elah, behold, it is here wrapped up in a cloth behind the ephod: if thou wilt take that for thyself, take it; for there is no other save it here.

¶ And David said, There is none like that: give it to me.

11 ¶ And David arose, and fled on that day from before Saül, and came to Achish the king of Gath.

12 And the servants of Achish said unto him, Is not this David the king of the land? did they not of this man sing one to another in the dances, saying, Saül hath slain his thousands, and David his ten thousands?

13 And David took these words to his heart, and was greatly afraid of Achish the king of Gath.

14 And he disguised his reason before their eyes, and played the madman in their hands, and scribbled on the doors of the gate, and let his spittle run down upon his beard.

15 ¶ Then said Achish unto his servants, Lo, ye see, the man is mad: wherefore then will ye bring him to me?

16 Have I lack of madmen, that ye have brought this man to play his pranks about me? shall this one come into my house?

CHAPTER XXII.

1 ¶ And David departed thence, and escaped to the cave 'Adullam: and when his brothers and all his father's house heard it, they went down to him thither.

2 And there gathered themselves unto him every one that was in distress, and every one that had a creditor, and every one that had an embittered spirit; and he became a captain over them: and there were with him about four hundred men.

3 And David went thence to Mizpeh of Moäb: and he said unto the king of Moäb, Let my father and my mother, I pray thee, go forth with you, until I can know what God will do for me.

4 And he conducted them to the presence of the king of Moäb: and they remained with him all the time that David was in the strong hold.

5 And the prophet Gad said unto David, Thou must not remain in the strong-hold: depart, and get thee into the land of Judah. Then David departed, and came into the forest of Chereth.

6 ¶ And Saül heard that David was discovered, and the men that were with him, (now Saül was sitting in Gib'ah under the tamarisk on the hill,[a] with his spear in his hand, and all his servants were standing about him;)

7 Then said Saül unto his servants that stood about him, Hear, I pray you, men of Benjamin! will the son of Jesse give, indeed, to every one of you fields and vineyards? will he appoint you all captains of thousands, and captains of hundreds?

8 That ye have conspired, all of you, against me, and there is none that informeth me, while my son hath made a covenant with the son of Jesse, and there is none of you that is concerned for me, or informeth me that my son hath stirred up my servant to lie in wait against me, as it is this day?

9 ¶ Then answered Doëg the Edomite, who[b] was set over the servants of Saül, and said, I saw the son of Jesse coming to Nob, to Achimelech the son of Achitub.

10 And he asked counsel for him of the LORD, and he gave him provision, and gave him also the sword of Goliath the Philistine.

11 Then sent the king to call Achimelech, the son of Achitub, the priest, and all his father's house, the priests that were in Nob: and they came, all of them, to the king.

12 ¶ And Saül said, Hear now, thou son of Achitub. And he said, Here am I, my lord.

13 And Saül said unto him, Why have ye conspired against me, thou and the son of Jesse, in that thou didst give him bread, and a sword, and hast asked counsel for him of God, that he should rise to lie in wait against me, as it is this day?

14 ¶ Then answered Achimelech the king, and said, And who is among all thy servants so trusted as David, and the king's son-in-law, and freely admitted to thy private council,[a] and is honoured in thy house?

[a] Others, "under a grove in Ramah."

[b] Jonathan; others, "who was standing by," &c.

15 Did I this day then begin to ask counsel for him of God? far be it from me; let not the king impute any thing unto his servant, (nor) to all the house of my father; for thy servant knew not of all this, either a little or great thing.

16 And the king said, Thou shalt surely die, Achimelech, thou, and all thy father's house.

17 And the king said unto the runners that stood about him, Turn round and slay the priests of the LORD; because their hand also is with David, and because they knew that he was fleeing, and did not disclose it to me. But the servants of the king would not stretch forth their hand to fall upon the priests of the LORD.

18 And the king said to Doëg, Turn thou round, and fall upon the priests. And Doëg the Edomite turned round, and he fell upon the priests, and slew on that day eighty and five persons that did wear a linen ephod.

19 And Nob, the city of the priests, he smote with the edge of the sword, both men and women, children and sucklings, and oxen, and asses, and lambs, with the edge of the sword.

20 And there escaped one of the sons of Achimelech the son of Achitub, whose name was Ebyathar,[b] and he fled after David.

21 And Ebyathar told David that Saül had slain the priests of the LORD.

22 And David said unto Ebyathar, I knew on that day, because Doëg the Edomite was there, that he would surely tell Saül: I have myself occasioned the death of all the persons of thy father's house.

23 Remain thou with me, fear nothing; for he that will seek my life will seek thy life; but thou shalt be well guarded with me.

CHAPTER XXIII.

1 ¶ Then they told David, saying, Behold, the Philistines are fighting against Ke'ilah, and they are plundering the threshing-floors.

2 Thereupon David asked counsel of the LORD, saying, Shall I go and smite among these Philistines?

¶ And the LORD said unto David, Go and smite among the Philistines, and deliver Ke'ilah.

3 And David's men said unto him, Behold, here in Judah are we afraid: how much more then if we should go to Ke'ilah against the battle-arrays of the Philistines?

4 ¶ Then David asked yet again counsel of the LORD. And the LORD answered him and said, Arise, Go down to Ke'ilah; for I (will) deliver the Philistines into thy hand.

5 So David and his men went to Ke'ilah; and he fought with the Philistines, and lead away their cattle, and smote among them a great slaughter. So David delivered the inhabitants of Ke'ilah.

6 ¶ And it came to pass, when Ebyathar the son of Achimelech fled over to David, to Ke'ilah, that the ephod came down with him.[c]

7 And it was told to Saül that David was come to Ke'ilah. And Saül said, God hath delivered him into my hand; for he is shut in, by entering into a town that hath gates and bars.

8 And Saül called all the people together to war, to go down to Ke'ilah, to besiege David and his men.

9 And David understood that Saül secretly devised mischief against him; and he said to Ebyathar the priest, Bring hither the ephod.

10 ¶ Then said David, O LORD, God of Israel, thy servant hath heard for certain that Saül seeketh to come to Ke'ilah, to destroy the city for my sake.

11 Will the men of Ke'ilah surrender me into his hand? will Saül come down as thy servant hath heard? O LORD, God of Israel, I beseech thee, tell thy servant.

¶ And the LORD said, He will come down.

12 ¶ Then said David, Will the men of Ke'ilah surrender me and my men into the hand of Saül? And the LORD said, They will surrender.

13 ¶ Then arose David and his men, about six hundred men, and departed out of Ke'ilah, and wandered about whithersoever they could go. And when it was told to Saül that David was escaped from Ke'ilah, he forbore to go forth.

14 And David remained in the wilderness in strong-holds, and abode on the mountain in the wilderness of Ziph. And Saül sought him all the time, but God delivered him not into his hand.

15 And David saw that Saül was gone forth to seek his life: and David was in the wilderness of Ziph in the forest.[a]

16 ¶ And Jonathan, the son of Saül, arose, and went to David into the forest, and strengthened his hand in God.[b]

17 And he said unto him, Fear not; for the hand of Saül my father will not find thee; and thou wilt be king over Israel, and I will be next[c] unto thee; and also Saül my father knoweth this.

18 And they made, both of them, a covenant before the LORD: and David remained in the forest; but Jonathan went to his house.

19 ¶ Then came up the Ziphites unto Saül to Gib'ah, saying, Behold, David is hiding himself with us in the strong-holds in the forest, on the hill of Chachilah, which is on the right of the desert.

20 And now in accordance with all the longing of thy soul, O king, to come down, come down; and our part shall be to surrender him into the king's hand.

21 And Saül said, Blessed be ye of the LORD; for ye have pity on me.

22 Go, I pray you, make yet more preparations, and remark and see his place where his foot[d] may be, who hath seen him there; for I am told that he dealeth with great subtilty.

23 See therefore, and remark every one of all the lurking-places where he usually hideth himself, and come ye again to me with the certainty, and I will go with you; and it shall come to pass, if he be in the land, that I will search him out throughout all the thousands of Judah.

24 And they arose, and went to Ziph before Saül; but David and his men were in the wilderness of Ma'on, in the plain on the right of the desert.

25 And Saül and his men went to make a search. And they told it to David: wherefore he came down to the rock, and abode in the wilderness of Ma'on. And when Saül heard this, he pursued after David into the wilderness of Ma'on.

26 And Saül went on this side of the mountain, and David and his men on that side of the mountain; and David made haste to get away from before Saül; and Saül and his men were compassing David and his men to seize them.

27 But a messenger came unto Saül, saying, Haste thee, and come; for the Philistines have invaded[e] the land.

28 Wherefore Saül returned from pursuing after David, and went against the Philistines: therefore they called that place Sela-hammachlekoth.[f]

CHAPTER XXIV.

1[g] And David went up from there, and abode in strong-holds of 'En-gedi.

2 ¶ And it came to pass, when Saül was returned from pursuing the Philistines, that it was told to him, saying, Behold, David is in the wilderness of 'En-gedi.

3 ¶ Then took Saül three thousand chosen men out of all Israel, and went to seek David and his men upon the rocks of the wild goats.[h]

4 And he came to the sheepfolds by the way, and there was a cave; and Saül went in to cover his feet: and David and his men were sitting in the lower end of the cave.

5 And the men of David said unto him, Behold, this is the day of which the LORD hath said unto thee, Behold, I will deliver thy enemy into thy hand, that thou mayest do to him as it shall seem good in thy eyes. And David arose, and cut off the corner of the robe which Saül wore, unperceived.

6 And it came to pass afterward, that David's heart smote him, because he had cut off the corner of Saül's (robe).

DESTRUCTION OF THE WALL OF JERICHO

7 And he said unto his men, Far be it from me for the LORD's sake, that I should do this thing unto my master, the LORD's anointed, to stretch forth my hand against him; because he is the anointed of the LORD.

8 So David restrained his servants with these words, and suffered them not to rise against Saül. But Saül rose up out of the cave, and went on his way.

9 ¶ David also arose afterward, and went forth out of the cave, and called after Saül, saying, My lord, the king! And Saül then looked behind him, and David bowed his face to the earth, and prostrated himself.

10 And David said to Saül, Wherefore wilt thou listen to men's words, saying, Behold, David seeketh thy injury?

11 Behold, this day thy eyes have seen how that the LORD had delivered thee to-day into my hand in the cave, and some one said that I should kill thee: but my soul felt compassion for thee: and I said, I will not stretch forth my hand against my lord; because he is the anointed of the LORD.

12 And now, my father, see, yea, see the corner of thy robe in my hand; for in that I cut off the corner of thy robe, and killed thee not, know thou and see that there is neither evil nor transgression in my hand, and that I have not sinned against thee: yet thou liest in wait for my soul to take it.

13 May the LORD judge between me and thee, and may the LORD avenge me on thee; but my hand shall not be against thee.

14 As saith the proverb of the ancients, From the wicked proceedeth wickedness; but my hand shall not be against thee.

15 After whom is the king of Israel gone out? after whom art thou pursuing? after a dead dog,[a] after a single flea.

16 May the LORD therefore be judge, and decide between me and thee, and see, and plead my cause, and obtain me justice out of thy hand.

17 ¶ And it came to pass, When David had finished speaking these words unto Saül, that Saül said, Is this thy voice, my son David? And Saül lifted up his voice, and wept.

18 And he said to David, Thou art more righteous than I; for thou hast done for me only what is good, whereas I have rewarded thee only with what is evil.

19 And thou hast proved[b] this day, that thou hast dealt well with me; forasmuch as when the LORD had surrendered me into thy hand, thou didst not kill me.

20 For if a man find his enemy, will he let him go away on a good road?[c] so may the LORD reward thee with good for what thou hast done unto me this day.

21 And now, behold, I know that thou wilt surely become king, and that the kingdom of Israel will stand firmly in thy hand.

22 And now swear unto me by the LORD, that thou wilt not cut off my seed after me, and that thou wilt not destroy my name out of my father's house.

23 And David swore unto Saül; and Saül went to his house; but David and his men went up into the strong-hold.

CHAPTER XXV.

1 ¶ And Samuel died; and all the Israelites assembled themselves together, and lamented for him, and buried him in his house at Ramah. And David arose, and went down to the wilderness of Paran.

2 ¶ And there was a man in Ma'on, whose business[d] was in Carmel; and the man was very great, and he had three thousand sheep, and a thousand goats: and he was, while they were shearing his sheep, at Carmel.

3 Now the name of the man was Nabal, and the name of his wife Abigayil: and the woman was of good understanding, and of a beautiful form; but the man was hard-hearted and evil in his deeds; and he was of the house of Caleb.

4 And David heard in the wilderness that Nabal was shearing his sheep.

5 And David sent out ten young men, and David said unto the young men, Get you up to Carmel, and go to Nabal, and ask him in my name after his well-being.

6 And ye shall say,[e] May it thus be throughout thy life; and peace be to thee, and peace be to thy house, and unto all that thou hast be peace.

7 And now have I heard that thou hast sheep-shearers: now thy shepherds have been with us, we have not injured them, neither hath there aught been missing unto them, all the time they were at Carmel.

8 Ask thy young men, and they will tell it thee. Therefore let the young men find favour in thy eyes; for on a festive day are we come: give, I pray thee, whatsoever thy hand is capable of unto thy servants, and to thy son, to David.

9 And David's young men came, and they spoke to Nabal in accordance with all these words in the name of David; and then they ceased.

10 And Nabal answered the servants of David, and said, Who is David? and who is the son of Jesse? now-a-days there are many servants that break away every one from his master.

11 Shall I then take my bread, and my water, and my flesh that I have killed for my sheep-shearers, and give it unto men, whom I know not whence they are?

12 And David's young men turned about on their way, and returned, and came and told him in accordance with all these words.

13 And David said unto his men, Gird ye on, every man, his sword. And they girded on, every man, his sword; and David also girded on his sword: and there went up after David about four hundred men, and two hundred abode by the baggage.

14 But one[a] of the young men told Abigayil, Nabal's wife, saying, Behold, David sent messengers out of the wilderness to greet our master; but he hath spoken rudely to them.

15 Whereas the men have been very good unto us; and we have not been injured, neither have we missed any thing, all the time that we went about with them, while we were in the field:

16 A wall were they around us both by night and by day, all the time we were with them, feeding the flocks.

17 And now know and consider what thou canst do; for evil is determined on against our master, and against all his household; and he is too greatly a worthless man for me to speak to him.

18 And Abigayil made haste, and took two hundred loaves, and two bottles of wine, and five sheep ready dressed, and five measures of parched corn, and a hundred clusters of raisins, and two hundred cakes of figs, and laid them on asses.

19 And she said unto her young men, Pass on before me: behold, I come after you. But to her husband Nabal she told nothing.

20 And it was so, as she was riding on the ass, and coming down by the covert of the mount, that, behold, David and his men came down toward her; and she met them.

21 Now David had said, Yea, for naught only have I guarded all that belongeth to this fellow in the wilderness, so that not the least was missed of all that pertained unto him; and he hath requited me evil instead of good.

22 So may God do unto the enemies of David, and do so yet farther, if I leave of all that pertaineth to him by the morning light, as much as a dog.[b]

23 And when Abigayil saw David, she hastened, and alighted off the ass, and fell down before David on her face, and bowed herself to the ground,

24 And she fell at his feet, and said, On me, me, my lord, is the fault: and let thy hand-maid, I pray thee, speak in thy hearing, and listen to the words of thy hand-maid.

25 Let not my lord, I pray thee, turn his heart unto this worthless man, unto Nabal; for as his name is, so is he: Nabal[c] is his name, and meanness is with him; but I thy hand-maid did not see the young men of my lord, whom thou didst send.

26 And now, my lord, as the Eternal liveth, and as thy soul liveth, it is the LORD who hath withholden thee from coming to blood-guiltiness, and from helping thyself with thy own hand; and now may like Nabal be thy enemies, and those that seek (to do) my lord evil.

27 And now this present which thy hand-maid hath brought unto my lord, let it even be given unto the young men that follow in the train my lord.

[a] Heb. "one young man of," &c.
[b] Others give this phrase, "any male."

[c] i. e. "Fool," "wicked," "mean," from nebalah, "a scandalous, foolish, or mean act."

28 Pardon, I pray thee, the trespass of thy hand-maid; for the LORD will certainly make for my lord an enduring house; because the battles of the LORD doth my lord fight, and evil will not be found in thee all thy days.[a]

29 And though a man is risen up to pursue thee, and to seek thy soul: yet will the soul of my lord be bound in the bond of life with the LORD thy God; and the soul of thy enemies will he hurl away, as out of the middle of the sling.

30 And it shall come to pass, when the LORD will do to my lord, in accordance with all the good that he hath spoken concerning thee, and will ordain thee as ruler over Israel, 31 That this shall not be unto thee as a cause of offence and as a reproach of heart unto my lord, both by having shed blood without cause, and by my lord having righted himself; and when the LORD will do good unto my lord, then do thou remember thy hand-maid.

32 ¶ And David said to Abigayil, Blessed be the LORD, the God of Israel, who sent thee this day to meet me;

33 And blessed be thy intelligence, and blessed be thou, who hast prevented me this day from coming unto blood-guiltiness, and from helping myself with my own hand.

34 But truly, as the LORD the God of Israel liveth, who hath withdrawn me from injuring thee, except thou hadst hastened and come to meet me, surely there would not have been left unto Nabal by the morning-light so much as a dog.

35 And David took out of her hand that which she had brought him; and unto her he said, Go up in peace to thy house: see, I have hearkened to thy voice, and have respected[b] thy presence.

36 And Abigayil came to Nabal; and, behold, he held a feast in his house, like the feast of a king; and Nabal's heart was merry within him, and he was exceedingly drunken; wherefore she told him not a word, either little or great, until the morning-light.

37 But it happened in the morning, when the wine was gone out of Nabal, that his wife told him these things; and his heart died within him, and he became as a stone.

38 And it came to pass in about ten days thereafter, that the LORD struck Nabal, and he died.

39 And when David heard that Nabal was dead, he said, Blessed be the LORD, who hath pleaded the cause of my reproach from the hand of Nabal, and hath withheld his servant from evil; and the wickedness of Nabal hath the LORD returned upon his own head. And David sent and applied for Abigayil, to take her to himself for wife.

40 And the servants of David came to Abigayil to Carmel, and they spoke unto her, saying, David hath sent us unto thee, to take thee to himself for wife.

41 Thereupon she arose, and bowed herself with her face to the earth, and said, Behold, let thy hand-maid be a servant to wash the feet of the servants of my lord.

42 And Abigayil hastened, and arose, and rode upon an ass, with her five damsels that went in her train; and she went after the messengers of David, and she became his wife.

43 David also took Achino'am of Yizre'el; and both of them became thus his wives.

44 ¶ But Saül had given Michal his daughter, David's wife, to Palti, the son of Layish, who was of Gallim.

CHAPTER XXVI.

1 And the Ziphites came unto Saül to Gib'ah, saying, Behold, David hideth himself on the hill of Chachilah, before the desert.

2 Then arose Saül, and went down to the wilderness of Ziph, and with him were three thousand men chosen out of Israel, to seek David in the wilderness of Ziph.

3 And Saül encamped on the hill of Chachilah, which is before the desert by the way; but David abode in the wilderness, and he saw that Saül was coming after him into the wilderness.

4 David thereupon sent out spies, and understood that Saül was come for a certainty.

5 And David arose, and came to the place where Saül was encamped; and David beheld the place where Saül lay, with Abner the son of Ner, the captain of his army: and Saül was lying in the midst of the ring,[a] and the people were encamped round about him.

[a] Sachs, "And misfortune will not assail thee all thy days." Rashi, "Therefore should wrong not be found on thee." The meaning of the last clause is, probably, that she begs David not to sully his reputation by doing wrong to the innocent.

[b] i. e. Received in favour the prayer of the petitioner.

6 Then commenced David and said to Achimelech the Hittite, and to Abishai the son of Zeruyah, the brother of Joäb, saying, Who will go down with me to Saül to the camp? And Abishai said, I will readily go down with thee.

7 So David and Abishai came to the people by night: and, behold, Saül lay sleeping within the ring, with his spear stuck in the ground by his head; but Abner and the people were lying round about him.

8 ¶ Then said Abishai to David, God hath surrendered this day thy enemy into thy hand: and now let me strike him through, I pray thee, with the spear, even to the earth with one blow, and I will not give him a second one.

9 But David said to Abishai, Destroy him not; for who hath stretched forth his hand against the LORD's anointed, and remained guiltless?

10 David said farthermore, As the LORD liveth, the LORD alone shall strike him down: either his day shall come that he die; or he shall go down into battle, and perish.

11 Far be this from me for the sake of the LORD, that I should stretch forth my hand against the LORD's anointed; but now, I pray thee, take thou the spear that is by his head, and the cruise of water, and let us go our way.

12 So David took the spear and the cruise of water by the head of Saül, and they went their way; and no one saw it, and no one perceived it, and no one awaked; for they were all sleeping; because a deep sleep from the LORD was fallen upon them.

13 Then went David over to the other side, and stood on the top of the mount afar off, the space between them being great.

14 And David called to the people, and to Abner the son of Ner, saying, Wilt thou not answer, Abner? And Abner answered and said, Who art thou that callest to the king?

15 ¶ And David said to Abner, Art thou not a man? and who is like to thee in Israel? why then hast thou not kept guard over thy lord the king? for there came one of the people to destroy the king thy lord.

16 This thing which thou hast done is not good. As the LORD liveth, ye deserve to die; because ye have not kept guard over your master, over the LORD's anointed. And now see, where is the king's spear, and the cruise of water that was by his head?

17 And Saül recognised David's voice, and he said, Is this thy voice, my son David? And David said, It is my voice, my lord, O king.

18 And he said, Why is this that my lord doth pursue after his servant? for what have I done? or what evil is in my hand?

19 And now, I pray thee, let my lord the king hear the words of his servant! If the LORD have stirred thee up against me, then may he accept the savour of an offering; but if they be the children of men, then be they cursed before the LORD; because they have driven me out this day so that I cannot attach myself on the inheritance of the LORD, saying, Go, serve other gods.[b]

20 Now, therefore, let not my blood fall to the earth far from the presence of the LORD; for the king of Israel is come out to seek a single flea, as one doth usually pursue a partridge on the mountains.

21 Then said Saül, I have sinned; return, my son David; for I will not do thee harm any more, for the cause that my life was precious in thy eyes this day: behold, I have acted foolishly, and have erred exceedingly much.

22 And David answered and said, Behold, here is the king's spear! and let one of the young men come over and fetch it.

23 And may the LORD recompense to every man his righteousness and his faithfulness; since the LORD delivered thee into my hand to-day, and I would not stretch forth my hand against the anointed of the LORD.

24 And behold, as thy life was highly valued this day in my eyes, so may my life be highly valued in the eyes of the LORD, and may he deliver me out of all tribulation.

[a] i. e. Formed by the people and their baggage.

[b] David regarded his banishment from Palestine, the vicinity of the ark of God, as though he had been bidden to worship idols. Experience also proves, that religion is neglected the moment men are separated from early associations.

25 ¶ Then said Saül to David, Blessed be thou my son David: thou wilt both do great things, and wilt also surely prevail. And David went then on his way, and Saül returned to his place.

CHAPTER XXVII.

1 ¶ And David said in his heart, Now I may yet perish suddenly one day by the hand of Saül; there is nothing better for me than that I should escape at once into the land of the Philistines, when Saül will abstain from me, to seek me any more in all the territory of Israel: and so shall I escape out of his hand.

2 And David arose, and he passed over himself with the six hundred men that were with him unto Achish, the son of Ma'och, the king of Gath.

3 And David remained with Achish at Gath, he and his men, every man with his household, also David with his two wives, Achino'am the Yizre'elitess, and Abigayil, Nabal's wife, the Carmelitess.

4 And when it was told unto Saül that David was fled to Gath, he continued no more to seek for him.

5 ¶ And David said unto Achish, If now I have found grace in thy eyes, let them give me a place in some one of the country-towns, that I may dwell there; for why should thy servant dwell in the royal city with thee?

6 Then gave Achish unto him on that day Ziklag: therefore hath Ziklag pertained unto the kings of Judah until this day.

7 ¶ And the number of the days that David dwelt in the fields of the Philistines was a full year and four[a] months.

8 And David and his men went up, and invaded the Geshurites, and the Gizrites, and the 'Amalekites; for these nations were of old the inhabitants of the land, till thou comest to Shur, and as far as the land of Egypt.

9 And David smote the land, and left not alive either man or woman, and took away the flocks, and the oxen, and the asses, and the camels, and the apparel, and returned, and came to Achish.

10 And Achish said, Whither have ye made an inroad to-day? And David said, Against the south of Judah, and against the south of the Yerachme'elites, and against the south of the Kenites.

11 And David left not alive either man or woman, to bring (them) to Gath, saying, That they may not tell on us, saying, So hath David done, and so is his custom all the days he hath dwelt in the fields of the Philistines.

12 And Achish had confidence in David, saying, He hath surely spoiled his odour among his people, among Israel; and he will become unto me a servant for ever.

CHAPTER XXVIII.

1 ¶ And it came to pass in those days, that the Philistines gathered their camps together for warfare,[b] to fight with Israel; and Achish said unto David, Thou must know that thou shalt go out with me into the camp, thou and thy men.

2 And David said to Achish, By reason of this wilt thou thyself ascertain what thy servant will do. And Achish said to David, Therefore will I make thee the guard of my head for all times.

3 ¶ Now Samuel was dead, and all Israel had lamented him, and buried him in Ramah, even in his own city: and Saül had removed those that had familiar spirits, and the wizards, out of the land.

4 And the Philistines assembled themselves together, and came and encamped at Shunem: and Saül assembled together all Israel, and they encamped at Gilboä'.

5 And when Saül saw the camp of the Philistines, he was afraid, and his heart trembled greatly.

6 And Saül asked counsel of the LORD; but the LORD answered him not, either by means of dreams, or by means of the Urim, or by means of the prophets.

7 Then said Saül unto his servants, Seek out for me a woman that hath a familiar spirit,[c] that I may go to her and inquire of her. And his servants said to him, Behold, there is a woman that hath a familiar spirit at 'En-dor.

8 And Saül disguised himself, and put on other garments, and he went, he and two men with him, and they came to the woman by night: and he said, Divine, I pray thee, unto me by the familiar spirit, and bring up for me the one whom I shall say unto thee.

[a] Rashi renders, "a few days above four months."

[b] Lit. "for the army," i. e. gathering the various divisions into an army to commence active war.

9 And the woman said unto him, Behold, thou well knowest that which Saül hath done, that he hath cut off those that have familiar spirits, and the wizards, out of the land; wherefore then layest thou a snare for my life, to cause me to die?

10 And Saül swore to her by the LORD, saying, As the LORD liveth, there shall no guilt attach to thee for this thing.

11 Then said the woman, Whom shall I bring up for thee? And he said, Samuel thou must bring up for me.

12 And when the woman saw Samuel, she cried with a loud voice: and the woman said to Saül thus, Why hast thou deceived me? since thou art Saül.

13 And the king said unto her, Be not afraid; however, what hast thou seen? And the woman said unto Saül, A divine being[a] have I seen ascending out of the earth.

14 And he said unto her, What is his form? And she said, An old man is coming up; and he is wrapt in a mantle. And so Saül perceived that it was Samuel, and he bowed with his face to the ground, and prostrated himself.

15 ¶ And Samuel said to Saül, Why hast thou disquieted me, to bring me up? And Saül answered, I am greatly distressed, and the Philistines make war against me, and God is departed from me, and hath not answered me any more, either by the agency of the prophets, or by means of dreams; wherefore I have called thee, to make known unto me what I shall do.

16 Then said Samuel, And why wilt thou ask me, seeing the LORD is departed from thee, and is become thy enemy?[b]

17 And the LORD hath done for himself as he hath spoken through my agency; and the LORD hath rent the government out of thy hand, and hath given it to thy associate, to David;

18 As thou didst not obey the voice of the LORD, and didst not execute his fierce wrath upon 'Amalek; therefore hath the LORD done this thing unto thee this day.

19 And the LORD will deliver also Israel with thee into the hand of the Philistines; and to-morrow shalt thou and thy sons be with me: also the camp of Israel will the LORD deliver into the hand of the Philistines.

20 Then fell Saül hastily with his full length to the earth, and was greatly afraid, because of the words of Samuel: there was also no strength in him; for he had not eaten any food all that day, and all that night.

21 And the woman came unto Saül, and saw that he was greatly terrified; and she said unto him, Behold, thy hand-maid hath obeyed thy voice; and I put my life in my hand, and hearkened unto thy words which thou spokest unto me.

22 And now, hearken thou also, I pray thee, unto the voice of thy hand-maid, and let me set before thee a morsel of bread, and eat; that thou mayest have strength when thou goest on the way.

23 But he refused, and said, I will not eat. But his servants urged him much, as also the woman; and he hearkened unto their voice. So he arose from the earth, and sat upon the bed.

24 And the woman had a fatted calf in the house; and she hastened, and slaughtered it, and took flour, and kneaded it, and baked unleavened bread thereof:

25 And she brought it near before Saül, and before his servants; and they ate. Then they rose up, and went away that night.

CHAPTER XXIX.

1 ¶ Now the Philistines assembled together all their camps at Aphek: and the Israelites encamped by the spring which is by Yizre'el.

2 And the lords of the Philistines passed on by hundreds, and by thousands; but David and his men passed on at the last with Achish.

3 Then said the princes of the Philistines, What are these Hebrews to do? And Achish said unto the princes of the Philistines, Behold, this is David, the servant of Saül the king of Israel, who hath been with me already

[a] Heb. אלהים ראיתי יעלים "gods have I seen ascending," which is the plural of majesty. (See Gen. i. 26.)

[b] Jonathan, "and now assisteth thy enemy," i. e. David.

a year,[a] or even years, and I have not found the least in him (to blame) from the day of his joining (me) until this day?

4 ¶ And the princes of the Philistines were angry with him; and the princes of the Philistines said unto him, Cause this man to go back, that he may return to his place whither thou hast assigned him; but he shall not go down with us to the battle, that he may not become an adversary to us in the battle; for wherewith could this person reconcile himself unto his master? is it not by means of the heads of these men?

5 Is not this David, of whom they sang one to another in the dances, saying, Saül hath slain his thousands, and David his ten thousands?

6 ¶ Then did Achish call David, and say unto him, As the LORD liveth, (I declare) that thou art upright, and that thy going out and thy coming in with me in the camp is good in my eyes; for I have not found in thee any evil from the day of thy coming unto me until this day; nevertheless in the eyes of the lords thou art not good.

7 And now return, and go in peace, that thou mayest not do any evil in the eyes of the lords of the Philistines.

8 And David said unto Achish, But what have I done? and what hast thou found in thy servant from the day that I have been before thee, until this day, that I shall not go to fight against the enemies of my lord the king?

9 And Achish answered and said to David, I know that thou art good in my eyes, as an angel of God; nevertheless, the princes of the Philistines have said, He shall not go up with us to the battle.

10 And now rise up early in the morning with the servants of thy master that are come with thee: and rise then up early in the morning, and when ye have light, go away.

11 And David and his men rose up early to go away in the morning, to return unto the land of the Philistines; but the Philistines went up to Yizre'el.

CHAPTER XXX.

1 ¶ And it came to pass when David and his men came to Ziklag on the third day, that the 'Amalekites had invaded[b] the south, and Ziklag, and smitten[c] Ziklag, and burnt it with fire;

2 And had taken captive the women that were therein, both great and small: they had not slain any one, but had led them off, and gone on their way.

3 When therefore David and his men came to the city, behold, it was burnt with fire; and their wives, and their sons, and their daughters, had been taken captive.

4 And David and the people that were with him lifted up their voice and wept, until they had no more power to weep.

5 And the two wives of David were also taken captive, Achino'am the Yizre'elitess, and Abigayil the wife of Nabal the Carmelite.

6 And David was greatly distressed; for the people spoke of stoning him, because the soul of all the people was imbittered, every man for his sons and for his daughters; but David fortified himself in the LORD his God.

7 ¶ And David said to Ebyathar the priest, the son of Achimelech, Bring hither, I pray thee, unto me the ephod. And Ebyathar brought the ephod near unto David.

8 And David asked counsel of the LORD, saying, Shall[d] I pursue after this troop? shall I overtake them? And he said to him, Pursue; for thou wilt surely overtake them, and certainly recover (all).

9 So David went, he and the six hundred men that were with him, and came up to the brook Bessor, where those that were left behind stayed.

10 But David pursued on, he and four hundred men; and there stayed behind two hundred men, who were too fatigued to go over the brook Bessor.

11 And they found an Egyptian man in the field, and took him to David, and gave him bread, and he did eat; and they made him drink water;

12 And they gave him a piece of a cake of figs, and two clusters of raisins, and he ate, and then his spirit returned[a] to him; for he had not eaten any bread, nor drunk any water, three days and three nights.

13 ¶ And David said unto him, To whom belongest thou? and whence art thou? And he said, I am a young Egyptian man, the servant to an 'Amalekite; and my master left me behind, because I fell sick, to-day three days ago.

14 We made an invasion upon the south of the Kerethites,[b] and upon that which belongeth to Judah, and upon the south of Caleb; and Ziklag did we burn with fire.

15 And David said to him, Wilt thou bring me down to this troop? And he said, Swear unto me by God, that thou wilt not kill me, and that thou wilt not surrender me into the hand of my master, and then will I bring thee down to this troop.

16 And he brought him down; and behold they were scattered over the face of all the country, eating and drinking, and dancing for joy, because of all the great spoil which they had taken out of the land of the Philistines, and out of the land of Judah.

17 And David smote them from the twilight even unto the evening of the next day: and there escaped not a man of them, save four hundred young men, who rode upon camels, and fled.

18 And David recovered all that the 'Amalekites had taken away; and his two wives also did David rescue.

19 And there was nothing missing to them, from small to great, as also sons and daughters, and spoil, down to every thing that they had taken from them: the whole did David bring back.

20 And David took all the flocks and the herds:[c] these they drove before those other cattle, and said, This is David's spoil.

21 And David came to the two hundred men, who had been too fatigued to follow after David, and whom they had left to remain at the brook Bessor: and they went forth to meet David, and to meet the people that were with him; and David came near to the people, and asked them after their well-being.

22 ¶ Then exclaimed every wicked and worthless man, of those that had gone with David, and said, Because they went not with us, we will not give them aught of the spoil that we have recovered, save to every man his wife and his children, and these they may lead away, and go.

23 Then said David, Ye must not do so, my brethren; since[d] the LORD hath given us this, and guarded us, and delivered the troop that came against us into our hand.

24 And who will hearken unto you in this matter? but as is the part of him that went down to the battle, so shall be the part of him that remained with the baggage: together must they share.

25 ¶ And it happened from that day and forward, that he made it a statute and an ordinance for Israel until this day.

26 ¶ And when David came to Ziklag, he sent of the spoil unto the elders of Judah, to his friends, saying, Behold, here is a present[e] for you from the spoil of the enemies of the LORD:

27 To those who were in Beth-el, and to those who were in south Ramoth, and to those who were in Yattir,

28 And to those who were in 'Aro'er, and to those who were in Siphmoth, and to those who were in Eshtemoä,

29 And to those who were in Rachal, and to those who were in the cities of the Yerachmeëlites, and to those who were in the cities of the Kenites,

30 And to those who were in Chormah, and to those who were in Kor-'ashan, and to those who were in 'Athach, 31 And to those who were in Hebron, and to all the places where David himself and his men had wandered about.

Israel: and the men of Israel fled from before the Philistines, and there fell down (many) slain on mount Gilboa'.

2 And the Philistines overtook Saül and his sons; and the Philistines smote Jonathan, and Abinadab, and Malkishua', the sons of Saül.

3 And the battle was heavy against Saül, and he was found by the archers, the men with bows; and he was greatly in dread of the archers.

4 And Saül said unto his armour-bearer, Draw thy sword, and thrust me through therewith; lest these uncircumcised come and thrust me through, and wantonly ill-use me. But his armour-bearer would not; for he was greatly afraid; wherefore Saül took the sword, and fell upon it.

5 And when his armour-bearer saw that Saül was dead, then fell he likewise upon his sword, and died with him.

6 Thus died Saül, and his three sons, and his armour-bearer, also all his men, on that same day together.

7 And when the men of Israel that were on the other side of the valley, and those that were on the other side of the Jordan, saw that the men of Israel had fled, and that Saül and his sons had died: they forsook the cities, and fled away; and the Philistines came and dwelt in them.

8 ¶ And it came to pass on the morrow, that the Philistines came to strip the slain; and they found Saül and his three sons fallen on mount Gilboa'.

9 And they cut off his head, and stripped off his armour, and sent it into the land of the Philistines round about, to publish it in the house of their idols, and among the people.

10 And they put his armour in the house of 'Ashtaroth; and his body they fastened to the wall of Beth-shan.

11 And when the inhabitants of Yabesh-gil'ad heard concerning him that which the Philistines had done to Saül:

12 Then arose all the valiant men, and walked all the night, and took the body of Saül and the bodies of his sons from the wall of Beth-shan, and they came to Yabesh, and burnt them[a] there.

13 And they took their bones, and buried them under the tamarisk-tree at Yabesh, and they fasted seven days.

ספר שמואל ב׳.

CONTAINING THE HISTORY OF DAVID'S REIGN OVER ISRAEL.

CHAPTER I.

1 ¶ Now it came to pass after the death of Saül, when David was returned from smiting the 'Amalekites, that David abode in Ziklag two days.

2 And it came to pass on the third day, that, behold, a man came out of the camp from Saül with his clothes rent, and earth upon his head: and it happened, when he came to David, that he fell to the earth, and prostrated himself.

3 And David said unto him, From where comest thou? And he said unto him, Out of the camp of Israel am I escaped.

4 And David said unto him, What took place there? I pray thee, tell me. And he said, That the people are fled from the battle, and that also many of the people are fallen and have died; and that also Saül and Jonathan his son are dead.

[a] After Jonathan, we should translate, "they burnt for them (their armour and spears) as they formerly did for a king;" this would reconcile the next verse. Or perhaps the flesh was burnt, and the bones kept for burial.

5 And David said unto the young man that told him, How knowest thou that Saül is dead as also Jonathan his son?

6 And the young man that told him said, I happened entirely by chance to be upon mount Gilboä', when, behold, there was Saül leaning upon his spear; and, lo, the chariots and horsemen had overtaken him.

7 And he turned round, and he saw me, and called unto me. And I said, Here am I.

8 And he said unto me, Who art thou? And I answered him, An 'Amalekite am I.

9 And he said unto me, Place thyself, I pray thee, by me, and slay me; for a mortal tremour[a] hath seized on me, although my life is yet whole in me.

10 So I placed myself by him, and slew him, because I was sure that he could not live after his fall;[b] and I took the crown that was upon his head, and the bracelet that was on his arm, and I have brought them unto my lord hither.

11 David thereupon took hold of his clothes, and rent them; and (so did) likewise all the men that were with him:

12 And they lamented, and wept, and fasted until the evening, for Saül, and for Jonathan his son, and for the people of the LORD, and for the house of Israel; because they were fallen by the sword.

13 ¶ And David said unto the young man that told him, Whence art thou? And he said, The son of a stranger, an 'Amalekite, am I.

14 And David said unto him, How wast thou not afraid to stretch forth thy hand to destroy the LORD'S anointed?

15 And David called one of the young men, and said, Come near, and fall upon him. And he smote him that he died.

16 And David said unto him, Thy blood is upon thy own head; for thy mouth hath testified against thee, saying, I myself have slain the LORD'S anointed.

17 ¶ And David lamented with this lamentation over Saül and over Jonathan his son:

18 And he said, That the children of Judah should be taught the bow;[c] behold it is written in the book of Yashar.

19 O beauty of Israel! upon the high places slain: how are the mighty fallen!

20 Tell it not in Gath, publish it not in the streets of Ashkelon; that the daughters of the Philistines may not be glad, that the daughters of the uncircumcised may not rejoice.

21 O mountains of Gilboä', no dew, nor rain be upon you, nor fields of offerings; for there the shield of the mighty was stained,[d] the shield of Saül, as though it[e] had not been anointed with oil.

22 From the blood of the slain, from the fat of the mighty, the bow of Jonathan turned never back, and the sword of Saül never returned empty.

23 Saül and Jonathan, the beloved and the dear in their lives, were even in their death not divided: more than eagles were they swift, more than lions were they strong.

24 O daughters of Israel, weep for Saül, who clothed you in scarlet, with beautiful[f] dresses, who put on ornaments of gold upon your apparel.

25 How are the mighty fallen in the midst of the battle! O Jonathan, on thy high places slain.

[a] After Jonathan. Philippson, "agony of death." Sachs, "cramp." Others, "convulsion." Still all these shades have at length the same meaning, and express "the shrinking of the muscles of the body from fear or imminent danger."

[b] Whether the 'Amalekite here alludes to the falling of Saül on his sword, by which he did not die at once, or whether he refers to his fall from authority, cannot be ascertained; so also whether his story was a pure invention, or the truth. At least, he robbed the body of the royal insignia.

[c] Rashi says that since the mighty archers had fallen, it would be necessary that Judah should practise this weapon, which the Philistines wielded so formidably. Others translate, "the song of the bow," i. e. this lamentation in which the archer Jonathan is celebrated, and that it was preserved in the book of Yasher, mentioned also in Joshua x. 13.

[d] Rendered as in Lam. iv. 14, and means, "The shield is stained with the blood of those who bore it."

[e] After Ralbag, referring the משׁיח "to shield," "as though it had not been anointed before the battle to ward off the shafts hurled against it." Others, "as though he (Saül) had not been," &c. Others think that the ancients oiled their shields when they were laid by; but that when in use it needed not this precaution to guard them against rust; and they translate, "the shield of Saül, which did not need the anointing."

[f] עדנים after Redak, who comments that whatever gives delight is called ענג, hence properly applied to female dress. Philippson, "to cause pleasure," i. e. the dress of scarlet spoken of.

26 I am distressed for thee, my brother Jonathan; very dear hast thou been unto me: wonderful was thy love for me, passing the love of women.

27 How are the mighty fallen, and lost the instruments of war!

CHAPTER II.

1 ¶ And it came to pass after this, that David asked counsel of the LORD, saying, Shall I go up into one of the cities of Judah? And the LORD said unto him, Go up. And David said, Whither shall I go up? And he said, Unto Hebron.

2 So David went up thither, and his two wives also, Achino'am the Yizre'elitess, and Abigayil Nabal's wife the Carmelite.

3 And his men that were with him did David bring up, every man with his household; and they dwelt in the cities of Hebron.

4 And then came the men of Judah, and they anointed there David as king over the house of Judah. And they told David, saying, The men of Yabesh-gil'ad were those that buried Saül.

5 ¶ And David thereupon sent messengers unto the men of Yabesh-gil'ad, and said unto them, Blessed be ye of the LORD, that ye have done this kindness unto your lord, unto Saül, and have buried him.

6 And now may the LORD deal with you in kindness and truth: and as for me also, I will requite you this good deed, because ye have done this thing.

7 And now let your hands be strengthened, and be ye valiant men; for your lord Saül is dead; and also me have the house of Judah anointed as king over them.

8 ¶ But Abner, the son of Ner, the captain of the army of Saül, took Ish-bosheth the son of Saül, and brought him over to Machanaÿim;

9 And made him king over Gil'ad, and over the Ashurites,[a] and over Yizre'el, and over Ephraim, and over Benjamin, and over all Israel.

10 ¶ Forty years old was Ish-bosheth the son of Saül, when he became king over Israel, and two years he reigned. But the house of Judah followed David.

11 And the number of days that David was king in Hebron over the house of Judah was seven years and six months.

12 ¶ And there went out Abner the son of Ner, and the servants of Ish-bosheth the son of Saül, from Machanaÿim to Gib'on.

13 And Joäb the son of Zeruyah and the servants of David also went out, and they met together by the pool of Gib'on: and they sat down, these on the one side of the pool, and the others on the other side of the pool.

14 And Abner said to Joäb, Do let the young men rise up and play before us. And Joäb said, They may rise up.

15 Then they rose up and went over by number: twelve for Benjamin, and for Ish-bosheth the son of Saül, and twelve of the servants of David.

16 And they grasped every one his fellow by the head, and thrust his sword in his fellow's side; and they fell down together: wherefore that place was called Chelkath-hazzurim,[b] which is by Gib'on.

17 And the battle was exceedingly fierce on that day: and Abner with the men of Israel was beaten, before the servants of David.

18 And there were at that place three sons of Zeruyah, Joäb, and Abishai, and 'Asahel: and 'Asahel was as fleet of foot as any roe in the field.

19 And 'Asahel pursued after Abner; and he turned not in going to the right hand or to the left from following Abner.

20 And Abner turned round and said, Art thou 'Asahel? And he answered, I am.

21 And Abner said to him, Turn thee aside to thy right hand or to thy left, and lay hold for thyself on one of the young men, and take thyself his armour. But 'Asahel would not turn aside from following him.

22 And Abner repeated again to say unto 'Asahel, Turn thee aside from following me: wherefore should I smite thee to the ground? and how should I then lift up my face to Joäb thy brother?

23 But he refused to turn aside; and Abner smote him with the hinder end of the spear under the fifth rib, so that the spear came out behind him; and he fell down there, and died on the spot: and it came to pass, that all who came to the place where 'Asahel had fallen down and died remained standing still.

[a] Jonathan, "Asher."

[b] i. e. "The field of strong men," or "of sharp swords."

24 But Joäb and Abishai pursued after Abner: and the sun went down when they were come to the hill of Ammah, that lieth before Giach on the way to the wilderness of Gib'on.

25 And the children of Benjamin assembled themselves together behind Abner, and formed one solid body, and posted themselves on the top of a certain hill.

26 And Abner called to Joäb, and said, Shall for everlasting the sword devour? knowest thou not that it will be bitter in the end? and how long shall it be, ere thou wilt bid the people to return from pursuing their brethren?

27 And Joäb said, As God liveth, unless thou hadst spoken, surely then already in the morning would the people have gone away every one from pursuing his brother.

28 So Joäb blew the cornet, and all the people remained standing still, and pursued no more after Israel, and they continued no more to fight.

29 And Abner and his men walked through the plain all that night, and they passed over the Jordan, and went through all Bithron, and they came to Machanayim.

30 And Joäb returned from pursuing Abner; and he gathered all the people together; and there were missed of David's servants nineteen men and 'Asahel.

31 But the servants of David had smitten (many) of Benjamin, and of Abner's men: three hundred and sixty men died.

32 And they took up 'Asahel, and buried him in the sepulchre of his father, which was in Beth-lechem. And Joäb and his men went all that night, and the day broke on them at Hebron.

CHAPTER III.

1 And the war lasted a long time between the house of Saül and the house of David; but David became continually stronger and stronger, and the house of Saül became continually weaker and weaker.

2 ¶ And there were born unto David sons in Hebron: and his first-born was Amnon, of Achino'am the Yizre'elitess;

3 And his second was Kilab, of Abigayil the wife of Nabal the Carmelite; and the third, Abshalom, the son of Ma'achah the daughter of Talmai the king of Geshur;

4 And the fourth, Adoniyah, the son of Chaggith; and the fifth, Shephatyah, the son of Abital;

5 And the sixth, Yithre'am, by 'Eglah, David's wife. These were born to David in Hebron.

6 ¶ And it came to pass, while the war lasted between the house of Saül and the house of David, that Abner upheld[a] with all his strength the house of Saül.

7 And Saül had a concubine, whose name was Rizpah, the daughter of Ayah: and Ish-bosheth said to Abner, Wherefore hast thou gone in unto my father's concubine?

8 And Abner became very wroth because of the words of Ish-bosheth, and said, Am I the chief of the dogs[b] which belong to Judah? unto this day have I shown kindness unto the house of Saül thy father, to his brothers, and to his friends, and have not delivered thee into the hand of David; and yet thou chargest me to-day with a wrong committed with this woman?

9 May God do so to Abner, and continue to do yet more to him, that, as the LORD hath sworn to David, even so will I surely do to him;

10 To transfer the kingdom from the house of Saül, and to establish the throne of David over Israel and over Judah, from Dan even to Beër-sheba'.

11 And he could not answer Abner a word more in reply, because of his fear of him.

12 ¶ And Abner sent messengers to David on his behalf, saying, Whose is the land? saying (also,) Make thy covenant with me, and, behold, my hand shall be with thee, to bring round unto thee all Israel.

13 And he said, Well: I will indeed make a covenant with thee; but one thing I require of thee, namely, Thou shalt not see my face, except thou first bring Michal Saül's daughter, when thou comest to see my face.

14 ¶ And David sent messengers to Ish-bosheth, the son of Saül, saying, Give up to me my wife Michal, whom I espoused to me for a hundred foreskins of the Philistines.

[a] Rashi. Others, "held fast on the house of Saül."

[b] Rashi, "Am I the chief of the dog-keepers," &c.

15 And Ish-bosheth sent, and took her from the man, from Paltiël the son of Layish.

16 And her husband went with her going along and weeping behind her as far as Bachurim: when Abner said unto him, Go, return. And he returned.

17 ¶ And Abner had used these words with the elders of Israel, saying, Already yesterday and even before ye have been desiring David as king over you:

18 And now do it; for the LORD hath said of David thus, By the hand of my servant David will I save my people Israel out of the hand of the Philistines, and out of the hand of all their enemies.

19 And Abner also spoke in the ears of Benjamin; and Abner went also to speak in the ears of David in Hebron all that seemed good in the eyes of Israel, and in the eyes of the whole house of Benjamin.

20 And Abner came to David to Hebron, and with him were twenty men; and David made for Abner and for the men that were with him a feast.

21 And Abner said unto David, I will now arise and go, and I will assemble unto my lord the king all Israel, that they may make a covenant with thee, and that thou mayest reign over all that thy soul longeth for. And David dismissed Abner: and he went in peace.

22 And, behold, the servants of David and Joäb came from a predatory excursion, and brought in much booty with them; but Abner was no more with David in Hebron; for he had dismissed him, and he was gone in peace.

23 When Joäb and all the army that was with him were come, they told Joäb, saying, Abner the son of Ner came to the king, and he hath dismissed him, and he is gone in peace.

24 Then came Joäb to the king, and said, What hast thou done? behold, Abner came unto thee: why is it that thou hast dismissed him, that he went freely away?

25 Thou knowest Abner the son of Ner, that to deceive thee did he come, and to know thy going out and thy coming in, and to know all that thou art doing.

26 And Joäb went out from David, and he sent messengers after Abner, who brought him back from the well of Sirah; but David knew it not.

27 And when Abner was returned to Hebron, Joäb took him aside in the gate to speak with him in private; and he smote him there under the fifth rib, and he died, for the blood of 'Asahel his brother.

28 And when David heard it afterward, he said, I and my kingdom are guiltless before the LORD for ever of the blood of Abner the son of Ner:

29 May it rest on the head of Joäb, and on all his father's house; and may there not fail from the house of Joäb one that hath an issue, or that is a leper, or that leaneth on a crutch, or that falleth by the sword, or that lacketh bread.

30 But Joäb and Abishai his brother slew Abner, because he had killed their brother 'Asahel at Gib'on in the battle.

31 And David said to Joäb, and to all the people that were with him, Rend your clothes, and gird yourselves with sackcloth, and (go) mourning before Abner. And king David walked behind the bier.

32 And they buried Abner in Hebron: and the king lifted up his voice, and wept at the grave of Abner; and all the people wept.

33 ¶ And the king lamented over Abner, and said, O, that Abner had to die, as the worthless dieth!

34 Thy hands were not bound, and thy feet were not put into fetters: as one falleth before men of wickedness art thou fallen. And all the people wept again over him.

35 And all the people came to cause David to eat food while it was yet day; but David swore, saying, So do God to me, and thus may he continue, if before the sun be down I taste bread, or the least else.

36 And all the people took notice of it, and it was pleasing in their eyes: as whatsoever the king did was pleasing in the eyes of all the people.

37 And all the people and all Israel understood on that day that it had not been of the king to slay Abner the son of Ner.

38 ¶ And the king said unto his servants, Know ye not that a prince and a great man hath fallen this day in Israel?

39 And I am this day yet weak, and just anointed king; and these men, the sons of Zeruyah, are too strong for me: may the LORD pay the doer of evil according to his wickedness.

CHAPTER IV.

1 ¶ And when Saül's son heard that Abner had died in Hebron, his hands became enfeebled, and all the Israelites were troubled.

2 And Saül's son had two men who were captains of bands; the name of the one was Ba'anah, and the name of the other Rechab, the sons of Rimmon the Beërothite, of the children of Benjamin; (for Beëroth also was reckoned to Benjamin:

3 And the Beërothites had fled to Gittayim, and remained sojourners there until this day.)

4 ¶ And Jonathan, Saül's son, had a son that was lame on both feet. He was five years old when the tidings came of Saül and Jonathan from Yizre'el, and his nurse took him up and fled: and it came to pass, in her haste to flee, that he fell, and was rendered lame. And his name was Mephibosheth.

5 And the sons of Rimmon the Beërothite, Rechab and Ba'anah, went, and came at the heat of the day to the house of Ish-bosheth, who was just lying in bed as usual at noon.[a]

6 And they came thither into the interior of the house, as buyers of wheat; and they smote him under the fifth rib: and Rechab and Ba'anah his brother escaped.

7 Namely, they came into the house, while he was lying on his bed in his sleeping-chamber, and they smote him, and slew him, and cut off his head, and took his head, and went by the way of the plain all the night.

8 And they brought the head of Ish-bosheth unto David to Hebron, and they said to the king, Behold, here is the head of Ish-bosheth the son of Saül thy enemy, who sought thy life: and the LORD hath granted to my lord the king vengeance this day on Saül, and on his seed.

9 But David answered Rechab and Ba'anah his brother, the sons of Rimmon the Beërothite, and said unto them, As the LORD liveth, who hath redeemed my soul out of all adversity,

10 When one told me, saying, Behold, Saül is dead, and he was in his own eyes as though he brought good tidings, I took hold of him, and slew him in Ziklag, who (thought) that I should give him a reward for his tidings:

11 How much more, when wicked men have slain a righteous man in his own house upon his bed? and now, behold, I will require his blood of your hand, and I will remove you away from the earth.

12 And David gave the command to the young men, and they slew them, and cut off their hands and their feet, and hanged them up by the pool in Hebron. But the head of Ish-bosheth they took, and buried it in the sepulchre of Abner in Hebron.

CHAPTER V.

1 ¶ Then came all the tribes of Israel to David unto Hebron, and spoke, saying, Behold us, thy bone and thy flesh are we;

2 Already yesterday, and even before, when Saül was king over us, thou wast the one that led out and brought in Israel:

¶ And the LORD said to thee, Thou shalt indeed feed my people Israel, and thou shalt be a chief over Israel.

3 Thus came all the elders of Israel to the king unto Hebron; and king David made a covenant with them in Hebron before the LORD: and they anointed David as king over Israel.

4 ¶ Thirty years was David old when he became king, (and) forty years he reigned.

5 In Hebron he reigned over Judah seven years and six months: and in Jerusalem he reigned thirty and three years over all Israel and Judah.

6 And the king and his men went to Jerusalem against the Jebusites, the inhabitants of the land; who said unto David, as followeth, Thou shalt not come in hither, except thou (first) remove away the blind[b] and the lame: meaning, David cannot come in hither.

7 Nevertheless David captured the stronghold of Zion: the same is the city of David.

8 And David said on that day, Whosoever will smite the Jebusites, and reach the aqueduct[c] and[d] the lame and the blind, that are

[a] It is customary, in all hot countries, to travel or work very early and very late, and to rest at noon, at which time the heat most prevails.

[b] The meaning probably is that the fort was so strong, that even the blind and lame could keep an enemy out.

[c] Some render צנור "the gutter pipe," through which the rain-water is led off from the roof. Others view it as a subterranean passage. Jonathan, "and will succeed to conquer the fort."

[d] Here should be supplied "smite," or "remove."

hateful to David's soul,[a]—Wherefore people[b] usually say, The blind and the lame shall not come into the house.

9 And David dwelt in the fort, and he called it "The City of David." And David built (it) round about from the Millo and inward.

10 And David went on, and became greater and greater, and the LORD the God of hosts was with him.

11 ¶ And Hiram the king of Tyre sent messengers to David, and cedar-trees, and carpenters, and stone-masons; and they built a house for David.

12 And David felt conscious that the LORD had established him as king over Israel, and that he had exalted his kingdom for the sake of his people Israel.

13 ¶ And David took yet more concubines and wives out of Jerusalem, after he was come from Hebron; and there were born to David yet (more) sons and daughters.

14 And these are the names of those that were born unto him in Jerusalem: Shammua', and Shobab, and Nathan, and Solomon,[c]

15 And Yibchar, and Elishua', and Nepheg, and Yaphia',

16 And Elishama', and Elyada', and Eliphelet.

17 ¶ But when the Philistines heard that the people had anointed David as king over Israel, all the Philistines came up to seek David: and David heard of it, and went down to the strong-hold.

18 The Philistines also came and spread themselves out in the valley of Rephaïm.

19 And David asked counsel of the LORD, saying, Shall I go up against the Philistines? wilt thou deliver them into my hand?

¶ And the LORD said unto David, Go up; for I will certainly deliver the Philistines into thy hand.

20 And David came to Ba'al-perazim, and David smote them there, and said, The LORD hath broken down my enemies before me, as a breach (is made by) water. Wherefore he called the name of that place Ba'al-perazim.

21 And they left behind there their idols, and David and his men burnt[d] them.

22 ¶ And the Philistines came up once again, and spread themselves out in the valley of Rephaïm.

23 And when David asked counsel of the LORD, he said, Thou shalt not go up; but turn about and fall in the rear of them, and come upon them opposite to the mulberry-trees.

24 And it shall be, when thou hearest the sound of walking on the top of the mulberry-trees, that thou shalt then bestir thyself; for then will the LORD go out before thee, to smite in the camp of the Philistines.

25 And David did so, as the LORD had commanded him; and he smote the Philistines from Geba' until thou comest to Gezer.

CHAPTER VI.

1 ¶ And David assembled again all the chosen men of Israel, thirty thousand.

2 And David arose, and went with all the people who were with him from Ba'alé-yehudah,[e] to bring up from there the ark of God, the name of which was called[f] by the name of the LORD of hosts, that dwelleth over the cherubim.

3 And they conveyed the ark of God in a new wagon, and brought it out of the house of Abinadab that was on the hill; and 'Uzzah and Achyo, the sons of Abinadab, guided the new wagon.

4 When they brought it out of the house of Abinadab which was on the hill, (they were) near the ark of God; but Achyo went before the ark.

5 And David and all the house of Israel played[g] before the LORD on all manner of instruments made of fir-wood, and on harps, and on psalteries, and on tambourines, and with bells, and with cymbals.

6 And when they came to the threshing-floor of Nachon, 'Uzzah put forth (his hand) to the ark of God, and took hold of it; for the oxen shook[a] it.

7 And the anger of the LORD was kindled against 'Uzzah; and God smote him there for the error; and he died there by the ark of God.

8 And it was grievous to David, because the LORD had suddenly[b] taken away 'Uzzah; and he called that place Perez-'uzzah [Breach of 'Uzzah] until this day.

9 And David was afraid of the LORD on that day, and said, How shall the ark of the LORD come to me?

10 So David would not allow to have the ark of the LORD removed unto him into the city of David; but David had it carried round into the house of 'Obed-edom the Gittite.

11 And the ark of the LORD remained in the house of 'Obed-edom the Gittite three months: and the LORD blessed 'Obed-edom, and all his household.

12 And it was told to king David, saying, The LORD hath blessed the house of 'Obed-edom, and all that pertaineth unto him, because of the ark of God: and David then went and brought up the ark of God from the house of 'Obed-edom into the city of David with joy.

13 And it happened, that when the bearers of the ark of the LORD had progressed six paces, he sacrificed an ox and a fatling.

14 And David danced with all his might before the LORD; and David was girded with a linen ephod.

15 So David and all the house of Israel brought up the ark of the LORD with shouting, and with the sound of the cornet.

16 And it happened, as the ark of the LORD came into the city of David, that Michal the daughter of Saül looked through the window, and saw king David leaping and dancing before the LORD; and she despised him in her heart.

17 And they brought in the ark of the LORD, and set it in its place, in the midst of the tent that David had pitched for it: and David offered burnt-offerings before the LORD and peace-offerings.

18 And when David had made an end of offering the burnt-offerings and the peace-offerings, he blessed the people in the name of the LORD of hosts.

19 And he dealt out to all the people, to the whole multitude of Israel, to both men and women, to every person one cake of bread, and a good piece of flesh, and a flagon of wine: and all the people departed every one to his house.

20 And David then returned to bless his household.

¶ But Michal the daughter of Saül came out to meet David, and she said, How honoured was to-day the king of Israel, who uncovered himself to-day before the eyes of the handmaids of his servants, as only one of the low fellows can uncover himself!

21 And David said unto Michal, Before the LORD, who chose me before thy father, and before all his house, to ordain me ruler over the people of the LORD, over Israel:—yea, before the LORD will I yet farther play.

22 And should I be yet more vile[c] than thus, and should I be base in my own eyes: yet among the maid-servants of whom thou hast spoken, yea, among them would I still be honoured.

23 And Michal the daughter of Saül had no child until the day of her death.

CHAPTER VII.

1 ¶ And it came to pass, when the king dwelt in his house, and the LORD had given him rest round about from all his enemies;

2 That the king said unto Nathan the prophet, See now, I dwell in a house of cedar, while the ark of God dwelleth within curtains.[d]

3 And Nathan said to the king, All that is in thy heart go and do; for the LORD is with thee.

[a] "The oxen had broken loose."—JOEL BRIEL and others. Philippson, "had jumped sideward."

[b] Lit. "made a breach on 'Uzzah."

[c] After Rashi. Others render, "I will yet farther play before him, should I be yet more despised than now, (for toward him I also am reckoned as nothing,) yea, even with the maid-servants of whom thou hast spoken, would I be honoured thereby;" which would say, that the king of Israel, in humbling himself before God, would not lose the respect of the humblest of his people. Aruheim renders, "and I would yet be more vile than thus, and would be base in my own eyes, if of the maid-servants of whom thou hast spoken, I should seek for honour;" and considers it as a satirical expression, that David would indeed be vile were he to seek for praise from the lowest classes.

4 ¶ And it came to pass during that night,
¶ That the word of the LORD came unto Nathan, saying,

5 Go and say unto my servant, unto David,
Thus hath said the LORD, Wilt thou indeed build me a house for my dwelling?

Israel out of Egypt, even until this day; but have been moving about in a tent and in a

7 In all the places where I moved about among all the children of Israel, did I speak a word to any one[a] of the tribes of Israel, whom I ordained to feed my people Israel, saying, Why have ye not built for me a house of cedar?

8 Now therefore, thus shalt thou say unto my servant, to David, Thus hath said the LORD of hosts, I took thee from the sheepcote, from behind the flocks, to be a ruler over my people, over Israel;

9 And I have been with thee whithersoever thou didst go, and I have cut off all thy enemies from thy presence, and I have made thee a great name, like the name of the great who are on the earth;

10 And I have procured a place for my people, for Israel, and I have planted them, that they may dwell in a place of their own, and be no more troubled; and that the children of wickedness shall not afflict them any more as aforetimes,

11 And (as it was) since the day that I ordained judges to be over my people Israel; and[b] I have caused thee to rest from all thy enemies; and the LORD telleth thee that he,
the LORD, will make thee a house.

12 When thy days will be completed, and thou wilt sleep with thy fathers: then will I set up thy seed after thee, who shall proceed out of thy body, and I will establish his kingdom.

13 He it is that shall build a house for my name, and I will establish the throne of his kingdom for ever.

14 I too will be to him as a father, and he shall indeed be to me as a son: so that when he committeth iniquity, I will chastise him with the rod of men, and with the plagues of the children of man;

15 But my kindness shall not depart from him, as I caused it to depart from Saül, whom
I removed from before thee.

16 And thy house and thy kingdom shall be steadfast for ever before thee: thy throne shall be established for ever.

17 In accordance with all these words, and in accordance with all this vision, so did Nathan speak unto David.

18 ¶ Then went king David in, and sat down before the LORD, and he said, Who am I, O Lord Eternal? and what is my house, that thou hast brought me as far as hitherward?

19 And this was yet too small a thing in thy eyes, O Lord Eternal; and thou hast spoken also of thy servant's house for a distant time. And is this the desert[c] of man, O
Lord Eternal?

20 And what can David add yet more to speak unto thee? since thou, O Lord Eternal, knowest well thy servant?

21 For the sake of thy word, and in accordance with thy own heart, hast thou done all this great thing, so as to let thy servant know it.

22 Therefore art thou great, O Eternal
God; for there is none like thee, and there is no god beside thee, in accordance with all that we have heard with our ears.

23 And who is like thy people, like Israel, the only nation on the earth, which God[d] went to redeem for himself as a people, and to acquire for himself a name, and to do for you[e] this great deed, and fearful things for thy[f] land (to drive out), from[g] before thy people

[a] i. e. The one chosen from the tribes to govern, "the judge."

[b] Philippson ends the first period with the last verse; and translates, "And since the time that I ordained judges over my people Israel, have I granted to thee (alone) rest," &c.

[c] After Jonathan and Rashi. Philippson, "As this is the rule of man," i. e. as one man acts to another, not as a mortal has a right to expect of God. In our version תורה is regarded as synonymous with משפט "manner," "right," "claim," "desert."

[d] Jonathan, and after him Rashi, refer אלהים, translating it, "Divine messengers," to Moses and Aaron, to which then the plural, הלכו "they went," is correctly joined; in our version it is the plural of majesty.

[e] "You," here, is an address to Israel.

[f] "Thy land" reverts again to God, who is the one mainly addressed by David.

[g] Philippson, "because of thy people, which thou hast redeemed for thyself from Egypt (from) nations and their gods." Sachs, "(against) heathens and their gods." Our version is after Rashi, supplying "to drive out."

which thou hast redeemed for thyself from Egypt, nations and their gods.

24 For thou hast established for thyself thy people Israel as a people unto thee for ever; and thou, O LORD, art indeed become their God.

25 And now, O Eternal God, let the word that thou hast spoken concerning thy servant, and concerning his house, stand firm for ever, and do as thou hast spoken.

26 And let thy name be magnified unto everlasting, that men may say, The LORD of hosts is the God over Israel: and may the house of thy servant David be established before thee.

27 For thou, O LORD of hosts, the God of Israel, hast revealed to the ear of thy servant, saying, A house will I build up for thee; therefore hath thy servant found the[a] heart to pray unto thee this prayer.

28 And now, O Lord Eternal, thou art the (true) God, and thy words must become the truth, and thou hast spoken unto thy servant this goodness:

29 And now let it please thee and bless the house of thy servant, that it may continue for ever before thee; for thou, O Lord Eternal, hast spoken it; and from thy blessing let the house of thy servant be blessed for ever.

CHAPTER VIII.

1 ¶ And it came to pass after this, that David smote the Philistines, and humbled them: and David took Metheg-haämmah[b] out of the hand of the Philistines.

2 And he smote Moäb, and measured them with a line, laying them down on the ground; and he measured with two lines to put to death, and with one full line to keep alive. And the Moäbites became David's servants, bringing presents.

3 David smote also Hadad'ezer, the son of Rechob, the king of Zobah, as he went to extend his territory[c] at the river Euphrates.

4 And David captured from him a thousand and seven hundred horsemen, and twenty thousand men on foot: and David hamstringed all the chariot-teams, but reserved of them a hundred chariot-teams.

5 And the Syrians of Damascus then came to aid Hadad'ezer the king of Zobah, when David slew of the Syrians twenty and two thousand men.

6 And David put garrisons[d] in Syria of Damascus: and the Syrians became servants to David, bearing presents. And the LORD helped David whithersoever he went.

7 And David took the shields[e] of gold that belonged to the servants of Hadad'ezer, and brought them to Jerusalem.

8 And from Betach, and from Berothai, cities of Hadad'ezer, did king David take exceedingly much copper.

9 ¶ And when To'i the king of Chamath heard that David had smitten all the host of Hadad'ezer,

10 Then did To'i send Yoram his son unto king David, to ask him after his well-being, and to bless him, because that he had fought against Hadad'ezer, and smitten him; for Hadad'ezer had been engaged in wars with To'i; and he had in his hand vessels of silver, and vessels of gold, and vessels of copper:

11 These also did king David sanctify unto the LORD, with the silver and gold that he had sanctified from all the nations which he subdued;

12 From Syria, and from Moäb, and from the children of 'Ammon, and from the Philistines, and from 'Amalek, and from the spoil of Hadad'ezer, the son of Rechob, the king of Zobah.

13 And David acquired a name when he returned from his smiting the Syrians in the valley of salt, eighteen thousand men.

14 And he put garrisons in Edom; throughout all Edom put he garrisons, and all the Edomites became servants to David. And the LORD helped David whithersoever he went.

15 And David reigned over all Israel; and David did what is just and right unto all his people.

16 And Joäb the son of Zeruyah was over the army; and Jehoshaphat the son of Achilud was recorder;

17 And Zadok the son of Achitub, and

[a] Lit. "found his heart," i. e. the courage.

[b] In 1 Chron. xviii. 1, Gath is mentioned. Rashi thinks Gath was called "Metheg," or "a goad," because it was the chief town.

[c] After Jonathan. Herxheimer, "to restore his power."

Sachs, "to turn back his arm," or "power;" which last is both strictly according to the words, and gives a good sense, and means that David went to drive back Hadad'ezer.

[d] Or, "tax collectors."—RASHI.

[e] "Quivers of gold."—RASHI.

Achimelech the son of Ebyathar, were priests; and Serayah was scribe;

18 And Benayahu the son of Yehoyada' was over both the Kerethites and the Pelethites; and David's sons were officers of state.

CHAPTER IX.

1 ¶ And David said, Is there yet any one that is left of the house of Saül, that I may show him kindness for the sake of Jonathan?

2 And the house of Saül had a servant whose name was Ziba; and they called him unto David; and the king said unto him, Art thou Ziba? And he said, Thy servant[a] (is it).

3 And the king said, Is there no one left any more of the house of Saül, that I may show him the kindness of God? And Ziba said unto the king, There is yet a son of Jonathan, lame on both feet.

4 And the king said unto him, Where is he? And Ziba said unto the king, Behold, he is in the house of Machir, the son of 'Ammiël, in Lo-debar.

5 And king David sent, and had him taken out of the house of Machir, the son of 'Ammiël, from Lo-debar.

6 And Mephibosheth, the son of Jonathan, the son of Saül, came unto David, and he fell on his face, and bowed himself. And David said, Mephibosheth! And he answered, Here is thy servant!

7 And David said unto him, Fear not; for I will surely show thee kindness for the sake of Jonathan thy father, and I will restore unto thee all the land of Saül thy father; and thou shalt eat bread at my table continually.

8 And he bowed himself, and said, What is thy servant, that thou shouldst turn thy regard unto such a dead dog as I am?

9 Then called the king for Ziba, Saül's servant, and said unto him, All that hath pertained to Saül and to all his house have I given unto thy master's son.

10 And thou shalt till for him the land, thou, and thy sons, and thy servants, and thou shalt bring in (the product), that thy master's son may have bread which he can eat; but Mephibosheth thy master's son shall eat continually bread at my table. Now Ziba had fifteen sons and twenty servants.

11 And Ziba said unto the king, In accordance with all that my lord the king may command his servant, so will thy servant do. And Mephibosheth (said the king)[b] shall eat at my table, as one of the king's sons.

12 And Mephibosheth had a young son, whose name was Micha. And all that dwelt in the house of Ziba were servants unto Mephibosheth.

13 And Mephibosheth dwelt in Jerusalem; for he ate continually at the king's table; and he was lame on both his feet.

CHAPTER X.

1 ¶ And it came to pass after this, that the king of the children of 'Ammon died, and Chanun his son reigned in his stead.

2 Then said David, I will show kindness unto Chanun the son of Nachash, as his father showed me kindness. And David sent to comfort him by the hand of his servants for his father. And David's servants came unto the land of the children of 'Ammon.

3 And the princes of the children of 'Ammon said unto Chanun their lord, Doth David honour thy father in thy eyes, that he hath sent comforters unto thee? hath David not sent his servants unto thee, in order to search the city, and to spy it out, and to overthrow it?

4 Chanun thereupon took David's servants, and shaved off the one-half of their beard, and cut off their garments in the middle, even to their buttocks, and sent them away.

5 When they told it unto David, he sent (persons) to meet them, because the men were greatly ashamed; and the king said, Tarry at Jericho until your beard be grown, and then return.

6 And when the children of 'Ammon saw that they were become in bad odour with David, the children of 'Ammon sent and hired the Syrians of Beth-rechob, and the Syrians of Zoba, twenty thousand men on foot, and the king Ma'achah with a thousand men, and of the people of Tob twelve thousand men.

[a] i. e. "Yes." The repetition of the chief word in the question in the answer is equal to the affirmative adverb, "yes."

[b] These words are not in the Hebrew; but they are added according to Rashi and others. But Ziba may also have offered a free table to his master, as he was evidently a very rich man; wherefore the addition is not necessary.

7 And when David heard of it, he sent Joäb, and all the army, (and) the mighty men.

8 And the children of 'Ammon came out, and put themselves in battle-array at the entrance of the gate: and the Syrians of Zoba, and of Rechob, and the people of Tob and Ma'achah, were by themselves in the field.

9 When now Joäb saw that the front of the battle was against him before and behind, he selected from all the chosen men of Israel, and arrayed himself against the Syrians:

10 And the rest of the people he delivered into the hand of Abishai his brother, who arrayed himself against the children of 'Ammon.

11 And he said, If the Syrians be too strong for me, then shalt thou bring me help; but if the children of 'Ammon be too strong for thee, then will I go to help thee.

12 Be strong, and let us strengthen ourselves in behalf of our people, and in behalf of the cities of our God: and may the LORD do that which seemeth good in his eyes.

13 And Joäb drew nigh, and the people that were with him, unto the battle against the Syrians: and they fled from before him.

14 And when the children of 'Ammon saw that the Syrians were fled, then did they also fly before Abishai, and entered into the city. Joäb then returned from the children of 'Ammon, and came to Jerusalem.

15 And when the Syrians saw that they were smitten before Israel, they gathered themselves altogether.

16 And Hadar'ezer sent, and brought out the Syrians that were beyond the river, and they came to Chelam; and Shobach the captain of the army of Hadar'ezer went before them.

17 And when it was told to David, he gathered all Israel together, and passed over the Jordan, and came to Chelam. And the Syrians set themselves in battle-array against David, and fought with him.

18 And the Syrians fled from before Israel; and David slew of the Syrians (the men) of seven hundred chariots, and forty thousand horsemen; and Shobach also the captain of their army he smote, and he died there.

19 And when all the kings, the vassals to Hadar'ezer saw that they were smitten before Israel, they made peace with Israel, and served them: and the Syrians feared to help the children of 'Ammon any more.

CHAPTER XI.

1 ¶ And it came to pass, at the return of the same season of the year, at the time when kings go forth, that David sent Joäb, and his servants with him, and all Israel; and they destroyed the children of 'Ammon, and besieged Rabbah. But David remained behind at Jerusalem.

2 And it happened at evening-tide, that David arose from off his couch, and walked upon the roof of the king's house: and he saw from the roof a woman bathing herself; and the woman was of a very beautiful appearance.

3 And David sent and inquired after the woman; and some one said, Behold, this is Bath-sheba', the daughter of Eli'am, the wife of Uriyah[b] the Hittite.

4 And David sent messengers, and took her; and she came in unto him, and he lay with her, and she had just purified herself from her uncleanness: and she returned unto her house.

5 And the woman conceived; and she sent and told David, and said, I am with child.

6 And David sent to Joäb, Send unto me Uriyah the Hittite. And Joäb sent Uriyah to David.

7 And when Uriyah was come unto him, David asked after the well-being of Joäb, and after the well-being of the people, and how the war prospered.

8 And David said to Uriyah, Go down to thy house, and wash thy feet. And Uriyah went forth out of the king's house, and there followed him a mess of food from the king.

9 But Uriyah laid himself down at the door of the king's house with all the servants of his lord, and went not down to his house.

10 And they told David, saying, Uriyah is not gone down unto his house: and David said unto Uriyah, Art thou not come from a journey? why then art thou not gone down unto thy own house?

11 Then said Uriyah unto David, The ark, and Israel, and Judah abide in booths; and my lord Joäb and the servants of my lord are encamped in the open field: and should I alone go unto my house, to eat and to drink, and to lie with my wife? as thou livest, and as thy soul liveth, I will not do this thing.

12 And David said to Uriyah, Tarry here also this day, and to-morrow will I send thee off. So Uriyah remained in Jerusalem on that day and the following.

13 And David invited him, and he ate and drank before him, and he made him drunken; and he went out in the evening to lie down on his resting-place with the servants of his lord; but to his house he did not go down.

14 And it came to pass in the morning, that David wrote a letter to Joäb, and sent it by the hand of Uriyah.

15 And he wrote in the letter, saying, Set Uriyah in front, opposite to the hottest fight, and then withdraw from behind him, that he may be smitten and die.

16 And it came to pass, when Joäb was enclosing[a] the city, that he placed Uriyah toward the spot of which he knew that valiant men were there.

17 And the men of the city went out and fought with Joäb; and there fell some of the people, of the servants of David, and there died also Uriyah the Hittite.

18 Then did Joäb send, and told unto David all the events of the war.

19 And he charged the messenger, saying, When thou hast finished telling all the events of the war to the king,

20 And it happen that the king's wrath arise, and he say unto thee, Wherefore did you approach unto the city to fight? knew ye not, that they would shoot down from off the wall?

21 Who smote Abimelech the son of Yerubbesheth?[b] did not a woman throw down upon him a piece of an upper mill-stone from off the wall, so that he died at Thebez? why did ye approach unto the wall? then must thou say, Also thy servant Uriyah the Hittite is dead.

22 And the messenger went, and came and told unto David all for which Joäb had sent him.

23 And the messenger said unto David, Because[c] the men overpowered us, and came out against us into the field; but we set upon them, as far as the entrance of the gate.

24 And the archers then shot at thy servants from off the wall; and there died some of the servants of the king, and also thy servant Uriyah the Hittite is dead.

25 Then said David to the messenger, Thus shalt thou say to Joäb, Let this thing not be displeasing in thy eyes; for at times this, at other times the other will the sword devour; continue firmly in thy war against the city, and overthrow it; and thus do thou encourage him.[d]

26 And when the wife of Uriyah heard that Uriyah her husband had died, she mourned for her lord.

27 And when the (time of) mourning was past, David sent and took her to his house, and she became his wife; and she bore him a son. But the thing which David had done was displeasing in the eyes of the LORD.

CHAPTER XII.

1 ¶ And the LORD sent Nathan unto David, and he came unto him and said to him, Two men were once in one city, the one rich and the other poor.

2 The rich man had flocks and herds, in great abundance.

3 But the poor man had nothing, save one little ewe, which he had bought; and he nourished it, and it grew up with him and with his children together; of his bread it used to eat, and out of his cup it used to drink, and in his bosom it used to lie, and it was to him as a daughter.

4 And there came a traveller unto the rich man; and he felt compunction to take from his own flocks and from his own herds to dress for the wayfarer that was come to him; but he took the ewe of the poor man, and dressed it for the man that was come to him.

5 And the anger of David was greatly kindled against the man; and he said to

[a] After Jonathan and Sachs; בשמר lit. "watching," i.e. by putting the troops in such a position that no one can go in and out without being noticed.

[b] i. e. Gid'on, or Yerubba'al. "Besheth" is a word of disgrace, signifying "shame," instead of the usual name of the idol "Ba'al," or "Lord."

[c] This would appear to be the conclusion of the report, and is intended to account for the loss of so many lives; first that the 'Ammonites forced their way out, but were then repulsed by the Israelites, who, in their eagerness to distinguish themselves, did not heed the archers till too late.

[d] This is said to the messenger to encourage Joäb.

Nathan, As the LORD liveth, surely the man that hath done this deserveth to die;

6 And the ewe he shall pay fourfold, for punishment that he hath done this thing, and because he had no compassion.

7 ¶ Then said Nathan to David, Thou art the man! Thus hath said the LORD, the God of Israel, It is I who anointed thee as king over Israel, and it is I who delivered thee out of the hand of Saül;

8 And I gave unto thee the house of thy master, and (put) the wives of thy master into thy bosom, and gave unto thee the house of Israel and Judah: and if this be too little, I could bestow on thee yet many more like these things.

9 Wherefore hast thou despised the word of the LORD to do what is evil in his eyes? Uriyah the Hittite hast thou smitten with the sword, and his wife hast thou taken unto thee for wife; but him hast thou slain with the sword of the children of 'Ammon.

10 And now, the sword shall not depart from thy house for ever; for the reason that thou hast despised me, and hast taken the wife of Uriyah the Hittite to be thy wife.

11 ¶ Thus hath said the LORD, Behold I will raise up against thee evil out of thy own house, and I will take away thy wives before thy eyes, and I will give them unto thy neighbour; and he shall lie with thy wives before the face of this sun.

12 For thou hast done it in secret; but I will surely do this thing before all Israel, and before the sun.

13 ¶ Then said David unto Nathan, I have sinned against the LORD.

¶ And Nathan said to David, Also the LORD hath caused thy sin to pass away: thou shalt not die.

14 Nevertheless, because thou hast given great cause to the enemies of the LORD to blaspheme through this thing, the child also that hath been born unto thee shall surely die.

15 And Nathan went to his house; and the LORD struck the child that Uriyah's wife had born unto David, that it became very sick.

16 And David besought God in behalf of the lad; and David kept a fast, and came home, and lay over night upon the earth.

17 And the elders of his house arose about him, to raise him up from the earth; but he would not, and he did not partake of any bread with them.

18 And it came to pass on the seventh day that the child died; and the servants of David were afraid to tell him, that the child was dead; for they said, Behold, while the child was yet alive, we spoke to him, and he would not hearken to our voice: how then shall we say to him, The child is dead! he might do (himself) a hurt.

19 But when David saw that his servants were whispering to each other, David understood that the child was dead; wherefore David said unto his servants, Is the child dead? and they said, He is dead.

20 David then rose up from the earth, and washed and anointed himself, and changed his garments, and went into the house of the LORD and prostrated himself; and then he came to his own house, and asked that they should set food before him. and he ate.

21 And his servants then said unto him, What is this thing which thou hast done? On account of the child when living thou didst fast and weep; but as soon as the child was dead thou didst arise and eat bread!

22 And he said, While the child was yet alive, I fasted and wept; because I said, Who knoweth, but that the LORD will be gracious to me, that the child may live?

23 But now he is dead, wherefore should I fast then? can I restore him again? I am going to him; but he will not return to me.

24 And David comforted Bath-sheba' his wife, and he went in unto her, and lay with her; and she bore a son, and called his name Solomon;[a] and the LORD loved him.

25 And he sent by the hand of Nathan the prophet, and called his name, Yedideyah[b] in behalf of the LORD.

26 ¶ And Joäb fought against Rabbah of the children of 'Ammon, and captured the royal city.

27 And Joäb sent messengers to David; and said, I have fought against Rabbah, and have also captured the water-town.[c]

28 And now gather the rest of the people

[a] Correctly, Shelomoh, from "shalom," peace, perhaps referring to the forgiveness of his sin.

[b] Eng. version, Jedidiah; it signifies, "beloved of the LORD."

[c] i. e. That portion of the city situated near the water, the river Zerka; in the preceding verse the royal city is mentioned; perhaps the palace of the king may likewise have been in the part situated near the river.

together, and encamp against the city, and capture it: lest I capture the city myself, and it be called by my name.[a]

29 And David gathered all the people together and went to Rabbah, and fought against it, and captured it.

30 And he took the crown of Malkam[b] from off his head, and its weight was a talent of gold, and (on it was) a precious stone, and it was set on the head of David; and the booty of the city he brought out in great abundance.

31 And the people that were therein he brought forward, and put them under[c] saws, and under iron threshing-wagons, and under axes of iron, and made them pass through brick-kilns; and thus did he unto all the cities of the children of 'Ammon: and David returned then with all the people unto Jerusalem.

CHAPTER XIII.

1 ¶ And it came to pass after this, that Abshalom the son of David had a handsome sister, whose name was Thamar; and Amnon the son of David loved her.

2 And Amnon worried himself so that he fell sick on account of Thamar his sister; for she was a virgin; and it was impossible in the eyes of Amnon, to do her the least (harm.)

3 But Amnon had a friend, whose name was Yonadab, the son of Shim'ah, David's brother; and Yonadab was a very sensible man.

4 And he said to him, Why art thou so wasted, O prince,[d] morning after morning? Wilt thou not tell me? Then said Amnon to him, Thamar the sister of Abshalom my brother do I love.

5 And Yonadab said to him, Lie down on thy couch, and feign thyself sick; and when thy father cometh to see thee, thou must say unto him, Let, I pray thee, Thamar my sister come, and give me some food, and prepare the refreshment before my eyes, in order that I may see it, and eat it out of her hand.

6 So Amnon lay down, and feigned himself sick; and when the king came to see him, Amnon said to the king, Let, I pray thee, Thamar my sister come, and mix up before my eyes a couple of cakes, that I may enjoy them out of her hand.

7 Then did David send home to Thamar, saying, Do go now to thy brother Amnon's house, and prepare for him the refreshment.

8 So Thamar went to the house of Amnon her brother, and he was lying down; and she took the dough and kneaded, and mixed it up before his eyes, and baked the cakes;

9 And she took the pan, and poured them out before him; but he refused to eat; and Amnon said, Cause every man to go out from me; and they went out, every man from him.

10 And Amnon said unto Thamar, Bring the refreshment into the chamber, that I may enjoy it out of thy hand. So Thamar took the cakes which she had made, and brought them unto Amnon her brother into the chamber.

11 And when she had brought them near unto him to eat, he took hold of her, and said unto her, Come, lie with me, my sister.

12 But she said to him, No, my brother, do not violate me; for such a deed ought not to be done in Israel; do not this scandalous act!

13 And I, whither should I carry my shame? and as for thee, thou wouldst be like one of the worthless in Israel; but now, O speak, I pray thee, unto the king, for he will not withhold me from thee.

14 Nevertheless, he would not hearken unto her voice; but he overpowered her, and violated her, and lay with her.

15 Then did Amnon hate her with a very great hatred; so that the hatred with which he hated her was greater than the love with which he had loved her; and Amnon said unto her, Arise, be gone.

16 And she said to him, (Do) not[e] add

[a] i. e. That the conquest would be ascribed to Joäb, not to David, who would thus be robbed of the glory attached to this achievement.

[b] i. e. The idol of 'Ammon, from the same derivation as Molech. Others derive it from מלך "king," thus, "their king;" but we have followed Rashi.

[c] Philippson, "he put them to saws, &c., and led them to the brick-kilns;" that is, he made them labour at these various operations: the text will readily bear this version.

[d] Heb. "son of the king."

[e] אל אודה we have rendered after Rashi, taking אודה as meaning "sequel," that which follows from a foregone cause; properly, "Let not this greater wrong to send me away be the sequel of the other thou hast done." Jonathan renders it as though it were על אודה "concerning." Philippson translates, "She spoke to him concerning the evil deed, Greater is this than the other which thou hast done to me." But the Massoretic punctuation and reading do not warrant such a version. We have strictly followed both.

this yet greater wrong than the other which thou hast done with me, to send me (now) away! But he would not listen to her;

17 And he called his young man, his servant, and said, Do send this woman away from me, into the street, and lock the door behind her.

18 And she had on her a garment of divers colours; for thus were usually apparelled the king's daughters when virgins, in robes; and his servant brought her out into the street, and locked the door behind her.

19 And Thamar put[a] ashes on her head, and the garment of divers colours which was on her she rent; and she placed her hand on her head, and went away and cried as she went along.

20 Then said to her Abshalom her brother, Hath Aminon[b] thy brother been with thee? but now, my sister, keep silence, he is thy brother, take this thing not to thy heart. So Thamar remained, and was secluded[c] in the house of Abshalom her brother.

21 And when king David heard all these things, it displeased him greatly.

22 And Abshalom spoke not with Amnon either bad or good; for Abshalom hated Amnon, because he had violated Thamar his sister.

23 ¶ And it came to pass after two full years, that Abshalom had sheep-shearers at Ba'al-chazor, which is near Ephraim; and Abshalom invited all the king's sons.

24 And Abshalom came to the king, and said, Behold, now, thy servant hath sheep-shearers; let the king, I pray thee, and his servants go with thy servant.

25 And the king said to Abshalom, No, my son, do not let us all go now, that we may not be a burden upon thee. And he urged him much, but he would not go, and he blessed him.

26 And Abshalom said, If not, let, I pray thee, Amnon my brother go with us. And the king said to him, Why should he go with thee?

27 But Abshalom urged him greatly, and he sent with him Amnon and all the sons of the king.

28 Now Abshalom commanded his servants, saying, Mark ye, I pray you, when Amnon's heart is merry with wine, and I say unto you, Smite Amnon: then kill him, fear not; behold, it is I who command it you; be firm and show yourselves men of valour.

29 And the servants of Abshalom did unto Amnon as Abshalom had commanded. Then arose all the king's sons, and they rode off, every man on his mule, and fled.

30 And it happened, while they were on the way, that the report came to David, saying, Abshalom hath smitten all the king's sons, and there is not one of them left.

31 Then arose the king and rent his garments, and laid himself on the earth; and all his servants were standing by with their garments rent.

32 But Yonadab the son of Shim'ah, David's brother, commenced and said, Let not my lord suppose that they have slain all the young men, the king's sons; since Amnon alone is dead; for by the command of Abshalom was this ordained from the day that he violated Thamar his sister.

33 And now let not my lord the king take the thing to his heart, thinking, that all the king's sons are dead; for Amnon alone is dead.

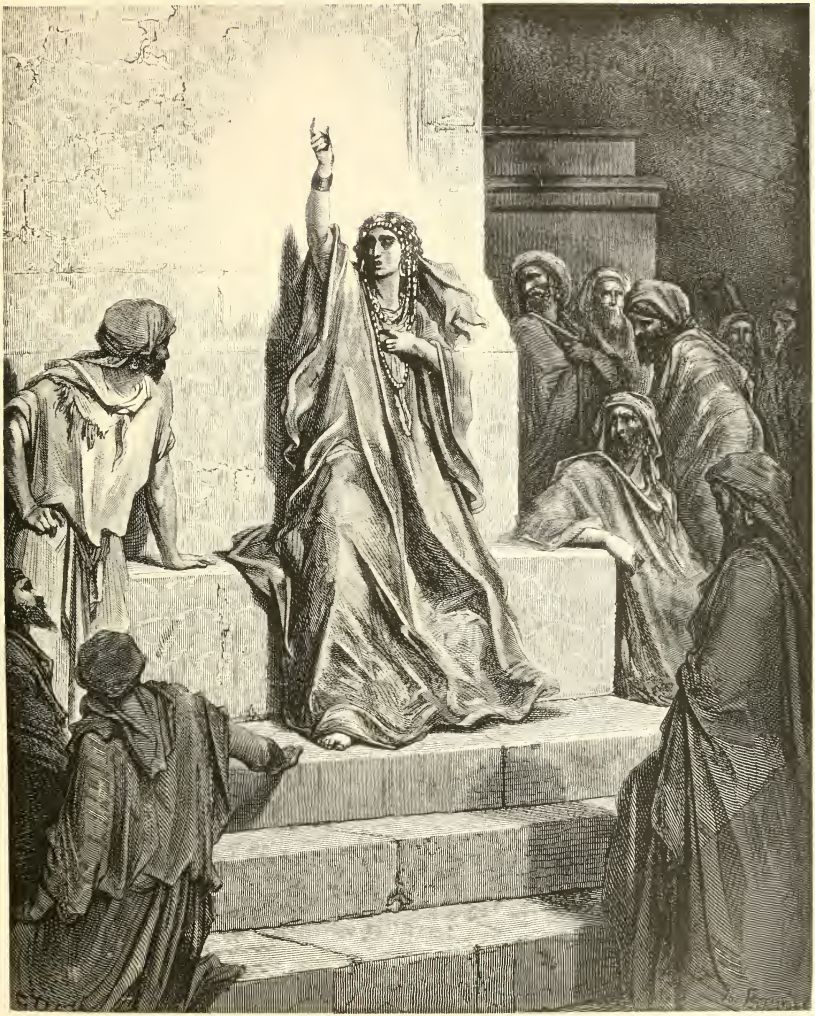
34 And Abshalom fled away. And the young man that was watching lifted up his eyes, and looked, and behold, many people were coming by the way behind him, by the side of the mount.

35 And Yonadab said to the king, The king's sons are come: according to the word of thy servant, so hath it come to pass.

36 And it happened, as he had just finished speaking, that, behold, the king's sons came, and they lifted up their voice and wept; and also the king and all his servants wept very much.

37 But Abshalom had fled; and he went to Talmai, the son of 'Ammihud, the king of Geshur: and (David) mourned for his son all the time.

38 So did Abshalom fly, and go to Geshur, and he remained there three years.



39 And (the soul[d] of) king David longed to go forth unto Abshalom; for he was comforted concerning Amnon, that he was dead.

CHAPTER XIV.

1 ¶ And when now Joäb the son of Zeruyah perceived that the heart of the king was (turned) toward Abshalom:

2 Then sent Joäb to Tekoä', and he fetched thence a wise woman, and said to her, Feign, I pray thee, as though thou mournest, and do put on mourning garments, and anoint thyself not with oil; but be as a woman that hath these many days been mourning for the dead.

3 And thou must come to the king and speak with him after these words: and Joäb put the words into her mouth.

4 And the woman of Tekoä' spoke to the king, and fell on her face to the ground, and bowed herself, and said, Help, O king!

5 ¶ And the king said unto her, What aileth thee? And she said, Truly, I am a widow-woman; since my husband is dead.

6 And thy hand-maid had two sons, and they two quarrelled together in the field, and there was no one between them to help (either); so the one smote the other, and slew him.

7 And, behold, the whole family is risen up against thy hand-maid, and they said, Give up the slayer of his brother, that we may have him put to death, for the life of his brother whom he hath killed; and we will destroy also the heir: and thus they will quench my coal which is remaining, so as not to allow to my husband either name or remainder upon the face of the earth.

8 ¶ And the king said unto the woman, Go to thy house, and I will issue (my) charge concerning thee.

9 Then said the woman of Tekoä' unto the king, On me, my lord, O king, be the iniquity, and on my father's house: and may the king and his throne be guiltless.

10 ¶ And the king said, Whosoever speaketh aught unto thee, bring him to me, and he shall not touch thee any more.

11 Then said she, Let the king, I pray thee, remember the LORD thy God, so as not to suffer the avenger of the blood to cause yet more destruction, and that they may not destroy my son. And he said, As the LORD liveth, there shall not fall one hair of thy son to the earth.

12 Then said the woman, Let thy handmaid, I pray thee, speak unto my lord the king one word. And he said, Speak on.

13 And the woman said, Wherefore then hast thou thought such a thing against the people of God?[a] and since the king doth speak this thing, he is as a guilty man, if the king do not permit his banished one to return home.

14 For we must needs die, and are as water which is spilt on the ground, which cannot be gathered up again; and yet doth God[b] not take away life; and he deviseth thoughts, so that the banished one may not remain banished from him.

15 And now that I am come to speak unto my lord the king of this thing, (happened) because the people made me afraid; and therefore thy handmaid said, I will still speak unto the king; perhaps the king may act (in accordance with) the word of his handmaid.

16 For the king may hear (me), to deliver his handmaid out of the hand of the man (that desireth) to exterminate me and my son together out of the inheritance of God.

17 And thy handmaid said, May the word of my lord the king now become (the means of giving) repose; for as an angel of God, so is my lord the king to comprehend the good and the bad: and may the LORD thy God be with thee.

18 ¶ Then answered the king and said unto the woman, Conceal not, I pray thee, from me a word concerning what I am going to ask thee. And the woman said, Let my lord the king but speak.

19 And the king said, Is not the hand of Joäb with thee in all this? And the woman answered and said, As thy soul liveth, my lord, O king! none can turn to the right or to the left from all that my lord the king hath spoken; for it was thy servant Joäb who hath bidden me, and it was he that hath put in the mouth of thy handmaid all these words.

[b] Jonathan, "Thus is it not possible for a righteous judge to accept money for falsehood, and he should devise thoughts, so as not to banish from him the banished." Sachs, "Should the judge not desire, and devise thoughts, that the banished may not remain banished from him?"

20 In order to change the appearance of the matter hath thy servant Joäb done this thing: and my lord is wise, according to the wisdom of an angel of God, to know all that is (done) on the earth.

21 ¶ And the king said unto Joäb, Behold, now, thou hast done this thing: go then, bring back the young man Abshalom.

22 And Joäb fell on his face to the ground, and bowed himself, and blessed the king: and Joäb said, To-day is thy servant convinced that I have found grace in thy eyes, my lord, O king; since the king hath acted in accordance with the word of thy servant.

23 And Joäb arose and went to Geshur, and brought Abshalom to Jerusalem.

24 ¶ And the king said, Let him repair to his own house, but my face he shall not see. So Abshalom repaired to his own house, but the king's face he did not see.

25 ¶ And like Abshalom there was no man as handsome in all Israel, so that he was greatly praised: from the sole of his foot up to the crown of his head there was no blemish on him.

26 And when he shaved off (the hair of) his head (and it was at the end of every year that he shaved it off; because it was too heavy on him, so that he had to shave it off:) he weighed the hair of his head at two hundred shekels by the king's weight.

27 And there were born unto Abshalom three sons and one daughter, whose name was Thamar: this one was a woman of handsome appearance.

28 ¶ And Abshalom dwelt two full years in Jerusalem, and the king's face he did not see.

29 Abshalom sent out therefore for Joäb, to send him to the king; but he would not come to him: and he sent again the second time; but he would not come.

30 He thereupon said unto his servants, See, Joäb's field is alongside of mine, and he hath barley there: go and set it on fire. And Abshalom's servants set the field on fire.

31 ¶ Then did Joäb arise, and he went to Abshalom unto his house, and said unto him, Wherefore have thy servants set the field belonging to me on fire?

32 And Abshalom said to Joäb, Behold, I had sent unto thee, saying, Come hither, that I may send thee to the king, to say, Wherefore am I come from Geshur? it would be better for me were I yet there: and now let me see the king's face; and if there be any iniquity in me, let him put me to death.

33 So Joäb went to the king, and told it to him: and he called for Abshalom, who came to the king, and bowed himself on his face to the ground before the king; and the king kissed Abshalom.

CHAPTER XV.

1 ¶ And it came to pass after this, that Abshalom provided for himself a chariot and horses, and fifty men who ran before him.

2 And Abshalom rose up early, and stood on the side of the way to the gate:[a] and it happened, that whenever a man who had a controversy came to the king for judgment, Abshalom called to him, and said, From what city art thou? And he said, Thy servant is from one of the tribes of Israel.

3 And Abshalom said unto him, See, thy words are good and right; but no one listeneth to thee on the part of the king.[b]

4 And Abshalom said, Oh if there were but one to appoint me judge in the land, so that every man who may have any controversy or cause might come unto me, and I would do him justice!

5 And it happened, that when a man came nigh to bow down to him, he used to put forth his hand, and laid hold of him, and kissed him.

6 And Abshalom did after this manner to all Israel that came to the king for judgment: and thus did Abshalom steal the heart of the men of Israel.

7 And it came to pass at the end of forty[c] years, that Abshalom said unto the king, Let me go, I pray thee, and fulfill my vow, which I have vowed unto the LORD, at Hebron.

8 For thy servant vowed a vow while I abode at Geshur in Syria, saying, If the LORD will ever bring me back again to Jerusalem, then will I serve the LORD.

9 And the king said unto him, Go in peace: and he arose, and went to Hebron.

10 ¶ But Abshalom sent spies throughout all the tribes of Israel, saying, When ye hear the sound of the cornet, then shall ye say, Abshalom is become king at Hebron.

11 And with Abshalom went two hundred men out of Jerusalem, who were invited, and going in their simplicity; and they knew of nothing whatever.

12 And Abshalom sent for Achithophel the Gilonite, David's counsellor, from his city, from Giloh, while he offered the sacrifices. And the conspiracy became strong; and the people increased continually with Abshalom.

13 And there came a news-bearer to David, saying, The heart of the men of Israel is turned after Abshalom.

14 And David said unto all his servants that were with him at Jerusalem, Arise, and let us flee; for there will not (else) be any escape for us from Abshalom: make haste to depart, lest he make haste and overtake us suddenly and overwhelm us with evil, and smite the city with the edge of the sword.

15 And the king's servants said unto the king, In accordance with all that my lord the king may choose, are thy servants ready.

16 And the king went forth, and all his household in his train. And the king left behind ten women, who were concubines, to guard the house.

17 And the king went forth, and all the people in his train, and tarried in a place that was far off.[a]

18 And all his servants passed on alongside of him, and all the Kerethites, and all the Pelethites; and all the Gittites, six hundred men, who were come in his train from Gath, passed on before the king.

19 Then said the king to Ittai the Gittite, Wherefore wilt thou also go with us? turn back and abide with the king; for thou art a stranger, and also an exile from thy place.[b]

20 Yesterday thou camest; and to-day should I move thee about with us to wander? seeing that I go whither I may: return thou, and take back thy brethren with thee, in kindness and truth.

21 And Ittai answered the king, and said, As the LORD liveth, and as my lord the king liveth, surely in whatever place my lord the king may be, whether for death or for life, even there will thy servant be.

22 And David said then to Ittai, Go and pass on. And Ittai the Gittite passed on, and all his men, and all the little ones that were with him.

23 And all the (people of the) country wept with a loud voice, as all the people passed on: and the king passed over the brook Kidron, and all the people passed over, along the way to the wilderness.

24 And lo Zadok also, and all the Levites with him, were bearing the ark of the covenant of God; and they set down the ark of God; and Ebyathar went up, until all the people had finished passing out of the city.

25 ¶ And the king said unto Zadok, Carry back the ark of God into the city; if I shall find favour in the eyes of the LORD, he will bring me back again, and show me both it, and his dwelling;

26 But if he should thus say, I have no delight in thee: here am I, let him do to me as seemeth good in his eyes.

27 ¶ The king said also unto Zadok the priest, If thou see the justice of this, return to the city in peace: and your two sons, Achima'az thy son, and Jonathan the son of Ebyathar, are with you.[c]

28 See, I will tarry in the plain of the wilderness, until there come word from you to bring me news.

29 Zadok therefore and Ebyathar carried the ark of God again to Jerusalem: and they remained there.

30 And David went up by the ascent of the mount of Olives, weeping as he went up, and had his head covered, and he was walking barefoot: and all the people that were with him covered every man his head, and they went up, weeping as they went up.

31 And some one told David, saying, Achithophel is among the conspirators with Abshalom. And David said, I pray thee, turn into foolishness the counsel of Achithophel, O LORD!

32 And it came to pass, that, when David was come to the top, where he used to bow himself down to God, behold, Chushai the Arkite came to meet him with his coat rent, and earth upon his head.

33 And David said unto him, If thou passest on with me, thou wouldst be a burden unto me;

34 But if thou shouldst return to the city, and say unto Abshalom, Thy servant will I be, O king; thy father's servant have I been this long time past, and now will I also be thy servant: then mightest thou defeat for me the counsel of Achithopel.

35 And, behold, thou hast with thee there Zadok and Ebyathar the priests; therefore shall it be, that what thing soever thou mayest hear out of the king's house, shalt thou tell to Zadok and Ebyathar the priests.

36 Behold, they have there with them their two sons, Achima'az for Zadok, and Jonathan for Ebyathar: and ye shall send by means of them unto me whatever thing ye can hear.

37 So Chushai, David's friend, came into the city, as Abshalom had just resolved to enter into Jerusalem.

CHAPTER XVI.

1 And when David was passed a little beyond the top (of the mount), behold, Ziba the servant of Mephibosheth came toward him, with a couple of asses saddled, and upon them two hundred loaves of bread, and a hundred bunches of raisins, and a hundred (cakes) of dried figs,[a] and a bottle of wine.

2 And the king said unto Ziba, What meanest thou with these? And Ziba said, The asses are for the king's household to ride on; and the bread and the dried figs for the young men to eat; and the wine to drink for such as may be faint in the wilderness.

3 And the king said, And where is thy master's son? And Ziba said unto the king, Behold, he remaineth at Jerusalem; for he said, To-day will the house of Israel restore unto me the kingdom of my father.

4 Then said the king to Ziba, Behold, thine shall be all that pertaineth unto Mephibosheth. And Ziba said, I prostrate myself: let me but find grace in thy eyes, my lord, O king.

5 And when king David came as far as Bachurim, behold, there came out thence a man of the family of the house of Saül, whose name was Shim'i, the son of Gera, coming forth, and cursing.

6 And he cast stones at David, and at all the servants of king David:[b] and all the people and all the mighty men were on his right and on his left.

7 And thus said Shim'i as he cursed, Away, away, thou man of blood, and thou worthless man!

8 The LORD hath brought back upon thee all the blood of the house of Saül, in whose stead thou didst reign; and the LORD hath placed the kingdom into the hand of Abshalom thy son; and, behold, thou art now in thy misfortune, because a man of blood art thou.

9 Then said Abishai the son of Zeruyah unto the king, Why should this dead dog curse my lord the king? let me go over, I pray thee, and remove his head.

10 And the king said, What have I to do with you, ye sons of Zeruyah? so let him curse; because the LORD hath said unto him, Curse David. Who shall then say, Wherefore hast thou done so?

11 And David said to Abishai, and to all his servants, Behold, my son, who hath come forth out of my own body, seeketh my life: how much more now this Benjamite? let him alone, and let him curse; for the LORD hath said it to him.

12 Perhaps the LORD will look on my affliction,[c] and the LORD will requite me good instead of his cursing this day.

13 ¶ And David and his men went (thus) on the way.

¶ And Shim'i went on the side of the mount opposite to him, and cursed as he went, and threw stones toward him, and cast dust.[d]

14 ¶ And the king, and all the people that were with him, arrived weary, and refreshed themselves there.[e]

[a] After Jonathan; but קַיִץ literally, means "summer."

[b] After the Massorah; others, "as also all the people and all the mighty men on his right and left."

[e] Bachurim.

15 And Abshalom, and all the people the men of Israel, came to Jerusalem, and Achithophel (also) with him.

16 And it came to pass, when Chushai the Arkite, David's friend, was come unto Abshalom, that Chushai said unto Abshalom, Long live the king! Long live the king!

17 And Abshalom said to Chushai, Is this thy kindness for thy friend? why art thou not gone with thy friend?

18 And Chushai said unto Abshalom, No; but whom the LORD, and this people, and all the men of Israel have chosen, his will I be, and with him will I remain.

19 And secondly, who is it whom I shall serve? is it not in the presence of his son? as I have served in thy father's presence, so will I be in thy presence.

20 ¶ Then said Abshalom to Achithophel, Hold counsel among yourselves as to what we shall do.

21 And Achithophel said unto Abshalom, Go in unto thy father's concubines, whom he hath left to guard the house; and all Israel will hear that thou art in bad odour with thy father: and then will the hands of all that are with thee become strong.

22 So they spread for Abshalom a tent upon the roof; and Abshalom went in unto his father's concubines before the eyes of all Israel.

23 And the counsel of Achithophel, which he counselled in those days, was as if a man had asked advice of the word of God: so was all the counsel of Achithophel both with David and with Abshalom. .

CHAPTER XVII.

1 ¶ Moreover Achithophel said unto Abshalom, Do let me now select twelve thousand men, and I will arise and pursue after David this night;

2 And I will come upon him while he is weary and weak-handed, and will terrify him; so that all the people that are with him will flee; and I will smite the king alone;

3 And I will bring back all the people unto thee: when all return (except[s]) the man whom thou seekest, all the people will be in peace.

4 And the thing was pleasing in the eyes of Abshalom, and in the eyes of all the elders of Israel.

5 ¶ Then said Abshalom, Do call now also Chushai the Arkite, and let us hear what he likewise beareth in his month.

6 And when Chushai was come to Abshalom, Abshalom said unto him, as followeth, Such words as these hath Achithophel spoken: shall we do after his words? if not, do thou speak.

7 ¶ And Chushai said unto Abshalom, The counsel that Achithophel hath given at this time is not good.

8 And Chushai said, Thou well knowest thy father and his men, that they are mighty men, and are of an imbittered spirit, as a bear robbed of her whelps in the field: and thy father is also a man of war, and will not lodge with the people.

9 Behold, he is now hidden in some one of the pits, or in some one of the (other) places: and it will come to pass, when some of them should fall at the first onset, that whosoever heareth it would say, There hath been a slaughter among the people that follow Abshalom.

10 And he also that is most valiant, whose heart is as the heart of the lion, would become quite discouraged; for all Israel knoweth that thy father is a mighty man, and they who are with him are valiant persons.

11 But I counsel that all Israel be gathered together unto thee, from Dan even to Beër-sheba', like the sand that is by the sea in multitude: while thou in thy own person goest into the fight.

12 And when we come upon him in some one of the places where he may be found, we will encamp around him as the dew falleth on the earth: and there shall not be left of him and of all the men that are with him so much as one.

13 And if he should withdraw into a city, then shall all Israel bring ropes to that city, and we will drag it into the stream, until there be not found there even one small stone.

14 ¶ And Abshalom and all the men of [s] After Sachs, who follows Rashi, in supplying "except," meaning, that David alone should perish, wherefore the whole people would submit to Abshalom without war. Philippson renders הָאִישׁ as a collective noun, "the populace;" thus, "as soon as all the populace whom thou seekest return," &c.

Israel said, The counsel of Chushai the Arkite is better than the counsel of Achithophel.

¶ But the LORD had ordained to frustrate the good counsel of Achithophel, to the intent that the LORD might bring the evil upon Absalom.

15 ¶ Then said Chushai unto Zadok and to Ebyathar the priests, Thus and thus did Achithophel counsel Absalom and the elders of Israel; and thus and thus have I counselled.

16 Now therefore send quickly, and tell David, saying, Lodge not this night in the plains of the wilderness, but rather pass over at once;[a] lest the king be entirely ruined,[b] and all the people that are with him.

17 Now Jonathan and Achima'az were staying by 'En-rogel; and a maid-servant had to go and tell them, that they should go and tell king David; for they dared not be seen to come into the city.

18 Nevertheless a lad saw them, and told it to Absalom; but they went, both of them, quickly away, and came to the house of a man in Bachurim, who had a well in his court; and they went down thither.

19 And the wife took and spread a covering over the well's mouth, and scattered ground corn thereupon; so that nothing was perceived.

20 And Absalom's servants came to the woman into the house, and they said, Where are Achima'az and Jonathan? And the woman said unto them, They are passed over the brook of water.[c] And they sought, but could not find them; and they returned to Jerusalem.

21 ¶ And it came to pass, after they were gone, that they came up out of the well, and went and told it to king David, and they said unto David, Arise, and pass quickly over the water; for thus hath Achithophel counselled against you.

22 Then did David arise, and all the people that were with him, and they passed over the Jordan: by the time the morning was light, not even one was lacking who had not passed over the Jordan.

23 And when Achithophel saw that his counsel was not followed, he saddled the ass, and arose, and went home to his house, to his city, and gave his charge to his household, and hanged himself; and he died, and was buried in the sepulchre of his father.

24 ¶ Then came David to Machanayim: and Absalom passed over the Jordan, he and all the men of Israel with him.

25 And Absalom placed 'Amassa instead of Joäb as captain over the army: and 'Amassa was the son of a man, whose name was Yithra the Israelite, who had gone in to Abigal the daughter of Nachash,[d] the sister of Zeruyah Joäb's mother.

26 And Israel and Absalom encamped in the land of Gil'ad.

27 ¶ And it came to pass, when David was come to Machanayim, that Shobi the son of Nachash of Rabbah of the children of 'Ammon, and Machir the son of 'Ammiël of Lo-debar, and Barzillai the Gil'adite of Rogelim,

28 Brought beds, and bowls, and earthen vessels, and wheat, and barley, and flour, and parched corn, and beans, and lentiles, and parched pulse,

29 And honey, and cream, and sheep, and cow's cheese, for David, and for the people that were with him, to eat; for they said, The people are hungry, and weary, and thirsty, in the wilderness.

CHAPTER XVIII.

1 And David numbered the people that were with him, and he set over them captains of thousands and captains of hundreds.

2 And David sent forth the people a third part under the command of Joäb, and a third part under the command of Abishai the son of Zeruyah, Joäb's brother, and a third part under the command of Ittai the Gittite.

¶ And the king said unto the people, I myself also will without fail go forth with you.

3 But the people said, Thou shalt not go forth; for if we should have to flee away, they will not care for us; and if half of us die, they will not care for us; for now thou art worth ten thousand of us: therefore now it is better that thou shouldst be a succour to us out of the city.

4 And the king said unto them, What seemeth good in your eyes will I do. And the king placed himself by the side of the gate, and all the people went out by hundreds and by thousands.

5 And the king commanded Joäb and Abishai and Ittai, saying, Deal gently for my sake with the young man, with Absalom. And all the people heard when the king charged all the captains with respect to Absalom.

6 So the people went out into the field against Israel: and the battle took place in the forest of Ephraim.

7 And the people of Israel were smitten there before David's servants, and the slaughter was great there on that day—twenty thousand men.

8 And the battle became extended there over the face of all the country: and the forest devoured yet more of the people than the sword had devoured on that day.

9 And Absalom happened to come before the servants of David. And Absalom was riding upon a mule, and the mule came under the thick boughs of a great oak, and his head caught hold of the oak, and he was left hanging[a] between the heaven and the earth: and the mule that was under him passed on.

10 And a certain man saw, and told it to Joäb, and said, Behold, I have seen Absalom hanging on an oak.

11 And Joäb said unto the man that told him, And, behold, thou sawest him: why then didst thou not smite him there to the ground? and it would have been obligatory on me to give thee ten shekels of silver and a girdle.

12 And the man said unto Joäb, And though I should weigh on my hands a thousand shekels of silver, I would not stretch forth my hand against the king's son; for before our ears did the king charge thee and Abishai and Ittai, saying, Take heed, whoever it be, of the young man, of Absalom.

13 Or should I even have acted with falsehood against my own life, since there is no matter which can be hidden from the king; thou wouldst surely have placed thyself aloof.[b]

14 Then said Joäb, I will not wait[c] thus before thee. And he took three darts in his hand, and thrust them into the heart of Absalom, who was yet alive in the midst[d] of the oak.

15 And ten young men, Joäb's armour-bearers, encompassed and smote Absalom, and slew him.

16 And Joäb blew the cornet, and the people returned from pursuing after Israel; for Joäb restrained the people.

17 And they took Absalom, and cast him down in the forest, into the large pit, and erected upon him a very great heap of stones: and all Israel fled, every one, to his tents.

18 Now Absalom had taken and reared up for himself in his lifetime, the pillar, which is in the king's dale; for he said, I have no[e] son, so as to keep my name in remembrance; and he called the pillar after his own name: and it was called Absalom's monument, even until this day.

19 ¶ And Achima'az the son of Zadok said, Do let me run, I pray thee, and bear the king tidings, that the LORD hath done him justice from the power of his enemies.

20 And Joäb said unto him, Thou art not the man to bear (good) tidings this day, and thou shalt bear tidings another day; but this day thou shalt bear no tidings, because the king's son is dead.

21 ¶ Then said Joäb to the Cushi,[f] Go tell the king what thou hast seen. And Cushi bowed himself unto Joäb, and ran.

22 Then said Achima'az the son of Zadok yet again to Joäb, Be it as it may, let me, I pray thee, run also after the Cushi. And Joäb said, Wherefore is it that thou wilt run, my son, seeing that thou hast no profitable[g] tidings?

23 But be it as it may, let me run. And he said unto him, Run. And Achima'az ran

[a] Lit. "was put."

[b] Meaning, Should I have even pretended not to know of the king's injunction, still would my life have paid the forfeit, as David discovers all things; and thou Joäb wouldest then have stood aloof, and let justice be executed against so common a man, without interposing. Philippson translates, "or should I act falsely in my soul," i. e. against my better knowledge.—נכנר is not "against," but "at a distance," or as here given, "aloof."

[c] Rashi, "entreat thee."

[d] Heb. "heart."

[e] Some suppose that it means, that none of his sons was destined to succeed him; others, that perhaps they had not been born when he erected this pillar; others, that they had died.

by the way of the plain, and passed the Cushi.

24 And David was sitting between the two gates: and the watchman[a] went up to the roof of the gate, upon the wall, and as he lifted up his eyes, he saw, and behold, a man was running alone.

25 And the watchman cried, and told it to the king. And the king said, If he be alone, there are tidings in his mouth. And he came nearer and nearer continually.

26 And the watchman saw another man running: and the watchman called unto the gate-keeper, and said, Behold, here is a man running alone. And the king said, Also this one bringeth tidings.

27 And the watchman said, I regard the running of the foremost as the running of Achima'az the son of Zadok. And the king said, That is a good man, and with good tidings must he come.

28 And Achima'az called, and said unto the king, Peace. And he prostrated himself to the king with his face to the earth, and said, Blessed be the LORD thy God, who hath surrendered the men that had lifted up their hand against my lord the king.

29 ¶ And the king said, Is the young man Abshalom safe?[b] And Achima'az answered, I saw the greatest crowd when Joäb sent off the king's[c] servant, and thy servant; but I know not what hath happened.

30 And the king said, Turn aside, place thyself here. And he turned aside, and remained standing.

31 And, behold, the Cushi came (next); and the Cushi said, Let my lord the king receive the tidings, that the LORD hath done thee justice this day from the power of all those that had risen up against thee.

32 ¶ And the king said unto the Cushi, Is the young man Abshalom safe? And the Cushi answered, May like the young man be the enemies of my lord the king, and all that have risen up against thee for evil.

CHAPTER XIX.

1 ¶ [d]And the king was much moved, and he went up to the upper chamber of the gate, and wept: and thus he said as he went, O my son Abshalom, my son, my son Abshalom! who would grant that I had died in thy stead, O Abshalom, my son, my son!

2 And it was told unto Joäb, Behold, the king is weeping and he mourneth for Abshalom.

3 And the victory[e] on that day was turned into mourning unto all the people; for the people heard it said on that day, that the king was grieved for his son.

4 And the people repaired by stealth on that day when coming into the city, as usually steal away the people who are ashamed when they flee in battle.

5 But the king covered his face, and the king cried with a loud voice, O my son Abshalom, O Abshalom, my son, my son!

6 ¶ And Joäb came to the king, into the house, and said, Thou hast covered with shame this day the faces of all thy servants, who have saved thy life this day, and the life of thy sons and of thy daughters, and the life of thy wives, and the life of thy concubines;

7 Since thou lovest thy enemies, and hatest thy friends; for thou hast declared this day, that thou hast neither princes nor servants;[f] for I perceive this day, that if Abshalom were but alive, and we all were dead this day, that then it would have been just right in thy eyes.

8 And now arise, go forth, and speak to the heart[g] of thy servants; for by the LORD have I sworn, that if thou go not forth, there shall not remain one man with thee this night: and this would be worse unto thee than all the evil that hath befallen thee from thy youth until now.[h]

9 ¶ Then the king arose, and sat in the gate. And they told it unto all the people, saying, Behold, the king is sitting in the gate. And all the people came before the king; but Israel fled, every man to his tents.

10 ¶ And all the people were contending throughout all the tribes of Israel, saying, The king hath saved us out of the hand of our enemies, and he it was that hath delivered us out of the hand of the Philistines; and now he is fled out of the land from before Abshalom.

11 And Abshalom, whom we had anointed over us, died in battle: and now why are ye silent about bringing the king back?

12 ¶ And king David sent to Zadok and to Ebyathar the priests, saying, Speak ye unto the elders of Judah, saying, Why will you be the last to bring the king back to his house? seeing the speech of all Israel is already come to the king, to his house.

13 My brothers are ye, my bone and my flesh are ye: wherefore then will you be the last to bring back the king?

14 And to 'Amassa shall ye say, Art thou not my bone and my flesh? May God do so to me, and may he thus continue to do, if thou shalt not be captain of the army before me continually in the room of Joäb.

15 And he[a] turned the heart of all the men of Judah, as of one man: and these sent unto the king, Return thou, with all thy servants.

16 So the king returned, and came as far as the Jordan; and Judah came to Gilgal, to go forth to meet the king, to conduct the king over the Jordan.

17 Then hastened Shim'i the son of Gera, the Benjamite, who was of Bachurim, and went down with the men of Judah to meet king David.

18 And there were with him a thousand men of Benjamin, and Ziba the servant of the house of Saül, and his fifteen sons and his twenty servants with him; and they set hastily over the Jordan before the king.

19 And there went over the ferry-boat to carry over the king's household, and to do what was good in his eyes. And Shim'i the son of Gera fell down before the king, as he was passing over the Jordan;

20 And he said unto the king, Let not my lord impute it unto me as iniquity, neither do thou remember that in which thy servant acted perversely on the day that my lord the king went forth out of Jerusalem, so that the king should lay it to his heart.

21 For thy servant doth know that I have indeed sinned; and, behold, I am come this day the first of all the house of Joseph[b] to go down to meet my lord the king.

22 But Abishai the son of Zeruyah spoke out and said, Shall Shim'i for this not be put to death, because he cursed the LORD'S anointed?

23 And David said, What have I to do with you, ye sons of Zeruyah, that ye should become a hinderance this day unto me? shall this day any man be put to death in Israel? for do I not know that this day I am king over Israel?

24 And the king said unto Shim'i, Thou shalt not die. And the king swore unto him.

25 ¶ And Mephibosheth the (grand-)son of Saül came down to meet the king, and he had not dressed his feet, nor trimmed his beard, nor washed his clothes, from the day that the king departed until the day that he came home in peace.

26 And it came to pass, when he was come to Jerusalem to meet the king, that the king said unto him. Wherefore didst thou not go with me, Mephibosheth?

27 And he answered, My lord, O king, my servant deceived me; for thy servant said, I will saddle for me the ass, that I may ride thereon, and go with the king; because thy servant is lame.

28 And he slandered thy servant unto my lord the king; but my lord the king is like an angel of God: do then what is good in thy eyes.

29 For all of my father's house were nothing but men deserving death with my lord the king: and yet didst thou set thy servant among those that eat at thy own table. What other merit therefore have I, and what to complain of yet farther unto the king?

30 ¶ And the king said unto him, For what purpose speakest thou yet thy words? I have said, Thou and Ziba shall divide the field.

31 And Mephibosheth said unto the king, Yea, let him take the whole, since that my lord the king is come (back) in peace unto his own house.

32 ¶ And Barzillai the Gil'adite came down from Rogelim; and he passed over the Jordan with the king, to accompany him over the Jordan.

33 Now Barzillai was very aged, eighty years old: and he had sustained the king

[a] i. e. 'Amassa; others refer "he" to David.

[b] i. e. All Israel, in opposition to Judah.

while he lay at Machanayim; for he was a very great man.

34 And the king said unto Barzillai, Come thou over with me, and I will sustain thee near me in Jerusalem.

35 But Barzillai said unto the king, How many yet are the days of the years of my life, that I should go up with the king to Jerusalem?

36 I am eighty years old this day: can I discern between good and evil? or can thy servant taste what I eat or what I drink? or can I listen yet to the voice of singing men and singing women? wherefore then should thy servant become yet a burden unto my lord the king?

37 Thy servant will[a] pass a little way over the Jordan with the king: and why should the king recompense me with this reward?

38 Let thy servant, I pray thee, turn back again, that I may die in my own city, by the sepulchre of my father and of my mother. But, behold, thy servant Kimham will pass over with my lord the king; and do to him what is good in thy eyes.

39 And the king said, Kimham shall pass over with me, and I will do to him that which shall seem good in thy eyes: and whatsoever thou wilt desire of me,[b] will I do for thee.

40 And all the people passed over the Jordan, after the king had passed over; and the king kissed Barzillai, and blessed him; and he returned unto his own place.

41 ¶ Then did the king pass on to Gilgal, and Kimham passed on with him: and all the people of Judah conducted the king, and also half the people of Israel.

42 And, behold, all the men of Israel came to the king, and said unto the king, Why have our brethren the men of Judah stolen thee away, and have conducted the king and his household over the Jordan, and all David's men with him?

43 ¶ And all the men of Judah replied to the men of Israel, Because the king is near of kin to us: wherefore then are ye so angry for this matter? have we eaten the least from the king?[c] or hath he given us any gift?

44 ¶ And the men of Israel answered the men of Judah, and said, Ten parts have we[d] in the king, and also in David have we more right than ye: why then did ye esteem us lightly? and was not our word the very first to bring back our king? And the words of the men of Judah were fiercer than the words of the men of Israel.

CHAPTER XX.

1 ¶ And there happened to be a worthless man, whose name was Sheba', the son of Bichri, a Benjamite: and he blew the cornet, and said, We have no part in David, nor have we any inheritance in the son of Jesse: every man to his tents, O Israel!

2 So every man of Israel went off from David, following Sheba' the son of Bichri; but the men of Judah adhered unto their king, from the Jordan even to Jerusalem.

3 And David came to his house at Jerusalem; and the king took the ten women, the concubines, whom he had left to guard the house, and put them in a guard-house, and provided for them, but went not in unto them. So they were confined until the day of their death, living in widowhood.[e]

4 ¶ Then said the king to 'Amassa, Call together for me the men of Judah within three days, and thou present thyself here (then).

5 So 'Amassa went to call Judah together; but he remained out longer than the set time which he had appointed him.

6 And David said to Abishai, Now will Sheba' the son of Bichri do us more harm than (did) Abshalom: take thou the servants of thy lord, and pursue after him, lest he succeed in reaching fortified cities, and withdraw himself from our eyes.

7 And there went out after him Joäb's men, and the Kerethites, and the Pelethites, and all the mighty men: and they went forth out of Jerusalem, to pursue after Sheba' the son of Bichri.

8 They were close by the great stone which is at Gib'on, as 'Amassa came before them.

[b] Lit. "choose by me."

[d] Heb. "I," and so in this whole conversation, "I" and "thou," which are rendered here "we" and "you."

[e] Lit. "widowhood life." אלמנה חיה signifies a woman forsaken by her husband, "a living widow."

And Joäb was girded with his coat, his (usual) garment, and upon it the girdle of the sword which was fastened upon his loins in its sheath; and as he went forth it fell out.

9 And Joäb said to 'Amassa, Art thou in health, my brother? And Joäb's right hand took hold of 'Amassa's beard to kiss him.[a]

10 And 'Amassa did not guard himself against the sword that was in Joäb's hand: so he smote him therewith in the fifth rib and shed out his bowels to the ground, and struck him not again; and he died. But Joäb and Abishai his brother pursued after Sheba' the son of Bichri.

11 And one man of Joäb's people remained standing by him, and said, He that favoureth Joäb, and he that is for David, follow Joäb.

12 And 'Amassa was wallowing in his blood in the midst of the highway. And when the man saw that all the people stood still, he put 'Amassa aside out of the highway into the field, and threw a garment over him, when he saw that every one that came by him stood still.

13 When he was removed out of the highway, every man passed on after Joäb, to pursue after Sheba' the son of Bichri.

14 And this one passed through all the tribes of Israel unto Abel, which is of Beth-ma'achah, and all the Berim:[b] and they assembled themselves together, and went also after him.

15 And they came and besieged him in Abel of Beth-ma'achah, and they cast up a trench against the city, and it stood enclosed by the troops:[c] and all the people that were with Joäb were battering to throw down the wall.

16 Then called a wise woman out of the city, Hear, hear: say, I pray you, unto Joäb, Come near as far as hither, that I may speak with thee.

17 And when he was come near unto her, the woman said, Art thou Joäb? And he said, I am. Then said she unto him, Hear the words of thy hand-maid. And he said, I do hear.

18 Then said she, thus, They ought surely first to have spoken, saying, "Let them ask at least in Abel:" and so would they have come to an end.[d]

19 I am one of the peaceful and faithful (cities) in Israel; thou seekest to overthrow a city and a metropolis in Israel: why wilt thou destroy the inheritance of the LORD?

20 ¶ And Joäb answered and said, Far be it, far be it from me, that I should destroy or ruin.

21 The matter is not so; but a man from the mountain of Ephraim, Sheba' the son of Bichri is his name, hath lifted up his hand against the king, against David: give him up alone, and I will withdraw from the city. And the woman said unto Joäb, Behold, his head shall be cast down to thee over the wall.

22 And the woman came unto all the people with her wisdom; and they cut off the head of Sheba' the son of Bichri, and cast it down to Joäb: and he blew the cornet, and they scattered themselves from the city, every man to his tents. And Joäb returned to Jerusalem unto the king.

23 ¶ Now Joäb was over all the army of Israel; and Benayah the son of Yehoyada' was over the Kerethites and over the Pelethites;

24 And Adoram was over the tribute; and Jehoshaphat the son of Achilud was recorder;

25 And Sheva was scribe; and Zadok and Ebyathar were priests;

26 And 'Ira also the Yaïrite was an officer of state unto David.

CHAPTER XXI.

1 ¶ And there was a famine in the days of David three years, year after year; and David besought[e] the presence of the LORD.

[a] It may either refer to 'Amassa thus, "him," or to the beard, when we should say, "it." Kissing the beard is the usual manner of saluting in the East, according to D'Arvieux.—PHILIPPSON.

[b] Rabbi Joseph Schwarz, in his Geography, p. 203, states that this means a district near Abel-beth-ma'achah near which were several towns called Biri, Beëroth, Birya; collectively, "the Berim."

[c] After Jonathan; but Philippson, "and it (the trench) stood against the fortifications," i. e. it reached to their height. Others, "the city stood with its inner wall," i. e. the outer one being already thrown down.

[d] After Rashi; meaning, before destroying Abel they should have resolved to ask the men of the city to come to terms, which could readily have been arranged.

¶ And the LORD said, On account of Saül, and on the account of the house of blood, is this; because he hath slain the Gib'onites.

2 And the king called for the Gib'onites, and said unto them; (now the Gib'onites are not of the children of Israel, but of the remnant of the Emorites; and the children of Israel had sworn unto them; but Saül had sought to slay them in his zeal for the children of Israel and Judah;)

3 Wherefore David said unto the Gib'onites, What shall I do for you? and wherewith shall I make the atonement, that ye may bless the inheritance of the LORD?

4 And the Gib'onites said unto him, We have no concern of silver or gold with Saül and with his house; nor do we wish to kill any man in Israel. And he said, What ye say, will I do for you.

5 And they said to the king, The man that consumed us, and that devised against us that we should be destroyed, so that we should have no footing in all the boundaries of Israel,—

6 Let there be delivered unto us seven men of his sons, and we will hang them up unto the LORD in Gib'ah of Saül, the chosen of the LORD.

¶ And the king said, I will give them.

7 But the king had pity on Mephibosheth, the son of Jonathan the son of Saül, because of the LORD's oath that was between them, between David and Jonathan the son of Saül.

8 And the king took the two sons of Rizpah the daughter of Ayah, whom she had born unto Saül, Armoni and Mephibosheth; and the five sons of Michal the daughter of Saül, whom she had brought[a] up for 'Adriël the son of Barzillai the Mecholathite:

9 And he delivered them into the hand of the Gib'onites, and they hanged them on the mount before the LORD; and they fell, these seven, together; and they were put to death in the first[b] days of harvest, in the beginning of the barley-harvest.

10 And Rizpah the daughter of Ayah took sackcloth, and spread out it for herself upon the rock, from the beginning of the harvest until water dropped down upon them out of heaven, and she suffered neither the birds of heaven to rest on them by day, nor the beasts of the field by night.

11 And it was told to David what Rizpah the daughter of Ayah, the concubine of Saül, had done.

12 And David then went and took the bones of Saül and the bones of Jonathan his son from the men of Yabesh-gil'ad, who had stolen them from the market-place of Beth-shan, where the Philistines had hanged them up, at the time the Philistines had smitten Saül at Gilboä':

13 And he brought up from there the bones of Saül and the bones of Jonathan his son; and they gathered up the bones of those that had been hanged.

14 And they buried the bones of Saül and Jonathan his son in the country of Benjamin at Zela', in the sepulchre of Kish his father: and they performed all that the king had commanded. And after that God was entreated for the land.

15 ¶ And the Philistines had again a war with Israel; and David went down, and his servants with him, and fought against the Philistines: and David became fatigued.

16 And Yishbi at Nob, who was of the children of the Raphah,[c] the weight of whose spear was three hundred shekels of copper, he being girded with a new armour, thought to slay David.

17 But Abishai the son of Zeruyah succoured him, and smote the Philistine, and killed him. Then swore the men of David unto him, saying, Thou shalt go out no more with us to battle, that thou mayest not quench the lamp of Israel.

18 ¶ And it came to pass after this, that there was again a battle at Gob with the Philistines: then smote Sibbechai the Chushathite Saph, who was of the children of the Raphah.

19 And there was again a battle at Gob with the Philistines, when Elchanan the son of Ya'aré-oregim, the Beth-lechemite, slew Goliath[d] the Gittite, the staff of whose spear was like a weaver's beam.

[a] As Michal was David's wife; but the children were those of Merab, the oldest daughter of Saül, who were probably educated by her sister.

[b] Lit. "in the days of harvest, in the first."

[c] Others translate the word, "the giant."

[d] A younger Goliath; perhaps a descendant of the one slain by David in his youth. In 1 Chron. xx. 5, he is called "Lachmi, brother of Goliath," &c.

20 ¶ And there was again a battle in Gath, where was a man of (great) stature,[a] that had on every hand six fingers, and on every foot six toes, (in all) four and twenty in number; and he also was born to the Raphah.

21 And he defied Israel; but Jonathan the son of Shim'ah the brother of David slew him.

22 These four were born to the Raphah in Gath; and they fell by the hand of David, and by the hand of his servants.

CHAPTER XXII.

1 ¶ And David spoke unto the LORD the words of this song, on the day that the LORD had delivered him out of the hand of all his enemies, and out of the hand of Saül.

2 And he said, LORD, my rock, my fortress, and my deliverer;

3 God, my rock, in whom I trust;[b] my shield, and the horn of my salvation, my high tower, and my refuge, my saviour! from violence dost thou save me!

4 Praised,[c] I cried, be the LORD, and from my enemies was I saved.

5 For the waves of death encompassed me, the floods of destruction[d] made me afraid;

6 The bonds of hell encircled me, the snares of death seized on me:

7 (When) in my distress I called upon the LORD, and to my God I cried; and he heard from his temple my voice, and my complaint (entered) into his ears.

8 Then shook and trembled the earth; the foundations of the heavens were moved; and they shook, because he was wroth.

9 Smoke went up in his anger,[e] and consuming fire out of his mouth, coals flamed forth from him.

10 And he bent the heavens, and came down, and thick darkness was under his feet.

11 And he rode upon a cherub, and flew along, and he was seen upon the wings of the wind.

12 And he made darkness round about him into pavilions, heavy masses of waters, thick clouds of the skies.

13 From the brightness before him flamed forth coals of fire.

14 The LORD thundered from heaven, and the Most High uttered forth his voice.

15 And he sent out arrows, and scattered them; lightning, and discomfited them.

16 And then were seen the channels of the sea, there were laid open the foundations of the world; at the rebuke of the LORD, through the blast of the breath of his nostrils.

17 He stretched out from above (his hand), he took me; he drew me out from the mighty waters.

18 He delivered me from my enemy, the strong, from those that hated me, when they were too mighty for me.

19 They overcame me on the day of my calamity; but the LORD became my stay;

20 And he brought me forth into a large space: he delivered me, because he had delight in me.

21 The LORD rewarded me according to my righteousness: according to the purity of my hands did he recompense me.

22 For I had kept the ways of the LORD, and had not wickedly departed from my God.

23 For all his ordinances were before me, and from none of his statutes did I depart.

24 I was also upright[f] toward him, and I guarded myself against my iniquity.

25 Therefore did the LORD recompense me according to my righteousness, according to my purity before his eyes.

26 With the kind thou wilt show thyself kind; with the upright mighty[g] man thou wilt show thyself upright.

27 With the pure thou wilt show thyself pure; and with the perverse thou wilt wage a contest.

28 And the afflicted people thou wilt save; but thy eyes are upon the haughty, (that) thou mayest bring (them) down.

29 For thou art my lamp, O LORD! and the LORD will enlighten my darkness.

30 For (aided) by thee I run through a troop: (helped) by my God I leap over a wall.

31 As for God—his way is perfect; the word of the LORD is tried; he is a shield to all that trust in him.

32 For who is god, save the LORD? and who is a rock, save our God?

33 God is my strength[a] and power; and he rendereth free from obstruction my way.

34 He maketh my feet like those of the hinds, and upon my high places he causeth me to stand.

35 He teacheth my hands for the war, so that a brazen bow is bent by my arms.

36 And thou gavest me the shield of thy salvation; and thy assistance[b] hath made me great.

37 Thou enlargest my steps under me, so that my joints do not slip.

38 I pursue my enemies and destroy them; and I return not again until I have made an end of them.

39 And I make an end of them, and I crush them, that they cannot rise; and they fall under my feet.

40 For thou hast girded me with strength for the war; thou subduest my opponents under me.

41 And my enemies thou causest to turn their back to me; those that hate me,—that I may destroy them.

42 They look about, but there is none to help; unto the LORD—but he answereth them not.

43 And I beat them small as the dust of the earth; as the mire of the street, I stamp them, I tread them down.

44 Thou hast also delivered me from the contests of my people: thou preservest me to be the head of nations, a people which I know not shall serve me.

45 The children of the stranger shall utter flattery[c] unto me; as soon as their ear heareth[d] they shall be obedient unto me.

46 The children of the stranger shall fade away, and come forth tottering[e] out of their close places.

47 The LORD liveth, and blessed be my Rock; and exalted be the God, the Rock of my salvation;

48 The God, that granteth me vengeance, and bringeth down nations under me;

49 And that bringeth me forth from my enemies: also above my opponents thou liftest me up, from the man of violence thou deliverest me.

50 Therefore will I give thanks unto thee, O LORD, among the nations, and unto thy name will I sing praises;

51 (To) the tower of salvation of his king, and who showeth kindness to his anointed, to David and to his seed for ever.

CHAPTER XXIII.

1 ¶ And these are the last[f] words of David. Thus saith[g] David the son of Jesse, and thus saith the man who was raised up on high, the anointed of the God of Jacob, and the sweet[h] singer of Israel:

2 The Spirit of the LORD spoke through me, and his word was upon my tongue.

3 (Thus) said the God of Israel, concerning me spoke the Rock of Israel, That (I should be) ruler over men, be righteous, ruling in the fear of God;

4 And[i] as in the light of morning the sun riseth, in a morning without clouds, with more than the brightness (reflected) by rain on the herbs that spring from the earth.

5 Truly is not so my house with God? since he hath made with me an everlasting covenant, firm in all, and sure? yea, will he not cause to grow all my salvation, and all my desire?[k]

6 But the godless are all of them as waving thorns, which cannot be taken in the hand;

7 But the man that will touch them must

[k] The verses 3 and 4 are after Rashi; verse 5 is given after Philippson; but Rashi renders, "For not so is my house with God, that my morning should be cloudy; for an everlasting covenant hath he granted me, well ordered in all and guarded; for he is all my help and my desire, because he will not let grow another king after my kingdom."

protect his hand with iron and the staff of a spear: and they will be utterly burnt with fire in the dwelling.[a]

8 ¶ These are the names of the mighty men whom David had: Yosheb-bashebeth,[b] the Thachkemonite, the chief among the captains,—the same as 'Adino the 'Eznite,—because of eight hundred slain at one time.

9 ¶ And after him was El'azar the son of Dodo, the son of Achochi, one of the three mighty men with David, when they defied the Philistines that were there gathered together to battle, and the men of Israel had withdrawn themselves;

10 He then arose, and smote the Philistines until his hand was weary, and his hand did cleave unto the sword: and the LORD wrought a great victory on that day; and the people returned after him only to strip (the slain).

11 ¶ And after him was Shammah the son of Agé the Hararite. The Philistines were gathered together into a troop,[c] and there was a piece of ground full of lentiles; and the people had fled from the Philistines;

12 But he placed himself in the midst of the ground, and delivered it, and smote the Philistines: and the LORD wrought a great victory.

13 And these three, the chiefs of the thirty, went down, and came to David at harvest-time unto the cave of 'Adullam: and the troop of the Philistines was encamped in the valley of Rephaïm.

14 And David was then in the strong-hold, and an outpost of the Philistines was then in Beth-lechem.

15 And David longed, and said, Oh that one would bring me water to drink out of the well at Beth-lechem, which is by the gate!

16 And the three mighty men broke through the camp of the Philistines; and drew water out of the well of Beth-lechem, that was by the gate, and took it, and brought it to David; but he would not drink thereof, and poured it out unto the LORD.

17 And he said, Far be it from me, O LORD, that I should do this: (is not this) the blood of the men that went at the risk of their life? and thus he would not drink it. These things did the three mighty men.

18 ¶ And Abishai, the brother of Joäb, the son of Zeruyah, was the chief of these three; and he lifted up his spear against three hundred slain, and had a name among the three.

19 Although he was the most honoured of the three, wherefore he became their captain: he nevertheless attained not unto the three (in prowess).

20 ¶ And Benayahu the son of Yehoyada', the son of a valiant man, great in many acts of Kabzeël; he it was that smote the two lion-like heroes of Moäb; he also went down and slew a lion in the midst of a pit on a day when it snowed;

21 And he slew an Egyptian, a man of good appearance; and the Egyptian had a spear in his hand; but he went down to him with a staff, and he snatched the spear out of the Egyptian's hand, and slew him with his own spear.

22 These things did Benayahu the son of Yehoyada', and he had a name among the three mighty men.

23 He was more honoured than the thirty; but he attained not to these three.[d] And David appointed him in his private council.[e]

24 ¶ 'Asahel the brother of Joäb was one of the thirty; Elchanan the son of Dodo of Beth-lechem,

25 ¶ Shammah the Charodite, Elika the Charodite,

26 ¶ Chelez the Paltite, 'Ira the son of 'Ikkesh the Teko'ite,

27 ¶ Abi'ezer the 'Anethothite, Mebunnai the Chushathite,

28 ¶ Zalmon the Achochite, Maharai the Netophathite,

29 ¶ Cheleb the son of Ba'anah, the Netophathite, Ittai the son of Ribai of Gib'ah of the children of Benjamin,

35 ¶ Chezrai the Carmelite, Pa'arai the Arbite,
36 ¶ Yigal the son of Nathan of Zobah, Bani the Gadite,
37 ¶ Zelek the 'Ammonite, Nacharai the Beërothite, the armour-bearer of Joäb the son of Zeruyah,
38 ¶ 'Ira the Yithrite, Gareb the Yithrite,
39 ¶ Uriyah the Hittite: in all thirty and seven.

CHAPTER XXIV.

1 ¶ And again was the anger of the LORD kindled against Israel, and he incited David against them to say, Go, number Israel and Judah.

2 And the king said to Joäb the captain of the army, who was with him, Traverse, I pray thee, all the tribes of Israel, from Dan even to Beër-sheba', and number ye the people, that I may know the number of the people.

3 Then said Joäb unto the king, Now may the LORD thy God add unto the people, how many soever they be, a hundred-fold more, and may the eyes of my lord the king see it; but why doth my lord the king find delight in this thing?

4 Nevertheless the king's word remained firm against Joäb, and against the captains of the army: and Joäb and the captains of the army went out from[b] the presence of the king, to number the people of Israel.

5 And they passed over the Jordan, and encamped in 'Aro'er, on the right side of the city that lieth in the midst of the valley of Gad, and toward Ya'zer:

6 Then they came to Gil'ad, and to the land of Tachtim-chodshi;[c] and they came to Dan-ya'an, and about to Zidon;

7 And they came to the strong-hold of Tyre, and to all the cities of the Hivites, and of the Canaanites; and they went out to the south of Judah, up to Beër-sheba'.

8 And so they traversed all the land, and they came at the end of nine months and twenty days to Jerusalem.

9 And Joäb gave up the sum of the number of the people unto the king: and there were in Israel eight hundred thousand valiant men that drew the sword; and the men of Judah were five hundred thousand men.

10 And David's heart smote him after that he had numbered the people.

¶ And David said unto the LORD, I have sinned greatly in what I have done; and now, I beseech thee, O LORD, cause the iniquity of thy servant to pass away; for I have acted very foolishly.

11 And when David was arisen in the morning,

¶ The word of the LORD came unto Gad the prophet, David's seër, saying,

12 Go and speak unto David, Thus hath said the LORD, Three things do I offer[d] thee: choose for thyself one of them, and I will do it unto thee.

13 So Gad came to David, and told it unto him; and he said unto him, Shall there come unto thee seven years of famine in thy land? or three months, that thou flee before thy enemies, while they pursue thee? or that there be for three days a pestilence in thy land? now consider and see what word I shall bring back to him that hath sent me.

14 ¶ And David said unto Gad, I am in a great strait: let us fall then into the hand of the LORD,—for his mercies are great; but let me not fall into the hand of man.

15 And the LORD sent a pestilence in Israel from the morning even to the time appointed:[e] and there died of the people from Dan even to Beër-sheba' seventy thousand men.

16 And when the angel stretched out his hand over Jerusalem to destroy it, the LORD bethought himself of the evil, and said to the angel that destroyed among the people, It is enough: now stay thy hand. And the angel of the LORD was by the threshing-floor of Araunah the Jebusite.

17 ¶ And David spoke unto the LORD when he saw the angel that smote among the people, and said, Lo, I have indeed sinned, and I have truly done wickedly: but these sheep, what have they done? let thy hand, I pray thee, be against me, and against my father's house.

18 ¶ And Gad came to David on that day, and said unto him, Go up, erect an altar unto the LORD on the threshing-floor of Araunah the Jebusite.

19 And David went up, according to the word of Gad, as the LORD had commanded.

20 And Araunah looked up, and saw the king and his servants coming on toward him: and Araunah went out, and bowed himself before the king with his face to the ground.

21 ¶ And Araunah said, Wherefore is my lord the king come to his servant? And David said, To buy from thee the threshing-floor, to build an altar unto the LORD, that the plague may be stayed from the people.

22 And Araunah said unto David, Let my lord the king take and offer up what seemeth good in his eyes: behold, the oxen are here for burnt-offerings, and the threshing-rollers and the harness of the oxen for wood.

23 All these things did Araunah, the king,[a] give unto the king.

¶ And Araunah said unto the king, May the LORD thy God receive thee favourably.

24 And the king said unto Araunah, No; but I will surely buy it from thee at the value; for I will not offer burnt-offerings unto the LORD my God without paying therefor. So David bought the threshing-floor and the oxen for fifty shekels of silver.

25 And David built there[b] an altar unto the LORD, and offered burnt-offerings and peace-offerings: and the LORD was entreated[c] for the land, and the plague was stayed from Israel.

CONTAINING THE HISTORY OF ISRAEL FROM THE DEATH OF DAVID TO THAT OF JEHOSHAPHAT.

CHAPTER I.

1 Now king David was old, stricken in years; and they covered him with clothes, but he could not become warm.

2 Wherefore his servants said unto him, Let them seek out for my lord the king a young virgin, and let her stand before the king, and let her be an attendant on him; and let her lie in thy bosom, that my lord the king may become warm.

3 So they sought for a fair maiden throughout all the territory of Israel; and they found Abishag the Shunammite, and brought her to the king.

4 And the maiden was exceedingly fair; and she became an attendant on the king, and ministered to him; but the king knew her not.

[a] Tradition represents Araunah as a proselyte and former king or chief of Jebus, or Jerusalem.

[b] The spot is said to have been the one where Solomon built the temple.

[c] This expression means that the LORD accepted the prayers of the people; whereas before this their entreaties seem to have been unavailing, since so many calamities overcame them one after another.

5 And Adoniyah the son of Chaggith exalted himself, saying, I shall be king: and he procured himself a chariot and horsemen, and fifty men who ran before him.

6 And his father had never grieved him in all his life by saying, Why hast thou done so? and he also was of a very goodly form; and his mother had born him after Absha-lom.[a]

7 And he had conferences with Joäb the son of Zeruyah, and with Ebyathar the priest: and they, following Adoniyah, helped him.

8 But Zadok the priest, and Benayahu the son of Yehoyada', and Nathan the prophet, and Shim'i, and Re'i, and the mighty men that belonged to David, were not with Adoniyah.

9 And Adoniyah slaughtered sheep and oxen and fatted cattle by the stone Zocheleth, which is by 'En-rogel;[b] and he invited all his brothers the king's sons, and all the men of Judah the king's servants;

10 But Nathan the prophet, and Benayahu, and the mighty men, and Solomon his brother, he invited not.

11 And Nathan spoke unto Bath-sheba' the mother of Solomon, saying, Hast thou not heard that Adoniyah the son of Chaggith is become king, and (that) David our lord knoweth it not?

12 And now come, let me, I pray thee, give thee counsel, that thou mayest save thy own life,[c] and the life of thy son Solomon.

13 Go and get thee in unto king David, and say unto him, Didst not thou, my lord, O king, swear unto thy hand-maid, saying, Assuredly, Solomon thy son shall reign after me, and only he shall sit upon my throne? why then is Adoniyah become king?

14 And, lo, while thou shalt be yet speaking there with the king, I myself will come in after thee, and confirm thy words.

15 And Bath-sheba' went in unto the king into the chamber, and the king was very old; and Abishag the Shunammite was ministering unto the king.

16 And Bath-sheba' bowed, and prostrated herself unto the king: and the king said, What wouldst thou?

17 And she said unto him, My lord, thou thyself didst swear by the LORD thy God unto thy handmaid, Assuredly, Solomon thy son shall reign after me, and only he shall sit upon my throne.

18 And now, behold, Adoniyah is become king; and now, my lord, O king, thou knowest it not:

19 And he hath slaughtered oxen and fatted cattle and sheep in abundance, and hath invited all the sons of the king, and Ebyathar the priest, and Joäb the captain of the army; but Solomon thy servant hath he not invited.

20 And as for thee, my lord, O king, the eyes of all Israel are upon thee, to tell them, who shall sit on the throne of my lord the king after him.

21 Otherwise it would come to pass, when my lord the king sleepeth with his fathers, that I and my son Solomon may be counted offenders.

22 And, lo, while she was yet speaking with the king, Nathan the prophet also came in.

23 And they told the king, saying, Behold, here is Nathan the prophet: and when he was come in before the king, he prostrated himself before the king with his face to the ground.

24 And Nathan said, My lord, O king, hast thou then said, Adoniyah shall reign after me, and he shall sit upon my throne?

25 For he is gone down this day, and hath slaughtered oxen and fatted cattle and sheep in abundance, and hath invited all the king's sons, and the captains of the army, and Ebyathar the priest: and, behold, they are eating and drinking before him, and they say, Long live king Adoniyah.

26 But as for me, me thy servant, and Zadok the priest, and Benayahu the son of Yehoyada', and thy servant Solomon, hath he not invited.

27 Can it be that this hath been done by order of my lord the king, and thou hast not

[a] Heb. "she had born him after Abshalom;" meaning, that the mother of Adoniyah bore him, after Abshalom had been born by his mother; since they were half-brothers only.

[b] "Fuller's-spring."—HERXHEIMER.

[c] This would seem to indicate that with the commencement of the kingdom, there was danger of introducing the cruel practice even now prevailing in the East, that at almost every accession the reigning monarch destroys those who can be injurious to him.

informed thy servant, who should sit on the throne of my lord the king after him?

28 Then answered king David, and said, Call me Bath-sheba'; and she came into the king's presence, and stood before the king.

29 And the king swore and said, As the LORD liveth, that hath redeemed my soul out of all distress,

30 Even as I have sworn unto thee by the LORD the God of Israel, saying, Assuredly Solomon thy son shall reign after me, and only he shall sit upon my throne in my stead: even so will I certainly do this day.

31 Then did Bath-sheba' bow herself with her face to the earth, and prostrate herself unto the king; and she said, May my lord, the king David, live for ever!

32 ¶ And king David said, Call unto me Zadok the priest, and Nathan the prophet, and Benayahu the son of Yehoyada'. And they came before the king.

33 And the king said unto them, Take with you the servants of your lord, and cause Solomon my son to ride upon my own mule, and conduct him down to Gichon:

34 And let Zadok the priest with Nathan the prophet anoint him there as king over Israel; and blow ye with the cornet, and say, Long live king Solomon.

35 Then shall ye go up after him, and he shall come and sit upon my throne; and he shall be king in my stead: and him have I ordained to be ruler over Israel and over Judah.

36 And Benayahu the son of Yehoyada' answered the king, and said, Amen: May thus say the Eternal the God of my lord the king.

37 As the Eternal hath been with my lord the king, even so may he be with Solomon, and may he make his throne greater than the throne of my lord the king David.

38 Thereupon Zadok the priest, and Nathan the prophet, and Benayahu the son of Yehoyada', and the Kerethites, and the Pelethites, went down, and caused Solomon to ride upon king David's mule, and conducted him to Gichon.

39 And Zadok the priest took the horn of oil out of the tabernacle, and anointed Solomon. And they blew with the cornet; and all the people said, Long live king Solomon.

40 And all the people went up after him, and the people blew on flutes, and rejoiced with great joy, so that the earth was rent at their noise.

41 And Adoniyah and all the guests that were with him heard it as they had just finished eating: and when Joäb heard the sound of the cornet, he said, Wherefore is this noise of the city in an uproar?

42 And while he was yet speaking, behold, Jonathan the son of Ebyathar the priest came in: and Adoniyah said (unto him), Come in; for thou art a worthy[a] man, and must bring good tidings.

43 And Jonathan answered and said to Adoniyah, Alas, no:[b] our lord king David hath made Solomon king;

44 And the king hath sent with him Zadok the priest, and Nathan the prophet, and Benayahu the son of Yehoyada', and the Kerethites, and the Pelethites, and they have caused him to ride upon the king's mule;

45 And Zadok the priest and Nathan the prophet have anointed him as king on the Gichon; and they are come up from there rejoicing, and the city hath been set in commotion. This is the noise that ye have heard.

46 And Solomon hath also sat on the kingly throne.

47 And also the king's servants are come to bless our lord king David, saying, May God make the name of Solomon more famous than thy name, and make his throne greater than thy throne: and the king hath bowed himself upon the bed.

48 And also thus hath the king said, Blessed be the LORD the God of Israel, who hath given (me) this day one who sitteth on my throne, while my eyes see it.

49 And all the guests that were with Adoniyah were terrified, and rose up, and went, every man, on his own way.

50 And Adoniyah was afraid because of Solomon; and he arose, and went, and caught hold on the horns of the altar.

51 And it was told unto Solomon, saying,

[a] איש חיל not alone valiant "in arms," but "worthy," or "distinguished for good deeds."

[b] אבל, literally, "but," here denoting the opposite of what Adoniyah expected.

Behold, Adoniyah feareth king Solomon; and, behold, he hath caught hold on the horns of the altar, saying, Let king Solomon swear unto me to-day that he will not slay his servant with the sword.

52 And Solomon said, If he will become a worthy man, there shall not a hair of his fall to the earth; but if any wrong shall be found on him, then shall he die.

53 So king Solomon sent, and they brought him down from the altar; and he came and bowed himself to king Solomon; and Solomon said unto him, Go to thy house.

CHAPTER II.

1 ¶ And when the days of David drew near that he should die, he charged Solomon his son, saying,

2 I am going the way of all the earth; but be thou strong, and become a man;

3 And keep the charge of the LORD thy God, to walk in his ways, to keep his statutes, his commandments, and his ordinances, and his testimonies, as it is written in the law of Moses; in order that thou mayest prosper in all that thou doest, and whithersoever thou turnest thyself;

4 In order that the LORD may fulfil his word which he hath spoken concerning me, saying, If thy children take heed to their way, to walk before me in truth with all their heart and with all their soul, there shall never fail thee, said he, a man on the throne of Israel.

5 And thou also knowest well what Joäb the son of Zeruyah hath done to me, what he did to the two captains of the armies of Israel, unto Abner the son of Ner, and unto 'Amassa the son of Yether, whom he slew, and shed the blood of war in peace, and put the blood of war upon his girdle that was about his loins, and on his shoes that were on his feet.

6 Do therefore according to thy wisdom, and let not his hoary head go down in peace to the grave.

7 ¶ But unto the sons of Barzillai the Gil'adite show thou kindness, and let them be of those that eat at thy table; for so they came near to me when I fled from before Abshalom thy brother.

8 And, behold, thou hast with thee Shim'i the son of Gera, the Benjamite of Bachurim, who cursed me with a grievous curse on the day when I went to Machanayim; but who came down to meet me at the Jordan, and I swore to him by the LORD, saying, I will not put thee to death with the sword.

9 But now leave him not unpunished; for thou art a wise man: know then what thou oughtest to do unto him, and bring thou down his hoary head with blood to the grave.

10 And David slept[a] with his fathers, and was buried in the city of David.

11 And the days that David reigned over Israel were forty years: in Hebron he reigned seven years, and in Jerusalem he reigned thirty and three years.

12 Then sat Solomon upon the throne of David his father; and his kingdom was established greatly.

13 ¶ And Adoniyah the son of Chaggith came to Bath-sheba' the mother of Solomon: and she said, Is thy coming for peace? And he said, For peace.

14 He said moreover, I have a word for thee. And she said, Speak.

15 And he said, Thou well knowest that mine was the kingdom, and that on me all Israel had set their faces, that I should reign: nevertheless the kingdom was turned about, and became my brother's; for from the LORD was it (made) his.

16 And now there is one petition I am going to ask of thee, do not turn me away. And she said unto him, Speak.

17 And he said, Speak, I pray thee, unto Solomon the king, (for he will not turn thee away,) that he may give me Abishag the Shunammite for wife.

18 And Bath-sheba' said, Well: I will speak for thee unto the king.

19 Bath-sheba' thereupon went unto king Solomon, to speak unto him for Adoniyah; and the king rose up to meet her, and bowed himself unto her, and then sat down on his throne, and placed a chair for the king's mother; and she sat on his right hand.

20 Then said she, There is one small petition I am going to ask of thee: do not turn me away. And the king said unto her, Ask

[a] Lit. "lay with," or "laid himself down." Abarbanel well observes, that this expression does not mean the association of the bodies after death, since David was not buried in the family sepulchre at Hebron; but the spiritual association after our decease. (Compare with Deut. xxxi. 16.)

on. my mother; for I will not turn thee away.

21 And she said, Let Abishag the Shunammite be given to Adoniyah thy brother for wife.

22 And king Solomon answered and said unto his mother, And why dost thou ask Abishag the Shunammite for Adoniyah? rather[a] ask for him the kingdom; for he is my elder brother;—even for him, and for Ebyathar the priest, and for Joäb the son of Zeruyah.

23 ¶ Then swore king Solomon by the LORD, saying, May God do so to me, and may he thus continue, if Adoniyah have not spoken this word against his own life.

24 And now, as the LORD liveth, who hath established me, and seated me on the throne of David my father, and who hath made me a house, as he hath spoken, this very day shall Adoniyah be put to death.

25 And king Solomon sent by the hand[b] of Benayahu the son of Yehoyada'; and he fell upon him so that he died.

26 ¶ And unto Ebyathar the priest said the king, Go to 'Anathoth, unto thy own fields; for thou art a man worthy of death; but on this day will I not put thee to death; because thou hast borne the ark of the Lord Eternal before David my father, and because thou wast afflicted in all wherein my father was afflicted.

27 So Solomon banished Ebyathar that he should not be priest unto the LORD, to fulfil the word of the LORD, which he had spoken concerning the house of 'Eli in Shiloh.[c]

28 ¶ And the report came to Joäb; for Joäb had turned after Adoniyah, though he had not turned after Abshalom. And Joäb fled unto the tabernacle of the LORD, and caught hold on the horns of the altar.

29 And it was told to king Solomon that Joäb had fled unto the tabernacle of the LORD; and that, behold, he was close by the altar. Then sent Solomon Benayahu the son of Yehoyada', saying, Go, fall upon him.

30 And Benayahu came to the tabernacle of the LORD, and said unto him, Thus hath said the king, Come forth. And he said, No; but here will I die. And Benayahu brought the king word again, saying, Thus hath Joäb spoken, and thus hath he answered me.

31 Then said the king unto him, Do as he hath spoken, and fall upon him, and bury him; and remove (thus) the innocent blood, which Joäb hath shed, from me, and from the house of my father.

32 And may the LORD bring back his blood-guiltiness upon his own head, because he fell upon two men more righteous and better than he, and slew them with the sword, while my father David knew it not, Abner the son of Ner, the captain of the army of Israel, and 'Amassa the son of Yether, the captain of the army of Judah.

33 And their blood shall return upon the head of Joäb, and upon the head of his seed for ever; but unto David, and unto his seed, and unto his house, and unto his throne, may there be peace for ever from the LORD.

34 So Benayahu the son of Yehoyada' went up, and fell upon him, and slew him: and he was buried in his own house in the wilderness.

35 And the king appointed Benayahu the son of Yehoyada' in his place over the army; and Zadok the priest did the king appoint in the place of Ebyathar.

36 ¶ And the king sent and called for Shim'i, and said unto him, Build thee a house in Jerusalem, and dwell there, and thou shalt not go forth from there hither or thither.

37 And it shall be, that on the day thou goest out, and passest over the brook Kidron, thou shalt know for certain that thou shalt surely die: thy blood shall be upon thy own head.

38 And Shim'i said unto the king, It[d] is

[a] The demanding of the relict of David, though she never was actually his wife, showed that Adoniyah entertained some hopes of reaching the throne through her, after the custom of the orientals. Solomon, therefore, told his mother that she might as well have asked at once to constitute Adoniyah as king, and bring back to power his followers.

[b] "Through the hand" means the message was sent by Benayahu, who saw the decree executed.

[c] This was for having taken part with Adoniyah; but by it a remarkable prophecy was fulfilled. God had told 'Eli (1 Sam. ii. 30–36) that the high-priesthood should depart from his house: Ebyathar was the last high-priest of Ithamar, of which family also was 'Eli the judge. Zadok, who succeeded, was of the family of Elazar; and by this change the high-priesthood reverted to its ancient channel.

[d] Lit. "the thing is good."

well: as my lord the king hath spoken, so will thy servant do. And Shim'i dwelt in Jerusalem many days.

39 ¶ And it came to pass at the end of three years, that two servants of Shim'i ran away unto Achish the son of Ma'achah the king of Gath: and they told unto Shim'i, saying, Behold, thy servants are in Gath.

40 And Shim'i arose, and saddled his ass, and went to Gath to Achish to seek his servants; and Shim'i went, and brought his servants from Gath.

41 ¶ And it was told to Solomon that Shim'i had gone from Jerusalem to Gath, and had returned.

42 And the king sent and called for Shim'i, and said unto him, Did I not make thee swear by the LORD, and warned thee, saying, On the day thou goest out, and walkest abroad hither or thither, know for certain that thou shalt surely die? and thou saidst unto me, It is well, I have heard?[a]

43 Why then hast thou not kept the oath of the LORD, and the commandment with which I charged thee?

44 The king said moreover to Shim'i, Thou well knowest all the wickedness of which thy heart is conscious, that thou hast done to David my father: and the LORD bringeth back thy wickedness upon thy own head;

45 But king Solomon will be blessed, and the throne of David will be established before the LORD for ever.

46 So the king commanded Benayahu the son of Yehoyada', who went out, and fell upon him, so that he died. And the kingdom was established in the hand of Solomon.

CHAPTER III.

1 ¶ And Solomon intermarried with Pharaoh the king of Egypt, and took the daughter of Pharaoh, and brought her into the city of David, until he had finished building his own house, and the house of the LORD, and the wall of Jerusalem round about.

2 But the people sacrificed still on the high-places; because there was no house built unto the name of the LORD, until those days.

3 ¶ And Solomon loved the LORD, walking in the statutes of David his father: only that he sacrificed and burnt incense on the high-places.

4 And the king went to Gib'on to sacrifice there; for that was the great high-place: one thousand burnt-offerings did Solomon offer upon that altar.

5 ¶ In Gib'on the LORD appeared to Solomon in a dream of the night: and God said, Ask what I shall give thee.

6 And Solomon said, Thou hast shown unto thy servant David my father great kindness, just as he walked before thee in truth, and in righteousness, and in uprightness of heart with thee; and thou hast kept for him this great kindness, and thou hast given him a son who sitteth on his throne, as it is this day.

7 And now, O LORD my God, thou hast made thy servant king in the place of David my father: and I am but a young lad; I know not how to go out or come in.

8 And thy servant is in the midst of thy people which thou hast chosen, a great people, that cannot be numbered nor counted for multitude.

9 Give therefore thy servant an understanding heart to judge thy people, to discern between good and bad; for who would (otherwise) be able to judge this thy great[b] people?

10 And the speech was pleasing in the eyes of the Lord, that Solomon had asked this thing.

11 And God said unto him, Because thou hast asked this thing, and hast not asked for thyself long life;[c] and hast not asked for thyself riches, nor hast asked the life of thy enemies; but hast asked for thyself discernment to understand (how to give) judgment:

12 Behold, I have done according to thy word; lo, I have given thee a wise and a discerning heart; so that like unto thee there was none before thee, nor after thee shall any one arise like unto thee.

13 And also what thou hast not asked have I given thee, both riches, and honour: so that like unto thee there shall not have been any one among the kings all thy days.

14 And if thou wilt walk in my ways, to keep my statutes and my commandments, as

[a] Herxheimer, "I obey." Philippson, "Well, I have heard the word."

[b] After Jonathan. Arnheim, "powerful;" Rashi, "troublesome."

[c] Heb. "many days."

thy father David did walk, then will I lengthen thy days.

15 ¶ And Solomon awoke, and, behold, it was a dream; and he went to Jerusalem, and stood before the ark of the covenant of the LORD, and offered up burnt-offerings, and prepared peace-offerings, and made a feast to all his servants.

16 ¶ Then came there two women, that were harlots, unto the king, and placed themselves before him.

17 And the one woman said, Pardon, my lord, I and this woman dwell in one house; and I was delivered of a child with her in the house.

18 And it came to pass on the third day after I was delivered, that also this woman was delivered: and we were together, there was no stranger with us in the house, only we two were in the house.

19 And this woman's son died in the night; because she had overlaid him.

20 And she arose in the midst of the night, and took my son from beside me, while thy handmaid slept, and laid him in her bosom, and her dead son she laid in my bosom.

21 And when I rose in the morning to give my son suck, behold, he was dead; but when I looked at him carefully in the morning, behold, it was not my son, whom I had born.

22 And the other woman said, It is not so;[a] my son is the living one, and thy son is the dead; and this one said, It is not so; thy son is the dead, and my son is the living: thus they spoke before the king.

23 Then said the king, This one saith, This is my son that liveth, and thy son is dead: and the other saith, It is not so; thy son is the dead, and my son is the living.

24 And the king said, Fetch me a sword: and they brought the sword before the king.

25 And the king said, Hew the living child in two, and give the one half to one, and the other half to the other.

26 Then spoke the woman whose son was the living unto the king, for her love[b] had become enkindled for her son, and she said, O pardon, my lord, give her the living child, and only do not slay it; but the other said, Neither mine nor thine shall it be, hew it asunder.

27 The king then answered and said, Give her the living child, and do not slay it: she is its mother.

28 And when all Israel heard of the judgment which the king had given,[c] they feared the king; for they saw that the wisdom of God was in him, to exercise justice.

CHAPTER IV.

1 Thus was king Solomon king over all Israel.

2 ¶ And these were the princes whom he had: 'Azaryahu the son of Zadok the priest;

3 Elichoreph and Achiyah, the sons of Shisha, scribes; Jehoshaphat the son of Achilud, the recorder;

4 And Benayahu the son of Yehoyada' over the army; and Zadok and Ebyathar priests;

5 And Azaryahu the son of Nathan was over the superintendents; and Zabud the son of Nathan was an officer of state and the king's friend;

6 And Achishar was over the household; and Adoniram the son of 'Abda was over the tribute.

7 ¶ And Solomon had twelve superintendents over all Israel, who provided for the king and his household: one month in the year had the particular one to procure provisions.

8 And these are their names: Ben-chur on the mountain of Ephraim;

9 Ben-deker, in Makaz, and in Sha'albim, and Beth-shemesh, and Elon-beth-chanan;

10 Ben-chessed, in Arubboth; to him pertained Sochoh and all the land of Chepher;

11 Ben-abinadab, in all the district of Dor; he had Taphath the daughter of Solomon for wife;

12 ¶ Ba'ana the son of Achilud in Tha'anach and Megiddo, and all Beth-shean, which is by Zarethanah beneath Yizre'el, from Beth-shean to Abel-mecholah, as far as beyond Yokme'am;

13 ¶ Ben-geber, in Ramoth-gil'ad; to him pertained the villages of Ya'ir the son of Menasseh, which are in Gil'ad; to him also pertained the region of Argob, which is in Bashan, sixty great cities with walls and brazen bars;

[a] After Jonathan; others, "No; but," &c.

[b] Lit. "merey."

[c] Lit. "judged."

14 ¶ Achinadab the son of 'Iddo in Machanayim;

15 ¶ Achima'az in Naphtali; he also took Bahsemath the daughter of Solomon for wife;

16 ¶ Ba'anah the son of Chushai in Asher and in Be'aloth;

17 ¶ Jehoshaphat the son of Paruach, in Issachar;

18 ¶ Shim'i the son of Ela, in Benjamin;

19 ¶ Geber the son of Uri in the country of Gil'ad, the country of Sichon the king of the Emorites, and of 'Og the king of Bashan; besides[a] the one superintendent who was in the land.

20 Judah and Israel were numerous, as the sand which is by the sea in multitude; and they ate and drank, and made merry.

CHAPTER V.

1[b] And Solomon was ruling over all the kingdoms from the river unto the land of the Philistines, and as far as the boundary of Egypt, which brought presents, and served Solomon all the days of his life.

2 ¶ And Solomon's provision for one day was thirty kors[c] of fine flour, and sixty kors of meal,

3 Ten fatted oxen, and twenty pasture oxen, and a hundred sheep, besides harts, and roebucks, and fallowdeer, and fatted fowl.

4 For he had dominion over all the region on this side the river, from Thiphsach even to Gazzah, over all the kings on this side the river: and he had peace on all sides round about him.

5 And Judah and Israel dwelt in safety, every man under his vine and under his figtree, from Dan even to Bcër-sheba', all the days of Solomon.

6 ¶ And Solomon had forty thousand stalls for the horses for his chariots, and twelve thousand horsemen.

7 And those superintendents provided for king Solomon, and for all that came near unto king Solomon's table, every man in his month: they let nothing be wanting.

8 The barley also and the straw for the horses and the runners[d] did they bring unto the place where he might be, every man according to his prescription.

9 ¶ And God gave unto Solomon wisdom and understanding exceedingly much, and largeness[e] of heart, even as the sand that is on the sea-shore.

10 And Solomon's wisdom excelled the wisdom of all the children of the east country, and all the wisdom of Egypt.

11 And he was wiser than all men; than Ethan the Ezrachite, and Heman, and Kalkol, and Darda', the sons of Machol: and his name was (spread) among all the nations round about.

12 And he spoke three thousand proverbs; and his songs were a thousand and five.

13 And he spoke concerning the trees, from the cedar-tree that is on the Lebanon even unto the hyssop that springeth out of the wall; he spoke also concerning the beasts, and concerning the fowl, and concerning the creeping things, and concerning the fishes.

14 And men came from all the people to hear the wisdom of Solomon, from all the kings of the earth, who had heard of his wisdom.

15 ¶ And Hiram[f] the king of Tyre sent his servants unto Solomon; for he had heard that they had anointed him king in the room of his father; for Hiram had all the time been a lover of David.

16 ¶ And Solomon sent to Hiram, saying,

17 Thou well knowest of David my father, that he was not able to build a house unto the name of the LORD his God, on account of the war wherewith his enemies encompassed him, until the LORD had put them under the soles of his feet.

18 But now hath the LORD my God given me rest on every side, there is neither adversary nor evil hinderance.

19 And, behold, I purpose to build a house unto the name of the LORD my God, as the LORD hath spoken unto David my father, saying, Thy son, whom I will place in thy room upon thy throne, he it is that shall build the house unto my name.

[a] Rashi. There is a doubt concerning this officer; some suppose it refers to 'Azaryahu, son of Nathan, (ver. 5,) and others, to a thirteenth officer not named, who had to furnish supplies in the thirteenth month of a leap-year.

[b] The English version commences chapter v. only at our verse 15.

[c] A certain measure, said to be about 9⅜ Prussian bushels, or about 14½ imperial ones.

[d] A species of fleet horses. Others render, "dromedaries."

[e] i. e. "Extensive knowledge."

[f] Correctly, Chiram.

20 And now command thou that they hew me cedar-trees out of Lebanon; and my servants shall be with thy servants; and the wages of thy servants will I give unto thee in accordance with all that thou wilt say; for thou well knowest that there is not among us a man that hath the skill to hew timber like unto the Zidonians.

21 ¶ And it came to pass, when Hiram heard the words of Solomon, that he rejoiced greatly; and he said, Blessed be the LORD this day, who hath given unto David a wise son over this numerous people.

22 And Hiram sent to Solomon, saying, I have heard what thou hast sent to me for: I will gladly execute all thy desire in respect of timber of cedar, and in respect of timber of fir.

23 My servants shall bring them down from the Lebanon unto the sea: and I will convey them by sea in floats unto the place of which thou wilt send me word, and I will cause them to be taken apart there, and thou shalt take them away; and thou shalt accomplish my desire, in giving the food for my household.

24 So Hiram gave Solomon cedar-trees and fir-trees, all his desire.

25 And Solomon gave Hiram twenty thousand kors of wheat as provision for his household, and twenty kors of beaten oil: thus did Solomon give to Hiram year by year.

26 ¶ And the LORD gave wisdom unto Solomon, as he had spoken to him; and there was peace between Hiram and Solomon; and they made a covenant with each other.

27 And king Solomon raised a levy out of all Israel; and the levy was thirty thousand men.

28 And he sent them into the Lebanon, ten thousand in each month by turns; one month they used to be in the Lebanon, two months at home: and Adoniram was over the levy.

29 ¶ And there belonged to Solomon seventy thousand bearers of burdens, and eighty thousand stone-cutters in the mountains;

30 Besides the chiefs who[a] were appointed by Solomon over the work, three thousand and three hundred, who ruled over the people that wrought on the work.

31 And when the king commanded, they quarried out great stones, heavy stones, to lay the foundation of the house, and hewn stones.

32 And the builders of Solomon, and the builders of Hiram, and the Giblites hewed them; and so they prepared the wood and the stones to build the house.

CHAPTER VI.

1 ¶ And it came to pass, in the four hundred and eightieth year after the going forth of the children of Israel out of the land of Egypt, in the fourth year, in the month Ziv, which is the second month, of the reign of Solomon over Israel, that he built[b] the house unto the LORD.

2 And the house which king Solomon built unto the LORD, was sixty cubits in length, and twenty in breadth, and thirty cubits in height.

3 And the porch before the temple of the house, was twenty cubits in length, in front of the breadth of the house; and ten cubits in breadth at the east side of the house.

4 And he made for the house windows wide without and narrow within.[c]

5 And he built on the wall of the house a gallery round about, on the walls of the house round about, of the temple and of the most holy place: and he made side-chambers round about.

6 The nethermost gallery was five cubits in breadth, and the middle was six cubits in breadth, and the third was seven cubits in breadth; for projections[d] had he made to the house round about on the outside, so as to fasten nothing in the walls of the house.

7 And the house, when it was in building, was built of entire stones as they had been prepared at the quarry: so that neither hammer, nor axe, nor any tool of iron was heard in the house, while it was in building.

8 The door for the middle[e] (gallery) side-chamber was in the right side of the house:

[a] Others, "the chiefs of Solomon's officers who were."
[b] i. e. Commenced to build.
[c] Wesseli renders, "windows transparent when closed," or "glass windows." Jonathan, "narrow without and wide within."
[d] Lit. מנרעות means "diminutions," i. e. the wall diminished in thickness one cubit each at the end of the first and second stories, on which projection thus formed the beams of the galleries were laid.
[e] Jonathan renders, "the lowermost gallery."

and with winding stairs they went up into the middle chamber, and out of the middle into the third.

9 So he built the house, and finished it; and covered the house with hollow tiles,[a] and with[b] boards of cedar.

10 And he built the gallery against all the house, (each) five cubits in height; and it was fastened on to the house with timber of cedar.[c]

11 ¶ And the word of the LORD came to Solomon, saying,

12 This house which thou art building—if thou wilt walk in my statutes, and execute my ordinances, and keep all my commandments to walk in them: then will I perform my word with thee, which I have spoken unto David thy father.

13 And I will dwell in the midst of the children of Israel, and I will not forsake my people Israel.

14 ¶ So did Solomon build the house, and finish it.

15 And he built the walls of the house within with boards of cedar; from the floor of the house to where the walls touched the ceiling did he overlay it on the inside with wood; and he overlaid the floor of the house with boards of fir.

16 And he built the twenty cubits on the lower side of the house with boards of cedar, from the floor to the battlements; and he built it within, for the debir,[d] for the holy of holies.

17 And the house, that is, the temple before it, was forty cubits long.

18 And the cedar on the house within was carved with colocynths and opening flowers: all was cedar, no stone was seen.

19 And the debir in the house within did he prepare, to set therein the ark of the covenant of the LORD.

20 And the interior of the debir was twenty cubits in length, and twenty cubits in breadth, and twenty cubits was its height: and he overlaid it with pure gold; and he overlaid the altar with cedar-wood.

21 And Solomon overlaid the house within with pure gold: and he barred by means of chains of gold the front of the debir; and he overlaid it with gold.

22 And the whole house he overlaid with gold, until all the house was finished: also the whole altar that was before the debir did he overlay with gold.

23 And within the debir he made two cherubims of oleaster-wood,[e] each ten cubits high.

24 And five cubits was the one wing of the cherub, and five cubits the other wing of the cherub: (there were) ten cubits from the uttermost part of the one wing unto the uttermost part of the other.

25 And the other cherub was also ten cubits: both the cherubim were of one measure and one form.

26 The height of the one cherub was ten cubits, and so that of the other cherub.

27 And he set the cherubim within the innermost part of the house: and they spread forth the wings of the cherubim, so that the wing of the one touched the one wall, and the wing of the other cherub touched the other wall; and their wings toward the middle of the house touched one another.

28 And he overlaid the cherubim with gold.

29 And on all the wall of the house round about he carved figures of cherubim and palm-trees and opening flowers, in the debir and in the temple.

30 And the floor of the house he overlaid with gold for the debir and for the temple.

31 And for the entrance of the debir he made doors of oleaster-wood: the lintel with the side-posts forming five sides.[f]

32 And also upon the two doors of oleaster-wood he carved figures of cherubim and palm-trees and opening flowers, and overlaid them

[b] Arnheim, from כרר "order," i. e. of columns, "and the columnar-hall with cedar-wood." Philippson, "and he covered the house with slats, and beams of cedar."

[c] Rashi, "and he fastened the house," &c. Philippson, "and he encased the house," &c. Our version is after Ralbag.

[d] דביר can scarcely be translated except with the harsh expression, "speaking-place, the spot for revealing;" wherefore we have left it, with Herxheimer, untranslated. The English version has "oracle," evidently not a good word.

[e] i. e. The wild olive. Lit. "oil-trees;" but Jonathan, "olive-trees."

[f] After Rashi, who explains that the lintel was not straight, but formed an angle: hence the base and side-posts with the lintel formed a pentagon, or five-sided opening ⏢ with gold, and spread the gold, by beating, upon the cherubim, and upon the palm-trees.

33 So also made he for the entrance of the temple door-posts of oleaster-wood in shape of a square;

34 And two doors of fir-wood: the one door having two leaves which were folding, and the other door having two leaves which were folding.[a]

35 And he carved thereon cherubim, and palm-trees and opening flowers: and he overlaid them with gold fitting upon the carved work.

36 And he built the inner court of three rows of hewn stone, and one row of cedar beams.

37 In the fourth year was the foundation of the house of the LORD laid, in the month Ziv;

38 And in the eleventh year, in the month Bul, which is the eighth month, was the house finished throughout all its parts, and according to all its requirements. So was he building it seven years.

CHAPTER VII.

1 But his own house was Solomon building thirteen years, and then he finished all his house.

2 He built also the house of the forest of Lebanon: a hundred cubits was its length, and fifty cubits was its breadth, and thirty cubits was its height, upon four rows of cedar pillars, with cedar beams upon the pillars.

3 And it was covered with cedar above over the beams,[b] that lay on the forty-five pillars, fifteen in a row.

4 And there were window-spaces in three rows, and windows were opposite each other in three ranks.

5 And all the entrances and door-posts formed a square in shape: and windows were opposite windows in three ranks.

6 And he made a porch of pillars: fifty cubits was its length, and thirty cubits its breadth; and the porch was before them; and the other pillars with an entablature[c] before them.

7 Then he made a porch for the throne where he might judge, the porch of judgment: and it was covered with cedar from one side of the floor to the other.

8 And his house where he dwelt in another court within the porch, was of the like work: and Solomon made also a house for Pharaoh's daughter, whom he had taken for wife, like unto this porch.

9 All these were of heavy stones, hewn after a fixed measure, sawed with the saw inside and outside, even from the foundation unto the coping, and from the outside unto the great court.

10 And the foundation was of heavy stones, large stones, stones of ten cubits, and stones of eight cubits.

11 And above were heavy stones, hewn after a fixed measure, and cedars.

12 And the great court round about was of three rows of hewn stones, and one row of cedar beams, both for the inner court of the house of the LORD, and for the porch of the house.

13 ¶ And king Solomon sent and fetched Hiram out of Tyre.

14 He was the son of a widow of the tribe of Naphtali, and his father was a man of Tyre, a worker in copper: and he was filled with wisdom, and understanding, and knowledge, to make every work in copper; and he came to king Solomon, and did all his work.

15 And he cast the two pillars of copper, eighteen cubits was the height of the one pillar;[d] and a line of twelve cubits did encompass the second pillar.

16 And he made two capitals, to set upon the tops of the pillars, of molten copper; five cubits was the height of the one capital, and five cubits was the height of the other capital;

17 And nets of checker-work, and wreaths of chain-work, for the capitals which were upon the top of the pillars; seven for the one capital, and seven for the other capital.

18 And he made the pillars, so that two rows of pomegranates were round about upon the one net-work, to cover the capitals that [a] גלילים lit. "revolving," i. e. on their own hinges.

[b] Some render, "above the chambers which rested on the pillars, which chambers were forty-five," &c.

[c] Philippson, "and the porch was in front, also columns and a stairway in front." But עב is considered by the Rabbins as thick beams, forming cornices over the columns, as rendered here.

[d] The height is given of one pillar, and the circumference of the other; though both were alike.

were upon the top: and the same he made for the other capital.

19 And the capitals, that were upon the top of the pillars, furnished with lily-work, (as) those in the porch, were four cubits.

20 And the capitals[a] upon the two pillars rose also above, close by the rounding which was on the side of the net-work: and the pomegranates were two hundred, in rows round about, upon either[b] capital.

21 And he set up the pillars for the porch of the temple; and he set up the right pillar, and called its name Yachin; and he set up the left pillar, and called its name Boäz.

22 And upon the top of the pillars there was lily-work: and so was finished the work of the pillars.

23 ¶ And he made the molten sea, ten cubits from the one brim to the other, rounded all about, and it was five cubits in height: and a line of thirty cubits did encompass it round about.

24 And colocynth-shaped knobs were under its brim round about encompassing it, ten in a cubit, encircling the sea round about: the colocynths were in two rows, and were cast (with it) when it was cast.

25 It was standing upon twelve oxen, three looking toward the north, and three looking toward the west, and three looking toward the south, and three looking toward the east; and the sea was resting above upon them, and all their hinder parts were inward.

26 And its thickness was a hand's breadth, and its brim was wrought like the brim of a cup, with lily-buds: it could contain two thousand baths.

27 ¶ And he made ten bases of copper: four cubits was the length of each one base, and four cubits its breadth, and three cubits its height.

28 And this was the workmanship of the bases: They had borders, and the borders were between the corner ledges;

29 And on the borders that were between the ledges were lions, oxen, and cherubim; and upon the corner ledges it was thus also[c] above; and likewise beneath the lions and oxen were pendant wreaths of plated work.[d]

30 And every base had four copper wheels, and axles of copper; and its four corners had undersetters: under the laver were the undersetters cast on; at the side of each were pendants.

31 And its mouth[e] was within the capital and above a cubit in height; but the mouth of this was rounded after the work of the base, a cubit and a half-cubit; and also upon its mouth were carvings; and their borders were square, not rounded.

32 And the four wheels were under the borders; and the axletrees of the wheels were joined to the base: and the height of each one wheel was a cubit and a half cubit.

33 And the workmanship of the wheels was like the workmanship of a chariot-wheel: their axletrees, and their naves,[f] and their felloes, and their spokes, were all cast.

34 And there were four undersetters to the four corners of each one base; the undersetters were of one piece with the base itself.

35 And on the top of the base was a rounded compass of half a cubit high: and on the top of the base were its side-ledges; and its borders were of one piece with itself.

36 And he engraved on the plates of its side-ledges and on its borders, cherubim, lions, and palm-trees: and in the open space of every one were pendant wreaths[g] round about.

37 After this manner did he make the ten bases: one casting, one measure, one form, was there for all of them.

38 ¶ Then made he ten lavers of copper; forty baths could each one laver contain; every laver was four cubits: each one laver was upon each one base of the ten bases.

39 And he put the bases, five on the right side of the house, and five on the left side of the house: and the sea he set on the right side of the house eastward opposite[h] the south.

[c] Rashi renders כן "there was a pedestal above," viz. for the laver to rest on.

[d] Philippson, "Also beneath were oxen and lions soldered on, of plated work;" לית thus, after Jonathan, "fastened on."

40 ¶ And Hiram made the lavers, and the shovels, and the basins; so Hiram made an end of doing all the work that he made for king Solomon for the house of the LORD:

41 The two pillars, and the two bowl-shaped capitals that were on the top of the two pillars; and the two net-works, to cover the two bowl-shaped capitals which were upon the top of the pillars;

42 And the four hundred pomegranates for the two net-works, two rows of pomegranates for each one net-work, to cover the two bowl-shaped capitals that were upon the front[a] of the pillars;

43 And the ten bases, and the ten lavers upon the bases;

44 And the one sea, and the twelve oxen under the sea;

45 And the pots, and the shovels, and the basins; and all these vessels, which Hiram had made for king Solomon for the house of the LORD, were of polished copper.

46 In the plain of the Jordan did the king cast them, in the clay-ground[b] between Succoth and Zarethan.

47 And Solomon set down all the vessels (unweighed), because they were exceedingly many: the weight of the copper was not inquired into.

48 And Solomon made all the vessels that pertained unto the house of the LORD: The altar of gold, and the table whereupon the show-bread was, of gold,

49 And the candlesticks, five on the right side, and five on the left, before the debir,[c] of pure gold, with the flowers, and the lamps, and the tongs of gold,

50 And the bowls, and the knives,[d] and the basins, and the spoons, and the censers of pure gold; and the hinges, for the doors of the inner house, for the holy of holies, for the doors of the house, and for the temple, (were) of gold.

51 ¶ And so was ended all the work that king Solomon made for the house of the LORD: and Solomon brought in the things sanctified by David his father, the silver, and the gold, and the vessels, (and) he placed (these) in the treasuries of the house of the LORD.

CHAPTER VIII.

1 ¶ Then did Solomon assemble the elders of Israel, and all the heads of the tribes, the princes of the divisions of the children of Israel, unto king Solomon in Jerusalem, to bring up the ark of the covenant of the LORD out of the city of David, which is Zion.

2 And all the men of Israel assembled themselves unto king Solomon at the feast[e] in the month Ethanim, which is the seventh month.

3 And all the elders of Israel came, and the priests took up the ark.

4 And they brought up the ark of the LORD, and the tabernacle of the congregation, and all the holy vessels that were in the tabernacle: even these did the priests and the Levites bring up.

5 And king Solomon, and all the congregation of Israel, that were assembled unto him, were with him before the ark, sacrificing sheep and oxen, that could not be told nor numbered for multitude.

6 And the priests brought in the ark of the covenant of the LORD unto its place, into the debir of the house, into the most holy place, under the wings of the cherubim.

7 For the cherubim spread forth their wings over the place of the ark, and the cherubim covered the ark and its staves from above.

8 And they had made the staves so long, that the ends of the staves were seen out in the holy place in the front of the debir, but they were not seen without;[f] and they have remained there until this day.

9 There was nothing in the ark save the two tables of stone, which Moses had placed therein at Horeb, where the LORD made (a) covenant with the children of Israel, when they came out of the land of Egypt.

10 And it came to pass, when the priests were come out of the holy place, that the cloud filled the house of the LORD:

11 And the priests were not able to stand

[a] Meaning, which were visible when in front.
[b] Lit. "in thick" or "solid earth."
[c] Rendered "the most holy place," in vi. 5.
[d] Eng. ver. "snuffers." Rashi supposes מזמרות and כפות to be particular musical instruments.

[e] The Feast of Tabernacles, celebrated in the month of Tishry, formerly Ethanim.
[f] The staves which Moses had made to carry the ark, had been made longer than before, and they just touched the curtain, so as to be merely perceptible on the outside.

to minister because of the cloud; for the glory of the LORD had filled the house of the LORD.

12 ¶ Then said Solomon, The LORD said that he would dwell in the thick darkness.

13 I have indeed built a dwelling-house for thee, a settled place for thy abode for ever.

14 And the king turned his face about, and blessed all the congregation of Israel; and all the congregation of Israel was standing;

15 And he said, Blessed be the LORD, the God of Israel, who spoke with his mouth unto David my father, and hath with his hand fulfilled it, when he said,

16 Since the day that I brought forth my people Israel out of Egypt, I did not make choice of any city out of all the tribes of Israel to build a house, that my name might be therein; but I made choice of David to be over my people Israel.

17 And it was in the heart of David my father to build a house for the name of the LORD, the God of Israel.

18 But the LORD said unto David my father, Whereas it was in thy heart to build a house unto my name, thou didst well that it was in thy heart:

19 Nevertheless, thou shalt not thyself build the house; but thy son that shall come forth out of thy loins, he shall build the house unto my name.

20 And the LORD hath fulfilled his word that he hath spoken: and I am risen up in the room of David my father, and I sit on the throne of Israel, as the LORD hath spoken, and I have built the house for the name of the LORD the God of Israel.

21 And I have assigned there a place for the ark, wherein is the covenant of the LORD, which he made with our fathers, when he brought them forth out of the land of Egypt.

22 ¶ And Solomon now placed himself before the altar of the LORD in the presence of all the congregation of Israel, and spread forth his hands toward heaven;

23 And he said, O LORD, the God of Israel, there is no god like thee, in the heavens above, and on the earth beneath, thou who keepest the covenant and the kindness for thy servants that walk before thee with all their heart;

24 Who hast kept for thy servant David my father what thou hadst promised him; and thou spokest with thy mouth, and hast fulfilled it with thy hand, as it is this day.

25 And now, O LORD, the God of Israel, keep for thy servant David my father what thou hast spoken concerning him, saying, There shall never fail thee a man in my sight who sitteth on the throne of Israel; if thy children but take heed to their way to walk before me, as thou hast walked before me.

26 And now, O God of Israel, I pray thee, let thy word be verified, which thou hast spoken unto thy servant David my father.

27 For in truth will God then dwell on the earth? behold, the heavens and the heavens of heavens cannot contain thee: how much less then this house that I have built!

28 Yet wilt thou turn thy regard unto the prayer of thy servant, and to his supplication, O LORD my God, to listen unto the entreaty and unto the prayer, which thy servant prayeth before thee to-day;

29 That thy eyes may be open toward this house night and day, toward the place of which thou hast said, My name shall be there; that thou mayest listen unto the prayer which thy servant shall pray at this place.

30 And listen thou to the supplication of thy servant, and of thy people Israel, which they will pray at this place: and oh, do thou hear in heaven thy dwelling-place; and hear, and forgive.

31 If any man trespass against his neighbour, and an oath be laid upon him to cause him to swear, and the oath come before thy altar in this house:

32 Then do thou hear in heaven, and act, and judge thy servants, by condemning the wicked, to bring his way upon his head; and by justifying the righteous, to give him according to his righteousness.

33 ¶ When thy people Israel are struck down before the enemy, because they have sinned against thee, and they return then to thee, and confess thy name, and pray, and make supplication unto thee in this house:

34 Then do thou hear in heaven, and forgive the sin of thy people Israel, and cause them to return unto the land which thou hast given unto their fathers.

35 ¶ When the heavens be shut up, and there be no rain, because they have sinned against thee, and they pray toward this place, and confess thy name, and turn from their sin, because thou hast[a] afflicted them:

36 Then do thou hear in heaven, and forgive the sin of thy servants, and of thy people Israel; for[b] thou wilt teach them the good way wherein they should walk; and give then rain upon thy land, which thou hast given to thy people for an inheritance.

37 ¶ If there be famine in the land, if there be pestilence, blasting, mildew, or if there be locust, caterpillar, if their enemy besiege them in the land in their gates; at whatsoever plague, whatsoever sickness;

38 What prayer and supplication soever be made by any man,[c] of all thy people Israel, when they shall be conscious every man of the plague of his own heart, and he then spread forth his hands toward this house:

39 Then do thou hear in heaven the place of thy dwelling, and forgive, and act, and give to every man in accordance with all his ways, as thou mayest know his heart; for thou, thyself alone, knowest the heart of all the children of men;

40 In order that they may fear thee all the days that they live on the face of the land which thou hast given unto our fathers.

41 But also to the stranger, who is not of thy people Israel, but cometh out of a far-off country for the sake of thy name;

42 For they will hear of thy great name, and of thy strong hand, and of thy outstretched arm; when he will come and pray at[d] this house:

43 Mayest thou listen in heaven the place of thy dwelling, and do according to all that the stranger will call on thee for; in order that all the nations of the earth may know thy name, to fear thee, as (do) thy people Israel; and that they may understand that this house, which I have built, is called by thy name.[e]

44 ¶ If thy people go out to battle against their enemy, on the way on which thou mayest send them, and they do pray unto the LORD in the direction of the city which thou hast chosen, and of the house that I have built for thy name:

45 Then hear thou in heaven their prayer and their supplication, and procure them justice.[f]

46 If they sin against thee, (for there is no man that may not sin,) and thou be angry with them, and give them up before the enemy, so that their captors carry them away captive unto the land of the enemy, (be it) far or near;

47 And if they then take it to their heart in the land whither they have been carried captive, and repent, and make supplication unto thee in the land of their captors, saying, We have sinned, and have committed iniquity, we have acted wickedly;

48 And they return unto thee with all their heart, and with all their soul, in the land of their enemies, who have led them away captive, and they pray unto thee in the direction of their land, which thou hast given unto their fathers, of the city which thou hast chosen, and of the house which I have built for thy name:

49 Then hear thou in heaven the place of thy dwelling their prayer and their supplication, and procure them justice;

50 And forgive thy people for what they have sinned against thee, and all their transgressions whereby they have transgressed against thee, and cause them to find mercy before their captors, that they may have mercy on them;

51 For they are thy people, and thy heritage, whom thou hast brought forth out of Egypt, from the midst of the iron furnace;

52 That thy eyes may be open unto the supplication of thy servant, and unto the supplication of thy people Israel, to listen unto them in all for which they call unto thee;

53 For thou hast separated them unto thee as a heritage from all the people of the earth, as thou spokest by the hand of Moses thy servant, when thou broughtest forth our fathers out of Egypt, O Lord Eternal.

54 ¶ And it happened, that, when Solomon

[a] Jonathan, "because thou wilt accept their prayers," taking תינם as derived from ענה, "to answer prayer."

[b] Others, "after thou hast taught them," &c.

[c] Redak, "be it one man, or all thy people Israel."

[d] After Jonathan; though from the context we have rendered אל at times, with "at" in this passage. But the word has been chosen no doubt purposely, to denote that prayer should be said toward the sanctuary, if it should not be possible to pray in it.

[e] Heb. "thy name is called upon this house."

[f] Arnheim, "do for them what they need." (See also v. 49.)

had made an end of praying all this prayer and supplication unto the LORD, he arose from before the altar of the LORD from kneeling on his knees, with his hands spread out toward heaven.

55 And he stood up, and blessed all the congregation of Israel with a loud voice, saying,

56 Blessed be the LORD, who hath given rest unto his people Israel, in accordance with all that he hath spoken: (so that) there hath not failed one word of all his good promise, which he spoke by the hand of Moses his servant.

57 The LORD our God be with us, as he was with our fathers; oh may he not leave us, nor forsake us;

58 That he may incline our heart unto him, to walk in all his ways, and to keep his commandments, and his statutes, and his ordinances, which he commanded our fathers.

59 And may these my words, wherewith I have made supplication before the LORD, be nigh unto the LORD our God day and night, that he may maintain the cause of his servant, and the cause of his people Israel in their daily requirements;[a]

60 In order that all the nations of the earth may know that the LORD is the (true) God, and none else.

61 Let your heart therefore be entire with the LORD our God, to walk in his statutes, and to keep his commandments, as at this day.

62 And the king, and all Israel with him, offered sacrifices before the LORD.

63 And Solomon offered (as) the sacrifice of peace-offering which he offered unto the LORD, two and twenty thousand oxen, and a hundred and twenty thousand sheep. And thus did the king and all the children of Israel dedicate the house of the LORD.

64 On the same day did the king hallow the interior of the court that was before the house of the LORD; for he prepared there the burnt-offerings, and the meat-offerings, and the fat of the peace-offerings; because the copper altar that was before the LORD was too small to contain the burnt-offerings, and the meat-offerings, and the fat of the peace-offerings.

65 And Solomon held at that time the feast,[b] and all Israel with him, a great assembly, from the entrance of Chamath unto the river of Egypt, before the LORD our God, seven days and seven days, even fourteen days.

66 On the eighth day he dismissed the people, and they blessed the king; and they went unto their tents joyful and glad of heart, because of all the good that the LORD had done for David his servant, and for Israel his people.

CHAPTER IX.

1 And it came to pass, when Solomon had finished building the house of the LORD, and the king's house, and all Solomon's desire which he was pleased to execute:

2 ¶ That the LORD appeared to Solomon the second time, as he had appeared unto him at Gib'on.

3 And the LORD said unto him, I have heard thy prayer and thy supplication, that thou hast offered before me; I have hallowed this house, which thou hast built, to put my name there for ever; and my eyes and my heart shall be there at all times.

4 And as for thee, if thou wilt walk before me, as David thy father walked, in integrity of heart, and in rectitude, to do in accordance with all that I have commanded thee, (and) wilt keep my statutes and my ordinances:

5 Then will I establish the throne of thy kingdom over Israel for ever; as I have spoken concerning David thy father, saying, There shall never fail thee a man upon[c] the throne of Israel.

6 But if ye will at all turn away, ye or your children, from following me, and will not keep my commandments (and) my statutes which I have set before you, and go and serve other gods, and bow down to them:

7 Then will I cut off Israel from the face of the land which I have given them; and the house, which I have hallowed unto my name, will I cast away from my sight; and Israel shall be a proverb and a by-word among all the nations;

8 And at this house, (which) should be so exalted, every one that passeth by it shall be astonished, and shall hiss; and men will say, Why hath the LORD done thus unto this land, and unto this house?

[a] Heb. "the thing of a day on its day."

[b] i. e. Of tabernacles.

[c] Lit. "from."

9 And they shall say, For the cause that they forsook the LORD their God, who had brought forth their fathers out of the land of Egypt, and took hold of other gods, and bowed down to them, and served them: therefore hath the LORD brought upon them all this evil.

10 ¶ And it came to pass at the end of twenty years, when Solomon had built the two houses, the house of the LORD, and the king's house,

11 (Now Hiram the king of Tyre had supplied Solomon with cedar-trees and fir-trees, and with gold, according to all his desire,) that king Solomon then gave to Hiram twenty cities in the land of Galilee.

12 And Hiram came out from Tyre to see the cities which Solomon had given him; but they were not right in his eyes.

13 And he said, What kind of cities are these which thou hast given me, my brother? And he called them, The land of Cabul, until this day.

14 ¶ And Hiram sent to the king one hundred and twenty talents of gold.

15 And this is the manner of the levy which king Solomon raised, to build the house of the LORD, and his own house, and the Millo,[a] and the wall of Jerusalem, and Chazor, and Megiddo, and Gezer.

16 (Pharaoh king of Egypt had gone up, and captured Gezer, and burnt it with fire, and slain the Canaanites that dwelt in the city, and given it as a marriage-present unto his daughter, Solomon's wife.

17 And Solomon built Gezer, and lower Beth-choron,

18 And Ba'alath, and Thadmor[b] in the wilderness, in the land,[c]

19 And all the treasure-cities[d] that Solomon had, and the cities for the chariots, and the cities for the horsemen, and the (other) desire of Solomon which he desired to build in Jerusalem, and in Lebanon, and in all the land of his dominion.)

20 All the people that were left of the Emorites, the Hittites, the Perizzites, the Hivites, and the Jebusites, who were not of the children of Israel,

21 Their children that were left after them in the land, whom the children of Israel had not been able utterly to destroy, these did Solomon levy as tributary labourers until this day.

22 Yet of the children of Israel did Solomon make no one a bond-man; but they were the men of war, and his servants, and his princes, and his captains, and the officers of his chariots, and of his horsemen.

23 ¶ These (also) were the chiefs of the superintendents that were over Solomon's work, five hundred and fifty, who ruled over the people that wrought on the work.

24 But Pharaoh's daughter came up out of the city of David unto her house which he had built for her: then did he build the Millo.

25 And Solomon did offer three times in every year burnt-offerings and peace-offerings upon the altar which he had built unto the LORD, and he burnt incense upon the one that was before the LORD. So he finished the house.[f]

26 And king Solomon made a ship[g] in 'Ezyon-geber, which is near Eloth, on the shore of the Red Sea, in the land of Edom.

27 And Hiram sent in the ship his servants, seamen, that had knowledge of the sea, with the servants of Solomon.

28 And they came to Ophir, and fetched from there gold, four hundred and twenty talents, and brought it to king Solomon.

CHAPTER X.

1 ¶ And when the queen of Sheba heard of the fame of Solomon in connection[h] with the name of the LORD, she came to prove him with riddles.

2 And she came to Jerusalem with an exceedingly great train, with camels bearing

[a] Millo is said to have been a deep valley between the ancient city of Jebus, and the city of David on Mount Zion: this Solomon filled up, and built upon; and it became a fortified place, and a place for public assemblies.

[b] The word is written in the Hebrew text Thamar, which is "Palm," the same as Palmyra, the usual name of the place.

[c] Rashi comments, "this means, near the inhabited country."

[d] i. e. Those where the public stores and provisions were kept. (See Exod. i. 11.)

[e] Here recommences the statement of the levy begun in verse 15.

[f] Arnheim, after Ralbag, "he paid his dues to the house," i. e. the necessary sacrifices for the altar.

spices, and gold in great abundance, and precious stones: and when she was come to Solomon, she spoke with him of all that was on her heart.

3 And Solomon solved her all her questions: nothing remained hidden from the king, which he did not tell her.

4 And when the queen of Sheba saw all Solomon's wisdom, and the house that he had built,

5 And the food of his table, and the sitting of his servants, and the attendance of his ministers, and their apparel, and his cupbearers, and his ascent[a] by which he went up unto the house of the LORD: there was no more spirit in her.

6 And she said to the king, The truth only was the word that I heard in my own land of thy acts and of thy wisdom.

7 And I believed not in the words, until I came, and my eyes saw (all): and, behold, the half hath not been told me; thou excellest in wisdom and prosperity the report which I have heard.

8 Happy are thy men, happy are these thy servants, who stand before thee continually, who hear thy wisdom.

9 Blessed be the LORD thy God, who hath had delight in thee, to place thee on the throne of Israel; because the LORD loveth Israel for ever, therefore hath he made thee king, to do justice and righteousness.

10 And she gave to the king one hundred and twenty talents of gold, and of spices a very great store, and precious stones: there came no more spices in such abundance as these which the queen of Sheba gave to king Solomon.

11 And also the ship of Hiram, that fetched gold from Ophir, brought in from Ophir in great abundance sandal-wood[b] and precious stones.

12 And the king made of the sandal-wood a railing for the house of the LORD, and for the king's house, and harps and psalteries for the singers: there came no such sandal-wood, nor was it seen (again) until this day.

13 And king Solomon gave unto the queen of Sheba all her pleasure, whatsoever she asked, beside what Solomon gave her of his royal bounty. So she turned about and went to her own country, she and her servants.

14 ¶ Now the weight of the gold that came to Solomon in one year was six hundred and sixty and six talents of gold,

15 Beside (what he had) of the travelling tradesmen,[c] and of the traffic of the merchants, and of all the kings of confederate nations,[d] and of the governors of the country.

16 And king Solomon made two hundred targets of beaten gold:[e] six hundred shekels of gold he used for each one target.

17 And (he made) three hundred shields of beaten gold; three manehs of gold he used for each one shield: and the king put them in the house of the forest of Lebanon.[f]

18 The king also made a great throne of ivory, and overlaid it with the best gold.

19 The throne had six steps, and there was a round top on the throne behind; and there were arms on either side on the place of the seat, and two lions stood beside the arms.

20 And twelve lions stood there upon the six steps on both sides: there was not the like made in any other kingdom.

21 And all king Solomon's drinking-vessels were of gold, and all the vessels of the house of the forest of Lebanon were of pure gold; none were of silver;[g] it was not valued in the days of Solomon at the least.

22 For the king had a Tharshish-ship[h] at sea with the ship of Hiram: once in three years the Tharshish-ship used to come home, laden with gold, and silver, ivory, and apes, and peacocks.

23 And king Solomon became greater than all the kings of the earth for riches and for wisdom.

24 And (men of) all the earth sought the presence of Solomon to hear his wisdom, which God had put in his heart.

25 And they brought every man his present, vessels of silver, and vessels of gold, and and garments, and armour, and spices, horses, and mules: and so year by year.

26 ¶ And Solomon gathered together chariots and horsemen: and he had a thousand and four hundred chariots, and twelve thousand horsemen, whom he quartered in the cities for chariots, and near the king at Jerusalem.

27 And the king rendered the silver in Jerusalem like stones, and the cedars he rendered like the sycamore-trees that are in the lowlands, for abundance.

28 And Solomon had horses brought out of Egypt; and a company[a] of the king's merchants bought a quantity at a price.

29 And a chariot-team[b] came up and went out of Egypt for six hundred shekels of silver, and a horse for a hundred and fifty: and so for all the kings of the Hittites, and for the kings of Syria, did they bring them out by their means.[c]

CHAPTER XI.

1 ¶ But king Solomon loved many strange women, beside the daughter of Pharaoh, women of the Moäbites, 'Ammonites, Edomites, Zidonians, and Hittites.

2 From the nations concerning which the LORD had said unto the children of Israel, Ye shall not go in among them, nor shall they come in among you; surely they will turn away your heart after their gods: unto these Solomon did cleave to love them.

3 And he had seven hundred wives, princesses, and three hundred concubines: and his wives turned away his heart.

4 And it came to pass, at the time that Solomon was old, that his wives turned away his heart after other gods; and his heart was not undivided with the LORD his God, like the heart of David his father.

5 And Solomon went after 'Ashtoreth the divinity of the Zidonians, and after Milcom the abomination of the 'Ammonites.

6 And Solomon did what is evil in the eyes of the LORD, and went not fully after the LORD, like David his father.

7 ¶ Then did Solomon build a high-place for Kemosh, the abomination of Moäb, on the mount that is before Jerusalem, and for Molech, the abomination of the children of 'Ammon.

8 And so did he for all his strange wives, who burnt incense and sacrificed unto their gods.

9 And the LORD was angry with Solomon; because his heart was turned away from the LORD the God of Israel, who had appeared unto him twice;

10 And had commanded him concerning this thing, that he should not go after other gods; but he did not keep that which the LORD had commanded.

11 ¶ And the LORD said unto Solomon, Forasmuch as this is in thy mind, and thou hast not kept my covenant and my statutes, which I commanded concerning thee: I will surely rend the kingdom from thee, and will give it to thy servant.

12 Nevertheless in thy days will I not do it, for the sake of David thy father; (but) out of the hand of thy son will I rend it.

13 Still all the kingdom will I not rend away: one tribe will I give to thy son on account of David my servant, and on account of Jerusalem which I have chosen.

14 ¶ And the LORD stirred up an adversary unto Solomon, Hadad the Edomite: he was of the king's seed in Edom.

15 It came to pass, namely, when David was in Edom, when Joäb the captain of the army was gone up to bury the slain, after he had smitten every male in Edom;

16 (For six months did Joäb remain there with all Israel, until he he had cut off every male in Edom:)

17 That Hadad fled, he and certain Edomites of his father's servants with him, to go into Egypt; but Hadad was then yet a young lad.

18 And they arose from Midian, and came to Paran; and they took (some) men with them from Paran, and came to Egypt, unto Pharaoh the king of Egypt; who gave him a house, and decreed him a support, and gave him land.

19 And Hadad found great favour in the eyes of Pharaoh, so that he gave him for wife the sister of his own wife, the sister of Thachpeness the queen.

20 And the sister of Thachpeness bore him Genubath his son, whom Thachpeness brought up in Pharaoh's house; and Genubath remained in Pharaoh's house among the sons of Pharaoh.

21 And when Hadad heard in Egypt that David slept with his fathers, and that Joäb the captain of the army was dead: Hadad said to Pharaoh, Dismiss me, that I may go to my own country.

22 Then said Pharaoh unto him, But what dost thou lack with me, that, behold, thou seekest to go to thy own country? And he answered, Nothing: nevertheless thou must let me go away.

23 And God stirred him up (another) adversary, Rezon the son of Elyada', who had fled from Hadad'ezer the king of Zobah his lord;

24 And he gathered around him some men, and became captain over a band, when David slew those (of Zobah); and they went to Damascus, and dwelt therein, and reigned in Damascus.

25 And he was an adversary to Israel all the days of Solomon, beside the mischief that Hadad did: and he abhorred[a] Israel, and reigned over Syria.

26 ¶ Also Jerobo'am[b] the son of Nebat, an Ephrathite of Zeredah, the name of whose mother was Zeru'ah, a widow woman, was a servant of Solomon, and he lifted up his hand against the king.

27 And this was the occasion that he lifted up his hand against the king: Solomon built up the Millo,[c] and closed up the breach of the city of David his father.

28 And the man Jerobo'am was a mighty man of valour: and Solomon seeing the young man that he was (also) an industrious worker, he appointed him over all the charge of the house of Joseph.

29 ¶ And it came to pass at that time when Jerobo'am went out of Jerusalem, that the prophet Achiyah the Shilonite found him on the way; and he had clad himself with a new garment; and these two were alone by themselves in the field;

30 And Achiyah caught hold of the new garment that was on him, and rent it in twelve pieces;

31 And he said to Jerobo'am, Take thee ten pieces; for thus hath said the LORD, the God of Israel, Behold, I will rend the kingdom out of the hand of Solomon, and I will give to thee the ten tribes;

32 But the one tribe shall remain for him, on account of my servant David, and on account of Jerusalem, the city which I have chosen out of all the tribes of Israel;

33 For the cause that they have forsaken me, and have bowed down to 'Ashtoreth the divinity of the Zidonians, to Kemosh the god of Moäb, and to Milcom the god of the children of 'Ammon, and have not walked in my ways, to do what is right in my eyes, and my statutes and my ordinances, like David his father.

34 Nevertheless will I not take the whole kingdom out of his hand; but I will let him remain prince all the days of his life for the sake of David my servant, whom I chose, who kept my commandments and my statutes;

35 But I will take the kingdom out of the hand of his son, and I will give it unto thee, even the ten tribes.

36 And unto his son will I give one tribe; so that there may remain a government[d] for David my servant at all times before me in Jerusalem, the city which I have chosen for me, to put my name there.

37 But thee will I take, and thou shalt reign over all that thy soul may long for; and thou shalt be king over Israel.

38 And it shall be, if thou wilt hearken unto all that I shall command thee, and wilt walk in my ways, and do what is right in my eyes, to keep my statutes and my commandments, as David my servant did: that I will be with thee, and build thee a permanent house, as I have built for David, and I will give Israel unto thee.

39 And I will afflict the seed of David for this; but not for all times.

40 ¶ Solomon thereupon sought to put Jerobo'am to death; but Jerobo'am arose, and fled into Egypt, unto Shishak the king of Egypt,

[b] Properly, Yarob'am.

[c] Rashi, in the name of the Talmud, explains that David had left the Millo open and the wall breached, that the pilgrims might freely enter and lodge, and that Solomon having built it up for the purpose of Pharaoh's daughter, brought about a reproof from Jerobo'am.

and he remained in Egypt until the death of Solomon.

41 And the rest of the acts of Solomon, and all that he did, and his wisdom, behold, they are written in the book of the history of Solomon.

42 And the days that Solomon reigned in Jerusalem over all Israel were forty years.

43 And Solomon slept with his fathers, and was buried in the city of David his father: and Rehobo'am[a] his son became king in his stead.

CHAPTER XII.

1 ¶ And Rehobo'am went to Shechem; for all Israel were come to Shechem to make him king.

2 And it came to pass, when Jerobo'am the son of Nebat, heard of it, (but he was yet in Egypt, whither he was fled from the presence of king Solomon, and Jerobo'am dwelt in Egypt;

3 And they had sent and called him;) that Jerobo'am and all the congregation of Israel came, and spoke unto Rehobo'am, saying,

4 Thy father made our yoke hard; but do thou now make lighter the hard service of thy father, and his heavy yoke which he put upon us, and we will serve thee.

5 And he said unto them, Go away yet for three days, and then return to me. And the people went away.

6 Then consulted king Rehobo'am with the old men, that had stood before Solomon his father while he yet lived, and said, How do ye advise that I should give an answer to this people?

7 And they spoke unto him, saying, If thou wilt this day be a servant unto this people, and wilt serve them, and be attentive to them, and speak to them good words; then will they be servants unto thee for all times.

8 But he forsook the counsel of the old men, which they had given him, and consulted with the young men that were grown up with him, those who stood before him:

9 And he said unto them, What do you counsel how we should give an answer to this people, who have spoken to me, saying, Make lighter the yoke which thy father did put upon us?

10 Then spoke unto him the young men that were grown up with him, saying, Thus must thou say unto this people that have spoken unto thee, saying, Thy father made our yoke heavy, but do thou make it lighter unto us: thus must thou speak unto them, My little finger is thicker than my father's loins.

11 And now, if my father hath burdened you with a heavy yoke, I will even add to your yoke; if my father hath chastised you with whips, then will I chastise you with scorpion-thorns.

12 When now Jerobo'am and all the people came to Rehobo'am on the third day, as the king had spoken, saying, Return to me on the third day:

13 The king answered the people harshly, and forsook the old men's counsel that they had advised him;

14 And he spoke to them after the counsel of the young men, saying, My father made your yoke heavy, and I will even add to your yoke; my father chastised you with whips, but I will chastise you with scorpion-thorns.

15 Thus the king hearkened not unto the people; for it was so brought about from the LORD, in order that he might fulfil his word, which the LORD had spoken by means of Achiyah the Shilonite unto Jerobo'am the son of Nebat.

16 So when all Israel saw that the king hearkened not unto them, the people gave the king an answer saying, What portion have we in David? nor have we an inheritance in the son of Jesse; to your tents, O Israel: now see to thy own house, David. So did Israel go away unto their tents.

17 But as for the children of Israel who dwelt in the cities of Judah, over them did Rohobo'am reign.

18 ¶ Then sent king Rehobo'am Adoram, who was over the tribute; but all Israel stoned him with stones, that he died. Therefore king Rehobo'am made speed with all his might to get up into his chariot, to flee to Jerusalem.

19 So did Israel rebel against the house of David unto this day.

20 ¶ And it came to pass, when all Israel heard that Jerobo'am was returned, that they sent and called him unto the congregation, and made him king over all Israel: there was none that followed the house of David, save the tribe of Judah alone.

21 And when Rehobo'am was come to Jerusalem, he assembled all the house of Judah, with the tribe of Benjamin, a hundred and eighty thousand chosen men, warriors,[a] to fight against the house of Israel, to bring back the kingdom to Rehobo'am the son of Solomon.

22 ¶ But the word of God came unto Shema'yah the man of God, saying,

23 Say unto Rehobo'am, the son of Solomon, the king of Judah, and unto all the house of Judah and Benjamin, and to the remnant of the people, saying,

24 Thus hath said the LORD, Ye shall not go up, nor fight with your brethren the children of Israel: return every man to his house; for from me hath this thing been brought about. And they hearkened to the word of the LORD, and returned to go home, according to the word of the LORD.

25 ¶ And Jerobo'am built[b] Shechem in the mountain of Ephraim, and dwelt therein; and he went out from there and built Penuël.

26 And Jerobo'am said in his heart, Now may the kingdom return to the house of David:

27 If this people go up to prepare sacrifices in the house of the LORD at Jerusalem, then may the heart of this people turn again unto their lord, even unto Rehobo'am the king of Judah, and they might kill me, and return to Rehobo'am the king of Judah.

28 Whereupon the king took counsel, and he made two calves of gold, and said unto the people, You have been long enough going up to Jerusalem: behold, here are thy gods, O Israel, which have brought thee up out of the land of Egypt.

29 And he placed the one in Beth-el, and the other put he in Dan.

30 And this thing became a sin; and the people went before the one, as far as Dan.[c]

31 And he made a house of the high-places, and made priests of the lowest[d] of the people, who were not of the sons of Levi.

32 And Jerobo'am made a feast in the eighth month, on the fifteenth day of the month, like unto the feast that is in Judah, and he offered upon the altar; so did he in Beth-el, sacrificing unto the calves that he had made: and he stationed at Beth-el the priests of the high-places whom he had made.

33 So he offered upon the altar which he had made in Beth-el on the fifteenth day of the eighth month, in the month which he had falsely devised of his own heart; and he ordained a feast unto the children of Israel, and he went up to the altar, to burn incense.

CHAPTER XIII.

1 ¶ And, behold, there came a man of God out of Judah by the word of the LORD unto Beth-el: while Jerobo'am was standing upon the altar to burn incense.

2 And he called out against the altar by the word of the LORD, and he said, O altar, altar, thus hath said the LORD, Behold, a child shall be born unto the house of David, Josiah by name, and he shall sacrifice upon thee the priests of the high-places that burn incense upon thee, and men's bones shall be burnt upon thee.

3 And he gave on the same day a token, saying, This is the token that the LORD hath spoken, Behold, the altar shall be rent, and the ashes which are upon it shall be spilled about.

4 And it came to pass, when the king heard the word of the man of God, which he had called out against the altar in Beth-el, that Jerobo'am stretched forth his hand from off the altar, saying, Seize him. And his hand, which he had put forth against him, dried up, so that he could not draw it back to himself.

5 The altar also was rent, and the ashes were spilled about from the altar, according to the token which the man of God had given by the word of the LORD.

6 And the king commenced and said unto the man of God, Offer but entreaty before the LORD thy God, and pray in behalf of me, that my hand may return to me again. And the man of God offered his entreaty before the LORD, and the king's hand returned to him again, and became as it was before.

7 And the king spoke unto the man of God. Come home with me, and take some refreshment, and I will give thee a present.

8 But the man of God said unto the king, If thou wert to give me the half of thy house, I would not go in with thee, neither would I eat bread nor drink water in this place;

9 For so was it charged me by the word of the LORD, saying, Thou shalt not eat bread, nor drink water, nor return by the way that thou camest.

10 So he went by another way, and returned not by the way on which he was come to Beth-el.

11 ¶ Now there dwelt a certain old prophet in Beth-el; and his son came and told him all the deed that the man of God had done that day in Beth-el: the words (also) which he had spoken unto the king, these too they told to their father.

12 And their father spoke unto them, What way did he go? His sons however had seen what way had gone the man of God, who had come from Judah.

13 And he said unto his sons, Saddle me the ass. So they saddled him the ass, and he rode away thereon,

14 And he went after the man of God, and found him sitting under the oak; and he said unto him, Art thou the man of God that camest from Judah? And he said, I am.

15 Then said he unto him, Come with me home, and eat bread.

16 And he said, I cannot return with thee, nor go in with thee: neither will I eat bread nor drink water with thee in this place;

17 For a command came to me by the word of the LORD, Thou shalt not eat bread nor drink water there; thou shalt not return to go by the way (also) by which thou camest.

18 And he said unto him, I also am a prophet like thee; and an angel spoke unto me by the word of the LORD, saying, Bring him back with thee unto thy house, that he may eat bread and drink water. But he lied unto him.

19 So he returned with him, and ate bread in his house, and drank water.

20 And it came to pass, as they were sitting at the table,

¶ That the word of the LORD came unto the prophet who had brought him back;

21 And he called unto the man of God that was come from Judah, saying, Thus hath said the LORD, Forasmuch as thou hast disobeyed the order of the LORD, and hast not kept the commandment which the LORD thy God had commanded thee;

22 But didst return, and hast eaten bread and drunk water in the place, of which he had spoken to thee, Thou shalt not eat bread, nor drink water: thy dead body shall not come unto the sepulchre of thy fathers.

23 And it came to pass, after he had eaten bread, and after he had drunk, that he saddled for him the ass, (to wit,) for[a] the prophet whom he had brought back.

24 And when he was gone, a lion met him on the way, and slew him: and his corpse remained cast down on the way, and the ass stood by it, the lion also stood by the corpse.

25 And, behold, men passed by, and saw the corpse cast down on the way, and the lion standing by the corpse; and they came and spoke of it in the city where the old prophet dwelt.

26 And when the prophet that had brought him back from the way heard it, he said, It is the man of God who was disobedient unto the order of the LORD; wherefore the LORD hath given him up unto the lion, who hath torn[b] him, and slain him, according to the word of the LORD, which he had spoken unto him.

27 And he spoke to his sons, saying, Saddle me the ass. And they saddled him.

28 And he went and found his corpse cast down on the way, and the ass and the lion standing by the corpse: the lion had not eaten the corpse, nor torn the ass.

29 And the prophet took up the corpse of the man of God, and laid it upon the ass, and brought it back; and he came to the city of the old prophet, to lament for, and to bury him.

30 And he laid his corpse in his own sepulchre; and they lamented over him, "Alas, my brother!"[c]

31 And it came to pass, after he had buried him, that he spoke to his sons, saying, When I am dead, then bury me in the sepulchre wherein the man of God is buried; beside his bones lay ye my bones;

32 For the thing which he called out by the word of the LORD against the altar which is in Beth-el, and against all the houses of the high-places[a] which are in the cities of Samaria.[b] ¶ will surely come to pass.

33 ¶ After this event Jerobo'am returned not from his evil way; but made again of the lowest of the people priests of the high-places: whosoever desired it, he consecrated, that he might become one of the priests of the high-places.

34 And he became through this thing the cause of sin[c] unto the house of Jerobo'am, and to cause that it was blotted out, and destroyed from off the face of the earth.

CHAPTER XIV.

1 ¶ At that time Abiyah the son of Jerobo'am fell sick.

2 And Jerobo'am said to his wife, Arise, I pray thee, and disguise thyself, that people may not know that thou art the wife of Jerobo'am; and go to Shiloh: behold, there is Achiyahu the prophet, who spoke of me that (I should become) king over this people.

3 And take with thee[d] ten loaves of bread and spice-cakes, and a cruise of honey, and go to him: he will tell thee what is to become of the lad.

4 And Jerobo'am's wife did so, and arose, and went to Shiloh, and came to the house of Achiyahu. But Achiyahu was not able to see; for his eyes were set by reason of his high age.

5 ¶ And the LORD had said unto Achiyahu, Behold the wife of Jerobo'am is coming to inquire a word of thee about her son; for he is sick: thus and thus shalt thou speak unto her; for it will be, when she cometh in, that she will feign to be another.

6 And it happened, when Achiyahu heard the sound of her feet, as she came in at the door, that he said, Come in, thou wife of Jerobo'am; why is this, that thou feignest to be another? but I am sent to thee with a hard message.

7 Go, say to Jerobo'am, Thus hath said the LORD the God of Israel, Forasmuch as I exalted thee from the midst of the people, and made thee prince over my people Israel,

8 And I rent the kingdom away from the house of David, and gave it unto thee; whereas thou hast not been like my servant David, who kept my commandments, and who followed after me with all his heart, to do only what is right in my eyes;

9 And thou hast done more evil than all that were before thee; and thou art gone and hast made unto thyself other gods, and molten images, to provoke me to anger, and me hast thou cast behind thy back:

10 Therefore, behold, will I bring evil upon the house of Jerobo'am, and will cut off from Jerobo'am every male,[e] (also) the guarded and fortified in Israel; and I will sweep out after the house of Jerobo'am as one sweepeth away the dung till there be nothing left of it.

11 Him that dieth of Jerobo'am in the city shall the dogs eat; and him that dieth in the field shall the fowls of the heavens eat; for the LORD hath spoken it.

12 But thou, arise now, go to thy own house: when thy feet enter into the city, the child shall die.

13 And all Israel shall mourn for him, and bury him; for this one alone shall come of Jerobo'am's (family) to the grave; because there hath been found in him some good thing toward the LORD the God of Israel in the house of Jerobo'am.

14 And the LORD will raise up unto himself a king over Israel, who shall cut off the house of Jerobo'am what is here this day, and what will be after this.[f]

15 And the LORD will smite Israel, as the reed is shaken in the water, and he will pull up Israel out of this good land, which he gave to their fathers, and will scatter them on the other side of the river; because they they buried him in the city of David: and Assa his son became king in his stead.

9 And in the twentieth year of Jerobo'am the king of Israel became Assa king over Judah.

10 And forty and one years did he reign in Jerusalem. And the name of his mother[a] was Ma'achah, the daughter of Abishalom.

11 And Assa did what is right in the eyes of the LORD, like David his father.

12 And he put away the sodomites out of the land, and removed all the idols which his fathers had made.

13 And also Ma'achah his mother, even her he removed from being queen; because she had made a scandalous image for the grove;[b] and Assa cut down her scandalous image, and burnt it by the brook Kidron.

14 But the high-places were not removed; nevertheless Assa's heart was entire with the LORD all his days.

15 And he brought the things which his father had sanctified, and his own sanctified things,[c] into the house of the LORD, silver, and gold, and vessels.

16 And there was war between Assa and Ba'sha[d] the king of Israel all their days.

17 And Ba'sha the king of Israel went up against Judah, and built Ramah, in order not to suffer any one to go out or come in to Assa the king of Judah.

18 Then did Assa take all the silver and the gold that were left in the treasures of the house of the LORD, and the treasures of the king's house, and gave them into the hand of his servants; and king Assa sent them to Ben-hadad, the son of Tabrimmon, the son of Chesyon, the king of Syria, who dwelt in Damascus, saying,

19 A covenant is between me and thee, (as) between my father and thy father: behold, I have sent unto thee a present of silver and gold; go and do break thy covenant with Ba'sha the king of Israel, that he may withdraw from me.

20 And Ben-hadad hearkened unto king Assa, and sent the captains of the armies which he had against the cities of Israel, and smote 'Iyon, and Dan, and Abel-beth-ma'achah, and the whole of Kinneroth, with all the land of Naphtali.

21 And it came to pass, when Ba'sha heard this, that he left off the building of Ramah, and remained in Tirzah.

22 Then king Assa called together by proclamation all Judah, none being exempted: and they took away the stones of Ramah, and its timber, wherewith Ba'sha had built; and king Assa built with them Geba' of Benjamin, and Mizpah.

23 And the rest of all the acts of Assa, and all his mighty deeds, and all that he did, and the cities which he built, behold, they are written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah. Nevertheless in the time of his old age he became diseased in his feet.

24 And Assa slept with his fathers, and was buried with his fathers in the city of David his father: and Jehoshaphat his son became king in his stead.

25 ¶ And Nadab the son of Jerobo'am became king over Israel in the second year of Assa the king of Judah; and he reigned over Israel two years.

26 And he did what is evil in the eyes of the LORD, and he walked in the way of his father, and in his sin wherewith he had induced Israel to sin.

27 And Ba'sha the son of Achiyah, of the house of Issachar, conspired against him; and Ba'sha smote him at Gibbethon, which belonged to the Philistines: while Nadab and all Israel were besieging Gibbethon.

28 And Ba'sha slew him in the third year of Assa the king of Judah, and became king in his stead.

29 And it came to pass, when he reigned, that he smote all the house of Jerobo'am; he left not any that breathed unto Jerobo'am, until he had destroyed him, according to the word of the LORD, which he had spoken by his servant Achiyah the Shilonite;

30 Because of the sins of Jerobo'am which he had sinned, and through which he had induced Israel to sin, by his provoking wherewith he provoked the LORD the God of Israel to anger.

[d] Commonly written Baasha.

31 And the rest of the acts of Nadab, and all that he did, behold, they are written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Israel.

32 And there was war between Assa and Ba'sha the king of Israel all their days.

33 ¶ In the third year of Assa the king of Judah became Ba'sha the son of Achiyah king over all Israel, in Thirzah, (for) twenty and four years.

34 And he did what is evil in the eyes of the LORD, and walked in the way of Jerobo'am, and in his sin wherewith he had induced Israel to sin.

CHAPTER XVI.

1 ¶ Then came the word of the LORD to Jehu[a] the son of Chanani against Ba'sha, saying,

2 Forasmuch as I lifted thee up out of the dust, and I set thee as prince over my people Israel; and thou hast walked in the way of Jerobo'am, and hast induced my people Israel to sin, to provoke me to anger with their sins:

3 Behold, I will sweep out after Ba'sha, and after his house; and I will render thy house like the house of Jerobo'am the son of Nebat;

4 Him that dieth of Ba'sha in the city shall the dogs eat; and him that dieth of his in the field shall the fowls of the heavens eat.

5 And the rest of the acts of Ba'sha, and what he did, and his mighty deeds, behold, they are written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Israel.

6 And Ba'sha slept with his fathers, and was buried in Thirzah: and Elah his son became king in his stead.

7 And also by the hand of Jehu the son of Chanani, the prophet, came the word of the LORD against Ba'sha, and against his house, both for all the evil that he did in the eyes of the LORD, to provoke him to anger with the work of his hands, thus being like the house of Jerobo'am; and because he had killed him.[b]

8 ¶ In the twenty and sixth year of Assa the king of Judah became Elah the son of Ba'sha king over Israel in Thirzah, (for) two years.

9 And there conspired against him his servant Zimri, captain of half the chariots, as he was in Thirzah, drinking himself drunk in the house of Arza,[c] who was set over the house in Thirzah.

10 And Zimri went in and smote him, and killed him, in the twenty and seventh year of Assa the king of Judah, and became king in his stead.

11 And it came to pass, when he began to reign, as soon as he sat on his throne, that he slew all the house of Ba'sha: he left him not a single male, neither of his kinsfolks, nor of his friends.

12 Thus did Zimri exterminate all the house of Ba'sha, according to the word of the LORD, which he had spoken against Ba'sha by the agency of Jehu the prophet,

13 For all the sins of Ba'sha, and the sins of Elah his son, by which they had sinned, and by which they had induced Israel to sin, to provoke the LORD the God of Israel to anger with their vanities.

14 Now the rest of the acts of Elah, and all that he did, behold, they are written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Israel.

15 ¶ In the twenty and seventh year of Assa the king of Judah did Zimri reign seven days in Thirzah: and the people were encamped against Gibbethon, which belonged to the Philistines.

16 And when the people that were encamped heard it said, Zimri hath conspired, and hath also slain the king: all Israel made 'Omri, the captain of the army, king over Israel on that day in the camp.

17 And 'Omri went up, and all Israel with him from Gibbethon, and they besieged Thirzah.

18 And it came to pass, when Zimri saw that the city was captured, that he went into the strong-hold of the king's house, and burnt the king's house over him with fire, and he died;

19 For his sins which he had sinned, in doing what is evil in the eyes of the LORD, to walk in the way of Jerobo'am, and in his sin which he did, to induce Israel to sin.

20 And the rest of the acts of Zimri, and his conspiracy that he contrived, behold, they are written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Israel.

21 ¶ At that time were the people of Israel divided into two parts: one half of the people followed Thibni the son of Ginath, to make him king; and the other half followed 'Omri.

22 But the people that followed 'Omri prevailed against the people that followed Thibni the son of Ginath: and Thibni (also) died, and 'Omri became king.

23 In the thirty and first year of Assa the king of Judah became 'Omri king over Israel, (for) twelve years; in Thirzah he reigned six years.

24 And he bought the mount Samaria, of Shemer for two talents of silver, and built on the mount, and called the name of the city which he had built, after the name of Shemer, the lord of the mount, Samaria.

25 And 'Omri did what is evil in the eyes of the LORD, and did worse than all that were before him.

26 And he walked in all the way of Jerobo'am the son of Nebat, and in his sin wherewith he induced Israel to sin, to provoke the LORD God of Israel to anger with their vanities.

27 Now the rest of the acts of 'Omri which he did, and his mighty deeds that he displayed, behold, they are written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Israel.

28 And 'Omri slept with his fathers, and was buried in Samaria: and Achab[a] his son became king in his stead.

29 ¶ And Achab the son of 'Omri became king over Israel in the thirty and eighth year of Assa the king of Judah; and Achab the son of 'Omri reigned over Israel in Samaria twenty and two years.

30 And Achab the son of 'Omri did what is evil in the eyes of the LORD more than all that had been before him.

31 And it came to pass, as if it had been too light a thing for him to walk in the sins of Jerobo'am the son of Nebat, that he took for wife Izebel the daughter of Ethba'al the king of the Zidonians, and went and served Ba'al, and worshipped him.

32 And he erected an altar for Ba'al in the house of Ba'al, which he had built in Samaria.

33 And Achab made a grove; and Achab did yet more, so as to provoke the LORD the God of Israel to anger, than all the kings of Israel that had been before him.

34 In his days did Chiel the Beth-elite build Jericho: with Abiram his first-born laid he the foundation thereof, and with Segub his youngest son set he up the gates thereof,[b] according to the word of the LORD, which he had spoken by means of Joshua the son of Nun.

CHAPTER XVII.

1 ¶ Then said Elijah[c] the Tishbite, who was of the inhabitants of Gil'ad, unto Achab, As the LORD the God of Israel liveth, before whom I have stood, there shall not be in these years dew or rain, except according to my word.[d]

2 ¶ And the word of the LORD came unto him, saying,

3 Go away from here, and turn thyself eastward, and hide thyself by the brook Kerith, which is to the east of the Jordan.

4 And it shall be, that out of the brook shalt thou drink; and the ravens[e] have I ordained to sustain thee there.

5 And he went and did according to the word of the LORD; and he went and remained by the brook Kerith, that is to the east of the Jordan.

6 And the ravens brought him bread and flesh in the morning, and bread and flesh in the evening: and out of the brook he used to drink.

7 And it came to pass after a while,[f] that the brook dried up; because there had been no rain in the land.

8 ¶ And the word of the LORD came unto him, saying,

9 Arise, go unto Zarephath, which belong-

[f] Philippson, "at the end of a year."

eth to Zidon, and remain there: behold, I have ordained there a widow-woman to sustain thee.

10 So he arose and went to Zarephath; and when he came to the gate of the city, behold, there was there a widow-woman gathering sticks of wood: and he called her, and said, Fetch me, I pray thee, a little water in a vessel, that I may drink.

11 And as she went to fetch it, he called to her, and said, Bring me, I pray thee, a morsel of bread in thy hand.

12 And she said, As the LORD thy God liveth, I have nothing baked, but a handful of meal in a jar, and a little oil in a cruise: and, behold, I am gathering a couple of sticks, that I may go in and prepare it for me and my son; and when we have eaten it, we shall have to die.[a]

13 And Elijah said unto her, Fear not; go and do as thou hast said; but make me thereof a little cake at first, and bring it out unto me, and for thee and for thy son shalt thou prepare (something) afterward.

14 For thus hath said the LORD the God of Israel, The jar of meal shall not fail, neither shall the cruise of oil diminish, until the day that the LORD giveth rain upon the face of the earth.

15 And she went and did according to the word of Elijah: and she, and he, and her household, did eat (many) days.[b]

16 The jar of meal failed not, nor did the cruise of oil diminish, according to the word of the LORD, which he had spoken through means of Elijah.

17 ¶ And it came to pass after these events, that the son of the woman, the mistress of the house, fell sick; and his sickness became very severe, until that at length there was no breath left in him.

18 And she said unto Elijah, What have I to do with thee, O man of God? thou art come unto me to call my sin to remembrance, and to slay my son!

19 And he said unto her, Give me thy son. And he took him out of her bosom, and carried him up into the upper chamber, in which he abode, and he laid him upon his own bed.

20 And he called unto the LORD, and said, O LORD my God, hast thou also brought evil upon the widow with whom I sojourn, by slaying her son?

21 And he stretched himself out over the child three times, and called unto the LORD, and said, O LORD my God, let, I pray thee, the soul of this child return again within him.

22 And the LORD listened to the voice of Elijah: and the soul of the child returned into him, and he revived.

23 And Elijah took the child, and brought him down out of the upper chamber into the house, and gave him unto his mother; and Elijah said, See, thy son liveth.

24 And the woman said to Elijah, Now by this do I know, that thou art a man of God, and the word of the LORD in thy mouth is truth.

CHAPTER XVIII.

1 ¶ And it lasted many days, when the word of the LORD came to Elijah in the third year, saying, Go, show thyself unto Achab; and I will give rain upon the face of the earth.

2 And Elijah went to show himself unto Achab; and the famine was grievous in Samaria.

3 And Achab called 'Obadiah,[c] who was the superintendent of the house;—(now 'Obadiah feared the LORD greatly;

4 And it happened, when Izebel cut off the prophets of the LORD, that 'Obadiah took a hundred prophets, and hid them fifty each in one cave, and provided them with bread and water;)

5 And Achab said unto 'Obadiah, Go through the land, unto all the springs of water, and unto all the brooks; peradventure we may find grass and keep alive horse and mule, that we lose not all the cattle.

6 So they divided between them the land to pass through it: Achab went one way by himself alone, and 'Obadiah went another way by himself alone.

7 And as 'Obadiah was on the way, behold, Elijah came toward him; and he recognised him, and fell on his face, and said, Art thou here indeed, my lord Elijah?

[a] i. e. Of starvation.
[b] Or, "a full year."
[c] Correctly, 'Obadyah, or 'Obad'yahu.

8 And he said unto him, I am: go, say unto thy lord, Behold, Elijah is here.

9 And he said, What have I sinned, that thou wouldst deliver thy servant into the hand of Achab, to slay me?

10 As the LORD thy God liveth, there is not a nation or kingdom whither my lord hath not sent to seek thee; and when they said, He is not here: he caused that kingdom and nation to take an oath, that no one could find thee.

11 And now thou sayest, Go, say unto thy lord, Behold, here is Elijah.

12 And it may come to pass, that, when I go from thee, the spirit[a] of the LORD may carry thee whither I know not; and when I come to inform Achab, and he cannot find thee, he will slay me; but I thy servant have feared the LORD from my youth.

13 Hath it not been told unto my lord what I did when Izebel slew the prophets of the LORD, how I hid a hundred men of the prophets of the LORD, fifty each in one cave, and provided them with bread and water?

14 And now thou sayest, Go say to thy lord, Behold, Elijah is here: and he will slay me.

15 Then said Elijah, As the LORD of hosts liveth, before whom I have stood, surely[b] to-day will I show myself unto him.

16 So 'Obadiah went to meet Achab, and he told it to him; and Achab went to meet Elijah.

17 And it came to pass, when Achab saw Elijah, that Achab said unto him, Art thou he that troubleth[c] Israel?

18 And he answered, I have not troubled Israel; but thou, and thy father's house, through your forsaking the commandments of the LORD, and because thou hast followed the Be'alim.

19 And now send, assemble unto me all Israel at Mount Carmel, and the prophets of Ba'al four hundred and fifty, and the prophets of the grove[d] four hundred, who eat at the table of Izebel.

20 And Achab sent round among all the children of Israel, and he assembled the prophets at Mount Carmel.

21 And Elijah approached unto all the people, and said, How long halt ye between the two opinions? if the LORD be the God, follow him; and if Ba'al—follow him. And the people answered him not a word.

22 And Elijah said unto the people, I have been left a prophet of the LORD by myself alone; but the prophets of Ba'al are four hundred and fifty men.

23 Therefore let there be given unto us two bullocks; and let them choose for themselves the one bullock, and cut it in pieces, and lay it on wood, and put no fire to it: and I will prepare the other bullock, and lay it on wood, and put no fire to it.

24 And do ye call on the name of your god,[e] and I will call on the name of the LORD: and it shall be that the God who answereth by fire, he shall be the (true) God. And all the people answered and said, The proposal is good.

25 And Elijah said unto the prophets of Ba'al, Choose you for yourselves the one bullock, and prepare it first; for ye are the many; and call on the name of your god, but put no fire to it.

26 And they took the bullock which he had given to them, and they prepared it; and they called on the name of Ba'al from morning even until noon, saying, O Ba'al, answer us; but there was no voice, nor any answer: and they danced about the altar which had been made.

27 And it came to pass at noon, that Elijah mocked at them, and said, Call with a loud voice; for he is a god; either he is holding council,[f] or he is busy in some pursuit,[g] or he is on a journey; or peradventure he sleepeth, and may thus awaken.

28 And they called with a loud voice and cut themselves after their custom with knives and spears,[h] till the blood gushed out over them.

[b] כי in this connection is to be taken as a strong affirmation: "surely," "without doubt."

[c] "Bringer of destruction to Israel."—ARNHEIM. It must be understood that the country was suffering from the want of rain, which Achab ascribed to the interference of Elijah, (see above, xvii. 1;) but the prophet properly laid the fault upon the king and his family, who through their sins had caused the heavens to be shut up that there was no rain; they, therefore, not he, had brought the destruction on Israel.

[d] More correctly, "Asherah," the name of an idol; "Astarte," in Philippson.

[e] Others, "gods."

[f] Rashi. Others, "he is lost in thought."

29 And it came to pass, when midday was past, that they practised their follies until near (the time of) the offering of the evening-sacrifice; but there was neither voice, nor any answer, nor any perceptible sound.

30 And Elijah said unto all the people, Come near unto me: and all the people came near unto him; and he repaired the altar of the LORD that had been torn down.

31 And Elijah took twelve stones, according to the number of the tribes of the sons of Jacob, unto whom the word of the LORD was come, saying, Israel shall be thy name.

32 And he built of the stones an altar in the name of the LORD; and he made a trench as great as would contain two seähs of seed[a] round about the altar.

33 And he put in order the wood, and cut the bullock in pieces, and laid them on the wood,

34 And he said, Fill four jars with water; and they had to pour it on the burnt-offering, and on the wood;[b] and he said, Do it the second time; and they did it the second time; and he said, Do it the third time; and they did it the third time.

35 And the water ran round about the altar; and the trench also he filled with water.

36 And it came to pass, at (the time of) the offering of the evening-sacrifice, that Elijah the prophet came near, and said, O LORD, God of Abraham, of Isaac, and of Israel, this day let it be known that thou art God in Israel, and that I am thy servant, and that at thy word I have done all these things.

37 Answer me, O LORD, answer me, and let all this people know that thou, O LORD, art the (true) God, and thou wilt (then) have turned their heart back again.[c]

38 And there fell a fire of the LORD, and consumed the burnt-offering, and the wood, and the stones, and the dust; and the water also that was in the trench did it lick up.

39 And when all the people saw this, they fell on their faces; and they said, the LORD—he is the God; the LORD—he is the God.

40 And Elijah said unto them, Seize the prophets of Ba'al; not one of them must escape; and they seized them: and Elijah brought them down to the brook Kishon, and slaughtered them there.

41 And Elijah said unto Achab, Go up,[d] eat and drink; for there is a sound of abundance of rain.[e]

42 So Achab went up to eat and to drink. And Elijah went up to the top of Carmel; and he cast[f] himself down toward the earth, and put his face between his knees;

43 And he said to his servant, Go up, I pray thee, look in the direction of the sea. And he went up, and looked, and said, Not the least (is visible). And he said, Go again, seven times.

44 And it came to pass at the seventh time, that he said, Behold, there is a little cloud like a man's hand arising out of the sea. And he said, Go up, say unto Achab, Harness up (thy chariot), and come down, that the rain may not detain thee.

45 And it came to pass in the mean while, that the heavens were blackened with clouds and wind, and there was a great rain. And Achab rode, and went to Yizre'el.

46 And the inspiration[g] of the LORD came over Elijah, and he girded up his loins; and he ran before Achab up to the entrance of Yizre'el.

CHAPTER XIX.

1 ¶ And Achab told Izebel all that Elijah had done, and withal that he had slain all the prophets with the sword.

2 Then sent Izebel a messenger unto Elijah, saying, So may the gods do to me, and may they thus continue, if about this time to-morrow I do not render thy life as the life of any one of them.

[b] Here commences verse 34 in the English version.

[c] This is according to Arnheim's version, after Sa'adyah Gaön: others, and among them, Rambam, give, "that through thy permission their heart was hitherto turned backward." The former version, however, is more in concert with what precedes and follows. Elijah had represented to the people the folly of their indecision; and proposed thereupon the test of fire as a mark of the divinity in either god. He therefore prays, after the vanity of Ba'al had been exhibited, that the LORD would answer him with fire, through which means the people would become converted. And so it was. Nevertheless, the usual version can be defended, as meaning that their many sins had hitherto prevented their repentance.

3 And when he saw this, he arose, and went for his life, and came to Beër-sheba', which belongeth to Judah, and he left his young man there.

4 But he himself went forward into the wilderness a day's journey, and he came and sat down under a certain broom-bush:[a] and he requested for himself to die; and he said, It is enough, now, O LORD, take away my soul; for I am not better than my fathers.

5 And he laid himself down and slept under a certain broom-bush, and, behold then, an angel was touching him, and said unto him, Arise, eat.

6 And he looked about, and, behold, there was at his head a cake baked on coals,[b] and a cruise of water; and he ate and drank, and laid himself down again.

7 And the angel of the LORD came again, the second time, and touched him, and said, Arise, eat; because the journey is yet far for thee.

8 And he arose, and ate and drank; and he went on the strength of that eating forty days and forty nights unto the mount of God, Horeb.

9 And he came there unto a cave, and remained there over night: and, behold, the word of the LORD came to him, and said unto him, What dost thou here, Elijah?

10 And he said, I have been very zealous for the LORD, the God of hosts; for the children of Israel have forsaken thy covenant, thy altars have they thrown down, and thy prophets have they slain with the sword: and I am left by myself alone, and they have sought my life, to take it away.

11 And he said, Go forth, and stand upon the mount before the LORD: and, behold, the LORD passed by, and a wind, great and strong, rending the mountains, and breaking in pieces the rocks (went) before the LORD; but not in the wind was the LORD; and after the wind was an earthquake; but not in the earthquake was the LORD;

12 And after the earthquake was a fire; but not in the fire was the LORD; and after the fire was the sound of a soft whisper.[c]

13 And it came to pass, when Elijah heard it, that he concealed his face in his mantle, and went out, and stood in the entrance of the cave: and, behold, there came a voice unto him, and said, What dost thou here, Elijah?

14 And he said, I have been very zealous for the LORD, the God of hosts; because the children of Israel have forsaken thy covenant, thy altars have they thrown down, and thy prophets have they slain with the sword: and I am left by myself alone, and they have sought my life, to take it away.

15 ¶ And the LORD said unto him, Go, return on thy way to the wilderness of Damascus; and go, anoint Chazaël to be king over Syria;

16 And Jehu the son of Nimshi shalt thou anoint to be king over Israel; and Elisha' the son of Shaphat of Abel-mecholah shalt thou anoint to be prophet in thy stead.

17 And it shall come to pass, that him that escapeth the sword of Chazaël shall Jehu slay; and him that escapeth the sword of Jehu shall Elisha' slay.

18 And I will leave in Israel seven thousand, all the knees which have not been bent unto Ba'al, and every mouth which hath not kissed him.

19 And he departed thence, and found Elisha' the son of Shaphat, who was ploughing; twelve yoke of oxen were before him, and he was with the twelfth: and Elijah passed up to him, and cast his mantle toward him.[d]

20 And he left the oxen, and ran after Elijah, and said, Let me, I pray thee, kiss but my father and my mother, and I will (then) follow thee: and he said unto him, Go, return; for what have I done to thee?

21 And he returned back from him, and took a yoke of oxen, and slew them, and with the instruments of the oxen he boiled the flesh[e] for them, and he gave it unto the people, and they did eat; and then he arose, and went after Elijah, and ministered unto him.

CHAPTER XX.

1 ¶ And Ben-hadad the king of Syria assembled all his host together: and thirty and two kings were with him, and horses, and chariots; and he went up and besieged Samaria, and made war against it.

2 And he sent messengers to Achab the king of Israel into the city;

3 And he said unto him, Thus hath said Ben-hadad,[a] Thy silver and thy gold are mine; thy wives also and thy children, even the best, are mine.

4 And the king of Israel answered and said, According to thy word, my lord, O king, thine am I, and all that I have.

5 And the messengers returned, and said, Thus hath said Ben-hadad, to say, (to thee), I have indeed sent unto thee, saying, Thou shalt give unto me thy silver, and thy gold, and thy wives, and thy children;[b]

6 Nevertheless, about this time to-morrow will I send my servants unto thee, and they shall search through thy house, and the houses of thy servants; and it shall be, that whatsoever is pleasant in thy eyes, they shall place it in their hand, and take it away.

7 Then did the king of Israel call for all the elders of the land, and said, Mark, I pray you, and see that this man seeketh mischief; for he hath sent unto me for my wives, and for my children, and for my silver, and for my gold, and I have not refused them to him.

8 And all the elders and all the people said unto him, Thou must not hearken, nor consent.

9 Wherefore he said unto the messengers of Ben-hadad, Say to my lord the king, All that thou didst send for to thy servant at the first will I do; but this thing I am not able to do. And the messengers went away, and brought him word again.

10 And Ben-hadad then sent unto him, and said, May the gods do so unto me, and continue to do so, if the dust of Samaria shall suffice for handfuls[c] for all the people that are in my train.

11 And the king of Israel answered and said, Speak, Let him that girdeth on the armour not boast himself as he that putteth it off.

12 And it came to pass, when he heard this message, as he was drinking, he and the kings in the pavilions, that he said unto his servants, Get ready for the attack.[d] And they got ready for the attack against the city.

13 And, behold, there approached a certain prophet unto Achab the king of Israel, and said, Thus hath said the LORD, Hast thou seen all this great multitude? behold, I will deliver it into thy hand this day; and thou shalt know that I am the LORD.

14 And Achab said, By whom? And he said, Thus hath said the LORD, By means of the young men[e] of the princes of the provinces. Then said he, Who shall order the battle?[f] And he said, Thou.

15 He then numbered the young men of the princes of the provinces, and they were two hundred and thirty-two: and after them he numbered all the people, all the children of Israel, seven thousand strong.

16 And they went out at midday; while Ben-hadad was drinking himself drunk in the pavilions, he and the kings, the thirty and two kings that helped him.

17 And the young men of the princes of the provinces went out at first; and Ben-hadad sent out, and they told him, saying, Some men are come out of Samaria.

18 And he said, If they be come out for peace, catch them alive; and if they be come out for war, alive must ye catch them.

19 So these, the young men of the princes of the provinces, came out of the city, with the army which followed them.

20 And they slew every one his man; and the Syrians fled, and Israel pursued them: and Ben-hadad the king of Syria escaped on a horse with the horsemen.

21 And the king of Israel went out, and smote the horses and chariots, and inflicted on the Syrians a great defeat.

22 And the prophet approached unto the king of Israel, and said unto him, Go, strengthen thyself, and mark, and see what thou hast to do; for at the return of the year the king of Syria will come up against thee.

23 ¶ And the servants of the king of Syria said unto him, Gods of the mountains are their gods; therefore they prevailed over us; but let us fight against them in the plain, (and see) whether we shall not prevail over them.

24 But do this thing, Remove the kings, every one from his place, and appoint governors in their rooms;

25 And thou, number for thyself an army, like the army that thou hast lost, horse for horse, and chariot for chariot: and we will fight against them in the plain, (and see) whether we shall prevail over them. And he hearkened unto their voice, and did so.

26 ¶ And it came to pass at the return of the year, that Ben-hadad numbered the Syrians, and went up to Aphek, to the war with Israel.

27 And the children of Israel were numbered, and provisioned, and went (out) against them: and the children of Israel encamped opposite to them like two little flocks of goats; but the Syrians filled the country.

28 And there approached the man of God, and spoke unto the king of Israel, and said, Thus hath said the LORD, Forasmuch as the Syrians have said, "A God of the hills is the LORD, but he is not God of the valleys:" will I deliver all this great multitude into thy hand; and ye shall know that I am the LORD.

29 And they encamped one opposite the other for seven days. And it happened, that on the seventh day the battle took place: and the children of Israel smote of the Syrians a hundred thousand men on foot in one day.

30 But those that were left fled to Aphek, into the city; but the city-wall[a] fell upon the twenty and seven thousand men that had been left. And Ben-hadad fled, and came into the city, into an innermost[b] chamber.

31 And his servants said unto him, Behold now, we have heard that the kings of the house of Israel are kindly kings: let us, we pray thee, put sackcloth on our loins, and ropes upon our heads, and go out to the king of Israel; peradventure he may save thy life.

32 So they girded sackcloth on their loins, and ropes on their heads, and came to the king of Israel, and said, Thy servant Ben-hadad hath said, I pray thee, let me live. And he said, Is he yet alive? he is my brother.

33 Now the men took it for a good sign, and hastened and caught at his word, whether it was his earnest:[c] and they said, Thy brother Ben-hadad! But he said, Go ye, bring him. Then came Ben-hadad forth to him; and he caused him to come up into the chariot.

34 And he[d] said unto him, The cities, which my father took from thy father, will I restore; and thou canst lay out for thyself streets in Damascus, as my father laid out in Samaria. "And[e] I for my part will send thee away with this covenant." So he made a covenant with him, and sent him away.

35 ¶ And a certain man of the sons of the prophets said unto his companion, By[f] the word of the LORD, smite me, I pray thee. But the man refused to smite him.

36 Then said he unto him, Forasmuch as thou hast not obeyed the voice of the LORD, behold, when thou goest away from me, a lion[g] shall slay thee. And he went away from him, when a lion found him, and slew him.

37 Then he met with another man, and said, Smite me, I pray thee. And the man smote him, smiting and wounding (him).

38 And the prophet then went, and placed himself before the king on the way, and disguised himself with a bandage over his eyes.

39 And as the king passed by, he cried unto the king, and said, Thy servant went out into the midst of the battle; and, behold, a man turned aside, and brought unto me a man, and said, Guard this man; if by any means he be missing, then shall thy life be (forfeit) for his life, or else thou shalt weigh me down a talent of silver.

40 But it happened as thy servant was busy here and there, that he was gone. And the king of Israel said unto him, So is thy sentence: thou thyself hast decided it.

41 And he hastened, and removed the bandage from his eyes; and the king of Israel recognised him that he was one of the prophets.

42 And he said unto him, Thus hath said the LORD, Because thou hast let go out of thy hand the man whom I had caught in my net,[a] therefore shall thy life be the forfeit for his life, and thy people for his people.

43 And the king of Israel went to his house low-spirited and displeased, and he came to Samaria.

CHAPTER XXI.

1 ¶ And it came to pass after these events, that Naboth the Yizre'elite had a vineyard, which was in Yizre'el, near the palace of Achab the king of Samaria.

2 And Achab spoke unto Naboth, saying, Give me thy vineyard, that it may serve me for an herb-garden, because it is near unto my house; and I will give thee in its stead a vineyard better than it; (or,) if it seem good in thy eyes, I will give thee the money, the value of the same.

3 And Naboth said to Achab, Far be it from me before the LORD, that I should give the inheritance of my fathers unto thee.

4 And Achab came into his house low-spirited and displeased because of the word which Naboth the Yizre'elite had spoken to him, when he said, I will not give unto thee the inheritance of my fathers. And he laid himself down upon his bed, and turned away his face, and would eat no food.

5 But Izebel his wife came to him, and spoke unto him, Why is thy spirit so sad? and why eatest thou no food?

6 And he said unto her, Because I spoke unto Naboth the Yizre'elite, and said unto him, Give me thy vineyard for money; or else, if it please thee, I will give thee a vineyard in its stead; but he hath said, I will not give unto thee my vineyard.

7 Then said unto him Izebel his wife, Dost thou now govern the kingdom of Israel?[b] arise, eat bread, and let thy heart be merry: I will myself give thee the vineyard of Naboth the Yizre'elite.

8 So she wrote letters in Achab's name, and sealed them with his seal; and she sent the letters unto the elders and unto the nobles who were in his city, and who dwelt near Naboth.

9 And she wrote in the letters, saying, Proclaim a fast, and cause Naboth to sit at the head of the people;

10 And seat two men, worthless fellows, opposite to him, and let them bear witness against him, saying, Thou hast blasphemed God and the king: and then lead him forth, and stone him, that he may die.

11 And the men of his city, the elders and the nobles, those who dwelt in his city, did as Izebel had sent unto them, as was written in the letters which she had sent unto them.

12 They proclaimed a fast, and caused Naboth to sit at the head of the people.

13 And there came in two men, worthless fellows, and seated themselves opposite to him; and these worthless men testified against him, against Naboth, in the presence of the people, saying, Naboth hath blasphemed God and the king. Then they led him forth out of the city, and stoned him with stones, that he died.

14 And they sent to Izebel, saying, Naboth hath been stoned, and is dead.

15 And it came to pass, when Izebel heard that Naboth had been stoned, and was dead, that Izebel said to Achab, Arise, take possession of the vineyard of Naboth the Yizre'elite, which he refused to give thee for money; for Naboth is not alive, but dead.

16 And it came to pass, when Achab heard that Naboth was dead, that Achab rose up to go down to the vineyard of Naboth the Yizre'elite, to take possession of it.

17 ¶ And the word of the LORD came to Elijah the Tishbite, saying,

18 Arise, go down to meet Achab the king of Israel, who is in Samaria: behold, he is in the vineyard of Naboth, whither he is gone down to take possession of it.

19 And thou shalt speak unto him, saying,

[b] "Thou art yet in possession of the royal power over Israel."—ARNHEIM.

Thus hath said the LORD, Hast thou murdered, and also taken possession? And thou shalt speak unto him, saying, Thus hath said the LORD, In the place[a] where the dogs licked the blood of Naboth shall the dogs lick thy blood, yes, thine also.

20 And Achab said to Elijah, Hast thou found me, O my enemy? And he answered, I have found thee; because thou hast sold thyself to do what is evil in the eyes of the LORD.

21 Behold, I will bring evil upon thee, and I will sweep out after thee, and will cut off from Achab every male, and the guarded and fortified in Israel,

22 And I will make thy house like the house of Jerobo'am the son of Nebat, and like the house of Ba'sha the son of Achiyah, for the provocation wherewith thou hast provoked (me) to anger, and induced Israel to sin.

23 And also concerning Izebel hath the LORD spoken, saying, The dogs shall eat Izebel in the valley[b] of Yizre'el.

24 Him that dieth of Achab in the city shall the dogs eat; and him that dieth in the field shall the fowls of the heavens eat.

25 But indeed there was none like unto Achab, who sold himself to do what is evil in the eyes of the LORD, to which Izebel his wife incited him.

26 And he acted very abominably in following the idols, in all things just as had done the Emorites, whom the LORD had driven out from before the children of Israel.

27 And it came to pass, when Achab heard these words, that he rent his clothes, and put sackcloth upon his flesh,[c] and fasted, and slept in the sackcloth, and walked about barefooted.[d]

28 ¶ And the word of the LORD came to Elijah the Tishbite, saying,

29 Hast thou seen how Achab hath humbled himself before me? therefore, because he hath humbled himself before me, will I not bring the evil in his days: in the days of his son will I bring the evil upon his house.

CHAPTER XXII.

1 And they remained (at rest) three years, there being no war between Syria and Israel.

2 ¶ And it came to pass in the third year that Jehoshaphat the king of Judah came down to the king of Israel.

3 And the king of Israel said unto his servants, Know ye that Ramoth in Gil'ad is ours, and we remain idle, without taking it out of the hand of the king of Syria?

4 And he said unto Jehoshaphat, Wilt thou go with me to the battle against Ramoth-gil'ad? And Jehoshaphat said to the king of Israel, I (will be) like thee, my people like thy people, my horses like thy horses.

5 And Jehoshaphat said unto the king of Israel, Inquire, I pray thee, to-day (first) of the word of the LORD.

6 Then assembled the king of Israel the prophets, about four hundred men, and said unto them, Shall I go against Ramoth-gil'ad to battle, or shall I forbear? And they said, Go up; and the Lord will deliver (it) into the hand of the king.[e]

7 And Jehoshaphat said, Is there not here a prophet of the Eternal besides, that we might inquire of him?

8 And the king of Israel said unto Jehoshaphat, There is yet one man, by whom we might inquire of the LORD; but I hate him; for he will never prophesy good concerning me, but evil: (it is) Michayhu the son of Yimlah. And Jehoshaphat said, Let not the king say so.

9 Then called the king of Israel a certain officer, and said, Hasten hither Michayhu the son of Yimlah.

10 And the king of Israel and Jehoshaphat the king of Judah were sitting each on his throne, dressed in their regal garments, in a threshing-floor at the entrance of the gate of Samaria; and all the prophets prophesied before them.

11 And Zedekiah[f] the son of Kena'anah had

[a] R. Jos. Schwarz renders במקום "in punishment for," as the pool at Samaria, where Achab's blood was spilt, could never have conveyed the blood of the slain king to Yizre'el.

[d] Jonathan. Others, "he walked about heavy-hearted," or "slowly," "softly;" but the actual idea is, that he displayed regret in his outward demeanour, even in his walk, his gait being changed.

made himself horns of iron; and he said, Thus hath said the LORD, With these shalt thou push the Syrians, until thou have made an end of them.

12 And all the prophets prophesied so, saying, Go up to Ramoth-gil'ad, and prosper; and the LORD will deliver it into the king's hand.

13 And the messenger that went to call Michayhu spoke unto him, saying, Behold now, the words of the prophets are with one voice[a] good for the king: do let thy word, I pray thee, be like the word of any one of them, and speak something good.

14 And Michayhu said, As the LORD liveth, truly, what the LORD may say unto me, that will I speak.

15 And when he was come to the king, the king said unto him, Michayhu, shall we go against Ramoth-gil'ad to battle, or shall we forbear? And he answered him, Go up, and prosper; and may[b] the LORD deliver it into the hand of the king.

16 And the king said unto him, How many times yet must I adjure thee that thou shalt not speak to me any thing but the truth in the name of the LORD?

17 And he said, I saw all Israel scattered over the mountains, as flocks that have not a shepherd: and the LORD said, These have no master; let them return every man to his house in peace.

18 And the king of Israel said unto Jehoshaphat, Did I not say unto thee that he would not prophesy concerning me any good, but (only) evil?

19 And he said, Therefore hear thou the word of the LORD: I saw the LORD sitting on his throne, and all the host of heaven standing by him on his right and on his left.

20 And the LORD said, Who will persuade Achab, that he may go up and fall at Ramoth-gil'ad? And one said, In this manner, and another said, In that manner.

21 And there came forth a[c] spirit, and placed himself before the LORD, and said, I will persuade him. [d]And the LORD said unto him, Wherewith?

22 And he said, I will go forth, and I will be a lying spirit in the mouth of all his prophets. And he said, Thou wilt persuade him, and also prevail: go forth, and do so.

23 And now, behold, the LORD hath put a lying spirit in the mouth of all these thy prophets; but the LORD hath spoken evil concerning thee.

24 And Zedekiah the son of Kena'anah went near, and struck Michayhu on the cheek, and said, Which way passed the Spirit of the LORD away from me to speak with thee?

25 And Michayhu said, Behold, thou shalt see it on that day, when thou shalt go into the innermost chamber to hide thyself.

26 And the king of Israel said, Take Michayhu, and carry him back unto Amon the governor of the city, and unto Joäsh the king's son;

27 And say, Thus hath said the king, Put this man in the prison, and feed him with sparing bread and with sparing water, until I come home in peace.

28 And Michayhu said, If thou return at all in peace, then hath the LORD not spoken through me. And he said, Hear it, O all ye nations!

29 ¶ So the king of Israel went up with Jehoshaphat the king of Judah to Ramoth-gil'ad.

30 And the king of Israel said unto Jehoshaphat, I will disguise myself, and enter into the battle; but do thou put on thy regal garments. And the king of Israel disguised himself, and went into the battle.

31 And the king of Syria had commanded the captains over his chariots, thirty-two (in number), saying, Fight neither with a small nor a great one, save only with the king of Israel alone.

32 And it came to pass, when the captains of the chariots saw Jehoshaphat, that they said, Surely this is the king of Israel. And they turned aside against him to fight: and Jehoshaphat cried out.

33 And it came to pass, when the captains of the chariots perceived that it was not the king of Israel, that they turned back from following him.

34 But a man drew his bow at a venture, and struck the king of Israel between the joints[a] and the armour: wherefore he said unto his chariot-driver, Turn about, and carry me out of the camp; for I am wounded.[b]

35 And the battle increased on that day; and the king was stayed up in his chariot against the Syrians; but he died in the evening: and the blood of the wound flowed down into the hollow of the chariot.

36 And there went a proclamation throughout the camp at the going down of the sun, saying, Every man to his city, and every man to his own land.

37 So the king died, and was brought to Samaria; and they buried the king in Samaria.

38 And the chariot was washed out at the pool of Samaria; and the dogs licked up his blood, as they washed his armour;[c] according to the word of the LORD which he had spoken.

39 Now the rest of the acts of Achab, and all that he did, and the ivory house which he built, and all the cities that he built, behold, they are written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Israel.

40 So Achab slept with his fathers: and Achazyahu his son became king in his stead.

41 ¶ And Jehoshaphat the son of Assa became king over Judah in the fourth year of Achab the king of Israel.

42 Jehoshaphat was thirty and five years old when he became king, and twenty and five years did he reign in Jerusalem. And his mother's name was 'Azubah the daughter of Shilchi.

43 And he walked in all the ways of Assa his father; he turned not aside from it, doing what is right in the eyes of the LORD:

44[d] Nevertheless the high-places were not removed; for the people still offered, and burnt incense on the high-places.

45 And Jehoshaphat made peace with the king of Israel.

46 Now the rest of the acts of Jehoshaphat, and his mighty deeds that he showed, and how he warred, behold, they are written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah.

47 And the remnant of the sodomites, that had been left in the days of his father Assa, did he put away out of the land.

48 There was then no king in Edom: a deputy was king.

49 Jehoshaphat made Tharshish-ships to go to Ophir for gold; but they went not; for the ships were wrecked at 'Ezyon-geber.

50 Then said Achazyahu the son of Achab unto Jehoshaphat, Let my servants go with thy servants in the ships. But Jehoshaphat would not.

51 And Jehoshaphat slept with his fathers, and was buried with his fathers in the city of David his father: and Jehoram his son became king in his stead.

52 ¶ Achazyahu the son of Achab became king over Israel in Samaria in the seventeenth year of Jehoshaphat, the king of Judah; and he reigned over Israel two years.

53 And he did what is evil in the eyes of the LORD, and walked in the way of his father, and in the way of his mother, and in the way of Jerobo'am the son of Nebat, who had induced Israel to sin.

54 And he served Ba'al, and bowed down to him, and he provoked to anger the LORD the God of Israel, all just as his father had done.

THE SECOND BOOK OF THE KINGS,

ספר מלכים ב׳.

CONTAINING THE CONTINUATION OF THE HISTORY OF ISRAEL TO THE DESTRUCTION OF THE TEMPLE.

CHAPTER I.

1 Then did Moäb rebel against Israel after the death of Achab.

2 And Achazyah fell down through the lattice in his upper chamber that was in Samaria, and became sick; and he sent messengers, and said unto them, Go, inquire of Ba'al-zebub[a] the god of 'Ekron whether I shall recover from this sickness.

3 But an angel of the Lord spoke to Elijah the Tishbite, Arise, go up to meet the messengers of the king of Samaria, and say unto them, Is it because there is not a God in Israel, that ye go to inquire of Ba'al-zebub the god of 'Ekron?

4 Now therefore, thus hath said the Lord, From the bed on which thou art gone up shalt thou not come down; for thou shalt surely die. And Elijah departed.

5 And the messengers returned unto him, and he said unto them, Why is this that ye are already returned?

6 And they said unto him, There came up a man to meet us, and said unto us, Go, return unto the king that hath sent you, and speak unto him, Thus hath said the Lord, Is it because there is not a God in Israel, that thou sendest to inquire of Ba'al-zebub the god of 'Ekron? therefore from the bed on which thou art gone up shalt thou not come down; for thou shalt surely die.

7 And he spoke unto them, What is the manner of the man who came up to meet you, and spoke unto you these words?

8 And they said unto him, He is a hairy man, with a girdle of leather girded about his loins. And he said, It is Elijah the Tishbite.

9 Then did he send unto him a captain of fifty with his fifty: and he went up to him, and, behold, he was sitting on the top of the mount; and he spoke unto him, O man of God, the king hath commanded, Come down.

10 And Elijah answered and spoke to the captain of the fifty, And if I be a man of God, let a fire come down from heaven and consume thee and thy fifty. And there came down a fire from heaven, and consumed him and his fifty.

11 And he sent again unto him another captain of fifty with his fifty. And he commenced and spoke unto him, O man of God, thus hath the king said, Come down quickly.

12 And Elijah answered and spoke unto them, If I be a man of God, let a fire come down from heaven, and consume thee and thy fifty. And the fire of God came down from heaven, and consumed him and his fifty.

13 And he sent again a captain of fifty the third time[b] with his fifty. And the third captain of fifty went up, and came and bent down on his knees before Elijah, and besought him, and spoke unto him, O man of God, I pray thee, let my life and the life of these fifty thy servants be precious in thy eyes.

14 Behold, there came down a fire from heaven, and consumed the two captains of the first fifties with their fifties; and now let my life be precious in thy eyes.

15 ¶ And the angel of the Lord spoke unto Elijah, Go down with him: be not afraid of him. And he arose, and went down with him unto the king.

16 And he spoke unto him, Thus hath said the Lord, Forasmuch as thou didst send messengers to inquire of Ba'al-zebub the God

[a] Literally, "the lord of flies;" probably so called because he was supposed to defend the people from flies.

[b] Arnheim. Others, "the third fifty."

of 'Ekron, as though there were no God in Israel to inquire of his word: therefore from the bed on which thou art gone up shalt thou not come down;[a] for thou shalt surely die.

17 And he died, according to the word of the LORD which Elijah had spoken; and Jehoram became king in his stead in the second year of Jehoram[b] the son of Jehoshaphat the king of Judah; because he had no son.

18 Now the rest of the acts of Achazyahu which he did, behold, they are written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Israel.

CHAPTER II.

1 ¶ And it came to pass, when the LORD was about to take up Elijah by a storm-wind to heaven, that Elijah went out with Elisha' from Gilgal.

2 And Elijah said unto Elisha', Remain, I pray thee, here; for the LORD hath sent me as far as Beth'el. But Elisha' said, As the LORD liveth, and as thy soul liveth, I will not leave thee. So they went down to Beth-el.

3 And the sons[c] of the prophets that were at Beth-el came forth to Elisha', and said unto him, Knowest thou that to-day the LORD will take away thy master from thy head? And he said, I also know it; be still.

4 And Elijah said unto him, Elisha', remain, I pray thee, here; for the LORD hath sent me to Jericho. But he said, As the LORD liveth, and as thy soul liveth, I will not leave thee. So they came to Jericho.

5 And the sons of the prophets that were at Jericho came near to Elisha', and said unto him, Knowest thou that to-day the LORD will take away thy master from thy head? And he said, I also know it; be still.

6 And Elijah said unto him, Remain, I pray thee, here; for the LORD hath sent me to the Jordan. But he said, As the LORD liveth, and as thy soul liveth, I will not leave thee. So these two went on.

7 And fifty men of the sons of the prophets went, and stood opposite (to them) afar off: and those two stood by the Jordan.

8 And Elijah took his mantle, and folded it together, and smote the waters, and they were divided hither and thither, and they went, both of them, over on dry ground.

9 And it came to pass, when they passed over, that Elijah said unto Elisha', Ask what I shall do for thee, before I shall be taken away from thee. And Elisha' said, Let there be, I pray thee, a double portion[d] of thy spirit upon me.

10 And he said, Thou hast asked a hard thing: if thou see me when I am taken from thee, it shall be so (given) unto thee; but if not, it shall not be.

11 And it came to pass, as they went on, speaking as they were going, that, behold, there came a chariot of fire, and horses of fire, and parted them both asunder; and Elijah went up by a storm-wind[e] to heaven.

12 And Elisha' saw it, and he cried, My father, my father, the chariot of Israel, and their horsemen.[f] And he saw him no more; and he took hold of his clothes, and rent them in two pieces.

13 And he lifted up the mantle of Elijah that had fallen from him, and went back, and stood by the border of the Jordan;

14 And he took the mantle of Elijah that had fallen from him, and smote the waters, and said, Where is the LORD the God of Elijah? and when he also had smitten the waters, they parted hither and thither; and Elisha' passed over.

15 And when the sons of the prophets who were at Jericho, at a distance, saw him, they said, The spirit of Elijah doth rest on Elisha'. And they came forth to meet

[a] In the East, there is usually at the end of each chamber a little gallery, raised three or four feet above the floor, with a ballustrade in front, to which they go up by a few steps: here they place their beds; an allusion to which situation is involved in this declaration of Elijah's, and frequently referred to in the Sacred Scriptures. (See Gen. xlix. 4.)

[b] As it is said in chap. iii. 1, that he began his reign in the eighteenth of Jehoshaphat, it is supposed that Jehoshaphat admitted his son Jehoram to reign with him, eight or nine years before his death; hence, the second year that Jehoram was associate king, and the eighteenth of Jehoshaphat.

[c] i. e. As the Targumist renders תלמידי נביא "disciples of the prophets."

[d] Ralbag suggests that it means that Elisha requested to obtain a twofold portion of Elijah's spirit above the other disciples, regarding himself as his spiritual first-born, who was entitled to a double portion. (See Deut. xxi. 17.)

him, and bowed themselves unto him to the ground.

16 And they said unto him, Behold now, there are among thy servants fifty strong men; let them go, we pray thee, and seek thy master; peradventure the Spirit of the LORD hath taken him up, and cast him upon one of the mountains, or into one of the valleys. And he said, Ye must not send.

17 And they urged him till he was ashamed,[a] when he said, Send. And they sent fifty men; and they sought three days, but found him not.

18 And they returned again to him, for he had remained at Jericho; and he then said unto them, Did I not say unto you, Ye should not go?

19 ¶ And the men of the city said unto Elisha', Behold, I pray thee, the situation of this city is good, as my lord seeth; but the water is bad, and the land causeth untimely births.

20 And he said, Fetch me a new flask, and put salt therein: and they fetched it to him.

21 And he went forth unto the spring of the waters, and cast therein the salt, and said, Thus hath said the LORD, I have healed these waters; there shall not be from there any more death or untimely births.

22 So the waters were healed unto this day, according to the word of Elisha' which he spoke.

23 ¶ And he went up from there to Beth-el: and as he was going up by the way, there came forth young lads[b] out of the city, and they mocked him, and said unto him, Go up, bald-head! go up, bald-head!

24 And he turned back, and looked on them, and cursed them in the name of the LORD; and there came forth two she-bears out of the forest, and tore of them forty and two boys.

25 And he went from there to mount Carmel, and from there he returned to Samaria.

CHAPTER III.

1 ¶ And Jehoram the son of Achab became king over Israel in Samaria in the eighteenth year of Jehoshaphat the king of Judah, and he reigned twelve years.

2 And he did what is evil in the eyes of the LORD; but not like his father, and like his mother; and he removed the statue of Ba'al which his father had made.

3 Nevertheless unto the sins of Jerobo'am the son of Nebat, who had induced Israel to sin, did he cleave: he departed not therefrom.

4 ¶ And Mesha' the king of Moäb was a sheepmaster, and rendered as tribute unto the king of Israel a hundred thousand lambs, and a hundred thousand rams, with the wool.

5 And it came to pass, when Achab was dead, that the king of Moäb rebelled against the king of Israel.

6 And king Jehoram went out of Samaria at that time, and numbered all Israel.

7 And he went and sent to Jehoshaphat the king of Judah, saying, The king of Moäb hath rebelled against me: wilt thou go with me against Moäb to battle? And he said, I will go up, I as thyself, my people as thy people, my horses as thy horses.

8 And he said, Which way shall we go up? And he said, The way through the wilderness of Edom.

9 So the king of Israel went, with the king of Judah, and the king of Edom; and they took a circuitous route, a seven days' journey; and there was no water for the camp, and for the cattle that followed in their train.

10 And the king of Israel said, Alas! that the LORD hath called these three kings, to deliver them into the hand of Moäb!

11 But Jehoshaphat said, Is there not here a prophet of the LORD, that we may inquire of the LORD from him? And there answered one of the king of Israel's servants and said, Here is Elisha' the son of Shaphat, who poured[c] water on the hands of Elijah.

[a] i. e. till he was ashamed to refuse any longer.

[b] The words נערים קטנים not only signify little children, but young men; for קטן signifies not only little, but young, in opposition to old; and נער signifies not only a child, but a young man, grown to years of maturity: thus Isaac is called נער when perhaps over thirty years old, Joseph when thirty, and Rehobo'am when forty. These idolatrous young men, having heard of the ascension of Elijah, without believing it, blasphemously bade Elisha' follow him.—After ABARBANEL.

[c] i. e. "Had waited on him." Elisha' must therefore have followed the army in the wilderness, to be ready to take advantage of circumstances to preach the word of God.—PHILIPPSON.

12 And Jehoshaphat said, The word of the LORD is with him. And there went down to him the king of Israel and Jehoshaphat and the king of Edom.

13 And Elisha' said unto the king of Israel, What have I to do with thee? go to the prophets of thy father, and to the prophets of thy mother. And the king of Israel said unto him, Not so; for the LORD hath called these three kings, to deliver them into the hand of Moäb.

14 And Elisha' said, As the LORD of hosts liveth, before whom I have stood, surely, were it not that I regard the presence of Jehoshaphat the king of Judah, I would not look toward thee, nor see thee.

15 But now bring me a musician. And it came to pass, when the musician played, that the inspiration[a] of the LORD came upon him.

16 And he said, Thus hath said the LORD, Make this valley full of ditches.

17 For thus hath said the LORD, Ye shall not perceive wind, nor shall ye see rain; yet this valley shall be filled with water, that ye may drink, yourselves, and your flocks, and your cattle.

18 And this is yet too light a thing in the eyes of the LORD; and he will also deliver the Moäbites into your hand.

19 And ye shall smite every fortified city, and every choice city, and every good tree shall ye fell, and all springs of water shall ye stop, and every good piece of land shall ye spoil with stones.

20 And it came to pass in the morning, at the time when the meat-offering is offered, that, behold, there came water by the way from Edom, and the country was filled with the water.

21 And when all the Moäbites heard that the kings were come up to fight against them, they were called together from every one who was girded with a sword,[b] and upward, and they posted themselves on the border.

22 And when they rose up early in the morning, and the sun shone upon the water, the Moäbites saw the water at a distance as red as blood.

23 And they said, This is blood; the kings have certainly[c] had a contest among themselves, and they have smitten one another: and now, up to the spoil, Moäb.

24 But when they came to the camp of Israel, the Israelites rose up and smote the Moäbites, so that they fled before them; and they smote the Moäbites completely, even in their own country.

25 And the cities they pulled down, and into every good piece of land they cast every man his stone, and filled it up, and every spring of water they stopped, and every good tree they felled, until they left only its stones in Kir-chareseth, and this the slingers encompassed and smote it.

26 And when the king of Moäb saw that the battle was too strong for him, he took with him seven hundred men that drew the sword, to break through unto the king of Edom; but they could not.

27 Then took he his eldest[d] son that should have reigned in his stead, and offered him for a burnt-offering upon the wall. And there was great indignation against Israel: and they departed from him, and returned to their land.

CHAPTER IV.

1 ¶ And a certain woman, of the wives of the sons of the prophets cried unto Elisha', saying, Thy servant my husband is dead; and thou well knowest that thy servant was one who feared the LORD: and now the creditor is come to take my two sons unto himself for servants.[e]

2 And Elisha' said unto her, What shall I do for thee? tell me, what hast thou in the house? And she said, Thy handmaid hath nothing in the house, save a pot of oil.

[a] i. e. The power to foresee what was impending.

[b] Lit. "girdle;" i. e. from the youngest that could buckle on a sword, to those of a higher age.

[c] Jonathan. Arnheim, literally, "they have ruined themselves."

[d] Some suppose that the prince thus sacrificed was a son of the Edumean king who had fallen into the hand of the Moäbite, wherefore he felt indignant at Israel, whose alliance had brought him so much evil. Others, again, understand that Mesha' slew his own son, which revolting spectacle broke up the confederacy. Rashi, and others, that God's wrath was kindled against the Israelites, who were then idolaters.

[e] This passage proves that with the prevalence of idolatry the purer principles of the law fell into disuse. The power of taking a human being into bondage for debt, is nowhere conferred upon the creditor; and here we see that the widow of one of the scholars of the prophets is threatened by her creditor with the servitude of her children.

3 And he said, Go, borrow for thyself vessels from abroad from all thy neighbours, empty vessels, let them not be a few.

4 And then go home, and lock the door behind thee and behind thy sons, and then pour out into all those vessels; and that which is full thou shalt set aside.

5 So she went from him, and locked the door behind her and behind her sons, who brought the vessels near to her, and she poured out.

6 And it came to pass, when the vessels were full, that she said unto her son, Bring near to me yet another vessel; and he said unto her, There is not a vessel more: and the oil stayed.

7 Then came she and told it to the man of God; and he said, Go, sell the oil, and pay thy debt, and thou with thy children shalt live of the rest.

8 ¶ And it happened one day, that Elisha' passed over to Shunem, and there was a great woman, and she constrained him to eat bread; and it happened, that as oft as he passed by, he used to turn in thither to eat bread.

9 And she said unto her husband, Behold now, I perceive that this is a holy man of God, who passeth through by us continually.

10 Let us then make a little upper chamber, on the wall; and let us set for him there a bed, and a table, and a chair, and a candlestick: and it shall be, when he cometh to us, that he shall turn in thither.

11 And it happened one day, that he came thither, and he turned into the upper chamber, and lay[a] there.

12 And he said to Gechazi his servant, Call this Shunammite: and he called her, and she stood before him.

13 And he said unto him, Say now unto her, Behold, thou hast been at pains to take all this trouble for us: what is to be done for thee? wouldst thou be spoken for to the king, or to the chief of the army? And she said, I dwell in the midst of my own people.[b]

14 And he said, What then is to be done for her? And Gechazi said, Verily, she hath no son, and her husband is old.

15 And he said, Call her: and he called her, and she stood in the door.

16 And he said, At this season, next year,[c] thou shalt embrace a son. And she said, No, my lord, man of God, do not deceive thy hand-maid.

17 But the woman conceived, and bore a son at that season in the following year, as Elisha' had spoken unto her.

18 And the child grew up; and it happened one day, that he went out to his father to the reapers.

19 And he said unto his father, My head, my head: and he said to a lad, Carry him to his mother.

20 And he took him up, and brought him to his mother, and he sat on her knees till noon, when he died.

21 And she went up, and laid him on the bed of the man of God, and locked the door behind him, and went out,

22 And she called unto her husband, and said, Send me, I pray thee, one of the young men, and one of the she-asses, that I may hasten as far as the man of God, and return.

23 And he said, Wherefore art thou going to him to-day? it is neither new moon, nor sabbath.[d] And she said, It is well.

24 Then she saddled the she-ass, and said to her servant, Drive, and go forward; do not restrain me in riding, unless I say it to thee.

25 So she went and came unto the man of God to mount Carmel: and it came to pass, when the man of God saw her afar off, that he said to Gechazi his servant, Behold, yonder is that Shunammite.

26 Now do run to meet her, and say unto her, Is it well with thee? is it well with thy husband? is it well with the child? and she answered, It is well.

27 And she came to the man of God to the mount, and caught hold of his feet; and Gechazi came near to thrust her away; but the man of God said, Let her alone; for her soul is grieved within her; and the LORD hath hidden it from me, and hath not told it me.

[a] Others, "slept."

[b] "Among my relatives: no one injures me, and I have no need of the aid of the king or the chief of the army." —RASHI.

[c] See Gen. xviii. 10.

[d] This passage proves the correctness of the rabbinical rule that a person should wait upon his teacher on the festival; for the husband remonstrated with the wife, that it being neither sabbath, which includes the festivals, nor new moon, there was no cause for her going to Elisha'; and no doubt to calm his uneasiness on that account, she answered him, "It is peace," meaning, "All is well."

28 And she said, Did I request a son from my lord? did I not say, Do not lead me astray?

29 Then said he to Gechazi, Gird up thy loins, and take my staff in thy hand, and go thy way: if thou meet any man, thou shalt not salute him; and if any salute thee, thou shalt not answer him; and lay my staff upon the face of the lad.

30 And the mother of the lad said, As the LORD liveth, and as thy soul liveth, I will not leave thee. And he arose and followed her.

31 And Gechazi passed on before them, and laid the staff upon the face of the lad; but there was neither voice, nor perceptible sound; wherefore he went back to meet him, and told him, saying, The lad is not awakened.

32 And when Elisha' was come into the house, behold, the lad was dead, laid upon his bed.

33 And he went in and locked the door behind both of them, and prayed unto the LORD.

34 And he went up, and laid himself upon the child, and put his mouth upon his mouth, and his eyes upon his eyes, and his hands upon his hands; and he stretched himself upon him: and the flesh of the child became warm.

35 Then he returned, and walked in the house to and fro; and went up, and stretched himself (again) upon him: and the lad sneezed as many as seven times, and the lad opened his eyes.

36 And he called Gechazi, and said, Call this Shunammite: so he called her, and she came in unto him; and he said, Take up thy son.

37 Then went she in, and fell at his feet, and bowed herself to the ground, and took up her son, and went out.

38 ¶ And Elisha' returned to Gilgal; and there was a famine in the land; and the sons of the prophets were sitting before him: and he said unto his servant, Set on the large pot, and seethe pottage for the sons of the prophets.

39 And one went out into the field to gather herbs, and found a wild vine, and gathered thereof wild colocynths his garment full, and came and cut them up into the pot of pottage; for they knew them not.

40 And they poured it out for the men to eat; and it came to pass, as they were eating of the pottage, that they cried out, and said, Death is in the pot, O man of God. And they could not eat.

41 But he said, Then bring some meal. And he cast it into the pot; and he said, Pour it out for the people, that they may eat. And there was nothing bad in the pot.

42 ¶ And there came a man from Ba'al-shalishah, and brought unto the man of God bread of the first-fruits, twenty loaves of barley bread, and fresh ears of corn in his scrip: and he said, Give it unto the people, that they may eat.

43 And his servitor said, What, shall I set this before a hundred men? And he said, Give it unto the people, that they may eat; for thus hath said the LORD, They shall eat, and shall leave (thereof).

44 So he set it before them, and they ate, and left thereof, according to the word of the LORD.

CHAPTER V.

1 ¶ And Na'aman, the captain of the army of the king of Syria, was a great man before his lord, and highly honoured; because by him had the LORD given victory unto Syria: and this man was valiant in war, (but) a leper.

2 And the Syrians had gone out in predatory troops, and had brought away captive out of the land of Israel a little maiden; and she waited on Na'aman's wife.

3 And she said unto her mistress, Oh that my lord were but before the prophet that is in Samaria! then would he heal[a] him of his leprosy.

4 And he went in, and told his lord, saying, Thus and thus hath spoken the maiden that is from the land of Israel.

5 And the king of Syria said, Go to, go, and I will send a letter unto the king of Israel. And he departed, and took with him ten talents of silver, and six thousand pieces of gold, and ten changes of garments.

6 And he brought the letter[b] to the king

[a] Philippson, "rid him."

[b] The king of Syria, from his ignorance of the customs of Israel, where the king possessed no power over the prophet, thought it sufficient to address the former. Hence the words of Elisha', "And he shall know that there is a prophet in Israel."

of Israel, which said, And[a] now when this letter cometh unto thee, behold, I have sent to thee Na'aman my servant, that thou mayest heal him of his leprosy.

7 And it came to pass, when the king of Israel read the letter, that he rent his clothes, and said, Am I God, to kill and to make alive, that this one doth send unto me to heal a man of his leprosy? for know to a certainty, I pray you, and see that he but seeketh a quarrel against me.

8 And it happened, when Elisha' the man of God heard that the king of Israel had rent his clothes, that he sent to the king, saying, Wherefore hast thou rent thy clothes? let him but come to me, and he shall know that there is a prophet in Israel.

9 And Na'aman came with his horses and and with his chariot, and remained at the door of the house of Elisha'.

10 And Elisha' sent a messenger unto him, saying, Go and bathe seven times in the Jordan, and thy flesh shall be restored (healthy) to thee, and thou shalt become clean.

11 But Na'aman became wroth, and went away, and said, Behold, I had thought, He will surely come out to me, and stand, and call on the name of the LORD his God, and swing his hand over the place, and heal the leper.

12 Are not Amanah and Pharpar, the rivers of Damascus, better than all the waters of Israel? may I not bathe in them, and become clean? and he turned and went away in a rage.

13 And his servants came near, and spoke unto him, and they said, My father, if the prophet had bidden thee a great thing, wouldst thou not do it? how much rather then, when he hath said to thee, Bathe, and become clean?

14 Then went he down, and dived seven times in the Jordan, according to the word of the man of God: and his flesh was restored (healthy) like the flesh of a little boy, and he became clean.

15 And he returned to the man of God, he with all his camp, and came and stood before him, and said, Behold, now I know that there is no god on all the earth, but in Israel; and now, I pray thee, take a present from thy servant.

16 But he said, As the LORD liveth before whom I have stood, I will take none: and he urged him to take it; but he refused.

17 And Na'aman said, If (thou wilt) not, (then) let there be given, I pray thee, unto thy servant two mules' burden of earth; for thy servant will not offer henceforth either burnt-offering or peace-sacrifice unto other gods, except unto the LORD.

18 For this thing may the LORD pardon thy servant, that when my lord goeth into the house of Rimmon to prostrate himself there, and he leaneth on my hand, and I prostrate myself also in the house of Rimmon: when I prostrate myself in the house of Rimmon, may the LORD pardon thy servant for this thing.

19 And he said unto him, Go in peace: so he departed from him some distance.

20 ¶ But Gechazi, the servant of Elisha' the man of God, said, Behold, my master hath spared Na'aman, this Syrian, in not receiving from his hand what he had brought; but, as the LORD liveth, I will run after him, and take some little thing from him.

21 So Gechazi hurried after Na'aman; and when Na'aman saw him running after him, he lighted down from the chariot to meet him, and said, Is (all) well?

22 And he said, (All) is well. My master hath sent me, saying, Behold, even now there are come to me from the mountain of Ephraim two young men of the sons of the prophets: do give them, I pray thee, a talent of silver, and two changes of garments.

23 And Na'aman said, Give thy assent, take two talents. And he urged him, and bound up two talents of silver in two bags, with two changes of garments, and he gave them unto his two young men, and they carried them before him.

24 And when he came to the hill,[b] he took them from their hand, and bestowed them in the house: and he dismissed the men, and they departed.

25 But he went in, and stood before his master. And Elisha' said unto him, Whence comest thou, Gechazi? And he said, Thy servant went not hither or thither.

26 And he said unto him, My mind was not gone,[c] when the man turned round from his chariot to meet thee. Is it a time to take money, and to take garments, and oliveyards, and vineyards, and sheep, and oxen, and men-servants, and maid-servants?

27 May then the leprosy of Na'aman cleave unto thee, and unto thy seed for ever. And he went out from his presence a leper (as white) as snow.

CHAPTER VI.

1 ¶ And the sons of the prophets said unto Elisha', Behold now, the place where we dwell before thee is too narrow for us.

2 Let us go, we pray thee, as far as the Jordan, and take thence every man one beam, and let us prepare for us there a place to dwell therein. And he said, Go.

3 And one said, Give thy assent, I pray thee, and go with thy servants. And he said, I will indeed go.

4 So he went with them; and they came to the Jordan, and they cut down trees.

5 But as one was felling a beam, the axe-head[a] fell into the water: and he cried, and said, Alas, my lord! it was also[b] borrowed.

6 And the man of God said, Where did it fall? And he showed him the place. And he cut down a stick, and cast it in thither, and he caused the iron to swim.

7 And then said he, Lift it up to thee. And he stretched out his hand, and took it.

8 ¶ And the king of Syria made war against Israel, and took counsel with his servants, saying, In such and such a place shall be my camp.

9 And the man of God sent unto the king of Israel, saying, Beware that thou pass not that place; for thither the Syrians are come down.

10 And the king of Israel sent to the place, which the man of God had told him and warned him of, and he took care of himself there: not once nor twice.

11 Therefore the heart of the king of Syria was sorely troubled concerning this thing; and he called for his servants, and said unto them, Can ye not tell me who of us is for the king of Israel?

12 And one of his servants said, Not so, my lord, O king; but Elisha', the prophet that is in Israel, can tell unto the king of Israel the words that thou mayest speak in thy sleeping-chamber.

13 And he said, Go and see where he is, that I may send and fetch him. And it was told unto him, saying, Behold, he is in Dothan.

14 And he sent hither horses, and chariots, and a strong army: and they came by night, and surrounded the city.

15 And the servant of the man of God rose early, and went forth, when, behold, an army compassed the city both with horses and chariots. And his servant said unto him, Alas, my master! how shall we do?

16 And he said, Fear not; for those that are with us are more than those that are with them.

17 And Elisha' prayed, and said, O LORD, open, I pray thee, his eyes, that he may see. And the LORD opened the eyes of the young man: and he saw, and behold, the mountain was full of horses and chariots of fire round about Elisha'.

18 And when they came down to him, Elisha' prayed unto the LORD, and said, Smite, I pray thee, this people with blindness.[c] And he smote them with blindness according to the word of Elisha'.

19 And Elisha' said unto them, This is not the way, neither is this the city: follow me, and I will lead you to the man whom ye wish to seek. And he led them thus to Samaria.

20 And it came to pass, when they were come into Samaria, that Elisha' said, LORD, open the eyes of these, that they may see. And the LORD opened their eyes, and they saw, and, behold, they were in the midst of Samaria.

21 And the king of Israel said unto Elisha', when he saw them, Shall I smite them? Shall I smite them, my father?

22 But he said, Thou shalt not smite them: wouldst thou smite those whom thou hast taken captive with thy sword and with thy bow?[d] set bread and water before them, that they may eat and drink, and go (back) to their master.

23 And he prepared for them a great meal; and they ate and drank, and he sent them away, and they went (back) to their master. And the predatory bands of Syria came no more into the land of Israel.

24 ¶ And it came to pass after this, that Ben-hadad the king of Syria assembled all his camp, and went up, and besieged Samaria.

25 And there was a great famine in Samaria; and, behold, they besieged it, until an ass's head was sold for eighty pieces of silver, and the fourth part of a kab of dove's dung for five pieces of silver.

26 And it happened as the king of Israel was passing along upon the wall, that a woman cried unto him, saying, Help, my lord, O king.

27 And he said, If the LORD do not help thee, whence shall I help thee? shall it be out of the threshing-floor, or out of the wine-press?

28 And the king said unto her, What aileth thee? And she said, This woman said unto me, Give up thy son, that we may eat him to-day, and my son we will eat to-morrow.

29 So we boiled my son, and ate him; but when I said unto her on the next day, Give up thy son, that we may eat him: she hid her son.

30 And it came to pass, when the king heard the words of the woman, that he rent his clothes, as he was passing along upon the wall: and the people looked, and, behold, he had sackcloth beneath upon his flesh.

31 Then said he, May God do so unto me and continue so yet farther, if the head of Elisha' the son of Shaphat[a] shall remain on him this day.

32 But Elisha' was sitting in his house, and the elders were sitting with him; and he[b] sent a man from before him; but before the messenger could yet come to him, he said to the elders, See ye how this son of the murderer hath sent to remove my head? look, when the messenger cometh, shut the door, and hold him back with the door: is not the sound of his master's feet behind him?

33 And while he was yet speaking with them, behold, the messenger came down unto him: and he[c] said, Behold, this evil is of the LORD; what shall I hope for in the LORD any longer?

CHAPTER VII.

1 ¶ Then said Elisha', Hear ye the word of the LORD: Thus hath said the LORD, About this time to-morrow a seäh[d] of fine flour shall be sold for a shekel, and two seähs of barley for a shekel, in the gate of Samaria.

2 Then answered the lord of the king, on whose hand he used to lean, the man of God, and said, Behold, will the LORD make windows in the heavens, that this thing shall be? And he said, Behold, thou shalt see it with thy eyes, but thereof shalt thou not eat.

3 ¶ And there were four leprous men at the entrance of the gate: and they said one to another, Why do we remain[e] here until we die?

4 If we say, We will enter into the city, then is the famine in the city, and we shall die there; and if we remain here, we die (also): now therefore come, and let us go[f] over unto the camp of the Syrians; if they will let us live, we shall live; and if they kill us, we shall but die.

5 And they rose up in the twilight, to go unto the camp of the Syrians; and when they were come to the uttermost part of the camp of the Syrians, behold, there was no man there.

6 For the Lord had caused the camp of the Syrians to hear a noise of chariots, and a noise of horses, the noise of a large army: and they said one to the other, Lo, the king of Israel hath hired against us the kings of the Hittites, and the kings of the Egyptians, to come upon us.

7 And they were arisen and fled in the twilight, and had left their tents, and their

[a] Perhaps he expected, as Rashi thinks, that Elisha' ought and could have prevented the famine by procuring the defeat of the Syrians, through his prayers; or perhaps, as others suggest, he had dissuaded him from surrendering.

[b] Rashi adds, "the king;" but it more properly refers to Elisha', who sent out somebody to look out for the messenger whom he knew prophetically to be coming.—PHILIPPSON.

[c] Rashi says, "he" refers to "the king," who was also after the messenger.

[d] The seäh was about two gallons and a half.

[f] Lit. "fall unto."

horses, and their asses, the camp as it was, and fled for their life.

8 And so came these lepers to the uttermost part of the camp, and they went into one tent, and ate and drank, and carried away thence silver, and gold, and garments, and went and hid them; and they returned, and entered into another tent, and carried away (something) thence, and went and hid it.

9 And then they said one to the other, We do not act correctly; this day is a day of good tidings; and if we remain silent,[a] and tarry till the morning-light, we shall incur guilt: now then come, and let us go and tell it at the king's house.

10 So they went and called unto one of the gate-keepers of the city, and they told them, saying, We came to the camp of the Syrians, and, behold, there was no man there, nor the voice of man; but the horses were tied, and the asses were tied, and the tents as they had been.

11 And he called the gate-keepers; and they told it at the king's house within.

12 And the king arose in the night, and said unto his servants, I can easily tell you what the Syrians have done to us: they know that we are hungry; and they are therefore gone out of the camp to hide themselves in the field, saying, If they should come out of the city, we will catch them alive, and enter into the city.

13 And one of his servants answered and said, Let some take, I pray thee, five of the horses that remain, which are left in the city, let it fare with them as with all the multitude of Israel that are left in it, (or) let it fare with them as with all the multitude of Israel that have perished:[b] and let us send out and see.

14 And they took two chariots with horses;[c] and the king sent after the camp of the Syrians, saying, Go and see.

15 And they went after them as far as the Jordan; and, lo, the whole way was full of garments and vessels, which the Syrians had cast away in their haste: and the messengers returned, and told it to the king.

16 And the people went out, and plundered the camp of the Syrians: and a seäh of fine flour was to be had for a shekel, and two seähs of barley for a shekel, according to the word of the LORD.

17 And the king had appointed the lord on whose hand he used to lean to have the charge of the gate; and the people trod him down in the gate, and he died; as the man of God had spoken, which he spoke when the king came down to him.

18 And it came to pass as the man of God was speaking to the king, saying, Two seähs of barley for a shekel, and a seäh of fine flour for a shekel, shall be about this time to-morrow in the gate of Samaria:

19 That the lord had answered the man of God, and said, Now, behold, if even the LORD were to make windows in the heavens, would such a thing be? And he had said, Behold, thou shalt see it with thy eyes, but thereof shalt thou not eat.

20 And it happened unto him so; for the people trod him down in the gate, and he died.[d]

CHAPTER VIII.

1 ¶ And Elisha' spoke unto the woman, whose son he had restored to life, saying, Arise, and go, thou and thy household, and sojourn wheresoever thou canst sojourn; for the LORD hath called for a famine, and it is also coming in the land for seven years.

2 And the woman arose, and did after the word of the man of God; and she went, she with her household, and sojourned in the land of the Philistines seven years.

3 And it came to pass at the end of seven years, that the woman returned out of the land of the Philistines; and she went forth to cry unto the king for her house and for her land.

4 ¶ And the king was just speaking with Gechazi the servant of the man of God, saying, Relate to me, I pray thee, all the great things that Elisha hath done.

5 And it came to pass, as he was just relating to the king how he had restored the dead to life, that, behold, the woman, whose son he had restored to life, cried to the king for her house and for her land. And Gechazi said, My lord, O king, this is the woman, and this is her son, whom Elisha' restored to life.

6 And the king asked of the woman, who related it to him. So the king appointed unto her a certain officer, saying, Restore all that belongeth to her, and all the products of the field since the day that she left the land, even until now.

7 ¶ And Elisha' came to Damascus;[a] and Ben-hadad the king of Syria was sick; and it was told him, saying, The man of God is come even hither.

8 And the king said unto Chazaël, Take a present in thy hand, and go to meet the man of God, and inquire of the LORD from him, saying, Shall I recover from this sickness?

9 So Chazaël went to meet him, and took a present in his hand, and all manner of good things of Damascus, a burden for forty camels, and he came and stood before him, and said, Thy son Ben-hadad the king of Syria hath sent me to thee, saying, Shall I recover from this sickness?

10 And Elisha' said unto him, Go, say unto him, Thou mayest certainly recover; nevertheless the LORD hath shown me that he shall surely die.

11 And he restrained[b] his countenance, and held back as long as he could: and then wept the man of God.

12 And Chazaël said, Why doth my lord weep? And he said, Because I know what evil thou wilt do unto the children of Israel: their strong-holds wilt thou set on fire, and their young men wilt thou slay with the sword, and their children wilt thou dash, and their pregnant women wilt thou rip up.

13 And Chazaël said, But what is thy servant, the dog,[c] that he should do this great thing? And Elisha' said, The LORD hath caused me to see thee as king over Syria.

14 So he went away from Elisha', and came to his master; who said to him, What hath Elisha' said to thee? And he said, He said to me that thou couldst surely recover.

15 And it came to pass on the morrow, that he took a coverlid, and dipped it in water, and spread[d] it over his face, and he died: and Chazaël became king in his stead.

16 ¶ And in the fifth year of Joram the son of Achab the king of Israel, Jehoshaphat being yet king of Judah, Jehoram the son of Jehoshaphat the king of Judah became king.

17 Thirty and two years old was he when he became king, and eight years did he reign in Jerusalem.

18 And he walked in the way of the kings of Israel, as the house of Achab had done; for a daughter of Achab had he for wife: and he did what is evil in the eyes of the LORD.

19 Yet would the LORD not destroy Judah for the sake of David his servant, as he said unto him, to give him a government[e] and to his children at all times.

20 In his days Edom revolted from under the power of Judah, and they appointed a king over themselves.

21 And Joram went over to Za'ir, and all the chariots were with him; and he rose up by night, and smote the Edomites who compassed him about, and the captains of the chariots: and the people fled unto their tents.

22 Yet Edom revolted[f] from under the power of Judah even until this day; then did Libnah revolt at the same time.

23 And the rest of the acts of Joram, and all that he did, behold, they are written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah.

24 And Joram slept with his fathers, and was buried with his fathers in the city of David: and Achazyahu his son became king in his stead.

25 ¶ In[g] the twelfth year of Joram the son of Achab the king of Israel became Achazyahu, the son of Jehoram the king of Judah, king.

[b] After Rashi, who explains "countenance" as though it read "sorrowful countenance." Jonathan, "He turned away his face," &c. Philippson, "And he directed his face (toward him) and fixed it on him till he was ashamed, and he wept—the man of God." Zunz has nearly the same idea.

[c] Not as in the English version, "What, is thy servant a dog," &c., but, "the dog;" meaning, "Shall so worthless a person ever have the power to do," &c.

[d] The text leaves it doubtful whether Chazaël or Ben-hadad himself moistened the coverlid or cloth and placed it on his face to allay the fever; and if Chazaël did, whether it was to serve the sick king, or to smother him; probably the first was the case, as such a remedy is said not to be uncommon in the East.

26 Two and twenty years old was Achazyahu when he became king; and one year did he reign in Jerusalem. And his mother's name was 'Athalyahu, the (grand-)daughter of 'Omri the king of Israel.

27 And he walked in the way of the house of Achab, and did what is evil in the eyes of the LORD, like the house of Achab; for he was the son-in-law of the house of Achab.

28 And he went with Joram the son of Achab to the war against Chazaël the king of Syria at Ramoth-gil'ad: and the Syrians smote Joram.

29 And king Joram returned to be healed in Yizre'el of the wounds which the Syrians had inflicted on him at Ramah,[a] when he was fighting against Chazaël the king of Syria. And Achazyahu the son of Jehoram the king of Judah went down to see Joram the son of Achab in Yizre'el, because he was sick.

CHAPTER IX.

1 ¶ And Elisha' the prophet called one of the children of the prophets, and said unto him, Gird[b] up thy loins, and take this flask of oil in thy hand, and go to Ramoth-gil'ad:

2 And when thou art come thither, look out there for Jehu the son of Jehoshaphat the son of Nimshi, and go in, and cause him to stand up from the midst of his brethren, and bring him in to the innermost chamber;

3 And thou shalt then take the flask of oil, and pour it on his head, and say, Thus hath said the LORD, I have anointed thee as king over Israel. Then must thou open the door, and flee, and not wait for any thing.

4 So the young man, the disciple[c] of the prophet, went to Ramoth-gil'ad.

5 And when he came, behold, the captains of the army were sitting; and he said, I have a word for thee, O captain. And Jehu said, For whom of all of us? And he said, For thee, O captain.

6 And he arose, and went into the house: and he poured the oil on his head, and said unto him, Thus hath said the LORD the God of Israel, I anoint thee as king over the people of the LORD, over Israel.

7 And thou shalt smite the house of Achab thy master, that I may avenge the blood of my servants the prophets, and the blood of all the servants of the LORD, at the hand of Izebel.

8 And the whole house of Achab shall perish: and I will cut off from Achab every male, and the guarded and fortified in Israel;

9 And I will make the house of Achab like the house of Jerobo'am the son of Nebat, and like the house of Ba'sha the son of Achiyah;

10 And Izebel shall the dogs eat in the field of Yizre'el, with none to bury her. And he (then) opened the door, and fled.

11 But Jehu came forth to the servants of his lord: and one said unto him, Is all well? wherefore came this madman to thee? And he said unto them, Ye yourselves know the man, and his talk.

12 And they said, It is false: only tell us, we pray thee. And he said, So and so did he speak to me, saying, Thus hath said the LORD, I anoint thee as king over Israel.

13 Then they hastened, and they took every man his garment, and put it under him on the top[d] of the stairs; and they blew the cornet, saying, Jehu is king.

14 So Jehu the son of Jehoshaphat the son of Nimshi conspired against Joram. (Now Joram had kept guard at Ramoth-gil'ad, he and all Israel, because of Chazaël the king of Syria.

15 But king Jehoram was returned to be healed in Yizre'el of the wounds which the Syrians had inflicted on him, when he was fighting with Chazaël the king of Syria.) And Jehu said, If this be your mind, then let none that escapeth go forth out of the city to go to tell it in Yizre'el.

16 So Jehu rode in a chariot, and went to Yizre'el; for Joram was lying there. And Achazyah the king of Judah was come down to see Joram.

17 And the watchman stood on the tower in Yizre'el, and he saw the company of Jehu as he came; and he said, A company do I see. And Jehoram said, Take a horseman, and send out to meet them, and let him say, Is it peace?

18 So there went one riding on horseback to meet him, and said, Thus hath said the king, Is it peace? And Jehu said, What hast thou to do with peace? turn thee about behind me. And the watchman told, saying, The messenger came up to them, but he hath not returned.

19 Then sent he out a second rider on horseback, who came to them, and said, Thus hath said the king, Is it peace? And Jehu answered, What hast thou to do with peace? turn thee about behind me.

20 And the watchman told, saying, He came up to them, but he hath not returned: and the driving is like the driving of Jehu the son of Nimshi; for he driveth as though he were mad.

21 And Jehoram said, Harness up. And his chariot was harnessed up. And Jehoram the king of Israel and Achazyahu the king of Judah went out, each in his chariot, and they went out to meet Jehu, and found him in the portion of land of Naboth the Yizre'elite.

22 And it came to pass, when Jehoram saw Jehu, that he said, Is it peace, Jehu? And he said, What peace can there be with the acts of incest of thy mother Izebel and her many witcherafts?

23 And Jehoram turned about,[a] and fled, and said to Achazyahu, Treachery, Achazyahu.

24 And Jehu grasped[b] the bow with his full strength, and struck Jehoram between his arms, and the arrow went out at his heart, and he sunk down in his chariot.

25 Then said he to Bidkar his officer, Lift up, (and) cast him down in the part of the field that was Naboth's the Yizre'elite; for remember how that I and thou rode alongside each other after Achab his father, when the LORD pronounced over him this fatal decree:[c]

26 Surely I have seen yesterday the blood of Naboth, and the blood of his sons, saith the LORD; and I will repay thee in this part of the field, saith the LORD. And now lift up, (and) cast him down into the field, according to the word of the LORD.

27 And when Achazyahu the king of Judah saw this, he fled by the way of the garden-house; but Jehu pursued after him, and said. Also him smite in the chariot. (And they did so) on the ascent to Gur, which is by Yible'am. And he fled to Megiddo, and died there.

28 And his servants carried him in a chariot to Jerusalem, and buried him in his sepulchre with his fathers in the city of David.

29 ¶ And in the eleventh year of Joram the son of Achab became Achazyah king over Judah.

30 And Jehu came to Yizre'el; and when Izebel heard of it, she painted her eyes, and ornamented her head, and looked out at the window.

31 And as Jehu entered in at the gate, she said, Is it peace, O Zimri, who hath slain his master?

32 And he lifted up his face to the window, and said, Who is on my side? who? And there looked out to him two or three chamberlains.

33 And he said. Pitch her down. So they pitched her down: and some of her blood was sprinkled on the wall, and on the horses; and he trod her under foot.[d]

34 And he came in, and ate and drank; and then said he, Look, I pray you, after this accursed one, and bury her; for she is a king's daughter.

35 And they went to bury her; but they found nothing of her but the skull, and the feet, and the palms of the hands.

36 And they returned, and told him; and he said, It is the word of the LORD, which he spoke by means of his servant Elijah the Tishbite, saying, In the field of Yizre'el shall the dogs eat the flesh of Izebel:

37 And the carcass of Izebel shall be as dung upon the face of the field in the portion of Yizre'el; so that they shall not say, This is Izebel.

CHAPTER X.

1 ¶ And Achab had seventy sons in Samaria. And Jehu wrote letters and sent them

[a] Lit. "turned about his hands;" i. e. turning the reins of the horses with his hands.

[b] Heb. "filled his hand with a bow."

[c] Lit. "bore over him this burden."

[d] Philippson, freely, "and he drove on over her."

to Samaria, unto the rulers of Yizre'el, the elders, and to those that brought up Achab's children, saying,

2 And[a] now as soon as this letter cometh to you, seeing that there are with you your master's sons, and there are with you the chariots and the horses, and the fortified city, and the armour:

3 Select then the best and the most fitting of your master's sons, and set him on his father's throne, and fight for your master's house.

4 But they were exceedingly much afraid, and said, Behold, the two kings could not stand before him: how then shall we be able to stand?

5 And the superintendent over the house, and the commander over the city, and the elders, and the bringers up of the children, sent to Jehu, saying, We are thy servants, and all that thou mayest say unto us will we do; we will not set up any one as king: do what is good in thy eyes.

6 Then wrote he to them a letter the second time, saying, If ye be for me, and if ye will hearken unto my voice, then take the heads of the men, your master's sons, and come to me to Yizre'el by this time to-morrow. Now the king's sons, seventy persons, were with the great men of the city, who brought them up.

7 And it came to pass, when the letter came to them, that they took the king's sons and slaughtered them, seventy persons, and put their heads in baskets, and sent them to him to Yizre'el.

8 And the messenger came, and told him, saying, They have brought the heads of the king's sons. And he said, Place ye them in two heaps at the entrance of the gate until the morning.

9 And it came to pass in the morning, that he went out, and stood, and said to all the people, Ye are righteous: behold, I conspired against my master, and slew him; but who hath killed all these?

10 Know now that there shall not fall of the word of the LORD unto the earth, the least that the LORD hath spoken concerning the house of Achab; and the LORD hath done that which he spoke by means of his servant Elijah.

11 And Jehu smote all that yet remained of the house of Achab in Yizre'el, and all his great men, and his acquaintance, and his priests, until he had left him none that escaped.

12 And he arose and departed, and came to Samaria; he was just at the binding-house[b] of the shepherds, on the way:

13 When Jehu met with the brothers of Achazyahu the king of Judah, and he said, Who are ye? And they said, The brothers of Achazyahu are we; and we are come down to salute the children of the king and the children of the queen.

14 And he said, Seize them alive. And they seized them alive, and slaughtered them at the pit of the binding-house, two and forty men; and he left not one of them remaining.

15 ¶ And he went away thence, and met Yehonadab the son of Rechab coming to meet him: and he saluted him, and said to him, Is all right in thy heart, as my heart is with thy heart? And Yehonadab answered, It is; it is:[c] give me thy hand. And he gave him his hand; and he took him up to him into the chariot.

16 And he said, Come with me, and behold my zeal for the LORD. So they made him ride in his chariot.

17 And when he came to Samaria, he smote all that yet remained unto Achab in Samaria, till he had exterminated him, according to the word of the LORD which he had spoken to Elijah.

18 ¶ And Jehu assembled all the people,

[a] Frequently when letters or messages are quoted in the Bible, only the material parts referring to the narrative in hand are recorded; hence the portion given, as here, fitly commences with and, the preceding part being omitted.

[b] i. e. Where the sheep were bound when they were shorn. Jonathan and Rashi, "where the shepherds used to assemble." Zunz, and Eng. ver., "shearing-house."

[c] Rodk, "It is. And if it be so, give me thy hand," the first יש being Yehonadab's answer, and the second יש the reply of Jehu. Our version is after Rashi. If the other idea be the correct one, Jehu asked for the hand of Yehonadab the influential, not merely for the purpose of assisting him into the chariot, but that he might give him an assurance that he would aid him in the prosecution of his designs; for giving the hand is considered as a pledge of friendship and fidelity, or a form of entering into a contract, among all nations.

and said unto them, Ahab hath served Ba'al a little: Jehu will serve him much.

19 And now call unto me all the prophets of Ba'al, all his worshippers, and all his priests: let no one be missing; for I have a great sacrifice to make for Ba'al; whosoever will be missing, shall not live. But Jehu did it in subtilty, in order to destroy the worshippers of Ba'al.

20 And Jehu said, Sanctify a solemn assembly for Ba'al. And they proclaimed it.

21 And Jehu sent throughout all Israel: and there came all the worshippers of Ba'al, so that there was not a man remaining that came not; and they came into the house of Ba'al; and the house of Ba'al was full from one end to another.

22 And he said unto him that was over the wardrobe,[a] Bring forth vestments for all the worshippers of Ba'al. And he brought forth for them the vestments.

23 And Jehu went, with Yehonadab the son of Rechab, into the house of Ba'al, and he said unto the worshippers of Ba'al, Search, and look that there be not here with you any of the servants of the LORD, but the worshippers of Ba'al entirely alone.

24 And they went in to prepare sacrifices and burnt-offerings; but Jehu had set for himself without eighty men, and said, (If there be) a man that escapeth from the men whom I deliver into your hands, (there shall be given) life[b] for his life.

25 And it came to pass, as soon as they had made an end of preparing the burnt-offering, that Jehu said to the runners and to the officers, Go in, smite them: let none come forth. And they smote them with the edge of the sword; and the runners and the captains cast them out, and went as far as the city[c] of the house of Ba'al.

26 And they brought forth the statues out of the house of Ba'al, and burnt every one of them.

27 And they broke down the statue of Ba'al, and broke down the house of Ba'al, and made it a common sewer unto this day.

28 Thus Jehu exterminated Ba'al out of Israel.

29 Nevertheless the sins of Jerobo'am the son of Nebat, who induced Israel to sin, Jehu departed not from in following them, (namely,) the golden calves that were in Beth-el, and that were in Dan.

30 ¶ And the LORD said unto Jehu, Forasmuch as thou hast acted well in doing what is right in my eyes, and hast done in accordance with all that was in my heart unto the house of Ahab: children of the fourth generation after thee shall sit upon the throne of Israel.

31 But Jehu took no heed to walk in the law of the LORD the God of Israel with all his heart: he departed not from the sins of Jerobo'am, who induced Israel to sin.

32 In those days the LORD began to cut Israel short;[d] and Chazaël smote them in all the boundary of Israel;

33 From the Jordan to the rising of the sun, all the land of Gil'ad, the Gadites, and the Reübenites, and the Menassites, from 'Aro'er which is by the river Arnon, both Gil'ad and Bashan.

34 Now the rest of the acts of Jehu, and all that he did, and all his mighty deeds, behold, they are written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Israel.

35 And Jehu slept with his fathers, and they buried him in Samaria. And Jehoächaz his son became king in his stead.

36 And the time that Jehu reigned over Israel in Samaria was twenty and eight years.

CHAPTER XI.

1 ¶ And when 'Athalyah the mother of Achazyahu saw that her son was dead, she arose and destroyed all the seed royal.

2 But Yehosheba', the daughter of king Joram, the sister of Achazyahu, took Joäsh the son of Achazyahu, and stole him away from among the king's sons that were slain, him and his nurse into the[e] bed-chamber: and they hid him from 'Athalyah, so that he was not slain.

[a] Rashi, after Jonathan, "the one over the chests of the garments;" i. e. the festive dress worn by the worshippers of Ba'al. Our version includes the idea of both the garment and the place where they were kept.

[b] Lit. "his life;" i. e. the guard's who is at fault.

[c] Perhaps the quarter where the priests lived.

[d] i. e. To cut off, by means of the enemies, one piece of the land after the other; but Rashi, "to feel disgust in Israel."

[e] Where the officiating priests slept in the temple.

3 And he was with her in the house of the LORD hidden for six years, while 'Athalyah was reigning over the land.

4 ¶ And in the seventh year Yehoyada' sent and fetched the rulers over the hundreds, of the guards[a] and the runners, and brought them to him into the house of the LORD, and made a covenant with them, and made them swear in the house of the LORD, and showed them the king's son.

5 And he commanded them, saying, This is the thing that ye shall do: A third part of you that enter in on the sabbath shall even be keeping watch in the king's house;

6 And a third part shall be at the gate of Sur; and a third part at the gate behind the runners; so shall ye keep watch at the house, as a defence.[b]

7 And two parts of you all that are relieved[c] on the sabbath, even they shall keep watch in the house of the LORD about the king.

8 And ye shall encompass the king round about, every man with his weapons in his hand; and he that cometh within the ranges shall be put to death: and be ye with the king when he goeth out and when he cometh in.

9 And the captains over the hundreds did in accordance with all that Yehoyada' the priest had commanded: and they took every man his men that came in on the sabbath, with those that were to be relieved on the sabbath, and came to Yehoyada' the priest.

10 And the priest gave to the captains over the hundred the spears and shields that had belonged to king David, that were in the house of the LORD.

11 And the runners stood every man with his weapons in his hand, from the right side of the house to the left side of the house, by the altar and within, round about the king.

12 And he brought forth the king's son, and put the crown upon him, and (gave him) the testimony,[d] and they made him king, and anointed him; and they clapped their hands, and said, Long live the king.

13 ¶ And when 'Athalyah heard the noise of the runners[e] (and) of the people, she came to the people in the house of the LORD.

14 And she looked, and, behold, the king stood upon a stand, according to custom, and the princes and the trumpeters were by the king, and all the people of the land were rejoicing, and blowing with trumpets: and 'Athalyah then rent her clothes, and cried, Conspiracy! conspiracy!

15 But Yehoyada' the priest commanded the captains of the hundreds, the commanders of the army, and said unto them, Lead her forth to within the ranges: and him that followeth her put to death with the sword. For the priest had said, She shall not be slain in the house of the LORD.

16 And they made way for her;[f] and she went by the way of the entrance of the horses into the king's house: and she was put to death there.

17 ¶ And Yehoyada' made a covenant between the LORD and between the king and between the people, that they should be a people unto the LORD; and between the king and between the people.

18 And then came all the people of the land into the house of Ba'al, and pulled it down: his altars and his images they broke in pieces thoroughly, and Mattan the priest of Ba'al they slew before the altars. And the priest appointed superintendents[g] over the house of the LORD.

19 And he took the chiefs over hundreds, and the guards, and the runners, and all the people of the land, and they brought down the king from the house of the LORD, and came by the way of the gate of the runners to the king's house: and he sat on the throne of the kings.

20 And all the people of the land rejoiced, and the city was quiet; but 'Athalyah they had slain with the sword at the king's house.

CHAPTER XII.

1[a] ¶ Seven years old was Jehoäsh when he became king.

2 In the seventh year of Jehu became Jehoäsh king; and forty years did he reign in Jerusalem; and the name of his mother was Zibyah of Beër-sheba'.

3 And Jehoäsh did what is right in the eyes of the LORD all his days, that Yehoyada' the priest instructed him.

4 Only the high-places were not removed: the people as yet sacrificed and burnt incense on the high-places.

5 And Jehoäsh said to the priests, All the money of the dedicated things that may be brought into the house of the LORD, the money of every one that passeth the numbering, the money any man is valued at, and all the money that cometh into any man's heart to bring into the house of the LORD,

6 The priests shall take to themselves, every man from his acquaintance; and they shall repair the breaches of the house, wheresoever any breach may be found.

7 ¶ But it happened, that in the three and twentieth year of king Jehoäsh the priests had not repaired the breaches of the house.

8 Then called king Jehoäsh for Yehoyada' the priest, and the (other) priests, and he said unto them, Wherefore do ye not repair the breaches of the house? and now ye shall take no more money from your acquaintances, but ye shall give it up (at once) for the breaches of the house.

9 And the priests consented neither to take any more money from the people, nor to repair the breaches of the house.

10 But Yehoyada' the priest took a chest, and bored a hole in its lid, and he placed it beside the altar, on the right side as one cometh into the house of the LORD: and the priests that kept watch at the threshold put therein all the money, that was brought into the house of the LORD.

11 And it happened, when they saw that there was much money in the chest, that the king's scribe and the high-priest came up, and they put up in bags, after having counted, the money that was found in the house of the LORD.

12 And they gave the money, after it was counted, into the hands of those who overlooked[b] the workmen, that had been appointed[c] as overseers of the house of the LORD: and they laid it out to the carpenters and to the builders, that wrought on the house of the LORD,

13 And to the masons, and the hewers of stone, and for the purchase of timber and hewn stones to repair the breaches of the house of the LORD, and for all that was laid out for the house to repair it.

14 Nevertheless there were not made for the house of the LORD bowls of silver, knives, basins, trumpets, all kinds of vessels of gold, or vessels of silver, from the money that was brought into the house of the LORD;

15 But they gave it to those who overlooked the workmen, and they repaired therewith the house of the LORD.

16 And they reckoned not with the men, into whose hand they delivered the money to give it to those who overlooked the workmen; for they acted in good faith.

17 The money for trespass-offerings[d] and the money for sin-offerings was not brought into the house of the LORD: it belonged to the priests.

18 ¶ At that time Chazaël the king of Syria went up, and fought against Gath, and captured it: and Chazaël directed his face to go up against Jerusalem.

19 Then took Jehoäsh the king of Judah all the hallowed things that Jehoshaphat, Jehoram, and Achazyahu, his fathers, the kings of Judah, had dedicated, and his own hallowed things, and all the gold that was found in the treasures of the house of the LORD, and in the king's house, and sent it to Chazaël the king of Syria: and he withdrew from Jerusalem.

20 And the rest of the acts of Joäsh, and all that he did, behold, they are written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah.

21 And his servants arose, and formed a conspiracy, and smote Joäsh in Beth-millo, which (lieth on the road) that goeth down to Silla.

22 And Yozachar the son of Shim'ath, and Yehozabad the son of Shomer, his servants, smote him, and he died; and they buried him with his fathers in the city of David: and Amazyah his son became king in his stead.

CHAPTER XIII.

1 ¶ In the three and twentieth year of Joäsh the son of Achazyahu the king of Judah became Jehoächaz the son of Jehu king over Israel in Samaria (for) seventeen years.

2 And he did what is evil in the eyes of the LORD, and followed the sins of Jerobo'am the son of Nebat, who induced Israel to sin: he departed not therefrom.

3 And the anger of the LORD was kindled against Israel; and he gave them up into the hand of Chazaël the king of Syria, and into the hand of Ben-hadad the son of Chazaël, all the time.

4 And Jehoächaz besought the LORD; and the LORD hearkened unto him; for he saw the oppression of Israel, how the king of Syria oppressed them.

5 (And the LORD gave Israel a deliverer, so that they came out from under the power of the Syrians: and the children of Israel dwelt in their tents, as in times past.

6 Nevertheless they departed not from the sins of the house of Jerobo'am, who induced Israel to sin, therein the people walked: and the Asherah[a] also remained standing in Samaria.)

7 For[b] he had left of people to Jehoächaz none but fifty horsemen, and ten chariots, and ten thousand men on foot; for the king of Syria had destroyed them, and had made them like the dust at[c] threshing.

8 Now the rest of the acts of Jehoächaz, and all that he did, and his mighty deeds, behold, they are written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Israel.

9 And Jehoächaz slept with his fathers; and they buried him in Samaria: and Joäsh his son became king in his stead.

10 ¶ In the thirty and seventh year of Joäsh the king of Judah became Jehoäsh the son of Jehoächaz king over Israel in Samaria, (for) sixteen years.

11 And he did what is evil in the eyes of the LORD; he departed not from all the sins of Jerobo'am the son of Nebat, who induced Israel to sin: therein he walked.

12 And the rest of the acts of Joäsh, and all that he did, and his mighty deeds wherewith he fought against Amazyah the king of Judah, behold, they are written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Israel.

13 And Joäsh slept with his fathers; and Jerobo'am sat[d] upon his throne: and Joäsh was buried in Samaria with the kings of Israel.

14 ¶ Now Elisha' was fallen sick of his sickness whereof he had to die. And Joäsh the king of Israel came down unto him, and wept over his face, and said, O my father, my father, the chariot of Israel, and their horsemen.[e]

15 And Elisha' said unto him, Fetch a bow and arrows. And he fetched unto him a bow and arrows.

16 And he said to the king of Israel, Place thy hand[f] upon the bow. And he placed his hand (upon it): and Elisha' laid his hands upon the king's hands.

17 And he said, Open the window eastward. And he opened it. Then said Elisha', Shoot. And he shot. And he said, The arrow of victory from the LORD, and the arrow of victory over Syria; and thou shalt smite the Syrians in Aphek, till they be consumed.

18 And he said, Take the arrows. And he took them. And he said unto the king of Israel, Strike upon the ground. And he struck three times, and stopped.

19 And the man of God was angry with him, and said, Thou shouldst have struck five or six times; then wouldst thou have smitten the Syrians till they had been consumed: whereas now thou shalt smite the Syrians three times.

20 ¶ And Elisha' died, and they buried him. And the predatory bands of the Moäbites frequently invaded the land at the coming in of the year.

21 ¶ And it came to pass, as they were burying a man, that, behold, they saw the band; and they cast down the man into the sepulchre of Elisha': and as the man came, and touched the bones of Elisha', he revived, and rose up on his feet.

22 ¶ But Chazaël the king of Syria oppressed Israel all the days of Jehoächaz.

23 And the LORD became gracious unto them, and had mercy on them, and turned his regard unto them, because of his covenant with Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, and would not destroy them, and he cast them not off from his presence even until now.[a]

24 And Chazaël the king of Syria died: and Ben-hadad his son became king in his stead.

25 And Jehoäsh the son of Jehoächaz took again the cities out of the power of Ben-hadad the son of Chazaël, which he had taken out of the power of Jehoächaz his father in the war. Three times did Joäsh beat him, and he recovered the cities of Israel.

CHAPTER XIV.

1 ¶ In the second year of Joäsh the son of Joächaz the king of Israel became Amazyahu, the son of Joäsh the king of Judah, king.

2 Twenty and five years was he old when he became king, and twenty and nine years did he reign in Jerusalem. And his mother's name was Yeho'addan of Jerusalem.

3 And he did what is right in the eyes of the LORD, yet not like David his father: in accordance with all that Joäsh his father had done, (so) did he.

4 Nevertheless the high-places were not removed: as yet the people sacrificed and burnt incense on the high-places.

5 And it came to pass, when the kingdom was firmly established in his hand, that he slew his servants who had slain the king his father.

6 But the children of the murderers he put not to death: as it is written in the book of the law of Moses, that the LORD commanded, saying, The fathers shall not be put to death for the children, nor shall the children be put to death for the fathers; but every man shall be put to death for his own sin.[b]

7 He it was that smote of Edom in the valley of salt ten thousand men, and seized Sela'[c] in the war, and called its name Yokthe'el until this day.

8 ¶ Then sent Amazyah messengers to Jehoäsh, the son of Jehoächaz the son of Jehu, the king of Israel, saying, Come, let us look one another in the face.[d]

9 And Jehoäsh the king of Israel sent to Amazyahu the king of Judah, saying, The thornbush that was in the Lebanon sent to the cedar that was in the Lebanon, saying, Give thy daughter to my son for wife. And there passed along the wild beasts that were in Lebanon, and trod down the thornbush.

10 Thou hast indeed smitten Edom, and thy heart hath lifted thee up: keep thy glory and stay in thy house; and why wilt thou meddle with misfortune, that thou mayest fall, thou, and Judah with thee?

11 But Amazyahu would not hear. Therefore Jehoäsh the king of Israel went up; and he and Amazyahu the king of Judah looked one another in the face at Beth-shemesh, which belongeth to Judah.

12 And Judah was defeated before Israel; and they fled every man to his tents.

13 And Jehoäsh the king of Israel caught Amazyahu the king of Judah, the son of Jehoäsh, the son of Achazyahu, at Beth-Shemesh; and he came to Jerusalem, and made a breach in the wall of Jerusalem from the gate of Ephraim unto the corner-gate, four hundred cubits.

14 And he took all the gold and the silver, and all the vessels that were found in the house of the LORD, and in the treasures of the king's house, and the children of the chiefs as hostages, and returned to Samaria.

15 Now the rest of the acts of Jehoäsh which he did, and his mighty deeds, and how he fought with Amazyahu the king of Judah, behold, they are written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Israel.

16 And Jehoäsh slept with his fathers, and was buried in Samaria with the kings of Israel: and Jerobo'am his son became king in his stead.

17 ¶ And Amazyahu the son of Joäsh the king of Judah lived after the death of Jehoäsh, the son of Jehoächaz the king of Israel, fifteen years.

18 And the rest of the acts of Amazyahu, behold, they are written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah.

19 Now they raised a conspiracy against him in Jerusalem: wherefore he fled to Lachish; but they sent after him to Lachish, and slew him there.

20 And they brought him on horses: and he was buried at Jerusalem with his fathers in the city of David.

21 And all the people of Judah took 'Azaryah,[a] who was sixteen years old, and they made him king instead of his father Amazyahu.

22 He it was that built[b] Elath, and brought it back to Judah, after the king[c] slept with his fathers.

23 ¶ In the fifteenth year of Amazyahu the son of Joäsh the king of Judah became Jerobo'am the son of Joäsh the king of Israel king in Samaria, (for) forty and one years.

24 And he did what is evil in the eyes of the LORD: he departed not from all the sins of Jerobo'am the son of Nebat, who induced Israel to sin.

25 He restored[d] the boundary of Israel from the entrance of Chamath unto the sea of the plain; in accordance with the word of of the LORD God of Israel, which he had spoken by means of his servant Jonah the son of Amitthai, the prophet, who was of Gath-chepher.

26 For the LORD saw the affliction of Israel, which was very bitter; that the guarded was no more, and that the fortified was no more, and there was no helper for Israel.

27 And the LORD had not spoken that he would blot out the name of Israel from under the heavens; but he helped them by means of Jerobo'am the son of Joäsh.

28 Now the rest of the acts of Jerobo'am, and all that he did, and his mighty deeds, how he warred, and how he brought back Damascus and Chamath, (which had belonged) to[e] Judah, to Israel, behold, they are written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Israel.

29 And Jerobo'am slept with his fathers, with the kings of Israel: and Zechariah his son became king in his stead.

CHAPTER XV.

1 ¶ In the twenty and seventh year of Jerobo'am the king of Israel became 'Azaryah, the son of Amazyah[f] king of Judah, king.

2 Sixteen years old was he when he became king, and two and fifty years did he reign in Jerusalem. And his mother's name was Yecholyahu of Jerusalem.

3 And he did what is right in the eyes of the LORD, in accordance with all that Amazyahu his father had done;

4 Nevertheless the high-places were not removed: as yet the people sacrificed and burnt incense on the high-places.

5 And the LORD afflicted the king with leprosy, and he was a leper unto the day of his death, and he dwelt in the leper-house.[g] And Jotham the king's son was over the house, (and) judged the people of the land.

6 And the rest of the acts of 'Azaryahu, and all that he did, behold, they are written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah.

7 And 'Azaryah slept with his fathers; and they buried him with his fathers in the city of David: and Jotham his son became king in his stead.

8 ¶ In the thirty and eighth year of 'Azaryahu the king of Judah became Zechariah the son of Jerobo'am king over Israel in Samaria (for) six months.

9 And he did what is evil in the eyes of the LORD, as his fathers had done: he departed not from the sins of Jerobo'am the son of Nebat, who induced Israel to sin.

11 And the rest of the acts of Zechariah, behold, they are written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Israel.

12 This was the word of the LORD which he spoke unto Jehu, saying, Sons of the fourth generation shall sit after thee on the throne of Israel. And so it came to pass.

13 ¶ Shallum the son of Yabesh became king in the nine and thirtieth year of 'Uzziyah the king of Judah; and he reigned for the space of one month in Samaria.

14 Then went up Menachem the son of Gadi from Thirzah, and came to Samaria, and smote Shallum the son of Yabesh in Samaria, and put him to death, and became king in his stead.

15 And the rest of the acts of Shallum, and his conspiracy which he made, behold, they are written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Israel.

16 ¶ At that time did Menachem smite Thiphsach, and all that was therein, and its territory from[a] Thirzah; because they opened not to him, he smote it; and all the pregnant women therein he ripped up.

17 ¶ In the nine and thirtieth year of 'Azaryah the king of Judah became Menachem the son of Gadi king over Israel, (for) ten years, in Samaria.

18 And he did what is evil in the eyes of the LORD: he departed not from the sins of Jerobo'am the son of Nebat, who induced Israel to sin, all his days.

19 (Then) came Pul the king of Assyria against the land: and Menachem gave Pul a thousand talents of silver, that his hand[b] might be with him to strengthen the kingdom in his hand.

20 And Menachem exacted[c] the money from all Israel, from all the mighty men of the army, to give to the king of Assyria, fifty shekels of silver from every man; and the king of Assyria then returned and stayed not there in the land.

21 And the rest of the acts of Menachem, and all that he did, behold, they are written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Israel.

22 And Menachem slept with his fathers; and Pekachyah his son became king in his stead.

23 ¶ In the fiftieth year of 'Azaryah the king of Judah became Pekachyah the son of Menachem king over Israel in Samaria, (for) two years.

24 And he did what is evil in the eyes of the LORD: he departed not from the sins of Jerobo'am the son of Nebat, who induced Israel to sin.

25 And Pekach the son of Remalyahu, an officer of his, conspired against him, and smote him in Samaria, in the fortress of the king's house, with the aid of Argob and the Aryeh,[d] and with him were fifty men of the children of the Gil'adites: and he put him to death, and became king in his stead.

26 And the rest of the acts of Pekachyah, and all that he did, behold, they are written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Israel.

27 ¶ In the fifty-second year of 'Azaryah the king of Judah became Pekach the son of Remalyahu king over Israel in Samaria, (for) twenty years.

28 And he did what is evil in the eyes of the LORD: he departed not from the sins of Jerobo'am the son of Nebat, who induced Israel to sin.

29 In the days of Pekach the king of Israel came Tiglath-pilesser the king of Assyria, and took 'Iyon, and Abel-beth-ma'achah, and Yanoäch, and Kedesh, and Chazor, and Gil'ad, and Galilee, all the land of Naphtali, and led them[e] away as exiles to Assyria.

30 And Hoshea' the son of Elah made a conspiracy against Pekach the son of Remalyahu, and smote him, and put him to death, and became king in his stead, in the twentieth year of Jotham the son of 'Uzziyah.

31 And the rest of the acts of Pekach, and all that he did, behold, they are written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Israel.

[a] Meaning, "setting out from Thirzah." Znnz, after Ralbag, "its boundaries toward Thirzah." Redak thinks that Thiphsach was outside of Palestine, (see 1 Kings v. 4;) while others again suppose it to have been a place in Palestine not mentioned elsewhere.

32 ¶ In the second year of Pekach the son of Remalyahu the king of Israel became Jotham, the son of 'Uzziyah the king of Judah, king.

33 Five and twenty years old was he when he became king, and sixteen years did he reign in Jerusalem. And his mother's name was Yerusha, the daughter of Zadok.

34 And he did what is right in the eyes of the LORD: in accordance with all that 'Uzziyahu his father had done, (so) did he.

35 Nevertheless, the high-places were not removed: as yet the people sacrificed and burnt incense on the high-places. He it was that built the upper gate of the house of the LORD.

36 Now the rest of the acts of Jotham, and all that he did, behold, they are written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah.

37 ¶ In those days began the LORD to send against Judah Rezin the king of Syria, and Pekach the son of Remalyahu.

38 And Jotham slept with his fathers, and was buried with his fathers in the city of David his father: and Achaz his son became king in his stead.

CHAPTER XVI.

1 ¶ In the seventeenth year of Pekach the son of Remalyahu, became Achaz, the son of Jotham the king of Judah, king.

2 Twenty years old was Achaz when he became king, and sixteen years did he reign in Jerusalem; and he did not what is right in the eyes of the LORD his God, like David his father.

3 But he walked in the way of the kings of Israel, and even his son he caused to pass through the fire, after the abominable acts of the nations whom the LORD had driven out from before the children of Israel.

4 And he sacrificed and burnt incense on the high-places, and on the hills, and under every green tree.

5 Then came up Rezin the king of Syria and Pekach the son of Remalyahu the king of Israel to Jerusalem to war: and they besieged Achaz, but were not able to make an attack.[a]

6 ¶ At that time did Rezin the king of Syria bring Elath back to Syria, and drove the Jews[b] from Eloth: and the Edomeans[c] came to Elath and dwelt there, even until this day.

7 And Achaz then sent messengers to Tiglath-pilesser[d] the king of Assyria, saying, Thy servant and thy son am I: come up, and help me out of the hand of the king of Syria, and out of the hand of the king of Israel, who rise up against me.

8 And Achaz took the silver and the gold that were found in the house of the LORD, and in the treasures of the king's house, and sent (the same) to the king of Assyria as a bribe.

9 And the king of Assyria hearkened unto him; and the king of Assyria went up against Damascus, and captured it, and led (the people of) it away captive to Kir, and Rezin did he put to death.

10 And King Achaz went to meet Tiglath-pilesser the king of Assyria to Damascus,[e] and he saw the altar that was at Damascus: and king Achaz then sent to Uriyah the priest the form of the altar, and its pattern, after all its workmanship.

11 And Uriyah the priest built the altar; in accordance with all that king Achaz had sent from Damascus, so did Uriyah the priest make it against the arrival of king Achaz from Damascus.

12 And when the king came from Damascus, the king saw the altar; and the king approached to the altar and offered thereon.

13 And he burnt his burnt-offering and his meat-offering, and poured out his drink-offering, and sprinkled the blood of his peace offerings[f] upon the altar.

14 And as respecteth the copper altar which was before the LORD, he moved it back from the forefront of the house, from between the altar[g] and the house of the LORD, and set it on the side of the altar to the north.

15 And king Achaz commanded Uriyah the priest, saying, Upon the great altar burn the morning burnt-offering, and the evening meat-offering, and the king's burnt-offering, and his meat-offering, with the burnt-offering of all the people of the land, and their meat-offering, and their drink-offerings; and all the blood of the burnt-offering, and all the blood of the sacrifices shalt thou sprinkle on it; and the copper altar shall be for me to visit occasionally.[a]

16 And Uriyah the priest did in accordance with all that king Achaz had commanded.

17 And king Achaz cut off the borders of the bases, and removed the lavers from off them; and the sea he took down from off the copper oxen that were under it, and placed it upon a pavement of stones.

18 And the covered passage for the sabbath that they had built on the house, and the outer king's entrance, turned he from the house of the LORD, on account[b] of the king of Assyria.

19 Now the rest of the acts of Achaz which he did, behold, they are written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah.

20 And Achaz slept with his fathers, and was buried with his fathers in the city of David: and Hezekiah[c] his son became king in his stead.

CHAPTER XVII.

1 ¶ In the twelfth year of Achaz the king of Judah became Hoshea' the son of Elah king in Samaria over Israel, (for) nine years.[a]

2 And he did what is evil in the eyes of the LORD, but not like the kings of Israel that were before him.

3 Against him came up Shalmanesser the king of Assyria; and Hoshea' became his servant, and rendered him tribute.

4 And the king of Assyria discovered a conspiracy on Hoshea'; for he had sent messengers to So the king of Egypt, and had raised no tribute for the king of Assyria, as (before) year by year; and the king of Assyria made him prisoner, and shut him up in a prison-house.

5 And the king of Assyria came up over all the land, and went up to Samaria, and besieged it three years.

6 In the ninth year of Hoshea' did the king of Assyria capture Samaria, and he led Israel away as exiles into Assyria, and settled them in Chalach and in Chabor[e] by the river of Gozan, and in the cities of Media.

7 ¶ This took place, because the children of Israel had sinned against the LORD their God, who had brought them up out of the land of Egypt, from under the hand of Pharaoh the king of Egypt, and had feared other gods,

8 And had walked in the customs of the nations whom the LORD had driven out from before the children of Israel, and in those of the kings of Israel, which they had made.

9 And (because) the children of Israel had secretly done things that are not right against the LORD their God, and had built themselves high-places in all their cities, from the tower of the watchmen up to fortified cities;

10 And had set themselves up statues and groves on every high hill, and under every green tree;

11 And had burnt there incense on all the high-places, like the nations that the LORD had led away exiles before them; and wrought wicked things to provoke the LORD to anger;

12 And had served the idols, whereof the LORD had said unto them, Ye shall not do this thing.

13 The LORD had indeed warned Israel and Judah, by means of all the prophets, all the seërs, saying, Turn ye back from your evil ways, and keep my commandments (and) my statutes, in accordance with all the law which I commanded your fathers, and which I have sent to you by means of my servants the prophets.

14 But they would not hear, and hardened their neck, like the neck of their fathers, who had not believed in the LORD their God;

15 And they despised his statutes, and his covenant which he had made with their fathers, and his testimonies[f] which he had en-

[b] As some suggest, Achaz made all the various changes, the object and manner of which are not clearly understood, to please the Assyrians, to render his worship like theirs; or for the purpose of personal security in the palace.

[c] Correctly, Chiskiyahu

[d] Some reconcile the chronology, by supposing that Hoshea', after the murder of Pekach, was only governor under Tiglath-Pilesser for about ten years.

[e] Herxheimer, "on the Chabor," stating it to be a river in Assyria east of the Tigris.

[f] Philippson, "and his warning with which he had warned them."

trusted to them; and they followed after what is vanity, and became vain, and followed after the nations that were round about them, concerning whom the LORD had charged them, not to do like them.

16 And they forsook all the commandments of the LORD their God, and made themselves molten images, two calves, and made a grove, and bowed down to all the host of the heavens, and served Ba'al;

17 And they caused their sons and their daughters to pass through the fire, and used divinations and enchantments, and sold themselves to do what is evil in the eyes of the LORD, to provoke him to anger.

18 Therefore became the LORD very angry with Israel, and he removed them from his presence: there was none left but the tribe of Judah alone.

19 Also Judah kept not the commandments of the LORD their God, but walked in the customs of Israel which they had made.

20 Therefore did the LORD reject all the seed of Israel, and he afflicted them, and gave them up into the hand of spoilers, until that he had cast them out of his presence.

21 For Israel had torn themselves from the house of David, and they made Jerobo'am the son of Nebat king: and Jerobo'am misled Israel from following the LORD, and caused them to commit a great sin;

22 And the children of Israel walked in all the sins of Jerobo'am which he did; they departed not therefrom.

23 Until that the LORD removed Israel out of his presence, as he had spoken by means of all his servants the prophets; and Israel was led away as exiles out of their own land to Assyria even until this day.

24 ¶ And the king of Assyria brought (men) from Babylon, and from Cuthah, and from 'Avva, and from Chamath, and from Sepharvayim, and settled them in the cities of Samaria in the room of the children of Israel: and they took possession of Samaria, and dwelt in its cities.

25 And it happened at the beginning of their dwelling there, that they feared not the LORD; wherefore the LORD sent among them lions, which slew some of them.

26 And they said to the king of Assyria, as followeth, The nations that thou hast led away, and settled in the cities of Samaria, know not the manner of the God of the land; wherefore he hath sent among them lions, and, behold, they are slaying them, since they know not the manner of the God of the land.

27 Then commanded the king of Assyria, saying, Carry thither one of the priests whom ye led away from there; and let them[a] go and dwell there, and let him teach them the manner of the God of the land.

28 And there came one of the priests whom they had led away as exiles from Samaria, and dwelt in Beth-el; and he taught them how they should fear the LORD.

29 Yet they made, every nation, their own gods; and they put them in the houses of the high-places which the Samaritans had made, every nation in their cities wherein they dwelt.

30 And the men of Babylon made Succothbenoth, and the men of Cuth made Neregal, and the men of Chamath made Ashima.

31 And the 'Avvites made Nibchaz and Tharthak, and the Sepharvites burnt their children in fire to 'Adrammelech and 'Anammelech, the gods of Sepharvayim.

32 And they feared (also) the LORD; and they made unto themselves of the lowest[b] of them priests of the high-places, and these sacrificed for them in the houses of the high-places.

33 The LORD did they fear, and their own gods did they serve, after the manner of the nations whence they had been led away.

34 Even until this day do they act after the former manners: they fear not the LORD, neither do they act after their own customs, and after their manner, nor after the law and after the commandment which the LORD commanded the children of Jacob, whose name he styled Israel;

35 With whom the LORD had made a covenant, and charged them, saying, Ye shall not fear other gods, nor bow yourselves down to them, nor serve them, nor sacrifice to them;

36 But the LORD, who hath brought you up out of the land of Egypt with great might and with an outstretched arm, him alone shall ye

[a] This means, probably, the followers of the priest, as no doubt it required more than one to teach so many.

[b] Philippson renders, "from their whole mass," as in 1 Kings xii. 31.

fear, and to him shall ye bow yourselves down, and to him shall ye sacrifice;

37 And the statutes, and the ordinances, and the law, and the commandment, which he hath written for you, shall ye observe to do for all time; and ye shall not fear other gods.

38 And the covenant that I have made with you shall ye not forget; and ye shall not fear other gods.

39 But the LORD your God shall ye fear; and he will deliver you out of the hand of all your enemies.

40 Nevertheless they have not hearkened, but they act after their former manner.

41 So were these nations, while they feared the LORD, also serving their graven images; and both their children and their children's children do until this day as their fathers have done.[a]

CHAPTER XVIII.

1 ¶ And it came to pass in the third year of Hoshea' the son of Elah the king of Israel, that Hezekiah, the son of Achaz the king of Judah, became king.

2 Twenty and five years old was he when he became king, and twenty and nine years did he reign in Jerusalem; and his mother's name was Abi, the daughter of Zechariah.

3 And he did what is right in the eyes of the LORD, in accordance with all that David his father had done.

4 He it was that removed the high-places, and broke the statues, and cut down the groves, and stamped in pieces the copper serpent that Moses had made; for unto those days were the children of Israel burning incense to it: and he called it Nechushtan.[b]

5 In the LORD the God of Israel did he trust; and after him there was not his like among all the kings of Judah, nor among those that were before him.

6 And he adhered to the LORD, and turned not away from following him; but he kept his commandments, which the LORD had commanded Moses.

7 And the LORD was with him; whithersoever he went forth he prospered: and he rebelled against the king of Assyria, and served him not.

8 He it was that smote the Philistines, as far as Gazzah, and its territory, from the tower of the watchmen up to the fortified city.

9 ¶ And it came to pass in the fourth year of king Hezekiah, which was the seventh year of Hoshea' the son of Elah the king of Israel, that Shalmanesser the king of Assyria came up against Samaria, and besieged it.

10 And they captured it at the end of three years,—in the sixth year of Hezekiah, that is the ninth year of Hoshea' the king of Israel, was Samaria captured.

11 And the king of Assyria led away Israel as exiles unto Assyria, and transported them to Chalach and to Chabor, by the river of Gozan, and to the cities of Media;

12 Because they had not obeyed the voice of the LORD their God, but had transgressed his covenant, all that Moses the servant of the LORD had commanded; and had not obeyed, nor done accordingly.

13 ¶ And in the fourteenth year of king Hezekiah did Sennacherib[c] the king of Assyria come up against all the fortified cities of Judah, and seized on them.

14 And Hezekiah the king of Judah sent to the king of Assyria to Lachish, saying, I have sinned; retire from me: what thou wilt impose on me will I bear. And the king of Assyria exacted from Hezekiah the king of Judah three hundred talents of silver and thirty talents of gold.

15 And Hezekiah gave up all the silver that was found in the house of the LORD, and in the treasures of the king's house.

16 At that time did Hezekiah cut off (the gold from) the doors of the temple of the LORD, and from the door-sills which Hezekiah the king of Judah had overlaid, and gave the same to the king of Assyria.

17 ¶ And the king of Assyria sent Tharthan and Rab-sariss and Rabshakeh from Lachish to king Hezekiah with a strong army against Jerusalem. And they went up and came to Jerusalem; and when they were

[a] Herxheimer comments, "from the exile of the ten tribes till that of Babylon," when no doubt this book was written.

[b] Rashi and others suppose that Hezekiah called it so, signifying, "it is but a piece of copper;" but Zunz and others translate, "and people called," &c., i. e. the name under which it was worshipped.

come up, they came and halted by the aqueduct of the upper pool, which is on the highway of the washer's field.[a]

18 And they called for the king, when there came out to them Elyakim the son of Chilkiyahu, who was superintendent over the house, and Shebnah the scribe, and Yoäch the son of Assaph the recorder.

19 And Rabshakeh said unto them, Say ye now to Hezekiah, Thus hath said the great king, the king of Assyria, What confidence is this wherewith thou hast trusted?

20 Thou saidst, but[b] it was only a word uttered with the lips, (I have) counsel and strength for the war. Now on whom didst thou trust, that thou rebelledst against me?

21 Now, behold, thou trustedst upon you cracked reed-staff, upon Egypt, which, if a man lean on it, will enter into his hand, and pierce it: so is Pharaoh the king of Egypt unto all that trust on him.

22 But if ye should say unto me, In the LORD our God have we trusted: is he not the one whose high-places and whose altars Hezekiah hath removed, when he said to Judah and to Jerusalem, Before this altar shall ye prostrate yourselves in Jerusalem?

23 And now, I pray thee, enter into a contest with my master the king of Assyria, and I will give thee two thousand horses, if thou be able on thy part to set riders upon them.

24 How then wilt thou turn back the face of a single chieftain among the least of my master's servants, while thou hast put thy trust on Egypt for chariots and for horsemen?

25 Now am I come up without the LORD ('s will) against this place to destroy it? The LORD hath said to me, Go up against this land, and destroy it.

26 Then said Elyakim the son of Chilkiyahu, and Shebnah, and Yoäch, unto Rabshakeh, Speak, we pray thee, to thy servants in the Syrian language; for we understand it: and speak not with us in the Jewish language before the ears of the people that are on the wall.

27 But Rabshakeh said unto them, Hath my master then sent me to thy master, and to thee, to speak these words? is it not rather to the men who sit on the wall, that they may eat their own excrement, and drink their own urine with you?

28 Then stood Rabshakeh up and called out with a loud voice in the Jewish language, and spoke, and said, Hear ye the word of the great king, the king of Assyria:

29 Thus hath said the king, Let not Hezekiah deceive you; for he will not be able to deliver you out of his hand;

30 Neither let Hezekiah induce you to trust in the LORD, saying, The LORD will surely deliver us, and this city will not be given up into the hand of the king of Assyria:

31 Hearken not to Hezekiah; for thus hath said the king of Assyria, Make a treaty of peace with me, and come out to me, and eat ye every man of his own vine, and every man of his fig-tree, and drink ye every man the waters of his cistern;

32 Until I come and take you away to a land like your own land, a land of corn and wine, a land of bread and vineyards, a land of oil-olive trees, and of honey, that ye may live, and not die; and hearken not unto Hezekiah; for[c] he will mislead you, saying, The LORD will deliver us.

33 Have the gods of the nations delivered in anywise each his land out of the hand of the king of Assyria?

34 Where are the gods of Chamath, and of Arpad? where are the gods of Sepharvayim, Hena', and 'Ivvah? have they[d] then delivered Samaria out of my hand?

35 Who are they among all the gods of the countries, that have delivered their country out of my hand, that the LORD should deliver Jerusalem out of my hand?

36 But the people remained silent, and answered him not a word; for it was the king's command, saying, Ye shall not answer him.

37 Then came Elyakim the son of Chilkiyah, who was superintendent over the house, and Shebnah the scribe, and Yoäch the son of Assaph the recorder, to Hezekiah with their clothes rent; and they told unto him the words of Rabshakeh.

[a] Others, "fuller's field."

[b] Rashi comments, "Thou hast said till now, I will not serve the king of Assyria; but this was mere boasting while he came not from his place; but now it requires counsel and strength for the war." Zunz, "Meanest thou, that only a word of the lips is counsel," &c.

CHAPTER XIX.

1 And it came to pass, when king Hezekiah heard it, that he rent his clothes, and covered himself with sackcloth, and went into the house of the LORD.

2 And he sent Elyakim, who was superintendent over the house, and Shebnah the scribe, and the elders of the priests, covered with sackcloth, to Isaiah[a] the prophet the son of Amoz.

3 And they said unto him, Thus hath said Hezekiah, A day of trouble, and of rebuke, and derision is this day; for the children are come to the birth, and there is not strength to bring forth.

4 Perhaps the LORD thy God will hear all the words of Rabshakeh, whom the king of Assyria his master hath sent to blaspheme the living God; and who hath reproached with the words which the LORD thy God hath heard: wherefore lift up a prayer in behalf of the remnant that is still found here.

5 And the servants of king Hezekiah came to Isaiah.

6 And Isaiah said unto them, Thus shall ye say to your master, Thus hath said the LORD, Be not afraid because of the words which thou hast heard, with which the boys of the king of Assyria have blasphemed me.

7 Behold, I will put an (other) spirit in him, that when he will hear a rumour, he shall return to his own land; and I will cause him to fall by the sword in his own land.

8 And Rabshakeh returned, and found the king of Assyria warring against Libnah; for he had heard that he was departed from Lachish.

9 And he heard it said of Thirhakah the king of Ethiopia, Behold, he is come out to fight with thee; and he again sent messengers unto Hezekiah, saying,

10 Thus shall ye say to Hezekiah the king of Judah, as followeth, Let not thy God in whom thou trustest deceive thee, saying, Jerusalem shall not be given up into the hand of the king of Assyria.

11 Behold, thou thyself hast heard what the kings of Assyria have done to all the lands, by destroying them utterly: and thou alone shouldst be delivered?

12 Have the gods of the nations which my fathers destroyed delivered them; as Gozan, and Charan, and Rezeph, and the children of 'Eden, who were in Thelassar?

13 Where is the king of Chamath, and the king of Arpad, and the king of the city of Sepharvayim, of Hena', and 'Ivvah?

14 And Hezekiah took the letters out of the hand of the messengers, and read them: and Hezekiah went up into the house of the LORD, and spread them out before the LORD.

15 ¶ And Hezekiah prayed before the LORD, and said, O LORD God of Israel, who dwellest between the cherubims, thou art the (true) God, thou alone, for all the kingdoms of the earth; for it is thou who hast made the heavens and the earth.

16 Bend down, O LORD, thy ear, and hear! open, O LORD, thy eyes, and see! and hear the words of Sennacherib, that[c] which he hath sent to blaspheme the living God.

17 Truly, LORD, the kings of Assyria have devastated the nations and their land, 18 And they have placed their gods into the fire; for they are no gods, but the work of man's hands, wood and stone: and these have they destroyed.

19 And now, O LORD our God, save us, I beseech thee, out of his hand, that all the kingdoms of the earth may know that thou art the LORD God, thou alone.[d]

20 ¶ Then sent Isaiah the son of Amoz to Hezekiah, saying, Thus hath said the LORD the God of Israel, What thou hast prayed to me concerning Sennacherib the king of Assyria have I heard.

21 This is the word that the LORD hath spoken over him: She despiseth thee, she laugheth thee to scorn, the virgin daughter of Zion; behind thee shaketh her head the daughter of Jerusalem.

22 Whom hast thou blasphemed, and (whom) hast thou scorned? and against whom hast thou raised thy voice, and lifted up thy eyes on high? against the Holy One of Israel.

23 By thy messengers thou hast blasphemed the Lord, and hast said, With the multitude of my chariots am I indeed come up to the height of the mountains, to the sides of Lebanon, and I will cut down its tall cedars, the choice of its fir-trees: and I will enter[a] into the lodgings on its summit, the forest of its fruitful soil.

24 I have dug and drunk strange[b] waters, and I will dry up with the sole of my feet all the streams[c] of besieged places.[d]

25 Hadst[e] thou not heard that in distant[f] ages I had prepared this? in the times of antiquity when I formed it? now have I brought it along, and it came to pass, to desolate into ruinous heaps fortified cities.

26 And thus their inhabitants were short of power, they were dismayed and confounded; they were as the herbs of the field, and as the green grass; as the moss on the housetops, and as corn blasted before the ear appeareth.

27 But thy abiding and thy going out and thy coming in do I know, and thy raging against me.

28 Because of thy raging against me and thy tumult that is come up into my ears, will I put my hook in thy nose, and my bridle between thy lips; and I will cause thee to turn back on the way by which thou camest.

29 And this shall be unto thee[g] the sign, Ye shall eat this year what groweth of itself, and in the second year what springeth up after the same; and in the third year sow and reap, and plant vineyards, and eat their fruit.

30 And the remnant of the house of Judah that is escaped shall yet again strike root downward, and bear fruit upward.

31 For out of Jerusalem shall go forth a remnant, and that which escapeth out of mount Zion: the zeal of the LORD of hosts will do this.

32 ¶ Therefore thus hath said the LORD concerning the king of Assyria, He shall not come into this city, and he shall not shoot an arrow thereon, nor come before it with shield, nor cast up against it an embankment.

33 On the way by which he came, by the same shall he return, and into this city shall he not come, saith the LORD.

34 And I will shield this city, to save it, for my own sake, and for the sake of David my servant.

35 ¶ And it came to pass, on the same night, that an angel of the LORD went out and smote in the camp of the Assyrians one hundred eighty and five thousand men: and when people arose early in the morning, behold, they were all dead corpses.

36 And Sennacherib the king of Assyria then departed, and went and returned, and dwelt at Nineveh.

37 And it came to pass, as he was prostrating himself in the house of Nisroch his god, that Adrammelech and Sharezer his sons smote him with the sword: and they escaped into the land of Ararat. And Essar-chaddon his son became king in his stead.

CHAPTER XX.

1 ¶ In those days Hezekiah fell sick unto death; and there came to him Isaiah the son of Amoz the prophet, and said unto him, Thus hath said the LORD, Give thy charge to thy house;[h] for thou shalt die, and not live.[i]

2 Then did he turn his face to the wall, and prayed unto the LORD, saying,

3 I beseech, thee, O LORD, remember now that I have walked before thee in truth, and with an undivided heart, and have done what is good in thy eyes. And Hezekiah wept aloud.[k]

4 ¶ And it came to pass, before Isaiah was gone out into the middle court, that the word of the LORD came to him, saying,

5 Return, and say to Hezekiah the ruler of my people, Thus hath said the LORD, the God of David thy father, I have heard thy prayer, I have seen thy tears; behold, I will heal thee: on the third day shalt thou go up unto the house of the LORD.

6 And I will add unto thy days fifteen years; and out of the hand of the king of Assyria will I deliver[a] thee and this city; and I will shield this city for my own sake, and for the sake of David my servant.

7 And Isaiah said, Fetch a lump of figs. And they fetched and laid it on the inflammation,[b] and he recovered.

8 And Hezekiah said unto Isaiah, What sign shall there be that the LORD will heal me, and that I shall go up into the house of the LORD the third day?

9 And Isaiah said, This shall be unto thee the sign from the LORD, that the LORD will do the thing that he hath spoken: Shall the shadow go forward ten degrees, or go back ten degrees?

10 And Hezekiah said, It is a light thing for the shadow to go forward ten degrees: no; but let the shadow return backward ten degrees.

11 And Isaiah the prophet called unto the LORD; and he caused the shadow to return, by the degrees which the (sun) was gone down on the dial of Achaz, backward, ten degrees.

12 ¶ And at that time sent Berodach-baladan, the son of Baladan, the king of Babylon, letters and a present unto Hezekiah; for he had heard that Hezekiah had been sick.

13 And Hezekiah listened unto them, and showed them the whole of his treasure-house,[c] the silver, and the gold, and the spices, and the precious oil, and the whole of his armour-house, and all that was found in his treasures: there was nothing that Hezekiah showed them not, in his house and in all his dominion.

14 Then came Isaiah the prophet unto king Hezekiah, and said unto him, What did these men say? and whence did they come unto thee? And Hezekiah said, From a far off country are they come, from Babylon.

15 And he said, What did they see in thy house? And Hezekiah answered, All that is in my house have they seen: there was nothing that I did not show them in my treasures.

16 ¶ And Isaiah said unto Hezekiah, Hear the word of the LORD,

17 Behold, days are coming, when all that is in thy house, and that which thy fathers have laid up in store until this day, shall be carried to Babylon: nothing shall be left, saith the LORD.

18 And of thy sons that will issue from thee, whom thou wilt beget, shall they take; and they shall be court-servants in the palace of the king of Babylon.

19 Then said Hezekiah unto Isaiah, Good is the word of the LORD which thou hast spoken. And he said, Is it not so, if there be peace and stability[d] in my days?

20 And the rest of the acts of Hezekiah, and all his mighty deeds, and how he made the pool, and the aqueduct, and brought the water into the city, behold, they are written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah.

21 And Hezekiah slept with his fathers: and Menasseh his son became king in his stead.

CHAPTER XXI.

1 ¶ Twelve years old was Menasseh when he became king, and fifty and five years did he reign in Jerusalem. And his mother's name was Chephzi-bah.

2 And he did what is evil in the eyes of the LORD, after the abominable acts of the nations whom the LORD had driven out before the children of Israel.

3 And he built up again the high-places which Hezekiah his father had destroyed; and he reared up altars for Ba'al, and made a grove,[e] as Achab the king of Israel had done; and he bowed down to all the host of heaven, and served them.

4 And he built altars in the house of the LORD, of which the LORD had said, In Jerusalem will I put my name.

5 And he built altars for all the host of heaven in the two courts of the house of the LORD.

6 And he caused his son to pass through the fire, and observed times, and used enchantments, and dealt with familiar spirits and wizards: he wrought much that is evil in the eyes of the LORD, to provoke him to anger.

7 And he set a hewn image of the Asherah that he had made in the house, of which the LORD had said to David, and to Solomon his son, In this house, and in Jerusalem, which I have chosen out of all tribes of Israel, will I put my name for ever:

8 And I will not cause any more the foot of Israel to move out of the land which I gave their fathers; only if they will observe to act in accordance with all that I have commanded them, and in accordance with all the law that my servant Moses commanded them.

9 But they hearkened not: and Menasseh seduced them to do what is evil more than the nations whom the LORD had destroyed before the children of Israel.

10 ¶ And the LORD spoke by means of his servants the prophets, saying,

11 Forasmuch as Menasseh the king of Judah hath done these abominations, having done wickedly more than all that the Emorites had done, who were before him, and hath induced Judah also to sin with his idols:

12 ¶ Therefore thus hath said the LORD the God of Israel, Behold, I will bring evil upon Jerusalem and Judah, at which both the ears of every one that heareth it shall tingle.

13 And I will stretch over Jerusalem the measure-line[a] of Samaria, and the plummet of the house of Achab: and I will wipe off Jerusalem as one wipeth off a dish, wiping it, and turning it on its face.

14 And I will forsake the remnant of my inheritance, and give them up into the hand of their enemies; and they shall become a prey and a spoil to all their enemies;

15 Forasmuch as they have done what is evil in my eyes, and have been provoking me to anger, from the day that their fathers came forth out of Egypt, even until this day.

16 And also innocent blood did Menasseh shed in very great abundance, till he had filled (therewith) Jerusalem from one end to another; beside his sin wherewith he induced Judah to sin, to do what is evil in the eyes of the LORD.

17 Now the rest of the acts of Menasseh, and all that he did, and his sin that he committed, behold, they are written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah.

18 And Menasseh slept with his fathers, and was buried in the garden of his own house, in the garden of 'Uzza[b]: and Amon his son became king in his stead.

19 ¶ Twenty and two years old was Amon when he became king, and two years did he reign in Jerusalem. And his mother's name was Meshullemeth, the daughter of Charuz of Yotbah.

20 And he did what is evil in the eyes of the LORD, as his father Menasseh had done.

21 And he walked in all the way that his father had walked in, and served the idols that his father had served, and bowed himself down to them;

22 And he forsook the LORD the God of his fathers, and walked not in the way of the LORD.

23 And the servants of Amon conspired against him, and put the king to death in his own house.

24 And the people of the land slew all those that had conspired against king Amon; and the people of the land made Josiah[c] his son king in his stead.

25 Now the rest of the acts of Amon which he did, behold, they are written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah.

26 And they buried him in his sepulchre in the garden of 'Uzza: and Josiah his son became king in his stead.

CHAPTER XXII.

1 ¶ Eight years old was Josiah when he became king, and thirty and one years did he reign in Jerusalem. And his mother's name was Yedidah, the daughter of 'Adayah of Bozkath.

2 And he did what is right in the eyes of the LORD, and walked in all the way of David his father, and turned not aside to the right or to the left.

[a] Meaning, the same measure of justice which overwhelmed Samaria should be meted out to Jerusalem.

[b] i. e. Not in the sepulchre of the ancient kings

[c] Correctly, Yoshiyahu.

3 ¶ And it came to pass in the eighteenth year of king Josiah, that the king sent Shaphan the son of Azalyahu, the son of Meshullam, the scribe, to the house of the LORD, saying,

4 Go up to Chilkiyahu the high-priest, that he may collect[a] up all the money which is brought into the house of the LORD, which the door-keepers have gathered from the people:

5 And let them deliver it into the hand of those who overlook the workmen, that have been appointed as overseers of the house of the LORD; and let them give it to those who do the work who are in the house of the LORD, to repair the breaches of the house;

6 Unto the carpenters, and the builders, and the masons, and to buy timber and hewn stones to repair the house.

7 Nevertheless shall there be no reckoning made with them for the money that is delivered into their hand, because they deal faithfully.

8 And Chilkiyahu the high-priest said unto Shaphan the scribe, A book of the law have I found in the house of the LORD. And Chilkiyah gave the book to Shaphan,[b] and he read it.

9 And Shaphan the scribe came to the king, and brought the king word again, and said, Thy servants have taken out all the money that was found in the house, and have delivered it into the hand of those who overlook the workmen, that have been appointed overseers of the house of the LORD.

10 And Shaphan the scribe also told the king, saying, A book hath Chilkiyahu the priest given me. And Shaphan read it before the king.

11 And it came to pass, when the king had heard the words of the book of the law, that he rent his clothes.

12 And the king commanded Chilkiyah the priest, and Achikam the son of Shaphan, and 'Achbor the son of Michayah, and Shaphan the scribe, and 'Assahyah a servant of the king's, saying,

13 Go ye, inquire of the LORD in my behalf, and in behalf of the people, and in behalf of all Judah, concerning the words of this book that hath been found; for great is the wrath of the LORD that hath been kindled against us, because our fathers did not hearken unto the words of this book, to do in accordance with all that is prescribed concerning us.

14 And Chilkiyahu the priest, and Achikam, and 'Achbor, and Shaphan, and 'Assahyah, went unto Chuldah the prophetess, the wife of Shallum the son of Tikvah the son of Charchass, the keeper of the wardrobe;[c] (now she dwelt in Jerusalem in the suburb;)[d] and they spoke unto her.

15 And she said unto them, Thus hath said the LORD the God of Israel, Say unto the man that hath sent you to me,

16 Thus hath said the LORD, Behold, I will bring evil upon this place, and upon its inhabitants, all the words of the book which the king of Judah hath read;

17 Because they have forsaken me, and have burnt incense unto other gods, in order to provoke me to anger with all the works of their hands: therefore is my wrath kindled against this place, and shall not be quenched.

18 But with respect to the king of Judah who sendeth you to inquire of the LORD, thus shall ye say to him, Thus hath said the LORD the God of Israel, Concerning the words which thou hast heard;

19 Because thy heart was tender, and thou hast humbled thyself before the LORD, when thou heardest what I had spoken against this place, and against its inhabitants, that they should become an astonishment and a curse, and hast rent thy clothes, and wept before me: I also have heard it, saith the LORD.

20 Therefore, behold, I will gather thee unto thy fathers, and thou shalt be gathered unto thy graves in peace; and thy eyes shall not look on all the evil which I am bringing over this place. And they brought the king word again.

[a] Philippson, "shall pay out."

[b] It is possible enough, that during the long reign of Menasseh, the books of the law had become scarce, at least among the courtiers and priests; or it may have been the autograph of Moses which Chilkiyahu had discovered. It is absurd to suppose that it was then first composed; as the whole history of Israel proves that its contents were at least traditionally known.

CHAPTER XXIII.

1 And the king sent, and they gathered unto him all the elders of Judah and Jerusalem.

2 And the king went up into the house of the LORD, and all the men of Judah and all the inhabitants of Jerusalem with him, and the priests, and the prophets, and all the people, from the small to the great: and he read before their ears all the words of the book of the covenant which had been found in the house of the LORD.

3 And the king stood upon the stand, and he made a covenant before the LORD, to walk after the LORD, and to keep his commandments, and his testimonies and his statutes with all (their) heart and all (their) soul, to maintain the words of this covenant that are written in this book. And all the people entered into the covenant.

4 And the king commanded Chilkiyahu the high-priest, and the priests of the second order, and the door-keepers, to carry forth out of the temple of the LORD all the vessels that had been made for Ba'al, and for the Asherah, and for all the host of heaven: and they[a] burnt them without Jerusalem in the fields of Kidron, and carried their ashes unto Beth-el.

5 And he put down[b] the idolatrous priests, whom the kings of Judah had appointed that they might burn incense on the high-places in the cities of Judah, and in the places round about Jerusalem; those also that burnt incense unto Ba'al, to the sun, and to the moon, and to the planets,[c] and to all the host of heaven.

6 And he brought out the Asherah from the house of the LORD, without Jerusalem, unto the brook Kidron, and burnt it at the brook Kidron, and ground it small to powder, and cast its powder upon the graves of the children of the people.

7 And he pulled down the houses of the sodomites,[d] that were by[e] the house of the LORD, where the women wove hangings for the Asherah.

8 And he brought all the priests out of the cities of Judah, and defiled the high-places where the priests had burnt incense, from Geba' to Beër-sheba', and he pulled down the high-places of the gates that were at the entrance of the gate of Joshua the governor of the city, which were on a man's left at the gate of the city.

9 Nevertheless the priests of the high-places came not up to the altar of the LORD in Jerusalem; but they ate unleavened bread in the midst of their brethren.

10 And he defiled the Thopheth, which was in the valley Ben-hinnom, so that no man should cause his son or his daughter to pass through the fire to Molech.

11 And he put down the horses that the kings of Judah had dedicated to the sun, from the entrance of the house of the LORD,[f] by the chamber of Nethan-melech the chamberlain, who was over the suburbs; and the chariots of the sun he burnt with fire.

12 And the altars that were on the roof of the upper-chamber of Achaz, which the kings of Judah had made, and the altars which Menassch had made in the two courts of the house of the LORD, did the king pull down, and tore them away from there, and cast their dust into the brook Kidron.

13 And the high-places that were before Jerusalem, which were to the right of the mount of destruction,[g] which Solomon the king of Israel had built for 'Ashtoreth the abomination of the Zidonians, and for Kemosh the abomination of the Moäbites, and for Milcom the abomination of the children of 'Ammon, did the king defile.

14 And he broke in pieces the standing images, and cut down the Asherah-groves, and filled their places with the bones of men.

15 So also the altar that was at Beth-el, the high-place which Jerobo'am the son of Nebat, who induced Israel to sin, had made, —also that altar and the high-place did he pull down; and he burnt the high-place, ground it small to powder, and burnt then the Asherah.

16 And Josiah turned about, and beheld the graves that were there in the mount, and he sent, and took the bones out of the sepulchres, and burnt them upon the altar, and polluted it, according to the word of the LORD which the man of God proclaimed, who had proclaimed these events.

17 Then said he, What kind of monument is that which I see? And the men of the city said to him, It is the grave of the man of God, who came from Judah, and proclaimed these things which thou hast done against the altar of Beth-el.

18 And he said, Let him rest: no man shall disturb his bones. So they saved his bones, with the bones of the prophet that came out of Samaria.

19 And also all the houses of the high-places that were in the cities of Samaria, which the kings of Israel had made as provocations to anger,[a] did Josiah remove, and did to them in accordance with all the acts that he had done in Beth-el.

20 And he slaughtered all the priests of the high-places that were there upon the altars, and burnt men's bones upon them, and returned (then) to Jerusalem.

21 And the king commanded all the people, saying, Keep[b] the passover unto the LORD your God, as it is written in this book of the covenant.

22 For there had not been holden such a passover from the days of the judges that judged Israel; nor in all the days of the kings of Israel, and of the kings of Judah;

23 But in the eighteenth year of king Josiah was this passover holden to the LORD in Jerusalem.

24 And also the men of familiar spirits, and the wizards, and the teraphim, and the idols, and all the abominations that were to be seen in the land of Judah and in Jerusalem, did Josiah clear away; in order that he might accomplish the words of the law which were written in the book that Chilkiyahu the priest had found in the house of the LORD.

25 And like unto him there was no king before him, that returned to the LORD with all his heart, and with all his soul, and with all his might, according to all the law of Moses; and after him there arose none like him.

26 Notwithstanding this the LORD turned not from the fierceness of his great anger, since his anger was kindled against Judah, because of all the provokings wherewith Menasseh had provoked him to anger.

27 And the LORD said, Also Judah will I remove out of my sight, as I have removed Israel, and will cast off this city which I have chosen, even Jerusalem, and the house of which I said, My name shall be there.

28 Now the rest of the acts of Josiah, and all that he did, behold, they are written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah.

29 In his days went up Pharaoh-nechoh the king of Egypt against the king of Assyria to the river Euphrates: and king Josiah went against him; and he slew him at Megiddo, when he saw him.[c]

30 And his servants carried him dying in a chariot from Megiddo, and brought him to Jerusalem, and buried him in his own sepulchre. And the people of the land took Jehoächaz the son of Josiah, and anointed[d] him, and made him king in his father's stead.

31 ¶ Twenty and three years old was Jehoächaz when he became king; and three months did he reign in Jerusalem. And his mother's name was Chamutal, the daughter of Jeremiah[e] of Libnah.

32 And he did what is evil in the eyes of the LORD, all just as his fathers had done.

33 And Pharaoh-nechoh put him in fetters at Riblah in the land of Chamath, that he should not reign in Jerusalem, and imposed a fine on the land of a hundred talents of silver, and a talent of gold.

his father, and changed his name to Jehoyakim, and took Jehoächaz away: and he came to Egypt, and died there.

35 And Jehoyakim gave the silver and the gold to Pharaoh; but he taxed[a] the land to give the money by the order of Pharaoh: from every one according to his estimation did he exact the silver and gold from the people of the land, to give it unto Pharaohnechoh.

36 ¶ Twenty and five years old was Jehoyakim when he became king; and eleven years did he reign in Jerusalem. And his mother's name was Zebudah, the daughter of Pedayah of Rumah.

37 And he did what is evil in the eyes of the LORD, all just as his fathers had done.

CHAPTER XXIV.

1 In his days came up Nebuchadnezzar the king of Babylon, and Jehoyakim became his servant for three[b] years: and then he turned[c] and rebelled against him.

2 And the LORD sent against him predatory bands of the Chaldeans,[d] and predatory bands of the Syrians, and predatory bands of the Moäbites, and predatory bands of the children of 'Ammon, and sent them against Judah to destroy it, according to the word of the LORD, which he had spoken by means of his servants the prophets.

3 But only at the order of the LORD came this upon Judah, to remove the same out of his sight, for the sins of Menasseh, in accordance with all that he had done;

4 And also for the innocent blood that he had shed; for he had filled Jerusalem with innocent blood; wherefore the LORD would not pardon.

5 Now the rest of the acts of Jehoyakim, and all that he did, behold, they are written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah.

6 And Jehoyakim slept with his fathers: and Jehoyachin his son became king in his stead.

7 And the king of Egypt came no more again out of his land; for the king of Babylon had taken from the brook of Egypt unto the river Euphrates all that had pertained to the king of Egypt.

8 ¶ Eighteen years old was Jehoyachin when he became king, and three months did he reign in Jerusalem. And his mother's name was Nechushta, the daughter of Elnathan of Jerusalem.

9 And he did what is evil in the eyes of the LORD, all just as that his father had done.

10 At that time the servants of Nebuchadnezzar the king of Babylon came up against Jerusalem, and the city was put in a state of siege.

11 And Nebuchadnezzar the king of Babylon came against the city, while his servants were besieging it.

12 And Jehoyachin the king of Judah went out to the king of Babylon, he, and his mother, and his servants, and his princes, and his court-officers: and the king of Babylon took him (captive) in the eighth year of his reign.

13 And he carried out thence all the treasures of the house of the LORD, and the treasures of the king's house, and cut[e] in pieces all the vessels of gold which Solomon the king of Israel had made in the temple of the LORD, as the LORD had spoken.

14 And he led away as exiles all Jerusalem, and all the princes, and all the mighty men of valour, ten thousand exiles, and all the craftsmen[f] and locksmiths: there was none left, save the poorest sort of the people of the land.

15 And he led away Jehoyachin as exile to Babylon; and the king's mother, and the king's wives, and his court-officers, and the mighty men of the land, he led into exile from Jerusalem to Babylon.

16 And all the men of might, seven thousand (in number), and the craftsmen and the locksmiths a thousand (in number), all strong men, apt for war; and the king of Babylon brought them into exile to Babylon.

17 And the king of Babylon made Mattan-yah his uncle king in his stead, and changed his name to Zedekiah.[a]

18 ¶ Twenty and one years old was Zedekiah when he became king, and eleven years did he reign in Jerusalem. And his mother's name was Chamutal, the daughter of Jeremiah of Libnah.

19 And he did what is evil in the eyes of the LORD, all just as Jehoyakim had done.

20 For through the anger of the LORD it occurred in Jerusalem and Judah, until he had cast them out from his presence, that[b] Zedekiah rebelled against the king of Babylon.

CHAPTER XXV.

1 ¶ And it came to pass in the ninth year of his reign, in the tenth month, on the tenth of the month, that Nebuchadnezzar the king of Babylon came, he, and all his host, against Jerusalem, and encamped against it; and they built a mound[c] all round about it.

2 And the city was put in a state of siege until the eleventh year of king Zedekiah.

3 And on the ninth of the month,[d] when the famine prevailed in the city, and there was no bread for the people of the land:

4 The city was broken into, and all the men of war (fled) in the night by the way of the gate between the two walls, which was by the king's garden; (while the Chaldeans were all round about the city;) and the people went the way toward the plain.

5 And the army of the Chaldeans pursued after the king, and overtook him in the plains of Jericho: and all his army were scattered from around him.

6 And they seized the king, and brought him up to the king of Babylon to Riblah; and they called him to account.[e]

7 And they slaughtered the sons of Zedekiah before his eyes, and he blinded the eyes of Zedekiah, and bound him with fetters of brass, and carried him to Babylon.

8 ¶ And in the fifth month, on the seventh day of the month, which was the nineteenth year of king Nebuchadnezzar the king of Babylon, came Nebusaradan, the chief of the guard, a servant of the king of Babylon, unto Jerusalem:

9 And he burnt the house of the LORD, and the king's house; also, all the houses of Jerusalem, and every great man's house burnt he with fire.

10 And the walls of Jerusalem round about did all the army of the Chaldeans that were with the captain of the guard tear down.

11 And the rest of the people that were left in the city, and the deserters that had run over to the king of Babylon, with the remnant of the multitude, did Nebusaradan the captain of the guard lead away into exile;

12 But from the poorest of the land the captain of the guard left some to be vine-dressers and husbandmen.

13 And the pillars of copper that were in the house of the LORD, and the bases, and the copper sea that was in the house of the LORD, did the Chaldeans break up, and they carried the copper thereof to Babylon.

14 And the pots, and the shovels, and the knives, and the spoons, and all the vessels of copper wherewith they ministered, took they away.

15 And the censers, and the bowls, the gold of the golden things, and the silver of the silver things, took the captain of the guard away.

16 The two pillars, the one sea, and the bases which Solomon had made for the house of the LORD: the copper of all these vessels was too much to be weighed.

17 Eighteen cubits was the height of the one pillar, and the capital upon it was copper; and the height of the capital was three cubits; and the wreathed work, and the pomegranates upon the capitals round about, were all of copper: and the same had the second pillar together with the wreathed work.

18 And the captain of the guard took Serayah the chief-priest, and Zephanyahu the second priest, and the three door-keepers;

19 And out of the city he took one court-officer that was appointed over the men of war, and five men of those that could come into the king's presence, who were found in the city, and the scribe of the chief of the army, who ordered to the army the people of the land, and sixty men of the people of the and that were found in the city:

20 And Nebusaradan the captain of the guard took these, and conducted them to the king of Babylon to Riblah;

21 And the king at Babylon smote them, and put them to death at Riblah in the land of Chamath. So did Judah wander away into exile out of their land.

22 And as for the people that were left in the land of Judah, whom Nebuchadnezzar the king of Babylon had left, he appointed over them Gedalyahu the son of Achikam, the son of Shaphan.

23 ¶ And when all the captains of the armies, they and their men, heard that the king of Babylon had appointed Gedalyahu, they came to Gedalyahu to Mizpah; even Ishma'el the son of Nethanyah, and Jochanan the son of Kareäch, and Serayah the son of Tanchumeth the Netophathite, and Jaäzanyahu the son of a Ma'achathite, they and their men.

24 And Gedalyahu swore to them, and to their men, and said unto them, Be not afraid of the servants of the Chaldeans: remain in the land, and serve the king of Babylon; and it will be well with you.

25 ¶ But it happened in the seventh month, that there came Ishma'el the son of Nethanyah, the son of Elishama', of the seed royal, and ten men with him, and they smote Gedalyahu, so that he died, also the Jews and the Chaldeans that were with him at Mizpah.

26 And then arose all the people, from small to great, and the captains of the armies, and went to Egypt; for they were afraid of the Chaldeans.

27 ¶ And it came to pass in the seven and thirtieth year of the captivity of Jehoyachin the king of Judah, in the twelfth month, on the seven and twentieth (day) of the month, that Evil-merodach[a] the king of Babylon in the year that he became king did lift up the head of Jehoyachin the king of Judah out of the prison;

28 And he spoke kindly to him, and set his chair above the chair of the kings that were with him in Babylon;

29 And changed his prison-garments: and he ate bread continually before him all the days of his life.

30 And his allowance was a continual allowance given him by the king, the necessary ration for the day on its day, all the days of his life.

[a] Evil-merodach was a vicious prince, and was slain after a reign of two years by his brother-in-law Neriglissar. Jehoyachim, or as he is called Jechonyah, was probably yet alive when the Book of Kings was written.

CHAPTER I.

1 ¶ The vision of Isaiah the son of Amoz, which he saw concerning Judah and Jerusalem in the days of 'Uzziyahu, Jotham, Achaz, and Hezekiah, the kings of Judah.

2 Hear, O ye heavens, and give ear, O earth; for the Lord hath spoken: Children have I nourished and brought up, but they have rebelled against me.

3 The ox knoweth his owner, and the ass his master's crib: Israel doth not know, my people doth not consider.

4 Wo! sinful nation, people laden with iniquity, seed of evildoers, children that are corrupt: they have forsaken the Lord, they have incensed[a] the Holy One of Israel, they are departed backward.

5 Why[b] will ye be stricken yet more? (that) ye increase the revolt? every head is sick, and every heart is faint.

6 From the sole of the foot even unto the head there is no soundness in it; but wounds, and bruises, and putrefying sores: they have not been closed,[c] nor bound up, nor mollified with oil.

7 Your country is desolate, your cities are burnt with fire; your soil—in your presence, strangers devour it, and it is desolate, as overthrown by strangers.

8 And left is the daughter of Zion as a hut in a vineyard, as a lodge in a cucumber-field, as a besieged[d] city.

9 Unless the Lord of hosts had left unto us a remnant ever so small, like Sodom[e] should we have been, unto Gomorrah should we have been compared.

10 ¶ Hear the word of the Lord, ye rulers of Sodom: give ear unto the law of our God, ye people of Gomorrah.

11 For what serveth me the multitude of your sacrifices? saith the Lord: I am sated with the burnt-offerings of rams, and the fat of fatted beasts; and the blood of bullocks, and of sheep, and of he-goats, I do not desire.

12 When ye come to appear in my presence—who hath required this at your hand, to tread down my courts?

13 Continue no more to bring an oblation of deceit; incense[f] of abomination is it unto me: new moon and sabbath, the calling of assemblies—I cannot bear misdeed with festive gathering.

14 Your new moons and your appointed feasts my soul hateth; they are become a burden unto me; I am weary to bear them.

15 And when ye spread forth your hands, I will withdraw my eyes from you; yea, when ye make ever so many prayers, I will not hear: your hands are full of blood.

16 Wash yourselves, make yourselves clean; put away the evil of your deeds from before my eyes; cease to do evil;

17 Learn to do well; seek for justice, relieve the oppressed, do justice to the fatherless, plead for the widow.[g]

18 ¶ Come now, and let us reason together, saith the Lord: though your sins should be as scarlet, they shall become white as the snow; though they should be red like crimson, they shall become like wool.

19 If ye be willing and obey, the best of the land shall ye eat;

20 But if ye refuse and rebel, by the sword shall ye be devoured; for the mouth of the Lord hath spoken it.

21 ¶ How is she become a harlot, the faithful town! she, that was full of justice; righteousness lodged therein; but now murderers.

22 Thy silver is become dross, thy wine is drugged with water;

[a] Sachs, "rejected." Philippson, "despised."
[b] Others, "where," as all the body is already sore.
[c] Rashi, "They have not been sprinkled with powder." Others, "squeezed out."
[d] Philippson, "as a city just released from siege."
[e] Correctly, Sedom, 'Amorah.
[f] Rashi. Others, "incense is an abomination."
[g] Only righteousness can appear before God.

23 Thy princes are rebels, and companions of thieves; every one loveth bribes, and runneth after rewards; to the fatherless they will not do justice, and the cause of the widow doth not come unto them.

24 ¶ Therefore saith the Lord, the Eternal of hosts, the mighty One of Israel, Ah, I will take satisfaction on my adversaries, and be avenged on my enemies.

25 And I will turn my hand against thee, and purge away as with lye[a] thy dross, and remove all thy tin:[b]

26 And I will restore thy judges as at the first, and thy counsellors as at the beginning; after that shalt thou be called, The city of righteousness, the town that is faithful.

27 Zion shall be redeemed through justice, and her converts through righteousness.

28 But destruction shall come over transgressors and sinners together, and those that forsake the LORD shall perish.

29 For people shall be ashamed because of the terebinths[c] which ye had desired, and ye shall be put to the blush because of the gardens that ye had chosen.

30 For ye shall be as a terebinth the leaves of which wither, and as a garden that hath no water.

31 And the mighty oppressor[d] shall become as tow, and his workman as a spark; and they shall both burn together, with none to quench.

CHAPTER II.

1 ¶ The word that Isaiah the son of Amoz foresaw concerning Judah and Jerusalem.

2 And it shall come to pass in the last[e] days, that the mountain of the LORD's house shall be firmly established on the top of the mountains, and shall be exalted above the hills; and unto it shall flow all the nations.

3 And many people shall go and say, Come ye, and let us go up to the mountain of the LORD, to the house of the God of Jacob; that he may teach us of his ways, and we may walk in his paths; for out of Zion shall go forth the law, and the word of the LORD out of Jerusalem.

4 And he will judge among the nations, and decide[f] for many people; and they shall beat their swords into plough-shares, and their spears into pruning-knives: nation shall not lift up sword against nation, and they shall not learn any more war.

5 ¶ O house of Jacob, come ye, and let us walk in the light of the LORD.

6 For[g] thou hast abandoned thy people, the house of Jacob, because they are full of (witchcraft) more than the east, and are soothsayers like the Philistines, and with the children of strangers they unite[h] themselves.

7 And full became their land of silver[i] and gold, and there is no end to their treasures; and full became their land of horses, and there is no end to their chariots;

8 And full became their land of idols; to the work of their own hands they bow themselves, to what their own fingers have made.

9 And so is bent down the son of earth, and humbled the man; and thou wilt not forgive them.

10 Enter into the rock, and hide thee in the dust, because of the dread of the LORD, and because of the glory of his majesty.

11 The looks of human pride shall be humbled, and the haughtiness of men shall be bent down: and exalted shall be the LORD alone on that day.

12 ¶ For there is a day (of judgment) unto the LORD of hosts over every proud and lofty one; and over every exalted one, that he be brought low;

13 And over all the cedars of the Lebanon,

[a] The flux put into metal to remove the impurities.

[b] Others, "lead."

[c] Terebinths, or other spreading trees, were used to place images under their shade; and so in the gardens the domestic idols were set up. (See also chap. lxvi. 17.)

[d] Rashi. Jonathan, "And the strength of the wicked shall become as tow, and the work of their hand as a spark." Heinemann comments, "the idol—and its worshipper."

[e] Lit. "the latter end of days." Sachs, "late times." Heinemann, "the latest." Jonathan, "the end of." Philippson, "in the course of time."

[f] This is the natural parallel to "judge." Others, "shall rebuke," "reprove." Aben Ezra, "And he, the judge, the king Messiah, shall judge," &c.

[g] The prophet now addresses God.—RASHI.

[h] Sachs, "they are full of the children," &c. Redak, and Aben Ezra, "they abound (are content) with the laws (the mental children) of the stranger." So also Jonathan, "they walk in the customs of the nations." Rashi, however, refers it to intermarriage, and renders, "they are busied with the children of a strange marriage."

[i] The prophet first traces the demoralizing effects of wealth and then the reverses, as the divine vengeance.

the high and exalted, and over all the oaks of Bashan;

14 And over all the high mountains, and over all the exalted hills;

15 And over every high tower, and over every fortified wall;

16 And over all the ships of Tharshish; and over all desirable palaces.[a]

17 And the pride of man shall be bent down, and the haughtiness of men shall be humbled: and exalted shall be the LORD alone on that day.

18 And the idols will he utterly abolish.

19 And men shall enter into the caverns of rocks, and into the rifts of the earth, because of the dread of the LORD, and because of the glory of his majesty, when he ariseth to terrify the earth.

20 On that day shall a man cast away his idols of silver, and his idols of gold, which have been made for him to worship, to the moles and to the bats;

21 To enter into the clefts of the rocks, and into the hollows of the cliffs, because of the dread of the LORD, and because of the glory of his majesty, when he ariseth to terrify the earth.

22 Withdraw yourselves (then) from man, whose breath is in his nostrils; because, for what is he to be esteemed?[b]

CHAPTER III.

1 ¶ For, behold, the Lord, the Eternal of hosts, doth remove from Jerusalem and from Judah stay and staff,[c] every stay of bread, and every stay of water.

2 The hero, and the man of war, the judge, and the prophet, and the prudent,[d] and the ancient,

3 The captain of fifty, and the honourable man, and the counsellor, and the skilful artificer,[e] and the eloquent orator.

4 And I will set up boys as their princes, and children shall rule over them.

5 And so shall the people press man against man, and one against the other: the boy shall demean himself proudly against the ancient, and the base against the honourable.

6 When a man will seize hold on his brother in the house of his father, (saying,) Thou hast a garment, thou shalt be our ruler, and let this ruin be under thy hand:

7 He will swear on that day, saying, I will not be a chief;[f] and in my house is neither bread nor clothing; you shall not appoint me a ruler of the people.

8 For Jerusalem is sunk to decay, and Judah is fallen; because their tongue and their doings are against the LORD, to incense the eyes of his glory.

9 The boldness[g] of their face testifieth against them; and like Sodom they tell openly their sin, they conceal it not. Wo unto their soul! for they have prepared evil unto themselves.

10 Say ye to the righteous, that he hath done well;[h] for the fruit of their[i] doings shall they eat.

11 Wo unto the wicked who doeth evil;[k] for the recompense of his hands shall be bestowed on him.

12 My people! their oppressors are children, and women rule over them. O my people! thy leaders cause thee to err, and the direction[l] of thy paths they corrupt.

13 ¶ The LORD is stepped forth to plead, and standeth up to judge the people.

14 The LORD will enter into judgment with the ancients of his people, and their princes; but ye—ye have eaten up the vineyard; the plunder of the poor is in your houses.

15 What mean ye that ye crush my people, and grind down the faces of the poor? saith the Lord the Eternal of hosts.

16 ¶ And the LORD said, Forasmuch as the daughters of Zion are proud, and walk with stretched forth necks and casting about their

[e] Sachs, "Wizard and conjurer."

[f] Jonathan. Others, "a physician," taking חבש literally, as one who binds up a wound —i. e. The public distress shall be so great that each one shall be afraid to rule.

eyes, walking and mincing as they go, and making a tinkling with their feet:

17 Therefore will the Lord smite with leprosy the crown of the head of the daughters of Zion, and the LORD will lay open their nakedness.

18 ¶ On that day will the Lord take away the beauty of their tinkling shoe-buckles, and the hair-nets, and the crescent-shaped ornaments,

19 The drops, and the bracelets, and the mufflers,

20 The bonnets, and the foot-chains, and the head-bands,[a] and the tablets, and the ear-rings,

21 The finger-rings, and nose-jewels,

22 The changeable suits of apparel, and the mantles, and the shawls, and the pockets,

23 The mirrors, and the chemisettes,[b] and the turbans, and the long vails.

24 And it shall come to pass, that instead of sweet smell there shall be corruption; and instead of a girdle a rope; and instead of curled hair baldness; and instead of a wide garment a girding of sackcloth; a mark of burning instead of beauty.

25 Thy men shall fall by the sword, and thy mighty ones in the war.

26 And then shall her gates lament and mourn; and stript of all shall she sit upon the ground.

CHAPTER IV.

1 And seven women shall take hold of one man on that day, saying, We will eat our own bread, and wear our own apparel: only let us be called by thy name, take but away our reproach.[c]

2 ¶ On that day shall the sprout of the LORD be for ornament and for honour, and the fruit of the land for excellence and for glory for the escaped of Israel.

3 And it shall come to pass, that whoever is left in Zion, and he that remaineth in Jerusalem, shall be called holy, every one that is written down unto life in Jerusalem:

4 When the Lord shall have washed away the filth of the daughters of Zion, and shall have scoured away the blood-guiltiness of Jerusalem from her midst, by the spirit of judgment, and by the spirit of destruction.[d]

5 And then will the LORD create upon every dwelling of mount Zion, and upon her places of assembly, a cloud and smoke by day, and the brightness of a flaming fire by night; for over all the glory shall be a covering.[e]

6 And a tabernacle shall it be for a shade in the daytime from the heat, and for a refuge, and for a covert from tempest and from rain.

CHAPTER V.

1 ¶ I will sing now for my beloved, the song of my dear one touching his vineyard. A vineyard had my beloved on a rich hill-top;

2 And he fenced it in, and cleared it of stones, and planted it with the choicest vines, and built a tower in its midst, and also a winepress he hewed out therein: and he hoped that it should bring forth grapes, and it brought forth worthless fruit.[f]

3 And now, O inhabitants of Jerusalem, and men of Judah, judge, I pray you, between me and my vineyard.

4 What more was to be done to my vineyard, that I had not done in it? why then did I hope that it should bring forth grapes, while it brought forth worthless fruit?

5 And now I will let you know also what I will do to my vineyard: I will take away its hedge, and it shall be eaten off;[g] I will break down its wall, and it shall be trodden down;

6 And I will lay it quite waste; it shall not be pruned, nor hoed around; and it shall be overgrown with briers and thorns; and the clouds will I command that they send down no rain upon it.

[a] Zunz and others, "belts, smelling-boxes, and amulets."

[b] כדין here, is evidently not "fine linen," but a garment made of it. We have followed Sachs and others, who render it with Hemdchen, the nearest term to which is the one we have chosen. On the whole, there is much uncertainty what precise ornaments and dresses are described here; but no doubt that luxury had attained a high point in Isaiah's time.

[c] They demand him in marriage, celibacy being a disgrace

[d] Lit. "Removal," or "sweeping out," i. e. of wickedness.

[e] Philippson, "that it (the cloud) may be a cover of all the glory," and refers to Exod. xl. 34, 35; but Rashi comments, "for over all the glory promised to them, shall be the protection which my majesty shall cover them with."

[f] Rashi, "Lambruche, 'wild grapes,'" appearing like grapes.

[g] i. e. Cattle shall come in and feed on its branches; the same meaning is to be applied to above, iii. 14.

7 For the vineyard of the LORD of hosts is the house of Israel, and the men of Judah are the plant of his delight: and he hoped for justice, but behold injustice; for equity, but behold iniquity.[a]

8 ¶ Wo unto those that cause house to join on house, bring field near[b] to field, till there is no more room, so that ye may be left alone as the inhabitants in the midst of the land!

9 In my ears (spoke) the LORD of hosts, Truly many houses shall become desolate, yea, great and beautiful ones without an inhabitant.

10 Yea, ten acres of vineyard shall yield (but) one bath, and a chomer-seed[c] shall yield (but) an ephah.

11 ¶ Wo unto those that rise up early in the morning, that they may run after strong drink; that continue until late in the twilight, till wine inflame them!

12 And there are harp and psaltery, tambourine and flute, and wine at their drinking-feasts; but the deeds of the LORD they regard not, and the works of his hands they behold not.

13 Therefore are my people led into exile, for want of knowledge:[d] and their honourable men suffer of famine, and their multitude are panting with thirst.

14 Therefore hath the deep[e] enlarged her desire, and opened her mouth without measure: and there descend (Jerusalem's)[f] glory, and her multitude, and her noise, and whoever rejoiced therein.

15 And bent down shall be the son of earth, and humbled shall be the man, and the eyes of the lofty shall be humbled;

16 And the LORD of hosts shall be exalted in judgment, and the holy God shall be sanctified by (displaying his) righteousness.

17 Then shall the sheep feed according to their wont, and the ruins of the fat ones shall sojourners eat.

18 ¶ Wo unto those that draw iniquity with the cords of falsehood, and as with a wagon-rope, sinfulness;

19 That say, Let him make speed, let him hasten his work, that we may see it: and let draw nigh and come the counsel of the Holy One of Israel, that we may know it!

20 ¶ Wo unto those that say of the evil it is good, and of the good it is evil; that put darkness for light, and light for darkness; that put bitter for sweet, and sweet for bitter!

21 ¶ Wo unto those that are wise in their own eyes, and intelligent in their own esteem![g]

22 ¶ Wo unto those that are heroes to drink wine, and men of might to mingle strong drink;

23 Who justify the wicked in lieu of a bribe, and who deprive the righteous of their right!

24 ¶ Therefore as the tongue of the fire devoureth the stubble, and dry hay sinketh before the flame: so shall their root be as rotten things, and their blossom shall fly up as the dust; because they have despised the law of the LORD of hosts, and the word of the Holy One of Israel they have rejected.

25 For this cause is kindled the anger of the LORD against his people, and he stretcheth[h] forth his hand against them, and he smiteth them; and the mountains tremble, and their carcasses lie like sweepings[i] in the midst of the streets: with all this his anger is not turned away, but still is his hand stretched out.

26 And he will lift up an ensign to the nations from afar, and will call[k] for one of them from the end of the earth; and, behold, with speed, swiftly, it cometh;

[a] Lit. "outcry," i. e. against the false decrees of the judges. It has been endeavored to retain the play on the words in the original, משפט against משפה, and צדקה against צעקה.

[b] i. e. By taking away by force the intermediate property.

[c] A chomer is ten ephahs or ten baths.

[d] כבלי דעת is rendered by Sachs "unawares;" i. e. before they are aware or knowing of the evil. We have followed Rashi and Jonathan, who also give מתי רעב with "dying of famine."

שאול is rendered hell in the English version; but the general idea is the place where the dead go to, "the grave," "the deep," "the nether world."

[e] After Rashi.

[f] Heb. "and in the presence of their face."

[g] In the Hebrew the past tense is used, because to the prophet's eyes the present is already past.

[h] After Rashi. But Aben Ezra takes the כ of ככוחה belonging to the root, and renders, "shall be cast away." Redak, "cut in pieces."

[i] Lit. "whistle," or "pipe." Rashi, "Siffler, which is also a sign for gathering, like the lifting up of the banner."

27 There is none weary nor stumbling among its men; it slumbereth not, it sleepeth not; not loosened is the girdle of its loins, not broken is the latchet of its shoes;

28 Whose arrows are sharpened, and all whose bows are bent; its horses hoofs are hard like the flint, and its wheels like the whirlwind;

29 It hath a roar like the lioness, it roareth like the young lions: yea, it growleth, and layeth hold of the prey, and carrieth it safely off, with none to deliver.

30 And it will rage against them on that day like with the raging of the sea: and if one look unto the earth, behold, there is darkness, oppression,[b] and the light is darkened through the darkness of its clouds.

CHAPTER VI.

1 ¶ In the year of king 'Uzziyahu's death I saw the Lord sitting upon a high and exalted throne, and his train filled the temple.

2 Seraphim were standing around him, each one had six wings; with two he covered his face, and with two he covered his feet, and with two did he fly.

3 And one called unto the other, and said, Holy, holy, holy is the LORD of hosts; the whole earth is full of his glory.

4 And the posts of the threshold shook at the voice of those that called aloud, and the house was filled with smoke.

5 And I said, Wo is me! for I am lost; because a man of unclean lips am I, and in the midst of a people of unclean lips do I dwell; for the King, the LORD of hosts have my eyes seen.

6 Then flew unto me one of the seraphim, and in his hand was a live coal,[c] with the tongs had he taken it from off the altar:

7 And he touched therewith upon my mouth, and said, Lo, this hath touched thy lips; and thy iniquity is departed, and thy sin is forgiven.

8 And I heard the voice of the Lord, saying, Whom shall I send, and who will go for us? And I said, Here am I: send me.

9 And he said, Go, and say unto this people, Hear[d] indeed, but understand not; and see indeed, but know not.

10 Obdurate[e] will remain the heart of this people, and their ears will be heavy, and their eyes will be shut: so that they will not see with their eyes, nor hear with their ears, nor their hearts be understanding, so that they be converted, and healing be granted them.

11 And I said, How long, O Lord? And he said, Until that cities be left waste without an inhabitant, and houses without man, and the soil be made desolate as a wilderness, 12 And the LORD will have removed far away the men, and the depopulation be great in the midst of the land.

13 And should a tenth part thereof yet remain, it will again be swept away: (yet) like the terebinth and the oak, which, when they cast their leaves, retain their stems, so remaineth the holy seed, its[f] stem.

CHAPTER VII.

1 ¶ And it came to pass in the days of Achaz the son of Jotham, the son of 'Uzziyahu, the king of Judah, that Rezin the king of Syria, and Pekach the son of Remalyahu, the king of Israel, went up toward Jerusalem to war against it; but were not able to make an attack upon it.

2 And it was told unto the house[g] of David, saying, Syria is encamped with Ephraim; and his heart trembled, with the heart of his people, as the trees of the forest are shaken before the wind.

3 ¶ And the LORD said unto Isaiah, Go forth now to meet Achaz, thou with Sheär-yashub thy son, to the end of the aqueduct of the upper pool, on the highway of the washer's[h] field;

4 And thou shalt say unto him, Take heed, and be quiet; fear not, and let thy heart not become faint because of these two stumps of smoking firebrands, before the fierce

[a] i. e. The inimical nation, against Israel.

[b] Sachs, "darkness of distress," otherwise this verse is rendered after him. Some translate, "moon and sun are rendered dark through its clouds;" making יו the moon, or small luminary.

[c] Sachs, "a glowing stone."

[d] Philippson, "You shall hear, but not understand," &c.

[e] After Rashi. Others, "Make obdurate," &c.; meaning, the perverseness of the people is so great that the prophetic mission will only display the stronger their unworthiness. (See Exod. iii. 19; Deut. xxix. 3.)

[f] Israel's. The deciduous tree casts its leaves in the autumn; still it dies not; with return of the spring a new foliage appears; so, though destruction comes after destruction over the godless, the holy seed, the truly pious, are the stem, the trunk of Israel's tree, sending out new branches and new leaves for ever.

anger of Rezin with Syria, and of the son of Remalyahu.

5 Forasmuch as Syria, (with) Ephraim and the son of Remalyahu, have taken evil counsel against thee, saying,

6 Let us go up against Judah, and besiege[a] it, and let us make a breach therein for us, and set up as king in the midst of it the son of Tabeël:

7 ¶ Thus hath said the Lord Eternal, It shall not succeed, and it shall not come to pass.

8 For the head of Syria is Damascus, and the head of Damascus is Rezin: and within sixty and five[b] years shall Ephraim be broken, to be no more a people.

9 And the head of Ephraim is Samaria, and the head of Samaria is Remalyahu's son. If ye will not believe, surely ye shall not have permanence.

10 ¶ And the LORD continued to speak unto Achaz, saying,

11 Ask thee a sign from the LORD thy God; ask it in the depth, or high up above.

12 But Achaz said, I will not ask, and I will not tempt the LORD.

13 And he said, Hear ye now, O house of David! Is it too little for you to weary men, that ye will weary also my God?

14 Therefore will the Lord himself give you a sign: behold, this young[c] woman shall conceive, and bear a son, and she[d] shall call his name 'Immanu-el, (God with us.)

15 Cream[e] and honey shall he eat, so soon as he knoweth to refuse the evil, and to choose the good.

16 For before yet the child shall know to refuse the evil, and to choose the good, shall be forsaken the land, of the kings of which thou feelest dread.

17 The LORD will bring over thee, and over thy people, and over thy father's house, days that have not come, from the day that Ephraim withdrew from Judah,—the king of Assyria.

18 ¶ And it shall come to pass on that day, that the LORD will call[f] for the fly that is in the uttermost end of the streams of Ègypt, and for the bee that is in the land of Assyria.

19 And they shall come, and shall encamp, all of them, in the desolate valleys, and in the clefts of the rocks, and upon all thorn-hedges, and upon all bushes.

20 On the same day will the Lord shave with the razor that is hired, from among those on the other side of the river, with the king of Assyria,[g] the head, and the hair of the feet: and also the beard shall it entirely remove.

21 ¶ And it shall come to pass on that day, that a man shall nourish (but) one young cow,[h] and two sheep;

22 And it shall happen, that for the abundance of milk which they shall give he shall eat cream; for cream and honey shall eat every one that is left in the midst of the land.

23 And it shall come to pass on that day, that every place, where there are (now) a thousand vines worth a thousand silver shekels, shall be,—yea, this shall be (given up) to briers and thorns.

24 With arrows and with bows shall men enter thither; because all the land shall become (covered with) briers and thorns.

25 And all mountains that are worked with the mattock, there[i] shall not come thither the fear of briers and thorns: and they shall serve for the pasture of oxen, and for the treading of sheep.

CHAPTER VIII.

1 ¶ And the LORD said unto me, Take thyself a large table,[k] and write on it with distinct letters,[l] Lemaher-shalal-chash-bas.[m]

2 And I was to summon for myself trustworthy witnesses, Uriyah the priest, and Zecharyahu the son of Yeberechyahu.

3 And I came near unto the prophetess;

[a] Philippson, "inclose." Sachs, "trouble."

[b] Rashi refers this to the prophecy of 'Amos from which the period is to be dated to which Isaiah now refers; and to this he properly appends a sign, Achaz having no doubt shown that he believed Isaiah as little as the older prophet 'Amos.

[c] עַלְמָה does not necessarily signify virgin, but a young marriageable woman in general. (See also Prov. xxx. 21.)

[d] Others, "and thou shalt call," addressing the young woman herself.

[e] Kashi, who comments, "Now all is desolate by the war; but this shall cease speedily and there be plenty for all."

[f] Lit. "whistle." (See above, v. 26.)

[g] The Assyrian is the razor which is to do God's bidding.

[h] Rashi, "after the desolation, and on the little that is left will I send my blessing."

[i] Philippson, "thou shalt not enter there for fear of briers and thistles."

and she conceived, and bore a son. Then said the LORD to me, Call his name Maher-shalal-chash-bas.

4 For before yet the boy shall know to call, My father, and my mother, the wealth of Damascus and the spoil of Samaria shall be carried away before the king of Assyria.

5 ¶ And the LORD continued to speak unto me again, saying,

6 Forasmuch as this people despiseth the waters of Shiloäch that flow softly, and rejoice in Rezin and Remalyahu's son:

7 Yea therefore behold, the Lord bringeth up over them the strong and many waters of the river,—the king of Assyria, and all his glory; and he shall come up over all his channels, and step over all his banks;

8 And he shall penetrate into Judah, overflow and flood over, even to the neck shall he reach; and his outstretched wings shall fill the breadth of thy land, O 'Immanu-el.[a]

9 ¶ Associate[b] yourselves, O ye people, yet shall ye be broken in pieces; and give ear, all ye of the far portions of the earth: gird[c] yourselves, yet shall ye be broken in pieces; gird yourselves, yet shall ye be broken in pieces.

10 Take counsel together, yet shall it come to naught; speak the word, and it shall not stand firm; for with us is God.

11 ¶ For thus said the LORD to me with the strength of prophecy, and warned me not to walk in the way of this people, saying,

12 Call[d] ye not a conspiracy all that this people may call a conspiracy, and what it feareth shall ye not fear, and be not terrified (thereat).

13 The LORD of hosts, him shall ye sanctify; and let him be your fear, and let him be your terror.

14 And he will be for a sanctuary; but also for a stone of stumbling and for a rock to fall over unto both the houses of Israel, for a gin and for a snare to the inhabitants of Jerusalem.

15 And many shall stumble over them, and fall, and be broken, and snared, and be caught.

16 ¶ Bind[e] up the testimony, seal up the law among my disciples.

17 And I will wait for the LORD, that hideth his face from the house of Jacob, and I will hope for him.

18 Behold, I and the children whom the LORD hath given me are for signs and for tokens in Israel, from the LORD of hosts who dwelleth on mount Zion.

19 And when they shall say unto you, "Inquire of those that have familiar spirits, and of the wizards, that whisper,[f] and that mutter:" should[g] not a people inquire of their God? (should we then) in behalf of the living (inquire) of the dead?

20 (Hold) to the law and to the testimony: if they are not to speak according to this word,[h] in which there is no light.

21 And the (people) shall pass through (the land), hard oppressed and hungry: and it shall come to pass, that when they shall be hungry, they will become enraged, and curse their king and their god, and turn toward on high (for aid).[i]

22 And they will look unto the earth; and behold there are trouble and darkness, dimness of oppression, and they shall be scattered into obscurity.

23 For no fatigue[k] (befalleth) him that op-

[a] 'Immanu-el was the child that was to show the early fulfilment of the prophecy in chap. vii.; hence his name stands for the land of Judah, which, notwithstanding the danger predicted, should still be delivered; as was done when Sennacherib's army fell before Jernsalem.

[b] Rashi and Jonathan: "Unite, "rage, nations, and fear." Aben Ezra, "Be ye broken and crushed."

[c] With armour.

[d] Lit. "Say not a conspiracy of all," &c. The conspiracy is probably the confederacy of the enemies of Judah; and the prophet admonishes himself and others not to be dismayed at the apparent danger.

[e] Rashi, "bind and seal the warning and the teaching of the law on the heart of my disciples who fear the LORD," properly called, "the disciples of the LORD."

[f] Lit. "chirp," like a bird. English version, "peep," in the same sense.

[g] This is the answer which is to be given; rendered after Rashi. But Jonathan, "this is the custom of the nations who worship error, they inquire of their idols, of the dead for the living."

[h] Rashi renders, "You will see that they will say in accordance with this word, that their false gods have no power to grant prayer;" taking שחר "to seek by entreaty." Philippson, "(Back) to the law and testimony, if the people to whom no morning dawneth speak not after this word;" meaning, that no light shall be given to those who turn not back to the law. [i] Jonathan.

[k] This verse is given after Rashi and Jonathan; though the latter renders the last part, "and the remainder shall a mighty king lead captive, because they remembered not God's power at the (Red) Sea, and the miracles at the Jordan near the cities of the nations." לה refers to the land. גליל Rashi applies to all Palestine, "the land to which the nations draw in masses." This verse is the 1st of chap. ix. in the English version.

presseth it; in the first time he made light of the land of Zebulun, and the land of Naphtali, and at the last he will deal hard, with the way by the sea, on the other side of the Jordan, (up to) the Galilee of the nations.

CHAPTER IX.

1 The people that walk in darkness have seen a great light: they that dwell in the land of the shadow of death—a light shineth brightly over them.

2 Thou hast multiplied the nation, made great their joy: they rejoice before thee as with the joy in harvest, as men are glad when they divide the spoil.

3 For the yoke of their burden, and the staff on their shoulder, the rod of their oppressor, hast thou broken, as on the day of Midian.

4 For[a] all the weapons of the fighter in the battle's tumult, and the garment rolled in blood, shall be burnt, become food for fire.

5 For a child is born unto us, a son hath been given unto us, and the government is placed on his shoulders; and his name is called, Wonderful, counsellor of the mighty God, of the everlasting Father, the prince of peace.[b]

6 For (promoting) the increase of the government, and for peace without end, upon the throne of David and upon his kingdom, to establish it and to support it through justice and righteousness, from henceforth and unto eternity: the zeal of the LORD of hosts will do this.

7 ¶ A word hath the Lord sent against Jacob, and it hath alighted upon Israel.

8 And experience it shall all the people together, Ephraim and the inhabitants of Samaria; because they say, in the pride and haughtiness of heart,

9 "The bricks are fallen down, but with hewn stones will we re-build: the sycamores[c] are cut down, but with cedars will we replace them."

10 Therefore will the LORD strengthen the adversaries of Rezin above him, and will stir up[d] his enemies;

11 The Syrians in front, and the Philistines behind; and they shall devour Israel with a full mouth. For all this his anger is not turned away, but his hand still remaineth stretched out.

12 And the people return not unto him that smiteth them, and the LORD of hosts do they not seek.

13 ¶ And the LORD cutteth off from Israel head and tail, palm-branch and rush, on one day.

14 The ancient and honourable is the head; and the prophet that teacheth lies is the tail.

15 And the guides of this people are those that guide to error; and those that are led of them are misled.[e]

16 Therefore will the Lord have no joy in their young men, and on their fatherless and widows will he have no mercy; for every one is a hypocrite and an evil-doer, and every mouth speaketh scandalous words. For all this his anger is not turned away, but his hand still remaineth stretched out.

17 For wickedness burneth like the fire; it shall devour the briers and thorns; and it shall kindle (a flame) in the thickets of the forest, and they shall be shrouded[f] by the wreaths of smoke.

18 ¶ Through the fury of the LORD of hosts is the land scorched,[g] and the people have become as food for the fire; no man will spare his brother.

19 And he snatcheth on the right hand, and is (yet) hungry; and he eateth on the left hand, and are not (yet) satisfied; they shall eat every man the flesh of his own arm:

[a] After Heinemann, Sachs, Philippson. Hochstadter, "all rattling armour."

[b] Heinemann; Rashi renders, "and the Wonderful, counsellor, mighty God, the everlasting Father, hath called his name The prince of peace." Aben Ezra, however, after whom Philippson, applies all the words as epithets of the prince, (Hezekiah,) and translates, "and people call him, Wonder, counsellor, mighty one of God, perpetual father, prince of peace." The only difficulty in the verse is the word אל which may as well be rendered with Aben Ezra "powerful," as God, as this word is found in the same sense in Exod. xv. 11, 15. Only the importance attached to this verse by controversialists has induced us to speak so much of it, as it evidently alludes to a child born already, נתן "hath been," not ינתן "shall be given."

[c] Sachs, "mulberries." Others, "wild fig trees."

[d] "Arm."—SACHS.

[e] "And their misled ones are ruined."—PHILIPPSON.

[f] "They shall be shrouded and shut out by the strength of the smoke of the conflagration."—REDAK.

[g] Rashi, "the smoke is thrown over the earth." Redak. "the land is darkened."

20 Menasseh (against)[a] Ephraim; and Ephraim (against) Menasseh; and they together against Judah. For all this his anger is not turned away, but his hand still remaineth stretched out.

CHAPTER X.

1 ¶ Wo unto those that decree decrees of unrighteousness, and the writers[b] who write down wrongful things;

2 To turn aside from judgment the needy, and to rob the just due of the poor of my people, that widows may be their prey, and (that) they may plunder the fatherless!

3 And what will ye do on the day of the visitation, and at the desolation which will come from afar? to whom will ye flee for help? and where will ye leave your glory?

4 Without me[c] they shall kneel down under the prisoners, and under the slain shall they fall. For all this his anger is not turned away, but his hand still remaineth stretched out.

5 ¶ Wo over Asshur, the rod of my anger; and a staff is in their hand my indignation.

6 Against a hypocritical nation will I send him, and against the people of my fury will I give him a charge, to take the spoil, and to carry off the prey, and to render them trodden down like the mire of the streets.

7 But he deemeth it not so, and his heart doth not think so; but to destroy is in his heart, and to cut off nations not a few.

8 For he saith, "Are not my princes altogether kings?

9 Is not Calno like Karkemish? is not Chamath like Arpad? is not Samaria like Damascus?

10 As my hand hath reached the kingdoms of the idols, whose graven images exceeded in number those of Jerusalem and of Samaria:

11 Shall I not, as I have done unto Samaria and her idols, do so unto Jerusalem and unto her idols?"

12 ¶ Wherefore shall it come to pass, that when the LORD hath completed all his work on mount Zion and in Jerusalem, I will punish the fruit of the haughtiness of the king of Asshur, and the vain-glory of his proud looks.

13 For he hath said, "By the strength of my hand have I done it, and by my wisdom, for I have intelligence; and I have removed the boundaries of nations, and their laid-up treasures have I plundered, and brought down low those that were powerfully seated.[d]

14 And my hand hath reached, as a bird's nest, the wealth of the people: and as one gathereth up eggs that are forsaken, have I myself gathered up all the earth; and there was not one that moved the wing, or opened the mouth, or chirped."

15 Shall the axe boast itself over him that heweth therewith? or shall the saw magnify itself against him that swingeth it? as if the rod should swing about those that lift it up, or as if the staff should lift up him who is no wood.[e]

16 ¶ Therefore will the Lord, the Eternal of hosts, send forth among his fat ones leanness; and under his glory shall be kindled a burning like the burning of a fire.

17 And the light of Israel shall become a fire, and his Holy One a flame; and it shall burn and devour his thorns and his briers on one day.

18 And the glory of his forest, and of his fruitful field, both soul and body, will he destroy: and he shall be as (a tree) eaten to powder by the worms.[f]

19 And the rest of the trees of his forest shall be few in number, so that a boy may write them down.

20 ¶ And it shall come to pass on that day, that the remnant of Israel, and such as are escaped of the house of Jacob, shall not

[a] After Aben Ezra. But Rashi, "Menasseh joineth Ephraim," &c.

[b] Sachs. But Rashi, "and sign wrongful writings," כתבים as "the written transactions. He also renders, "Wo to those who indict false obligations."

Redak. Rashi, after Jonathan, "where they have not kneeled there shall they be prisoners;" i. e. beyond Palestine, taking תחת as "on the spot." Sachs, "he who hath never kneeled (shall do it) among prisoners," &c. Our version is, "where God does not aid, all human strength is vain."

[c] Jonathan, "that dwell in strong cities." באביר is thus used adverbially. Philippson, and English version, "as a valiant man." Rashi, "many inhabitants."

farther lean for support again upon him that smiteth them; but they shall lean for support upon the LORD, the Holy One of Israel, in truth.

21 The remnant shall return, the remnant of Jacob, unto the mighty God.

22 For though thy people Israel should be as the sand of the sea, (yet) a remnant (only) of them shall return: destruction is decreed, it overfloweth with righteousness.

23 For it is completed and decreed: the Lord, the Eternal of hosts will do it in the midst of all the land.

24 ¶ Therefore thus hath said the Lord the Eternal of hosts, Be not afraid, O my people that dwellest in Zion, of Asshur, who will smite thee with the rod, and lift up his staff against thee, after the manner of Egypt.

25 ¶ For yet but a very little while more, and the indignation shall cease, and my anger shall be for their destruction.[a]

26 And the LORD of hosts shall lift up a scourge over him like (at) the smiting of Midian at the rock of 'Oreb: and as his staff was lifted over the sea, so will he carry him off after the manner of Egypt.

27 And it shall come to pass in that day, that his burden shall be removed from off thy shoulder, and his yoke from off thy neck, and the yoke shall be broken because of the fatness.[b]

28 He cometh to 'Ayath,[c] he passeth on to Migron; at Michmash he layeth up his baggage;

29 They go through the pass; they take up their lodging at Geba'; Ramah trembleth; Gib'ah of Saul fleeth.

30 Let thy voice resound, O daughter of Gallim: listen Layshah; O poor 'Anathoth!

31 Madmenah is in motion; the inhabitants of Gebim are assembled to flee.

32 As yet to-day will he remain at Nob: then will he swing his hand against the mount of the daughter of Zion, the hill of Jerusalem.

33 ¶ Behold, the Lord, the Eternal of hosts, will lop off the fruitful bough with terrific might: and those of towering growth shall be hewn down, and the high shall be laid low.

34 And he will cut down the thickets of the forests with iron, and the Lebanon shall fall by (means of) a mighty one.

CHAPTER XI.

1 ¶ And there shall come forth a shoot out of the stem of Jesse, and a sprout shall spring out of his roots.

2 And there shall rest upon him the spirit of the LORD, the spirit of wisdom and understanding, the spirit of counsel and might, the spirit of knowledge and of the fear of the LORD;

3 And he shall be animated[d] by the fear of the LORD; and not after the sight of his eyes shall he judge, and not after the hearing of his ears shall he decide;

4 But he shall judge with righteousness the poor, and decide with equity for the suffering ones of the earth;[e] and he shall smite the earth with the rod of his mouth, and with the breath of his lips shall he slay the wicked.

5 And righteousness[f] shall be the girdle of his loins, and faithfulness the girdle of his hips.

6 And the wolf shall then dwell with the sheep, and the leopard shall lie down with the kid; and the calf and the young lion and the fatling (shall be) together, and a little boy shall lead them.

7 And the cow and the she-bear shall feed, together shall their young ones lie down: and the lion shall like the ox eat straw.

8 And the sucking child shall play on the hole of the asp, and on the basilisk's den shall the weaned child stretch out his hand.

9 They shall not do hurt nor destroy on all my holy mountain; for the earth[g] shall be

[b] Metaphorical, as though by the increase of fat around the neck the bars of the yoke would crack asunder.

[c] This is a prophetical description of the march of Sennacherib's army approaching Jerusalem in order to invest it, and of the terror and confusion spreading and increasing through the several places as he advanced; expressed with great brevity, but finely diversified.

full of the knowledge of the LORD, as the waters cover the sea.[a]

10 ¶ And it shall happen on that day, that (he of) the root of Jesse, who shall stand as an ensign of the people, to him shall nations (come to) inquire: and his resting-place[b] shall be glorious.[c]

11 ¶ And it shall happen on that day, that the Lord will put forth his hand again the second time to acquire the remnant of his people, which shall remain, from Asshur and from Egypt, and from Pathros, and from Cush, and from 'Elam, and from Shin'ar, and from Chanath, and from the islands of the sea.

12 And he will lift up an ensign unto the nations, and will assemble the outcasts of Israel; and the dispersed of Judah will he collect together from the four corners of the earth.

13 And then shall depart the envy of Ephraim, and the adversaries[d] of Judah shall be cut off: Ephraim shall not envy Judah, and Judah shall not assail Ephraim.

14 But they shall fly upon the shoulders of the Philistines toward the west; together shall they spoil the children of the east: upon Edom and Moäb shall they lay their hands; and the children of 'Ammon shall obey them.

15 And the LORD will utterly destroy the tongue of the Egyptian sea; and he will swing his hand over the river with his mighty[e] wind, and will smite it into seven streams, and render it passable with shoes.

16 And there shall be a high-way for the remnant of his people, which shall remain from Asshur, like as it was to Israel on the day that they came up out of the land of Egypt.

CHAPTER XII.

1 And thou shalt say on that day, "I will thank thee, O LORD, that thou wast angry with me: thy anger (now) is turned away, and thou comfortest me.

2 Behold, God is my salvation: I will trust and not be afraid; for my strength and song is Yah the Eternal; and he is become my salvation."

3 And ye shall draw water with gladness out of the springs of salvation.

4 And ye shall say on that day, "Give thanks unto the LORD, call on his name, make known his deeds among the people, keep it in remembrance that exalted is his name.

5 Sing unto the LORD; for he hath wrought a stupendous thing: known is this on all the earth."

6 Call aloud and shout, habitress of Zion; for great is in the midst of thee the Holy One of Israel.

CHAPTER XIII.

1 ¶ The doom[f] of Babylon, which Isaiah the son of Amoz foresaw.

2 Upon a high[g] mountain lift ye up a banner, raise high your voice unto them, wave the hand, that they may enter into the gates of the princes.

3 I have charged my prepared ones, I have also called my heroes for my anger, those that rejoice in my highness.[h]

4 There is a noise of tumult on the mountains, like that of a numerous people; a noise of shouting of kingdoms of nations assembled: the LORD of hosts mustereth a host of battle.[i]

5 They are coming from a far-off country, from the end of the heavens, (here is) the LORD, with the weapons of his indignation, to destroy all the land.

6 Wail ye; for nigh is the day of the LORD; like wasting from the Almighty shall it come.

7 Therefore all hands shall become weak, and every mortal's heart shall melt;

8 And they shall be affrighted, pangs and

[d] Redak and others, "the enemies of Ephraim among Judah;" i. e. neither party shall desire war.

[e] Sachs, after Sa'adyah, "with the glowing of his anger;" חמ from an Arabic root, signifying "the glowing."

[f] Rashi, who comments, "the load of punishment." Lit. "burden," or that prophecy which announces what is heavy, or direful,—or simply doom.

[g] Rashi and Jonathan, "against the secure mountains;" but Babylon was in a plain; it is evidently merely a call for all the enemies to assemble.

[h] Aben Ezra, "to display my strength."

[i] A beautiful description of a gradual gathering of a large army at a distance from the speaker.

pains shall seize on them; they shall have throes as a woman that travaileth; one at the other shall they look amazed; red like flames shall their faces glow[a].

9 Behold, the day of the LORD cometh, direful,[b] (laden) with wrath and the fierceness of anger, to render the earth desolate: and its sinners will he destroy out of it.

10 For the stars of the heavens and their constellations shall not give forth their light: the sun shall be darkened in his going forth, and the moon shall not shed abroad her light.

11 And I will visit on the world[c] its evil, and on the wicked their iniquity; and I will stop the arrogance of the presumptuous, and the haughtiness of the tyrants will I humble.

12 I will make the mortal more precious[d] than fine gold; and man, more than the valued metal of Ophir.

13 Therefore will I shake the heavens, and the earth shall start quaking out of her place, at the wrath of the LORD of hosts, and on the day of his fierce anger.

14 And the people shall be as the chased roe, and as flocks which no one gathereth up; every man to his own people shall they turn, and every man into his own land shall they flee.

15 Every one that is found shall be thrust through; and every one that is joined unto them[e] shall fall by the sword.

16 And their babes shall be dashed to pieces before their eyes: spoiled shall be their houses, and their wives ravished.

17 Behold, I will stir up against them the Medes; who will not regard silver, and who will not delight in gold.

18 And their bows will dash young men to pieces; and on the fruit of the womb will they have no mercy; on children their eye will not look with pity.

19 And (thus) shall Babylon, the glory of kingdoms, the proud[f] ornament of the Chaldeans, become like the overthrow through God of Sodom and Gomorrah.

20 It shall not be inhabited for ever, and it shall not be dwelt in from generation to generation; nor shall the Arabian pitch there his tent; and shepherds shall not let their flocks rest there;

21 But there shall rest the wild beasts of the desert; and their houses shall be full of owls; and ostriches shall dwell there, and evil spirits shall dance there.

22 And jackals[g] shall howl in her palaces,[h] and monsters in the temples of pleasure; and near to come is her time, and her days shall not be extended.

CHAPTER XIV.

1 For the LORD will have mercy on Jacob, and will again make choice of Israel, and replace them in their own land: and the strangers shall be joined unto them, and they shall attach themselves to the house of Jacob.

2 And nations shall take them, and bring them to their own place; but the house of Israel shall obtain possession of them in the land of the LORD for men-servants and for maid-servants; and they shall take captive their captors, and they shall rule over their oppressors.[i]

3 ¶ And it shall come to pass on the day when the LORD will give thee rest from thy trouble, and from thy vexation, and from the hard bondage wherein thou wast made to serve,

4 That thou wilt take up this parable against the king of Babylon, and say, How hath ceased the oppressor! ceased the exactress[k] of gold!

5 Broken hath the LORD the staff of the wicked, the sceptre[l] of rulers;

6 He who smote people in wrath, blows without intermission, he that ruled in anger nations, persecuting without restraint.

7 At rest, quiet is all the earth; men break forth into loud song.

8 Also, the fir-trees rejoice at thee, the

[a] Lit. "the faces of flames (are) their faces."

[b] Heb. "cruel," as though the day itself were inexorable. Others render, "earth," "land," i. e. Babylon.

[c] Rashi and Redak refer this to Babylon.

[d] i. e. Scarcer, so many shall die.

[e] So Jonathan and Rashi. Sachs, "who hideth himself." Philippson comments, "who joins the enemy." Heinemann, "who is caught."

[f] Lit. "the ornament of the pride," or "arrogance."

[g] The names of the animals introduced in these verses have been translated according to various authorities; but they are still very uncertain.

[h] Jonathan. Aben Ezra, "her widowed, i. e. deserted houses."

[i] Or "taskmasters."

[k] Redak. Rashi, "the proud imposer of a heavy burden." Philippson, simply "oppressor." Sachs, after Rashi, "tormentress."

[l] Others, "rod."

cedars of Lebanon, "Since thou wast laid low, no feller is come up against us."

9 The nether world from below is in motion concerning thee to meet thee at thy coming: it stirreth up the departed for thee, all the chief ones of the earth; it hath caused to rise up from their thrones all the kings of nations.

10 They all will commence and say unto thee, "Thou—thou also art become weak like us; similar unto us art thou become!"

11 Into the nether world is brought down thy pride, the clatter of thy psalteries: beneath thee is spread the worm, and thy cover is the moth.

12 How art thou fallen from heaven, O morning-star, son of the dawn! how art thou hewn down to the ground, crusher[a] of nations!

13 And thou—thou hadst said in thy heart, "Into heaven will I ascend, above the stars of God will I exalt my throne; and I will sit also upon the mount of the assembly, in the farthest[b] end of the north;

14 I will ascend above the heights of the clouds; I will be equal to the Most High."

15 But into the nether world shalt thou be brought down, into the lowest depth.

16 They that see thee will gaze at thee, will regard thee well, (saying,) "Is this the man that caused the earth to tremble, that made kingdoms quake?

17 That rendered the world as a wilderness, and pulled down its cities: never opened[c] the prison-house of his prisoners?"

18 All the kings of nations, all of them, lie in glory, every one in his own (eternal) house.[d]

19 But thou—thou art cast out of thy grave like a discarded offshoot, as a garment of those that are slain, pierced by the sword, that go down to the stones[e] of the pit, as a carcass trodden under foot.

20 Thou shalt not be united with them in burial; because thy land hast thou destroyed, thy people hast thou slain: to eternity shall not be called the seed of evil-doers.

21 Prepare for his children the slaughter, for the iniquity of their fathers: that they may not rise, and possess the land, and fill the face of the world with enemies (of mankind).

22 And I will rise up against them, saith the LORD of hosts; and I will cut off from Babylon name, and remnant, and son, and grandson, saith the LORD.

23 I will also make it a possession for the hedgehog,[f] and pools of water: and I will sweep it with the besom of destruction, saith the LORD of hosts.

24 ¶ Sworn hath the LORD of hosts, saying, Surely as I have purposed, so doth it come to pass; and as I have resolved, so shall it occur:

25 To break Asshur in my own land, and upon my mountains will I tread him under foot; then shall his yoke be removed from off them, and his burden shall be removed from off their shoulders.

26 This is the resolve that is resolved over all the earth: and this is the hand that is stretched out over all the nations.

27 For the LORD of hosts hath resolved, and who shall frustrate it? and it is his hand which is stretched out, and who shall turn it back?

28 ¶ In the year that king Achaz died was this prophecy (given).

29 Rejoice not, thou entire Palestine, because the rod of him that smote thee is broken; for out of the serpent's root shall come forth an adder, and its fruit shall be a flying dragon.

30 And the first-born of the poor shall feed, and the needy shall rest in safety: and I will kill with famine thy root, and men shall slay thy remnant.

31 Wail, O gate; cry out, O city; thou art dissolved, O thou entire Palestine; for from the north a smoke is coming, and there is no one solitary among those of his that are bidden to come.

[a] Lit. "weakener of the nations. Jonathan, "who didst slay among nations."

[b] יַרְכְתֵי means the farthest point of a thing; for instance, the back wall of a house. Probably here is meant a mountain in the far north, which the Babylonians fancied to be the seat or assembling place of their gods. The Greeks had Olympus; the Indians, Meru; the Persians, Alhordj. Rashi and others refer it to Mount Zion.

[c] Or, "did not let his prisoners loose homeward."

[d] Jonathan, i. e. the grave.

[e] i. e. The bottom. Philippson, "who are sunk under the stones," &c. The legend is, that Nebuchadnezzer was dragged out of his grave; but it may be metaphorical to express the utter desolation of Babylon, as its royal sepulchre even was not spared.

[f] Rashi. Others, "the bittern," a bird.

32 And what will each one of the messengers of the nation answer? That the LORD hath founded Zion, and that therein shall find protection the poor of his people.

CHAPTER XV.

1 ¶ The doom of Moäb. Truly in a night is 'Ar of Moäb plundered, it is laid waste; truly in a night is Kir of Moäb plundered, it is laid waste.

2 It goeth up to the (idol-)house, and Dibon (goeth) up to the high-places to weep, on[a] Nebo and on Medeba shall Moäb wail: on all its heads there is baldness, and every beard is hewn off.

3 In its streets they are girded with sackcloth, on its roofs, and in its public places every one shall wail, groan[b] with weeping.

4 And loud crieth Cheshbon with El'aleh; as far as Yahaz is heard their voice: therefore the armed men of Moäb shall howl; its soul is grieved for itself.[c]

5 My heart will cry for Moäb, whose fugitives are as far as Zo'ar, (and) the third[d] 'Eglarth; for the ascent of Luchith—with weeping is it ascended; for on the way to Choronayim they let resound the cry of defeat (in battle).

6 For the waters of Nimrim shall be desolate; for dry is the grass, gone are the herbs, and green things are no more.

7 Therefore the rest of their acquisitions[e] and what they possess shall they carry away over the brook of the willows.

8 For the cry hath encompassed the boundary of Moäb; up to Eglayim (is heard) its wail, and at Beër-elim (is heard) its wail.

9 For the waters of Dimon are filled with blood; for I will bring over Dimon armed bands;[f] over the escaped of Moäb (cometh) a lion, and over the remnant of the land.

CHAPTER XVI.

1 Send ye the lambs of the ruler[g] of the land from Sela', through the wilderness, unto the mount of the daughter of Zion.

2 For it shall be, that, as a fugitive bird, as a chased[h] nest, so shall be the daughters of Moäb at the fords of Arnon.

3 Bring counsel, execute justice; render like the night thy shadow in the midst of the noonday; conceal the outcasts; betray not the fugitive.

4 Let my outcasts sojourn with thee, Moäb;[i] be thou a covert to them from the face of the waster: till[k] ceaseth the extortion, past be the wasting, and vanished be the oppressor out of the land.

5 ¶ And there shall be founded through kindness a throne; and there shall sit upon it in truthfulness in the tent of David a judge who seeketh justice, and is quick in righteousness.

6 We have heard of the pride of Moäb; (that) he is very proud: of his haughtiness, and his pride, and his wrath, his groundless lies.

7 Therefore shall Moäb wail for Moäb, every one shall wail; for the strong walls of Kir-charesseth shall ye lament, deeply stricken.

8 For the fields of Cheshbon are withered, the vine of Sibmah—the lords of nations have beaten down its branches, they did reach as far as Ya'zer, into the wilderness did they wander: its tendrils were stretched forth, they passed over the sea.

9 Therefore will I weep, when weeping for Ya'zer, for the vine of Sibmah: I will moisten thee richly with my tears, O Cheshbon, and El'alch; for over (the gathering of) thy summer fruits and over thy harvest the battle-cry is fallen.

10 And (thus) are taken away joy and gladness out of the fruitful field; and in the vineyards shall be no singing, shall be no joyful shout: in the presses shall the treader not tread out wine; I have stopped the harvest-call.[l]

11 Therefore my bowels shall groan for Moäb like a harp, and my inward parts for Kir-charess.

[a] Sachs, "for."
[b] Rashi. Sachs, "melt in weeping."
[c] Jonathan, "and they cry out for their soul."
[d] i. e. A town so called; others, "like a three years' old heifer."
[e] Jonathan; but Aben Ezra, "the wealth they have acquired."
[f] Jonathan. Others, "additional evils."
[g] i. e. of Moäb. See 2 Kings iii. 4.
[h] i. e. As the young chased out of their nest.
[i] Jonathan, "the outcast of Moäb."
[k] Others, "because."
[l] In verse 9, הידד represents the battle-cry; here, the call of the reapers and vintners at their labour.

12 And it shall come to pass, that it shall be seen that Moäb is weary on the high-places; and he will come to his sanctuary to pray; but he shall not accomplish (aught).

13 This is the word that the LORD hath spoken concerning Moäb in former times.

14 But now hath the LORD spoken, saying, Within three years, as the years of a hired labourer, shall the glory of Moäb be rendered mean with all this (his) great multitude; and the remnant shall be very small and inconsiderable.

CHAPTER XVII.

1 ¶ The doom of Damascus. Behold, Damascus is deprived of being a city, and it shall become decaying ruins.

2 Forsaken are the cities of 'Aro'er: they shall be (given up) to flocks, which shall lie down, and none shall make them afraid.

3 And there shall cease the fortress from Ephraim, and the kingdom from Damascus, and the remnant of Syria: like the glory of the children of Israel shall they be, saith the LORD of hosts.

4 ¶ And it shall come to pass on that day, that the glory of Jacob shall vanish, and the fatness of his flesh shall become lean.

5 And it shall be as when the harvestman gathereth the standing-corn, and reapeth the ears with his arm; and it shall be as when one gleaneth ears in the valley of Rephaim.

6 And there shall be left on it gleaning-fruit, as one shaketh an olive-tree, two or three berries on the top of the uppermost bough, four or five on the outmost branches of a fruitful tree, saith the LORD the God of Israel.

7 On that day shall a man turn his regard up to his Maker, and his eyes shall look toward the Holy One of Israel.

8 And he shall not turn his regard to the altars, the work of his hands; and he shall not look at what his fingers have made, both the groves and the sun-images.

9 ¶ On that day shall his strong cities be as a forsaken ruin in a forest,[a] and on a mountain-peak, which they left because of the children of Israel: and the land shall be desolate.

10 Because thou hast forgotten the God of thy salvation, and the rock of thy strength thou hast not remembered; therefore wouldst thou plant luxuriant plantings, and wouldst set out the shoots of the stranger therein.

11 (Already) on the day that thou plantedst thou causedst to grow, and in the morning thou madest thy seed to blossom; but now fleeth the harvest on the day of disease[b] and of incurable pain.

12 ¶ Wo to the raging of many people, who rage like the raging of the seas; and to the noise of nations, that make a noise like the roar of mighty waters!

13 The nations will make a noise like the roaring of many waters; but He will rebuke it, and it shall flee afar off, and shall be chased as the chaff of the mountains before the wind, and as thistle-down before the tempest.

14 At eveningtide, behold, there is trouble; before yet it is morning it is no more. This is the portion of our spoilers, and the lot of those that plunder us.

CHAPTER XVIII.

1 ¶ Wo to the land with spreading[c] wings, which is beyond the rivers of Cush,

2 That sendeth on the sea ambassadors, and in vessels of bulrushes[d] messengers over the face of the waters. Go, ye swift messengers, to a nation pulled and torn, to a people terrible from their beginning and onward; a nation meted out and trodden down, whose land the rivers have spoiled!

3 All ye inhabitants of the world, and dwellers on the earth, when the ensign is lifted up on the mountains, see ye; and when the cornet is blown, hear ye.

4 ¶ For so hath said the LORD unto me, I will take my rest, and I will look down on my dwelling-place like a clear heat upon herbs, and like a cloud of dew in the heat of harvest.

5 For before the harvest, when the blossom is past, and the flower becometh a ripening grape, will he both cut off the tendrils with

[a] After Rashi, except that we have followed Philippson in giving אמיר (usually rendered, "tree-top,") with mountain-peak," as giving a better sense. Rashi refers "they" to the ancient Canaanites who fled before Israel.

[b] Aben Ezra; but Sachs, literally, "possession."

[c] Jonathan, applying it to the sails of ships, spread out like wings of birds. Others, "buzzing."

[d] See note to Exod. ii. 3.

pruning-knives, and the sprigs will he remove and cut down.

6 They shall be left together unto the birds of prey of the mountains, and to the beasts of the earth: and the birds of prey shall summer upon them, and all the beasts of the earth shall winter upon them.

7 ¶ At that time shall be brought as a present unto the LORD of hosts a people pulled and torn, and[a] a people terrible from their beginning and onward; a nation meted out and trodden under foot, whose land the rivers have spoiled, to the place of the NAME of the LORD of hosts, the mount Zion.

CHAPTER XIX.

1 ¶ The doom of Egypt. Behold, the LORD rideth upon a swift[b] cloud, and is coming to Egypt: and the idols of Egypt shall be moved because of his presence, and the heart of Egypt shall melt in its inward parts.

2 And I will stir up Egyptians against Egyptians: and they shall fight every one against his brother, and every one against his fellow; city against city, kingdom against kingdom.

3 And the spirit of Egypt shall be emptied out[c] in its inward parts, and its counsel will I frustrate; and they will inquire of the idols, and of the charmers,[d] and of those that have familiar spirits, and of the wizards.

4 And I will surrender the Egyptians into the hand of a cruel lord; and a rigorous king shall rule over them, saith the Lord, the Eternal of hosts.

5 And the waters shall fail from the sea, and the river shall be wasted and dried up.

6 And the rivers shall become foul;[e] and shallow and dried up shall become the deep streams:[f] reeds and flags shall wither.

7 The well-rooted plants by the stream, by the mouth of the stream, and every thing sown by the stream, shall dry up, be scattered (by the wind,) and be no more.

8 The fishermen also shall lament, and all they that cast an angle into the stream shall mourn; and they that spread nets upon the face of the waters shall languish.

9 And ashamed shall be they that work in fine flax, and they that weave white cloth.[g]

10 And its foundations shall be beaten down, all that build sluices shall be grieved in soul.

11 Surely fools are the princes of Zo'an, the wise of the counsellors of Pharaoh (impart) silly counsel: how can ye say unto Pharaoh, I am a son of the wise, a son of the ancient kings?

12 Where are they, these, thy wise men? that they may tell thee now, that they know what the LORD of hosts hath resolved on over Egypt.

13 The princes of Zo'an are become fools, deceived are the princes of Noph; and Egypt is led astray by the chiefs of its tribes.

14 The LORD hath poured out in the midst thereof a spirit of perverseness: and they have led Egypt astray in all its work, as a drunkard reeleth astray in his vomit.

15 And there shall not be for Egypt (successful) work, which the head or tail, palm-branch or rush, may do.

16 ¶ On that day shall Egypt be like the women: and it shall tremble and be in dread because of the waving of the hand of the LORD of hosts, which he waveth over it.

17 And the land of Judah shall become unto Egypt a terror, every one that maketh mention thereof shall be in dread, because of the counsel of the LORD of hosts, which he hath resolved against it.

18 ¶ On that day shall be five cities in the land of Egypt speaking the language of Canaan, and swearing by the LORD of hosts; "The city of destruction"[h] shall one be called.

[a] In Hebrew there is a ד "from," which has been left untranslated by Jonathan and others, and we have done so likewise. Perhaps we might render it, "what is left of," meaning thus, "the remnant of Israel." "A nation meted out," over whom many sufferings—measures of punishment—have passed. This verse is rendered by Sachs and others, "In that time will be offered a present to the LORD of hosts (from) the tall-grown and fat-shining people, and from the people terrible from then and onward, the sinewy and treading-down nation, whose land is intersected by streams; to," &c. The same construction is followed in verse 2, and refers to the people of Cush, who are thus tall, fat, &c.; but this sense is not given to it by our ancient commentators, who refer these verses to the persecuted Israelites. (See chap. lxvi. 20.)

[b] Others, literally, "light."

[c] i. e. It shall be deprived of its wisdom.

[d] Sachs and others, "ventriloquists."

[e] Sachs, after Rashi and Aben Ezra, "men shall abandon," &c.

[f] Jonathan. Others, "streams of Mazor, i. e. Egypt."

[g] Aben Ezra. Rashi renders this with "net." Sachs, "coloured, and white linen."

[h] Philippson, "city of light," referring to Menachoth, fol. 110 a. Jonathan, "the city of the sun," (Heliopolis,) which shall be destroyed.

19 ¶ On that day shall there be an altar to the LORD in the midst of the land of Egypt, and a pillar at its border to the LORD.

20 And it shall be for a sign and for a testimony unto the LORD of hosts in the land of Egypt; for they shall cry unto the LORD because of the oppressors, and he will send them a helper, and a chief, and he shall deliver them.

21 And the LORD will be made known to the Egyptians, and the Egyptians shall know the LORD on that day, and will do service (with) sacrifice and oblation; yea, they will make vows unto the LORD and perform (them).

22 And the LORD will thus strike Egypt, striking and healing it: and they will return unto the LORD, and he will be entreated of them, and heal them.

23 ¶ On that day there shall be a highway out of Egypt to Asshur, and Asshur shall come into Egypt, and the Egyptians into Asshur, and the Egyptians shall serve with Asshur (the LORD).[a]

24 ¶ On that day shall Israel be the third with Egypt and with Asshur, a blessing in the midst of the earth,

25 Whom the LORD of hosts will have blessed, saying, Blessed be my people Egypt, and Asshur the work of my hands, and my heritage Israel.

CHAPTER XX.

1 ¶ In the year that Tharthan came unto Ashdod, when Sargon the king of Assyria sent him, and fought against Ashdod, and captured it;

2 At the same time spoke the LORD by means of Isaiah the son of Amoz, saying, Go and loosen the sackcloth from off thy loins, and thy shoe shalt thou pull off from thy foot. And he did so, walking naked and barefoot.

3 ¶ And the LORD said, Just as my servant Isaiah hath walked naked and barefoot three years as a sign and token for Egypt and for Cush:

4 So shall the king of Assyria lead away the prisoners of Egypt, and the exiles of Cush, young and old, naked and barefoot, even with uncovered buttocks, to the disgrace of Egypt.

5 And they[b] shall be terrified, and ashamed of Cush their trust, and of Egypt their vaunt.

6 And the inhabitant of this isle shall say on that day, Behold, such is our trust, whither we fled for help to be delivered from the king of Assyria: and how shall we then escape?

CHAPTER XXI.

1 ¶ The doom of the desert[c] by the sea. As tempests in the south blow with fury: so doth it come from the desert, from a terrible land.

2 A hard vision hath been told unto me; the traitor dealeth treacherously, and the spoiler spoileth. "Go up, O 'Elam; besiege, O Media;" all sighing have I caused to cease.

3 Therefore are my loins filled with pain: pangs have seized me, like the pangs of a woman that travaileth: I am too much cramped to hear; I am too much dismayed to see.

4 My heart wandereth astray, dread affrighteth me: the evening of my pleasure hath he turned unto me into terror.

5 Prepare the table, put on the candlesticks,[d] eat, drink: arise, ye princes, and anoint the shield.

6 ¶ For thus hath said unto me the Lord, Go, set the watchman, what he seeth let him tell.

7 And he will see chariots, horsemen in couples, riders on asses, riders on camels; and he shall listen diligently with much heed:

8 And he calleth (like)[e] a lion, Upon the watchtower, O Lord, do I stand continually in the daytime, and on my ward am I set all the nights.

9 And, behold, here cometh a chariot with men, horsemen in couples, and he commenceth and saith, Fallen, fallen is Babylon; and all the graven images of her gods hath he shivered unto the ground.

10 O my down-trodden[f] (people,) and the son of my threshing-floor: that which I have heard from the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel, have I told unto you.

[a] Redak. Jonathan. "Egypt shall serve Asshur."

[b] The Israelites.—ABEN EZRA.

[c] i. e. Babylon. Redak renders דבר "west."

[d] Rashi. Aben Ezra, "Bring in the music." Jonathan, "Set the watchman." Others, "Lay the covers."

[e] Aben Ezra; i. e. loudly.

[f] Lit. "my threshing." Rashi refers it to Israel, which has been threshed (oppressed) for its improvement, as a man threshes and winnows corn to fit it for use; after which properly follows, "the son of the threshing-floor."

11 ¶ The doom of Dumah. Unto me one calleth out of Se'ir, Watchman, what of the night?[a] Watchman, what of the night?

12 The watchman said, The morning cometh,[b] and also the night: if ye will desire, desire ye; return, come again.

13 ¶ The doom upon Arabia. In the forest in Arabia shall ye lodge, O ye caravans of Dedanim.

14 Toward him that is thirsty they bring water; the inhabitants of the land of Thema meet with suitable[c] bread the fugitive.

15 Because from the swords are they fled, from the drawn sword, and from the bent bow, and from the pressure of war.

16 ¶ For thus hath said the Lord unto me, Within yet one year, like the years of a hired labourer, shall all the glory of Kedar be at an end:

17 And the residue of the number of bows of the mighty men of the children of Kedar shall be small; for the LORD the God of Israel hath spoken it.

CHAPTER XXII.

1 ¶ The doom of the valley of vision.[d] What aileth thee now, that thou art wholly gone up to the roofs?

2 O noiseful, tumultuous city, joyous town! thy slain ones are not slain with the sword, and not those that die in battle.

3 All thy rulers are fled together, they are made prisoners by the bowmen: all that are found in thee are made prisoners together, who have run away from afar.

4 Therefore said I, Look away from me; I will weep bitterly; be not urgent to comfort me, because of the wasting of the daughter of my people.

5 For a day of confusion, and of treading down, and of perplexity hath the Lord Eternal of hosts in the valley of vision; walls are broken, and crying is heard against the mountain.

6 And 'Elam beareth the quiver, (cometh) with men in chariots and horsemen, and Kir uncovereth the shield.

7 And it is so, that thy choicest valleys are full of chariots, and the horsemen set themselves in array against the gate.

8 And he laid open the covering of Judah; and thou didst look on that day toward the armour of the house of the forest.

9 And the breaches of the city of David have ye seen, that they are many: and ye gathered together the waters of the lower pool.

10 And the houses of Jerusalem have ye numbered, and ye have pulled down the houses to fortify the wall.

11 And a tank have ye made between the two walls for the water of the old pool; but ye have not looked toward the Maker thereof, and him that fashioned it in distant times have ye not regarded.

12 And the Lord Eternal of hosts called on that day for weeping, and for mourning, and for baldness, and for girding with sackcloth,

13 And behold (there are) gladness and joy, slaying of oxen, and killing of sheep, eating flesh, and drinking wine: "Let us eat and drink; for to-morrow we must die."

14 And it was revealed in my ears by the LORD of hosts: Surely this iniquity shall not be forgiven unto you until ye die, said the Lord the Eternal of hosts.

15 ¶ Thus hath said the Lord Eternal of hosts, Go, get thee unto this treasurer, even unto Shebna, who is (superintendent) over the house:

16 What hast thou here? and whom hast thou here, that thou hast hewn out for thyself here a sepulchre, (the man) that hath hewn out on high his sepulchre, that holloweth out in the rock a habitation for himself?

17 Behold, the LORD will thrust thee about with a mighty throw, O man! and will lay fast hold of thee;

18 He will roll thee up as a bundle, and (toss thee) like a ball into a country of ample space: there shalt thou die, and there shall (remain) the chariots of thy glory, thou disgrace of the house of thy lord.

19 And I will cast thee out from thy sta-

[b] Rashi, "There is a morning (reward) for the righteous, and a night for the wicked; if you wish your desire of the redemption fulfilled, repent, come back to God." The watchman here is, according to the same authority, typical of God.

[c] Lit. "his bread."

[d] Rashi, Jerusalem, "the valley on which many prophecies have been spoken." Aben Ezra, "the place of prophecy."

tion, and from thy post shall he pull thee down.

20 And it shall come to pass on that day, that I will call my servant, for Elyakim the son of Chilkiyahu.

21 ¶ And I will clothe him with thy robe, and thy girdle will I fasten around him, and thy government will I place into his hand: and he shall be as a father to the inhabitants of Jerusalem, and to the house of Judah.

22 And I will lay the key[a] of the house of David upon his shoulder; so that he shall open, and none shall shut; and he shall shut, and none shall open.

23 And I will fasten him as a tent-nail in a sure place; and he shall be for a chair of honour to his father's house.

24 And they shall hang upon him all the glory of his father's house, the shoots and offshoots, all the small vessels, from the vessels of basins, even to all the vessels of flagons.

25 On that day, saith the LORD of hosts, shall be removed the nail that is fastened in the sure place, and be cut down, and fall; and the burden that is upon it shall be cut off; for the LORD hath spoken it.

CHAPTER XXIII.

1 ¶ The doom of Tyre. Wail, ye ships of Tharshish; for it is laid waste, without house, without entrance: from the land of Kittim hath it been revealed to them.

2 Be silent,[1] ye inhabitants of the coast-land:[b] the merchants of Zidon, that pass over the sea, (formerly) filled thee.

3 And on mighty waters (came) the seed of Shichor,[c] the harvest of the stream, as her revenue; and she became the mart of nations.

4 Be ashamed, O thou Zidon; for spoken hath the sea, the stronghold of the sea, saying, I travailed not, nor brought forth children, neither did I nourish up young men, nor bring up virgins.

5 As at the report concerning Egypt, so shall they tremble at the report of Tyre.[d]

6 Pass ye over to Tharshish; wail, ye inhabitants of the coast-land.

7 Is this your fate,[e] ye of the joyous (city)? she whose antiquity is of ancient days—her own feet shall carry her, afar off to sojourn.

8 Who hath resolved this against Tyre, the crowning city, whose merchants are princes, whose traders are the honourable of the earth?

9 The LORD of hosts hath resolved it, to dishonour the pride of all ornament, to make of light esteem all the honourable of the earth.

10 ¶ Pass through thy land as a stream, O daughter of Tharshish: there is no more strength.[f]

11 He hath stretched out his hand over the sea, he hath shaken kingdoms; the LORD hath given a command against Canaan,[g] to subvert its strongholds.

12 And he said, Thou shalt no longer[h] rejoice any more, O thou oppressed virgin, daughter of Zidon: arise, pass over to the Kittim; also there shalt thou have no rest.

13 Behold the land of the Chaldeäns—this people which was not, Asshur founded it for the dwellers in the wilderness—they have set up their watchtowers, have overthrown its palaces, have rendered it a heap of ruins.

14 Wail, ye ships of Tharshish; for your stronghold is laid waste.

15 ¶ And it shall come to pass on that day, that Tyre shall be forgotten seventy years, like the days of one king:[i] at the end of seventy years shall it happen to Tyre as in the song of the harlot.[k]

16 "Take the harp, go round about the city, thou forgotten harlot; make sweet music, sing many songs, in order that thou mayest be remembered."

[a] Jonathan, "the keys of the temple and the rule of the house of David."

[b] i. e. Phœnicia; literally, "island;" but here the whole adjacent coast is evidently included.

[c] i. e. The Nile, the stream of Egypt.

[d] Rashi. Sachs, "When the report (cometh) to Egypt, shall they tremble at," &c.

[e] Heinemann.

[f] Lit. "girdle," metaphoric for "strength," "endurance."

[g] The coasts of Palestine, ancient Canaan, (Num. xiii. 29,) including Phœnicia.

[h] i. e. Not for ever, but a long time.

[i] Redak, "the life of a man, which is seventy years." Aben Ezra, "the duration of one dynasty of kings."

[k] Intercourse with foreigners is a figurative incest in the eye of the prophet, as the Israelites lived secluded in their own land. So also the hire spoken of means the profits of commerce, which therefore can be holy, which the actual wages of sin cannot be. (Deut. xxiii. 18.)

17 And it shall come to pass after the end of seventy years, that the LORD will visit Tyre, and she shall return to her hire, and shall have commerce[a] with all the kingdoms of the world upon the face of the earth.

18 And her gain and her hire shall be holy to the LORD: it shall not be treasured nor laid up; but for those that dwell before the LORD shall her gain be, to eat to fulness, and for magnificent clothing.

CHAPTER XXIV.

1 ¶ Behold, the LORD maketh empty the land, and layeth it waste, and marreth its surface, and scattereth abroad its inhabitants.

2 And it shall be the same with the people as with the priest; with the servant as with his master; with the bondwoman as with her mistress; with the buyer as with the seller; with the lender as with the borrower; with the debtor as with his creditor.

3 Empty, emptied out shall be the land, and spoiled, utterly spoiled; for the LORD hath spoken this word.

4 The land mourneth, withereth away, the world languisheth, withereth away, the high ones of the people of the land do languish.

5 For the land was defiled under its inhabitants; because they had transgressed the laws, neglected the statutes, broken the everlasting covenant.

6 Therefore hath the curse devoured the land, and they that dwell therein suffer for their guilt; therefore are the inhabitants of the land dried up, and but few men are left.

7 The new wine mourneth, the vine languisheth, all the merry-hearted sigh.

8 At rest is the mirth of the tambourines; ceased hath the tumult of the joyful; at rest is the mirth of the harp.

9 Amidst singing shall they no (more) drink wine; bitter shall be the strong drink to those that drink it.

10 Broken down is the city of desolation; shut up is every house that none can enter.

11 A (painful) cry for wine is in the streets; darkened is all joy; banished is the mirth of the land.

12 There is left destruction in the city, and in ruins is beaten the gate.

13 For thus shall it be in the midst of the land among the nations, as (at) the shaking of an olive-tree, as (at) the gleaning of grapes when the vintage is done.

14 These shall lift up their voice, they shall sing; because of the majesty of the LORD, they shout aloud from the sea.

15 Therefore in the valleys[b] honour ye the LORD; in the isles of the sea, the name of the LORD the God of Israel.

16 ¶ From the edge of the earth have we heard songs, "Glory to the righteous." But I said, "Evil[c] is mine, evil is mine, wo is me![d] the treacherous have dealt treacherously; yea, the treacherous have dealt very treacherously."

17 Fear, and the pit, and the snare are upon thee, O inhabitant of the land.

18 And it shall come to pass, that he who fleeth from the call of the fear shall fall into the pit; and he that cometh up out of the midst of the pit shall be caught in the snare; for the windows from on high are opened, and there quaked the foundations of the earth.

19 Crushed entirely is the earth, split in pieces is the earth, shaken to its centre is the earth.

20 The earth reeleth to and fro like a drunkard, and vibrateth like a watch-hut;[e] and heavily lieth upon it its transgression; and it shall fall, and not rise again.

21 And it shall come to pass on that day, that the LORD will visit punishment on the host of heaven[f] in heaven, and on the kings of the earth upon the earth.

[a] In a bad sense.

[b] Philippson, after Gesenius, takes באורים as derived from אור, "light," or "the place where the light comes," i. e. the east, in opposition from מים "the west," given here from the sea.

[c] Lit. "languishment," or "famishing;" hence, Sachs, "I am famishing;"—but it is only an expression of anguish; hence our version. Jonathan derives this word from רז "secret," and paraphrases, "there hath been revealed to me the secret of the reward of the righteous, and the secret of the punishment of the wicked."

[d] In view of the great evil inflicted on Israel, the prophet expresses his grief; because treason on treason has been perpetrated against the helpless. Others render בוגר with "robber," and so the verbs derived from it; but the sense is all the same.

[e] Rashi; i. e. the hut put on the top of a tree to watch the field. Philippson, after Jonathan, "a swinging mat." (See also ch. i. 8.)

[f] מרום "what is high," i. e. the superior world, the heavens; here the sun, moon, and stars, which were the objects of the heathen worship.

22 And they shall be gathered in heaps, as prisoners, in the prison, and shall be shut up in the dungeon, and thus after many days shall they be punished.

23 And the moon shall be put to the blush, and the sun be made ashamed; for the LORD of hosts will reign on mount Zion, and in Jerusalem, and before his ancients in glory.[a]

CHAPTER XXV.

1 ¶ O LORD, my God art thou; I will exalt thee, I will praise thy name; for thou hast done wonderful things, resolves of distant times (are become) faithful confirmation.[b]

2 For thou hast made of a city a stone-heap; of a fortified town a falling ruin; the palace of barbarians ceaseth out of the city, to eternity shall it not be rebuilt.

3 Therefore shall a strong people honour thee; the town of the tyrannical nations shall fear thee.

4 For thou hast become a stronghold to the poor, a stronghold to the needy when he is distressed; a protection from the tempest, a shadow from the heat; for the (wrathful) breath of the tyrants is like the tempest against a wall.

5 Like heat in a dry land, wilt thou subdue the tumult of the barbarians; as the heat (is lessened) by the shadow of the cloud, so will he subdue the song of the tyrants.[c]

6 And the LORD of hosts will make unto all the nations on this mountain a feast of fat things, a feast of wines on the lees, of fat things full of marrow, of wines on the lees well refined.

7 And he will destroy on this mountain the face of the covering which covereth all the people, and the vail that is spread over all the nations.

8 He will destroy death to eternity; and the Lord Eternal will wipe away the tear from off all faces; and the shame of his people will he remove from off all the earth; for the LORD hath spoken it.

9 ¶ And men will say on that day, Lo, this is our God, for whom we have waited that he would help us; this is the LORD for whom we have waited, we will be glad and we will rejoice in his salvation.

10 For the hand of the LORD will rest on this mountain, and Moäb shall be trodden down on his own place, even as straw is trodden down upon the dunghill.

11 And he will spread forth his hands in the midst thereof, as the swimmer spreadeth them forth to swim: and he will bring down his pride together with the joints of his hands.

12 And the fortress of the stronghold of thy[d] walls he bringeth down, layeth low, casteth it to the ground, even to the dust.

CHAPTER XXVI.

1 ¶ On that day shall this song be sung in the land of Judah: A strong city have we; his aid will he grant (us) as walls and defence.[e]

2 Open ye the gates, that there may enter in the righteous nation which guardeth the truth.

3 The confiding mind wilt thou keep in perfect[f] peace; because he trusteth in thee.

4 Trust ye in the LORD unto eternity; for in Yah the Lord is everlasting protection.[g]

5 For he bendeth down the dwellers of the height; the lofty fortress—he layeth it low; he layeth it low, along the ground; he casteth it down to the dust.

6 The foot shall tread it down, the feet of the poor, the steps of the needy.

7 The path of the just is straight: thou, most upright, dost ever level the road of the just.

8 Yea, on the path of thy judgments, O LORD, have we waited for thee; for thy name, and for the remembrance of thee, was the longing of our soul.

9 In my soul have I longed for thee in the night; yea, with my spirit within me will I seek for thee; for when thy judgments are (sent) on the earth, the inhabitants of the world learn righteousness.

10 If favour be shown to the wicked, he

[a] Or, "before his ancients there shall be glory."

[b] Rashi, after Jonathan; i. e. God's ancient decrees are confirmed and made truth by fulfilment.

[c] Rashi makes זמיר as derived from a root signifying to "cut away;" hence, "the fall of the tyrants shall cause (others) to sing."

[d] Moäb.

[e] i. e. The outer wall, between which and the larger one a ditch was made.—After REDAK. Sachs, "He (God) granteth victory, walls, and defence."

[f] Heb. "peace, peace."

[g] Heb. "rock."

will not learn righteousness; in the land of uprightness will he deal unjustly, and will not regard the majesty of the LORD.

11 ¶ LORD, thy hand was raised high, but they would not see: oh that they might see, and be ashamed, (thy) zeal for the people; yea, the fire which shall devour them—thy enemies.

12 ¶ LORD, thou wilt ordain peace for us; for also all our works hast thou accomplished for us.

13 ¶ O LORD our God, lords have had dominion over us beside thee; (but) of thee[a] only would we make mention,—of thy name.

14 (They are) dead, they will not live (again); (they are) departed, they will not rise (again); therefore hast thou visited and destroyed them, and made to perish every memorial of them.

15 Thou hast done more for the nation, O LORD, thou hast done more for the nation; thou hast glorified thyself: thou hast enlarged all the ends of the earth.[b]

16 ¶ LORD, in trouble have they sought thee, they poured out earnest prayers when thy chastening was upon them.

17 Like as a pregnant woman, that is near giving birth, is in pain, (and) crieth out in her pangs: so have we been in thy presence, O LORD.

18 We have been pregnant, we have been in pain, (but it was) as though we brought forth wind; we have not wrought any deliverance in the land; and the inhabitants of the world have not fallen.

19 Thy dead shall live, my dead bodies[c] shall arise. Awake and sing ye, that dwell in the dust; for a dew on herbs[d] is thy dew, and the earth shall cast out the departed.[e]

20 ¶ Go, my people, enter thou into thy chambers, and shut thy door behind thee: hide thyself but for a little moment, until the indignation be passed away.

21 For, behold, the LORD cometh out of his place to visit the iniquity of the inhabitants of the earth on them: and the earth shall disclose her blood, and shall no more be a cover over her slain.

CHAPTER XXVII.

1 ¶ On that day will the LORD punish with his heavy and great and strong sword leviathan the flying[f] serpent, and leviathan the crooked servant; and he will slay the crocodile that is in the sea.

2 ¶ On that day sing ye a song of the vineyard of excellent wine.

3 "I the LORD do keep it; every moment will I water it: that no one shall hurt it, night and day will I keep it.

4 Wrath have I not: who would set the briers and thorns against me in battle? I would pass[g] through them, and I would burn them altogether.

5 If he[h] but take hold of my strength, make peace with me; make peace with me."

6 In the future shall Jacob yet take root; Israel shall bud and blossom, and shall fill the face of the world with fruit.

7 ¶ Hath he smitten him, as he smote the one that smote him? or was he slain with the same slaughter as those of him that were slain?[i]

8 In measure,[k] by driving him forth, thou strivest with him: he removed him with his violent storm on the day of the east wind.

9 Therefore by this (only) shall the iniquity of Jacob be atoned; and this shall be

[a] בך is translated by Rashi simply as "thee." Jonathan, "on thy word do we trust." Sachs, "by thee only do we swear, (by) the name." Philippson, "thee alone, thy name do we adore."

[b] Heinemann, after Rashi. It means that God has done great things for Israel, more than any other people, through which he is glorified; and removed away the oppressors from their land.

[c] Jonathan. But Redak supplies "with;" thus, "with my own dead body shall they arise."

[d] Rashi, "a dew of light." Heinemann, freely, "a dew of life," i. e. such as revives the dying plants.

[e] Jonathan, "and the wicked thou wilt cast down to the earth."

[f] Others, "extended," "far-stretching." This description is no doubt intended for Egypt and Assyria. Rashi adds "Edom."

[g] Sachs, "Should I meet with them, I would," &c. The meaning is, that the peaceable keeper of the vineyard (God) will destroy all the enemies (the thorns) who might come to injure what he so carefully watches over.

[h] Heinemann; and it then means, "All this shall be if Israel but confides in God, and makes peace with him through righteous deeds." Philippson, "Unless the enemy come to the vineyard, not as enemies, but to seek protection there, making their peace with God the keeper."

[i] Meaning, Israel, though punished, was not treated by God like their oppressors; these were exterminated—look at Egypt, Assyria, Babylon, and others—while they themselves have always remained. "Him" refers back to the enemy, "the smiter," whenever "he" designates "Jacob."

[k] Sachs, "through agitation." The meaning of the verse is, that God punished Israel in moderation, and drove them only out of Palestine and did not consume them.

all the fruit of the taking away of his sin; when he maketh all the stones of the altar as limestones that are beaten in pieces,[a] when there shall not arise again any groves and sun-images.

10 For (by this) the fortified[b] city shall be desolate, the habitation be forsaken, and left like a wilderness; there shall the calf feed, and there shall it lie down, and consume its branches.

11 When its boughs are withered, they shall be broken off; women will come and set them on fire; for it is not a people of understanding; therefore he that made it will not have mercy on it, and he that formed it will show it no favour.

12 ¶ And it shall come to pass on that day, that the LORD will beat off (the fruit) from the channel of the River[c] up to the brook of Egypt; but ye—ye shall be gathered up one by one, O ye children of Israel.

13 ¶ And it shall come to pass on that day, that the great cornet shall be blown, and then shall come those who are lost in the land of Asshur, and those who are outcasts in the land of Egypt, and they shall prostrate themselves before the LORD on the holy mount at Jerusalem.

CHAPTER XXVIII.

1 ¶ Wo to the crown of pride, of the drunkards of Ephraim, and to the fading flower of his glorious ornament, which is on the eminence of the fat valley of those who are struck down by wine!

2 Behold, (it cometh) mighty and strong from the Lord, as a tempest of hail, a storm of destruction; as a tempest of mighty overflowing waters, will he cast it down to the earth with force.

3 Under feet shall be trodden the crown of pride of the drunkards of Ephraim:

4 And the fading flower of his glorious ornament, which is on the eminence[d] of the fat valley, shall be as its early ripe fruit before[e] the summer; which one, when he just seeth it, while it is scarcely in his hand, hastily devoureth.

5 ¶ On that day will the LORD of hosts be for a crown of glory, and for a diadem of beauty, unto the residue of his people,

6 And for a spirit of judgment to him that sitteth in judgment, and for strength to those that drive back the battle to the gate (of the enemy).

7 But these also are now stumbling through wine, and reeling through strong drink: priest and prophet are stumbling through strong drink, they are overpowered with wine, they reel through strong drink; they stumble in (divine) vision, they are unsteady in giving judgment.

8 For all tables are full of vomit of filthiness, there is no place (clean).

9 ¶ Whom shall he teach knowledge? and whom shall he give to understand doctrine?[f] those that are weaned from the milk, those that are taken from the breasts.

10 For precept[g] must be upon precept, precept upon precept; line upon line, line upon line; here a little, and there a little.

11 For (as)[h] with stammering lips and a foreign tongue will he speak to this people;

12 When he said unto them, This is the rest, cause ye the weary to rest; and this is the refreshing; but they would not hear.

13 Therefore shall be unto them the word of the LORD, precept upon precept, precept upon precept; line upon line, line upon line; here a little, and there a little; in order that they may go, and stumble backward, and be broken, and snared, and caught.
